CHELAN - Well, it definitely is fire season. Evident by the two brush fires that started in the Chelan area this past week.

The first fire happened in the early evening of Monday, June 12 when Chelan Fire and Rescue was dispatched to a brush fire east of the airport.

According to a media release, the first unit on scene reported a working brush fire in light fuels, wind driven downhill. With winds at 24 mph sustained with gusts in the 50 mph range the wind had the power to blow power lines together, which caused arcing and sparks to fall and ignite the grass below.

Fire crews had to pull back until the power lines were shut down and the conditions caused the fire to spread rapidly. After 10 minutes, the incident commander called in additional fire resources from Union Valley, South Lakeshore, Orondo, Manson and Entiat for a total of 18 fire apparatus staffed with 40 personnel.

Firefighters contained the

LCCH plans for next three years of construction

CHELAN - Now that the new hospital levy has passed, the countdown toward construction has begun.

But before commissioners don their work boots and grab shovels to break ground a few steps have to be taken first.

The first step is to present to the Project Review Committee about the project, which will be handled by Lake Chelan Community Hospital and Clinic CEO Kevin Abel, project manager Barry Leahy and general contractor Dick Bratton on July 27.

"We'll present the application with the qualifications of the individuals working with us, the financial piece, a skemayic of whar we're looking at and the reasons why a General Contractor / Construction Manager (gc/cm) is a better option for the community than the traditional design and build process," Abel explained to the LCCH Board of Commissioners at their meeting on Wednesday, June 14. "They'll ask a couple questions and we expect we'll get approval."

Leahy inserted that he had received calls from five contractors from both sides of the state and every one is hoping they have a gc/cm contract.

Some of them being ones that were calling in 2009 as well.

"There has been a lot of interest already in the contracting community, and most are over $400 million annual volume," Leahy stated.

Another day, another battle over the comp plan: Kline and Olson still displeased with city's effort

By ZACH JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

CHELAN - Whomever thought the Comprehensive Plan would be just a mundane and tedious process was certainly mistaken. Over the past few months, the Chelan community has had 18 chances to give input on the update and in the last couple meetings, things have gotten a bit contentious.

Community members Steve Kline and John Olson have been in the forefront of the conflict and have raised several concerns about keeping the current zoning for the Three Fingers as waterfront commercial / water transportation hub instead of as a park, calling it the "worst decision in the history of the city."

"There are GMA provisions and procedures that allow private property to be obtained for general public use and welfare with just compensation when and where necessary. Mayor Cooney refuses to use what the state legislature has authorized him to use," Olson read off a prepared statement at the city council meeting on Tuesday, June 13. "We are not advocating theft of the property, we would like to use GMA procedures to buy the land from an international construction company that is in the business of selling dirt... The public owns 100 percent of the lake, yet the public owns less than one percent of the shoreline. A park could be very beautiful and open to everyone, not just a limited number of people. The reason we push so hard on this is because once you zone it, then we have a condo on the shoreline and a marina in the bay and once that happens, we're done."

Mayor Mike Cooney has responded numerous times that he will not take away property rights from a landowner, but that he and the other council members are - and always have been - in favor of more parks.

"I start with the premise that absolutely it would be good, but when we zero in on one property, that is not the way my brain works," Cooney said. "We know that within the current zoning a park can still happen, so we are not discounting or closing the door on a park."

Cooney also pointed to the

Wells Fargo to close Manson branch July 12

By GARY BÉGIN
NCW MEDIA MANAGING EDITOR

WENATCHEE -- Wells Fargo's District Manager for North Central Washington Agustin Reyes, said the Manson branch of the San Francisco-based bank is closing Wednesday, July 12.

"We notified the employees in late March and a letter was sent to customers in early April," he said.

Reyes, in an exclusive interview with NCW Media, said the closing was part of evaluating and consolidating the company's branch network. "The Manson branch customers can still look forward to banking at the Chelan Wells Fargo branch where they will recognize familiar faces" as three former Manson employees will be transferring to the Chelan office, according to Reyes.

