Tumwater Dam maintenance work

The viewing area is closed; intermittent traffic impact is expected in October

By RACHEL HANSEN
 Press Release
 Chelan County PUD

WENATCHEE - Chelan County PUD is preparing for a maintenance project at Tumwater Dam. September 5 through mid-December. The work involves repairing and reinforcing the dam's apron, a section of concrete that sits just downstream of the dam, with new concrete to prevent undercutting of the structure.

The viewing area at Tumwater Dam closed on September 5. Construction crews will allow portage around the job site for whitewater rafters as needed.

Starting mid-October, drivers on Highway 2 through Tumwater Canyon can expect intermittent, short delays with flagger-directed traffic on weekdays. In September, an unrelated guardrail replacement project led by the Washington State Department of Transportation will also impact traffic through Tumwater Canyon.

This is the second part of a multi-year maintenance plan for Tumwater Dam. In 2020, the PUD reinforced the entrance of the fishway with concrete. The work is required to continue to meet dam safety standards regulated

Cashmere Planning Commission Reviews Parking Codes for Economic Growth

By KIRK BECKENDORF
 Special to Ward Media

CASHMERE — In the recent Cashmere Planning Commission meeting on September 5, the Director of Operations, Steve Croci, made announcements regarding upcoming changes to the commission's membership and crucial developments within the city.

During the meeting, Croci announced that several positions within the Commission would soon become vacant, which could shift the city's leadership landscape. He invited anyone interested in joining the Commission to contact the Mayor's office.

Croci also reported essential infrastructure improvements underway at Riverside Park. The park's trail is undergoing extensive repair and repaving efforts. Furthermore, significant upgrades to the pump track are underway as a memorial to Brent Holladay.

The Commission's unanimous motion approval directs the City to delve into a comprehensive evaluation of the existing parking code with a view to fostering economic development. A spirited discussion among the Commissioners preceded the vote, centered on the merits and implications of potential changes to the city's parking regulations.

Croci explained how the existing parking codes could encumber new businesses, necessitating an undue space allocation for parking facilities. He maintained that the status quo hampers new developments by obligating them to prioritize parking space over building infrastructure.

Mayor Jim Fletcher, addressing the Commissioners, underscored the city's quest to determine an equitable and pragmatic approach to assessing parking needs for new businesses. Fletcher revealed that the city had embarked on a review of off-street parking codes, some of which have remained essentially unchanged since the 1960s. This move highlights the city's commitment to modernizing its regulations in response to evolving business models, such as the rise of online banking.

Croci emphasized the potential consequences of the existing code, which could lead to a proliferation of oversized parking lots at the expense of more functional building spaces. Commissioner John Torrence brought a national perspective into the discourse, pointing out a broader trend across the United States to reevaluate parking requirements. He posed the question: Does Cashmere aspire to facilitate economic development? If the answer is affirmative, Torrence argued, the city must adapt its codes accordingly.

Commissioners found common ground in their collective commitment to preserving the downtown area's unique character while actively supporting economic growth. Commissioner Kirk Esmond urged a careful examination of the type of growth Cashmere and its City Council wish to foster, recommending a comprehensive analysis of strategies employed by other cities.

Zak Steigmeyer echoed the sentiment, emphasizing the importance of clearly defining the city's goals and objectives in revising its parking codes for new development. Steigmeyer asserted that the existing requirements were

NCW Businesswoman Mobilizes Community to Raise $10,000 for Women's Service League

By QUINN PROPST
 Ward Media Staff Reporter

North Central Washington businesswoman Erica Mendoza leveraged community support to award $10,000 to the Women's Service League of North Central Washington, a service organization that works to empower women in the region.

As an individual, it can be hard to feel like you are making a difference, but the Women's Service League is a way for women to give back to their community in ways that make an impact, Mendoza said.

Mendoza, owner of East Wenatchee's Mendoza Insurance Services, initially received a $5,000 donation for the Women's Service League, thanks to a submission process with Liberty Mutual® and Safeco Insurance® through their 2023 Make More Happen™ Awards. A story of their local partnership was featured on the official Make More Happen microsite where Mendoza Insurance had the opportunity to raise an additional $5,000 by conducting a local awareness campaign for the nonprofit. Together with the community, the goal was met, increasing the total donation to $10,000 for WSL.

"Women's Service League is super unique in that when you are trying to help in the community, you want to make sure that the impact is visible because we're just one person in what we can do," Mendoza said in the local awareness campaign video. "And it allows me to create positive connections and returns, I guess like an ROI, that you can truly see how it helps others. The places that we support and the women that are impacted by what we do are very visible, and that helps you continue to do the work."

