Open House on public access to Lake Chelan yields mixed results

CHELAN -- The Chelan City Council held a Special Town Hall meeting regarding "Lake Chelan Access Site Analysis and Programming" Wednesday, Oct., 9 at the Senior Center here.

"Lake access is critical to the quality of Chelan and addressing the future of our access is important. This Town Hall is being held for the citizens of Chelan to listen and discuss the options regarding access," said Chelan Mayor Mike Cooney.

"This will give the entire community a chance to weigh-in on the value of retaining open space and lake access points. I made a promise that we would evaluate all opportunities and now the process begins," Cooney said.

About 50 people agreed with Cooney's assessment of the importance of lake access and showed up at the meeting.

Jim Brennan, namesake of J. A. Brennan and Associates, presented the results of the feasibility analysis. Attendees learned of the opportunity to create enhanced or additional community access points to the lake. Concept designs were provided for eight potential lake access points either already owned by the city or being considered for purchase. Acreage on Spader Bay, just below The Lookout housing development, is the subject of great uncertainty as to whether or not it will be bought by the city for $400,000.

Brennan displayed each site and then gave the pros and cons to go with that site including possible future uses, issues with physical access and adjoining property problems or plusses.

After his discussion, the audience was invited to place a red dot for "no" or a green dot for "yes" in regards to explore further lake access development.

The infamous Three Fingers, now court-approved for further development by owner Goodfellow Brothers, became a popular landing spot for the green dots (see photo) showing agreement that the former landfill should be considered as a potential purchase so the city can develop it into lake access for the public.

Most of the speakers expressed concerns that the city should finish projects already started, such as Don Morse Park, before buying more land or starting new projects.

As usual in meetings where Spader Bay purchase and access is concerned, some speakers expressed cynicism that a purchase plan has already been agreed upon during executive sessions held by the city. Those sessions allow for real estate talks to be held behind closed doors as per state law to protect the integrity of the bargaining.

Cooney said at the start of the town hall meeting that retired State Senator Linda Evans Parlette and her sister, current owners of the land, have made a counter offer to the original offer. Cooney denied any agreement has been reached during the executive session held the day before the town hall during a regular city council meeting.

There was no obligation implied by the city that the site receiving the most green dots would be approved for the lake access, but the Three Fingers had 30-plus green dots applied to its site photo, while Spader Bay received a few green and red dots.

The "Green Dock" site also received more than 30 yes votes while the site across the street from Waterslide Drive received all no votes.

Brennan stated more than once that current lake access sites lacked proper public signage and was therefore easy to miss as a place where the public could recreate.

Several in the audience wanted physical "touch points," such as swimming and boat launch opportunities, not just spots that allowed for just viewing.

Audience members included former Chelan City Councilman Skip Morehouse, former Mayor Bob Goedde, The Lookout real estate broker Guy Evans, son of Linda Evans Parlette, Servando Robledo, employee at The Lookout and Chelan City Councilman and other members of the city council. This meeting was just another step in reviewing potential Lake Chelan access sites.

National Book Award-winning author to visit schools, speak at two community venues

SUBMITTED BY NORTH CENTRAL WASHINGTON REGIONAL LIBRARY

Robin Benway, author of Far From the Tree,

CHELAN - National Book Award-winning author Robin Benway will spend a week in North Central Washington this month, visiting eight schools and headlining two community speaking events.

During her residency on Oct. 21-24, Benway will speak to students at Quincy High School, Ephrata High School, Soap Lake High School, Wahluke High School in Mattawa, Chelan High School, Cascade High School in Leavenworth, Oroville Jr./Sr. High School and Curlew High School.

She will also speak at two all ages, free, community venues:

Oct. 23: Omak Performing Arts Center, 6:30 p.m.

Oct. 24: North Central Regional Library Distribution Center, 16 N. Columbia St., Wenatchee, 6:30 p.m.

Every year, North Central Regional Library hosts an author of young adult literature for a week-long residency.

"We select a thought-provoking book and author from staff, teen and teacher suggestions, provide schools with copies of the book, and craft a tour schedule that reaches all parts of our region," said Jessica Lynch, teen services manager for NCRL. "These author visits offer students a unique chance to meet an acclaimed author, hear their stories, and ask them questions. The books we select ask students to reach outside of their own experiences. This exercise in empathy generates great discussions in our schools and communities each year."

