City takes steps towards Spader Bay 'green space' purchase

CHELAN - On Tuesday, Sept. 10, the Chelan City Council meeting room was standing room only. On the agenda was a potential acquisition of undeveloped property located on Spader Bay for the purpose of open space and public access.

"I think it would be safe to say that 95 percent of the testimony before the council opposed moving forward," said Jerry Isenhart, in an exclusive interview with the Lake Chelan Mirror.

Isenhart, himself a former mayor, said one of his concerns was "there is no access or egress from the property, and no real understanding of how it would be used for the total community benefit."

Isenhart, related through marriage to Councilwoman Wendy Isenhart, stated, "Personally I was surprised at the vote - as the presentations of the audience were all rational and full of valid, unanswered questions.

I suspect that this is still not a done deal," Isenhart said.

After nearly two hours of debate and citizen comments, the motion went on the floor: Voting yes - Wendy Isenhart, Kelly Allen, Ty Witt and Servando Robledo. The two no votes were cast by Ray Dobbs and Erin McCardle. Councilman Tim Hollingsworth was

The offer to the sellers, the former State Senator Linda Evans Parlette and her sister Terrie O'Neal, is $400,000, but the reality is closer to one million dollars to actually develop the lakeside land into a public green space suitable for a walking trail, park and/or other recreational uses.

Thanks to Councilman Ray Dobbs' insistence, the 90-day clause for action on the steep, nine-plus rocky acres, was extended to 120 days for due diligence to be exercised as there are eight different properties to be looked at by the city.

Former mayor Bob Goedde was one of the last of the public speakers, and argued that the land purchase was questionable from the "actual use" point of view. "How many citizens will use this property?" he asked.

Early on in the packed-house meeting City Administrator Mike Jackson told the city council that the agreement can be negated "for any or no reason" as several councilmen expressed a mood of angst in the room and among the general Chelan population.

Mayor Mike Cooney made an effort to assure the audience that "there is no agenda, no done deal" as has been surmised by more than one observer in regards to the proposal.

Former city councilman Skip Morehouse started his talk rocky shore. Evans, when he spoke earlier, said the topography was "challenging," but that he had just shown it to a client three weeks earlier.

He expressed his conviction that, in the right developer's hands, 14 possible home-sites could be fashioned despite the rugged landscape if the city didn't take the opportunity to purchase the property that he called the "remnants" of his grandparent's pioneering farm.

Councilman Witt agreed saying the property will be built on eventually if not purchased by the city while the opportunity presents itself.

Many in the crowd expressed a desire to see new homes developed than to see the city make the purchase.

Several speakers argued that the city has many other projects that could use the money towards completion. Some items have been on the

He said that there was no behind closed doors "consensus" about the purchase. The list of properties being eyed by the city for greenspace and potential lake access was whittled down from 18 to the current eight.

Other suggestions from within the council and from the attendees, included buying the infamous Three Fingers landfill from the Goodfellow Brothers and having additional workshops to further study the proposal.

At one point Councilman Witt stated the city could buy the land and do nothing with it, "just leave it like it is."

I am amazed that City legal counsel did not advise the councilman to step down. And I am amazed that no one including the Mayor, pointed the conflict out and ask him to step down," said Isenhart.

"In my day as Mayor of Chelan he would not have been allowed to participate in that discussion nor vote. One reason is that his participation could later become a legal challenge by someone unhappy with the decision. It's a matter of being safe and the 'appearance of fairness' at all times," Isenhart said. (See

For the second this time this year South Lakeshore Road, between The Cove Marina and the Lake Chelan Yacht Club, was closed due to rocks and mud across the road way, washed down Slide Ridge by the rain on Tuesday morning, Sept. 10. The road was reopened on Sept. 11.

SUBMITTED BY CHELAN COUNTY Public Works

CHELAN- South Lakeshore Road Update: A contractor for Chelan County begins work on Monday, Sept. 16, on South Lakeshore Road at Lake Chelan, removing debris from the catch basin and channels at Slide Ridge. Contractor Batchelor Excavating of Manson was awarded a contract on Aug. 27 by Chelan County commissioners. The $130,054 contract was in response to a July 2 landslide at Slide Ridge, which is at milepost 3, north of Lake Chelan State Park. Batchelor will remove the material as well as re-shape and grade the two channels at the site and clean a large culvert that goes under the roadway.

