Return to Learn - Reopening schools update

Dear families and community members

At a special meeting held on Thursday evening (August 6) the Board of Directors (Lake Chelan School District) approved the recommendations to start school online this fall. Although this was a difficult decision, given the inherent impacts on students and families, I believe this was the right decision. The recommendation was based on current infection rates, advice from the medical profession, collaboration with regional colleagues and the fact that the health and safety of our students is the number one priority of our school district.

In a recent meeting with regional superintendents, local Public Health officials advised that opening schools would lead to a significant increases in transmission rates. Local medical experts cited that in Chelan and Douglas counties, COVID-19 cases have increased to over 580 per 100,000 people. To reopen schools, the acceptable level is closer to 25 per 100,000. Our current rate in Chelan County is almost 20 times higher. This same advice mirrors Governor's Inslee's comments at this most recent press conference. Simply put, we can't afford the high risk of opening our schools at this point in time, the transmission rates are too high to safely do so.

The Annual Back to School Fair for Chelan and Manson students was held on August 9 drive-thru style at Mountain Goat Field. The Back to School Fair committee of Real Life, Lake Chelan Community Hospital, Columbia Valley Community Health, and both Chelan and Manson schools helped students with a backpack filled with school supplies. A total of 264 have been given away so far. People who could not make it and need a bag can call Agustin Benegas LCCH at 509-682-8525 and pickup backpacks up at Lake Chelan Clinic until supplies last. Above Raynor Baker (right) of LCCH EMS hands off a backpack, while Ray Eickmeyer, LCCH EMS looks on. Eickmeyer handed out flyers on Free Car Seat Checks and Masking Up-Next Best Thing to a Vaccine. ## Primary election indicates Dem's may be vulnerable

Political perspective

BY BILL FORHAN, PUBLISHER

It's no surprise that the incumbent governor and District Congressional Representative captured the most votes in the primary election. The question is, how strong is their performance against a single Republican challenger in the General election?

Gov. Inslee won the statewide election with a narrow 50.3% of the voters who turned out. Other Democrats on the ballot drew 3% away from Inslee. It is unclear at this time if that is because they are disenchanted with Inslee and the Democrats.

Schrier led the race in her bid for re-election, but she only drew 42.7% of the vote. Republican challengers collectively captured almost 50% of vote. With clear evidence that this is a house seat that may be up for grabs in November, there is likely to be a huge push by both parties.

In the race for Lieutenant Governor the top two system will see two Democrats running against each other in the General. Denny Heck will face off against Marko Lias.

Heck essentially ran a campaign against President

Trump. Heck decided not to run for re-election to the House of Representatives and run for Lt. Governor instead. At a time the Democrats are desperately trying to hold on to their majority in Congress it is certainly curious. Political operatives on the west side have surmised that Heck is expecting Biden to win and tap Inslee for a cabinet position. Heck would then assume the role of Governor.

At this point it looks like the election for Chelan County Commissioner is the only race that is still in contention. In this point Tiffany Gering leads Brandt Cappell by 132 votes with 337 ballots left to count for the second spot on the ticket for the general election.

Voter turnout was 47% statewide and 59% in Chelan County. Detailed charts of the top election results can be found on page 6.

Manson Parks breaks ground on Singleton Park playground

SUBMITTED BY NORM MANLY

MANSON - August 5 was a milestone day for the Manson Community as the "Put Back Together" phase of the new Singleton Park Playground officially was under way with the first of 10 cement pours. For the past few weeks Rob Campbell, Manson Park Board Chairman and a Playground Committee member, along with his crew of volunteers were busy preparing the area. Ground leveled and forms in place, the Chelan (Concrete) cement truck arrived at 6 a.m. and first cement poured into the forms at 6:07 a.m.

Robin Pittman, Director for Manson Parks said, "I am so proud to be a part of this community. The support for this project has been unbelievable. We started thinking we'd just replace a few pieces of equipment to get safety requirements taken care of. After some thought, it became clear that our community's children deserve so much more. We started dreaming big and created the vision for an inclusive playground where people of all abilities can play together side-by-side. In the words of Russell Wilson, "Why not us? Why not now?"

nine years. When I asked why he took on this huge project he said, "My daughter wanted a playground." Rob's daughter is Robin Pittman, Manson Parks Director.

