Three car accident on Beebe Bridge closes bridge

Editors note: This story has been corrected from what appeared in print in our Dec. 4 edition.

CHELAN - A three car accident on Sunday, Dec. 1 at 12:55 p.m. closed the Beebe Bridge for several hours and sent two people to medical facilities. Gray E. Jensen of Woodinville was driving south-bound over the bridge when he lost control and struck the bridge to the left, then crossed over the centerline and struck vehicle two driven by Susan Bales of Auburn head on. Vehicle three, driven by Jose Mendoza of Chelan Falls was unable to stop and struck vehicle two. All vehicles came to rest blocking both lanes of the bridge.

Jensen was uninjured and has been charged with speeds to fast for condition. Bales was transported by aid to Lake Chelan Community Hospital. Emilyiris McCraigie, 5, of Auburn, a passenger in vehicle two, was airlifted to Harborview.

Holly Libbey of Chelan Falls and Joseph Mogan of Manson were passengers in vehicle three. They were not injured.

Teen Center Celebrates 20 year anniversary

By Vicki Carr, Teen Center-LCUMC Liaison

CHELAN - The Lake Chelan Valley Teen Center has been in operation for 20 years in the Fireplace Room of the Lake Chelan United Methodist Church.

A celebration party was held at Harmony Meadows in rural Manson on Saturday, Nov. 16. Appetizers and other refreshments were served in the beautifully decorated, lovely venue from 6-8 p.m. The Kevin Jones Band opened and closed the evening's activities.

RuthEdna Keys/LCM

The Teen Center, hosted by Lake Chelan United Methodist Church recently celebrated their 20 years in operation with a celebration party at Harmony Meadows in Manson.

Attendees were even dressed up for the occasion.

Thrive Chelan Valley's executive director, Kayla Helleson, welcomed guests and then introduced Jacque DePaoli, a member of Thrive's board of directors. Jacque gave the 70 or so guests a rundown on the beginnings and early history of the Teen Center. Paul Palumbo and several other original Teen Center organizers and enthusiasts were on hand to hear Jacque's accolades.

Two replacement levies placed on Feb. 11 ballot

Information submitted by LAKE CHELAN SCHOOL DISTRICT

The Lake Chelan School Board of Directors passed two resolutions, Tuesday, Nov. 26 placing a two-year Educational Programs and Operation Levy and a four-year Capital Projects Technology Levy on the Chelan County Feb. 11

These ballot measures will not result in new taxes, if approved, both propositions would replace the expiring Maintenance and Operations Levy and the Technology Levy. The two resolutions were approved at the Nov. 26 school board meeting following the recent Levy Forum which was open to the staff and the community.

Unlike Bond measures which are earmarked primarily for new construction, Levies support learning, resources and maintenance and operations. Simply put, Levies are for learning and bonds are for building. Levies require a 50 percent simple majority to pass, while bonds require a 60 percent super majority. Like a subscription, levies must be renewed with the approval of voters or funding will be lost.

1. Replacement Two-year Education Programs and Operations Levy

The Replacement Educational Programs and Operations (EP&O) Levy, formerly known as the Maintenance and Operations Levy (M&O) was approved in 2015.

The EP&O Levy is the amount of tax collected that provides the difference between what the State funds for education and the level of services that the Lake Chelan School District provides for their students.

This replacement levy will continue the necessary local support and will be at a slightly lower tax rate due to increases in property assessment. EP&O Levy funds ensure that our District's quality educational programs continue in safe, well maintained and clean schools.

Chelan's EP & O levy funding accounts for approximately 16 percent of the district's total budget and either fully or partially supports the following essential programs and opera-

· Academic Programs & Classroom Support: Early Learning and College in the HS Courses, Curriculum Materials, Stem Learning Initiatives, Highly Capable and Career & Technology Education Programs, the Chelan School of Innovation and intervention programs.

 Enrichment Activities & Programs: Athletics, After's Program at the elementary and middle school, High School Club Programs and programs in the music, art and drama departments.

