Manson Apple Blossom royalty starts a new tradition

By NORM MANLY COMMUNITY VOLUNTEER

CHELAN - Heidi Griffith, Manson Apple Blossom Chapterone and the 2021 Manson Apple Blossom Royalty, Queen Bryanna Harris, Princess Alisson Adame and Princess Maddison Alejo started a new Manson Apple Blossom tradition on May 14 by delivering this year's Manson Apple Blossom buttons to Ron McGaughey, Lake Chelan Historical Society, Museum Manager.

"We have a special place in the Museum to display Manson Apple Blossom material and this new tradition will ensure we receive a consistent flow. Unfortunately, we are missing several Apple Blossom buttons, especially the ones with the Royalty's photo. There is a good chance that someone in the Chelan Valley has the buttons we are missing and I hope they would consider donating them to the Museum," Ron said.

Also taking part in the event were Jane Lloyd, Museum Board member and volunteer, Carla Everett, Museum volunteer and Mona Ferguson, 1982 Apple Blossom Queen and Crown Maker. Ron took us to the lower level of the

Chelan County schools face shortage of sports referees

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

CHELAN COUNTY – The COVID pandemic has disrupted daily life in countless areas including school sports programs and the ranks of high school sports referees have not been immune to the changes. Due to COVID-19 adjustments this year's traditional WIAA winter sports are being played in Season 3 that started around mid-May. Chelan High School, for example shows May 17 as the starting date for basketball season. Cashmere plays its first basketball game on May 22.

Winthrop resident Rick Lewis of the Okanogan County Basketball Officials Association (OCBOA) has officiated county high school basketball games for 30 years and is sounding the alarm that Okanogan and Chelan counties are facing a critical shortage of referees going into this revised winter season. Lewis submitted the following assessment based upon his experience and reports from others in his field.

By Rick Lewis, Okanogan County Basketball Officials Association
As the 2021 Washington state high school sports season moves from Covid-19 Season 2 (traditional Spring sports) into Season 3 (traditional Winter sports), the out-of-the-normal season of May 12-June 19 has found North Central Washington's basketball officials associations in Okanogan and Chelan Counties significantly short of game officials. Early estimates show rosters of game referees are down by as much as 50 percent, with several differing factors playing a role in the loss of game refs.

In Chelan County, long time referee and member of the Washington Officials Association (WOA) Board of Directors Steve Simonson reports numbers are down about 33 percent in that association.

Numbers might be below 50 percent in the Columbia Basin Association, centered in Grant County and serving most of the area inside the Big Bend of the Columbia outside the eastern tier of counties.

"It would be a great time for those thinking about officiating," said Simonson. "With the shortage there will be lots of games to ref and with no playoffs or tournaments, a great time to learn about officiating."

As of April 30, Okanogan County Basketball Officials Association (OCBOA) Assessor Mike Thornton was reporting only 15 of the normal 25 varsity certified officials have indicated they are returning for the upcoming season to cover varsity, junior varsity, and junior high levels.

The Okanogan County Association needs additional members from local communities to help cover the local middle school and JV levels, especially. Game fees vary from about $25 per game for Middle School to $40 for High School JV and $50 for

High School Varsity. There is some adjustment at the Middle School and JV levels for the difference between two- and three-person crews. There is an annual assessment of $65 that covers both the WOA and local Association dues, complete set of books covering rules and the mechanics of officiating, and provides a year subscription to Referee Magazine, a WOA State Pass for all state tournaments and events and insurance coverage through the National Association of Sports Officials. Contact Mike Thornton in Omak at (509) 826-1965 for more information.

WOA Executive Director Todd Stordahl reported that through Seasons 1 and 2 the figures are consistent across all the sports that require game officials. It is still early for firm numbers on Season 3. Stordahl says, though, the WOA is "not sure about basketball officials (yet), but other sports are down about 33-37 percent."

The total number of games is down as some schools are not offering junior high or junior varsity programs this year.

"So that helps," said Stordahl. "It seems like the officials that have opted to officiate have also made themselves available to cover as many games as possible. It still isn't enough, but the effort is definitely there."

Of the drop in numbers, the shifting of the season from late November through February to late May and early June seems to be a key factor everywhere. Officiating high schools in Washington is not usually a primary income source, so work responsibilities and the demands of "day jobs" take precedence with individual scheduling and taking time away to travel and call games is more difficult. Covid precautions and a resistance to wearing the state-mandated facial protections are also key in the decision to avoid officiating this year, and the normal general turnover in game officiating is also present.

