State mandates face masks for most public settings

By MIKE MALTAIS, STAFF WRITER

OLYMPIA - Effective Friday, June 26, Washington state residents and visitors are required to wear face coverings in most indoor and outdoor public settings to guard against the spread of the coronavirus per an order signed by state Secretary of Health John Wiesman.

The order applies to those:

- Inside of or in line to enter any indoor public space.
- Seeking health care services.
- Waiting for or riding public transportation.
- Outdoors and unable to remain six feet distant from others not in their household.

Exceptions to the above order include children under five years of age and people with medical or mental health conditions or disabilities that prevent the wearing a face covering.

Earlier in June state officials launched a program to make reusable cloth face coverings available for all low-income Washington residents. The state Emergency Management Division partnered with the Department of Enterprise Services to purchase 3.6 million cloth masks. The goal is to distribute two masks to every Washingtonian with an income below 200 percent of the federal poverty level ($52,400 for a family of four)

"In just two weeks, the state distributed nearly 2.8 million masks and is working on filling the remaining orders from local emergency management offices," a state Department of Health media release said.

The state delivers the masks to local emergency management offices which in turn allocates them to community and service organizations for distribution to individuals.

American Legion raises $1,328 for Lake Chelan Food Bank

SUBMITTED BY AMERICAN LEGION POST 108

CHELAN/MANSON - On Saturday, June 20 members of the American Legion, Post 108 held a food drive in Chelan and Manson to support the Lake Chelan Food Bank. The Manson American Legion has been active in our community since receiving their charter in 1923. Last year the Manson American Legion was honored with the "Community Recognition" award given out by the Manson Chamber of Commerce.

Thanks goes out to the Chelan IGA and the Manson Red Apple grocery stores for making space available for this important effort. Several boxes of perishable food were collected along with $1,328. Richard Springer, the Director of the Chelan Food Bank said, "We thank the American Legion for this amazing gift. This will provide food for many families struggling during these trying times. We live in a very special community where people are very kind and generous."

American Legion members taking shifts at the Chelan IGA store were Jim Young, Carole Hanson, Clyde McCullough and Jerry Ross. Members at the Manson Red Apple included Brian Strausbaugh, Dana Starkweather and Norm Manly.

Besides Richard Springer, serving as Director, the Lake Chelan Food Bank has a six-person Executive Board and many volunteers; there are no paid positions. They have a 501-c-3 status so all donations are tax deductible.

Because of the Coronavirus, the Food Bank is only open on Mondays through the end of June with the following rules:

- 9 a.m. start time.
- No validation required.
- No Registration.

Chelan Fire & Rescue to test activation of community siren on Wednesday, July 1

SUBMITTED BY CHELAN
FIRE & RESCUE

CHELAN - At noon on Wednesday, July 1 Chelan Fire and Rescue will be doing a test activation of its community siren. After floating the idea of creating community awareness going into a predicted bad fire season, we were met with overwhelming support from the community of reactivating the siren.

The siren will only activate when Chelan Fire and Rescue is on 2nd alarm or greater wildland or structure fires. In these situations, we have requested all available manpower and equipment from all 5 of our stations.

This will serve notice to the community to be prepared for a larger wildland fire that could potentially be threatening the safety of our citizens and visitors.

It also serves notice that there could be a delay in other responses due to having to break a truck away from the current emergency.

There will not be a week-ly test of the siren as we understand that it is loud and people may wonder what it is for.

After this Wednesday, if the siren goes off, take a quick look at your surroundings and look for smoke.

Every effort will be made to update our social media pages and other media partners with as accurately and timely of information as the emergency allows.

If you have any questions regarding this you can contact Station 71 at 509-682-4476.

NCRL to launch Virtual Summer Library Program on July 1

SUBMITTED BY NORTH
CENTRAL REGIONAL LIBRARY

NCW - North Central Regional Library is gearing up for its annual Summer Library Program.

The library's primary goal for this program is to encourage pleasure reading among all ages across North Central Washington. This year, NCRL has shifted plans for the program to an entirely virtual platform to engage all ages of patrons with fun, enriching online programs and opportunities.

