

Manson Community Council debates on Blackcap Farm support

BY DIANA PIÑON STAFF WRITER

MANSON – Blackcap Farm representatives were present at the Manson Community Council meeting on Sept. 18 to request the council's support for the Sept. 19 hearing.

"Blackcap Farm has come out and spoken to the public, there's an email I received from Guy and it has information and details about the process and I have the staff report right here from the County," said Council Chair Kim Ustanik.

"The staff has recommended approval, it is a good report of the public process, the modifications and the plan they have taken place in response to this project," added Ustanik.

She clarified that Blackcap Farm requested that they make affirmative vote or statement on these things, "the project fits into the zoning as prescribed by the Community UGA in 2009, the project has followed all applicable rules and has modified details in line of public comment, the project offers needed housing to Manson community, the project features an inclusive design with trails and open spaces that connect it to the larger neighborhoods, said Ustanik.

Real Estate agent Guy Evans, developer Ed Gallaudet and architectural designer/engineer Jonathan Davis, were present to answer any question the council had regarding Blackcap Farm.

The first to talk was Evans, "the project has come a long way .. it doesn't allow any vacation rentals as we discussed, we are just here to request the support from the council."

Both Kathy Blum and Kathy Miller did not get a chance to look at the staff report before the meeting. Due to this a member of the public requested the council to postpone making a decision that night and waiting for the next meeting.

"The hearing is tomorrow, so depending on what these folks right here say or agree to, if there is a comment, it would be made by us as a group or we would decline to make a comment. Those who have had the opportunity to read or will read it tonight will have the opportunity to make their own individual comment," replied Ustanik.

Regardless of this request by Blackcap Farm, Miller stated that she addressed a letter to the Chelan County Department of Community Development. "I did have concerns, basically being an orchardist, I really have a problem with the prime development being so close to an active farming orchard. They said that they were going to advise to whoever bought the homes in that area that there will be an orchard practice next to them ... I still have a concern with rental properties, I think it is neat idea but they could only have 30 day rentals which I find it very hard to enforce ... I have a great deal of concern with the closeness of the homes and not having adequate position for the EMTs and emergency department to get close to a fire and the homes being so close together," said Miller as to what some of her concerns were.

Along with that, Miller stated, "I don't think there has been adequate notice of the public hearing, I heard some people were not even aware that this meeting was going to be due on the 19."

Miller informed the representatives that Brian Patterson made the council aware that the hearing was going to take place, she also stated that the County didn't informed them about the hearing until about a week and a half ago.

"Knowing that the community was so against this project before, I would like to see another open meeting just to receive some information ... I would support this project if we had another open meeting," Miller said.

On the other hand Kathy Blum stated, "I agree with Kathy's point on the housing being near the orchard and the practices that are going on there. My problem is, one gentleman was killed there this summer because he was walking in the middle of the street in the dark and numerous times this summer, there were people walking on Manson Boulevard towards Manson and I watched a lot of people hit the brakes, go around. I am not saying

Matt Brown represents the North Central Region in Olympia

BY DIANA PIÑON STAFF WRITER

MANSON – Manson Secondary School's music teacher Matt Brown was selected as Regional Teacher of the Year back in May and earlier this month he traveled to Olympia to compete for State Teacher of the Year.

Nine people from around the state were selected as Teachers of the Year for their particular region and they were all present in Olympia for four days. The nominees had to give TED talk and answered questions in front a panel.

"They were amazing people," said Brown "all nine us just greeted each other and shared ideas, we shared energy, something that we all shared was the passion for teaching," he added.

Brown describes those four days as a "conference of ideas," everyone shared what they do in their respective classrooms. "We all had different backgrounds, the person who was chosen as Teacher of the Year is a Family and Consumer Sciences teacher ... there was a Biology teacher, a Math teacher, a second grade teacher," Brown stated.

He was the only Music teacher nominee, "I shared what is like to have a successful program in a small school ... I think that we face certain challenges but with a positive outlook we can overcome a lot of those challenges."

His experience as a Teacher of the Year nominee allowed Brown to speak to many "decision makers ... it was exciting, I learned how to use my voice, it was amazing."

"To me it was an honor getting chosen as Region

What is next for Manson Parks?

BY DIANA PIÑON STAFF WRITER

MANSON – During the Manson Community Council Meeting on Sept. 18, Manson Park and Recreation Director Robin Pittman had updates for the council and the attendees.

"We had announced earlier that we were attempting to acquire the property at Ernie's and we are very, very disappointed to say that it didn't worked out ... we put a lot time and energy into it and it just did not worked out," said Pittman.

