NCW Libraries open for in-person visits, curbside pickup continues CHELAN/MANSON/ENTIAT - Customers are once again be able to browse the shelves, access computer stations, read the newspaper, or pick out a DVD as NCW Libraries have re-opened as we are now in Phase 2 of the state's re-opening plan. Several safety measures are already in place in the libraries. Customers will be required to wear a mask, practice social distancing, and limit their visit to around 30 minutes. In accordance with state mandated guidelines, all of the library buildings will have a 25 percent occupancy limit. For library patrons who prefer minimal contact service, curbside pickup will continue to be offered at all branches. The library is also working to expand service hours and availability, which it plans to launch in March. NCW Libraries will continue to offer a wide variety of resources and programs online at ncwlibraries.org and on its Facebook page. Upcoming virtual programs include STEM workshops, Book-It-Theater performances, author visits, and more.

Chief Donnell focused on Citizen Advisory Group, training burn

CHELAN - "The main highlight for our last Board of Commissioners meeting was moving forward with our Citizen Advisory Group. At this time, I am collecting the names submitted by the Board and reaching out to these participants to determine availability for scheduling the first meeting," Chelan Fire Chief Mark Donnell said.

Regarding a rumor that some fire departments would be merging, Donnell set the record straight, "The East Wenatchee District information that you heard was incorrect. Douglas County Fire District #2 (East Wenatchee) and Chelan County Fire District #1 (Wenatchee) are looking at having one Chief (Brian Brett from CCFD #1) for both fire districts while they explore the possibility of regionalizing their respective districts into a single fire district," Donnell said.

"Even though we are not directly involved with this merger we are in discussions about regionalizing shared services (training, technical rescue, mechanic services, administrative) with our mutual response partners, including CCFD #1,"

he said.

In an annual report to the District employees, citizens and interested parties, Donnell stated, "2020 marked the first full year of my tenure as Fire Chief and to say that it was not challenging is an understatement. The COVID-19 pandemic placed tremendous pressure on our organization not only in the delivery of emergency services but also our ability to prepare and manage a serious issue that has had a tremendous impact on our community. Through the commitment of our personnel to stay true to our mission, we have been able to rise-up and work together with many of our partner agencies. Together we have met those challenges, keeping our community safe and healthy. We still have much work to do, but we know that together we will get through this," stated Donnell.

He continued, "Operationally, Chelan Fire & Rescue responded to 929 calls for emergency service in addition to participating in numerous state mobilizations throughout Washington and California (See sPie Chart).

"We faced our own major fire challenge on September 7 with the Apple Acres Fire that required statewide assistance to mitigate. This fire was just one of many that plagued Washington State that day leading to the largest single day fire loss in our state's history," Donnell said.

On a different topic, Donnell said the training burn offered by Chelan of a city of Chelan building is sometime in the near or far future.

"The live fire training at the City Public Works building is tentatively scheduled for March 6, but may be delayed until the fall depending upon the direction from the city," concluded Donnell.

HR803: Hawkins cautious, Newhouse angry, Schrier 'applauds' federal wildland expansion

BY GARY BÉGIN, MANAGING EDITOR, NCW MEDIA

WASHINGTON - Representative Dan Newhouse (R-WA), in a news release issued Friday, February 26, stated why he was opposed to the "massive federal land grab" and how it will impact counties already dominated by federally controlled property.

The release, "A Voice for Rural Communities: Standing Strong Against the Massive Land Grab," was adamantly opposed to the creation of more "wilderness" designated land.

Meanwhile, at nearly the exact same time, Rep. Kim Schrier had the exact opposite feelings and voted accordingly. "This legislation will protect and preserve our public lands, while also promoting outdoor recreation, a balance many Washingtonians will appreciate," she stated.

