Town Honors Brent Holladay with pump track tribute

By QUINN PROPST
Ward Media Staff Reporter

Two years after the passing of Brent Holladay, his memory continues to resonate throughout the community of Cashmere. Holladay, a devoted outdoor enthusiast and avid mountain biker, asked his family not to dwell in grief but to live life to the fullest in his absence.

In response to his wish, family, friends, and community members joined forces to pave the town pump track in his name. The track now stands as a tribute to the man whose spirit of generosity touched the lives of many.

Brent's wife, Kim Holladay, said that he had always talked about paving the Cashmere dirt track, but it never came to fruition while he was alive.

For Kim and their two children, daughter Jordan and son Jacob, this project is a way to honor his memory and a part of their grieving process.

"Their dad, some of the words that he gave us when he left was 'Live a wonderful life and take me with you everywhere you go,'" Kim said. "He wanted everyone to be able to enjoy the outdoors as much as he had. Because he believed that it's an honest reflection of Jesus and heaven, and it's just an amazing creation that we have and we should enjoy it, right."

"Being outside and, you know, upward and onward is so essential with life and especially for the three of us as we grieve, this is just another beautiful step forward in our grieving process where we can just feel healing, and it's rewarding," she added. "It's exciting to be able to pass it on to the next generation from him and to see that for the community."

Brent was 52 when he passed away in 2021.

About a year and a half ago, Kim went to Brent's core group of friends from the Leavenworth area and Evergreen Mountain Bike Alliance (EMBA) and asked, "Can we do this?"

"And everybody was on board and excited, and I wanted to make it the Brent Holladay Memorial Pump Track," she said.

"The intention was to place asphalt on the newly upgraded tracks so that it didn't deteriorate as fast as the dirt track has over the years," she said. "So it will be something that'll be there for ten plus years for the community to enjoy before they need to worry about maintaining it."

Brent's longtime friend, James Munly, with EMBA, was a key player in making the pump track improvement a success.

Munly said that his friend was a passionate, generous man who gave his time to help others, so it was no surprise when there was a groundswell of people who helped to make the Brent Holladay Pump Track a reality.

The project did not use public funds and was made possible all through the generosity of donations and volunteers.

Kim, along with the high school art teacher, designed the park sign, and her nephew cut it out in the high school shop. She had to have the sign extended because there were so many people who donated and participated in the project, which is a beautiful blessing, she said.

Last week, they were able to add the sign to the park.

Brent, who grew up in Leavenworth, was instrumental in building the original dirt track in 2015. The track was Cashmere High School alum Cole Paton's senior project. Kim was a high school teacher in Cashmere for 20 years. When Paton's turn for a project came along, he wanted to do something that centered around biking. So she lined him up with her husband.

"And they came up with this brilliant idea to create this dirt pump track at Riverside Park, which was all approved through the city and the council and the mayor at the time," Kim said. "So, Cole and Brent and a ton of volunteers built this pump track out of dirt in 2015, which has led to years of kids growing up and appreciating and

Last week volunteers completed the paving and refurbishment of Cashmere's pump track, now officially known as the Brent Holladay Memorial Pump Track. The improvements were made possible by an outpouring of community support.

Chelan County Fair to crown first rodeo queen

By QUINN PROPST
Ward Media Staff Reporter

The Chelan County Fair and Rodeo is gearing up for an exciting change in 2024 as they prepare to crown their very first Rodeo Queen in November.

Applicants will compete in the Nov. 12 pageant at the Tillicum Riders Club House in Cashmere.

Organizers hope to make the pageant an annual event, showcasing and honoring local young women with an enthusiasm to compete for the title.

"Our rodeo is now sanctioned with the Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association or PRCA, so we are hopeful that having a rodeo queen out promoting our rodeo at other events will draw more attention to the Chelan County Fair and Rodeo," said Kristen Mattson, a member of the Chelan County Fair Board and the Chelan County Rodeo Queen Committee.

To be considered, applicants must be between the ages of 17 and 23, attending high school or recently graduated, a resident of either Chelan, Douglas, Okanogan, or Grant counties, have riding and horsemanship skills, and have attended a mandatory orientation on Oct. 30.