Today's work crew included Brian Patterson, Don Christenson, Randy Doull, Greg Neff, Rob and his trusty dog, DyLynn. A total of 40 yards of cement

Lakeview Drive-In closing temporarily out of safety concerns

By GARY BÉGIN, MANAGING EDITOR

CHELAN -- Amy Mack, owner and manager of the extremely popular Lakeview Drive In eatery, has decided to close her "little burger shack" for at least the next two weeks due to an overwhelming desire to keep her staff – and patrons, safe from the threat of contracting COVID-19, she said in an exclusive Lake Chelan Mirror interview.

Mack stressed, in an open letter to patrons, that she wasn't closing because of any outbreak among staff. "No one on staff is sick. I monitor their health everyday before they begin their shift. I take their temperatures and ensure they are wearing a mask before they start work," Mack said.

The seasonal burger restaurant opened two weeks earlier than normal, according to Mack, and she intends to stay open "hopefully until the end of October, which will make up the difference from the August closing."

"I became concerned when I saw the larger than normal crowds and decided to voluntarily close to relieve the stress and pressure on the staff and out an abundance of caution for the health of everyone concerned," Mack said.

One of the silver linings hidden in the COVID-19 outbreak, if there is such a thing, is that Mack's staff, made up of mostly high school and college students, will be more available than any other year due to the fact that most of them are doing virtual learning this fall semester.

Mack, in explaining her decision to staff and customers, said she encouraged all her workers to go and get tested for Coronavirus and then self-quarantine regardless of whether the test was negative or positive.

She said this was to make sure that "asymptomatic carriers" would also be safer when they returned to work. "I figured two weeks and two days would be sufficient to make sure parents and staff had the time to return safely," Mack said.

"I would have felt differently if the customers were just locals," but the crowds with their incredible diversity and potential for community spread changed her mind.

In response to the obvious financial loss to her business, Mack said "instead of closing at the usual time, after the Mahogany and Merlot festival, I will recoup the revenue by staying open two weeks later than normal."

"Health is more important than money. We had a busier than normal season so far so and we are in good financial shape. We are in good place to do this (closing) now," Mack stated.

knownst to local residents, but reported on by Seattle's King 5 television news on primary night.

The tally was: Inslee with 1,074,988 votes for 50.33%. Loren Culp received 370,596 votes for 17.35% of the total.

Chelan County gave a slight nod to incumbent Inslee and Attorney General candidate incumbent Bob Ferguson. Culp, Republic (Ferry County) police chief outpolled Inslee in Okanogan, Douglas and Grant counties.

In Chelan County, Inslee received 5,095 votes to 4,527 for Culp.

In the Eighth Congressional District, Democrat incumbent Rep. Dr. Kim Schrier easily defeated all comers. The Republican challenger is Jesse Jensen who won over Keith Swank for a place on the November ballot. Jensen received 43,460 votes or 22.66%, Keith R. Swank

Tiffany Gering

got 38,556 votes or 19.74%.

In other local races and referendums of note:

Dale England and Tiffany Gering, both Republicans, will vie for the Chelan County Board of County Commissioners District 3 seat come November. Gering staged a come from behind victory over primary rival Brandt Cappell, who, as of Tuesday night, had a slight lead, but when the smoke cleared Friday night, Gering was victorious.

England received 41.58% (3,753 votes) for the overall primary victory followed by Gering's 29.94% (2,703 votes) for second place. Cappell tallied 28.48% (2,571 votes) for third place.

"I am thrilled to be moving on to the general. Thank you to all of those who have supported me from the beginning and voted for me," said Tiffany Gering on making it to the general election in November.

The district includes Stehekin, Chelan, Manson, En-tiation and parts of Olds Station in Wenatchee.

The Lake Chelan Community Hospital EMS renewal levy easily passed with 3,120 votes for vice 1,242 against, equaling an approval rate of 71.53%. The passage secures funding for about half of the operational costs, also allowing for replacement of outdated equipment. The new levy amount would be taxed at a rate of .39 cents per $1,000 of assessed property value for the next 10 years. This is up from the current rate of .31 cents. The levy takes effect in 2021.

