A smoke, rain-free Woodstock Concert

By DIANA PIÑON, STAFF WRITER

CHELAN - The 49th anniversary of Woodstock benefit fundraiser for Chelan Valley Hope was held on Saturday, August 25 at Campbell's Resort Ballroom. Dressed in tie dye people were able to enjoy door prizes, costume prizes, food and music from Woodstock.

The event turned out to be better than expected, regardless of venue changes. "Moving the event last minute is a challenge ... it is a really hard thing to do, I was nervous about," said Catharine Morehead.

The ballroom was a donation from the Campbell family. "The Campbell's were profoundly receptive," when Morehead had a talk with them about securing a space for the event at the resort.

The smoke from the nearby fires didn't allow for the event be outdoors. On top of that, the Saturday rain would've made it difficult for the attendees to stay put for the four hour concert.

Having the event indoors made it even more successful, "We had a full house, I think throughout the evening the total amount of people who came through would've been around 250 people," added Morehead.

None of this would've been possible without the local musicians who performed and the Chelan Valley Hope volunteers. "These people are dedicated to Chelan Valley Hope, these people are doing this truly of their heart," said Morehead.

This year the silent auction was extended and there was new items. The Sunset Mariana donated a Boat Slip Moorage and Club house privileges, which was the biggest item in the auction.

A final count has not been finalized and donations are still coming in for the organization.

All the money received from tickets, the auction, food and T-shirt sales will go to support Chelan Valley Hope, who provides assistance to those within our community in crisis and need.

"Next year for the 50th I would love to have it a little bigger, I would like to start talking with groups around the area, local musicians. This is a local event, the funds stay here, that is really important," Morehead said.

It's all about science: How a genetic test helped Linda Rau recover her health

By Diana Piñon Staff Writer

MANSON – After going to eight doctors, several of them specialists and not finding the cause to her multitude of health issues, Linda Rau decided to take the 23andMe genetic test.

Living with the best possible health has always been a personal goal for Rau for the last 30 years. However, her health deteriorated in June of 2015, "I began experiencing a myriad of health issues, which altered the way I had to live my life on a daily basis."

Describing the various symptoms easily required Rau two or three handwritten pages. Her symptoms "came suddenly and without a plausible explanation."

Over the course of a few weeks, Rau had to seek medical care. "I received lab work, as well as numerous, extensive, diagnostic tests," said Rau.

After all the testing was done, absolutely nothing was discovered to be causing her ongoing health issues. "For the next two and a half years, my daily activities remained restricted," explained Rau.

Looking for a different option, in early January of this year, Rau became interested in taking the 23and Me genetic test. "I sent my saliva sample to the California lab and in six weeks I received the results," stated Rau.

She then emailed the results to Dr. John Moma at

Manson Community Council debates on turning the commercial district into residential area

By DIANA PIÑON STAFF WRITER

MANSON – The Manson Community Council met at the Manson Parks Office on August 21 in order to discuss the re-request for text change from 2017 regarding residential on lower level behind County and State roads.

Present at the meeting were Chairman Kim Ustanik, Vice Chair Kathy Blum, Secretary-Treasurer Jeremy Jaech and Council members Kathy Miller. Manson community members were also present at the monthly meeting.

Bob Knauss reminded the Council of the agreement from awhile back on "the ground floor residential use, we had agreed that the ground floor residential use would be an allow use provided to the not front public street." Knauss opened up a discussion by asking the council what their thoughts on this were, he also reported to them that he has "a client that is looking at property that is over by the Stevens property and he is willing to submit for the text

From a friendship to mentorship

By DIANA PIÑON STAFF WRITER

CHELAN – Usually to become a mentor for Thrive Chelan Valley, first the person interested needs to start a process by filling out an application, conducting an interview with leadership team members, completing an online course and passing a background check before Thrive could pair them up with a kid from the valley.

For Sharon and Jerry Cook the process was a little different. "Mario and our daughter go to the high school together and they became friends. We got to know Mario through their friendship, we got told about him and some of the struggles that he goes through and we developed a friendship," said Sharon.

"Meeting him for the first time and learning his struggles and the cultural differences were an eye opener for us," said Jerry.

The Cooks friendship with Mario came about in January of this year. After getting some direction for those initial conversations with Mario, school counselors and Sarah Barnes "suggested we do the Thrive program with Mario and get involved with a little more structure."