"Our Summer Reading Program has become such an integral part of what we do to support children, families and schools in our communities that we had to continue to find a creative way to accomplish this," said NCRL Executive Director Barbara Walters. "We know that kids, teens and adults who have grown to love this program will get so much out of the creative programs that we've planned, and we're excited that a whole new audience might be able to engage with their library through the virtual content."

The Summer Library Program will run from July 1 to Aug. 31. The free online programming will include reading challenges, fun enrichment activities, virtual programming, book recommendations, engaging content on NCRL's website and social media channels, and much more for children, teens and adults.

It will feature NCRL Virtual Reads, an author series for teens and adults, as well as Humanities Washington presenters, weekly story times, yoga classes, STEM demonstrations, a magic show, and more.

As always, the summer library program is designed to build reading skills, prevent summer learning loss and prepare children for a successful school year, as well as promote family togetherness by providing engaging activities for all ages.

To sign up and learn more, visit www.ncrl.org/slp and follow North Central Regional Library on Facebook.

barriers to accessing the technology. Anyone can drive or walk within the range and access the internet while complying with any social distancing guidelines that are in place in their community.

"The stay home order has highlighted the crucial role that internet connectivity plays in all of our daily lives," said Barbara Walters, Executive Director of NCRL. "Just as the pandemic closed library buildings that were the source of internet service for many people in our communities, the need for internet access grew exponentially. Among those relying on libraries for digital access are people experiencing homelessness and poverty, older adults, and students. They use the library's broadband and Wi-Fi to apply for jobs, complete school work, connect with health care providers, communicate via email, find information, and conduct business."

All of the district's libraries already offer free Wi-Fi inside. Equipment to expand the range of the service will be installed over the next several weeks.

The opportunity to expand Wi-Fi access directly addresses a key objective in the library district's 2019-2021 Strategic Plan, which strives to ensure access to broadband and current technologies. When the plan was adopted, broadband use in its five-county service area was 47.7 percent, compared to 65.2 percent statewide. In 2019, the wireless internet at NCRL's libraries was used almost a half a million times.

"While recognizing that libraries can't be the only answer to this problem, we are a key part of the solution," Walters said. "The lack of broadband access in rural communities is a long-term problem that affects everyone."

Square Dance at the Orchard in Stehekin has been canceled for 2020

SUBMITTED BY BUCKER
HOMESTEAD HERITAGE FOUNDATION

STEHEKIN - With considerable regret, the Foundation Board has voted to cancel this year's Square Dance at the Orchard. With restrictions in place for controlling Covid-19, there are a number of entities, other than our organization, that impact our ability to hold events. In making this decision, we conferred with the National Park Service and our insurance broker, and reviewed the Washington Phased Approach to Reopening, as well as the cancellation policies of lodging establishments in Stehekin, with the following results:

• The NPS North Cascades Complex is currently closed, and reopening is unknown as to when or to what degree. (The Buckner Orchard is a National Park Service Property.)

• Chelan County is currently in Phase I of reopening and could possibly move to Phase II in June.

• Phase Four is necessary for events of this size (50 people) to occur, and its questionable we will be there by August 1.

• Our special use permit for the event, if we're not at Phase Four, will be canceled.

• Our insurance coverage for the event, which will not cover anything Covid-19 related.

• Square dancing is literally the antithesis of social distancing.

• Cancellation should be made in a timely fashion so as to allow the band and others adequate time to cancel reservations at Stehekin lodgings and rentals, should they choose to do so.

• Appropriate timing of the cancellation will allow Stehekin businesses more time to re-book the vacated rooms.

• Organizational liability is of concern.

Harvest Fest will need to be dealt with at a later date, as circumstances closer to the October event unfold. This decision will likely need to be made in mid-August.

Edward Maher was born in 1933 to Lucy and 'Big Ed' and was the youngest of three children. He was preceded in death by his brother Bill Maher and survived by his sister Jackie Grayum.

graduated from Seattle Prep in 1951 and from the University of Washington in 1956. While at the UW he was a member of Fraternity FIJI - Phi Gamma Delta.

He was married to Annie Newton in 1956 and they lived in various parts of the U.S. including Seattle where he built his first house, until 1971 when he shocked one and all and moved his family to Great Barrier Island, New Zealand. His time in New Zealand was focused on furthering his career as an artist.

He was remarried in 1981 to Helen Mason and he designed and built a beautiful and unusual hexagon house where they lived in The Bay of Islands.

