Finally Lake Chelan community votes for new hospital

By ZACH JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

CHELAN - Patience and perseverance.

Those are the qualities the Lake Chelan Community Hospital and Clinics (LCCHC) have held since their first bond failed in 2006. Over a decade and two previous bond failures later, the LCCHC finally has a new hospital.

Although the announcement was made shortly after 8 p.m. on Tuesday, April 25 the official results were posted on Friday, April 28 at the Chelan County Election with the proposition receiving 64.87 percent of the total 4,239 votes cast. The measure needed a 60 percent supermajority to pass.

One building in particular that was full of ecstatic people after the news broke was the Lake Chelan Chamber of Commerce office, which was filled with the LCCHC board members, administrators, staff and supporters from the community.

Do you see how many people are in this room," LCCHC Board Chair Mary Signorelli said amongst the cheers in the building, "it took that plus all of the community to get on board and to make this a reality. It is great to see and as a group we have been working on this for 10 years. Finally we have the super majority."

In the hospital's previous two bond attempts they received 58 and 57 percent of the votes, so they were unable to move forward.

Signorelli attributed the difference between this vote and the past two to the hard work of the yes committee and supporting community.

"Our group of talented people were working enthusiastically to hit the social media and keep communication out there and to keep accuracy and consistently tell the truth," Signorelli explained. "People know this is the right thing to do because we have not been consistently lying to them. When you drive and see whatever million the hospital is going to cost (on billboards) and they gets exponentially more than that as you go, and you hear ridiculous things on the radio, our community is smart and this vote is an indication of

Chelan Council adds new planner and reviews County Solid Waste Management Plan

CHELAN - After months of searching, the City of Chelan announced at their regular meeting on Tuesday, April 25 that they hired Joey Meisenheimer as their new Associate Planner.

Meisenheimer is a Washington State native who grew up in Bellevue and recently graduated with a Masters degree in Urban Planning from Arizona State University.

"I wanted to say thanks to Planning Director Craig (Gildroy) and staff for bringing me on, this is everything a planner could hope for and I have worked hard to get to this point," Meisenheimer acknowledged. "There is something different about the people over here and with all the mountain biking, it really caters to my personality. I look forward to working with everyone here."

After the brief introduction, the Council shifted into their regular business and listened to a presentation from Brenda Blanchfield, Solid Waste Coordinator for Chelan County.

The County recently published a draft of their plan in 228 pages, but Blanchfield came to Council to condense the material into sections that changed or might apply to Chelan.

One of the biggest points was recycling, which consists of 37 pages.

Winterfest a topic at Chelan Council

By ZACH JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

CHELAN - Winterfest was a resounding success.

That was the message Lake Chelan Chamber of Commerce Board Director Lester Cooper gave at the City of Chelan Council meeting on Tuesday, April 25.

"We had increased numbers in almost every category of people visiting the valley in January," Cooper began. "It cost us $220,000 and the event is self funded, so it pays for itself. This year we were about $7,000 short so I think that is pretty darn good. However, we also say back as a board and said 'we can't continue to have an event where costs increase every year' so we are taking a deep dive with costs associated where each activity is broken down and we'll be doing a zero based budget for that particular category."

Cooper said that if they continue to increase cost, they also increase the risk.

"For us, risk is you put on an event like Winterfest and no one can get across the pass. We don't have event insurance because it is prohibitively expensive, but if we had a Winterfest with a significant drop in numbers or people just couldn't get here, we would be putting the Chamber at financial risk," Cooper stated.

Keeping with the financial theme, Cooper said the board will also be looking carefully at the second weekend of Winterfest in Manson.

"There is a growing level of concern of the viability of continuing to do things in Manson, so we are seriously looking at that weekend and if we should continue the events up there or if we should bring

Lester Cooper, Lake Chelan Chamber of Commerce Board Director

Alefest into Chelan. There are big decisions the board faces next year."