Prospective queens will compete in several segments including personal interviews, horsemanship skills, modeling presentations, speech delivery, and impromptu questions.

A panel of three judges will evaluate contestants in these categories.

Mattson said the judges are looking for someone who is proud to represent the Chelan Fair and Rodeo.

The 2024 queen will be presented with a variety of awards, sponsored items, and royalty accessories to be worn during the year of her reign. She will participate in a year of community events, public speaking, parades, luncheons, and rodeos while serving as a goodwill ambassador for the Chelan County Fair and Rodeo.

In the past, the Chelan County Fair had two local young people, known as Ambassadors, who represented the fair at speaking engagements before and during the annual fair. However, in 2024, the Ambassador positions will be reduced from two to one. The Rodeo Queen and Ambassador will work together to promote the fair and rodeo.

Mattson hopes the new queen shares her knowledge with the community to help people better understand the sport of rodeo and can serve as a good role model for little girls.

"Rodeo has always felt like family to me," she said. "Everyone who I've met through rodeo have become good friends; they are always willing to lend a helping hand when needed. My hope is the rodeo queen is a conduit for sharing that rodeo family and experience with our community."

The 2024 Chelan County Fair is scheduled for Sept. 5-8.

Cashmere City Council Meeting

By KIRK BECKENDORF
Special to Ward Media

Bill Donald addressed the Cashmere City Council at their Oct 23 meeting. He expressed concern about the city potentially cutting services, as the Council had discussed at their previous meeting, as a potential option to help address budget shortfalls. Donald described the city's current inability to provide adequate and timely snow plowing, street sweeping, and similar street maintenance. He used these examples to explain that additional reductions in services would be even more of a detriment for residents. He acknowledged that raising taxes hits citizens hard and said that tax dollars need to be spent wisely, but Donald expressed that cutting services also creates hardships for citizens.

A Public Hearing was held at the meeting to receive comments regarding a potential property tax increase. Donald was the only member of the public in attendance. Following the hearing and significant discussion, in a 4-1 vote, the Council approved a 1% increase in property tax revenue, the maximum amount allowed. Council member Derrick Pratt voted against the increase, which will provide the city with an additional $7,383 dollars. City documents show an additional $11,701 in property tax revenue from new construction.

Mayor Jim Fletcher provided an overview of the city's sources of taxes and other revenue for the General Government Budget and the Public Works Budgets. Graphs provided by Fletcher show that approximately 70% ($737,501) of the General Government Fund is used to pay for emergency services, including law enforcement contracts with the Sheriff's office and jail. According to Fletcher and others, city expenses have continued to rise because of inflation. In the 2024 budget, most of the increase in the General Government Fund is from the county, with a $70,000+ increase just for operating the jail—a 180% change from $40,000 in 2023 to $112,400 for 2024.

Fletcher explained that the Public Works Fund pays for the maintenance of streets, parks, buildings, and the pool. He agreed with Donald that due to the size of the city's work crew, the city is unable to get to many of the city streets for leaf and snow removal and other maintenance in a timely manner.

Fletcher told the Council that in the past, the city had a large enough difference between revenue and expenses so that the city was able to transfer funds into the Capital Improvement Budget to fund large projects. He said that expenses have increased to the point that the city cannot build the Capital Improvement Budget as it had in the past. This results in the City postponing or not implementing large infrastructure projects that are needed.

Derrick Pratt expressed his concern that when the city contracts out services, like garbage collection and water/wastewater facilities, the city reduces its labor force, which could be used to help in crisis situations. Fletcher responded that water/wastewater revenue funds cannot be used for plowing city streets. He added that City Councils have to weigh the pros and cons to try to make the best decisions. Pratt agreed but said that, ultimately, the city now has a smaller workforce to plow city streets. Council member Chris Carlson reflected on the decision to contract out management of the water/wastewater facility and said it was partly a result of the city being unable to find and hire qualified and certified staff. Council Member John Perry added that he would like to see another person in public works, but that would require additional revenue.

