

Confluence Health honored with two major heart care-related awards

SUBMITTED BY ADAM McDONALD
Confluence Health

Wenatchee - Confluence Health was recently awarded the 2023 Award of Excellence in Cardiovascular Surgery by the Foundation for Health Care Quality as a part of the Cardiac Care Outcomes Assessment Program (COAP) for the second year in a row.

COAP is a Washington State quality improvement collaborative with 32 participating sites throughout the state with the goal of supporting hospitals and clinicians in achieving the highest levels of patient care and outcomes. To achieve this award, a facility must perform at or better than the state average on at least six of eight key quality indicators in the prior assessment year.

"We are very grateful," remarked Dr. Sasha Kraev, cardiothoracic surgeon at Confluence Health. "Cardiac surgery is the ultimate team sport, and it takes every single one of us. This could not have happened without true dedication from everyone."

In addition to the COAP Award of Excellence, Central Washington

Hospital (now Confluence Health Hospital - Central Campus) was also recognized for a performance award from the American Heart Association. Awarded the Mission:

Lifeline® NSTEMI Gold achievement award, this recognition acknowledges commitment to offering rapid, research-based care to people experiencing a specific type of heart attack known as a non-ST elevation myocardial infarction (NSTEMI). More than 546,000 people experience these types of dangerous heart attacks each year. Recipients of the award are chosen because of their high-quality care over the course of treatment, including EMS transport, hospital treatment, and discharge.

"I'm continually impressed by the care our emergency department, catheterization lab, and inpatient teams provide," remarked Dr. Geoff Harms, interventional cardiologist and cardiac catheterization lab medical director for Confluence Health. "We serve a large geographical area, and we couldn't do what we do without our critical access hospitals and EMS partners. It's a coordinated regional effort."

Charting a new course: Confluence Health announces mission and vision statements

SUBMITTED BY ADAM MACDONALD
Confluence Health

Wenatchee - Shared values and goals are essential to the strong foundation of any organization. This is especially true for a local healthcare provider, which has meaningful, long-lasting outcomes on communities and families now and into the future. That is why Confluence Health, North Central Washington's largest healthcare provider, is so excited to unveil its new mission and vision statements.

The new mission of Confluence Health is: "Local care by and for our community." The new vision is: "To serve our community with compassionate care through our dedication to: enabling joy and pride in our work, focusing on local sustainability, ensuring access for all, and committing to excellent care and service."

"These new mission and vision statements serve two very different but important purposes," said Dr. Andrew Jones, CEO for Confluence Health. According to Jones, the mission statement is what makes Confluence Health unique and why it opens its doors each day, while the vision statement provides strategic guidance on where the organization is headed.

"Not only do these new statements set a course for Confluence Health now, but they will guide us in the years to come," added Jones. "To put it simply: our mission is our heart, and our vision is where we are heading."

In shaping the new mission and vision statements, the leadership of Confluence Health was faced with the challenge of using a handful of words to convey the larger values not only of the organization itself, but also of its staff and providers who make it all possible.

In order to hear from as many stakeholders as possible, leadership held multiple employee forums in addition to several leadership, board, and patient advisory discussions. Throughout the extensive development process, one of the most consistent pieces of feedback received from focus groups and surveys was the importance of community.

"At Confluence Health, we are the community we serve," Jones explained. "The people we care for are our friends, neighbors, and families. Plus, the sense of community we have with our co-workers and colleagues makes this a great place to work. Community matters."

Jones also acknowledged that Confluence Health should continue to strive to create an excellent experience for patients and employees, saying, "We recognize we have a lot of work to become the care provider and employer of choice in the region and beyond. We believe the new mission and vision statements can be used as our guide to get there."

About Confluence Health: Confluence Health serves the largest geographic region of any healthcare system in Washington State, covering over 12,000 square miles of Okanogan, Grant, Douglas, and Chelan counties. Confluence Health is one of only two locally-lead healthcare systems in the state with the purpose of maintaining availability and access to high-quality, cost-effective healthcare services for North Central Washington. The Confluence Health Board of Directors provides governance for Confluence Health and includes nine community board members and six physician board members.

When will we "fully fund" education?

Strategic investments, not just more money, are key for business growth and workforce development

COMMUNITY VOICES
By BRAD HAWKINS

As we begin another school year, I often get asked about "fully funding" education, despite the record state funding provided over recent years. Education spending has significantly increased since the State Supreme Court's landmark 2012 McCleary decision on school funding. Washington now invests 44 percent of its nearly $70 billion state budget into K-12 education. When the Legislature later satisfied the McCleary case, it also successfully limited school district property tax levies, but those limits were later removed.