Although the Chamber was short $7,000 on their investment into the event, overall the total sales tax generated in Chelan this past January was approximately $77,470 for a total revenue of $9,114,069.

how smart we are.”
The Vote-No side was not as pleased.

“Well, we’re disappointed,” Chelan County PUD Commissioner Ann Congdon admitted after the result came out. “I’m surprised, I thought it would be very close or I thought we would squeak by. I thought we got the message out there that the bond proposal is a huge financial risk for the community.”

Although the vote has passed, Congdon was clear she wouldn’t get behind the decision.

“I wouldn’t say we will switch gears, we’re still going to be involved, this is just the first step and there is no guarantee they will get the USDA loan,” Congdon said. “It is going to be challenging for the hospital commissioners to lead effectively with the polarization of the community.”

Congdon also hinted at a possible change of leadership.

“There are two positions this fall and the filing is due in May, so hopefully people in the community who understand financial risk and fiduciary responsibility will file and run. We need new leadership,” Congdon stated.

For the time being though, the LCCHC will go forward in obtaining blueprints for the new facility, get certified contractors to bid on it and then send in their final application for federal funding.

“It is a relief that this step has been taken and it has been successful,” Guy Evans, member of the Citizens for a New Hospital Now committee said. “The commissioners have work ahead of them to work with administration and not only build the building, that is the easy part, but to also lead staff and providers into the new building and allow the caliber of the hospital to raise to a new level. Tonight represents a milestone, but the journey is not over yet.”

The project will take about 12 months to get the preliminary things done and then two years for construction.

we are currently at 37 percent recycling rate. The state goal is 50 percent,” Blanchfield began. “I don’t want to belittle that rate, I think 37 percent is wonderful. The state has been admirable and I think the Chelan Recycling Center is a big part of that rate.”

Currently residents can recycle cardboard, newspaper, magazines, aluminum, scrap metal, HDP and PET plastics, brush, motor oil and batteries but glass is going to be looked at for possible removal from the recyclables list because of their lack of value.

Blanchfield pointed out there are only a few recycle centers that recycle glass and a hauling over to the closest market in Seattle costs around $400 a truckload.

“It doesn’t mean we can’t continue to recycle glass, we are just not mandated to,” Blanchfield explained. “If you are aware of the controversy on glass, it is very expensive across the country and is subsidized the highest of all the recyclables. It also goes against our footprint.”

In reference to Manson, Blanchfield said the draft plan is including optional curb side recycling expansion to all unincorporated areas of Chelan.

Residents in the unincorporated areas will be able to sign up voluntarily for the service and pay for it as well.

Coincidentally after Blanchfield finished her run through of the draft plan, City Administrator Mike Jackson proposed a solid waste consultant agreement to review the changes in the draft and provide recommendations on any actions the city could take.

“It will be an excellent opportunity to take a good look at the recycling services and whether or not Chelan can provide a recycling center for the county,” Jackson stated.

Jackson said they sent three proposals for the scope of work and after receiving two back, the staff chose Bell and Associates, Inc and Bob Wallace.

“Bell and Associates are experts on rate and fee and Bob Wallace is an expert on recycling transfer and collection,” Jackson stated. “At the end of the day we want experts to form solid recommendations so I’m very comfortable with the proposal.”

The motion was approved unanimously. The Chelan County Solid Waste Plan must still go through a review process that includes a public hearing some time in July.

During the council comment section of the meeting, Mayor Mike Cooney commented on the recycling issue in regards to Manson saying, “we have been picking up their recycling for no charge for over four, going on five years, and we have kept going on that, so it is a mess that is not our doing, we go out there two or three times a week to pick up their recycling. The city and county and working together for a fix, because it is not a fixed product right now.”

Cooney also said that he went to a meeting recently with the PUD and they are interested in getting a group of stakeholders working toward under ground power lines.