"We are so very thankful for the community's trust and support. We are excited to continue to serve the Lake Chelan Valley with responsibility and passion with these levy funds. Again, we are so thankful for the community's trust and support," said Ray Eickmeyer, director of LCCH EMS will be poured for this project. With the cement work behind them the crew will prepare the ground for playground equipment. Rob says, "September 15 is the date we hope to complete our work and that will be followed by the "supervised installation" of the playground equipment, which should take about a week."

"This project received a shot in the arm from a very generous $100,000 donation from the Tom and Meg Names Family Foundation, and many more donations followed. We were awarded a grant from the Community Foundation of North Central Washington, and since then, Lake Chelan Rotary, Manson Kiwanis, Lake Chelan Lion's Club, Community Foundation of North Central Washington, the Chelan-Douglas Developmental Disabilities Program, and many more have stepped up. Because of budget constraints, there are a couple desirable amenities we have placed on the back burner until more funding is raised. We are very thankful for the flood of support we've received, and this dream is soon to be a reality," Robin concluded.

Next steps: Principals will continue to hold Work Group re-opening meetings involving parents, students, staff and board members. Based on feedback and the information collected in past and recent surveys, along with various stakeholder meetings, we have made significant changes to our Distance Learning Model for this fall. Distance Learning 2.0 will guarantee a more structured, consistent and richer educational experience by encompassing the following enhancements:

- Training: orientation and professional development sessions for students, staff and parents will be held prior to the start of school and include safety protocols, training on how to utilize the new learning management system and assistance with technology.
- Structure: specific scheduled periods with an identified start and dismissal time; daily attendance will be expected and required. Students will have assignment due dates and earn grades.
- Communication: consistent, regular predictable communication avenues for all students and parents. This will occur largely through a single digital platform (Google Classroom). Students will be able to access class meetings in the same learning management system.

- Instruction: blend of live instruction, group work and independent activities with specialist and elective opportunities
- Interventions: set times for student support and contact with teachers
- Equity: consideration for serving students furthest from educational justice in small groups of 5 as per OSPI guidance;

decisions will be made on a case to case basis.

A detailed "Return to Learn" plan will be shared in the near future, including specific schedules for each building, the food service delivery system and other important details. Distance Learning is a temporary, students will eventually return to in person classes with a hybrid model according to the phases outlined by the Governor.

Thank you for your continued support of our schools.

Chelan PUD breaks ground on new Service Center at Olds Station on August 5

SUBMITTED BY CHELAN COUNTY PUD

WENATCHEE – One by one, but together in spirit, Chelan PUD commissioners dug the first shovelfuls of earth at Olds Station, future home of the PUD's comprehensive Service Center. Their audience: A video camera to ensure that the important milestone was captured. Join us online to witness and celebrate the historic event on Facebook Aug. 5.

"Today's groundbreaking sets us on a path forward to greater efficiency and customer service," Board President Garry Arseneault said, "so future generations of Chelan County residents will continue reaping the benefits of low-cost hydropower."

After years of careful study, the Board of Commissioners determined that a centralized facility would provide the best value and experience for the most people over the next 50 to 100 years. The 19-acre campus will combine most of the PUD's non-hydro services, including Customer Service, Warehouse, Fish and Wildlife, and Customer Energy Solutions.

"As the PUD studied its options, it became clear that a consolidated Service Center was the least-cost option," Arseneault said. "Our vision is for the next 50 years. We make these decisions based on the benefits to customer-owners for the long term."

The Olds Station site is the geographic center of Chelan County, which will help reduce response times and operational costs. The centralized location also creates one convenient stop where customer-owners can pay bills, apply for new services and meet with staff and commissioners.

Construction is slated through 2022, with a gradual move-in planned for late 2022 or early 2023. About 78% of the first-phase work was awarded to local contractors. Sales tax payments associated with the nearly $140 million project will also provide a local economic boost.

Project plans also include a trail connection to the Apple Capital Loop Trail and improved public access to the Wenatchee River.