"I have been a part of Women's Service League for many years, and this will give the ability for me to contribute as an upcoming community member and be a part of something that has been very precious to me and helped me develop myself and get myself more confidence and be a part business-wise in the community," Mendoza said in the video.

The Women's Service League is dedicated to building a community through the empowerment of women and deliberate volunteer action. They host many events throughout the year to raise money to help women and children. Their biggest fundraiser is My Girlfriend's Closet, a three-day shopping event that sells new and gently used women's clothing, shoes, jewelry, and purses at low prices. The majority of the proceeds are distributed back into the community in many ways, including scholarship funds for women returning to college and grants to local nonprofits that primarily help women and children.

Last year, the Women's Service League gave $10,000 in scholarships to women returning to college and $60,000 in grants to North Central Washington nonprofits for women and children.

The award will help the league run its fundraising events, and the remainder will help the Women's Service League to help others in the region, league president Sue Epoch said.

"It takes a little pressure off some of the upfront expenses," Epoch said. "Last year we had to rent a space, in the past, that was donated. Putting the money upfront to rent a space is more stressful. The money will help so that we can put on our events and then at the end of the year turn around and award grants and scholarships."

Other events include a prom dress giveaway, Touch-A-Truck, and diaper drives. The group also collects small toiletries throughout the year and distributes them to school districts for students who need them, as well as members volunteering to help other nonprofits, Epoch said.

The league is always looking for new members, Epoch said.

The Women's Service League is a great way to meet people and be involved in your community, Mendoza said.

Throughout 2023, Liberty Mutual and Safeco Insurance will select up to 37 independent agents nationwide for a Make More Happen Award, donating up to $370,000 to the nonprofits they support. Agencies became eligible for the award by submitting an application and photos demonstrating their commitment to a specific nonprofit.

"When a company or corporation helps support a community like this, it feels like a validation of the work and impact you are making," Mendoza said.

The Vital Lifeline: Why Supporting Local Journalism Matters

In an age dominated by headlines from around the world and a seemingly endless stream of information at our fingertips, it's easy to overlook the profound impact local journalism has on our lives and communities. Today, I want to remind you why it's crucial to support local journalism, not just as

From the Publisher

but as an engaged citizen deeply committed to the well-being of our society.

Local journalism is the heartbeat of our communities. It is the trusted source that brings us stories about our neighbors, schools, local businesses, and city councils. It's the lens through which we gain insights into the issues that directly affect our lives. Here are some compelling reasons why supporting local journalism is more important now than ever:

Accountability and Transparency: Local journalism holds those in power accountable. It serves as a watchdog over local governments, ensuring they remain transparent and answerable to the people they serve. Without the diligent reporting of local journalists, corruption and mismanagement can thrive unchecked.

Community Connection: Local journalism strengthens the bonds within our communities. It tells the stories of our friends and neighbors, celebrates our successes, and addresses our challenges. It provides a platform for voices that might otherwise go unheard.

Timely Information: In times of crisis or emergency, local journalism is often the quickest source of accurate information. Whether it's a natural disaster, a public health crisis, or a community event, local journalists are on the frontlines, delivering real-time updates to keep us informed and safe.

Economic Impact: Supporting local journalism means supporting local businesses. Small businesses rely on local news outlets to connect with customers and advertise their services. When local journalism thrives, so does the local economy.

Education and Awareness: Local journalism educates us about issues that affect our lives, from school board decisions to zoning changes. It empowers us to make informed choices and actively participate in our communities.

Diverse Perspectives: Local journalists understand the nuances of our communities and are more likely to provide a balanced and nuanced view of local issues. This diversity of perspectives is crucial for a healthy democracy.

Quality of Life: A vibrant local journalism ecosystem enhances our quality of life. It fosters civic engagement, encourages dialogue, and inspires positive change. It's not just about what's happening; it's about how we can collectively make our communities better.

However, the landscape of journalism has been shifting dramatically. Local newsrooms are struggling to survive in an era where advertising dollars increasingly flow to tech giants, and news consumption habits are evolving. As a result, many local news outlets are forced to cut staff or close their doors, leaving communities without a critical source of information.

So, what can we do to support local journalism? Here are a few steps:

Subscribe: Consider subscribing to your local newspaper. Your subscription helps fund the journalists who work tirelessly to keep you informed.

Engage and Share: Read, share, and engage with local news stories on social media. Spread the word about the importance of local journalism to your friends and family.