“We are talking about in the alleys and in the city and within the neighborhoods, so they are listening to the City of Chelan and when you look at what other cities are doing, it greatly improves our community.”

In closing, Jackson mentioned to the council that the DOH has drawn a “line in the sand” for accepting the $3 million loan with $800k forgiveness for the waterline to the airport by May 15.

If the city accepts the loan they would still have to raise $3.6 million to fund the waterline. If they don’t accept the loan, the city would not be able to apply until 2018 although they could receive a higher score depending on the funding and how competitive the grant process is.

The next Chelan City Council meeting is on Tuesday, May 9 at 6 p.m.

Sanderson named Certified Employee of the Year for LCSD

By ZACH JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

CHELAN - We have all had teachers that inspired and motivated us to do great things in our life, but how many of them taught math?

Math is boring right? Wrong.

At least that is the message that seventh grade teacher Sarah Sanderson - who was recently named Certified Employee of the Year, for Lake Chelan School District - has been preaching in her class since the start of her teaching career.

When kids say they struggle with math, Sanderson responds by saying "that they just haven't had it taught in the right way."

"Typically math has been taught to kids by someone that says they aren't a math person, or they listen to their parents say they can't do it, so the kids think that the subject is hard and they get this negative feeling about it. So that is my goal; to just change that mind set. I think kids don't necessarily struggle with math like we think they do, it's because we do think they struggle and adults portray that connotation to them so that is what the kids perceive it to be."

Sanderson tries to shift that mind set by making math fun and applicable to everyday life. She does this by having the students do a lot of group work, partner work and a quarterly project where the students show what they know in a different way from a paper test. Sanderson said this allows the students to be creative and use math in a more applicable way.

"We also do lots of card sorts where they are organizing using inquiry based learning, so we don't do a lot of question and answer of worksheets," Sanderson stated. "If I feel they need practice, we do a scavenger hunt where they solve a problem and find an answer somewhere in the room. Then on the back of that answer, there is another problem they have to answer, and they do this in partners, so it is kind of a fun game versus a dreary worksheet and it gets them moving."

Another concept that has helped Sanderson is mathematical discourse, which essentially where a student's talk amongst themselves to solve a problem and then share the evidence to support how they solved it.

"There are other students who solve the problem a different way, so that kind of discussing about math and putting it into a sentence with justification is big," Sanderson said. "On all of our tests the students have to justify their answers and how they are correct."

According to Lake Chelan School District Superintendent Barry DePaoli, Sanderson was instrumental in instituting a collaboration time with all of the content teachers in the same grade level and a time for grades 6-12 to meet with their respective subject.

"The seventh grade team, we meet every other day for about 45 minutes and we collaborate on students. If we notice certain trends, we pull students in or if they are failing all four of our classes we'll get parents or whoever we need to find support," Sanderson said. "We also collaborate on grade level vocabulary, so if I'm teaching one word maybe in science they can use that word also. Or, we do it with projects, for instance we could be studying scale and then in science they could be looking at the earth versus the sun, so we make sure we coordinate all of that so it is not brand new."

"It did cause a schedule change, but we have proved value we can get out of that time is highly beneficial to students," Sanderson articulated. "The progress we have seen and help and support we have been able to give is far greater than any expense or schedule change difficulties."

More and more schools are creating collaboration time with their teachers because of the benefits, including Icicle River Middle School in Leavenworth, where Sanderson first taught before getting the position in Chelan.

Originally, Sanderson taught elementary age kids, but decided to move up a few grades to have a bigger influential impact on her students.

"In fourth and fifth grades, the kids just love you and they give you hugs all the time so you feel so loved, but at the same time I was wondering am I influencing their life?," Sanderson admitted. "Seventh grade is more difficult to gain that trust, and some days it is just not a math day, there are other things going on in their mind or body and school is not a priority, so they are a little more fickle. But because of that, I feel this is the most influential moment in their life, and although they won't appreciate it now, in a couple years when they get into high school, they'll realize that was a turning point or that person really inspired me and gave me a positive outlook when I needed it."

