public hearing on potential ULID 2nd hearing to be held March 29

CHELAN - Growth is as much a guarantee as the problems that come with it, and the Bear Mountain Water District is finding that out after proposing a Utility Local Improvement District (ULID) along the South Shore.

What is a ULID?

that is being assessed," Bear Mountain Water District Attorney Mark Peterson explained. "That is part of it when a municipal corporation wants to do a project that is going to benefit certain parcels. The first part of the process is the formation, and then the second is the assessment role where you mail out a notice to property owners that will be in the ULID.

Some of the issues property owners had had though

"It only refers to an area is with the notice. As some of said they got their notice late or had a return address that was nearly unreadable.

"We are aware that mailing has its shortcomings, but that is just the statute that we followed," Peterson said in defense of mailing out the notices. "People complain that they didn't get the notice, but it is not as easy to get ahold of people any more. You could get a reverse directory, but people don't have landlines, so mailing is the most efficient way to get ahold of folks."

Peterson said that he has made himself available through phone call, email or text if a property owner had a question or wanted to get information on the project, but also that he and the district expected some pushback from lakefront property owners.

"They already have a water supply and the connection will increase their property value. If they aren't contemplating selling their property any time soon, why should they care about the added connection," Peterson said. "I'm sympathetic to that, until they need to sell the property a rise in the value doesn't mean much to them, but statute requires that we can demonstrate a growth in wealth."

The initial hearing was on March 15, but the Water District Board of Commissioners have scheduled a meeting on March 29 at Chelan Cellars at 1 p.m. to allow more resi-

Manson Community Council will make decision on tweak to UGA at April 18 meeting

By ZACH JOHNSON STAFF WRITER

MANSON - There are always little adjustments that can be made to improve a Urban Growth Area (UGA) as the community evolves, and one proposal is looking to do just that on the south side of Harris Avenue.

The idea, proposed by Bob Knauss and Kim Ustanik, is to add a text amendment to the UGA that will extend the maximum height requirement from 35 to 50 feet.

I want to make it clear that the proposal does not involve downtown," Ustanik interjected as Knauss was giving the run down of the project. "Just the area on the Chelan side of Harris.

"We are just trying to suggest these changes," Knauss sternly said. It will take over a year to go through this process, no one has a project that is being proposed, though allowed 50 foot buildings, but they reduced it to 35 feet, so we are just taking it back to what it used to be.'

Along with the height increase, Knauss and Ustanik are proposing an amendment to allow residential housing on the ground floor.

"We aren't taking any uses away though, this will just open up the possibility for apartments condor or townwe might be able to have a little higher density and a price point that is a little more affordable. (Also) single family is not an allowed use, but you have a number of properties (40) in there that are single family, so that makes them non-conforming."

This ultimately makes it harder for property owners to sell their house since lenders see that as issue if a buyer

Although this might seem like a sudden topic of conversation, Knauss and Ustanik have been working on this issue since the start of the new vear.

"We gave a letter to the (Manson) Community Council in January and then met with the county to see if they had any red flags with the proposal and they didn't," Knauss paused before contin ing "so erty owners reiterating what we have been talking about." Of course, one of the complaints was the potential impact on views.

However, after further evaluation by reviewing pictures taken at the top of Wapato Terrace and comparing them to Red Apple Market - which is 40-45 feet - an increase in 10 feet will have little impact on the overall views of the lake.

Knauss also pointed out there would be breaks in the development since no one is going to build a giant 50 foot wall.

"All of these are up for discussion and input from the community. If they want to move forward, there is a process that goes from there, at this phase we are just making suggestions," Knauss calmly insisted. "There are no secret agendas or anything like that, it is pretty straightforward."

According to Knauss and Ustanik the people whose

Pateros mayor presents OCLTRG Certificate of Appreciation to CVH

BY MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

CHELAN – Pateros Mayor, Carlene Anders, made a special appearance on behalf of Okanogan County Long Term Recovery Group (OCL-TRG) at the Cornerstone Building offices of Chelan Valley Hope (CVH) at 417 S. Bradley last Thursday, Feb. 23, to present the organization with a Certificate of Appreciation of its donations and help for survivors of the 2014 and 2015 wildfires.