At the time of the contract's signing, it was estimated the contractor would haul some 8,500 cubic yards of debris. However, a landslide on Sept. 10 at Slide Ridge added additional mud, rock and debris to the area and resulted in a two-day closure of the roadway. Batchelor originally was scheduled to begin work on Sept. 11.

The work is not expected to have any traffic impacts; however, motorists are asked to watch for trucks hauling debris in that area. Work is expected to last until about mid-October.

Crews will be filling washouts at Antoine Creek, Washington Creek and Apple Acres roads. On Tuesday, they bagin hauling some of the material from the Slide Ridge landslide to the Chelan District Shop. The crew also will be spot grading on Union Valley Road and cleaning culverts in the Manson area.

I am sorry Servando ... but

One of the strangest times of my life were spent in Northern Nevada during the turn of the century. Just saying that phrase out loud makes me think I am part of tomorrow's history ... and I am, as are you and we, as a society will be judged forever by the actions we take, or fail to take.

About 20 years ago I wrote a column about a Winnemucca, Nevada radio station owner who decided to participate and vote no on the application of an upstanding gentleman who wanted to start his own radio station, which would have been a Christian-music and talk station.

The councilwoman was of a different faith and seemed to feel no compunction about not just the participation in the debate, but the no vote as well.

In my column, I suggested she should have "zipped her lip" in regards to the entire affair and simply recuse herself, but she resented me for even suggesting she may have a conflict of interest.

That's life in the world of opinion writing. Many folks may love and many may hate whatever topic is on the menu. I will never pretend to please everyone, but half would be just fine.

That brings us to the Spader Bay agenda item placed before the Chelan City Council on Tuesday, September 10.

I am, as a taxpayer, ashamed at the behavior of someone on our City Council or perhaps someone in city hall government staff or, most likely a little of both.

Let me cut to the chase, the City Attorney or one of Servando Robledo's councilmates should have taken Servando aside and explained that he needed to recuse himself from the vote and the debate in regards to the Spader Bay land deal.

Why? He works for The Lookout, a private commercial housing development which stands to gain hundreds of thousands of dollars in appraisal and sales value due to the new Lake Chelan access as delineated in the Spader Bay land purchase.

Servando is currently the Director of Resort Operations and Property Manager of the Homeowner's Association at the Chelan Lookout, according to the official city of Chelan website. So obviously all city staff and co-councilmembers know he works there and yet no one came to his aid by explaining his participation was on precarious footing ethics-wise.

I believe Servando is innocent of doing this obvious conflict of interest gaff on purpose, but nonetheless, he did it anyway.

As with anyone who is new at doing anything, there is a trial period when learning takes place, but having a mentor is always a good thing. Servando needs such a mentor as he was (and might still be) oblivious to the entire predicament he has stepped in. He certainly knows Realtor Guy Evans, who has worked for The Lookout and is now an intimate part of the Spader Bay application and is also involved in the Planning Commission and the Lake Chelan Trails group.

"Recusal" is to disqualify (oneself) as judge in a particular case or to remove (oneself) from participation to avoid a conflict of interest, according to the dictionary.

Contact the author: Email: Gary@ncwmedia.net to voice your opinion. Your email communications will be considered "on the record" which means it is like sending a Letter to the Editor and therefore may be published in a future edition of the Lake Chelan Mirror.

Chelan Ridge Hawkwatch Field Trip with the Wenatchee River Institute, Oct. 3

SUBMITTED BY WENATCHEE RIVER INSTITUTE

CHELAN/LEAVENWORTH - Each fall thousands of hawks, eagles, and falcons fly along a high ridge above Lake Chelan on their way to winter territories. Join Wenatchee River Institute for a field trip to the Chelan Ridge Hawkwatch International (HWI) observation point to witness this amazing spectacle. Chelan Ridge HWI is located in the USFS Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest.

Learn about raptor biology and hone your identification skills by assisting researchers as they count passing hawks!

During the excursion, you will hear from local biologists about the why of these migrations, as well as the how it all relates to habitat and land management. While visiting the field station, biologists will be working the trapping blind providing for a rare, close-up opportunity to witness a live bird capture, banding, and release. Participants will also gather data in an effort to glean information about the health of North America's raptor populations.