• Opportunities: HS schedule

that creates opportunities for acceleration, exploration and remediation

 Maintenance & Operations: Includes funding for custodial and food service staff, equipment and supplies

The proposed EP&O levy is for two years, 2020-21 and 2021-22. The current voter approved amount scheduled to be collected this year (2019) is $3,454,709. The tax rate is $1.28 per $1,000 of assessed property value. The amounts proposed are: 2020 - $3,539,532 ($1.25 per $1000) and 2021: $3,608,822 ($1.22 per $1000).

2. Replacement Four-year Capital Projects Technology

The four-year Technology replacement levy sustains the one-to-one computer initiative for students as well as supporting the replacement of aging computers, printers, servers and document cameras along with staff training. In addition, these levy dollars assist in offering online courses and opportunities, school technician specialists to maintain the network, upgrades of wireless internet capabilities, safety and efficiency software for school bus operations, continued upgrades to district websites and social media platforms, emergency alert systems and other e-communications. Again, this is not a new tax, it extends the current technology levy through 2024.

The proposed Technology levy is for four years, 2021-2024. This capital replacement levy will collect a fixed amount of dollars each year (this amount does not fluctuate with assessed value changes). The current voter approved amount scheduled to be collected this year is $250,000; the tax rate is $.0929 cents per $1,000. This levy will generate the following rates per $1000 of assessed property value:

2021: $.0885 cents $.0842 cents

2023: $.0802 cents $.0764 cents

For additional information please visit the Lake Chelan School District website at chelanschoools.org or contact the school district (682-3515). The district will be mailing a comprehensive informational flyer early in January.

Citizens sought for resource advisory committee

SUBMITTED BY USFS

WENATCHEE - The Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest is looking for nominees to fill seven vacancies on its 15-member Resource Advisory Committee (RAC).

"We have been very fortunate to have worked with wonderful RAC members over the years, we are now in a situation where some of their terms have expired leaving vacancies on the committee," said Deputy Forest Supervisor Erick Walker. "We hope to receive enough applications to fill these vacancies so the RAC can continue to help serve local communities through their work in selecting and recommending projects for funding"

The RAC consists of members representing a wide array of interests. RAC members review proposed Secure Rural Schools Self-Determination Act Title II projects to benefit national forest lands in Chelan, Okanogan, Kittitas, and Yakima Counties and make recommendations for priorities for funding those projects. Committee members are sought who are committed to working collaboratively with other interests for the long-term benefit of national forest system

The seven vacancies are in positions representing:

-- energy and mineral development or commercial or recreational fishing groups -- archaeological and historical interests -- commercial timber indus-

-- dispersed recreation activi-

-- affected public at large -- organized labor or nontimber forest product harvester

-- Nationally recognized wild horse and burro interest, wildlife interests, hunting organizations, or watershed associations

Membership on a RAC calls for a commitment of time and energy. Generally, there are three to four meetings held each year at the forest headquarters office in Wenatchee. Committee members serve a four-year term without compensation, but may be reimbursed for travel and per diem expenses. In addition to a pre-meeting review of proposed projects, a project monitoring field trip may be scheduled during the summer or fall months

Members must reside within extent practicable within the RAC boundary. The geographic boundaries of the RACs are aligned with National Forest boundaries, and for the Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest, they include lands within Okanogan, Chelan, Kittitas, and Yakima Counties. To obtain an

Washington State, and to the application packet or additional information, please contact Robin DeMario, Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest, 215 Melody Lane, Wenatchee, WA 98801, phone 509-664-9292.

Completed application packets should be submitted as soon as possible, preferably prior to December 18. "Once we have a pool of candidates, their names are sent to the Secretary of Agriculture to consider for appointment to the RAC," Walker

RAC application forms may also be obtained from the forest's web site at https://go.usa. gov/xQuAy. Information about Secure Rural Schools Self-Determination Act is located on the Pacific Northwest Region Forest Service web site at https://go.usa.gov/xQuAn. Nominees will be evaluated based on their education, training, and experience working with the interest area they represent, their knowledge of the geographic area covered by the RAC, their demonstrated commitment to collaborative resource decision-making and their contribution to the balance and diversity of the RAC. Letters of support from the interest to be represented are helpful, but are not required.

junior year of high school. His mentor and the adults he came in contact with at the Teen Center helped him get his focus back. Then Sarah introduced the person she had been talking about.