As state funding and property taxes further increase, people continue to debate school funding. The answer to the "full funding" question actually requires a longer explanation about what constitutes "education" and an acknowledgement of expanding school district services. As state and local taxpayers continue to invest more into our schools, the business community should expect better returns on those investments and a more capable workforce.

Schools receive local, state, and federal dollars

Our state's school funding system was already quite complicated prior to McCleary and still remains difficult to understand. Generally speaking, school districts receive state funding based on their total student enrollment. In addition to state dollars, school districts also receive funding from local and federal sources. Beyond their local, state, and federal funding, school districts can apply for various grants to supplement traditional sources of funds.

School district levies continue to increase

Local funding to school districts is provided by voter-approved property tax levies. While I am a strong supporter of education, I am concerned about the growing property tax burdens on residents and whether school districts can or should provide the expanded services many districts are now taking on. As a result of changing state policies, increased public expectations, and school board decisions, many districts are now providing a range of childcare, social services, meals, healthcare, and early learning services in addition to their K-12 academic responsibilities. There is no doubt that a variety of needs exist within communities and their schools but defining the role of schools - and determining who can provide support services most efficiently - are key questions.

School funding has significantly increased in recent years, both from state investments and school district property tax requests. Districts received $8,742 per student for the 2012-13 school year and received approximately $15,462 for the 2022-23 school year.

Expanded services and increasing costs

With school district services greatly expanding, it is becoming increasingly difficult to differentiate where school responsibilities end and where family and community responsibilities begin. School district scope of service changes also generate philosophical debates related to education policy, funding obligations, and parental rights. If school districts continue to expand their services, it will become increasingly difficult - if not impossible - to ever "fully fund" education. It is not operationally realistic or fiscally sustainable to transition all of society's responsibilities into our school system.

Campfire ban takes effect in portions of Chelan County

SUBMITTED BY STEPHEN RINALDI
Chelan County fire marshal

WENATCHEE - Beginning August 4, fire restrictions were raised to a Stage 2 level in parts of Chelan County, was announced by the Chelan County fire marshal.

Fire restrictions were raised from Stage 1 to Stage 2 in the Chelan County Valley Zone, which includes the unincorporated lands and areas within the boundaries of Chelan County fire districts 1, 5, 6, 7 and 8.

Stage 2 restrictions include a ban on campfires in the Valley Zone. In addition, under Stage 2 restrictions, target shooting is only allowed at a gun range; hunting is permitted in open areas.

In addition, the Valley Zone fire hazard level, which reflects how fire-prone an area is, will be elevated to "extreme," the highest level of the county's four fire hazard ratings (moderate, high, very high and extreme).

"The Valley Zone of Chelan County, which includes our lower elevations, is dry and highly combustible," said Stephen Rinaldi, Chelan County fire marshal. "I hesitate to even say this, but we've had a relatively quiet wildfire season compared to our neighbors. Don't let this fool you or lull you into complacency. We're reaching those perfect storm conditions that are ideal for a major wildfire."

Chelan County's fire code divides the county into two zones - the Valley and Mountain zones - because sometimes fire conditions are different in its mountains and the valleys, Rinaldi explained. A map of the two zones is available on the fire marshal's website: www.co.chelan.wa.us/fire-prevention-and-investigation/pages/fire-danger-ratings-restrictions

In the Mountain Zone, which includes the unincorporated lands and area within the legal boundaries of Chelan County fire districts 3, 9 (Lake Wenatchee Fire and Rescue) and 10, fire restrictions will remain at a Stage 1. The Mountain Zone also will remain at a "high" fire hazard level. Stage 1 restrictions allow for campfires in an approved pit or device. The use of grills or barbecues is still allowed in both zones.

Rinaldi warned that many state and federal lands are also beginning to ban campfires. People going camping should check with the campground they are visiting, or visit the Bureau of Land Management, U.S. Forest Service (Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest) or the Washington State Department of Natural Resources websites to determine if campfires are allowed.

People who have questions about the Chelan County restrictions can visit the Chelan County Fire Marshal's website:

- Chelan County Fire Stage Restrictions: www.co.chelan.wa.us/news/article/current-fire-hazard-designation-and-restrictions
- FAQ: www.co.chelan.wa.us/fire-prevention-and-investigation/pages/fire-danger-ratings-restrictions

During wildfire season, a Fire Advisory Board that consists of representatives from local fire districts, the Chelan County Fire Marshal's Office, state and federal partners meet weekly to determine if fire hazard levels and fire restrictions should be changed. The fire marshal can temporarily designate a fire hazard area and impose travel and activity restrictions. Such designations and restrictions shall be in effect until the next regular meeting of the Board of Chelan County commissioners.