Benway won the National Book Award for Young People's Literature in 2017 for her book Far From the Tree, which tells the story of three biologically related teenaged siblings who become part of each other's lives.

In choosing it for the National Book Award, the judges cited "Far From the Tree is a poignant story of three young people discovering the complicated ways that families love. Grace, Maya and Joaquin's quest to bond as they search for their biological mother resonates across the many definitions of family. In Benway's able hands, readers feast on a big-hearted and uplifting story about growing up, daring to count on others, and most importantly, having the courage to reveal and embrace our own imperfections."

It was named one of the best books of the year by The New York Times, Los Angeles Times, NPR, PBS, Entertainment Weekly, and the Boston Globe.

OP-ED

In Front of Change

By GUY EVANS

You hear it on the street, "This isn't the Chelan I grew up in." "This isn't the Chelan I moved to." These voices are correct. Our valley is changing. I was born here in 1971 and some areas of the valley are unrecognizable compared to my youth.

How do we respond to this change? It is tempting to lash out. To blame the tourists. To blame the newcomers. But will such blame address the cause?

Will it lead to any solutions?

I often jokingly say we have three issues in our valley: our lake is beautiful, most of us buy products from Amazon, and many of us use Microsoft Word or Excel on a regular basis. Habits #2 and #3 feed tech giants like Amazon and Microsoft. And reality #1 - our beautiful lake - attracts the thousands of well-paid, vacation-hungry Amazon and Microsoft employees.

Who among us can change any of this? The only thing we can do is work to get in front of the change.

Like an incoming tide, this change wave can not be stopped - but it can be channeled.

From the day Mike Cooney entered office as Mayor he has been on the go. At every turn, Mike addressed community challenges: planning deficiencies, public safety issues, housing issues. Mike led the City in an overhaul of its comprehensive plan in 2017. His leadership protected many views and vistas we take for granted today.

That same year, he gathered consensus to solve a long-standing public safety issue with the historic Chelan bridge. His leadership honored automobiles, pedestrians, and aesthetics. It brought unity of purpose and action. And in 2018, Mike rang the bell about our affordable housing crisis that led to the creation of the Chelan Valley Housing Trust. Mike's leadership also attracted a project by Weidner Apartment 200 much needed apartment units to town.

In these areas of planning, safety, and housing, Mike has demonstrated his tireless commitment to keep the town focused on its most urgent needs and to work for progress, action, and solutions.

In opposition to Mike, some voices around Chelan say they want to "take back our town". They claim that Cooney's leadership caters just to visitors, not to locals. Emotionally, I understand their reaction to change. Change leaves us feeling angry and disoriented. But Mike's record speaks for itself: proactive planning, collaborative problem solving, and a tireless focus on affordable housing. Mike has been leading the City to do the real work to channel change - beneficial leadership for all.

The Puget Sound region is predicted to grow from 4 million to 5.8 million people in the next 30 years.

These new residents will continue to want sunny vacations. This forecast suggests we have seen just the tip of the iceberg in Chelan's popularity. In light of such growth, we can't afford to "take back" something that is forever gone. We can't afford to look to the past to solve today's problems.

It takes a village to collect $1.2 billion tax increase

By JASON MERCIER

Although state revenues were already projected to increase by nearly $5 billion, lawmakers last session raised taxes by more than $1 billion. We now know thanks to the Department of Revenue's (DOR) supplemental budget request, that it takes a village to collect a tax increase of this size. As reported by Jerry Cornfield:

"The Department of Revenue says it needs 44 more people - 17 now and another 27 in the next fiscal year - to handle added responsibilities created by 32 revenue bills signed into law earlier this year.

Agency leaders want to hire information specialists to help taxpayers understand what they may owe, examiners and auditors to ensure compliance with the laws, and legal support for an expected increase in appeals and other disputes. They are asking for $4.1 million in the 2020 supplemental budget to cover the added costs."