Carlson said he is looking for more input from the public to know if they are willing to be taxed more for more services. Using the pool as an example, it costs about $150,000 annually to operate and needs a million dollars in repairs. Are people willing to be taxed more for that facility or give up other services? He reiterated his desire to get more feedback from the

Local Elections

Your chance to shape North Central Washington's future

As the autumn leaves begin to fall and the days grow shorter, we find ourselves on the cusp of a critical event that affects every one of us: the general election. While the spotlight often shines on the grand stages of presidential and congressional races, it's essential not to overlook the significance of local elections. These contests are the backbone of our communities, shaping the daily life and future of North Central Washington.

Historically, voter turnout in non-presidential and non-congressional voting years has been disappointingly low in our great state of Washington and specifically in Chelan County. It's time to recognize the importance of local elections and reverse this trend. In 2021, only 39.38% of eligible voters in Washington State participated, underscoring the need for greater engagement. Over the past decade, Washington's voter turnout has seen its fair share of ups and downs, but our state can do better. In 2017, for instance, a mere 37.10% of eligible voters made their voices heard, leaving important decisions in the hands of a few. We must strive for greater participation.

Similarly, Chelan County has experienced its own ebb and flow in voter turnout, with 2021 turnout at only 47.23%. The low point in the last decade was 2017's turnout at an astonishingly low 38.14%. While we've seen some improvement, our goal should be to consistently engage a majority of eligible voters in the decision-making process.

So, why should we care about local elections? The answer is simple: because they affect our daily lives in profound ways. Local leaders determine how our tax dollars are spent, the quality of our schools, the state of our roads, and much more. Decisions made at the local level can directly impact our communities, and it's crucial that we have a say in shaping our future.

As we approach the upcoming election on Tuesday, Nov. 7, it's essential to understand the deadlines for casting your vote. To ensure your voice is heard, ballots must be placed in a ballot dropbox or postmarked by 8 p.m. on that day. This is your opportunity to make a difference in North Central Washington and Chelan County, so don't let it slip away.

Let's break the cycle of low voter turnout and take charge of our future. Local elections matter, and every vote counts. By participating in these crucial decisions, we can build a stronger and more vibrant community. So, mark your calendars, fill out those ballots, and be the change you want to see. Let's ensure that North Central Washington's future is bright and promising, as it should be.

enjoying and pressing forward with their love of outdoors and mountain biking."

The new paved surface allows for a greater use of the space. With a dirt track, it was primarily regulated to bikes. Now, more of the community can enjoy it.

"What was really neat too was that even the day we were finished paving it, we actually had Jacob Holladay—Kim and Brent's son—was the first person to do laps on it, which was pretty special," Munly said.

As Jacob was taking the inaugural laps, a little girl tugged on Munly's shirt and asked when she could try it. "Right now," he told her, and then he watched as more children came to use the park on scooters, run bikes, and skateboards.

He said it was special to see how diverse the track is, with people using it all the way down to little kids who don't even know how to ride a bike yet using it with their run bikes all the way up to parents using it to skate while their kids ride.

A pump track is a great tool for teaching young children all the way up through adults how to ride a bike on mountain trails, Kim said.

"And that's what we're trying to do is just to continue that on with the next generation," she said. "And he believed that you know, a community bonded together can create a beautiful thing, which I think the pump track is proof of that."

Speak Up for Grizzly Bears!

Grizzlies roamed Washington's North Cascades for thousands of years, but now none remain. Hunted, trapped, and poisoned, the bears were exterminated. We now have a plan—and a responsibility—to bring them back.

Rural communities have coexisted and thrived alongside grizzly bears. Let's help bring back this iconic native species to the North Cascades.

Grizzlies Need our Help to Bounce Back

Bear recovery won't happen without us.

Remote Source Populations
Grizzlies are critically endangered in southern British Columbia and the population there is not healthy enough to expand on its own.

Habitat Fragmentation
Human development and geographical features block movement routes between Canada and North Cascades National Park.

Female Home Range
Female grizzlies stay close to their mother's home range, making it very unlikely they'll move back into the North Cascades on their own.

Relocation Works
Wildlife biologists have already successfully relocated grizzlies and are recovering bears in western Montana.

public to know their priorities in terms of services and taxes. In response to a question from Council Member Shela Pistoiresi, Fletcher explained that only approximately 16% of a homeowner's property tax bill goes to the City; the remainder goes to the school district, the county, and other entities.