State Senator Brad Hawkins

(R-East Wenatchee), representing Washington's 12th Legislative District (Chelan, Douglas, parts of Okanogan, Grant counties), commented late Friday night (February 26) that, "I am a supporter of certain lands becoming public lands if they receive ample public input and community support. However, I do believe we need to be very thoughtful about transitioning private lands to public lands or further to designate certain lands as wilderness areas. This is especially the case in Chelan County where nearly 80 per-

Roots Community School becomes newest tenant partner at The Community Center

SUBMITTED BY THE COMMUNITY CENTER AT LAKE CHELAN

CHELAN - Seven Acres Foundation, developers of the forthcoming Community Center at Lake Chelan (CCLC), has reached a long-term agreement with Roots Community School to become a major tenant at the new facility. Plans call for the school to occupy the entire second floor of the building beginning in September of 2022, with separate entrances and exits so as not to interfere with the facility's day-to-day operation. Roots will become a significant source of revenue for the CCLC, thereby enabling the Center to offer a wider variety of services, while at the same time keeping usage fees as low as possible for Chelan Valley residents.

In making the announcement, Seven Acres board member, Scott Hutchinson, said this is definitely a win-win situation for both parties. "The Roots Community School has positively impacted a variety of families, including ours, who seek an alternative learning experience for their children. We in the Chelan Valley are fortunate to have such a school as an educational option, and I couldn't think of a more mutually beneficial union than our centrally located Community Center providing a home for great education for residents to enjoy. What we have are two excellent area resources with very similar missions coming together as one."

Roots Community School, located within the City of Chelan, was founded in the fall of 2017 as a 501(c)3 non-profit organization. It operates entirely off of revenue derived from tuition, grants and charitable donations. Current enrollment totals 66 students, with educational levels spanning Kindergarten through the 6th grade. Utilizing a holistic education model, the school is dedicated to preparing students to meet the challenges of everyday living as well as academics. Their educational structure is centered around project-based learning, where students design, plan and carry out extended projects that produce publicly-exhibited outputs such as a product, community service project, publication, or presentation.

Erin Fielding, Managing Director of Roots, sees a powerful alignment between the goals and values of the two parties. "One of the reasons the Seven Acres Foundation was formed was to make a difference in the lives of people in the Lake Chelan Valley. At Roots, we share and embrace this vision. Not only do we want to make a difference in the lives of our students and families, but we also want to reach out and partner with other nonprofits to have a major impact on our entire community. Nothing great is ever achieved alone. To have the school housed within the CCLC where all community members are served is humbling, and it awards us a unique opportunity to teach our own students the value of paying forward kindness and generosity in a very real and tangible way."

Resolve to achieve healthy sleep in 2021

BPT - According to a recent survey from the American Academy of Sleep Medicine (AASM), 85% of U.S. adults do not get the recommended seven hours or more of sleep every night. After a challenging and stressful year, the New Year provides Americans with the opportunity to refocus on the importance of making healthy sleep a priority. "Our survey findings show a worrying trend of national sleep deprivation," said AASM president Dr. Kannan Ramar. "Insufficient sleep contributes to the risk for several of today's public health epidemics, including cardiovascular disease, diabetes and obesity. As such, it is critical that we incorporate healthy sleep habits and routines into our daily lives to be our best in 2021."

Why should we make healthy sleep a New Resolution?
The AASM recommends that adults sleep at least seven hours each night to promote optimal health and well-being. In the same survey, slightly more than one-third (34%) of Americans said they sleep for seven or more hours only two nights - or fewer - each week, in line with findings from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). Regularly sleeping less than seven hours per day is associated with an increased risk of developing chronic conditions such as obesity, diabetes, high blood pressure, heart disease, stroke and frequent mental distress. Resolve to make 365 days of healthy sleep your goal for 2021 by keeping in mind its extensive benefits:

- Sleep makes you healthier
- Without good sleep, both mental and physical health suffer greatly, putting Americans at an increased risk of chronic disease.
- Sleep makes you happier
- Sleep has a positive effect on mood and overall sense of well-being and can improve relationships with others.
- Sleep makes you smarter
- Getting the right amount of sleep is conducive to learning, memory recall, creativity and cognitive function.

What is inhibiting us from achieving the recommended seven hours of sleep?