When asked about advice Sanderson would give to future and current teachers that are discouraged about the profession, she responded with in two succinct words, 'keep positive'.

"I think the system, and not only the (Lake) Chelan School District which is the best, but on the national level it can be discouraging, but support others, because I know that without the support and being on an awesome teaching team and administration, anyone would want to quit," Sanderson said. It is no fun to have a student ruin your day, but with support, good ideas and a team to handle the situation it doesn't have to be a drag."

Sanderson admitted it was a nice feeling to be recognized as employee of the year by her colleagues but humbly insisted there are lots of other people she felt should be recognized as well.

"One teacher can't be awesome, it has to be the whole system and whole team, and that is what we have. I know my team are a lot of the people who nominated me for it, so that just shows how supportive they are."

Silver Falls, upper Entiat area reopening

SUBMITTED
DEBBIE KELLY, USFS PIO

ENTIAT - After several years of wildfires, iconic recreation areas like Silver Falls on the Entiat Ranger District are once again reopening to the public. This summer dozens of popular campsites, recreation areas, and more than 40 miles of trails will be available as snow melts off the Forest.

"These places in the Upper Entiat are special and I welcome folks back to the valley," said Entiat District Ranger James Simino. "However, wildfires like the Wolverine Fire changed this landscape leaving behind hazards which visitors need to be aware of, such as burned out stump holes and downed trees across trails."

The Forest Service and partners, such as Chelan County Emergency Management, will continue to monitor fire areas for potential flooding or debris flow; particularly following heavy rain events. In addition, some safety restrictions, site closures or day-use limitations will remain in place depending on the location.

"Safety will continue to be our number one priority for visitors and crews alike, and we will continue to assess, monitor and update conditions as the summer progresses," Simino said.

Areas reopening are:

- Fox Creek Campground
- Lake Creek Campground
- Silver Falls Campground
- North Fork Campground
- Spruce Grove Campground
- Cottonwood Campground

For additional campground and trail information please visit the forest web page at <https://www.fs.usda.gov/okawen> or call the Entiat Ranger Station at 509-784-4700 for updates on spring conditions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Without grizzly bears the ecosystem is incomplete

Dear Editor,

Our home, the Pacific Northwest, contains unique mountain ranges, lush and extensive forests, and vast areas of land that we consider "wild". In a recent op-ed in the Wenatchee World "Big, Wild Country Needs Grizzlies", Mr. Gregg Bafundo stated that "wild country needs to contain all the iconic animals that once roamed here". This is extremely important as native animals fulfill critical ecological roles within their respective ecosystems. Grizzly bears are considered an "umbrella species", which means they indirectly protect and improve the habitat of many other species in the area they occupy. They spread seeds from plants on which they feed, (i.e. berries), they aerate the soil by digging for bulbs and burrowing rodents, and their defecations help fertilize soils, especially in mid and high elevation habitats.

The North Cascades ecosystem, is not only the largest federally protected habitat in our state, but in all of the lower 48. Grizzly bears are native to this proposed recovery site and without them, the ecosystem is incomplete and not as healthy as it could be. Extensive research has proven that the 6.2 million acres that comprise the Cascades are still some of the best grizzly habitat in the world. Recovery efforts have been discussed for the last 20 years and now there are only a handful of bears remaining. Considering their slow reproduction rate, it will take decades to build up a healthy population. Now is the time to act. Let's give these bears and our environment, the help they need to re-establish themselves on our shared wild landscape.

Help build the future of public transit

Dear Editor,

Last summer and fall, nearly 1,100 residents of Chelan and Douglas Counties shared their ideas and suggestions on how our regional transit service could be improved. These ideas ranged from longer hours during the week, increased Saturday service, adding service on Sundays, and a variety of other enhancements.