Ed was a pilot and a navigator for refueling jets in the Air Force, a licensed architect, a jazz pianist who performed all over the world, an artist who exhibited internationally, and a corporate consultant for Boeing, as a leading member of the Engineering Leadership Program.

If you asked Ed what he did for work, he always answered "I'm an artist", but he is remembered by many as one of the brightest and most innovative organizational leaders.

Ed always had a special connection with Eastern Washington, living for many years in Lake Chelan before retiring in the Methow Valley. He first came to the Methow when he played jazz piano at Sun Mountain Lodge and it was in Mazama that he settled and found great joy in visiting the Mazama Store, eating at Glover Street Market, meditating at Falls Creek, and appreciating all the natural beauty at his doorstep.

Ed is survived by his five children, Jeff Maher, Julie Maher, Chris Maher, Laura Clenna, Geva McAdow and his seven grandchildren.

A celebration of life will be held later this summer. Online condolences may be made to the family at www.brooksidefuneral.com.

TEE TIME

SUBMITTED BY SHERRY FISK, LAKE CHELAN LADIES GOLF CLUB TEE TIME

At the end of the 19th century men were working hard to come up with ways to keep lady golfers in check. It was even decreed by a Scottish Lord that women were not allowed to hit the ball any further than 60-70 yards. It had something to do with "looking ungraceful in female dress". Thank goodness, those days are behind us as 25 ladies showed up to swing away in the warm Chelan sunshine last Thursday, June 25. All of us graceful, of course, and hitting it way farther than Lord What's His Name ever thought possible.

The competition was ALL Fours (total of all par 4's less 1/2 your handicap). The winners were:

Division 1: First-place, Linda Hahn, 38.5. Second-place, April Talley, 41.

Division 2: There was a First-place tie between Karen Holst and Sherry Fisk, 44.5.

Division 3: First-place, Nancy Parker, 41. Second-place, Karen Erickson, 41.5. Conditions were perfect today or "we're just that good" as there were 5 birdies made today: April Talley and Sherry Fisk on hole 12, Candace Farnsworth on hole 13, Jaelyn Starr-Evans on hole 18 and Maggie Stalcup on hole 11.

The chip-in pot was divided into fifths today. Jane Storms was the big winner with 2 chip-ins on holes 4 and 10. April Talley on hole 4, Mary Jo DuRuz on hole 15 and Jaelyn Starr-Evans on hole 18.

After golf, we had a "socially distanced" club meeting in the parking lot down by the cart barn. Each player in their own cart in a giant circle; kind of a modern-day wagon train circling the "wagons" and keeping 6 feet apart.

Next week's (July 2) competition is Monthly Medal (low gross and net by division and fewest putts).

Please note that our tee time changes next week to 8 a.m. Please check in by 7:30 a.m. and don't forget to wear your masks into the clubhouse.

Perfect timing for education, tax reform

The Coronavirus pandemic may be the perfect time for the United States to embark on a long overdue reform of the education system, both public and private. It is simply because this is the first time in modern history, even predating the Spanish Influenza pandemic of 100 years ago, that the country can make an honest appraisal of the inherent value of forcing kids to endure Kindergarten through 12th grade learning while schools are inactive nationwide.

Why should taxpayers without kids in school be forced to pay tax based on a school district's levies?

Why should those taxpayers with children younger than 5-years-old be forced to do the same? I would propose a "pay to play" program wherein each family is taxed by the school district they live in based on the children actually in public school and only if they are in a public school.

APPLES TO APPLES
Gary Bégin

Those with parochial or private school enrollments would be exempted from paying taxes for the public system.

Millions of our children and grandchildren are currently being home schooled or they are hooked into the internet to access school work. Children in households that cannot afford computers can utilize the public library or school district computers.

This idea is a "twofer" as it makes the public library system meaningful again and justifies its use of tax dollars as well as eliminates any special stipends for "poor" families without computers. It's a win-win because the constant need for newer, bigger, modernized public schools will be put on hold and some valuable buildings and land may actually be placed back into real estate inventories to be used by business and community enterprises.

School Districts, as do many special districts with taxing authority, have the bad habit of using folks who own homes as the never-ending deep pocket for imposing new and always bigger levies for public schools. It is obvious people attempting to realize their own American dream are being punished for being successful by those who contribute nothing to the common good.