Since they were not able to acquire the property, now Parks is talking about making improvements to Manson Bay Park. "Right now we are in talks with the PUD just trying to figure out how we proceed from here because they have the ownership and hold leases in 98% of the property here in Manson Bay, so right now we are just working on getting a meeting scheduled, figure out where they stand on it," she added.

At the moment, Manson Parks maintains and operates Manson Bay Park.

Pittman also reported that Parks has gotten feedback from the community, "everybody wants to see more water access, everybody wants to see more green space and see what type of improvements we can do on that."

Parks has been facing other bumps along the way, some having to do with the state's RCO Grant. "What happened there was that the PUD was making some changes and we are no longer able to use RCO Grants on PUD land, so that was a big hit," Pittman said.

Manson Parks Board Chairman Rob Campbell explained why Parks wasn't able to purchase Ernie's, "we were working with a local group that was willing to fund it, wholly with us paying them back ... these are some locals who are really familiar, particularly with gas station properties. They were not willing to move forward without an environmental study being done, we needed 40 days, when we had the paper work ready to sign, they got an offer of no contingencies, cash in one week and everything we had, that night they got an offer, the perfect offer for a gas station."

Campbell reported to the council that he has spoken to the current owners letting them know that Parks is still interested in that property. "I do not know if it's out of the question, but nonetheless it's a huge disappointment from our part," he said.

Kim Ustanik offered the council's total support to Parks in case it is needed.

"So many people in the community are pro Manson Parks and I think that whatever is needed if the word is put out there the public will always support the parks," said Kathy Blum.

Zombies to invade Downtown Chelan: Thriller 2018

BY DIANA PIÑON STAFF WRITER

CHELAN – Back in 2012, 39 community members were part of the very first Thriller dance in Chelan. It is now back and the community will be able to witness the more than a dozen zombies dancing in Downtown Chelan on Wednesday, Oct. 31 at 6 p.m.

"It started off as lady's bucket list item and she asked me to teach her Thriller," said Jen Phillips.

That first Thriller happened, Phillips described it as "magical ... we did it again two years afterwards and we didn't get as many people." Due to this it took a while to bring Thriller back up again.

The other day Phillips saw a lady that was involved with Thriller years back, "when Locals practice the Thriller dance. This was the second practice in Chelan for the group.

I saw her, I said you were in Thriller, we need to do it again it's time."

This year around 35 are participating in Thriller, 20 of them from Chelan, eight from Manson and eight from Wenatchee. Phillips wants these group of people to "discover their own genius," while bringing their own magic and having fun while dancing.

"What I love is that we get to break social taboos such laying down in the middle of the street, staring at strangers, we are not trying at all to fit in," said Phillips.

By doing this, Phillips gets to meet friends of all ages she never knew she had, "they are my instant friends, it's like a little community."

For the first time Natalie Jenkins will be dancing Thriller, "I wanted to get more involved with the com-

Teacher of the Year and I just went into it with the feeling of I'm going to speak from my heart and I know that when I do that whatever happens is going to be positive ... it felt less of a competitive thing," said Brown.

The students, staff and administration showed total support to Brown. "The day before I felt, I went to get a District vehicle and the entire school had put sticky notes on the inside of the car with just really meaningful notes and I was just great until I made it to the car, it was a lot of emotions," explained Brown.

He said he read the sticky notes before doing the panel interview in Olympia, "it was a nice reminder of who I am representing and why I am doing what I am doing." He will now frame every single sticky note as a memory that will last forever.

"I am very appreciative of the staff and the administration they have really helped the program to thrive," Brown described how much the music program in Manson has grown over the years. "This program started as high school band of 18 and now we have over a third of the high school in music and over 90 percent of the middle school is in music," he stated.

Every sixth grader in Manson has the opportunity to play music regardless of any factor, "it's because of the community support, the staff support, parents and administration."

Now Brown has a few goals in mind, "I still plan on being a voice for small schools, for music educators as well and for those that are in both situations, in small schools and as music teachers ... and to spread positivity what I mean is looking at situations and going to them with a solution ... it can change lives."

So far Jenkins has attended two practices, "I love it, I remember all the dance moves ... it's exciting," she said.

Jenkins loves everything about Thriller, in particular the fact that they "get to be free." Already thinking about the day of the perfor-

Manson Band travels to UW Husky Band Day

By DIANA PIÑON STAFF WRITER

MANSON – Fifty Manson band students traveled to Seattle and performed during the Husky football half time show on Saturday, Sept. 22.

The students had the chance to rehearse with the Husky Band early that day on the field and also enjoyed a performance by the Husky Band, “it’s so energetic and inspiring,” said Brown. The Trojans also had the opportunity to watch the football game at the Husky Stadium.