Despite evidence showing the importance of adequate sleep, it often can take a back seat to other behaviors we find important. According to the AASM's July 2020 survey, a vast majority (68%) of U.S. adults lose sleep due to drinking alcohol past bedtime. Americans also report staying up past their bedtime to binge-watch a TV show or stream a video series (88%), read a book (66%), watch a sporting event (58%) and play video games (50%).

How has the pandemic impacted sleep?

With a change in daily routines, the COVID-19 pandemic is also disrupting sleep for Americans. According to the AASM survey, one in five Americans (22%) are sleeping worse due to the pandemic, and 19% are getting less nightly sleep. "Despite the fact that many Americans are no longer commuting to and from work, it is paramount to establish and maintain morning and bedtime rituals, such as getting up and going to bed at regular times to achieve adequate sleep," added Ramar.

What are some tips for healthy sleep?

- Obtain adequate sleep - Set a bedtime that allows you to get enough sleep so you wake up feeling refreshed and alert. Identify an appropriate bedtime for your age and lifestyle using the AASM bedtime calculator.
- Establish a bedtime and wake time routine - Consider developing a nightly routine that evokes calm and relaxation, which may include reading, journaling or meditating. Even for those working remotely, allow ample time to wake, reflect and prepare for the day ahead.
- Ensure the bedroom is a space for sleep - Limit noise and distractions by making your bedroom quiet, dark and a little bit cool - and only use the bed for sleeping, not watching TV or reading.

- Set boundaries for blue light exposure - Consider setting a technology curfew by turning off your TV and other electronic devices 30 minutes to an hour before bedtime. Silence your notifications and charge your devices away from your bed so you are not tempted to look at social media or news alerts.

- Limit alcohol, caffeine and large meals before bed - Avoid consuming caffeine after lunch and avoid alcohol near bedtime, as both can disrupt sleep. If hungry after dinner, keep snacks small, sugar-free and easily digestible so as to not disrupt sleep.

Can you recognize signs of stroke?

STATEPOINT - Many people are avoiding in-person doctor's visits to limit potential exposure to coronavirus -- or are simply ignoring health concerns altogether. However, when it comes to medical emergencies such as stroke, immediate medical attention is critical.

The fifth leading cause of death in the U.S., stroke occurs every 40 seconds and it can happen to anyone, of any age, at any time. When 59-year-old Paul "David" Dyches had a stroke on the job this past August, he quickly realized something was very wrong.

"I never experienced a feeling like this before, and I knew we had to do something right away," says Dyches, who was experiencing classic stroke symptoms of weakness in his arms and legs. Upon his arrival at the hospital, he was evaluated via tele-neurology by experts over 150 miles away. After doctors confirmed he was experiencing a stroke, they delivered treatment immediately and he was able to be discharged the following day.

While in some cases quick action can help with recovery, statistics suggest that many Americans may be avoiding hospitals when they need them most due to anxieties surrounding the pandemic. A recent study published in "JAMA Internal Medicine" showed that emergency room visits to five major healthcare systems decreased by more than 40 percent as COVID-19 cases spiked.

As patients such as Dyches are learning firsthand, hospitals have a range of protocols in place to help keep patients and staff safe from coronavirus infection.

"The hospital staff set me at ease right away," says Dyches.

Beyond pandemic fears, one age-old barrier to seeking timely medical attention for stroke is simply awareness of signs and symptoms. While Dyches can credit himself with recognizing a classic symptom -- arm and leg weakness -- and reacting rapidly, only one in five U.S. adults are able to recognize 10 signs and symptoms of stroke, according to a nationwide survey*. What's more, nearly 70 percent of the survey respondents say they're knowledgeable about stroke, yet 62 percent falsely believe that signs of stroke come on slowly over a day or two, when in fact symptoms of stroke can come on suddenly.