Our Capitalist Democracy should not be imposing taxation without representation on homeowners each time it thinks it needs more money for public schools when many people who own homes have no kids in school or anything to do with the system where the money is being spent. Nor do I believe taxpayers who actually work have the time, energy or desire to be forced to attend school board meetings just to make sure the district they are in isn't merely stealing money for nefarious reasons - like the building of a seven million dollar "plastic" football field.

Sports may only be a minuscule part of the overall budget, but not every child or parent gives a rat's pittute about carrying a pigskin as if it were the Ark of the Covenant.

To summarize, no tax for those without kids in public school. Home schooled children need only pass the appropriate tests to graduate and attend whatever college will accept them. Ditto for private school kids. Focus education on the three R's like they used to be - reading, writing and arithmetic. Add in the sciences and you almost have STEM.

Free the homeowners from taxation without representation. Free us from the bondage of forever paying for public schools.

Free the millions of dollars being wasted on so-called "free" education.

Freedom isn't free, but neither is the lie of free public education. We need to reform education and free millions of dollars across this great nation for other uses.

I can't end this column without also mentioning vocational training. Upon reaching 8th Grade, students, via their parents, must decide on vocational training or traditional "book" learning (or perhaps a hybrid of both) with an 11th Grade graduation in either case. Eliminating 12th grade would save millions in every school district. In our hyper-competitive society, giving the young a faster start in achieving career and personal goals is vital.

Once graduated the choice is simple: Industry sponsored apprenticeship programs, work, college or military. College is reserved for those with proven aptitudes, not as a God-given right. The military trains people and pays them at the same time - a win-win.

Apprenticeship programs typically issue a certificate, which in many cases can be used on job applications nationwide.

Of course the military option is my choice. It shows a selflessness, a patriotism and a chance to travel the world that no other option can offer. The only problem is: How much do you love your country? In the words of John Fitzgerald Kennedy, our 35th President of these United States, Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country.

In all honesty, this decision could cost your life.

It's the air you share that could spread COVID-19

MALCOLM BUTLER MD
CHIEF MEDICAL OFFICER, CVCH
HEALTH OFFICER, CHELAN DOUGLAS HEALTH DISTRICT

Malcolm Butler MD, Chief Medical Officer, CVCH

I was speaking with my neighbor the other day, whose age makes him both wise and at high risk should he contract COVID-19. I was wearing a mask - he was not. "Yeah, I don't do that," he said. I thought, "He must not understand how the COVID-19 virus is transmitted, because if he did, I think he would wear a mask."

He went on to say, "The science around this changes all of the time, so who are you supposed to trust?" As a scientist, I am ok with some uncertainty as we learn more about diseases. For instance, it was believed that ulcers were caused by stress - now we know that they are largely an infectious disease. It's the nature of scientific discovery that our "mental model" of how the world works evolves over time. The nature of how we understand COVID-19 is continuously evolving, which is normal and correct - and clearly frustrating.

When the pandemic began, scientists believed it was similar to influenza. We know a great deal about influenza. The last great pandemic involved influenza. It was a natural place to start. Influenza is spread by droplets, and COVID-19 is spread by droplets, so we deployed influenza-type strategies of hand washing and hygiene, wiping down surfaces, social distancing, etc. When that wasn't enough, we used more draconian measures that included stay home orders and closing all but essential businesses.

Now we understand how COVID-19 is NOT like influenza; let me explain.

COVID-19 seems to fit the "eighty-twenty rule" of biology. 80% of the disease is caused by 20% of the transmission. Here's how that 20% works with this virus.

Imagine a keyhole, and only a specific shape can fit through that hole. The COVID-19 virus has a specific shape and must land on a specific keyhole to pass through the lining of your nose, mouth, or lungs and into your bloodstream. These keyholes are spread out randomly. So, it takes multiple hits for a virus to infect you. If you are peppered with enough virus, eventually one will land on the keyhole, pass through and cause an infection. The total volume of virus that peppers your system is the key. How much time you are in contact with an infected person and it is difficult. Very small droplets float around for a long time, but don't contain many viruses, and aren't that infectious.