Hen and Chicks

Grandma and I were preparing bacon, lettuce, and tomato sandwiches for dinner when Grandpa came in. He took his place at the table like he does most evenings after working during the day around the place. This day had been more stressful than usual because the well ran dry and he'd spent all day figuring out how to get it back online so we could water the lawns.

When he sat down, he said to me, "you know that bread you gave me?"

"That bread?" I asked, looking up from slicing tomatoes. He nodded. My mind went blank. For a moment I didn't remember giving him any bread. Then I remembered; when I was looking for sandwich bread, I found a few slices of old stale bread in a bag, so I put the bag in the seat of the Gator, his John Deere utility vehicle, it's kind of like a golf cart, to take down to Kat's chickens. "Oh, the slices of bread for the chickens?"

We're feeding lots of chickens right now. There was a gal who bought hatching eggs from Kat about a month ago. She told Kat if she'd hatch out a couple dozen chicks, she'd buy them from her. Kat let her marvelous broody hens set on twenty-eight fertile eggs. Most of the eggs hatched but the gal who wanted them is nowhere to be found. So now we have chicks for sale, and it seems like there's hens and chicks everywhere.

ago. She told Kat if she'd hatch out a couple dozen chicks, she'd buy them from her. Kat let her marvelous broody hens set on twenty-eight fertile eggs. Most of the eggs hatched but the gal who wanted them is nowhere to be found. So now we have chicks for sale, and it seems like there's hens and chicks everywhere.

He nodded, "I was on the snowball lawn, checking on the water and there was a bunch of chicks and a hen."

"They like it there, in the shade by my snowball bush," Grandma smiled as she finished laying bacon on the serving plate.

"Yeah, they sure do," he said, "the other chickens weren't around so I tore up that bread in little pieces for the chicks. There were a few little pieces for each chick."

I've watched Grandpa stop his Gator between the main flock and hens with chicks so he could covertly toss grain, bread and kitchen scraps to the hens so their babies could eat before the scrappy roosters and the rest of the flock gobbled up all the food. In my mind I could see the hen on the snowball lawn and hear her clucking 'come-and-get-it' to the eight to ten chicks in her care. Grandpa continued "After calling the chicks, the hen would pick up each little piece in her beak."

"The hen?" Grandma's tone told me she didn't approve.

Grandpa nodded, "yes, the hen. She'd cluck, call the chicks, then peck up a little piece of bread and those chicks would grab it right out of their mother's mouth and run off with it."

"Oh," Grandma said, "That's okay." Her calm tone told me that was right behavior for a good hen, calling chicks to food then letting them steal it out of her mouth. "And then I'll bet all the chicks ran around chasing each other trying to steal bits of bread from each other."

"Yep," Grandpa said with a grin and a nod. In my mind I could see eight to ten chicks in a wild game of tag as they tried to steal tiny morsels of food from each other.

Grandma took a deep breath and gave a sigh, "I thought so."

Grandma's Bacon, Lettuce and Tomato Sandwiches

For each person:

- 2-3 slices of good bacon cut in half and fried until crispy
- 2-4 thin slices of tomato
- 2 slices bread, toasted
- 1 large leaf of lettuce, washed
- Skiff of mayonnaise or butter (optional)

Toast the bread. A skiff of mayonnaise or butter can be used, but with the bacon grease they really aren't necessary. Lay the slices of bacon and tomato on the toast. Top with lettuce leaf then put a second slice of bread on the sandwich. Cut in half and serve with soup for a tasty lunch or a light dinner.

Choices: Add a slice of sweet onion to the sandwich and/or a few slices of avocado. Almost any raw sandwich veggie goes good with bacon, shredded carrot, a pinch of sprouts; bit of cabbage. It's all good.

WA State Patrol announces new Hit-and-Run Alert

SUBMITTED BY CHRIS LOFTIS
WSP

Olympia - The Washington State Patrol (WSP) announced that the state's new Hit-and-Run Alert system began operations Aug. 1. Authorized by the state Legislature earlier this year, the Hit-and-Run Alert system is a program of cooperation among state, local, and tribal law enforcement agencies, along with the Washington State Department of Transportation (WSDOT) to enhance the ability to identify and recover a fleeing vehicle involved in a serious injury or fatality hit-and-run collision.

"Last year, our state saw over 300 hit-and-run collisions resulting in serious injury or death. In many of those situations, information about the fleeing vehicle was available that, if widely disseminated, might have helped us find a dangerous driver," said WSP

Chief John R. Batiste. We are working with our partners in law enforcement across the state and in highway safety at WSDOT to get the word out about these often devastating crimes.

For a Hit-and-Run Alert to be activated, the following criterion would need to be met:

- A hit-and-run collision resulting in serious injury or death.
- Enough descriptive information is available to assist in locating the suspect vehicle (i.e. a full or partial license plate, a description of the vehicle and any possible damage, location and direction of travel, etc.)
- The incident has been reported and is being investigated by a law enforcement agency.