Anders, who also serves as executive director of OCL-TRG, made the presentation to CVH outgoing president, Lynne Worley, and CVH Director, Sharon Lukacs.

The acknowledgement, framed in a black shadow box reads in part: "For Great Partnership, Support and Commitment to Serving Community Members recovering from the Wildfire Disasters of 2014 and 2015."

The frame also contains samples of burned items recovered from wildfire home sites.

CVH a 501(c)3, got its start in 2008 when organizers were looking for a way to better serve under-resourced Chelan Valley families. Following the 2014-15 wildfires CVH served as a hub for fire relief efforts.

"Sharon has been involved with us from almost the very beginning," Anders said of Lukacs' involvement in OCLTRG. "She is one of our most senior members and last January became our treasurer."

Lukacs and CVH participate in the weekly telephone conference meetings of the Unmet Needs Roundtable that continues to provide a funding source for fire survivors.

"It's the way our Disaster Case Managers (DCM) get their funding," Anders said. "Over a million dollars has been contributed so far."

Other groups that participate or have participated in the weekly teleconferences include Red Cross, United Methodist Church, Okanogan County Community Action Council, Catholic Charities, Room One, United Way, Community foundation of North Central Washington, and Carlton Complex Assistance Network, to name a partial list.

The funding partners have a sit-down meeting at 9:30 a.m. every third Friday of the month at the Pateros Fire Hall.

"We sent out a letter to make sure this is something they want to do going forward, because I don't live in that zone, so I wanted to make sure they were on board and it turns out they are, so that is where we are at," Knauss said with confidence.

If the zone gets changes, a wide array of uses could be applied including: agricultural accessory buildings, fences, signs, caretaker dwelling, residential, single family, agricultural activities, roadside stands, wineries, lodging, restaurants, taverns, manufacturing, transportation, open space, parking, recreation, utilities, vacation rentals churches, schools, automotive repairs and retail facilities etc.

"These are living documents," Knauss said in reference to the UGA, "so they are meant to be changes as population and views change. But ultimately it will increase the density for housing, which in turn will help support the downtown businesses that struggle to stay alive year round. So to me, it makes sense."

We'll see if it makes sense to the Manson Community Council as well when they make their decision on their regular meeting on April 18.

For a frame of reference, you can only submit a change to the UGA once a year. If approved, the process would take a year to just get adjusted. Then a developer would have to go through an approval process with the county before breaking ground.

dents to come and give input on the project.

Peterson said that after the hearing, residents will have 10 days to file a written objection to the District. If 40 percent of the residents object than the ULID will not form.

"If the ULID forms, after the project is completed and costs are known, they do a final assessment and people will have the ability to object if their property value did not rise greater than the proposed assessment," Peterson stated.

There are two other ULID's that are on the table as well, one for Hawks Meadow, and another for residential parcels clustered around Bear Mountain Golf Course after residents came to the District asking for fire flow.

Although Peterson claimed there were a several meetings on the project, and property owners knew the costs associated, they had a similar reaction to the notice as their Lakefront counterparts.

Although some property owners expressed concern that some individuals might be rigging the system in their favor, Peterson firmly denied the notion.

"Bob Jankelson has been accused, but he already has developed property, which lakefront owners fought him tooth and nail on. Now look what they got, easily identifiably water rights and this #### spectacular vineyard that CONTINUED FROM PAGE A1 they can walk across the street to," Peterson said.

"He also owns five parcels of land by the Bear Mountain Golf Course, so he will be paying five times as much. As a commissioner he could have chose to readjust, but he didn't say anything. He will be paring a lot more for these assessments and probably not benefit from it and it is tragic that somebody like him is trash-talked so badly." The next public meeting is Wednesday, March 29 at 1 p.m. at Chelan Cellars. After the meeting property owners will have 10 days to file a written objection to the District. If there is less than a 40 percent objection, the project will move forward.