DOR's supplemental budget request mentioned 32 revenue bills were adopted last session. Here are some of those tax increases DOR is asking for more staffing to help administer:

- HB 2158 ("off-budget") - B&O increase on select professional services: $380 million
• SB 5998 - Graduated Real Estate Excise tax: $245 million
• HB 2167 (Title Only bill) - B&O increase on banks: $133 million
• SB 5581 - Sales tax nexus change related to Wayfair ruling: $116 million

- SB 6016 - B&O changes for international investment management companies: $59 million
• SB 5997 - Changes to non-resident sales tax exemption: $54 million
• HB 1873 - Vaping tax: $27 million
• SB 6004 - B&O tax increase for travel agents: $5 million
Let's not forget that one of those tax increases (HB 2167) was rushed through as a Title Only bill, imposing a constitutionally-suspect tax increase in the waning hours of session.

Indicating that the legislature may not be done raising taxes in the near future, the adopted budget also includes $2 million for the Department of Revenue to facilitate a tax structure study that is tasked with looking at the possibility of a corporate income tax among other things (Section 137 (2)(c)).

While lawmakers consider DOR's staffing request to help administer the $1.2 billion tax increase, let's hope they don't follow up with a dismal encore performance next session by ramming through an illegal income tax on capital gains. One can only imagine the massive staffing that would be needed to navigate the legal and administrative hurdles imposing a capital gains income tax would require.

Reject dishonest vehicle taxes, vote yes on I-976

GUEST EDITORIAL BY TIM EYMAN

Taxpayers are getting ripped off, everybody knows it, and politicians refuse to fix it. That's why 352,000 voters signed petitions to get Initiative 976 on the ballot.

Taxing a $10,000 vehicle like it's $25,000 is fraud. I-976 repeals the dishonest vehicle valuation schedule that politicians are currently using to artificially inflate our vehicle taxes.

If a private company was price gouging its customers like this, the government would shut it down. But here, because it's the government taking more than they should with a dishonest tax, all we're hearing is threats, lies, and scare tactics.

Politicians admit their taxes are dishonest and inaccurate. But they won't fix them because the Public Interest Groups feeding at the trough won't let them. For two and a half years, citizens have been screaming at politicians to fix them, but they haven't. When I-976 qualified in January, the Legislature had all session to fix them. They didn't. They could've put an alternative on the ballot alongside I-976. They didn't do that either. Why? Because the Public Interest Groups that get the dishonest taxes wouldn't allow it.

This is exactly why we have the initiative process - to give the voters the chance to solve a problem the politicians won't.

I-976 gets rid of dishonest vehicle taxes, repeals artificially inflated vehicle valuations, and sets license tabs to a flat, fair, and reasonable $30 per year for your car, truck, motorcycle, motorhome, and other vehicles. It's a common-sense policy the voters have repeatedly passed. We're already paying huge sales taxes when we buy a vehicle, huge gas taxes and tolls when we use a vehicle, we shouldn't be forced to pay dishonest triple taxes just to own a vehicle. Working class folks, not just rich people, should be able to afford a newer vehicle. And under I-976, future vehicle taxes and fees must be voter-approved and based on Kelley

Blue Book. In other words, they'll have to ask our permission and tax us honestly.

If politicians had any compassion for the average taxpayer, I-976 wouldn't be necessary. Washington is one of the highest taxed states in the nation. Dishonest vehicle taxes, skyrocketing property taxes, crushing sales taxes, massive gas taxes, obnoxious tolls, and costly fees on everything. Despite record revenues and a huge $3.5 billion tax surplus, Olympia imposed 11 new taxes costing $27 billion. It's insane. Now they're demanding income taxes, carbon taxes, pay-per-mile taxes. Enough is enough.

If we can't get tax relief when there's a huge $3.5 billion tax surplus, when can we? Besides, all the money taxpayers save will get pumped right back into our state's economy. Opponents' threats, lies, and scare tactics are absurd - I-976 only affects a tiny fraction of government spending. An oversized semi-truck knocked down the Skagit Valley Bridge - but TV ads claim low taxes caused it. Total lie. Not a penny of car tab taxes goes to roads or bridges - gas taxes pay for those. And that $3.5 billion tax surplus can easily backfill any affected program.