Liberty Bell and WSU graduate and current Pullman resident Tim Lewis is a Board member and trainer for the Southeast Washington Basketball Officials Association (SEWBOA). An additional factor in that area is the loss of college student officials as key to that association. With both Washington State and the University of Idaho out for the summer in early May, they will lose significant numbers (about 25 percent) leaving that area to go for summer jobs and graduating seniors leaving the area for good. SEWBOA also depends largely on school-teachers and staff.

"It's a lot tougher to ask our schoolteachers to get that sub for their last period so they can drive to Pomeroy or Rosalia now in the heat of finishing the school year, than it is the week of Christmas break," said Lewis. "At some point, as selfless as our people are, we have to keep their mental and physical health in mind and working games six nights a week isn't going to be healthy mentally or physically for 90% of our officials. As much as we try to preach the fun aspect of what we do, there's still a lot of brain work that goes into refereeing basketball and it can wear on people."

Most associations while gearing up for the impending season are still ready to accept new members, train them up and set them out with veterans to learn the craft this year. Simonson agrees with the sentiment in this year of no District, Regional or State tournaments, "it's a good year to jump in and learn." There are plenty of games and fewer officials which equals big opportunity to learn, gain experience and discover how rewarding officiating can be.

Shopping at local grocery stores helps our Habitat for Humanity

Lake Chelan Valley Habitat for Humanity is extremely pleased to report recent receipt amounts as of April 21, from Manson's Red Apple and Chelan's IGA stores 1% Donation Program. Manson's grocery store receipts totaled $9,634; Chelan's were $16,705. One percent of those totals go to Habitat to build homes with partner families.

Chelan's IGA owners Tony and Trish Race of Chelan, and Manson's Red Apple Market owners Eric and Marietta "Pete" Jacobsen of Manson's store donate 1% or more of each receipt to Lake Chelan Valley Habitat for Humanity.

Karen Feek, a Habitat volunteer of many years, collects receipts from the store or receipt box located outside Habitat's Thrift Store located at 518 E. Woodin Ave. in uptown Chelan. It takes many hours for her to total donated receipts in increments of $1,000. She then turns them back into each store. The store owners then send our local Habitat a check for 1% (or more) of the total receipts.

Since March of 2007, Habitat has been the recipient of the 1% program from these generous store owners. They have donated $8,165 from your grocery store receipts. Thank you! Now, all you have to do is donate your receipts to help working families buy a home.

Habitat and its Partner Families have built 19 homes so far. Thank you for helping Habitat through such a simple act of thoughtfulness.

Restoration of historic St. Andrew's 110-year-old log church begins

Sympathetic renovation is necessary after sustaining the ravages of time

By TERRY LABRUE, APR, LABRUE COMMUNICATIONS

CHELAN - In the first major repairs of the structural logs since the bell tower upgrade and removal of the 1902-era false-front annex in 2008, the landmark church on Woodin Avenue is getting a careful inspection.

"We have discovered several logs that need replacement," Bob Beeson, St. Andrew's People's Warden said. "That's not surprising considering they've serviced our congregations for more than a century."

The last rehab 13 years ago replaced rotting logs, a leaking bell tower roof and brought St. Andrew's interior into the 21st century. The project was then overseen by Larry Hibbard of Manson and the contractor was Rimmer & Roeter Construction of Cashmere.

This time, the church will be painted with some logs sealed and replaced as needed.

A general cleanup and re-evaluation of items in the church basement also uncovered a host of curious items from decades past. For instance, Easter crosses made to hold fresh flowers have been considered for future use.

Two cats, a mother and her offspring, who homesteaded the space between the church and the Parish Hall have also found new, adoptive homes. "You really couldn't call them strays," The Rev. Linda Mayer remarked. "They have been here for some time. And, they enjoyed the run of the courtyard as well as kibble and water provided by the volunteer staff."

Beeson, estimates the restoration will take four weeks and will cost in excess of $40,000 which will be financed by the church members. Rimmer & Roeter Construction is again under contract to perform the repairs.

"We are graced to have such a wonderful parish church that truly is a one-of-a-kind structure. It suits our needs so well," Rev. Mayer said. "Many people over the years have done their best to maintain its integrity so that we can worship here every week. That is a blessing of the years and a testament to the longevity of the spirit."

St. Andrew's Church, is the oldest permanent structure in Chelan. The church became the centerpiece around which the community grew to eventually become a city. Now on the National Register of Historic Places, the authentic log church attracts many

Obituary & Memorial Policies

NCW Media, Inc.: Leavenworth Echo, Cashmere Valley Record, Lake Chelan Mirror, Quad City Herald

An Obituary is a way for family member(s) to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the community of the passing of the loved one. Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data.