We might also talk about something from residency, future care the affordability of the project, the effect on the local economy, the growing demographic of Chelan Valley and the options and alternatives that have already been discussed."

to remove studded tires

SUBMITTED BY BARBARA LABOE, WSDOT

OLYMPIA - Spring is here and that means drivers in Washington have until this Friday, March 31, to remove their winter studded tires.

The Washington State Department of Transportation reminds drivers that state law requires all studded tires to be removed by the end of the day March 31. Starting April 1, drivers with studded tires face a $136 traffic infraction.

Studded tires also damage pavement, so removing them promptly after winter has passed helps preserve state roadways. Tire removal services can get crowded as the removal deadline approaches, so please plan accordingly.

WSDOT will not be extending the studded tire deadline this year, but crews will continue to monitor roads, passes, and forecasts and work to clear any late season snow or ice. Travelers are always advised to "know before you go".

Washington and Oregon share the same studded tire removal deadline.

Other states may have later dates, but the Washington law applies to all drivers in the state, even visitors. No personal exemptions or waivers are issued.

Legislators field citizen questions during Telephone Town Hall

By Mike Maltais Staff writer

OLYMPIA – Washington state 12th District legislators Cary Condotta, R-Wenatchee, and Mike Steele, R-Chelan, fielded citizens' questions and participated in live public polls during a one-hour Telephone Town Hall from their offices in the state capitol, on Wednesday, March 15.

Following a short delay caused by technical difficulties, the two legislators addressed constituent concerns that ranged from McCleary and marijuana to gas tax and grizzly bears with callers from a four-county area.

Rep. Condotta reported that since the first day of the current legislative session that began Jan. 9, 1,66 bills have been introduced by the State House and 376 of those passed over to the State Senate. The Senate introduced 890 bills and sent 282 of those to the House. Condotta serves on both the House Appropriations and House Finance committees.

Rep. Steele, who serves on three committees; Education, Capital Budget, and Technology and Economic Development said he has been working with the City of Brewster on "fairly significant water issues with their wells and manganese," and "working really hard to try to find a solution for them."

One of the first questions dealt with a major issue facing the 2017 Legislature, the State Supreme Court's January 2012 McCleary decision which mandates that the state legislature fund public education,

Steele said the House has now publicly released the House Republican plan but that the biggest problem continues to be "defining the public education box."

Steele said school superintendents from the 12th District have been unable to agree on that definition as well but conceded that once the state budget is released in a couple of weeks the Senate and House majority "will have a better sense of how we fill that gap."

A Wenatchee caller said she thought considerable

going to cities and counties," said Steele.

Steele said he fought for to get some money for municipalities since they deal with zoning and production. Steele said a current proposal seeks to increase the amount of money cities would receive.

A caller poll question asked whether the annual property tax levy cap of one percent plus new construction for cities and counties under Initiative 747 should be increased to five percent plus new construction. Of those who votes, 13 percent favored the increase, 53 percent opposed and 33 percent thought property taxes are already too high and should be reduced. A

Wenatchee caller wanted to know how Chelan County could deny cannabis farms the right to operate, but propose to raise the gas tax by five cents when approval of cannabis would provide the county with needed money and jobs?

Steele said Okanogan, Douglas and Grant counties have solved the issue but Chelan

We've given them all the tools from day one to do what they want to do," said Steele with respect to zoning and regulation of cannabis "but some of these folks got set up and got operational Condotta said he spoke with Chelan County Commissioners on the afternoon before the Telephone Town Hall and was advised the process is still in the hands of the planning commission and nothing had yet been taken up at the Commission level.

Besides being an amazing hairstylist, Charlene was a master gardener, crafterseamstress, canner extraordinaire, listener, encourager, and fisherman! Her quiet faith in Jesus was her strength and best gift given to her children.

An obituary is a way for family member(s) to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the larger community of the deceased. Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data.

Memorials are another way of letting the community know about the life and memories of the person who has died. A Memorial is different from an obituary. An obituary is usually current while a memorial can be written later.