Triple taxing vehicles is indefensible. Taxing a $10,000 vehicle like it's $25,000 is fraud. Taxpayers are getting ripped off - that's the issue. Attacking me? A dumb distraction. I didn't create dishonest vehicle taxes, the government did. I didn't create dishonest vehicle valuations, the politicians did. When Karen and I sold off our retirement fund and loaned $500K to kickstart the signature drive for this historic effort, it was a huge risk.

But we had faith - unshakeable faith that there were lots of people sick and tired of getting ripped off. Polls show our faith was not misplaced.

Overwhelming voter approval of I-976 is the only way to get rid of this dishonest tax. Politicians will never fix it - here's our only chance. Vote Yes on I-976.

Russia saves Kurds, next is WW III

Here is the scenario for World War III: Trump has allowed Turkish incursion into Kurd cities by removing our observation posts. The Kurds, our recent and apparently former allies, then appealed to Russia for air cover support. Russia (Putin) says "da" and the caviar hits the fan.

It is only a matter of time when a Russian jet will be shot down or a Turkish tank(s) will be annihilated by a Russian jet or a Russian "advisor" (remember those from Vietnam?) gets killed, maybe even fatal "accidents" involving the 1,000 American troops in the immediate area.

Now enter NATO. Turkey, as a member of NATO, is subject to protection by all other NATO member nations. It's written - part of the deal.

An attack on one is an attack on all.

Russia, Assad, maybe Cuba and other puppet states and some terrorist groups allied with same, versus NATO. The entire "Turkey versus Kurds" issue is lost in the shuffle.

China and other nations may be caught in the middle.

Iran will enter by using their huge terrorist network.

Israel, Egypt and the Saudis will actually cooperate because they all distrust (hate) the Iranians.

Great Britain, as a part of NATO, will also cause Australia and other former Empire" associates to side with NATO.

This may seem like a dire scenario, but alas, it is a possible scenario. 100 years ago it was WW I just ending which caused all this mess in the first place.

The lousy terms the victors gave the Germans ending that war directly led to WW II. Now the fall of the Soviet Union and the newly capitalist-leaning Vietnam and China will also cause massive angst in the Far East and the former Eastern Europe.

This stew is what Italians call Pasta Fazul, a mixture of all kinds of stuff from leftovers to spices to new ingredients commonly eaten by the common man.

Besides the actual death of Americans, allies and millions of others, add to this the potential for a collapsing Stock Market ... or not.

It is often said that uncertainty causes crashes in the Market, but the rebirth of "heavy industry" (read armaments) and all the associated industries needed to support a full fledged war, will jack the Market out of sight.

It may be the actual savior of American factories as thousands of items will, because of the war, be manufactured in the good of USA, just like during the first two world wars.

I do have a solution for all of this: Put a Trump Tower(s) in every nation's major urban center and/or capital city and all hostilities will end, at least from the U.S.

Bronze Shoe still gripped by Bulldogs

By Gary Bégin, NCW Media Managing Editor

CHELAN -- The Bronze Shoe game held Friday, Oct. 11 here, proved one thing is certain, the Cashmere Bulldogs, like any big bad dog, just won't let go of its bone.

Wanting that bone badly, but just not badly enough, was the Chelan Mountain Goats. The result of this annual death match? Bulldogs 28, Goats 18.

A key 72-yard runback for a touchdown by Bryson Pratt after a kick-off led them, in part, to victory. Winning Coach Bryan Bremer, in only his second season at the helm of the 'Dawgs said, "We were just coming off two hard losses and it was hard to come back emotionally to play this important game, but we did as a team and I'm really proud of the them."

Bremer continued, "It was fun to watch. Our defense was rock solid and we had five defensive takeaways and the offense scored early and took control of the game from the start," he said.

"Obviously I'm happy with the result," he concluded.

Chelan High School Football Coach Travis Domer said, "Well everyone, to have a chance to win that game in the end after all the mistakes we made tonight shows our players hearts and determination. We played hard for 48 minutes. Defensively we played tough again. Offensively we have to take care of the ball better. We spotted them 14 of their first 21 on a turnover and a kickoff return," Domer said.