The new Service Center will replace several aging PUD facilities, including its Fifth Street headquarters built in 1955. The PUD is working with the City, Regional Port Authority, Wenatchee Valley Chamber, Wenatchee Downtown Association and a citizen advisory committee to explore future development of the 7.5-acre downtown campus.

In other business, commissioners:

Considered a plan to speed up the expansion of the PUD's fiber optic network, pursuant to the utility's strategic plan (2:05)

Heard the results of a 2020 customer satisfaction survey, indicating 86% of customers are satisfied or very satisfied overall with the PUD with particularly strong scores for service reliability and quality of communications (0:07)

OBITUARIES

Ernest George Robison

Our beloved Dad and Grandpa, Ernest George Robison, went home to be with the Lord on July 29, 2020 after a brief illness. Ernie was born October 12, 1935 in Wenatchee, Washington to Clayton Daniel Robison and Belle Grace (Cole) Robison. Ernie attended schools in Riverside, Washington and graduated from Omak High School. He then attended college at WSU in Pullman, graduating with a Bachelor of Science in Horticulture. Ernie met the love of his life, Judith Carol Petersen, at Salmon Meadows Church Camp. They reconnected at WSU.

Ernie was a member of Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity and pinned Judy while in college to signify their engagement. They were married on August 18, 1957 in Waterville. After college, they moved to Wenatchee where Ernie worked as a Field Man at Skookum Co-op and then Northwest Wholesale. Ernie managed a small apple co-op in Entiat for a time. In the late 1960's, he and Judy planted their first orchard at Howard Flats in Chelan. Soon after, they took over and expanded the family orchards at 25 Mile Creek and in the Chelan Valley where they lovingly raised their three children: Lynn, Dave, and Al.

Ernie had a strong relationship with Jesus and he and Judy were very active in the Lake Chelan United Methodist Church. At the UMC, Ernie taught Sunday School, sang in the choir, and held several leadership roles in the church.

He shared his deep abiding faith by example. Ernie was a member of the Lake Chelan School District Board and a long term director on the Blue Chelan Fruit Co-op Board. He also proudly served in the National Guard for several years in the 1950's. Music was an important part of Ernie's life. He played the banjo and violin as well as sang in the Apollo Club of Wenatchee. He and his wife, Judy, enjoyed riding their touring motorcycle on a variety of fun trips.

Many fulfilling days were spent surrounded by the joy and laughter of their grandchildren and activities with dear friends. After many wonderful years together, Judy passed away in 2001. Later, Ernie was reacquainted with and married a dear high school friend, Jeanie Altizer, in Oroville. Ernie and Jeanie spent several happy years together in Oroville and Chelan.

Ernie is survived by his wife Jeanie Robison of Oroville, his daughter Lyn-delle Burkhart, son David (Karla) Robison, and son Allen (Rachel) Robison, all of Chelan, as well as four loving stepchildren: Mark, Cami, Amy and Jill. He's also survived by a brother, Dan Robison of Sun City, Arizona, a sister, Pat Davis of Puyallup, 12 grandchildren, 12 great-grandchildren and many step-grandchildren. Ernie was preceded in death by his parents, his first wife, Judy, two sisters, Olive and Betty, and one brother, Kenneth.

Please leave any thoughts and memories for the family at www.prechtrose.com.

Arrangements are by Precht Rose Chapel. A private family service will be held at a later date. Memorials may be made to: Lake Chelan United Methodist Church, P.O. Box 1236, Chelan, WA 98816.

Family, friends may visit Heritage Heights residents beginning August 12

SUBMITTED BY AMANDA BALLOU, HERITAGE HEIGHTS

CHELAN - On August 6, Gov. Jay Inslee announced guidance for long term care facilities to offer visitation and other activities for residents and patients. Long term care facilities were required to limit visitation and curtail social activities for residents and visitors earlier this year due to COVID-19. Inslee was joined by Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) Secretary Cheryl Strange, DSHS Assistant Secretary Bill Moss, and Secretary of Health John Wiesman at a press conference for the announce-ment.