Mario Gonzales came to the party from Spokane where he is a freshman at Whitworth College. His quiet humble demeanor, his modesty over winning the $10,000 Joe Harris Jr. scholarship when named Student of the Year, his sincere expressions of gratitude for having the Teen Center as a place to go where caring adults talked things over with him--all underscored the importance that the Teen Center has had for Lake Chelan Valley secondary students.

Guests at the party had received tickets for door prizes, and many special prizes were awarded. The evening ended with another hour of music and socializing. It was a wonderful celebration and Teen Center manager, Travis Farrar, was center stage as Mario and others congratulated him on his long and productive years of service at the Teen Center. Travis states matterof-factly, "Well, this is what I am supposed to do. . . "

Members and friends of the Lake Chelan United Methodist Church are grateful for the opportunity to host the Teen Center, to be friends and benefactors of secondary students in the Lake Chelan Valley.

Apartment development planned on West Okanogan Avenue

I'm reaching out in and effort to be sure that residents and citizens of Chelan are aware of a proposed residential apartment development being planned on West Oka-nagon Ave. While the property is zoned Tourist Accommodations the Campbell's have said they are currently planning to build residential apartments to assist with the housing shortage in Chelan.

The city of Chelan planning department in keeping with state law was only required to send notifications of the application to residents that reside within 300 feet of the project. Which isn't very many, so I think that everyone should be aware and have an opportunity to participate in the process if they chose to. Unfortunately (again state law) only requires a few weeks for written comments to be submitted regarding concerns people have surrounding the environmental impacts, a development of this size will have on our city, and our very quiet neighborhood.

All of the documents, including the SEPA report, are on record at the city of Chelan and with a records request can be obtained.

Much has changed in 20 years of local newspaper ownership

My wife and I purchased The Leavenworth Echo, Cashmere Valley Record and Lake Chelan Mirror in Sept. of 2000. At the time many in the industry looked at newspapers as a dying industry. Many still do.

It is true that today nearly every business has a website and many rely on "Social Media" to promote their business. As a result, much of the revenue that supported newspapers in the past has drifted away.

It sometimes takes awhile for us to recognize how changes in our environment have impacted us. Newspapers are no different. The reality is that contrary to popular belief the Internet does not spell the end of newspapers. In fact, the Internet is the best thing that could have happened to local community newspapers like ours

That is a bold statement so let me tell you why I believe it to be true.

First, there is nothing the Internet can provide that your local community newspaper can't provide in a timely and often more accurate manner. Each of our newspapers has its own website. Those websites give us powerful new tools to bring you the news.

Here are just a few examples: Those websites give us immediacy. In other words, we no longer have to wait a week to tell you what happened. Important breaking news stories can be posted to our websites just as quickly as any other web based site.

Since we actually live here we know facts about the community that are not immediately evident to reporters based outside the area.

A printed newspaper is limited by printing costs and space. Advertising still pays the bills. So the number of available pages depends totally on the volume of advertising we have in each issue. Currently, our print editions run at about 50% paid advertising, so 4 pages of advertising would dictate an 8-page paper. Our websites do not have those same limitations.

We cannot show a video in the print edition, and with limitations on advertising we usually have little room for more than 1 photo to go with each story. Our websites are not limited by the cost or limitations of paper.

Our websites all have video capability and image galleries that contain multiple photos of activities like high school sporting events.

It is true that our websites are not totally free. Like you, we still have bills to pay including salaries for staff, rent, postage and printing costs.

We could eliminate postage and printing by going to a completely digital newspaper, but while our online subscriptions are growing at double digit rates, our print subscribers remain pretty constant. There may come a day when print no longer exceeds the digital audience and at that point changes may need to be made. But I fully expect that day will be long after I am gone from the publishing business.

In the meantime the websites offer another important tool for evaluating what is most important to our readers. In the past deciding what to cover was mostly based on the local publisher's impressions of the community. But with our websites every story we post online keeps a record of how many times it was read. Checking those statistics is sometimes a little surprising.

For example, we always assume that the most important stories for our local community are those written by local staff. But in checking story statistics over the last year the most read story was a press release about important things to do to insure your child's safety on their way to school.

Our focus for local news has always been, City Council, School Board and High School Sports. Those stories seem to only be important to about 1/3 of our website readers unless they are about a very controversial local issue.