"Coaches need to fix the mistakes and players need to continue to play hard. AJ Martinez continues to shine in his kicking duties. He has only missed 1 PAT (point after touchdown kick) all year (blocked) and is 2 for 2 for field goals on the year with another one tonight, and he executed a great outside kick to get us the ball back down 3 in the last minute of the game," he concluded.

The Bronze Shoe trophy will remain in Cashmere for another year, as the Bulldogs beat the Mountain Goats 28-18, in the Battle of Shoe on Oct. 11.

This was the 66th meeting of the two gridiron rivals, but it won't be the last. In 2020 the two longtime opponents will be in Cashmere for the next annual installment of the real Friday Night Lights - aka the Bronze Shoe Game.

Trojans trounce Kettle Falls Bulldogs, 51-26

By Joey Johanson, Manson High School Football Coach

KETTLE FALLS - Manson football traveled up to North-east Washington to take on the Kettle Falls Bulldogs. Manson was able to score at will all game long with 22 points in the first half and 29 points in the second half. The defense was solid in the 2nd half after a few in-game adjustments. The only way Kettle Falls scored in the 2nd half was a scoop and score fumble and a kick return for TD.

On offense the Trojans offensive line was dominating. "They were finishing blocks 10 to 15 yards down the field," said Coach Johanson, "This is what we've been talking about all season. Don't be a spectator, keep driving defenders until you hear the whistle. Our offensive line certainly stepped up tonight."

Caden Beazley ran for 236 yards and 4 touchdowns behind the dominant offensive line. Parker Schoenwald was also able to get some running room and had a 65 yard touchdown run as well.

The defense played a great game. After two scores in the first half there were a couple changes made and the defense held Kettle Falls to a bunch of 3 and outs the rest of the game.

The only negative from the game was holding onto the ball. The Trojans had 4 fumbles that were recovered by Kettle Falls. Manson will look to correct this problem this Friday as they take on Oroville at home for homecoming.

Manson sits at 3-3 on the season and takes on Oroville for homecoming this week. Kickoff is moved up to 6 p.m.

Stats:

Passing: Tucker Flowers, 2 for 6, 37 yards

The Field Day Captain, Ellis Nierenberg organized the four-somes by the players' handicap indexes so the groups were nearly evenly matched. With assistance from Dr. Darrell Richards, Ellis prepared all the scorecards in advance of play to reflect each member's handicap strokes on a hole-by-hole basis.

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

Opening Day Memories

By JOHN KRUSE

The second Saturday of October tends to be the busiest day of the year when it comes to hunters taking to the field. That's because it's "Opening Day" in Washington State for both deer and waterfowl. It's a day steeped in tradition for many families, traditions that last through several generations and my family and friends have experienced these long-standing traditions as well.

My father was both a deer and a duck hunter when he lived in Oregon but when we moved to Washington in the mid-1970's, he chose to introduce my brother and I to waterfowl hunting. Our opening day ritual for over 20 years took us to the north end of Potholes Reservoir south of Moses Lake. In the 1970s and 1980s you would count dozens of cars and trucks with hunters parked or camped off the gravel road leading into the area as we drove to an off-shoot road that paralleled power lines leading to Crab Creek. Back then this road was gated and the habitat behind it was fantastic, holding not only lots of local waterfowl but also pheasant, jackrabbits and a variety of other birds from herons and egrets to owls and hawks. (Sadly, ORV use in this area and lax enforcement of seasonal off-road vehicle restrictions have changed that today).

It was work to get back to the ponds sprinkled throughout this area, and it was easy to get turned around, especially in the early morning darkness. Eventually though, my father, brother and I would get to our spot, a place we called "the Round Pond", and we had some spectacular hunts there. The bag was mixed. Mallards of course, but also gadwall, wigeon and the occasional pintail. The most plentiful duck was the small green-wing teal. My father and brother wouldn't shoot at them, deeming them too small to be worthy of a shot. I had not such prejudices against these acrobatic, low flying ducks though and shot at them with abandon!