Advertise Locally: If you're a business owner, consider advertising in local media. It's a win-win, as you promote your business while supporting journalism.

Advocate: Advocate for policies that support local journalism, such as tax incentives for local news outlets.

Local journalism is an invaluable pillar of our communities. It's the voice that tells our stories, uncovers the truth, and empowers us to make informed decisions. By supporting local journalism, we invest in the health and well-being of our communities and safeguard the principles of democracy. Let us come together to ensure that this vital lifeline remains strong and resilient for future generations.

Thank you for your unwavering support.

Thank you for participating in my 7th annual "Listening Tour"

After my election to the Senate seven years ago, I started an annual "listening tour" to help me hear directly from constituents on issues important to their communities. I recently completed this year's listening tour throughout the district. Hosting my discussions in communities each fall help prepare me for legislative sessions each winter. This year's listening tour included discussions on business, recreation, wildfire, healthcare, education, transportation issues and more. The tour also included

By Senator

Legislative

a preview of the upcoming legislative session, which begins in January. As a result of recent redistricting, I divided this year's listening tour between the traditional areas of the 12th District and the new areas. The first portion of the tour was dedicated to Chelan County and Douglas County residents. The remaining tour was held in the King and Snohomish County portions of the district. Past listening tours have helped connect me with issues important to many communities in North Central Washington. Many of these areas are no longer within the 12th District boundaries, which is why this year's stops included many of the new communities in the district.

The new 12th District boundaries now include East Wenatchee, Chelan County, and portions of Snohomish County and King County. The new communities include portions of North Bend, Carnation, Sultan, and Monroe and many unincorporated King and Snohomish County residents. A major feature of the new 12th District is the Cascade Mountain Range, although the inclusion of the Cascade Mountains doesn't actually add much population to the district. I have worked hard in recent months to outreach to all communities in the district and have enjoyed learning about the issues in these new areas.

Recent ideas shared during past listening tours have turned into successful legislative action. A proposal by Leavenworth officials to dispose of brush and yard clippings resulted in new law to help the community. A funding request for the Saddle Rock trail became a reality when later included in the budget. A biochar demonstration project to reduce wildfire risk was also funded as well as significant improvements to Wenatchee's Community Center used by Pinnacles Prep Charter School. A land purchase for the Wenatchee Valley YMCA was also recently supported. All ideas were discussed during past listening tours.

During my recent listening tour, I also heard comments that helped prepare me to better represent you in Olympia. I hope you had the opportunity to participate in this year's tour. Whether you were able to participate or not, please know that my position exists to serve you. Please feel free to reach out to me and my office anytime through my website at senatorbradhawkins.org.

Brad Hawkins serves as State Senator for the 12th Legislative District.

Letter to the editor

We have all heard the phrase "The truth will set you free!" Sounds like something Jesus might have said.

That being said, you have to consider what not telling the truth could do for you!

The "Fake News" kept track of the lies the "draft dodger" in chief (Mr. Trump) said until finally ran up the white flag and rolled them all up into the "Big Lie". Or as Ms. Conway once said, "Alternative Facts". Now that is rich!

Two impeachments and at least four indictments and Mr. Trump is still the Republican front runner. What a wonderful time to be a Democrat!

As for Donnie's "Gag Order" being an infringement of his 1st amendment rights:

when I served as a Juror and was told not to discuss the trial with anyone, I took that to be a court order! End of story. It never occurred to me that the judge might be deranged.

In conclusion, I hope this letter is not too "woke" for the American Free Press. Or is it not "woke" enough? I've never heard of a word that can be a noun, verb, adjective, preposition, adverb, take your pick! Where is Senior English Teacher when I need her?

Parking Codes

at odds with the character and vibrancy of downtown Cashmere.

Paul Kinser made his stance clear, expressing strong support for relaxing the city's parking codes as part of a broader vision for the city's future.

Christina Wollman, a consultant for Pertect, Inc., suggested additional options that could provide flexibility to the parking code. One option would be to have a business owner prove to the city how many parking spaces the business would actually need. A second option would be to allow businesses to share parking spaces; for example, a business could share parking spaces with a church. A third option is to get rid of the parking requirements.

As Cashmere grapples with the tension between preserving its distinctive downtown charm and encouraging economic development, the Commission's deliberations mark a crucial juncture in shaping the city. The coming months will undoubtedly witness further discussions, evaluations, and potential transformations as Cashmere navigates its path toward a vibrant and prosperous future.

Unveiling the healing power of forgiveness

A novel by local writer William E. Forhan.