Now it is time again for our citizens to weigh in on how they may prioritize these improvements, and whether they are willing to pay a bit more for those of a larger scale. Within Link's existing financial resources, we have the ability to add a very minor amount of service, perhaps an hour or two to most routes operating Monday - Friday, or a bit more if those improvements were focused just on Saturday service. Anything as comprehensive as service much later into the evening, more frequent service on most routes, significantly more Saturday service, and an effective amount of Sunday service is far beyond our current capacity to fund, and would require additional sales tax. Increasing sales tax for transit requires a vote of the people.

To determine what service enhancements our residents really want when there are price tags attached to each of these, we have developed an online survey tool that gives the respondent feedback on how each of their choices may impact sales tax. Often times, people are unaware of how their choices may impact the costs they would incur, so the Link Board of Directors and staff want to make it very clear that there is a cost to make many of the improvements they want to see.

The input of this survey will help direct the development of Link's long-range strategic plan. If there is adequate support for additional transit service in our region, then it will be up to our Board of Directors to determine the next steps toward making that a reality.

We encourage all of our residents, even if they are not users of transit, to take a few minutes and complete this survey. Your input is very important and we want to hear from you.

To access this survey, visit www.letsthinklink.org. The survey will be active through May 30.

United Way expresses McCleary opinion

Dear Editor,

Creating better support for all students while meeting the McCleary court mandate continues to be a significant challenge for our legislature. As we navigate these choppy budgetary waters, it's important to expand access to our state's proven high-quality pre-K program for low-income students, the Early Childhood Education and Assistance Program (ECEAP).

We know ECEAP students make major gains in early math and literacy. In the 2015-2016 school year, the number of students who scored at or above age level in early math and literacy rose by 88 percent and 310 percent, respectively.

Additionally, ECEAP students maintain those gains through their elementary years.

Research spotlighted by the business-leader group ReadyNation shows us that early exposure to a high-quality preschool can improve educational outcomes, like better graduation rates, and bolster employability by laying the foundation for skills our students will need in the workplace.

Today, 14 percent of people aged 16-24 are neither in school nor employed. An unprepared workforce is costing the nation $3.7 billion annually in remedial education services and lost wages.

Yet, in Chelan and Douglas counties, only 35 percent and 29 percent of eligible three- and four-year-olds have access to high-quality pre-K, while kindergarten readiness rates are 55 percent in Chelan County and 44 percent in Douglas. This lack of access leaves nearly 860 youngsters un-served.

Now is the time to expand access to ECEAP so that more of our three- and four-year children can have access. Increased access to ECEAP will help our youngest learners and will add value to the investments we make in K12 by increasing kindergarten readiness and performance down the line.

All Politics Is Local

Dear Editor,

Wasn't it great? Didn't you love the dialogue? I did—that commotion in the run-up to the hospital bond vote.

What a good example of freedom of speech in action! The Universal Declaration of Human Rights (the United Nations, 1948) in Article 19, states that "Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression . . . This right includes the freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive and impart information." So I am disappointed in the fear of showing themselves that was exhibited by some of the local business owners. We should be able to speak up and still be friends.

But, all those discussions about constructing a new hospital or rebuilding the old one centered on a political topic that most of us can relate to because it concerns our home town—not who will be president in Washington, DC, Internet hackers in Russia, nor malnourished children in the rest of the world. Talking about the hospital commissioners, the value of a hospital here, and how to vote are valuable in ensuring the future of democracy, because if we don't get involved at a local level, democracy won't really work nationally. This is democracy—here at home where we live. Of the people, by the people and for the people.

So, whether you are happy about the results or are not happy, hopefully you participated by taking part in conversations, by attending the forum and by voting.

And if you are NOT happy with the outcome of the vote, then your next step is to get involved somehow. That is up to you to figure out.