The plan goes into effect August 12, and even after it becomes effective, individual facilities must meet additional parameters related to staffing, PPE and testing prior to opening visitation. The plan includes a number of public health metrics that must be met in order for facilities to move through the phases. It is modeled after the Safe Start Plan.

"What this means for Heritage Heights is that family and friends may have outside visits with our residents," said Amanda Ballou, Heritage Heights' CEO. "We may welcome up to two visitors per resident per day." Because of the high level of community spread in the Chelan area, precautions must be taken. To limit the risk of exposure, the number of visitors is restricted to two-no groups. Masks must be worn and social distancing, of course. There is a log for visitors to sign outside the front door, requesting contact information. No inside visits are allowed. "Please do not enter the building for any reason," urged Ballou. "Essential healthcare workers only are permitted inside."

"We are happy that residents can now enjoy this personal contact with people who mean the most to them," Ballou said, "and we want to facilitate these important visits. We know that family and friends will be careful to protect their loved ones and the others who live here. The guidelines help us follow good safety practices."

Please direct any questions or concerns about the plan for visitation to Amanda Ballou at Heritage Heights 682-1998.

NCRL Virtual Reads hosts bestselling authors

BY MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

WENATCHEE - North Central Regional Library (NCRL) will host bestselling authors Ijeoma Oluo and Jason Reynolds as part of its August Virtual Reads summer series.

Oluo is the author of So You Want to Talk about Race, a book that NCRL Communications Manager Michelle McNeil describes as "a hard-hitting, user friendly examination of race in America."

Oluo will be featured via Zoom digital meeting platform at 7 p.m., Tuesday, August 18.

"The book guides readers of all races through subjects ranging from intersectionality and affirmative action to 'model minorities' in an attempt to make the seemingly impossible possible," said McNeil, "honest conversations about race and racism, and how they infest almost every aspect of American life."

Jason Reynolds

Reynolds is the award-winning and bestselling author of novels and poetry for young adult and middle age audiences and will be featured at 4 p.m., Tuesday, August 25.

Reynolds' books include the Track series (Ghost, Patina, Sunny, and Lu), Miles Morales: Spider-Man, Long Way Down, Look

Both Ways: A Tale Told in Ten Blocks, and most recently, Stamped: Racism, Anti-Racism, and You, co-authored with Ibram X. Kendi.

Reynolds is the current 2020-2021 National Ambassador for Young People's Literature.

"The goal of NCRL Virtual Reads is to bring communities together through reading the same book and hosting author events that spark conversations, curiosity, and learning," an NCRL media release said.

To participate in these NCRL Virtual Reads events, register at ncrl.org.

Books by Oluo and Reynolds are available on Overdrive and Hoopla, NCRL's digital library collections.

OBITUARY & MEMORIAL POLICIES

NCW MEDIA, INC.

An obituary is a way for family member(s) to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the larger community of the deceased. Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data.

Memorials are another way of letting the community know about the life and memories of the person who has died. A Memorial is different from an obituary. An obituary is usually current while a memorial can be written later.

Obituaries and memorials need to be typed and emailed no later than Friday by 4:00 p.m. to be placed in the next available issue(s). Please call for cost of an obituary and which NCW paper(s) that it will be placed in to.

Cost of the obituary/ memorial is due at the time of placement. Funeral homes and chapels can submit obituaries by Noon on Monday, unless a holiday.

Obituaries are priced per word while Memorial ads are per column-inch.

Scenic View Estates Mooring Buoy Project
Description of proposal: The City of Chelan received an application to install seven mooring buoys on their property at Lake Chelan. The purpose of this project is to provide access and safe use of the lake for recreational purposes. The proposed mooring buoys would provide private recreational use of the lake, including boating and fishing, as well as provide protection to the boats using them by providing safe moorage locations, away from the rocky shoreline, when they aren't in use.
Application Date: July 14th, 2020
Complete Application Date: August 6th, 2020
Notice of Application Date: August 6th, 2020
Applicant: Paul Wiggum, PO BOX 1064, Chelan, WA, 98816.