A total of five staffers will be affected by the closure with the current branch manager, John Freeze, transferring to Seattle and another worker going to the Wenatchee branch, according to Reyes.

Reyes said there wasn't "one reason" for the closure,

Council talks GFC's, listens to Pangborn presentation and signs interlocal agreement for water quality monitoring

By ZACH JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

CHELAN - It was a busy night for the city council at their regular meeting on Tuesday, June 13.

After taking public comments for a half hour, the council listened to a presentation from Craig Larsen, Business Development Director for the Port of Chelan County, on Pangborn Airports recent effort to get a direct daily service to San Francisco.

Larsen stated that the Port hopes to have the regional jet 76-seat aircraft in place and flying next summer.

"So I'm asking for your knowledge about the project, hopefully your support and for funding as well for you to consider," Larsen began. From a vision point of view, if you live in Chelan you would leave at 7 a.m., get to Pangborn at 8 a.m., your flight leaves at 9 a.m. and the plane lands in San Francisco at 11 a.m. This is a great thing since your economy depends on tourism, and there are lots of people in Central California and the opportunities it opens for tourists is huge. Walla Walla did very well in getting folks to fly over and they do great things with wine, but we have Lake Chelan and Mission Ridge and Leavenworth, if they can do it with marketing and just wine, so can we."

Craig Larsen, Business Development Director for the Port of Chelan County.

Larsen said the Port has been working on this project since April, and have already received $290,000 from 76 pledgers in five different counties. Their target goal is $400,000 in local pledges, which Larsen and the Port are confident in receiving by the end of the month.

"Right now we have 62 people a day flying from this region to the bay, and although some of those folks are driving to Seattle, with a direct service we'll catch most if not all of them," Larsen insisted. "Then we'll go for a grant for $750,000, so every pledge dollar turns into two and sign a guaranteed revenue contract with either the two airlines in the area; Alaska or United. A new service is expensive and a risk for an airline so the grant, community and airline are sharing the risk. If the fund isn't touched or most of the money is still there the it will get returned proportionately to each pledger. Spokane used this to get Los Angeles in 2011, and right now is a good time to get in the bay."

• General Facility Charge (GFC)

The council is preparing to raise GFC rates to 90 percent after they were lowered in 2014 to a rate below pre-GFC rates.

"The rates were lower now than when they were adopted. There was a significant reduction when we entered in contraction of the building industry, so what we're trying to do is say that we are back to full speed," Public Works Director Dwayne Van Epps said in his administrative report.

"My math shows though that if approved, rates would go from $7,672 down lake and $11,781 up-lake to $13,000 down-lake and $22,000 up-lake, so that is not going back to what they were, they would be 1.5 times more than they were in 2006,"

Robert Bordner, Slidewaters Waterpark owner

Slidewaters waterpark owner Robert Bordner interjected. "From February to today those are dramatic increases and from 50 to 90 percent of maximum seems extreme. It doesn't give people time to prepare for their business."

Councilwoman Erin McCardle shared with Bordner's concerns in saying that it would have a big impact on a small business owners and first time home buyers.

"Think about a small business of person trying to build their first home, these increases don't have that big of an impact if you are a building a million dollar home, but if you are scrounging it has a huge impact," McCardle suggested. "We need to help the planning process for the little people that this impacts so they can budget for when these things happen. Even if we bring this back up we should have some leeway time to make some changes."

Councilman Guy Harper brought up that raising GFC rates doesn't make sense if the city is pursuing more affordable housing.

"If we are going down that road we need to talk about the first hookup is standards and then a graduated scale to help the rental or condos to come in and house people to work here," Harper suggested.

"This is a business decision," councilman Skip Morehouse responded. "If you go out in the county and do it yourself you have to pay a lot more. Rate payers are always paying for part of a new development because monthly rates are paying for operation. Ninety percent is a good number for me, we are losing money and spreading the cost throughout the community."