After exploratory surveys in 1997 at Chelan Ridge Hawk-Watch, in partnership with the USFS Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest in 1998 HWI began annual counts at the Chelan Ridge site. These counts helped to monitor the raptors and learn more about their migration through the East Cascades of Washington State within the Pacific Coast Flyway. HWI has been banding raptors at Chelan Ridge since 2001, while also using the site to conduct satellitetracking research.

Each season, counts typically range between 2,000-3,000 migrating birds of up to 17 species. The most commonly seen species are the Sharp-shinned Hawk, Red-tailed Hawk, Cooper's Hawk, Northern Harrier, Golden Eagle, and American Kestrel.

Field Trip Cost: WRI-Members $45, Non-Member $60, with WRI Otter Van transportation included. Participants will leave from the Wenatchee River Institute campus in Leavenworth at 8 a.m., or from the Penny Road Park and Ride in Wenatchee at 8:45 a.m. Please pack a lunch, snacks and water, and be prepared to hike for 30 minutes at approximately 6,000 feet elevation.

Welcome to the 29th Annual Salmon Festival!

Executive Directors, Corky Broaddus (right) and Hailey Croci welcome everyone to the 29th Wenatchee River Salmon Festival "Catch The Salmon Fest Fever".

By Brandi Charles

This year marks the 29th anniversary of the Salmon Festival at the Leavenworth National Fish Hatchery. Corky Broaddus has been a part of the festival for 22 years and talks with pride about what it stands for and how much it has grown. It was one of the first nature festivals in the country and serves as a model for programs nationwide. What is unique about Salmon Festival is it promotes outdoor recreation while providing high quality natural resource education in a fun, familyfriendly environment.

The first two days of Salmon Festival are dedicated to the students. Over 2,500 children from more than 85 classrooms are expected to visit on Thursday and Friday. For many schools this will be the only field trip they take all year long so the staff aims to make their experience extra special. Salmon Festival is expanding this year and one of the highlights will be representatives from 20 Native American tribes; including the local Wenatchis, on hand to share a wide variety of knowledge and skills. Salmon preparation, drumming, dancing, basket making, canoeing and storytelling are just a few of the areas that will be covered by the tribal representatives. The participation of the Native American community is of the utmost importance as the fish hatchery is located on traditional Aboriginal lands.

As a part of the local community since 1991 locals are well aware of the value of the of the Salmon Festival but the word has spread far and wide. The event has been the recipient of several awards over the years including the International Festival and Events Association's "Best Children's Program" award. Staff and volunteers work tirelessly year-round to make the festival happen. Corky Broaddus says that without the help of the volunteers the Salmon Festival would not happen. She made special students that are eager to come and get their hands dirty every year to help out. This year Cascade High School will be receiving the Volunteer of the Year award, having worked to make the festival a success since it's inception. Broaddus says that every year she sees a number of visitors who came to the festival as children and high schoolers back to visit with their own families and that's one of the many reasons why she volunteers year after

There are many organizations that partner with the Fish Hatchery to make Salmon Festival successful. The Chelan County PUD and their River Ramble activities will be available for students on September 19-20, with some also available on the free family day on Saturday. A few of these activities include the 30 foot long Salmon Storytelling Tent and a traditional drumming demonstration. The curators of the Salmon Festival want it to be an inter-generational experience where grandparents can come with the little ones and learn and play together. With so many distractions for young people that encourage them to sit and stare at a screen, Salmon Festival is a rare free opportunity for the whole family to have fun and learn new things while enjoying the great outdoors.

Salmon Festival Volunteer Award 2019

Congratulations to Students of Cascade High School The Wenatchee River Salmon Festival is proud to announce that the Cascade High School Student Body has been named recipient of the prestigious Volunteer of the Year Award for 2019! From left, Vice Principal Rudy Joya and Cascade Discovery High School teacher, Travis Blue are proud of their students and school for contributing thousands of hours to Salmon Fest through its 29 years assisting festival staff, serving the public, and providing invaluable assistance to natural resource education specialists and schools throughout North Central Washington.

By John Kruse

THE PERFECT TIME OF YEAR FOR A HIKE

There's something about September if you like to hike the mountains and forests of our state. Perhaps it's the crisp feel of the air in the morning in the lowlands and in the mountains throughout the day. Maybe it's the softer light that shows off the pastel of changing colors of the foliage to yellow and scarlet. Or maybe it's just the fact that hordes of summer hikers are by and large off the trails after Labor Day.