A Task Authorization to RH2 Engineering for $57,398 was approved to survey two necessary street and utility repair projects, S. Douglas and W. Prospect Streets. Approval was given with a 4:1 vote, with Council member Jayne Stephenson opposed. She expressed her concern that RH2 was overcharging for the project.

The survey work is to be completed by subcontractor Complete Design in preparation for the replacement of the underground sewer and water lines to address significantly low water pressure in those areas.

Council member John Perry asked if rate schedules or other documents would be provided so that the Council could better judge the project. City Clerk-Treasurer Kay Jones replied that they do not receive those for subcontractors, and normally, the city does not know the costs of an individual contractor. Stephenson agreed with Perry wanting to see additional project details. Carlson also felt that it seemed expensive. But, he added that if the survey work were not performed soon, the city would not be able to get the repair project out to bid in Feb., a timeframe that he said is necessary to save the city 25% in project costs. Pratt also mentioned that the residents on the streets have very poor water pressure.

The Council was hesitant to approve the work. Fletcher asked if there was a motion

Winter battery maintenance

Ensuring your vehicle starts in freezing temperatures

Ward Media

Ensuring your vehicle's battery is prepared to withstand freezing temperatures is essential. Cold weather can be particularly harsh on car batteries, often leading to unexpected breakdowns. To help you avoid these inconveniences, here are some tips for effective battery maintenance during the winter months.

Regularly Check Battery Health

Before the cold weather hits, it's crucial to have your vehicle's battery tested. Many auto repair shops and battery retailers offer free battery checks. This diagnostic test can assess your battery's health and determine if it's time for a replacement. It's better to address any issues before they become severe.

Keep Terminals Clean

Corrosion can build up on your battery terminals over time, affecting the connection between the battery and your vehicle's electrical system. To prevent this, regularly inspect the terminals for white or greenish deposits. If you spot corrosion, clean it off using a battery terminal brush or a mixture of baking soda and water. Remember to disconnect the battery cables before cleaning and reconnect them securely afterward.

Park in a Garage or Use a Battery Blanket

Cold temperatures can significantly reduce your battery's efficiency. Park your vehicle in a garage or a covered area to shield it from extreme cold. Alternatively, consider using a battery blanket or heater. These devices can help maintain the battery's temperature and prevent it from freezing.

Limit Power Usage

During winter, your vehicle's electrical system works harder to power essentials like lights, heaters, and defrosters. To reduce strain on the battery, limit the use of these accessories when the engine is off. Additionally, turn off all lights and accessories before turning off the engine to preserve battery power for the next start-up.

Invest in a Quality Battery

If your battery is approaching the end of its lifespan, consider investing in a high-quality replacement. Look for a battery designed to perform well in cold weather conditions. Opting for a reliable battery can be a wise investment to ensure your vehicle starts reliably in freezing temperatures.

Keep Jumper Cables Handy

Despite your best efforts, sometimes unexpected battery issues can occur. It's a good idea to keep a set of jumper cables in your vehicle in case you or a fellow driver needs assistance jump-starting a battery. Make sure you know how to use them safely.

By following these tips, you can help ensure your car's battery remains in top condition throughout the winter months. Regular maintenance and preparedness are key to keeping your vehicle running smoothly when the temperatures drop. Stay safe on the road this winter season.

Essential Winter Emergency Car Kits

Ward Media

Ice Scraper and Snow Brush: Clearing the Way

It's essential for every driver to be well-prepared for the challenges that the season may bring. One of the most critical aspects of winter preparedness is having a well-equipped emergency car kit. In this feature, we'll delve into the must-have items that should find a place in every driver's winter emergency kit.

Maintaining visibility is vital for safe winter driving. Keep a sturdy ice scraper and a snow brush in your kit to remove ice and snow from your vehicle's windows and lights. This simple step can prevent accidents caused by impaired visibility.

Jumper Cables: A Boost for Dead Batteries

Cold weather can be tough on car batteries. Jumper cables can be a lifesaver when your vehicle refuses to start. Learn how to use them properly, or consider a portable jump starter for added convenience.

Shovel: Digging Out of Trouble

Getting stuck in snow or ice is a common winter hazard. A collapsible snow shovel can help you dig your way out of a tricky situation and get back on the road.