Memorials are another way to let the community know about the life and memories of the person who has passed. A Memorial is different from an Obituary. An Obituary is usually current, while a Memorial can be written later.

Obituaries and Memorials need to be typed and emailed as a Word Document. They can be placed in one or more papers - all publish weekly on Wednesday.

Obituaries are priced by the number of words and include one color photo and go online at no extra charge. Memorials are priced per column inch. Please call for cost. *Payment is due at the time of placement. *Exception: Chapels, funeral homes who have an account, can be billed. There is no charge for a Death Notice - information is limited.

Deadline is 4 p.m. on Friday - some exceptions may apply.

CHELAN HIGH SCHOOL TENNIS

By MARTY ROTHLSBERGER,
CHELAN VARSITY
TENNIS COACH

The Chelan High School tennis team finished off their 2021 "regular" season with the 1st ever North Central Region 1A Tournament. Since the WIAA did not allow a state tournament, this was our state tournament.

The tournament took place in Cashmere on Thursday, May 13 and finished with the championships in Quincy on Saturday, May 15. The general format was a 16 entry bracket in girls singles, girls doubles, boys singles and boys doubles. The first round was single elimination, so half of the tourney entrants were eliminated in their opening match (no pressure there!). Fortunately, 7 out of the 10 Chelan entrants survived that opening round gauntlet to compete in the double-elimination round of 8. Here is their story-

Ladies first:

In girls singles, sophomore Olivia Strandberg fell to #2 seed Faith Kert in the quarterfinals, but definitely played the best singles of her season in that match. In a loser out match on Saturday, Liv lost a true "nailbiter" to Ellie Martin of Cashmere 7-6 (7), 6-4. Olivia made huge gains in the past two weeks, and looks to have a great junior season.

In girls doubles, seniors and #1 seeds Bella Gatzemeier/Elle Rothlisberger coasted in their quarterfinal 6-0, 6-1 over Quincy. They had a little harder time beating Sites and Graybill of Cashmere in the semifinal, but prevailed 6-2, 6-4. In the championship match, Bella and Elle fell to Molly Wisner and Stella Johnson of Cascade 6-4, 6-3 to finish 2nd overall. Seniors Elle and Bella are 4 year letter winners who broke through right away in their freshman year as a doubles team when they upset multiple high seeds in the post-season, finished 2nd in the district tournament, and qualified for state. Bella finished 5th in state her sophomore season with teammate Abby Martin. These two will be greatly missed, but they leave behind an impressive legacy, totaling over 70 career match wins between them.

Also in girls doubles, senior Ruby Wier and junior Ally Williams lost their quarterfinal to #3 seed Cascade, but easily won their follow-up consolation bracket match over Sheffield/Jenkins of Cascade 6-1, 6-1. In a loser out match vs Sites and Graybill of Cashmere, Ruby and Ally fell short, but finished 5th overall. Since Ruby is graduating in only 3 years, she unfortunately only had one "normal" non-pandemic season as a freshman. As the #3 player on our challenge ladder, Ruby leaves big shoes to fill. However, Ally will be back in 2022 to help anchor a strong returning crew.

Chelan gentlemen:

In boys doubles, juniors and #2 seeds Charlie Bordner and Teagen Moody lost their quarterfinal in a tough three-setter to Cascade's Peterson and Bard, but struck back on Saturday to defeat a Royal High School squad 6-3, 6-3. In their loser out consolation match, they fell to Cascade's Priebe and Runions. Both Charlie and Teagen will return in 2022 to help lead a boys squad that does not lose a single member to graduation here in 2021, and has the potential to compete for a league title.

Also, in boys doubles, Freshmen Cade Christopherson and Sam Bordner lost their quarterfinal match and subsequent loser out match, but competed well against their upperclassmen competitors. Our three freshman letter winners in 2021 (Cade, Sam and Rylen Moody) have the future looking bright.

In boys singles, junior #2 seed Nate Harding defeated Zac Holton of Cascade 7-5, 6-1, and won his semifinal over Adam Hendrick of Omak in a roller-coaster three setter 6-4, 2-6, 6-1. The bad news: Nate lost the championship match to a talented Kane Andruss of Cashmere. The good news: Kane is a senior, but Nate is a junior. So, Nate returns in 2022 as one of the "players to beat" in the CTL.

Also in boys singles, junior Cody Sanderson fell to Dayne Ziegler of Royal in his quarterfinal, and also to Jonathon Kirk of Omak in his loser-out consolation match. However, Cody definitely found his niche in singles during the 2nd half of this season, and is displaying greater consistency. He will be a force to be reckoned with next year as a senior.