Whatever the reason, it's a good month to go hiking. One great destination this time of year is found at Stuart Lake in the Alpine Lakes Wilderness. The trailhead to Stuart and Colchuck Lake southeast of Leavenworth is a popular one, so much so the U.S. Forest Service had to institute a noparking policy along the side of the gravel road leading to the parking lot. Having said that, if you can visit mid-week, you'll still find quite a few cars at the trailhead but surprisingly few hikers heading towards Stuart Lake as their destination. The reason? Most hikers are heading up the trail 2 ¼ miles to Mountaineer Creek and taking a left on a trail that takes them to Colchuck Lake. This lake is a beautiful destination in its own right and also the gateway, via Aasgard Pass on the far side of the lake, to the Upper Enchantments that draw thousands of hardy visitors every year.

Of the hikers that stay straight on the trail to Stuart Lake you'll find many of them are climbers, not interested in spending time at the lake but instead, interesting in testing themselves on the granite rock face of nearby Mount Stuart. That's why, even with a parking lot full of cars, you may find yourself alone or with very little company along the shoreline of Stuart Lake. Take the time and linger over the picnic lunch you hopefully brought along to enjoy after the 4 ½ mile hike in with a 1,665-foot elevation gain from the trailhead. The views of the lake and towering mountains are amazing and at this time of year you'll see the changing colors of the larch trees turning from green to bright yellow to Mepps or Promise Keeper spinner or if fly fishing, an attractor fly like a Royal Wulff to draw strikes. The trout population is healthy but not endless so if you want to keep a couple for a shore lunch over a gas stove that's fine but otherwise consider catching and releasing these fish that measure anywhere from 7 to 13 inches in size.

A Forest Service Recreation Pass is required in your vehicle for the Stuart Lake trailhead. You'll also need an overnight permit (available but in high demand) from the Leavenworth Ranger District Office or through an online lottery since Stuart Lake lies within the Enchantment Zone of the Alpine Lakes Wilderness. On the other hand, you only need to fill out a free permit at the trailhead and deposit the stub into the box there for a day hike.

Looking for other fall hiking opportunities? We reached out to Anna Roth with the Washington Trails Association to learn about some of her favorites which include:

NE WASHINGTON WHISTLER CANYON TRAIL

This little-known destination is located near Oroville. You'll burn some calories as you gain up to 3,000 feet of elevation along this 12-mile long trail which is part of the Pacific Northwest Trail. Its open to hikers and horses and offers stunning views of the Okanogan Valley and Osoyoos Lake along with a chance to see a variety of wildlife species from wild turkey to mule deer

to mountain goats. OLYMPIC PENINSULA QUINAULT NATIONAL RECREATION TRAILS

Located near Lake Quinault, enjoy a 4.25-mile round trip hike that takes you along an interpretive nature loop amongst giant Sitka spruce and western hemlock. Other parts of the trail follow the shore of Lake Quinault and alongside Falls Creek. This is a family friendly hike with only 350 feet of elevation gain.

If you go hiking this September remember there are several hunting seasons underway in our National Forests so hot pink and blaze orange are not only fashionable, but smart choices for hikers to wear. If you want other ideas about where to go hiking this fall, check out the online hiking guide at www. wta.org

Chelan Volleyball captains strike spikes of confidence

CHELAN -- The co-captains for the Chelan Varsity Volleyball squad are lifelong friends Leanna Garfoot and Emma McLaren. Appropriately enough, Garfoot sets the shots for outside hitter McLaren as they have been doing for years.

The pair could almost pass for sisters not only in looks, but in cheerful attitudes and disciplined approach to playing the game.

They are two of three varsity players on the Goat squad joined by one freshman, two sophomores and four juniors.

The pair are happy and dedicated regarding their leadership position on the team.

"We want to set a good example to others," they both said

The two also play for club volleyball team Kahiau, which means "to give generously without expecting anything in return"

It summarizes how the ladies feel about sports and life in general.

The two 17-year-olds are headed for college after they graduate in 2020.

CHELAN - The Chelan High School football team hosted Warden on Friday, Sept. 13 at Sargent Field, and came out on top 49-20.