Mastering motion sickness

Several years ago, my husband's cousin and his wife invited us to join them on a 1-day cruise in Alaska, viewing Aialik Glacier, the largest tidewater glacier in Kenai Fjords National Park. Lunch was on board the ship and a lovely salmon and crab dinner at Fox Island awaited us on the way back.
We arrived at 9 am at the boat terminal through pouring rain, wind gusts that nearly knocked us over, and a temperature of 49 degrees Fahrenheit. The captain cancelled the cruise due to the weather, thank heavens. I wouldn't have enjoyed being tossed about on the boat, because I get motion sick.
Some people find acupressure helps their motion sickness. Wearing an elastic band around your wrist activates a particular pressure point, easing the nausea and discomfort. To give this medication-free approach a try, look for Sea Bands®.
Ginger can be an effective motion sickness remedy when you take 500mg to 1000mg of powdered root every 4-6 hours. Fresh ginger root, capsules of ground ginger, or small chunks of sweetened, crystallized ginger also work. My favorite form is crystallized ginger, which weighs twice as much as powdered ginger.
Weighing pieces of crystallized ginger with my little apothecary scale left over from pharmacy school, I have found the best results with chunks about the size of a full-strength aspirin tablet. Ginger ale, ginger tea, and gum don't have enough ginger to provide me reliable relief.
Dramamine® for motion sickness is a popular non-prescription remedy but watch out: it has two different formulations, the original one and a "less drowsy" formula.
The original version of Dramamine® contains dimenhydrinate, a close cousin of diphenhydramine or Benadryl®. Both dimenhydrinate and diphenhydramine can prevent motion sickness. Unfortunately, they also make you drowsy and need to be taken frequently.

The last time I took Dramamine® was on a flight home from Orlando to Seattle. After crossing 3 time zones going westbound, I lost track of time, and it wore off right when I needed it most.
Meclizine is my reliable motion sickness remedy. You can buy it 3 ways: Bonine®, Dramamine® Less Drowsy Formula, and generic meclizine tablets. I recommend the 25mg chewable tablets of meclizine unless your doctor advises you to take the 12.5mg tablets instead.
I never leave home without my chewable meclizine for motion sickness. It's inexpensive, is available as chewable flavored tablets, and rarely causes drowsiness. Best of all, one dose lasts 24 hours!
For more relief, try adding ginger or acupressure to meclizine. Avoid combining dimenhydrinate (the original Dramamine®) with either meclizine or Benadryl® (diphenhydramine) because together they can cause drowsiness, dry mouth, and constipation.
If meclizine or dimenhydrinate plus ginger and Sea-Bands® doesn't help you, ask your doctor about a prescription for scopolamine patches.
Scopolamine is a patch (Transderm Scop®) you wear behind your ear, each lasting for 2-3 days. Scopolamine patches are more potent at relieving motion sickness than non-prescription medicines, but they also cause more side effects.
Scopolamine can cause fatigue, blurred vision, dry mouth, constipation, and urinary retention. Talk to your medical provider about whether scopolamine would be a safe choice for you, especially if you have constipation.

Here are 5 Tips on Mastering Motion Sickness:
1. Face forward.
If possible, sit facing forward on cars, trains, boats, and roller coasters.
2. Keep cool.
Sit where you can get fresh air or a cool breeze. I find that getting too warm always makes my motion sickness worse, so I wear layers to avoid getting overheated.
3. Be prepared.
Motion sickness medicine takes a while to work and is best taken as a preventative. You should take or apply motion-sickness remedies at least 30 minutes before experiencing the motion of a boat, car, or plane. If you take a short-acting nausea medicine like ginger or dimenhydrinate (Dramamine®), always bring another dose with you. If your outing is delayed, you can re-dose before the first one wears off. (Trust me!)
4. Choose meclizine.
When picking out motion-sickness medicine, watch out! There are two formulas of the motion sickness medicine Dramamine®, always placed side by side on the shelf. I strongly recommend getting meclizine, sold as a generic version of Bonine® or the Dramamine® Less Drowsy Formula. Meclizine is just as effective but costs less than brand name versions.
5. Meclizine works for dogs, too.
If your dog gets carsick, meclizine can help. For most dogs, the dose is 25mg once daily; if your dog is small or already takes medication, please check with your veterinarian first.