Chelan JV squad

The Chelan JV squad also had an impressive Saturday May 15 for their culminating tournament in Ephrata.

The boys doubles team of junior Aiden Avery and senior Einn McVay-Dunckel took 2nd place in their bracket. Thank you Einn for a great high school tennis career! Aiden will compete fiercely for a varsity spot in 2022, keeping pressure on the teammates narrowly ahead of him on the ladder and forcing everyone to improve!

The mixed doubles team of frosh Sawyer Jeffries and junior Marissa Manda took 5th in their bracket. As returning players, they look forward to another victory filled season in 2022! Sawyer and Marissa - keep playing tennis.

The girls doubles team of frosh Maya Cowan and senior Molly Stepanov took 1st place in clutch fashion, winning both the semifinal match and final match in tiebreakers! First year senior Molly excelled in her short time on the court, and we wish we'd had her for more than just one season! Maya has three more years to shine, and is making huge strides in her game in a short amount of time (winning a championship...obviously!)

Go Goats.

By KIRK EINSPAHR,
CHELAN GOLF COACH

SOAP LAKE - The Chelan girls traveled to the Lakeview Golf & Country Club Tuesday, May 11 for their season culminating event with all the North Central Region teams (B schools through 4A). Of the 7 teams represented by enough girls (4) for a team score, the Chelan girls came in at a respectable 4th place behind Wenatchee, Eastmont, and Quincy. Playing with only 4 girls and without one of our top two girls, the girls turned in a decent score (508) and with 2 freshmen and a sophomore returning, we look forward to lots of progress and better team scores next season!

On a new course for our girls, and extra challenging due to the extensive out-of-bounds markers on nearly every hole, our best scorer for the day was sophomore Malie Benson who came in tied for 18th (?) with a 122, a season best for her, followed by freshman Arabelle Finch (124), senior and first year player Lana Fielding (128) and freshman Cassidy Wilfong (134).

The boys will finish their season up tomorrow (Thursday, May 13) with their own Regional Championships also to be held at Lakeview Golf & Country Club.

On a beautiful day for golf (or anything else), the Chelan Boys Golf Team participated in the first-ever (?) Regional Championships at Lakeview Golf & Country Club with all local North Central Region golf teams participating (B schools through 4A). Of the 8 teams that had enough for a team score, Chelan came in 4th, following 2A Ephrata (321), 4A Wenatchee (355), and 4A Eastmont (371) with a team of players that had never seen this challenging course before.

Individually, Ephrata senior Jacob Rawley took medalist honors with an even-par 72, followed by Chelan senior Miles Grossberg with a 4-over 76. Miles had one bad hole that made the difference in the scores between these two, who battled the whole way. After Miles' early mishap, he settled down, shot a 3-under par on the back 9, but was unable to overcome the early deficit. As a whole, the team did quite well for being on a new course, and I'm very proud of the results they posted. I'm especially proud of the "bonus" we got from having senior JD Gonzalez able to participate and contribute after what could have been (should have been?) a non-season for him.

This ends our golf season, and I thank you for reading these reports and giving all of our players your support.

Border Patrol Union: Impossible to Protect American Public With Open Border

CHARLOTTE CUTHBERTSON

McALLEN, Texas—The most concerning aspect of the border crisis is the increasing number of illegal aliens who are getting away, says National Border Patrol Council President Brandon Judd.

“We don’t know who they are, where they’re from, or what their intentions are,” Judd told The Epoch Times. “When you look at border security, when you look at the border, we have to be able to identify who’s coming into the United States. And if we can’t do that, it’s impossible to protect the American public.”

In February, Border Patrol estimated that around 30,000 illegal aliens crossed the U.S.-Mexico border and evaded capture; in March, it was around 37,000; and the preliminary numbers for April show around 42,600 escaped. That’s about 1,400 per day.

On May 5, the Webb County Sheriff’s Office discovered 76 illegal immigrants locked inside a residence in Laredo, Texas.

On top of that, Judd said, “it’s very fair to say that there’s a large number of people that are able to get away that we don’t even detect.”

Some of those illegal aliens who manage to bypass Border Patrol then end up getting picked up during a high-speed vehicle chase, or locked in a tractor-trailer unit, or packed by the dozens in a stash house. Others die on ranchland trying to get around a Border Patrol checkpoint, or they’re abandoned by a smuggler because they get sick.

“As long as we continue to, in essence, encourage people to cross our borders illegally, we’re going to continue to see the stash houses, we’re going to continue to see the boats, we’re going to continue to see the semis filled with people,” Judd said.