Judy Marie Hook

01/17/45 -03/14/17 It is with sad hearts that we tell that our mother, Judy Marie Hook passed away at her home in Brewster on March 14.2017.

Judy Marie Hook was born January 17, 1945 in Spokane, Wash to Marie Vera Ingraham and James Stroud.

Judy lived in the Spokane area before moving to North Bend in 1950. She attended Mount Si High School where she met the man who would later become her husband, Thomas Hook. They were married in 1962 in North Bend, Wash. They had three children: Steven, Kelly and Wendy. Tom and Judy lived in Whidbey Island, Wash. while Tom was in the Navy. In 1963 they had their first child, Steven. In 1964 once Tom was out of the Navy, they moved to Bainbridge Island for about one year. In 1965 they moved to the Skagit Valley; specifically Diablo and Nehalem. In 1966 they had their middle child, Kelly.

eline Falls for a year before returning to Diablo. In 1969 Judy and Tom had their third and final child, Wendy. They lived in the Diablo-Nehalem area where Tom worked for Seattle City Light until moving to Pateros in 1974. While Tom with Douglas County PUD at Wells Dam, Judy went to work in the packing sheds in Pateros and the Pateros IGA grocery store. She then worked for many years at the Brewster Drug store.

Once they were empty nesters, Tom and Judy decided to go their separate ways and in the fall of 1999, Judy moved to Arizona. She lived in Lake nearly five years. Judy was a people person who always enjoyed entertaining guests and spending time with her friends.

In 2004 she moved to Pasco, Wash. where she was much closer to her mother, children and grandchildren.

During their children's school years, Judy was very active in the kid's interests and activities. Judy instilled manners, ethics, courage and a strong family unity within her children. She was always the one to host Christmas dinners with family, friends or whoever passed by her home. Her love for the holidays was precious. In her younger years she enjoyed being on the water in the summer or backpacking in the mountains but be assured; family was always nearby and always put first. Whether she was called Judy, mom, Gram or Mema she was always a huge supporter of her family. She had a contagious smile that would always lighten up any room and a laugh that warmed hearts around her.

When her mother Marie moved to Brewster in 2010, Judy moved next door to be closer to her. They were inseparable until Marie passed in 2012. Judy lived her last years in Brewster. She continued to visit with her children, grandchildren and their families. She passed her time by reading her favorite books, cook books, baking and crocheting blankets, throws and whatever she could knit.

Judy was preceded in death by her mother, father, stepfather, one grandson and one nephew.

She is survived by her brother Ben Wells of Hawaii, exhusband Tom Hook, her three children; Steven Hook and his wife Nattalie of Pasco, Wash., Kelly Hook and his wife Nicole of Brewster and daughter Wendy Hernandez and her husband Alejandro. Her five grandchildren, one niece and numerous cousins, aunts and uncles. Her children will dearly miss her smile and tender heart.

A private grave side service with family will take place April 1, 2017 at St. Mary Presentation Catholic Church and Cemetery in Deer Park, Wash.

Please leave any thoughts and memories for the family at www.barneschapel.com. Barnes Chapel is entrusted with the arrangements.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Be informed on new hospital

Dear Friends,

I remember so well that Friday evening when fire tore through our community. As midnight approached, a friend and I were driving to my house to hunt for bedding, mats and lanterns for evacuees at the elementary school. Fire was everywhere. Lines of fire against the black sky and bursts of flame which I knew were houses burning. It was surreal, but we were too concerned about the children who were tired and families with no place to go to think of much more than the immediate need. As the smoke settled. the blackened trees and lonely chimneys were stark reminders of the losses.

Two years later, I see evidence of a new kind of fire. Signs march along the road, "New Hospital Now", they say. "Vote Yes" Inwardly, I cheer every time I see one. There is a constructive fire in the heart of many of us as we try to see this bond pass. I'm not hunting for bedding for wide-eyed children this time, I'm hunting for votes. Votes for kids who are hurting and need that appendix removed. Votes for the addict who finds hope in our third floor sanctuary. Votes for the elderly lady with pneumonia who needs to be close to home so her husband can visit her daily.