FUNdamentals of Trojan Baseball

By ERIN ROSSELL, STAFF WRITER

MANSON – Wednesday, April 26, marked the first annual baseball clinic sponsored by the Manson Trojans' High School Baseball team. The free clinic took place at Singleton Park and was open to third through sixth grade students. The Trojans offered five skill-building stations, each focusing on the fundamentals of the game, and included throwing, batting, pitching, catching, and fielding. The youth based clinic is focused on bridging the gap in the youth through high school athletics, and is hoped to "create a continuity" between the two, according to the Trojan's Assistant Coach Travis Schoenwald.

The instructional stations were directed by Trojan players that perform strongly in those areas, and every participant showed an eagerness to learn from some of their local role models, which was evident in the effort they put into each drill. The young enthusiasts were divided into five groups, and rotated through each station, finally ending the day with an exciting scrimmage game.

With a turnout of 35 kids at the unprecedented fundamentals clinic, the Trojans are optimistic for the continuation of the instructional event. "I think I can speak for all the coaches," said assistant coach Brett La Mar, "in saying that it was a raging success – it created the excitement [in the kids] we were looking for."

Practice makes perfect: Inside one of the Goats hardest workers

By ZACH JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

CHELAN - What were you doing around 6 a.m. this morning?

While I'm sure the majority of you were probably sleeping, one girl that most likely wasn't; Chelan senior Katie Gleasman. She was probably either training in the weight room or helping out her family on their farm. There is no rest for the wicked nor is there for Katie Gleasman, at least not when there are two more games against Cashmere left in her final high school regular season.

This past year, Gleasman has been putting in the extra time early in the morning training for the softball season. She does this in her words to 'repay herself because working hard makes her feel like a better person' but that strong work ethic was something she picked up from her family. During the summer, Gleasman is often up by sunrise helping her parents on their farm.

"We get up at six, sometimes five and pick cherries, move tractors or do other tasks our parents ask," Gleasman said in reference to her and her siblings, Lexie and Lucas, although the latter is now playing football at Carrol College in Montana. "My parents taught me to work hard and that if I wanted to get something done I have to work for it, so that has helped me get up and do weights in the morning."

Gleasman said she started to train in the morning after noticing how much faster and stronger she was after the summer lift program last year.

"So I kept going myself and it was my motivation during school, there was no reason for me to do it other than I wanted to get better," Gleasman stated.

Overall, it seems her hard work has paid off as Gleasman has been on an offensive tear this whole year.

Of course, Gleasman will be the first to tell you that persevering through and managing her emotions during the game has been contributing factor as well.

"During my freshman year, if I made one error or turned the ball over in basketball I should shut down and I lost motivation. It was hard for me to realize to just let the pressure go but my coaches have helped me work on it through the years," Gleasman admitted. "Some people don't understand the way I come off, but I just am really competitive, so if I get excited or am yelling, I'm not mad, just fired up. I love getting competitive."

Head coach Jeff Barker agreed with Gleasman in saying that "Katie has done a much better job keeping her emotions in check. In the past, things that were beyond her control bothered her to the point that it affected the way she performed. But she has a strong personality and she is a very tough ball player. We have discussed body language over the years and just letting the game come to her and she has done a much better job at that this year. Her toughness and strong personality is what makes her a leader."

That competitive spirit was something Gleasman (a three sport athlete) picked up as a product of her athletic family.

"I would like to be as strong as my brother, and I love to compete with my younger sister (Lexie) between who gets the hardest hit in volleyball, or most points in basketball or most hits in softball. So being in an athletic family, it has taught me there is always someone there for you, pushing you and leaning on you to be better."

And for the past six years, instead of swimming all day or enjoying time on Lake Chelan, Gleasman has been playing sometimes eight softball games a day with her travel team during tournaments and over 60 games total a year.

Gleasman has been rewarded with her hard work with a stellar year, highlighted by a homerun in her final hit at Mountain Goat Field and a scholarship offer to Centralia College in Olympia.