Nobel Prize winning author Gabriel Garcia Marquez was quoted as saying, "All human beings have three lives, public, private and secret." In our modern world of the Internet search engines and DNA testing, keeping our private and secret lives separate is increasingly difficult. Sometimes they can come crashing in on our public lives when we least expect it.

Father Robert McCarthy is a middle-aged priest who is suddenly and unexpectedly confronted with his secret past. How he deals with the revelation of that past with his family, his congregation and the impacts of that secret life is inspirational. How McCarthy discloses the news of his college indiscretion requires him to take everyone involved on a journey of confession. That journey forces him to deal with issues of homosexuality, judgementalism, divorce and pride.

His pastoring skills and the depth of support from his wife help him bring forgiveness and restoration to many broken relationships.

The bonds of three families are ultimately restored through celebrations of life experiences including fishing, holiday gatherings, the discovery of unknown family connections and a wedding.

BB's Book is available online through Amazon.com, BarnesandNoble.com and Apple iBook. The paperback is $16.99 and the ebook is $8.99. OBITUARY

Michael Edward (Mike) Bennett

December 8, 1958 – August 28, 2023

Michael Bennett, 64, went to be with Jesus on August 28, 2023, after a courageous battle with cancer.

Michael was born on December 8, 1958, to Richard and Nancy Bennett in Glendale, CA. He was the middle child of five. Michael moved to Washington State at the age of four with his mother and two youngest sisters.

After graduation from Leavenworth High School, he enlisted in the United States Army serving as an M.P. in Korea and the U.S. After his return to the valley in 1980 he worked at the Edelweiss Restaurant for numerous years. It was during this time that he met the love of his life, Deanna. They were married on September 8, 1984, in Leavenworth. He then found his career as a chemical sales and service technician from 1988 until his death. He was loved and relied upon by his loyal customers throughout Eastern Washington.

Michael and Deanna made their home in Cashmere and had a lot of love and joy with the family and friends that they met along the way.

Michael was a fun-loving man, very creative, and loved to laugh. Hours were spent creating wooden treasures in his woodworking shop for his grandchildren, nieces, and nephews. Michael and Deanna had a passion for golf, and family game nights, and attended each and every activity the children were participating in. They enjoyed traveling and competing in golf tournaments and have especially fond memories of their times together in Palm Springs.

Michael had a tremendous love for God. He and Deanna, along with cousins Bob and Swede formed the Gospel Quartet 'n' Faith. Singing in praise of our Lord brought him much joy.

In 2017, Michael and Deanna were asked to be Santa and Mrs. Claus for a local Christmas party. They loved it so much that they continued to appear at numerous places during the holiday season. They became the Official Leavenworth Santa and Mrs. Claus in 2019. There were always candy canes in his pocket year-round. He loved the look on their faces as he reached in and handed one to them. He shared his love and contagious laugh with all.

He is survived by his loving wife, Deanna. Children: Terri (Scott) Haskins; Lisa (Scott) Moore; Tony (Glena) Valentine; Lana Valentine; Tina (Jeff) Telgenhoff. Grandchildren: Todd & Kevin Milne; Karine (Corey) Mish & Matthew Haskins; Cameron & Adam Moore; Zachary Valentine Peirce & Olivia Valentine; Cory & Kyle Janssen and Lane Riggs. Four Great Grandchildren. Mother Nancy Bennett, sisters Peggy (Vic) White and Bonnie Foust. Numerous nephews, nieces, great nieces, and great-nephews.

A Celebration of Michael's Life will be held at the Leavenworth Church of the Nazarene, 111 Ski Hill Drive, Leavenworth, WA 98826 on September 30, 2023, at 1 p.m.

You are invited to view Michael Bennett's online tribute at www.HeritageMemorialChapel.com to share a memory or leave a condolence. Arrangements are in the care of Heritage Memorial Chapel East Wenatchee and Cashmere.

Tumwater Dam

by the state Department of Ecology.

The project includes measures to protect fish passage during construction.

The fishway at Tumwater Dam is instrumental in helping Chelan PUD collect adult fish to meet its hatchery obligations under its Habitat Conservation Plans for Rocky Reach and Rock Island hydro projects. It is also an important site for fish study for several agencies, including Yakama Nation Fisheries, Washington State Fish and Wildlife, and Grant PUD.

Tumwater Dam was originally constructed at the turn of the century to provide clean energy for trains traveling through the long tunnel at Stevens Pass. Chelan PUD acquired the dam in the 1950s and rebuilt the fishway in its current configuration in the late 1980s.

Good Gravy

It's nice to know how to make sauces like white sauce, cheese sauce, and gravy.