In an effort to gather more public input, Mayor Mike Cooney directed staff to gather all of their information before holding a public hearing on the subject. "I'm sure there are other people and I would welcome more input," Cooney said, "I know no one wants to pay more, but someone down the road will have to."

• Water Agreement
After directing staff to put together an Interlocal agreement between the City of Chelan and Chelan County in May, council approved the motion and signed the agreement at their council meeting last Tuesday.

The agreement is a five year commitment that allocates $100,000 to the Keep It Blue Lake Chelan for water quality monitoring. Every year Mike Kaputa and Phil Long will come to council and provide a work plan as well as quarterly results. The city can terminate the contract if either party feels that it is not working.

The council meeting is on Tuesday, June 27 at 6 p.m.

cloud that is hanging over the Three Fingers at the moment while it is in litigation in the Supreme Court.

"It first has to come out of the Supreme Court, so let that process happen and then we move on from there," Cooney referenced the current case between the Goodfellow Brothers Incorporated (GBI) and the Chelan Basin Conservancy (CBC).

If the ruling comes down in favor of GBI, Cooney said he has conversed with them about coming to an agreement about doing something for the public.

"If we can work with the landowner so they get something and we get something out of it, everybody wins. For me, that would be a win and a gentleman's agreement," Cooney stated. "That won't be good enough for some people but the Comp plan is not set up to take away. They (Kline and Olson) feel we can do this legally, but that is not the way I do business. We already tried it once and people seem to have amnesia on this. One of the original 28 conditions we made with GBI for them to develop was to give the city one of the fingers, but telling someone to do something on their land is problematic."

If anyone has a stretch of land on the waterfront and are looking to sell or donate it to the city, Cooney said they would entertain an offer.

"We want people to think about that and want them to consider if that are within the city limits and own a stretch of land, it would be a wonderful donation and the city will look at all and everything," Cooney said. "I would ask people to take a look at Don Morse Park, not every square inch is used, there are parking and places to go and get into the lake. I go over there quite often and see wide open spaces, so it's not like there is no space. We spent $3.2 million in improving that park, and I pushed strong for that when I was on council. I get (Kline and Olson's) point, but I can't follow those things as mayor to go and down zone and take."

The Planning Commission is set to meet on Wednesday, June 21, at 6 p.m., at Chelan City Hall, where they will decide on their recommendations to give to the council. The council will deliberate and discuss the plan before approving it at their meeting on July 25.

MLK project evolves into donation giving frenzy

By ZACH JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

MANSON - What started out as just a Martin Luther King Day project evolved into a donation giving frenzy for Ann Marie Wisdom's 5th and 6th grade class.

Over the past few weeks, her students have planned and organized two separate service projects to raise money and donations for the Lake Chelan Community Hospital and the Humane Society.

Inspired by MLK, the students wanted to "help people like he did," so they organized a cookie bake sale and asked stores in the Manson area if they wished to donate. Some students even got out an apron to help bake a few cookies.

In total, the students raised $366.71 for the hospital, all of which will go toward a child who goes to LCCH for services, but can't afford the visit, and over $50 in food, toys, blankets and treats for the animals at the Humane Society. Both were presented to Arlene Abbott, LCCH Foundation and Barb Snow from the Humane Society last week.

committee, Leahy expects to have a contractor on board by the first part of September. In the meantime, Leahy has already solicited a number of local firms to do civil and structural landscape and mechanical and electrical design.

LCCHC also formed a facilities committee consisting of Abel, CFO Vickie Bodle, board members Mary Signorelli and Phyllis Gleasman, Dr. Ty Witt, CNO Carol Velasquez, Director of Facilities Ken Peters and Leahy to help gather and provide input from caregivers and staff for the layout of the new building.

"I think it is a wise decision because it will be there for the next 50 years, so in the first 10 lets get it as best as we can," Leahy stated. "The little things we can do, but we're not building a massive new wing, we won't be able to afford it, and everyone won't get everything they want, it's just the way it works. My goal is to produce the facility for less than we were allocated."

Leahy expects construction to start mid year in 2018, which would put an end date around the middle of the year in 2020.