Love and support are two things we often get to experience on a regular basis, however others are not too fortunate and lack those two important things. Due to this

23AND ME

NaturoMedica, in Issaquah. Dr. Moma is a doctor with a genetic background who could interpret scientific results. In March, Rau learned the 23andMe test results from Dr. Moma, “the most significant discovery was that I have a genetic anomaly to zinc, a mineral that I had been taking in various nutritional supplements for many years.”

The test results had an explanation to why she wasn’t amendment.” The Stevens property is across from the North Shore Church.

Ustanik clarified Knauss request to the council, “his request is that in the commercial area residential use be allowed on ground floor that doesn’t front a public street. Currently you need to have residential up above and business, commercial on the lower level.”

Since the initial request for text change happened long ago, Jaech couldn’t quite recall the exact location Knauss is proposing to get changed. “I want to make sure I understand this, is this area outside the triangle?,” asked Jaech.

“Yes, it is commercial downtown,” responded Miller, then she proceeded to show Jaech the exact location on the map.

“The area that we are talking about is the whole CD Zoning, right now in that CD Zoning like Kim said residential is only allowed on top ... the concern was that if they were public streets, we are taking away from that pedestrian walk-through environment,” clarified Knauss.

MENTOR

Sharon and Jerry wanted to make a difference in Mario’s life and get involved with Thrive Mentoring.

Barnes had a conversation with Mario about joining Thrive, which he didn’t oppose to, he just wanted the Cooks to be his mentors. Their relationship with Mario before Thrive made everything a lot easier, “that connection was already there.”

The Cooks have been officially Mario’s Thrive mentors since the end of the last feeling well since 2015. “A local pharmacists provided me with this simple explanation for why the zinc had such an adverse effect on my body. He said, the body is well balanced, but for you the zinc upsets that balance.”

Immediately Rau stopped taking all supplements containing zinc, however she could still consume zinc in foods without any difficulties. The 23andMe results also indicated her that she had a strong possibility for onset of macular degeneration if she didn’t stop taking the supplewould be done by Knauss client.

Council members had their own opinions to share to Knauss request.

“I do not think Bob that everybody agreed to that, I do not think that the community council did agree to that Bob, nor do I think the committee agreed to that. I was on the committee and I was on the community council and it was still open for discussion,” stated Blum. “We had meetings on it and at no time did we agreed on the ground floor on the commercial area should become residential,” Blum added.

To this Knauss requested for Blum to go back to last year’s minutes and read them.

“My recollection was that there was a big group of us that worked on it and submitted it to the community council, this was before I had positioned at the council and yes, if there was work after that the community council carried on and had another project,” said Ustanik.

“The community council wanted to put a group together to address the issue which they did ... so that group made a list of suggestions for the council and that issue of the residential use of ground floor was agreed to and that was going to be school year. Since then, the couple have taken Mario grocery shopping, school shopping and also gone to Silverwood in Idaho for a fun getaway.

“He calls me mom, I think I am a motherly figure to him, sometimes he wants to talk, so we just a cup of coffee and sit there and talk,” said Sharon. This is also something new for Sharon and she is always thinking about the questions and answers she should give to Mario, because she doesn’t want to cross boundaries Mario has with his family.

“Within 24 hours of stopping all zinc, I began to feel some physical relief, for which I was more than grateful. It was probably six to eight weeks when I finally sensed that I was symptom free, as my body corrected itself back to itself back to its normal, balanced state,” explained Rau.

Rau also received an understanding of other numerous benefits from the 23and Me test such as:

- The best form of Vitamin B12 suited for her
- Medications she shouldn’t presented to the council and I believe it was,” explained Knauss.

However, things got sidetracked when instead of doing a text amendment for the triangle a talk for zone change was brought up.

If Knauss project were to happen, 10 apartments will open up. The apartments would be considered affordable housing. “First time that we would have affordable housing in Manson, just throwing it out there. We have not yet gotten affordable housing and this would be the opportunity,” said Jaech.

• Food recommendations what to eat and what not to eat

- A likelihood that she would not have significant weight issues
- Recommended supplements to protect her eyesight
- The strong propensity to be able to live past the age of 90
- How to best support her methylation
- A decreased risk of particular type of cancer
- The significance importance for regular exercise

• How to decrease the risk of Alzheimer’s

“I benefited immensely from the 23andMe genetic test ... others might want to know their genetic makeup so they can take steps to cooperate with their genes in order to acquire their best health possible” said Rau.