Border Patrol agents in the Laredo sector have been involved in dismantling about 140 stash houses since Oct. 1, 2020—a 230 percent increase over the total found during the entire previous fiscal year.

Uvalde Mayor Don McLaughlin told The Epoch Times that on May 6, a vehicle traveling through town at 140 miles per hour crashed through two buildings while trying to evade law enforcement.

Sheriff Pinky Gonzales of Refugio County, Texas, said he’s calculated more than 3,000 deputy man-hours since January to deal with cross-border crime.

“We have just been overwhelmed, overwhelmed with these cases. I have 13 deputies working around the clock, and sometimes I have to call those that are off to come help us,” Gonzales said.

Further north, in Lavaca County, Sheriff Micah Harmon said his deputies have dealt with numerous vehicle pursuits and bailouts.

On the state level, Gov. Greg Abbott launched Operation Lone Star on March 6 in response to the burgeoning number of illegal border crossings, as well as human and drug smuggling throughout the state.

During the first four weeks of the operation, Texas Department of Public Safety officers referred more than 16,000 illegal immigrants to Customs and Border Protection and arrested 598 criminals, Abbott said on April 1. In addition, state troopers seized 14 pounds of cocaine, 23 firearms, and almost $1 million in currency and arrested nine gang members involved in smuggling contraband, he said.

Judd said he doesn’t see anything on the horizon from the Biden administration that will reduce the trajectory of illegal activity at the border.

“When we do not remove people who crossed the border illegally, that is, in fact, an open border,” he said. “And I think that as the American public starts to recognize and realize this, I think that there’s going to be a huge outcry. I think there’s going to be a huge pushback. Unfortunately, the damage has already been done.”

Americans Poorly Informed on Deficit, Police Shootings, Health Insurance Coverage, Poll Shows

PETR SVAB

Americans had trouble picking the right answer on several politically salient topics, a poll of likely voters shows. Supporters of President Joe Biden were wrong more often than those who disapprove of the president, although on no question did a majority of respondents answer correctly.

Fewer than one in five of those approving of Biden correctly approximated the current national debt by picking the right $10 trillion range. About two in five of those who disapprove of the president picked the closest answer ($20 trillion to $30 trillion), according to forthcoming results of the Rasmussen/Heartland Institute poll obtained by The Epoch Times.

The national debt was about $28 trillion as of mid-April.

When asked about the extent of health insurance coverage, only about 5 percent of Biden supporters picked the right answer—that less than 10 percent of Americans were uninsured in 2019 before the COVID-19 pandemic. About 20 percent of Biden opponents chose correctly.

As of 2019, about 29 million Americans lacked health coverage, which was less than 9 percent of the population. The number rose to about 31 million in 2020, according to estimates by the Congressional Budget Office (CBO).

When asked about fatal police shootings of unarmed black men, fewer than one in four Biden supporters correctly answered that less than 50 cases occurred last year. The exact number was 26, according to a tally kept by The Washington Post. About two-thirds of those who disapprove of Biden picked the right answer.

Supporters of President Joe Biden were wrong more often than those who disapprove of the president.

A majority of Biden opponents, however, overestimated how many white Americans were shot dead by police. Less than a third said it was fewer than 50, which is correct as the actual number was 37. Biden supporters fared better on the question, but still only about two in five answered correctly.

Most Biden opponents also underestimated how many rifle homicides occur each year in America. Only about 14 percent picked the right option of 100–500. While a majority of Biden supporters also got it wrong, fewer did, with about 30 percent giving the right answer.

When it came to what the top marginal income tax is, about one in four Biden supporters picked the right answer. Among those opposing Biden, close to 40 percent chose correctly.

The top tax bracket is currently 37 percent, down from more than 39 percent before President Donald Trump’s 2017 tax reform.

People who picked CNN, MSNBC, NBC, ABC, or CBS as their favorite cable or broadcast news source were less likely to choose the right answers than those picking Fox News or “another” network. People who said they were getting their news primarily from talk radio tended to be the most accurate, compared to people who identified cable news, network news, online and social media, or streaming services as their primary source.

Those who said they use “a mix of services” as their primary source also fared comparatively well.

The poll was conducted between April 29 and May 3 among 2,000 likely voters by Rasmussen for The Heartland Institute, a conservative-leaning think tank. The pollster also asked about climate change, where the results showed Biden supporters being more pessimistic than establishment experts about the consequences of global warming.

DHS Cybersecurity Chief Warns That More Ransomware Attacks on Infrastructure Are Likely Following Colonial Attack

JACK PHILLIPS

The head of the Department of Homeland Security’s (DHS) cybersecurity agency warned that following the ransomware attack that shut down the Colonial Pipeline, more and more attacks may hit American infrastructure and businesses in the near future.