Experts say that immediate medical attention, which is vital, relies on everyone learning and being able to recognize the BE FAST signs and symptoms of a stroke in themselves and others and calling 911 immediately. BE FAST stands for Balance, Eyes, Face, Arm, Speech, Time and refers to these signs of stroke:

- Balance: Sudden loss of balance
- Eyes: Loss of vision in one or both eyes
- Face: Face looks uneven or droopy
- Arm: Arm or leg is weak or hanging down
- Speech: Slurred speech, trouble speaking or seems confused
- Time: Immediately call 911

For more shareable information and resources, visit Strokeawareness.com, developed by Genentech Inc, a member of the Roche

Group. "I am a testament to the fact that emergencies like stroke don't stop for a global health pandemic," says Dyches. "Anyone who experiences stroke symptoms should call 911 and get themselves to the ER as quickly as possible."

How to navigate Transitions of Care

By DR. LOUISE ACHEY,
DOCTOR OF PHARMACY

By Dr. Louise Achey,
Doctor of Pharmacy

My stepmother is going to have her hip replaced next week. After the surgery, she will wake up in a recovery room and possibly stay overnight in the hospital. Afterward, she'll be discharged directly back to her home or to a skilled nursing facility (AKA a nursing home) for several weeks of strengthening therapy, called rehab.

Each time she moves from one health care setting to another, her doctors and nurses must communicate any vital information about her to the next person. Each time she moves from one care setting to another is called a Transition of Care.

Medical care is a lot like a relay race. When the nurse or doctor taking care of you goes off shift, another transition of care occurs, from them to the medical professional coming on shift. This "handoff" is where important information about you can easily get lost, leading to potentially serious problems.

That's what happened to Emma. My friend Sherry accepted the responsibility of being her widowed elderly aunt Emma's medical power of attorney, or POA. Emma fell the first week of January, breaking her hip, which required surgery and several weeks of rehabilitation at a local nursing home.

Emma received her first

COVID vaccine while a resident of that nursing facility, then discharged back to her own home before it was time for her booster.

Sherry called me yesterday morning and asked, "How do I get Emma her booster shot of COVID vaccine? The nursing home says she'll have to go somewhere else."

I called the nursing facility to find out who gave her the initial COVID vaccine. They explained the vaccines were given by CVS, a pharmacy chain with a federal contract to immunize nursing home residents. CVS came and gave every resident their first COVID vaccination. They supposedly contacted anyone who had been discharged to register them for the booster. The company had just finished its last booster clinic the day before.

There are no CVS pharmacies in our area. I asked the nursing home for contact information to find out if CVS would be in any other nursing facilities in our area. Unfortunately, when I called them, no one could connect me with whomever was administering the COVID vaccine. They couldn't even tell me who I could contact to find out more. It was like CVS swooped into town, gave the vaccine to those nursing home residents, then left without a trace.

When I asked for a copy of Emma's COVID vaccine card, the nursing home said they didn't have it anymore. They explained that it had been mailed to Emma's POA. Unfortunately, my friend never received it, so we recreated one from the nursing home records on a blank COVID vaccine card, documenting the date, manufacturer, and site where Emma received her COVID vaccine.

Although Emma received the Pfizer COVID vaccine, our local pharmacies only have the Moderna vaccine. Is it okay if Emma gets a Moderna booster?

Yes. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) states that if someone residing in an assisted living or a nursing facility has moved, it is okay to get a booster with the Moderna vaccine even if the initial vaccine dose was from Pfizer and vice versa. Since they are both mRNA vaccines, the CDC states that it is acceptable.

The CDC now states you can delay getting the booster beyond the 3 weeks recommended by the manufacturer for the Pfizer COVID vaccine or the 4-week booster recommended for the Moderna vaccine. Up to 6 weeks is considered acceptable, especially in light of the recent weather-related delays in shipping the vaccines.

Here are 4 ways to protect yourself or loved one during Transitions of Care

1. Make a current list of all your medications, and keep it updated.
2. Bring your discharge summary paperwork to your next medical appointment.

Doctor's offices are not always kept informed of what happens to you during a recent hospitalization. Bringing the latest information with you helps to keep everyone in the loop.