Traction Aids: Extra Grip on Slippery Roads

Traction aids like sand or kitty litter can provide the extra grip needed to escape slippery surfaces. These can be particularly useful when you're stuck in ice or snow.

Reflective Vest and Warning Triangles: Be Seen and Stay Safe

In case of an accident or breakdown, it's crucial to make yourself visible to other drivers. A reflective vest and warning triangles can help you stay safe while waiting for assistance.

Mobile Phone Charger: Stay Connected

Your smartphone is a lifeline in emergencies. Ensure you have a car charger to keep your phone powered up and ready for communication.

As the winter season approaches, remember that preparedness is the key to staying safe on the roads. By assembling a comprehensive winter emergency car kit, you can face the challenges of winter driving with confidence. Stay safe, stay warm, and stay prepared for whatever Mother Nature throws your way.

As the holiday season approaches, many families and travelers are gearing up for winter road trips to visit loved ones, explore new destinations, or simply enjoy the beauty of the season. However, before hitting the road, it's crucial to ensure that your vehicle is well-prepared to handle the challenges of winter driving. Here are some essential tips to keep in mind for a safe and enjoyable holiday journey:

1. Check Your Tires: Your tires are your vehicle's first line of defense against winter road hazards. Ensure that they are properly inflated and have adequate tread depth. Consider switching to winter tires if you live in an area with heavy snowfall.

2. Inspect Your Brakes: Have your brakes checked by a qualified mechanic to ensure they are in good working condition. Snow and icy roads require responsive brakes for safe stopping.

3. Battery Health: Cold weather can be tough on your vehicle's battery. Check its health and replace it if it's old or showing signs of weakness. Carry jumper cables just in case.

4. Fluid Levels: Verify that your vehicle's fluids, including oil, antifreeze, and windshield washer fluid, are at the right levels. Cold weather can cause fluids to thicken or freeze.

5. Wipers and Lights: Make sure your windshield wipers are in good condition, and consider using winter wiper blades. Check all lights on your vehicle, including headlights, taillights, and turn signals, to ensure they are working correctly.

6. Pack an Emergency Kit: Prepare an emergency kit that includes items like blankets, warm clothing, non-perishable food, a flashlight, and a first-aid kit. These items can be invaluable if you find yourself stranded in cold weather.

7. Plan Your Route: Before setting out, plan your route and check the weather forecast for the areas you'll be traveling through. Adjust your plans if severe weather is expected, and share your itinerary with someone at your destination.

8. Drive Slowly and Cautiously: When on the road, reduce your speed and maintain a safe following distance from other vehicles. Accelerate and brake gently to avoid skidding.

9. Keep Your Gas Tank Full: Try to keep your gas tank at least half full during winter travel. This helps prevent gas lines from freezing and ensures you have enough fuel if you get stuck.

10. Stay Informed: Stay updated on road conditions and closures by using navigation apps or checking local traffic reports. Consider investing in snow chains if you'll be traveling through mountainous areas.

By following these tips, you can help ensure a safer and more enjoyable winter road trip during the holiday season. Remember that preparation and caution are the keys to a successful journey, allowing you to create lasting memories with family and friends.

Winter driving safety tips

Navigating snow and ice safely

Ward Media

The cold season often brings challenging driving conditions, including snow and ice, which can make travel hazardous. To help you stay safe during the winter months, we've compiled a list of essential, safe winter driving tips.

1. Check Your Vehicle: Before hitting the road, ensure your vehicle is in good condition. Check the brakes, tires, lights, and battery. It's crucial to have a reliable vehicle during winter.

especially if you live in an area prone to heavy snowfall. Winter tires provide better traction on icy and snowy roads.

3. Keep Emergency Supplies: Carry an emergency kit in your vehicle. This kit should include items like blankets, flashlights, a first-aid kit, and non-perishable food and water. You never know when you might get stuck in a snowstorm.

4. Clear Snow and Ice: Before driving, remove all snow and ice from your vehicle. This includes clearing your windshield, side mirrors, and headlights. Snow and ice obstruct your vision and can be dangerous.

5. Drive Slowly: In snowy or icy conditions, reduce your speed. Driving at slower speeds allows for better control and response time in case of unexpected situations.