Acting Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security

Agency (CISA) Director Brandon Wales made that assertion before the Senate Homeland Security Committee on May 13.

Wales was asked by a senator about whether more ransomware attacks would occur following the success of the Colonial Pipeline hack last week. “That is true,” Wales responded.

Some lawmakers during the hearing suggested that there need to be more cybersecurity safeguards regarding critical infrastructure controlled by private entities.

“These VADR assessments have proven effective at identifying a wide range of potential vulnerabilities within pipeline systems—some of which have been publicly distilled,” wrote Rep. John Katko (R-N.Y.) in a letter to Wales.

“Better understanding common security flaws and common misconfiguration issues is in everyone’s best interests, and these aggregated insights will help enhance national resilience. For this reason, my CISA appropriations request sent last week proposed an increase of 50 percent for the infrastructure analysis mission in the NRMCC’s budget.”

Wales meanwhile said that, no, he didn’t believe Colonial would have contacted CISA if the FBI hadn’t acted.

“I think that there is benefit when CISA is brought in quickly,” Wales said.

The FBI earlier this week confirmed that a hacking group known as Darkside, which produces ransomware, was behind the Colonial breach. White House officials later said that Darkside is believed to operate inside Russia, although they stressed that the Russian government wasn’t behind the attack.

The shutdown of the pipeline, a 5,500-mile-long network that spans from the Gulf Coast to New York, triggered significant fuel shortages at many gas stations in North Carolina, Maryland, Tennessee, Georgia, Virginia, Washington, and several other states.

One of the reasons for the shortage, according to GasBuddy’s Patrick De Haan, was panic buying. De Haan, on Twitter and in an interview with The Epoch Times on May 12, said that when motorists see long lines at the pump, they will often join them, exacerbating the shortage.

De Haan early on May 14 said that demand for gasoline fell 7 percent on May 13 from May 6 a week before, suggesting that “many filled their tanks and have enough fuel.”

Pelosi: House Lawmakers Reach Agreement on Jan. 6 Capitol Breach Commission

JACK PHILLIPS

House Representatives on the Homeland Security Committee came to an agreement on a bill to establish a 9/11-style commission on the Jan. 6 Capitol breach—which was pushed by House Speaker Nancy Pelosi (D-Calif.) in recent months.

The bill, according to members of the committee, would include an equal number of Democrats and Republicans.

“It is imperative that we seek the truth of what happened on January 6 with an independent, bipartisan 9/11-type Commission to examine and report upon the facts, causes and security” of the incident, Pelosi said in a statement.

Members of the commission will be law enforcement experts, civil liberties, cybersecurity, and civil rights, the committee said in a news release. It will also have the ability to issue subpoenas for information related to their information, although the subpoenas will require a bipartisan vote.

The 10-person commission will look into the factors that caused the incident and the “influencing factors that may have provoked the attack on our democracy,” said a press release from the committee.

“I am pleased that after many months of intensive discussion, Ranking Member Katko and I were able to reach a bipartisan agreement,” Rep. Bennie Thompson (D-Miss.), the head of the Homeland Security panel, said in a statement. “The creation of this commission is our way of taking responsibility for protecting the US Capitol.” He was referring to Rep. John Katko (R-N.Y.), the ranking member on the committee, who notably was among 10 Republicans to vote to impeach former President Donald Trump over his Jan. 6 speech that House Democrats claimed incited the Jan. 6 breach.

House Minority Leader Kevin McCarthy (R-Calif.) said that the commission needs to examine events outside of the Jan. 6 breach, including deadly riots that erupted across the United States last summer.

“If this commission is going to come forward to tell us how to protect this facility in the future, you want to make sure that the scope, that you can look at all that came up before and what came up after. So that’s very concerning to me,” the California Republican told reporters on Friday. Previously, Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell (R-Ky.) said the commission should expand its investigation into other civil unrest.

Trump, for his part, said that House Democrats—in their impeachment effort—made false accusations against him and accused them of continuing a “witch hunt” during his presidency. In his speech to supporters, the former president told them to “fight like hell” but it appeared to refer to political engagement, not violence. He also said, “I know that everyone here will soon be marching over to the Capitol building to peacefully and patriotically make your voices heard.”

And some have criticized claims made by House impeachment managers regarding the death of Capitol Police officer Brian Sicknick—whose death was later revealed by the D.C. Medical Examiner’s office to have been caused by a stroke and his manner of death was deemed natural—saying they were later proven to be incorrect.