The Goats host South Whidbey on Sept. 20.

Game time is 7 p.m.

"That win was 100% because of our players effort and enthusiasm. We executed on offense and played tough, physical defense. We held the to 36 yards of rushing and a total of 136 vards of total offense. When you do that and run the ball the way we did you always have a chance to win. Our coaches did a good job putting kids in the right places and our players did a good job of executing their jobs, while being physical.

We will need to get back to work early. South Whidbey is very big and strong. They will be a great challenge for us going into week 3."

Stage 1 fire restrictions lifted; campfires and woodcutting allowed

SUBMITTED BY USFS

WENATCHEE - Forest visitors will be able to enjoy campfires in most areas of the national forest soon.

Stage 1 public use fire restrictions, namely restrictions on the use of campfires in dispersed recreation areas, that have been in effect in the Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest will be lifted on Friday, September 13, 2019. This means recreationists will be able to have wood and charcoal campfires in all areas of the national forest that are normally open to

With the recent precipitation, higher humidity, and colder nighttime temperatures, we felt it is now appropriate to lift all remaining campfire bans," said Rob Allen, fire management officer for the Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest. "We very much appreciate the public's understanding and cooperation while the campfire bans were in place."

Forest visitors still need to be aware that fire hazard still exists, especially if warmer weather returns. Allen added. Visitors should be careful with all fires, including hunter warming fires, and make sure they are completely out and cold to the touch before leaving their campsite.

The improved weather has also influenced the Industrial Fire Precaution Level (IFPL) that governs woodcutting in the Okanogan-Wenatchee Forest. Also on Friday, the IFPL will go to Level 1 which allows woodcutting all day long. Go to https://www.dnr. wa.gov/ifpl for current IFPL information.

LAKE CHELAN SENIOR MEN'S GOLF DIVISION

SUBMITTED BY BOB MATSON, LAKE CHELAN SENIOR MEN'S GOLF DIVISION

CHELAN - The Lake Chelan Senior Men's Golf Club met on Tuesday, Sept. 10 in place of Wednesday, Sept. 11 to allow practice rounds to be played in advance of a tournament scheduled at the Lake Chelan Golf Course the weekend of September 14 and 15.

Prior to play, the group welcomed new member, Chuck Rhoden and visiting member, Bob Sessous. At the pre-play meeting there was a request made for a volunteer to act as the Field Day Captain for the Leavenworth Golf Course Club outing scheduled for Oct. 2. Ellis Nierenberg, commonly known as Mr. Super Volunteer, agreed to act as the Field Day Captain.

Member attendance was low this week due to rainy weather conditions. Most of the members escaped the rain but the last few foursomes to return to CJ's on the Course Restaurant did encounter severe rain conditions.

The members game competitions included a "Shambles" contest which enables the players to hit their second shots from the location of the best tee shot recorded by anyone in their group. The players then follow regular play rules to finish the hole. This game favors high handicap golfers who can benefit from tee shots made by low handicap golfers. The game competitions also included a "Fewest Total Putts" contest which tends to favor low handicap golfers.

The game competition results for Tuesday, Sept. 10 are as follows:

For the Shambles Contest, Gordon Rice was the winner (Net Score 58), Lyle Burns took second place (Net Score 60) and Chuck Mallow was third (Net Score 64). The Lowest Number of Putts Contest winners were Cliff House (27 Total Putts), Mike Storey (29 Total Putts) and Mike Giffin (29 Total Putts). The Closest to the Pin with their second shot on Hole #4 competition was won by Doug Rowand (Distance 9' 6"). Gary Searle was a double winner by recording two lost balls in the Most Lost Balls contest and by making the best Mega Par 3 Contest Closest to the Pin Shot on Hole #11 (Distance 12' 4").

Senior Men's Golf Club Members were reminded the Lake Chelan Men's Golf Club will be holding their September Club Meeting on Sunday Sept. 22. Senior Men's Golf Club members that attend the meeting after regular play will be treated to a free lunch served by CJ's on the Course Restaurant.

During the month of September, both the Senior Men's Golf Club which holds regular play on Wednesdays and the Men's Golf Club which holds regular play on Sundays, tee off at 9 a.m. at the Lake Chelan Golf Course. Guest are welcome to join both the Senior Men's and Men's Golf Clubs for regular play with no advance notice required.