So, what is important to our readers? In the past year local political news was important. Generally speaking candidate profiles drew 50-60 percent of our readership. And the winning candidates in the last election drew larger readership numbers on our website than their opponents.

Local entertainment news and events drew larger readership than nearly all other hard news stories. That is interesting because our local entertainment groups are poor advertisers. We are planning on taking a new approach here.

High School Sports has a small but loyal following. Generally tracking at about 15% of our audience. We plan to make some changes in this effort as well by trying to focus more on sports statistics and not play-by-play analysis of the games.

Finally, the question of my personal opinion column came up recently. After listening to my latest critic, I went back and checked the online stats about my columns. I was prepared to drop the column based on a challenge from my critic that I would have more readers if I eliminated my column. The problem is that according to the website my columns have had consistently higher readership than any other story posted on the website - often exceeding the total unique audience count as determined by Google.

The Internet is the best thing to happen to small newspapers like mine. Because of what we have learned we will be making numerous changes in the months ahead. After 20 years it is time for a fresh look.

I welcome your suggestions about how to make the paper more relevant to you. After all, it is your community newspaper.

Americans vote every day of the week

Now that the formal elections are over, American consumers and B2B companies ought to start another form of election: Voting with your wallets, but with a purpose.

If a product is made in a country you might despise for whatever reason, don't

If a business is contracted to one or more nefarious organizations, don't use that business.

You have the right to discriminate. Doing that as a business is illegal, but you as an individual with inalienable rights per our Constitution have the power to shop where you want.

There is no legal obligation to shop where the government tells you to shop. As a caveat to that, I must advise caution. You may be shunned for not towing the line. You might become estranged because of the actions of friends and relatives.

You may become indignant when it becomes understood that all of life is political and free speech is only free to those that delight in what is being said.

The speaker of these platitudes, however, isn't necessarily a mere lapdog of those that feed him. Occasionally the bringer of the future, audio/visual version, reveals and revels in his own funk, the background that sent him to the podium in the first place.

Praise God we still have a few Americans who speak without the filter of status quo acceptable terminology.

Having blurred any clarity I might have created, let me explain the easiest way to tell a liberal from a conservative?

They (American Veterans) have never forgotten nor forgiven her. Last month she was a guest star on the CNN Van Jones Show. As soon as I heard that and the audience applauding loudly, I changed the station.

I am not afraid to watch many different points of view, but it is hard for me to forgive her when I or my loved ones are subjected to a mockery of their impending death, not just physically, but also as an idea of who we were and what we stood for and why our legacy shouldn't be ignored or laughed at by those who never gave themselves unselfishly to their country as have Veterans.

Santa's Stars program seeking monetary donation

CHELAN - Once again, the Santa's Stars program will be looking to help less fortunate kids from the communities of Chelan, Entiat and Manson, by giving them the opportunity to shop for Christmas gifts for themselves and their families.

The event will start off with Chelan County Fire District 7 cooking up a pancake breakfast on Dec. 10. The kids will then be teamed up with a Law Enforcement, Firefighter or EMT and will embark on their shopping adventure.

Want to sponsor a child? Each child will be given a $100 gift card to spend on themselves and their family members. The Santa's Star program is currently accepting donations in the form of $100 Walmart Gift Cards. Other monetary gifts are also welcome. They will also be looking to help each family with groceries, to ensure they have a warm Christmas dinner.

Edward A. Venneberg

Edward A. Venneberg, 80, died Saturday, November 16, 2019 at his winter home in Sun City West, AZ.

He leaves behind his son, Terry Venneberg and his wife, Jan Venneberg; his daughter, Lori Venneberg and her wife, Rozlyn Rouse; his son, Mike Venneberg and his wife, Tonya Venneberg; his grandsons, Ross and Cole Venneberg; his granddaughter, Ali Venneberg; and many close friends.

Born and raised in Chelan, Wash., the son of Alfred "Buster" and Rose (Crow) Venneberg, his life was spent enjoying homes in Washington, Alaska and Arizona.

In his early years, Ed enjoyed growing up in a small town, surrounded by family, including his two sisters, Ellen and Celia. After graduating from Chelan High School in 1957, he enlisted in the Army, serving in active duty, followed by Army Reserve service until 1964. Ed also attended Wenatchee Valley College until marrying his first wife, Marjorie Weston, and moving to Seattle in 1959.