During the impeachment,

House Democrats, citing reports from the New York Times and other media, had claimed that Sicknick was beaten to death by a group of protesters on Jan. 6 before the NY Times updated its report to say there was no evidence to support that claim. For its initial report, the NY Times and other media had cited anonymous sources for the claim that Sicknick was killed by demonstrators.

Julian Elie Khater, 32, of Pennsylvania, and George Pierre Tanios, 39, of Morgantown, West Virginia, were charged with assaulting Sicknick with a chemical spray, officials said in March.

According to court documents, prosecutors said that Khater told Tanios to “give me that bear [expletive],” possibly referring to bear spray, which is a non-lethal deterrent designed to stop aggressive behavior in bears and other wildlife. The documents then stated that Khater is seen in a video spraying a canister into the face of Sicknick and other officers.

DHS Creating New Intelligence Unit to Focus on Domestic Terrorism

KATABELLA ROBERTS

The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) is establishing a new dedicated intelligence team to focus on domestic terrorism, Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas announced on May 11.

The new dedicated domestic terrorism branch within the department’s Office of Intelligence and Analysis (I&A) is designed to “ensure DHS develops the expertise necessary to produce the sound, timely intelligence needed to combat threats posed by domestic terrorism and targeted violence,” the agency said in a statement.

In addition, DHS’s recently initiated Center for Prevention Programs and Partnerships (CP3) to address domestic violent extremism will replace the Office for Targeted Violence and Terrorism Prevention.

Mayorkas said the CP3 will improve the department’s ability to combat terrorism and targeted violence, consistent with privacy protections, civil rights and civil liberties, and other applicable laws.

It will also “help build local prevention frameworks to provide communities with the tools they need to combat terrorism and targeted violence,” Mayorkas said.

Federal law enforcement has been widely criticized for its response to the Jan. 6 breach of the U.S. Capitol building.

Mayorkas’s announcement came one day before he appeared before the U.S. Senate Appropriations Department of Homeland Security Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas testifies before a Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs hearing, on Capitol Hill in Washington on May 13, 2021.

[Office of Intelligence and Analysis is to] ensure DHS develops the expertise necessary to produce the sound, timely intelligence needed to combat threats.

Department of Homeland Security

Committee to testify in a hearing about the current threat posed by domestic extremists, titled “Domestic Violent Extremism in America.”

Mayorkas told lawmakers that the threat to the United States is now “more complex, more dynamic, and more diversified,” and often fueled by “false narratives, conspiracy theories, and extremist rhetoric spread throughout social media and other online platforms.”

“Today, racially or ethnically motivated violent extremists are the most likely to conduct mass-casualty attacks against civilians; and anti-government or anti-authority violent extremists, specifically militia violent extremists, are the most likely to target law enforcement, government personnel, and government facilities,” Mayorkas said.

He said the department is taking a new approach to addressing domestic violent extremism, both internally and externally, and will focus more on how extremists exploit and leverage social media and other online platforms.

In March, a report released by the Office of the Director of National Intelligence warned that racially motivated extremists and militia violent extremists pose the most lethal domestic terrorism threats to the United States.

Facebook Urged by State AGs to Abandon Plan for Children’s Instagram

JANITA KAN

A bipartisan coalition of state attorneys general is urging Facebook to abandon its plans to create a platform for children under the age of 13.

The group sent a letter to Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg arguing that the use of social media can be detrimental to children and that the company had previously failed to protect the welfare of children on its platforms.

“The attorneys general have an interest in protecting our youngest citizens, and Facebook’s plans to create a platform where kids under the age of 13 are encouraged to share content online is contrary to that interest,” they wrote in their letter.

A BuzzFeed report that cited an internal company post revealed the plans. The post stated that executives at Instagram were considering building a version of the photo-sharing app for children under the age of 13. Under the current Instagram policy, users must be 13 or older to use the application.

The top law enforcement officials from 44 states and territories expressed concerns over the plan, citing research that links the use of social media by young people could lead to an “increase in mental distress, self-injurious behavior, and suicidality among youth.” Other research cited in the letter found that selfie viewing has led to “decreased self-esteem” and “decreased life satisfaction.”

The officials also argued that young children also aren’t equipped to handle challenges associated with having an Instagram account including having an understanding of privacy, the appropriateness of what content can be shared, the permanency of the content, and who has access to content shared online. They warned that cyberbullying could be exacerbated by such a platform.

They also cited Facebook’s historical failure to protect children in the past on similar projects such as the Facebook Messenger Kids app. That messenger app, the attorneys general argue, contained a glitch that allowed children to circumvent restrictions and join group chats with strangers that weren’t previously approved by the children’s parents.