So, what about medium sized droplets? Medium sized droplets carry medium volumes of virus. And here is the key: medium sized droplets float around long enough to start to evaporate off their water. As the water evaporates, they turn into small droplets that can float around all day. But instead of carrying just a small volume of virus, these dried-out medium-sized droplets contain a medium volume of virus. They become concentrated "super-infectors."

Outside, humans don't share much air. Floating droplets dissipate, and we are all pretty safe. Inside, with minimal air movement, we share a lot of air, and receive multiple hits from virus-laden droplets. Thus, carpooling with extended family for celebrations like birthday parties, or even gathering in someone's living room for a memorial service, with singing and sobbing, are more dangerous.

This is why wearing a mask is so important. I must confess that at first the whole universal masking thing made no sense to me. As a physician I have been trained to use a mask in a very specific way to avoid transmitting something like Tuberculosis from one patient room to another when working in a hospital. Universal masking violates my medical training. So how could it work?

In China and Italy and New York City - all of the hotspots - the curves finally started to bend only after universal masking was imposed. Why?

Masks, even cloth masks, retain the biggest droplets and those nasty medium sized droplets. Only the small droplets that aren't very infectious can get through. When an infected person wears a mask, and remember that you are most infectious before you even start to feel sick, the total volume of virus floating around in the air that we share is dramatically reduced. Because 80% of infections come from droplets floating around in the air, the simple act of wearing a mask is enough to stop the pandemic spread. How I wish we had known that in March.

It turns out that in COVID-19, masking is the next best thing to a vaccine. And probably nobody reading this will receive a vaccine before June of 2021.

Many say, "You cannot make me wear a mask." That is true, but why wouldn't you want to? You wear a mask to protect those around you, to beat the pandemic, to keep the economy open. Just like not smoking in restaurants or speed limits - they exist as public health interventions that make sense. I hope with a better understanding of how COVID-19 is transmitted, wearing a mask will make sense too.

Reminders: Don't stop washing your hands and don't start touching your face. You can still contract COVID-19 from droplets on surfaces.

Eighty percent of COVID-19 appears to be transmitted through the air - the air you share.

Leaving a legacy gift without updating your will

By BEN MCNAIR,
FINANCIAL PLANNER,
DRAGGOO FINANCIAL GROUP

Looking for a method of leaving a legacy gift without spending the time and energy of updating your will or estate plan? Look no further than your qualified retirement plan (IRAs, 401(k)s, 403(b)s, etc.) or permanent life insurance policies.

These assets both allow the owner to designate a beneficiary (or multiple beneficiaries) that bypasses the probate process and takes precedent over wills or other estate planning documents, and updating a beneficiary is as easy as requesting a beneficiary change form from your financial or insurance advisor.

Retirement Plan

For many of my clients their IRA is one of their largest liquid assets. They've spent years contributing to them and enjoying the tax benefits they provide.

Many of my clients also find that, once they've reached retirement, they are not as dependent on the income the IRA can provide than they thought they would be, and simply withdraw the minimums required each year after reaching age 70 ½.

In many cases this means there will be money left over in the IRA once the owner passes away. These assets can be passed on to the next generation, but at a cost, as IRA assets are taxable to a beneficiary and may face additional estate taxes depending on the size of the owner's overall estate.

By making a qualified charity the beneficiary of an IRA, the owner can deduct the amount from their overall estate, and the balance will pass to the charity free of taxation. This allows the IRA owner to not only make an impact on their community, but also gives them the flexibility to pass on other, more tax efficient assets to their heirs. This same strategy can also be applied to qualified and non-qualified deferred annuity contracts.

Life Insurance

Permanent life insurance policies are another asset that can easily be updated to create a legacy gift. Life insurance is put into place as a form of protection. Policies are purchased to protect our families from a premature death where the death benefit is intended to provide income replacement and the liquidity to pay off debts.

If you have had the good fortune to live a long life and find you no longer need the insurance policies for their original intent, updating the beneficiary to your charity of choice will provide a legacy gift at your passing. Life insurance death benefits are generally paid tax-free, and this would certainly be true if a charitable organization were the beneficiary of the policy.

It is important to note that the owner of a qualified retirement plan, deferred annuity contract, or life insurance policy may name more than one beneficiary. If the owner would still like some money to be passed on to their heirs, they can name both the heirs and a charity.