3. Ask. With COVID restrictions making face-to-face discussions rare, misunderstandings are commonplace. Medical providers stretched for time and may not take the time to explain the plan of care.

4. Be a Squeaky Wheel. Speak up whenever something doesn't seem right to you. You may be the only one who notices an omission or discrepancy.

How and why to improve the fit of your mask

STATEPOINT - As more Americans get vaccinated against COVID-19, you may find yourself out and about more. Whether you're returning to the workplace or just getting a haircut, mask requirements may be in place in certain venues you frequent. New Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommendations highlight the importance of snugly fitting masks. The good news is that innovations are helping people secure the fit of their masks, and, at the same time, solve some of the most common complaints they have when wearing them.

"As we began to wear masks in 2020, we found ourselves frustrated by things like fogging glasses and slipping masks. Our team has extensive experience solving health-related challenges and thought there had to be a way to address this," says Dave Franchino, co-founder at MaskTite, a company that makes a medical-grade, double-sided tape designed to adhere to the inside of a mask for a more secure fit.

Franchino, with his background in medical product design, set to work with his team to design a way to give people of all face sizes and shapes a fast and easy way to make every mask fit better. Made of skin-safe, medical-grade, adhesive tape, MaskTite strips eliminate common mask problems like gaps, fogging glasses and slipping, and are sized for adults and children.

Here Franchino explains how to solve some of most common mask woes, some of which you've likely experienced:

Courtesy StatePoint

Made of skin-safe, medical-grade, adhesive tape, MaskTite strips eliminate common mask problems like gaps, fogging glasses and slipping, and are sized for adults and children.

• Loose fit and slipping masks: Readjusting your mask when it starts to slip is not always possible, whether it's because you have your hands full of groceries or work tools or you simply want to avoid touching your face. Keeping the mask affixed to your face with tape can eliminate slipping when it matters most, and achieve a tighter fit, supporting the latest CDC recommendations.

• Foggy glasses: The warm air of your breath escaping from the top of your mask can quickly make glasses foggy, causing a new hazard – an inability to see. While it can be tough to find a mask that fits securely enough to eliminate fog, applying a solution like MaskTite to the inside of your mask means you can get a proper fit and better visibility, no matter what mask you're using.

• Irritating straps: A tight-fitting mask is great in many respects, but the straps can put a strain on the backs of one's ears. Plus, there are times when mask straps can simply be in the way, such as when you're getting a haircut. Securing your mask to your face with tape means you can go strap-free.

Waterproof and hypoallergenic: MaskTite strips can improve mask fit in a variety of environments, including healthcare, schools, retail and restaurant settings, salons, offices, manufacturing and more. Packaged in a resealable, plastic pouch that's easy to throw into a pocket, purse, backpack or briefcase, they are currently available for sale through Amazon. MaskTite is made in the U.S. from U.S. materials. Learn more at MaskTite.com.

"From fogging glasses to slipping, nearly every issue that stems from wearing a mask is related to the mask's fit. For those spending a lot of time in a mask, at school, work or elsewhere, a good mask-wearing experience can make all the difference," says Franchino.

6 Ways to tell if you have enough life insurance

STATEPOINT - If we've learned anything from 2020, it's that life can be unpredictable. Having sufficient life insurance can provide financial stability and security to loved ones during times of uncertainty.

Forty-one million Americans say they need life insurance but don't have it, according to LIMRA's 2020 Insurance Barometer Study. Others are insured but don't have enough coverage. If this describes you, your spouse or children could find themselves in a financial lurch, expected to pay off debts, loans and final expenses when you die, especially if you're the main source of income.

"Having insurance isn't just about financial protection," says Louis Colaizzo, senior vice president of Erie Family Life. "It also helps maintain some sense of normalcy for family members. Kids can continue their extracurricular activities, partners can maintain their lifestyle and families can stay in the home they know and love."

So, how do you know if you have enough? An annual reminder to financially protect loved ones, here are six questions from insurance experts to help you find out.