She added, “it is very important to know who we are genetically so we can take the appropriate steps to protect ourselves physically, emotionally and spiritually.”

some who appear to not be in favor of that. So we would have to determine that when it comes through us,” said Ustanik.

Miller also had her own opinion, “I need to go into it a little bit more, but I understand where you are coming from ... affordable housing is a term that is too often know is, what is affordable housing, but I will listen to it and I do think we need some housing and we do need affordable housing.”

Lastly Jaech contributed to the discussion, “based on what I know, I am sympathetic of what you are saying ... being able to reuse that space in some other manner makes sense to me.”

With this feedback from the council Knauss will move on with the process and take his request to the County.

In other business:
• Ustanik informed the council and the rest of the community present that the County did not make any requests for information this month, therefore there was not new business to present.

• A member of the public indicated that the County has given preliminary date of September 19, for the hearing to approve the Blackcap Farm development.

you more options and give you more resources that are available.”

For Sharon being part of Mario’s life has been positive, “there’s so many things that he’s never been able to experience before that have been kinda fun to be able to do with him.”

With Mario being one of the oldest kids involved in the program, the Cooks have not yet discussed whether or not they will continue to mentor younger kids in the program. “We will wait until Mario is done with high school and see what happens,” explained Jerry.

Sharon said, “it has been a good experience with Mario and I think with Mario our relationship isn’t going to end at the end of the school year.”

For this upcoming school year, the Cooks will work around their schedule to participate in the different Thrive Mentoring activities Carpenter plans out.

Chelan PUD celebrates reaching key financial mark

Utility assets financed by debt drops below 35 percent level

SUBMITTED BY KIMBERLEE CRAIG, CHELAN COUNTY PUD

WENATCHEE – Chelan County PUD, rated as one of the financially strongest public utilities in the country, has achieved another of its goals: a debt ratio below 35 percent.
 Kelly Boyd, chief financial/risk officer, and Heather Irelan, Treasury senior analyst, delivered the good news to PUD commissioners Monday. (at 00:45 on the meeting recording) “It’s taken discipline and commitment across the District to reach this goal. Our customer-owners asked us to reduce debt and strengthen our finances. With your leadership, and the focus of all employees, we have,” Boyd said.
 The target was set to be less than 35 percent by 2010. It is one of four key measures of the PUD’s financial strength. Financial results already exceeded the other targets.
 Chelan PUD has cut its debt nearly in half since 2010. The year-end balance is forecast at $513.5 million. Reducing debt is one of three strategic priorities, and responds to our customer-owners’ request that it be paid down.
 Customers benefit from less debt that helps keeps utility rates low. It also gives the District flexibility to meet challenges such as paying for repairs of aging dam turbines and generators and managing for lower wholesale market prices, Boyd said.

 Just like at home, if your mortgage is paid down it’s much easier to handle other expenses that may come up, without borrowing, she added.
 Following a round of applause, Board President Dennis Bolz thanked staff for staying focused on the target and bringing policies forward that keep the District on track to meet its financial objectives.
 “At one point the PUD’s debt was the major topic in town,” said board President Dennis Bolz. “It is a great success story and certainly worth telling.”
 Commissioner Steve McKenna said the accomplishment is inspiring and brought cake to celebrate. “To me, this is a big, big deal.”
 In other business, commissioners:
 • Reviewed comments received so far on a proposed rate for cryptocurrency and similar operations and heard from 11 people who spoke Monday. Commissioners extended the application moratorium and scheduled more discussion at the Sept. 17 board meeting. (02:05).

 • Reviewed possibilities for reducing the risk of fire damage to the high-voltage lines that bring power into the Chelan-Manson area. As part of the strategic priority to invest in PUD assets, customers asked the PUD to look at replacing or rerouting transmission lines at high risk from fire and storms. A study shows the two lines, which run side by side for 3.5 miles from Chelan Falls to Chelan, are in a high-risk fire zone. Steve Wickel, Transmission engineering manager, outlined possible approaches for “hardening” the line by replacing wood poles with steel. Staff plans to talk with the community before putting a project in the 2019 budget. (01:08)
 • Reviewed previously evaluated options for the strategic facilities plan that show the best long-term value is in a combined operations, service center and headquarters building at a location north of the Wenatchee River Bridge. Commissioners asked for the review after hearing concerns at their last meeting from a community member about the PUD leaving downtown Wenatchee. (01:40)