While these beneficiary updates are as simple as completing a form or two, an owner should still consider any estate planning that may already be in place and ensure the changes would still coordinate with that existing planning.

Remember that your named beneficiary can be as broad or as specific as you choose. The Community Foundation of NCW manages hundreds of charitable funds that benefit specific nonprofits or scholarships, general "fields of interest," and of course endowed funds that will give back forever. For more information, call 509-663-7716 or visit www.cfncw.org.

What is your legacy?

Provide for your family and future generations. Leave a gift to your community, forever.

Skin care during Covid-19

Ahh... It feels SO GOOD to take off my mask. With COVID, I wear mine at least 8 hours every day. Putting it on as I cross the parking lot to the clinic to start work, I only take it off for lunch or short breaks. To protect my family, patients, and co-workers, I always wear a mask whenever I step out of my car until I arrive home again.
 I tend to have dry hands since I wash them frequently and thoroughly at work. Since wearing a mask during this COVID pandemic, my hands started feeling more sensitive and dry. When I asked my nursing co-workers if they had noticed anything different about their hands, most of them nodded their heads. They agreed that their hands had seemed drier and more irritated recently.
 Our hands started getting drier because we were sanitizing our hands more often.
 In addition to washing our hands with soap and water or using alcohol-based gels at work, we sanitized our hands OUTSIDE of work and errands at the grocery store and other public places.
 Sanitizing your hands can dry out your skin, whether by washing with soap and water, using hand sanitizer gels, or disinfecting hand wipes. Washing your hands causes more skin dryness than using hand sanitizers because soap and water strip away the natural oils on the surface of your skin. Using alcohol-based hand sanitizer gel or wipes will also dry out your skin due to the contact with alcohol, which is drying.
 How can we combat dry skin?
 We can ease our dry skin by adding moisture to it, both inside and outside.
 Drinking more water helps ease dry skin. Since I began wearing a mask all day at work, I had stopped drinking water during the day because I couldn't do it without first taking off my mask.
 The first thing I needed to do is to start drinking water again. Now I make it a habit to have less coffee and more plain water. I sip water on my way to and from work and drink on every break. As long as I drink most of my water by 5 pm, I don't have to get up in the middle of the night.
 I have always used hand lotion frequently, but my dry hands needed MORE.
 Moisturizers can help relieve dry skin from the outside. Lotions, creams, and ointments work by softening your skin cells and by trapping moisture in the top layer of your skin.
 Your body loses water all day long through sweat and evaporation. Your body continuously gives off water vapor through your skin's pores, not just when you sweat. The thicker and "greasier" your moisturizer, the better it blocks this ongoing evaporation of water from your skin and traps water in your skin, moisturizing it.

 Moisturizers are available as lotions, creams, ointments, or "body butter". Lotions are more liquid and less moisturizing than creams. The thicker and more "greasy" the moisturizer, the more it traps moisture. Ointments or body butters relieve dry skin the best.
 Moisturizers often contain compounds that encourage water to stay on your skin like lactic acid, salicylic acid, glycerin, urea, and ammonium lactate.
 Moisturizers containing ceramides can be especially helpful. Ceramides are found in high concentrations in healthy skin and lower concentrations in inflamed or dry skin. One moisturizer featuring these ceramides is CeraVe®.
One Important Tip:
 When applying a moisturizer after sanitizing with an alcohol-based gel or wipe, let your skin dry completely first. Otherwise, instead of trapping water next to your skin, you'll trap alcohol, creating skin irritation and dryness instead!
 For me, drinking more water and changing from lotion to CeraVe® cream soothed my dry hands. What about you?
 Here are 4 Tips for Relieving Dry Skin:
 1. Keep your body well hydrated.
 If you drink most of your fluids in the early part of the day, you'll be less likely to get up at night.
 2. Shower and bathe with warm, not hot water.
 Using hot water encourages water loss from the skin. Bathing or showering with lukewarm water is better to avoid drying out your skin.
 3. Pat skin almost dry before applying moisturizer.
 Apply moisturizer to damp skin within 10 minutes of your bath or shower or immediately after washing your hands.
 4. When sanitizing with alcohol gel, let hands dry FIRST before applying moisturizer.
 After using alcohol-based sanitizing gels, let your hands dry completely before applying any moisturizer to avoid trapping alcohol against your skin.