They also took issue with a recent “mistake” of Instagram’s algorithm that promoted diet content to users with eating disorders.

“It appears that Facebook is not responding to a need, but instead creating one, as this platform appeals primarily to children who otherwise do not or would not have an Instagram account. In short, an Instagram platform for young children is harmful for myriad reasons,” they wrote.

Facebook, which owns Instagram, didn’t immediately respond to a request by The Epoch Times for comment.

House GOP Votes Stefanik as Replacement for Cheney

ZACHARY STIEBER

House Republicans on May 14 elevated Rep. Elise Stefanik (R-N.Y.) to one of their caucuses’ most powerful positions, two days after they ousted Rep. Liz Cheney (R-Wyo.) from the same post.

The House GOP voted Stefanik, 36, as House Republican Conference chair over challenger Rep. Chip Roy (R-Texas), 48.

The vote, which took place behind closed doors, was 134-46.

“I want to congratulate Elise Stefanik and welcome her to the leadership team,” House Republican Leader Kevin McCarthy (R-Calif.) told a press conference.

Roy, a member of the House Freedom Caucus, launched a last-second bid on May 13, with supporters arguing that he would better represent Republicans. He said after the vote that he would support Stefanik, whom he described as a friend and colleague.

Stefanik said she was focused “on unifying our Conference” after Cheney rankled most members by continuing to attack former President Donald Trump, who garnered a record number of votes for a Republican candidate in 2020.

Trump threw his weight behind Stefanik earlier in the week, calling her a “gifted communicator” who “has experience flipping districts from Blue to Red as we approach the important 2022 midterms.”

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

Riding the Cascades to Palouse Rail Trail!

By JOHN KRUSE, THE WASHINGTON OUTDOOR REPORT

Good news from Washington State Parks. The Cascades to Palouse State Park Trail now offers 100 miles of virtually unimpeded access for bicyclists, horseback riders and hikers between North Bend and the Columbia River near Beverly. This comes about with the recent renovation of the Renslow Trestle, crossing Interstate 90 east of Kittitas, along the old Milwaukee Road rail line that has been converted to a multi-use recreational trail.

Formerly known as the John Wayne Pioneer Trail and Iron Horse State Park, this old rail line was acquired by the state after Milwaukee Railroad went out of business in the 1970's. Over time, trestles, tunnels and other sections have been repaired. This spring, for the first time, the full 100-mile length of the trail to the Columbia is available for use, with the exception of a small stretch of street travel between Water Street and the Kittitas County Fairgrounds in Ellensburg.

The trail begins at Rattlesnake Lake just outside of North Bend and a slow grade, no more than 2.2 percent, goes up towards Snoqualmie Pass where you'll want to have a flashlight or headlamp to navigate the 2.3-mile-long Snoqualmie Tunnel. Emerging from the tunnel at Hyak, you'll continue east past Lake Easton and along the Yakima River to Cle Elum and Thorp. There are a number of campsites along the trail throughout this stretch and according to the Evergreen Mountain Bike Alliance, the path is well compacted and smooth for bike trail to Snoqualmie Pass. After that the trail surface is variable, with some potholes and loose in places becoming more so the closer you get to the Columbia River. That's why fat or wide bike tires could be a good bet for cyclists traveling from Ellensburg to the Columbia River.

A couple of other things about traveling this trail are worth noting. First off, you'll want sunscreen and plenty of water for the trail east of Thorp because the terrain is open with little shade available. The final stretch east, from the Army West trailhead just past the Renslow Trestle to the Army East trailhead near the Columbia River, is land owned by the U.S. Government. It's part of the Yakima Training Center, land primarily used by the U.S. Army. Fortunately, the Army has agreed to allow visitors to use the trail as they traverse the northern end of this military area. However, you have to self-register to do so at the Army West (Renslow) or Army East (Doris) Trailhead. You also have to stay on the trail and no camping is permitted in this section. A Discover Pass is also required to park your vehicle at any of the State Park developed trailheads accessing the Cascades to Palouse State Park.

After the Columbia River there are additional sections of the trail that will take you all the way to the Idaho border but right now some of the rail line (between Royal City and Othello) is still active and other stretches (like the bridge over the Columbia River) require significant detours. Eventually, Washington State Parks plans to have a complete 250-mile multi-use rail trail open to the state line and to link it in with the Great American Rail Trail, an ambitious project that hopes to establish a trans-continental rail trail across the nation. You can find out more about the Palouse to Cascades Trail from Washington State Parks at parks.state.wa.us/521/Palouse-to-Cascades. Information about the Great American Rail Trail can be found at railstotrails.org.