6. Increase Following Distance: Maintain a safe distance from the vehicle in front of you. This extra space gives you more time to react to sudden stops or skids.

7. Use Brakes Wisely: Avoid sudden braking in icy conditions, which can lead to skidding. Instead, gently apply the brakes and start braking early when approaching intersections or turns.

8. Steer Smoothly: When steering, make smooth and gradual movements. Jerky or abrupt steering can cause your vehicle to lose traction.

9. Stay Informed: Check weather and road conditions before starting your journey. If conditions are severe, consider postponing your trip if possible.

10. Stay Home: If conditions are extremely treacherous, the best choice might be to stay home. Safety should always be the top priority.

These safe winter driving tips will help you navigate the challenges of winter weather with confidence. Remember, it's crucial to adapt your driving to the current conditions and exercise caution.

Duck decoy premier

By JOHN KRUSE
Special to Ward Media

The waterfowl hunting season is in full swing and with new hunters taking to the wetlands a little advice could come in handy for success on the topic of duck and goose decoys:

WHEN IT COMES TO DECOYS - MIX IT UP: Unless you are pass-shooting at birds flying overhead, you are going to want to have decoys to lure in ducks to whatever body of water (or ground) you are hunting. It's tempting to buy twelve standard mallard decoys with their heads up looking straight ahead but this doesn't work very well because it's very unrealistic and the ducks know it.

Instead, use a mix of decoys starting with different species. Throw in some teal or pintail or wigeon and a couple of goose decoys with those mallards because ducks of different species co-mingle on the water. In addition to this, make sure you are using decoys in different poses. Have a couple of decoys in a feeding position with just their back end showing. Have ducks in a sleeping position and others with heads turned to the right or left. Now you are on your way to mimicking what a flock of ducks looks like on the water.

QUALITY DECOYS WORK BETTER: You can spend a lot or a little on decoys but more expensive decoys do work better. Cheap decoys, made out of plastic, unfortunately shine in the sun which is not at all natural. Flocked decoys, made with a felt-like surface, do not give off a reflective glare and are much more effective.

MAGNUM VS. STANDARD DECOYS: Back in the 1980's and 1990's magnum size decoys, 50-percent bigger than standard decoys, were all the rage. The argument was these larger decoys drew in more birds. However, that's not necessarily true. Shelby

Ross, a waterfowl hunting guide who owns Ross Outdoor Adventures, says, "The one advantage of using over-size decoys is that the birds can see them from a greater distance." On the downside, you won't have as many decoys to put in your spread, especially if you are hiking into your hunting destination.

SOMETIMES LESS IS BETTER: Speaking of numbers, what and where you are hunting dictates how many decoys you should use. If you are field hunting snow geese you will want to have several hundred decoys set up to attract flocks of these birds. If you are hunting a small pond or creek, you can get away with a dozen decoys or less and have success. Generally speaking, for most bodies of water you hunt, 18 to 24 decoys will work just fine.

CONFIDENCE DECOYS: They say birds of a feather flock together but you will often see other birds besides ducks and geese on ponds, lakes or streams where ducks hang out. That's why confidence decoys can help bring in more birds. Examples include a great blue heron decoy you can stake out at the water's edge or coot decoys you can put at the edges of your decoy spread.

ADD MOVEMENT TO YOUR DECOY SPREAD: One other issue that's important when it comes to having an effective decoy spread to lure in waterfowl is movement. Nothing looks as unrealistic in the world than a flock of non-moving decoys on a flat calm body of water. In reality, waterfowl are moving around on the water and if you want to simulate that you need to make your decoys come alive.

Battery-operated, motorized decoys are not legal to use in Washington but you can stake in a couple of duck decoys over shallow water that have spinning wings. These wings will spin in the breeze, giving the illusion to passing waterfowl that these ducks are coming in for a landing.

You can also impart movement to your decoy spread through the use of a jerk string. Tie a string to a decoy in the middle of your spread and as birds fly overhead jerk on the string, creating a ripple effect in the water around the decoys.

Last but not least, if your blind is in the water near the decoy spread, you can literally kick your feet in the water to create ripples in the water, making your decoy spread appear more lifelike. Duck hunters in the flooded timber of Arkansas have been doing this for decades.