“Every year we have done this the kids come back pretty excited,” Brown added.

The Trojans have been attending the UW Husky Band Day ever since Brown started teaching in Manson. He used to be a member of the Husky Marching Band himself, so from there the students wanted to attend the event.

The bands played five songs altogether, “as the years have progressed the reading ability of the students has increased and were getting the music pretty darn solid, confidence level is way up.”

Last year, the Trojan Band attended WSU Band Day

“that was great experience ... great program there too, that was really neat,” said Brown.

Brown is planning on switch off going to UW and WSU every year, “I think we will go WSU Band Day next year and Husky Band the year after that, I like to show as many different opportunities to kids as possible,” he said.

A community member asked why the property wasn’t purchased before, to this Campbell answered “we are working in a slow fashion and getting the steps done that we needed to take, the comprehensive plan was one of them and getting an engineering firm on board ... it takes times to get these things in place and we working our way that direction we are making process, we are on the track to get there.”

Manson Parks has a list of projects they want to complete, some of those projects include fixing up erosion at Willow Point and the playground at Singleton Park, all they need is money to get the projects completed.

Manson Parks generates money from property taxes which equals about 40 percent, the rest comes from the Marina, boat launch fees, camping fees and they also received other small amount from different places.

Every second Thursday of every month the Manson Park Committee meets at 4:10 p.m. at Manson Parks Office, 142 Pedoi St. in Manson.

that it is Blackcap’s responsibility to build sidewalks all the way to town, it would nice if it was, but I think the County is out of mind in not having adequate infrastructure to go with these type of developments that are going up on a rural area.”

To Blum Blackcap Farm, “is nothing like Manson has, Manson is little country town, this is just going to stick out. It is nothing like in this community or in Chelan.”

Member Jorge Valencia also added to the conversation, “since the last meeting, did you guys do any chances based on the concerns people have on the project, any changes at all?” he asked.

Davis answered, “there’s a list conditions that were attached to the staff report which kind of address many of the concerns that were brought up, soil issues, sprinkler fire, traffic, all of that is in there.”

Gallaudet claimed that changes were made based on four different presentations to the public, “since then we have been tweaking things and addressing concerns and have been put in the report. We have been refining it, I do want to say one of the requirements for the rentals is not a 30 day but a 90 day rental period.”

Since Secretary Jeremy Jaech was absent at the meeting, he left some comments for the council. Ustanik read Jaech comment on this issue out loud, “number one I support the Blackcap Farm as I currently understand it, I will be fine with either providing a letter of support or just stating we do not have any issues with it.”

“We as a council should vote on whether or not we are going to send out a letter,” said Blum.

Blum wants the planning department to be aware of the fact that a lot of community members feel that they were not given adequate information that addressed issues and concerns for such a large project such as this one.

To add to this Miller asked the representatives if they ever considered hosting another open community meeting.

“The project has been discussed for over a year so ... I think we are all struggling with limited amount of time resources ... we have to make some decisions and get some work done,” Evans said.

“It is clear that two perhaps three of you are not in support of the project based on your believes and on other’s that you talked to and that’s a valid point that needs to be heard by the county. I just don’t know the council well enough to know which of those two it is,” he added.

Evans also hinted at the council that they should put all their personal opinions aside and see pass them, “they have done everything they need to do.”

To this comment Ustanik responded, “I am going to avoid giving any personal opinions at this time, but I would like to express that at least as far as I understand, the process in the County whether they stumble all over their own feet and fall on their faces, they are struggling right now ... at this point the Manson Community Council is supposed to be representing the community, we are the pulse and the opinion and as Kathy said as far as she can understand it, it appears that you guys have done what you have been asked to do, you have done your indulgence according to the rules and County and whatever the case is and there are feelings, our role is to give our perspective on how our community feels about something.”

A couple of community members had comments and questions regarding the development.

Sarah Cushing reported to the council that she attended all Blackcap Farm meetings and that the concerns from the community had to do with vacation rentals, house density and affordable housing. “Where is the declaration that says there are not going to have rentals? Where are those declarations? I read the staff report and it is not in there,” asked Cushing.

“They are being drafted and we do not finalize them until typically we are building the houses and things,” replied Davis.

“One of the conditions is that the rentals are 90 days or more ... we will make sure it’s written there and the CCNRs will have to support that. So will make sure that condition is there, it will run with the land,” added Gallaudet.

Blackcap Farm committed to change from vacation rentals to long term rentals back in May.