Not everyone agrees with me. We are a small town, and like every small town there are rumors, innuendos, truths, falsehoods, facts, gossip, and just plain confusion. It is a different kind of fire, but can be just as destructive. What do we do about this new fire? I say, tend it carefully. Blackened trees can be cut down. Buildings can be rebuilt. The fire of words are not as easily rectified. Friends, let's get together and have a reasonable chat. Let's listen to every side, to the stories, to the hearts of people on both sides.

Thursday, March 30, 5:30 -7:00 p.m. in the PAC at the Chelan High School there's a forum being held to discuss this vote. Both sides have been invited to share. I hope to see you there. Together, may we tend this fire of change. It's not about me. It's not about you. It's about us.

Alligators still winning the battle in D.C.

So in his first effort to drain the swamp, the swamp wins. President Trump has decided to let Obamacare explode. Couldn't get the votes needed to pass a bill to repeal it so he agreed to pull the bill.

The first problem with that is nobody actually had to go on the record as voting for or against the bill. That is one of the biggest problems with the swamp in Washington, D.C. The cowards we elected always get to argue both sides of the issue but when they actually have to go on the record and vote they avoid accountability by withdrawing the legislation.

In either case the legislation fails but we don't really know how our representative would have voted. We are left with the question, were they really serious or just acting out a sham?

They can go home and continue to be ambiguous in discussing difficult issues. They can go home and blame it on some other unnamed member or members of the other party who didn't have to go against their party leadership when put to the test.

Trump's mistake here was to give into Speaker Paul Ryan when Ryan claimed he didn't have the votes. He probably didn't have the votes but would it have been different if the individual members had to go on the record and vote against repeal? After eight years of promising to repeal Obamacare the Republicans failed again to live up to the promise they made to voters.

Once again the Washington establishment wins and the American people lose.

Trump is right. Obamacare will collapse. It has already failed to meet the promise of affordable care for all. Insurance companies are withdrawing from Obamacare and premiums are rising at unsustainable rates.

Republicans have been running on the promise to repeal Obamacare. They have not run on the promise to replace it with their own version of socialized medicine. Supposedly, that is why conservatives wouldn't support their bill.

Many say they can't just repeal it because too many Americans would be left with no coverage. But guess what, with the deductibles and copays in these plans Americans have no real coverage now. And the mandates for employers to provide coverage are causing many Americans to be underemployed as employers limit hours to avoid having to buy the insurance for their "full time" employees.

President Trump said Democrats now own Obamacare. The truth is they always owned it. Only one Republican voted for it originally.

Failing to repeal it once again indicates that many establishment Republicans are privately in support of Obamacare. It is true they voted numerous times during the Obama administration to repeal it. Those votes were truly specious since they knew that even if they got it through the Senate Obama would veto it. So failing to vote to repeal it once again shows their complicity in retaining this failed legislation.

Forcing members of the House to vote on the bill would make it clear if they were simply voting the party line or if they were opposed on principle. It is easy for representatives from either party to tell party leaders they would support the party line. But when forced to go on the record publically, especially if they are facing a potentially close fight in their next election, they may vote differently.

Before Obamacare does any more damage, Trump needs to force a vote to repeal it. That is what he promised he would do.

Let's find out which alligators, Republican or Democrat, support this disastrous bill.

In a stunning moment in the Supreme Court confirmation hearings for Neil Gorsuch, Senator Dianne Feinstein, a staunch supporter of so-called "abortion rights," took umbrage with one of Gorsuch's previous written statements. As Feinstein described it, "He [Gorsuch] believes there are no exceptions to the principle that 'the intentional taking of a human life by private persons is always wrong." Well, yes, that's al taking of human life by private persons is always wrong."

As for me, I will choose that vorldview over the Feinstein a definition. Human sexuality demonstrates natural law so well because it's so selfevident. Another violation of natural law is murder: one human life taking another. That's a violation held by cultures and societies and governments of all times.