Nolen, Harrison receive scholarship from Lake Chelan Golf Club, Ladies Division

SUBMITTED BY LINDA REISTER, SCHOLARSHIP COMMITTEE LAKE CHELAN GOLF CLUB, LADIES DIVISION

CHELAN - The Lake Chelan Golf Club, Ladies Division proudly announces the 2017 recipients of the Ladies Golf Club Scholarship. This scholarship is awarded to a senior girl on the Chelan and Manson golf team who plans further their education after high school. It is based on academic achievement, extra-curricular activities, and community involvement. This year as there were no applicants from Manson High School, two scholarships are being awarded to senior girls from Chelan High School. The winners of a $500 scholarship each are Madisyn Harrison and Annika Nolen.

Madisyn Harrison (pictured on the left) is the daughter of Todd A. and Cindi R. Harrison. She has maintained a 3.4 grade point average while participating in several activities. Madisyn has been a Chelan golf team member for the past two years, played on the volleyball and basketball teams for four years, as well as being an AAU referee for girls' basketball. She has many community involvements. Madisyn plans to attend Wenatchee Valley College for two years for pre-requisites for dental hygiene and then Eastern Washington University to complete her degree in that field.

Annika Nolen (pictured on the right) is the daughter of Kristen Nolen and the late Nick Nolen. She has maintained a 3.9 grade point average while participating in several activities. Annika has been a varsity golf member for three years, was a two-time bi-district qualifier, and won "most-improved" in 2015. Annika also has been a band member and jazz band member during her four years of high school as well as performing many hours of community service.

Annika plans to attend Azusa Pacific University this fall for a degree in Commercial Music.

TEE TIME

SUBMITTED BY MARY COUCHEE

The competition game for Thursday, June 15 was "Your Choice" before playing choose 3 par 3s, 3 par 4s and 3 par 5s less half handicap. Only 13 lady golfers had enough time and energy to make it to the Thursday competition as 21 Chelan ladies played in Leavenworth's Alpine Invitational the day before and our team was at Yakima Elks on this Thursday.

Weekly Competition - Again this week the number of players by division dictates the number of winners per division. Division 1 was 1st Joan Pierce (34). Division 2 was 1st Judy Johanson (35.5). Division 3 winners were 1st Jani Sharp (32) and 2nd Linda Parker (34). No Birdies were made but Chip-ins went to Judy Johanson (#16), Mary Couchee (#14), Linda Parker (#15).

Competition for Thursday, June 22 is "All Fours" using total score of all par 4s less half handicap. Tee off time is 8:30 a.m., please check in by 8 a.m.

Alpine Invitational - We are proud of all our winners and especially proud of Linda Reister who made a hole-in-one on #18. In First Flight Elona Teague earned 2nd Net. In Second Flight Carol Ferguson was 1st Gross and Candace Farnsworth 4th Gross. In Fourth Flight MaryJo DuRuz 1st Gross, Judy Johanson 3rd Gross, and Joni Dedo 3rd

Net. MaryJo DuRuz was on the 1st place and Judy Johanson on the 3rd place Team Best Balls. On hole 8 the KP (closest to the pin) went to 2nd Flight Carol Ferguson (7'11") and 4th Flight Janet Kophs (14'6").

Apple Valley Team members this week were April Talley, Barb Rayburn, Elona Teague, Corky Sessous, Linda Reister, and Candace Farnsworth for matches at Yakima Elks versus the Apple Tree team. The results will be available next week.

Ladies Member-Guest theme is Almost Fashionable on July 27 with sign ups beginning on June 29. Forms will be emailed by June 25. Contact Jani Sharp with questions and comment jsharp@nwi.net 425-478-0538.

Nine n' Dine - Monday afternoons all golfers are welcome to join the fun. Sign up by Saturday for the following Monday at CJS on the Course (509)630-8353. Nine n' Dine is played each Monday starting at 3:30 p.m. and tee off at 4 p.m. with 6:00-ish dinner.