Gallaudet also clarified that only a week ago the staff report was issued and that was when they saw it, “we have been going through it every day, making sure ev-

Orchard Arsenic and Lead Legacy

Spraying dry lead on apple trees(Washington State Historical Society, A.G. Simmer, 1925)

An effective means of controlling pests in orchards was to spray the trees with a mix of lead and/or arsenic. This practice continued into the 1950s. As lead and arsenic are elements, they do not go away. As such old orchards are often locations of residual contamination. Other pesticides may be present as well from past agricultural activities, but the long term use of lead and arsenic simply do not go away.

“Conversion of agricultural land to residential or other uses has created a potential risk to human health due to the residual soil contamination. Washington State Department of Ecology has been attempting to address this issue and has conducted numerous soil cleanups where schools have been located on former orchards with elevated lead and arsenic levels in the soil,” Dan McShane/July 28, 2016

STUDENT ATHLETES OF THE WEEKS

CHELAN High School Student-Athlete of the Week

Ashley Sams-Soccer

Ash has had a great season so far with two shutouts last week against Manson and Pateros. She played a tough game against Brewster which ended in double overtime and a shootout. Ashley had a save in the shootout which led the goats to a 3-2 win over Brewster! She has been playing with confidence and directing play on the field which has been huge for us this season. In addition to her playing, Ashley is one of the three captains this season and has been a leader and role model for the other girls on and off the field. We are thrilled with her performance so far this season, and look forward to the games to come. Go Goats!

-Coach Williams

CHELAN Middle School Student-Athlete of the Week

Luke Simmons-MS XC

This is Luke's 3rd year on the middle school team and he has really stepped up as a leader this season. Luke shows up and works hard at every practice and is a great role model to his younger teammates.

We look forward to watching Luke grow as a runner in high school cross country next year!

Another win for the Goats Chelan 49 - Granger 7

SUBMITTED BY TRAVIS DOMSER, HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

Our kids played extremely hard again this week. I am so proud of these players effort, attitude, and enthusiasm. We are excited to start our league play, and get to work for the Okanogan game. Our offensive and defensive lineman dominated the line of scrimmage, we didn't miss many tackles. When you do that you give yourself a good chance of winning.

Our defense is going into league with back to back shutouts and our offense is averaging over 30 points. To say we are excited for next week would be an understatement. These players and these seniors are extremely excited to play Okanogan at home this week!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Honoring Dick and Shirley Cochran

Before our special friend Dick Cochran passed he requested that many boxes of items including lots of clothing be donated to the Kiwanis Club which he was a proud member of for many years. Dick and Shirley were cornerstones in our community thru their gardening-flowers and vegetable booths at the farmers market, years of teaching ice skating for free to families at Roses Lake. Their continued involvement with 4H, FFA and the Chelan County Fair.

Their contributions to the Manson community can hardly be measured. It was Dick's desire that funds from the sale of these boxes of items would be donated to the Manson Kiwanis Club. Since Manson Methodist Church (also Dick and Shirley's home church) hosts two very successful yard sales for Habitat for Humanity, it was considered an appropriate move to donate these items to the Habitat sale in honor of Dick and Shirley. The money from the yard sale goes directly to the Chelan Valley building of Habitat homes in partnership with families selected from the valley.

Kiwanis felt this was an appropriate way to show their appreciation for all the ways Dick and Shirley touched our community. Not only will community members be able to buy items at a very reduced price but the funds, in turn help build affordable housing.

Another great way to honor the impact Dick and Shirley had on our community and in honor of Dick and Shirley, Kiwanis presents these items of clothing to the Habitat for Humanity yard sale.

Amiko Severns

Kiwanis of Manson

LCCH provides this test to all CHS student-athletes

The 2018 girls soccer team taking the baseline test.

SUBMITTED BY ROB RAINVILLE
M.S. ASSOCIATE PRINCIPAL/
DISTRICT ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

CHELAN - Chelan Athletics would like to thank Dr. Trent Lyman and the Lake Chelan Community Hospital for all their support with our student-athletes. There are many programs they provide for us. Most recently, with all the concerns around concussions, Dr. Lyman and his staff have provided a concussion baseline test that our student-athletes take, which in return, becomes an added resource for them to use when an injury may occur. Impact testing is a program that Dr. Lyman and his staff use to assist when making a diagnosis on a concussion. The test is $40 a student-athlete. The LCCH provides this test to all our CHS student-athletes that play contact sports free of charge.

All football and girls soccer student-athletes have taken this concussion test. In the future, wrestling, girls and boys basketball, boys soccer, baseball and softball student-athletes will take the concussion baseline test before their seasons begin.

We are fortunate to have so much support in Chelan in keeping our student-athletes safer and more informed. We thank all of you for your service and Go Goats!

To get started, follow the instructions at RedCrossBlood.org/RapidPass or use the Blood Donor App.

How to help