Natural law is as old and varied as the Old and New Testaments, as the Jewish and Christian faiths, as Aquinas and Augustine, as John Calvin and John Paul Nazi officials that regardless of what Hitler's laws stated, they should have known that what they were doing was wrong. To gas human beings and recycle their corpses into soap and lamp shades is an obvious violation of basic laws of humanity-no excuses.

Or, consider slavery and various civil-rights laws. One current libertarian writer states that "the greatest spokesman for natural law in the twentieth century was probably Martin Luther King, who denounced segregation not because of its technical complexities, but because it betrayed the natural law principles of the Declaration of Independence.' This being the case, most progressives will do with natural law what they do with Biblical Law and other moral laws—they will pick the applications they like and ignore or reject those they don't. Or, even more brazenly, they will try to remake the natural law in their own image. No, sorry, it doesn't work that way. Nature tells you what to do; you don't tell nature what to do biology and your A/4 id ion H Djectional chromosomes tervent and the statement statemen your gender. But tell that to prove a distribution of the relativism, where everyth is deemed redefinable, human life is even considered a human life.

That's what Gorsuch believes. That's a good thing, isn't it?

Not to Senator Feinstein, sadly, for whom the alpha and omega is what her colleagues Nancy Pelosi and Hillary Clinton consider a "sacred right:" a woman's "right to choose." Roe v. Wade is sacrosanct in their eyes, and that's the complete opposite of what Neil Gorsuch considers sacrosanct.

The Gorsuch statement that Feinstein was quoting comes from a 2006 book that he wrote on euthanasia and assisted suicide. In that book, Gorsuch wrote that "all human beings are intrinsically valuable and the intention-worldview any day.

Gorsuch's views stem from a very deep, very rich, and very old tradition known as natural law.

Natural law affirms that we do what we ought to do according to nature, to our very nature. "What we ought to do is based on what we are," writes Peter Kreeft. The natural law, notes Kreeft, is naturally known, by natural human reason and experience. You need not be a religious believer to know the natural law, even if that law (many of us believe) was written into nature by a Creator.

Really, it's easier to give examples of natural law than

II, as Martin Luther King Jr. and Jacques Maritain. It is considered immutable and permanent throughout the variations of history, a universal rule that binds us all. As Augustine put it, natural law is "the law that is written in the human heart."

One of my former students got an answer in law school, when her progressive professor boldly proclaimed that "natural law doesn't exist." But I caution this professor that if he/she really believes this, then he/she must also reject the natural-law-based conclusions of tribunals such as Nuremberg after World War II, when the judges told educated. It's difficult to find a more credentialed academic pedigree. He studied natural law while earning a Ph.D. at Oxford (he has a J.D. from Harvard) under one of the world's preeminent authorities on natural law, John Finnis. Professor Finnis was Gorsuch's dissertation adviser.

It was there that he issued his statement on the inviolability of all human life, and how no human being should be able to take the another human statement that Ser stein found so rep ligion."

It's good to have Supreme Court justices of this mind, not of the thinking of the likes of Senator Feinstein.

In all, this means that Neil Gorsuch's thinking on issues like human life and religious liberty should be in concert with faithful Christians, and it should be sympathetic to the rights of those Christians against a government that tries to coerce them.

CHELAN - Historic Downtown Chelan Association held their annual membership dinner on March 23. at Andante Restaurant in downtown Chelan with over 50 in attendance.

Special recognition was given to outgoing board Barb Wadkins for her dedication and for all she has down for downtown Chelan.

Board members are: Linda Van Lusen, president; JoAnne Strandberg, vice-president; Lynda Kennedy, secretary; Kirk church; Eric and Tom Campbell of Campbell's Resort accepted for Campbell's Resort, Larry Hibbard and Mary Murphy, owners of the Ruby Theatre accepted for the theatre; and Chelan Mayor Mike Cooney and city council member Servando Robledo accepted the plaque for the The Old Bridge (Woodin Avenue Bridge).