There you go, a primer on using waterfowl decoys to lure in more birds. Good luck out there this hunting season.

How to relieve vaginal dryness

level of acidity in the vagina. This vaginal acidity supports the growth of "friendly" bacteria like lactobacillus and discourages yeast and certain bacterial infections.

The distress of vaginal discomfort and dryness can be relieved in several ways. You can apply a long-acting moisturizer, use a personal lubricant, or add estrogen to your vaginal tissue.

Replens® is a long-acting moisturizing gel that works for up to 3 days at a time. It's available without a prescription in 2 different forms. You can choose premeasured doses inside individual plastic applicators or one tube with a reusable applicator.

Vaginal moisturizers can relieve dryness and burning and make sexual intercourse more comfortable. However, a moisturizer alone won't reverse the changes in your vaginal cells, optimize the acidity of your vagina, or restore helpful lactobacillus.

Newer vaginal moisturizers contain hyaluronic acid for long-lasting moisture, plus a mild acid to support vaginal acidity. Hyaluronic acid is as effective as low-dose estrogen vaginal cream in relieving dryness, burning, and painful sexual activity.

Vaginallubricants differ from moisturizers and often contain silicones, oils, fragrances, and flavors. Lubricants ease symptoms of dryness and increase the comfort of sexual activity but do not optimize vaginal acid balance or encourage lactobacillus.

Applying a small amount of estrogen directly to vaginal cells restores their elasticity, acidity, and ability to secrete a lubricating fluid. This encourages beneficial lactobacillus while reducing dryness and burning.

Can breast cancer survivors safely use a low dose of vaginal estrogen to relieve vaginal discomfort? The evidence suggests YES. When applied directly to vaginal cells, a little estrogen can make a big difference in comfort. When used at appropriate doses, vaginal estrogen doesn't create detectable levels in the bloodstream. It is unlikely to affect endometrial and breast tissue.

There are several forms of local estrogen: vaginal creams used with an applicator (Premarin®, Estrace® or generic estradiol), vaginal tablets with individual applicators (Vagifem®), and a gelatin ring that slowly releases estrogen (Estring®). The starting dose for estrogen creams and vaginal tablets is once daily at bedtime for 1-2 weeks, then twice weekly. Estring® is a flexible estrogen ring inserted vaginally and replaced every 90 days.

Other prescription-only options for vaginal discomfort include Ospheña® and Intrarosa®. Ospheña® tablets mimic the effects of estrogen in vaginal tissue but block estrogen's action in breast tissue.

Intrarosa® is a prescription medicine that contains DHEA (dehydroepiandrosterone). One tablet is inserted vaginally at bedtime. Intrarosa® is more effective at relieving vaginal dryness than other supplements containing DHEA.

Contact your doctor if you suffer from vaginal discomfort. If infection or another condition is not the cause, ask whether low-dose vaginal estrogen or another medicine is an option for you.

Here Are 6 Tips to Help Relieve Vaginal Discomfort:

- 1. Be consistent. For best results, reapply vaginal moisturizers and estrogen frequently. Many vaginal estrogen products are applied twice weekly, and long-acting vaginal moisturizers can last up to 3 days.
- 2. Shop online if needed. Although Replens® and Vagisil® moisturizers are available in most grocery stores and pharmacies, vaginal moisturizers containing hyaluronic acids like Good Clean Love's Bionourish® and Revaree® manufactured by Bonafide are harder to find.
- 3. More can be better. You can use a vaginal moisturizer in addition to locally applied estrogen to get more relief. For best results, apply moisturizer and estrogen on alternating days.
- 4. Add a personal lubricant. Try a personal lubricant if sexual contact is uncomfortable despite using a vaginal moisturizer with or without low-dose estrogen. There are many choices available today besides the old standby, K-Y Jelly®.
- 5. Know your options. Discuss your options for vaginal estrogen and other medicines to relieve vaginal dryness with your doctor.
- 6. Shop around. Even with insurance, prescription options for relieving vaginal discomfort are often expensive. A 90-day prescription of generic estradiol vaginal cream can be $60 in cash. A 3-month supply of other estrogen products like Premarin® cream, vaginal tablets, Estring® vaginal ring, Intrarosa®, and Ospheña® can cost over $400.