Ed's career in insurance began in Seattle, working for the Washington Surveying & Rating Bureau. In 1964, he went to work for Cravens, Dargen & Co., until moving his family to Sitka, AK in the summer of 1968. In Sitka, he started with Rushlow Insurance, then spent many years working for Corroon & Black/Dawson &

In 1977, he married his second wife, JoAnn Wright and expanded his family to include two step-daughters, Jennifer and Wendy Wilson.

Ed took a huge leap of faith in himself in 1984, leaving his Seattle-basedemployer and starting his own agency in Sitka; Venneberg Insurance. He successfully grew his business for many years, finally retiring in 2000 and selling the agency to his son, Mike.

Ed Venneberg had a passion for life in Southeast Alaska, enjoying the outdoors with family and friends. He hunted in the early years, but focused on his love of boating, fishing, crabbing and shrimping over the decades. On the water, he found his second home.

A burial service was held November 29 at Riverview Cemetary in Chelan. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Sitka Legacy Foundation.

Please leave any thoughts and memories for the family at www.prechtrose.com.

Services are entrusted to Precht Rose Chapel of Chelan.

What is CBD?

CBD is an abbreviation of cannabidiol, which is extracted from the plant cannabis sativa, an herb indigenous to central land western Asia.

Cannabis is the ancient Greek name for hemp, and selective breeding of cannabis plants over the centuries has produced two main genetic types: a drug type, called marijuana and a hemp type. Hemp is cultivated for its stalk, prized for making strong fiber and rope, while marijuana is selectively bred to be rich in Delta-9-tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), a psychoactive compound that produces a euphoric effect when smoked or ingested.

The 2018 Farm Bill distinguished between the hemp strains of cannabis with very low concentrations of THC and THC-rich strains called marijuana, allowing farmers to grow hemp legally if the content of THC is less than 0.3% by dry weight.

What's the difference between hemp oil and CBD

The seeds of both strains of cannabis contain commercially valuable protein and oils, but no naturally occurring THC or CBD. The FDA allows hemp seeds, hemp seed protein powder and hemp seed oil to be sold as human foods, but CBDs extracted from the rest of the plant are not allowed to be sold as foods or food supplements at this time, despite the proliferation of CBD-containing products and claims of benefits.

How does CBD work?

While THC activates cannabinoid receptors in the brain to cause a "high", CBDs don't produce euphoria. CBDs seem to have antiinflammatory actions, and can help reduce the need for other medicines for chronic pain, anxiety and insomnia.

Why doesn't the FDA allow research into the benefits of CBD?

The FDA is treating medicinal use of cannabis with the same rigorous standards that it demands of other newly discovered medications. There is a lot of research currently going on for medicinal uses for both THC and CBD. The FDA has recently approved Epidi- CBDs may cause stomach olex®, which contains a purified form of CBD for the treatment of certain types of seizures in patients 2 years of age and older.

Is CBD safe?

Probably, but be careful. CBDs are being sold to consumers as if they were food supplements, but according to the FDA, CBD is NOT considered a food supplement. CBD products are not subject to any FDA regulations, so unlike medications or food supplements, they are not subject to manufacturing standards like Good Manufacturing Practices and do not have to provide any proof that they are either safe or effective.

Although the FDA is working hard to establish standards for CBDs and we can expect that CBD products will eventually have regulations and standards that apply to them, anyone buying a CBD product today should be very cautious.

Is CBD legal?

Yes, but only as a prescription medication. CBD isn't restricted in the same way as THC, but since it isn't a food, food supplement, or medication, buying it without a prescription is not "officially" legal.

CBD is allowed to be added to cosmetics but it's against the law to sell food or animal feed that has THC or CBD added to it.

What potential benefits does CBD have?

CBD may help with chronic pain, inflammation, anxiety and muscle spasms. It may also reduce the side effects of sedation or paranoia when used together with a product containing THC.

Does CBD have side effects?

The most common complaints I hear about from my patients taking CBDs is "brain fog" or stomach upset.

upset, decreased appetite and weight loss, dizziness, fatigue and sedation.