1. Do you have enough to cover final expenses? Make sure you can accommodate funeral or burial expenses, end-of-life costs or unpaid medical bills. Otherwise, your family may be responsible for paying these. According to the National Funeral Directors Association, the national median cost of a funeral with viewing and burial for 2019 was $7,640 – a steep sum many can't pay out of pocket without notice.

2. Will your family receive enough to cover income loss or debt? If you're your household's primary earner, you'll want to ensure you have enough money to maintain your family's lifestyle. For example, can your policy help pay off a mortgage or multiple car loans in full or cover expenses like groceries? If not, your spouse or dependents might find themselves struggling, putting them at risk for foreclosure or other financial hardships.

3. Do you have dependents? A dependent is someone who relies on your income to make ends meet. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the average cost of raising a child through age 17 is $233,610, not including the cost of a college education. That's a big strain.

4. What kind of retirement do you want? How do you guarantee you'll have enough for the future and won't need a second career late in life to cover living expenses? One way is to tap into the cash value of a permanent life insurance plan and use it as supplemental income during retirement.

5. Do you have unique lifestyle considerations? Do you own a business or want to leave a legacy when you're gone? Having an insurance plan will protect these assets and give you peace of mind that your money goes exactly where you want it.

6. What if your circumstances change (again)? Some life insurance companies, offer a Guaranteed Insurability Option rider to help with the quickly changing times, making it possible for you to purchase additional insurance later, even if circumstances deem you "uninsurable." This means the death benefit can be increased as your needs change but you won't have to answer medical underwriting questions – a relief for many.

To revisit your life insurance policy, contact an independent Insurance agent who can discuss your personal options by visiting erieinsurance.com.

According to experts, one of the easiest ways to protect loved ones and their financial futures is to prepare for the unexpected.

lands are public lands. This can lead to reductions in overall assessed valuation over time or tax shifts to remaining landowners. While I am not opposed to certain lands becoming public, taking on more public lands can create additional, cumulative responsibilities for our county governments and its taxpayers so we should be thoughtful about doing so and expect those partnering jurisdictions to adequately maintain their lands."

Newhouse, representing Washington's 4th Congressional District, stated, "I spoke on the House floor last week in opposition to H.R. 803, a massive, partisan federal land grab package affecting lands and waters in Colorado, Arizona, California, and Washington. The bill creates 1.5 million acres of new wilderness (the most restrictive federal land use designation), permanently withdraws 1.2 million acres from mineral production, and expands nearly 110,000 acres of national monument land."