Although Gleasman said she doesn't like going far from home without her parents, after a visit in January where she got to practice with the team, she said is excited to go out on her own and be with a new coaching staff and new girls.

Senior Katie Gleasman has been on an offensive tear for the Goats this season and with a couple pitchers hurt, Chelan might need her to continue her stellar play if they want to advance far in the playoffs this season.

As for this year, now that it is the final week of the season, Gleasman is starting to get a little sad knowing her high school athletic career is drawing to a close.

When asked if she will shed a tear, Gleasman chuckled, looked out to the field and replied "god I hope not."

Her most memorable athletic achievement came last year when the Chelan basketball team beat Cashmere, and although their softball team isn't as good, I'm sure a couple wins on Friday, May 5 against the Bulldogs to close out the regular season will rank up there as well.

Gleasman hit a home run in the first home game of the season against Kittitas and also in the final game at home against Omak on Tuesday, April 25. Her last hit at Mountain Goat field was a home run.

Goats soccer beat Cashmere and Okanogan: Ready for rematch with Cascade

By ZACH JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

CHELAN - The Goats soccer team might be squarely in second place in the CTL 1A division, but they got over the hump - so-to-speak - against Cashmere.

After losing in a 1-0 heart-breaker earlier in the year in Cashmere, Chelan returned the favor to the Bulldogs in similar fashion, winning by a final score of 1-0 on Tuesday, April 25.

However, as the score would tell you, it wasn't easy.

Chelan had to work for every shot they had and the game even got a little physical as the rivals looked for any opportunity to score. Still, Chelan controlled the ball for the majority of the game they just had a tough time piecing together a nice run with a good through ball.

Both teams headed into half tied, but Chelan was able to pull ahead in the second and control the ball the rest of the game to take the win and even the season match up.

The Goats then traveled up to Okanogan on Thursday, April 27 and beat the Bulldogs by a final score of 3-1.

Chelan took on Cascade in a rubber match on Tuesday, May 2. Chelan will wait to see who they play next week in the Regional at the Apple Bowl in Wenatchee.

LEFT AND MOVING CLOCKWISE: Rafa Barajas (14) gets the ball and dribbles past a Cashmere defender before losing it in the penalty area.

TOP RIGHT: Salvador Villanueva (12) takes a corner kick against Cashmere in the first half. Although the Goats didn't get a score until the second half, they kept the pressure on throughout with several opportunities.

MIDDLE RIGHT: One Chelan attacker gets mixed up with a Cashmere defender as he is trying to get the ball into one of his teammates making a run down the middle.

Goats persevere through injuries, look to get healthy for playoffs

By ZACH JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

CHELAN - The Chelan Goats softball team didn't quite finish on the note they would have liked in their last home game of the season, but they sure battled.

Despite being down their two starting pitchers due to injury, the Goats battled with Okanogan throughout and barely lost by a final score of 13-9.

"Our girls really battled and never gave up," head coach Jeff Barker said after the game. "We even grabbed our JV pitcher Leanna Garfoot out of the stands and entered her into the game in the top of the sixth. This was her first time to pitch in a varsity game and she was outstanding, pitching two scoreless innings with no walks and one strikeout."

Chelan got on the board first after Lexie Gleasman plated a run on a single in the first inning. However, Omak charged back with eight runs to take the lead in the fourth.

Gleasman took the loss for the Goats after pitching five innings while allowing 13 runs on five hits while striking out one.

Chelan had nine hits in the game with Katie Gleasman, Jessie Oules and Ashley Oswald each collecting multiple hits.

Barker said that he doesn't know if Taylor Sams will be back by the end of the year but they he expects to have Katanna Kelling back this week.

"I know both young ladies really want to be playing for us. We have walked 27 batters and hit four in the last two games without our two pitchers, but in those two games we were right in there with our opponents. So I think that proves our girls never quit and have been battling despite the problems we have in the circle. I know all of the coaches are proud of the effort."