As I got older, I started bringing a friend or two with me out for the opener and in the early 1990s we started a new twist to our opening day tradition...Duck Camp. Up to 10 of us would set up camp a day or two before the opener. Prior to the hunt we would build blinds and cast for bass or panfish in the same ponds we were hunting. After the opening day hunt, we would come back to camp, clean our birds and share stories of the day. This was often done over dinner or next to a campfire where a few adult beverages were consumed while the dogs lay at our feet after a full day of retrieving birds and busting brush.

The weather was as variable as one would expect. Some years we'd be hunting the opener in t-shirts and slapping mosquitos off of us in the hot weather. Other years it would be below freezing. Some years it rained on the opener but most of the time, the night skies were clear and the Milky Way and a canopy of stars above kept you company overnight. One year, as we prepared to walk to our pond in the dark, I even remember seeing the Northern Lights.

Eventually, my father aged out of the sport of duck hunting but both my brother and I had the opportunity to introduce our children to the sport and rituals of opening day. As the cast of characters changed, so did the evolution of duck camp. After several years of "drive to" camping, we began to take a small 12-foot boat back into channels and waterways linking the various potholes to the greater reservoir. These journeys were hard work. We would sometimes have to push the fully loaded boat across shallow sandbars several times to get to our spot but once there, we would have the place to ourselves. And in this setting, we were surrounded not by other duck hunters, but instead by stealthy mule deer and singing coyotes who serenaded us in the evening.

Today, my best friend has a home just feet away from Potholes State Park and Duck Camp has become very comfortable sleeping in his guest rooms and spending time in his shop after the hunt watching college football.

The rituals remain though. My son is now grown, just graduated from college, but we will once again be venturing forth to a favorite spot for the opening day of waterfowl hunting season. We'll set our decoys in the dark and then sip coffee while we wait for the gray dawn of morning. We'll then greet the sunrise with duck calls and shotguns in hand, an eager dog by our side, and the hope for a good season of hunting ahead.

Roses Lake public water access to be closed Oct. 14-18 for paving

SUBMITTED BY WDFW

MANSON - The Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) public water access site at Roses Lake in Manson, will be closed Oct. 14-18 for paving. The entire access site will be closed.

This work is part of ongoing improvements to the site that includes repaving, replacing the old toilet with a new ADA compliant one, and cutting in trail to provide more shoreline fishing opportunities.

These improvements are funded by a grant from the Washington State Recreation and Conservation Office.

Surveys to occur on the National Forest through Sept. 30, 2020

SUBMITTED BY USFS

WENATCHEE - The public will encounter contractors, students and employees of the University of Washington, working on the Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest in developed and dispersed recreation sites and along Forest Service roads. They will be out in all types of weather conditions, wearing bright orange vests and be near a sign that says "Traffic Survey Ahead".

The National Visitor Use Monitoring (NVUM) survey is being conducted on the Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest and started October 1 and will go through September 30, 2020. The information gathered is useful for forest planning as well as local community tourism planning. It provides national forest managers with an estimate of how many people actually recreate on the national forest, what activities they engage in while there, and how satisfied people were with their visit. Economic impact to the local economy is also captured in the survey.

The survey gathers basic visitor information. Surveys are voluntary and all responses are confidential; names are not included. Interviews last about 10 minutes. Questions asked include where you recreated on the forest, how many people traveled with you, how long you were on the forest, what other recreation sites you visited while on the forest, and how satisfied you are with the facilities and services provided. About a third of the visitors will be asked to complete a confidential survey on recreation spending during their trip.

"The survey is entirely voluntary," said Forest Recreation Program Manager Suzanne Cable. "It is extremely important for people to participate so we can assess visitor experiences on the national forest and strive to make it a better place to visit. We really appreciate all those who are willing to answer a few questions. It's important for interviewers to talk with local people using the forest, as well as out-of-area visitors, so all are represented in the study."

In addition to the traffic survey, visitor use information will also be gathered via a self-service QR code posted at different recreation sites across the forest.

"People can go to the QR code where they will be asked a few short questions about their visit and their trailhead observations," Cable said. "If you don't have a chance to participate in the NVUM surveys, providing information about your visit using the QR code is another way to be involved."