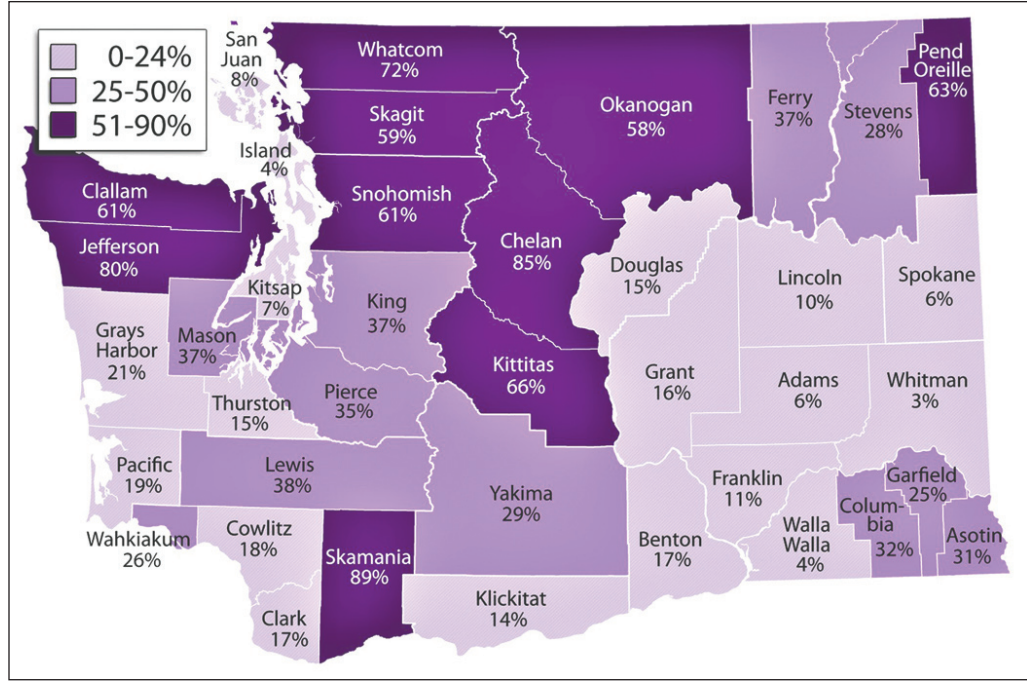

Schrier, a second term Democrat, issued her news release with the headline, "Schrier Applauds House Passage of Wilderness and Public Lands Act," and that she voted in favor of HR 803, the Protecting America's Wilderness and Public Lands Act."

Newhouse said, "The American people deserve to access our nation's public lands - not to be locked out of them. A wilderness designation does not guarantee the protection of these lands. In fact, in many cases, this designation can hinder our ability to properly care for them. This package will not only harm our energy independence, restrict public access and recreation on our lands, and increase the poor health of our nation's forests; but it will devastate rural communities in the West."

Schrier added, "This legislation will take steps to conserve public lands and waters and protect communities from the effects of climate change."

Newhouse continued, "As a lifelong farmer, I have always considered myself on the front lines of responsible conservation efforts. My livelihood depends on the health of our lands and natural resources. Similarly, the livelihoods of ranchers, miners, foresters, and pipeline workers are also dependent on active, responsible management of our lands."

Schrier continued, "We are facing an urgent climate crisis that is threatening our beloved public lands and resources. I want to make sure that my child and future generations will still be able to enjoy our state's treasured wild lands and rivers."

Newhouse concluded, "The partisan wilderness bill does more to hurt the lives and livelihoods of Americans in the West than it does to protect and conserve our public lands, and that is why I voted against it. We should be encouraging local conservation and preservation efforts - not top-down bureaucratic mandates that ignore the voices of the communities most impacted."

Hawkins stated, in an exclusive NCW Media interview, "I look forward to learning more about the bill and what lands, if any, in Washington state that could potentially be receiving a change in designation."

Hawkins took time out from his busy schedule to comment on the federal bill. "The Washington State Senate has been very busy in recent days advancing bills in Olympia as the state Legislature quickly approaches a critical deadline for passage of bills. As such, I do not usually follow individual federal legislation, except for much larger bills such as federal stimulus measures with funding back to the states."

According to a federal map showing lands in Washington state owned or controlled by federal agencies, Chelan County is the second highest in the state with 85 percent of its land mass listed as federal. Only Skamania County in southwest Washington with 89 percent, is higher than Chelan, but it is half the size.

Douglas County has 15 percent, Okanogan County 58 percent and Grant County with 16 percent.

The U.S. House of Representatives passed the Democrat Party sponsored bill by a 227 - 200 majority, based mostly on party lines. It now goes to the Senate for approval, then to President Joe Biden for his signature, before it becomes law.

NEWS BRIEFS

EMS vaccinates 508 on Feb. 25

CHELAN - The Lake Chelan Health EMS team vaccinated 508 people with the first dose of their COVID-19 vaccine on February 25; and on February 27 administered second doses for 313 people that received their first dose on January 23.

Having another vaccine clinic is dependent on when the state sends Lake Chelan Health more vaccine. They are scheduled to get more for this week.

They had about 25 people which includes the vaccinators and volunteers and firefighter volunteers which did the greeting and screening helping out at the drive-thru event.

The EMS team will also be scheduling the vaccine for Stehekin and Holden Village. EMS will also be partnering with CVCH and Cascade to vaccinate adult family homes in Chelan/Douglas counties, which is approximately 25 homes. This is a requirement of public health.