Coach Barker acknowledged the seniors after the loss by saying they are the heart and soul of the team.

"They will really be missed and next year there will be some big roles to fill. We will try to get as healthy as possible so we can make a run in the playoffs. When we have everybody we can be a very dangerous team, but with kids gone and injured it is hard to be consistent and play at our best."

Chelan took on Okanogan on Tuesday, May 2.

Their next game is against Cashmere on Friday, May 5. First pitch is at 3 p.m.

Trojans lose in heartbreaking fashion to Oroville to drop out of playoff contention

By ZACH JOHNSON
STAFF WRITER

CHELAN - Unfortunately for the Manson Trojans soccer team, their postseason hopes ended after a 1-0 loss to Oroville on Saturday, April 29.

Prior to Saturday, Manson looked confident to make the playoffs after a 1-0 victory over Tonasket, whom they lost to by the same score earlier in the year.

After a strong start offensively that led to a few chances, Jose Juarez put the ball in the net at the 67th minute mark to score the only goal of the game.

The wind was a major factor in the game as Manson played the whole first half with a fairly strong headwind that discouraged a ton of attack passing down the middle of the field. Of course, the gust helped slow down the ball somewhat which allowed Trojan forwards to track the ball and control it in space.

Halfway through the first half, Aurelio Gutierrez saw some daylight and hit a rocket shot that cleared the outstretched goalkeepers hands but banged off the crossbar. Freddy Leyva also had a couple good runs at a ball but was unable to convert on his chances.

"We found ourselves in a familiar position at half; tied at 0 but feeling like we should have been in the lead," head coach Jared Mumley said after the game. "But we kept pressing and finally with less than 15 minutes left Gutierrez found Juarez on a nice cross in the box and he calmly dispatched the ball into the bottom of the net."

• Oroville

Facing a must-win against the Hornets, Manson came up short after Oroville scored a golden goal in the last minute of the second period of overtime.

According to Mumley, the game followed a familiar theme for Manson this season.

"It was characterized by dominant possession in the midfield and the majority of chances compared to our opponent," Mumley said after the game. "In fact, Oroville didn't have their first shot on goal until late in the second half and Manson outshot the Hornets 20 to four."

Although the Trojans kept pressuring Oroville, they were unable to get a ball in the net and headed into half tied at 0. Ultimately this has been indicative of their season as Manson has gone into half tied at 0 six times this season.

Manson continued to get some chances but couldn't get a goal in the second half, so the game headed into two five minute golden goal overtimes.

In the final seconds of the second overtime, a loose ball was collected by an Oroville forward who ran on goal and scored, effectively ending the game.

"For a goal to come against the run of a play is a shock to any team, but for it to come at the end of overtime with the stakes so high and the traffic so one-way in our favor throughout the game is cruel," coach Mumley said. "It represents both what we love and hate about this sport. In the end, we can be proud of the way we fought, not just in this game, but throughout the season. They demonstrated pride, passion and grit throughout the entire spring and can hold their heads up high knowing that high school sports last for a season but character, honor and integrity last a lifetime."

Manson will close their season on Wednesday, May 3 with a game against Liberty Bell at home. Kickoff is set for 6:30 p.m.

Zach Johnson can be reached at lcmirror@gmail.com or (509) 682-2213

TOP RIGHT: Juarez, who eventually scored the winning goal in the 67th minute in the second half, dribbles down the pitch toward the Tonasket goal in the first half.

BOTTOM RIGHT: Senior captain Freddy Leyva works the sideline as he gets the ball and pushes it up toward Juarez. Overall, Leyva and Juarez continued to apply pressure on the Tigers defense and were rewarded in the second half with the eventual winning goal.

BOTTOM LEFT: Leyva keeps his focus on the ball as he dribbles past a Tigers defender and starts to out run him toward the net.