Larry Hibbard commented during the presentation that is was great to see that all four were still be used for what they were originally built for.

 The Chelan Hotel (Campbell's Resort) was built in 1901 projector. The Ruby Theatre is the oldest continuously running movie theatre in the Northwest United States.

· Chelan's log church was built in 1898 when Washington was still a territory. The logs for the church were cut uplake and rafted to Chelan. It was a missionary church of the Episcopal Diocese of Spokane, and its pastor served other congregations in the area, often raveling on horseback to the areas of Brewster, Winthrop and Twisp. The first service was held Christmas Eve in 1898, which makes St. Andrew's Episcopal Church the oldest structure in Chelan. · The Old Bridge was built in 1927 over the Chelan River in the State of Washington. This concrete bridge replaced an older bridge that had carried horse and foot travel for almost 50 years. It is know as the "old bridge' to distinguish it from the "new bridge", which was built in 1977 downriver, above the dam. The light posts were paid for by local individuals and businesses. Cost for construction of the bridge was $60,000. HDCA Volunteers of Month are Cathy Sand and Nancy Thompson who came to HDCA with a desire to enhance the holidays in downtown Chelan. ENTIAT - Boasting a roster of 35 talented kids, the Entiat Track team and their head coach Julie Cannon are poised to compete for the District 6 Championship trophy this season.

This is evident in their practices according to Cannon.

"Our practices have been very competitive and the kids are doing a great job of pushing and supporting each other," Cannon pointed out. "Our larger turnout is also going to allow us to fill all the events on the boys side and most of them on the girls side."

Leading the boys team are seniors Kirston Tran, Cesar Ramos and Diego Santos.

"Ceasar has spent a lot of time in the weight room this winter and should see some big improvements in his shot, discus and javelin throws," Cannon insisted. "Kirston will be one of our top sprinters and jumpers and will serve as part of the 4x 100 relay team. He also has the chance to break the school long jump record." Cannon remains confident in her underclassman as well though as she pointed out their vast improvements compared to last year.

"Junior Ronnie Parks is returning after a year away bigger, faster and stronger and he will be running sprints, relays and jumping for us. Sophomore Blake Duncan also gained valuable experience running both the hurdle races at state last year and has picked up right where he left off. Drew Duncan - who is our top distance runner - has taken six seconds off his best 1600 meter time and should be one of the district's fastest in the event."

In addition to the boys team, coach Cannon maintains that the girls team is just as strong and versatile.

"The girls team has a strong group of throwers led by Allison Haynes and Yuki Sanford. Grace Giacomazzi is returning with state experience in relays and both hurdle races. Natalya Paz and Faith Southard bring state experience to our sprints and relays and newcomer Ivette Mora will also sprint and run relays," outs."

One meet Cannon and the team is looking forward to is the Brewster Relay meet on Tuesday, April 11 because it, "gives the kids a chance to compete in a more relaxed environment," coach Cannon stated.

Before then though, Entiat will compete against Chelan, Manson and Cascade at the Manson meet on Thursday, March 30. The first event is set to start at 4 p.m.

ENTIAT - Rain and snow are the natural enemy of a tennis team, but the Entiat tennis team sees it as more of an opportunity.

"The first week of our season consisted of snow blowing and shoveling 18-inches of snow and ice off of our courts. (Although) The snow and rain has slowed our development at this point in the season, the team's dedication and willingness to work hard will more than offset this in the long run," head coach Lee Southard said enthusiastically. "On the positive side this was a good team bonding experience for all of us."

Talent wise, coach Southard expects his team to be a force as the season progresses.

"This year our girls team looks the same as last year, except for a welcome addition of three freshman," coach Southard said. "Daisy Arias and Hailey (Lefty) Davis will be solid at first doubles. Yaretzy Ayala, Celest McTaggart, Neida Guerrero and Ginny Kammeyer will battle it out for the singles spots. Brooklyn Eisenhard, Alexis Williams and Nadia Rivera are freshmen who have already made great strides this year. They are very coachable.

The boys team consists of four freshman and one junior.