Order your Arbor Day plants now, pickup April 10

WENATCHEE - Due to the pandemic the Greater Wenatchee Arbor Day Association 2021 tree distribution will be different this year.

Western Paper Birch, Golden Currant, and Mountain (black) Huckleberry are being offered this year. Complete information can be found on Facebook, wwrld.us/gwadfp and an order form on the City of Wenatchee website, wwrld.us/arbor day-order. One can also send a handwritten order and check to Arbor Day, P.O. Box 777 Cashmere, WA 98815. They are asking for a donation of $2.25 per plant. You can order a minimum of six of each species. There are 1,500 plants available.

The distribution will be on April 10 at the Wenatchee Cemetery at 1804 N. Western, Wenatchee. This will be the only distribution site this year.

CVH seeks new board member

CHELAN - Do you have the time and passion to help others in the Chelan and surrounding communities? Chelan Valley Hope has an opening on its board of directors, and they are looking for qualified candidates!

Do you have a background in any of these areas;

1. Grant writing
2. Other non-profit experience
3. Healthcare or a mental health background
4. Social services, crisis management
5. English-Spanish bilingual
6. A local business owner
7. Social Media Management

As a one-of-a-kind, social services, non-profit agency, Chelan Valley Hope has been accomplishing positive change in people's lives for 11 years. Chelan Valley Hope provides one-stop access to a host of essential local and regional services. They pave the way for long-term recovery for families and individuals with a hand-up, not just a hand-out. Chelan Valley Hope serves our community passionately and efficiently through three paid staff and 16 dedicated volunteers and an 11-member volunteer board. CVH provides those in need and/or crisis with assistance to avoid eviction and shut-off of utilities, gas and food vouchers, emergency shelter, winter clothing, personal hygiene items, and other assistance of high civic value, benefitting the City of Chelan and all of us in the greater Chelan Valley region.

The board meets virtually in the afternoon on the 2nd Thursday of each month for 2 hours. If you have questions or interest in being considered for a board director position, please send an email, including a short resume to Michael Gibb at mag.gibb51@gmail.com and visit their website at https://chelanvalleyhope.org/

Virtual family concert released

OMAK - Okanogan Valley Orchestra and Chorus has released their free virtual Family Concert online. This third concert has been uploaded onto the OVOC YouTube site

It is the third of their virtual series, "Music is Vital". It features the chorus performing "You've Got a Friend in Me" from "Toy Story" by Randy Newman and "Lava" by Roger Emerson from the movie "Lava" with Sarah Walker on the ukulele.

The OVOC orchestra will perform "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" by Harold Arlen arranged by Chuck Sayre from "The Wizard of Oz". They will also present "Themes from the Sorcerer's Apprentice" featured in "Fantasia", written by Paul Dukas and arranged by Jim Higgins.

The OVOC Jazz Band will be playing "Beyond the Sea" by Charles Trenet, arranged by Roger Holmes.

The OVOC orchestra is able to present these concerts virtually through the joint efforts of orchestra director Matt Brown and chorus director Derek Pulsifer's many hours of not only directing the groups but also creating the final performance. They do this by combining each performer's submitted performance after hours of rehearsals with the OVOC members. The Family Concert will continue this new tradition to be followed by the Spring Concert in April.

General Interest

The Democrats and their cohorts (the press) are constantly on the attack. They love to find new ways to label others who do not agree with their political philosophy. Conservatives are homophobic. They are xenophobic. They are racist. Lately, instead of being "racists", the charge is "white supremacists" and they say it's endemic within our culture. President Biden has picked up on this, calling 74 million Trump supporters this new racist term. He uses this label for military and law-enforcement officers as well. All are great supporters of Trump, and as such, must be discredited. Isn't it strange that the groups that do so much good for the American people are accused of being threats to democracy? The military has been the one part of the federal government which has not been politicized. Now, with the Democrats in power they, are being investigated. Is it too much to hope, that the not-so-liberal Democrats out there, would see through all the garbage the Democrat leaders are spouting, and join the team who really want to make our country better?