 • Accepted the proposal of Lydig Construction, Spokane Valley, for General Contractor/Construction Manager services for facilities improvements to support hydro operations at Rock Island and Rocky Reach dams. The cost is not to exceed $220,000 for this first step to finish design and negotiate a guaranteed maximum price for the construction projects. Staff will return to the board for approval to move ahead with construction, based on that price. (03:03)

- Heard that whitewater boating is suspended this year due to the unstable slope above Reach 2 in the Chelan Gorge. (01:50)
  - Received an update on federal legislation that PUD staff is closely watching to provide additional protection for salmon returning to Columbia River spawning areas from predator sea lions. The bill is set for a vote this month in the U.S. Senate and action is coming in the House.
Upcoming events:
• Sept. 4 – Commission meeting, 10 a.m., boardroom (re-
- scheduled due to Labor Day)
  - Sept. 14-15 – Fiestas Mexicanas, Lincoln Park, Wenatchee
  - Sept. 17 – Commission meeting, 10 a.m., boardroom, moratorium discussion at 1 p.m.
  - Oct. 1-6 – Public Power Week
  - Oct. 1 – Commission meeting, 10 a.m., boardroom
  - Oct. 5 – Public Power Week customer-owner Thank YOU!, 10-2 p.m., treats in office lobbies

Thelma L. Collins

In loving memory of Thelma L. Collins, age 89, who passed away peacefully on Saturday, August 25, 2018, following a brief illness. Thelma Glessner was born February 6, 1929, in Waterville. As a young girl (identical twin sister Velma) they were raised on the farm in Mansfield, Wash. Thelma was married to Grover Collins the “love of her life,” on July 4, 1944 at the age of 15! They were happily married for 66 years and lovingly raised three children, Grover Paul, Carmen and Reggie. Thelma was a giver, she never asked for anything, everyone else always came first especially her children, and their families. Thelma went to work at an early age helping the family. During her life the only job other than mothering was working at Beebe Orchard Company as an apple packer, which by the way she was one of the “Best”. Paid by the box, each apple was wrapped by hand with the label facing up! Thelma’s love other than her family was baseball! Whether watching the family sporting games or traveling to several World Series games with her twin sister she was all about baseball and the New York Yankees was her favorite team and Mickey Mantle, Pete Rose, Reggie Jackson and Steve Kline were her favorite players. Other activities Thelma enjoyed included traveling to Reno playing the machines, gardening with a special art of growing roses and of course her fried chicken dinners. But by far were the holiday gatherings with all the families at her home, playing card games as long as the family could stay awake! Thelma was proceeded in death by her husband Grover

L. on June 27, 2011. This event is open to all sailboats and sailors of all skill levels. Classes will include one design and Portsmouth. This year will include the “Bainbridge Cup” for the San Juan 21 class in tribute to Kelly Bainbridge, a San Juan 21 sailor who lost a battle with cancer in 2017.

Registration will be available starting at 8 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 8. The skipper’s meeting will be at 10 a.m. on Saturday with the first race starting at 11 a.m. No starts will occur after 4 p.m. on Saturday. Registration and skipper’s meeting are at Lakeshore Marina, near Don Morse Park.

The plan is to sail at least three races on Saturday and at least two on Sunday but plans are subject to change by consensus or mutiny.

All sailors are required to comply with Washington State Boating Law and the event is conducted following most of the United States Sailing Association Rules of Racing or at least the few that we know about.

French Farmhouse / Hawks Meadow
148 Mirabella Drive

This home in Clos Chevalle, built by Greg Cowell in 2007, is designed to resemble a French or Italian country farmhouse, and the two ornamental chimneys at either end reflect the overall theme. Note the fully arched entrance hallway, and how the arch motif is echoed in the entrances to the living room, dining room, and kitchen. The inviting living room is cozy with a large, decorative fireplace and French doors looking out over the vineyards and Lake Chelan. The handsome chandelier in the dining room is reflected in the mirror over the fireplace. The European-style kitchen features a dramatic black farmhouse sink and its own fireplace. The refrigerator is faced to match the cabinets, and French doors overlook a European garden area complete with a fountain. On the lake side of the house, an expansive covered patio, defined by terracotta pavers, includes a fireplace, dining area, and seating area with lounge chairs. Both the patio and the pool, built in 2016 on its own terrace, provide unobstructed views of the Chelan Valley from Stormy Mountain in the Northwest to the lights of Chelan in the East.