5 Things to Consider When Selecting a CBD: 1.Read the label carefully. Make sure the amount of CBD per serving or application is listed. Companies that use laboratories that make testing results available are more reliable.

2. Watch out for contami-

Cannabis plants can easily absorb toxic chemicals like heavy metals and pesticides. Review the label and company website for information on growing conditions and testing for contaminants.

3. How fast it works.

The formulation affects the speed. Inhaled or sublingual of CBD are the fastest, liquid or edibles take 30 minutes or longer, and topical varies from person to person, from 30 minutes to several hours.

4. Avoid inhaled CBD prod-

Additives that dissolve or dilute the CBD may cause lung injury. Sublingual CBD is nearly as fast acting as inhaled products and much safer.

5.Hemp seed is different

Hemp seed, hemp seed protein powder and hemp seed oil are perfectly safe and legal as foods, as they only trace amounts of THC

Youth snowmobile safety class offered

Chelan County law enforcement will teach a free course at Lake Wenatchee Dec. 14

OLYMPIA - The Washington State Parks Winter Recreation Program, Chelan County Sheriff's Office and Lake Wenatchee Recreation Club are offering a free snowmobile safety class to young snowmobilers next month.

The "Safe Rider" class runs from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 14, at the Lake Wenatchee Recreation Club's clubhouse, 14400 Chiwawa Loop Road, Leavenworth. Participants must register by Friday, Dec. 11.

The class is designed for youth, ages 12 to 16, but is open to new riders of all ages. Lunch will be provided by the Lake Wenatchee Recreation

Sponsors stress the importance of safety in snowmobiling for people of all ages. "Safe snowmobiling requires operator knowledge and awareness," said Pamela McConkey, Winter Recreation Program manager. "Snowmobilers need to know their vehicles, the weather, trail and avalanche conditions. They must have concern for the safety of other winter sports enthusiasts and show respect for wildlife and the environment." During the class, students will learn:

Basic snowmobile maintenance

Survival skills and emergency preparedness, including avalanche awareness

Proper clothing and winter equipment for snowmobiling Hand signals for riders

There will also be a riding

A parent or guardian must sign a consent form for each minor registered and sign the child out at the end of the class. Chelan County law enforcement officers will instruct the students. For more information or to register, contact Rich Magnussen, (509) 667-6508 or rich.magnussen@co.chelan.wa.us.

course, which is limited to 20

The State Parks Winter Recreation Program is responsible for Washington's snowmobile safety and education programs, which are funded by snowmobile registration fees. State Parks and partners place emphasis on providing snowmobile safety courses for young people and adults.

To learn more about snowmobiling in Washington, visit parks.state.wa.us/winter, or contact the Winter Recreation Program at winter@parks. wa.gov or (360) 980-8664.

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

Of ducks and geese

By John Kruse

The last days of November typically herald the arrival of the northerns. Huge flocks of mallard ducks and Canada geese arrive from British Columbia and Alberta while snow geese and lesser Canada Geese fly in from Alaska. This fall, a cold snap at the end of September had many hunters wondering if the northern birds would arrive early this year. Two hunting guides who have been out in the fields and on the water for many days this season weigh in:

Western Washington - Aaron Peterson-Petersons Northwest Guide Service http://Petersonsnorthwest.com

The snow geese we see in Washington spend their springs and summers in the Western Arctic and on Wrangel Island in Russia. The US Fish and Wildlife Service estimates the breeding population this year was 442,000 geese, 45 percent higher than last year and 12 percent above the 10-year average.

Most of these geese winter in Skagit and Island Counties in Northwest Washington or the Fraser River Delta in British Columbia. Aaron Peterson, the owner of Petersons Northwest Guide Service, leases land in Skagit and Snohomish counties for waterfowl hunting. He confirms the geese are here in big numbers this year and that there are a high percentage of juvenile geese as well. The limit on snow geese is six birds and in recent years the season for them in Skagit County has been extended because their numbers are so prolific.

Peterson will set up anywhere from 1000 to 1500 snow geese decoys in agricultural fields to draw big flocks of birds into range and says "The snow goose hunting is great right now!" Peterson says they are also doing some duck hunts but the calm weather seen through most of November have made it difficult to have successful hunting for mallard, wigeon, pintail and other birds except for an early morning flight. Windy days and stormy weather make for better days in the blind when it comes to ducks.