I'll never forget the first time I actually considered gravy-making. I was seven, maybe eight years old, and Mom, now Grandma, was shopping for supplies and restocking the larders for winter a few towns away, leaving Dad, now Grandpa, in charge of cooking for a few days.

So, Dad cooked up some steaks for dinner. We always had wild meat. Dad was then and still is now a good hunter. After making the steaks, he wanted to make some gravy, but he didn't know how. The division of labor as he was growing up was first, his mother did all the cooking, and then, after marriage, his wife did all the cooking. We tried finding Mom's cookbook, but we looked in all the wrong places, so he asked me if I knew how to make gravy.

Looking at the fat in the bottom of that cast iron skillet, I remembered Mom pouring flour into the fat, so I told him so. He poured flour into the fat in the skillet and stirred. It didn't look like gravy, so I suggested more flour. He added more flour.

And that's as far as we got: flour and oil in a mushy paste. I'd only paid attention to the first half of gravy making and didn't know to add liquid. We treated that oily mush like gray and piled it on our potatoes only to scrape it off and leave it on the edge of our plates to be fed to the dog.

Looking back, I'm sure my value for 'good' gravy comes from that experience.

I've since learned how to make white sauce, and Dad has learned how to cook for himself and his mate (everyone now and then, we all get sick and need someone else to make dinner).

I use the knowledge to make cheese sauce for macaroni, clam sauce for linguine, and mushroom sauce for casseroles. Plus, I use the thickening technique for making broth gravies juice sauces, canned cream soup substitutes, and sometimes tomato sauce for spaghetti or pizza if that's what I have to work with.

Flour Thickened Sauce

(Amounts will vary depending on personal preference.)

- Equal parts flour and oil/butter/fat
- Salt (optional)
- Liquid, preferably a liquid with flavor
- Herbs, spices, sugar (as needed)

onto pancakes and waffles (Fruit juice sauce).

1. Tablespoons each of oil/butter/fat and flour plus one cup of liquid will make a sauce that works well on mashed potatoes like meat gravy type sauces.
2. Tablespoons each of oil/butter/fat and flour plus one cup of liquid will make a sauce that works well for freshly boiled noodles that retain a residue of moisture from the boiling.
3. Once the calculations have been done, measure the liquid, then add any of the optional ingredients to the liquid and stir to incorporate, set aside. Turn heat on low under the pan, then add the oil/butter/fat and the flour and bring to a simmering bubble until the mixture is smooth; then start adding the liquid a little at a time, stirring constantly until all the liquid is added and the sauce has thickened.

If making cheese sauce, use milk as the liquid, add a pinch of dried mustard, then add 1/2 to 1 cup shredded cheese after the sauce has thickened, mix well, and stir into noodles. Choices for liquids: meat or veggie broth, tomato juice, any fruit juice, or milk. Milk will curdle with prolonged contact with heat, so as soon as a milk sauce is your type of thick, remove it from the heat.

Consider what is being made. Decide what sauce to make and how thick it will be. Measure the liquid. Calculate the amount of flour and oil/butter/fat to use (see below). Pull out a saucepan or a skillet.

1. Tablespoon each of oil/butter/fat and flour plus one cup of liquid will make a sauce that pours nicely

About the author: In 2000 Michele Priddy left the work force to become a stay-at-home mother and wife. Being a one-income family in today's society meant she had to learn to budget quickly. Food became a priority early because she wanted the children to have the best nutrition she could offer them even on a budget. She taught cooking classes at various churches in her community on "How to stretch the food dollar with simple ingredients". Michelle has put her kitchen strategies, stories and recipes in booklets, her church newsletter and in her hometown newspaper, The Goldendale Sentinel. Foundation. The Foundation is the philanthropic arm of Confluence Health and works to benefit the activities of the not-for-profit healthcare system. A 501(c)(3) charitable organization established in 1978, the Foundation has been a crucial component in Confluence Health's efforts to support the health and well-being of the North Central Washington community for over 45 years, helping keep superior healthcare close to home.

Carté-Cocroft will be stepping into the position held previously by Abel Noah, foundation executive trustee for Confluence Health, who will be retiring in January 2024 after nearly 20 years of service to Confluence Health.

"I am excited to have Suzanne continue to carry on and build upon all the Foundation has accomplished over the years and am confident that she will do great things in this new position," remarked Dr. Andrew Jones, CEO of Confluence Health. "We look forward to the leadership and vision Suzanne will bring in this important role, helping us to enhance and support Confluence Health's ability to provide local care by and for our community close to home."