"Spencer Southard is the sole returning player from last year. He will team up with Christopher Mudgett at first doubles and Jaime Padilla, Tyler Anderson and Yancy Ayala will all be rotating through singles and doubles this year.

Since the team is small, the boys should expect a lot of playing time which will help in their overall growth as players.

When asked about a match his team is looking forward to, Southard responded with Liberty Bell, because "we always have fun and hard fought matches when we play them."

Next up for the Tigers is a match against Okanogan on Thursday, March 30. Their next home match is Friday, March 31 against Oroville.

Trojans split away games against Brewster, Bridgeport

By ZACH JOHNSON STAFF WRITER

BREWSTER / BRIDGE-PORT - The Manson Trojan soccer team showed some heart this past weekend.

After getting shut out in a tough match against Brewster on Thursday, Manson came out two days later and blanked the Bridgeport Mustangs on their home pitch.

• Brewster

In one of the most anticipated matches of the year between both powerhouse soccer programs, the Trojans came up short despite a few early chances.

Within the first two minutes, forward Aurelio Gutierrez played a nice ball in behind the Brewster defense, but his effort hit the crossbar. The Trojans continued to dominate until about midway through the first half when a Bears forward found himself unmarked in the open field and converted on a long shot, beating keeper Misa Montes.

Both teams continued to fight for position the rest of the half, but Brester again broke through the Manson defense early in the second half to go up 2-0.

Ultimately an injury to Jesus Espinoza in the first half cost Manson as they were left with limited substitutions the rest of the game.

"In the end, after another late goal by Brewster, the Trojans were left with nothing more than lessons to learn from their first league game of the season," head coach Jared Mumley said in his game report.

Bridgeport

"The Trojans showed resilience and hard work in their 2-0 vicrtory over the Bridgeport Mustangs," coach Mumley wrote in his game report. "With a limited bench, Manson competed well in a tight first half."

Although they struggled to create many chances, goalkeeper Serafin Chavez kept the Trojans in the game with series of diving saves.

Manson upped the pressure in the second half and finally broke through as Freddy Leyva chased through a pass by Heri Sarmiento and drove the ball into the back of the net with aroung 20 minutes left in the game.

The Trojans continued to press the Mustangs, which eventually paid off after Everardo Rodriguez converted the header on a corner kick from Leyva.

With the win, the Trojans improve to 2-1 on the season and will take on Bridgeport again on Thursday, March 30. Kickoff is set for 4:30 p.m.

Goats drop two to Cashmere

By Zach Johnson Staff writer

CHELAN - For some reason, Cashmere has Chelan's number when it comes to the diamond.

After beating the Goats on Saturday by a combined score of 19-1 in two games, the Bulldogs have pushed their winning streak over Chelan to an astounding 21 games, dating back to 2009.

Overall, the Goats struggled to piece anything together offensively with only a handful of hits in both games. This has been a theme for Chelan so far this season as they appear to be having a difficult time shaking off the winter rust early in the season. For example, there were multiple occasions on Saturday when the Goats would get a baserunner, but then couldn't capitalize.

Although as the season wears on and the players get back into a rhythm, expect the Goats to square up more balls and produce more runs.

Top Right and going clockwise: #12 Matt Fitz dips his shoulder a little too much on his swing and pops up to second base after contact.

Below: #13 Quinn Stamps comes through a little early on his swing but makes solid contact and drives the ball out to left field.

Below: After an errant throw from third baseman Colt Corrigan, #29, Breken Sporseen, #31 comes off the bag and tags the runner as he is about to touch first.

Below: In the next inning, Sporseen forced a long at-bat before popping up to second base to get the second out of the inning.

Left: Fitz (on the bump) had a tough outing as the Cashmere hitters sprayed the ball all over the field.

Above: One Chelan base runner slides into second with a double. It was the best hit of the afternoon as he sliced one into the right center gap.

Above: Senior Tyler Worthen almost made a miraculous diving catch right before this frame, but the ball slid out of his glove and he was forced to fire the ball into the cut at third to prevent another run.