Information about the National Visitor Use Monitoring program can be found at <https://www.fs.fed.us/about-agency/nvum>

Protecting your skin during radiation

Q: I'm starting radiation treatments soon for my newly diagnosed breast cancer. How can I help keep the treatments from burning my skin?

Nearly 8 out of 10 people with cancer who are treated with radiation will get skin irritation from it, called "radiation dermatitis" by doctors.

It starts out with redness and warmth like a mild rash, then becomes increasingly sensitive to touch and may even feel "tight". As radiation damage progresses your skin feels "dry", starts to itch and can eventually peel, exposing tender red skin which oozes clear fluid.

You're more likely to have a serious skin reaction from radiation treatment if you have another skin surface rubbing up against the skin being radiated, you've had surgery there in the past, if you smoke or if you have diabetes.

To reduce the risk of experiencing post-radiation irritation, which tends to peak about a week after treatment, treat your skin gently. Avoid rubbing or scratching the area being radiated. Keep the barrier of your skin intact by drinking plenty of water and applying a moisturizing cream to the area faithfully.

It's okay to use soap; in fact, washing your skin gently with mild soap and water has been shown to cause less skin reaction compared to just rinsing with water. Most patients who start radiation treatment are advised to use a "mild, non-alkaline soap, preferably unscented".

Unfortunately, there isn't much agreement about which soaps are best and no clear evidence that any specific soap is superior. Mild soaps like Dove®, Ivory®, or Neutrogena® are considered safe to use, but most experts agree that highly scented soaps such as Coast® and Irish Spring® should be avoided when undergoing radiation treatment.

You can safely wear deodorant or antiperspirant during treatment unless the skin of your armpit develops a cut, scratch or blister.

Applying a moisturizer after radiation sessions can help protect your skin from dryness, irritation and skin breakdown. There's a new option now available to help protect your skin from radiation damage.

Your skin consists of a series of layers of flattened cells that form a flexible, self-renewing barrier that protects your body against exposure to infection and toxins. Your skin cells start out nice and plump, then gradually drying out and flattening into overlapping layers. Then the top layer flakes off, exposing the next layer down, continuing the cycle.

Ceramide molecules support the barrier function of healthy skin. A lower level of ceramides is found in dry, damaged skin compared to healthy skin, and applying ceramide-rich creams can help heal skin damage. Lotions and creams containing these vitally important compounds can restore skin integrity faster than creams containing only traditional moisturizing agents.

CeraVe® Moisturizing Cream has 3 essential ceramides and was recommended to one of my patients. I compared it to my previous favorite, Arbdoun's Abundantly Herbal Calendula Cream, to decide for myself if the claims about ceramides was real or just good marketing. I was QUITE impressed! My skin absorbed the CeraVe® quickly, it wasn't greasy at all, and my skin felt super smooth, even hours later.

My previous favorite moisturizer with calendula is Arbdoun's Abundantly Herbal Calendula Cream ($20 for a 7-ounce jar). With olive oil, calendula and lavender, Arbdoun's helps protect your skin from radiation damage but it does take a little time to get completely absorbed. You should let it soak into your skin for about 5 minutes before putting on your clothes so that the fabrics don't stick to it.

You can also apply pure Aloe Vera juice directly to your skin. My stepmother, Joyce, used Trader Joe's Aloe Vera Juice after each radiation treatment with excellent results.

Her Are 5 Tips to Help Protect Your Skin During Radiation Treatment:

1. Avoid rubbing or scratching.
1. Itching causes the urge to scratch even when you sleep, so keeping your fingernails cut short and wearing cotton gloves or socks over your hands at night can really help.
2. Stay out of hot water.
2. Avoid using hot water or strongly scented soaps when washing or bathing.
3. Don't scrub.
3. Treat your skin gently.
3. Avoid washing using harsh scrubbing tools like exfoliating cloths, rough washcloths, or loofahs.
4. Keep yourself hydrated.
4. Irritated skin loses water more easily, making it feel dry and itchy. Drink plenty of water to help keep your skin well hydrated.
5. Apply a soothing cream.
5. Support the barrier function of your skin by protecting it with a skin moisturizer after each radiation treatment. Creams containing ceramides (CeraVe®, Curel®) or calendula can be particularly helpful.