Eastern Wasthington - Shelby Ross - Ross Outdoor Adventures http://rossoutdooradventures.com

Shelby Ross hunts in the Columbia Basin and at the north end of Potholes Reservoir between Moses Lake and Othello every season. He says three waves of ducks have arrived in the Basin from the north since the opener. The first wave consisted of teal, wigeon and mallards while the last wave that arrived over two weeks ago were primarily mallards. Surprisingly, diving ducks have not arrived in significant numbers so far this fall.

Furthermore, Ross says those latest arriving mallards have become very educated over the last few days as to where the hunters are (and are not). That, coupled with a series of calm water days and low fog, have made for tough duck hunting in the latter half of November though the latest wintry blast and a series of windy days coinciding with the Thanksgiving holiday may well change that.

As for geese, lesser Canada

geese have arrived in force A good Labrador retriever is always a good partner to take on a hunt and will help you retrieve birds you might otherwise lose and are distributed throughout the Columbia Basin. As winter becomes more severe those lessers will leave but the bigger Western Canada geese will remain since they fare better in winter conditions and will continue to feed in wheat and corn fields even with a covering of snow.

Overall, goose hunting has been good for Ross and his clients hunting in fields and an additional bright spot this season have been the "massive piles of snow geese" that are in the Basin this year. This is a relatively new phenomenon, because snow goose sightings east of the Cascades in past years were rare. However, there have been five plus thousand snow geese spending the season at Potholes Reservoir the past two years and according to Ross, there are "at least that many and likely more already here this year". Ross expects the snow geese to stay in and around Potholes Reservoir until the 27,000- acre body of water freezes over.

5 ways to stay safe during the dangerous holiday driving season

STATEPOINT - The holidays can be the happiest time of the year, but unfortunately, they can also be the most dangerous, with more fatal car crashes occurring due to increased travel time, more alcohol use and excessive speed, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA).

Administration (NHTSA).

NHTSA predicts that during this Christmas week, from Tuesday, December 24, 2019 at 6 p.m. through Thursday, January 2, 2020 at 5:59 a.m., 799 people will lose their lives nationwide due to car crashes. While it may be uncomfortable to consider these predictions, NHTSA's report says that analyzing and forecasting fatalities can serve as useful warnings to the public, actually making roads safer.

"No one wants to think about what can go wrong, especially at such a joyful time of year, but as the saying goes, prevention is better than cure," said Jon Bloom, vice president, personal auto, Erie Insurance. "The good news is that there are specific things that people can do help keep themselves and their families safe this holiday season."

Erie Insurance offers these five tips for safer holiday driving.

• Keep your car roadready. Proper maintenance will help keep your car in shape for whatever road conditions you encounter. In addition to getting regularly scheduled oil changes, make sure your car's fluids are topped off and that filters, hoses and other components are in good working order. If they're showing signs of wearing out, replace them.

Maintain properly inflated tires. Not maintaining the right tire pressure can lead to flats and blowouts, which could cause you to lose control of your car and crash. Pay close attention to your car's tire pressure monitoring system. If you see an alert that tire pressure is low, fill them as soon as possible.

· Beready for emergencies. While maintaining your car can reduce your chance of being stranded along the side of the road, it could still happen. Keep an emergency kit in the car with a cell phone charger, blanket and first aid kit, along with bottled water and snacks. Also, check with your insurance agent to ensure your policy includes Emergency Roadside Service coverage so that if your car does break down, you can call for help.

· Give yourself plenty of time. With speeding being one of the top causes of car crashes, it's important to remember that there's no prize for arriving first. It's much better to drive the speed limit -- or even lower, depending on road conditions and build in a few extra minutes to get where you're going, especially when driving near busy shopping malls or on holiday travel days when traffic is heavy.

• Stay sober or designate a driver. Celebrating with a holiday toast? Plan ahead and have a designated driver, or use a cab or ride sharing service to get home. Regardless, never get behind the wheel if you've been drinking.

While the holidays can be a particularly perilous time to drive, taking precautions can help ensure you, and others on the road, have a safe season.