Alerts will be sent out to the media as well as to those who sign up to receive them electronically. Local law enforcement public information officers will also post them on social media. If there is enough identifying information regarding the fleeing vehicle to be helpful for the traveling public, WSDOT will use their electronic highway Variable Message Signs and Highway Advisory Radio systems in specific locales to aid in identifying a dangerous vehicle.

"If you see or hear the alert and then see what you think might be the suspect vehicle, call 911 and report your location," said Chief Batiste. "DO NOT ENGAGE with the vehicle or driver under any circumstances. Let our troopers and our fine local law enforcement officers do their jobs in safely and professionally contacting suspect vehicles," the Chief emphasized. "Let's all do our part to keep the roadways and one another safer."

Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife

OLYMPIA—The Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) is now accepting applications for the Department's Landowner Hunting Permit Program for the 2024-2026 season. Landowners must submit applications by August 15. A copy of the application packet, details on how to submit an application, and more information about the program is available on WDFW's website or by contacting the Private Lands Access Program Manager (360-280-3020). WDFW's Private Lands Program is focused on working with landowners throughout Washington to provide public recreational opportunities. WDFW works within formal agreements with landowners to outline and develop a plan that supports hunting and other public access and/or habitat conservation on enrolled private lands. WDFW has been helping private landowners open their lands to public hunting since 1948. The Department helps landowners manage hunting on their property by providing technical assistance and signage. Many of the private landowners who are part of the private lands access program also get assistance from WDFW staff to help improve fish and wildlife habitat on their lands. Department staff are available to help landowners plan habitat improvements and may also help landowners apply for or implement federal- or state-funded habitat improvement programs. For more information, visit WDFW's Private Lands website.

WDFW works to preserve, protect, and perpetuate fish, wildlife, and ecosystems while providing sustainable fish and wildlife recreational and commercial opportunities.

A musical poking fun at musicals? Yes, please!!

SUBMITTED BY LST

The cast of Drowsy Chaperone invites you to their remaining performances August 10, 15, 18, 24, 31 and Sept. 2, at Ski Hill. Tickets still available at www.leavenworthsummertheater.org

Winner of five Tony Awards, The Drowsy Chaperone is a loving send-up of the Jazz Age musical, featuring one show-stopping song and dance number after another.

To chase his blues away, a modern-day musical theater addict drops the needle on his favorite record – the 1928 musical comedy The Drowsy Chaperone.

From the crackle of his hi-fi, the musical magically bursts to life on stage, telling the tale of a pampered Broadway starlet who wants to give up show business to get married, her producer who sets out to sabotage the nuptials, her chaperone, the debonair groom, the dizzy chorus girl, the Casanova, and a pair of gangsters who double as pastry chefs.

Hijinks ensue... There might even be a plane that flies in. Don't miss it.

to support and areas for improvement. With an operating budget that has now grown to nearly $70 billion with 44 percent dedicated to K-12 education, this is the case with Washington's education spending. During the 2023 legislative session, approximately $3 billion was added to education funding beyond the baseline level. Two major bills were approved that constituted the bulk of this additional investment: House Bill 1436 (special education funding) and Senate Bill 5650 (salary inflationary increases). While these funding changes are certainly needed and appreciated, the approved state budget spends significantly more on K-12 education without making substantive improvements to address academic deficiencies.

COVID "learning loss" still an issue

Many students are struggling to return to grade level following the COVID pandemic. Junior high teachers I met with recently shared that many students are two-to-four years behind grade level in math, leaving teachers wishing they had elementary math curriculum. For me, getting students to grade level should be the state's top priority. Students at grade level who previously exceeded their grade level should also continue to be challenged. Without making academics the top priority, the state will just continue to spend more and more money without improving the overall system.

As a former school board member and supporter of public education, I believe many challenges still exist in our education system. These challenges remain despite significant funding increases, many of which are being directed at broader student needs. To maximize learning opportunities, restore academic growth in our schools, and prepare students to succeed in a global workforce, lawmakers need to have thoughtful conversations about making improvements in education beyond just more spending. The expanding scope of services school districts are attempting to provide and increased property tax pressures must be part of that discussion.

Sen. Brad Hawkins is State Senator of the 12th Legislative District. He serves the ranking Republican member on the Senate's Early Learning and K-12 Education Committee. Prior to his election to the Legislature, Hawkins served for a combined 10 years on the North Central Educational Service District and Eastmont School boards.

The Contract

Unveiling the healing power of forgiveness

A novel by local writer
William E. Forhan.

Nobel Prize winning author Gabriel García Márquez was quoted as saying, "All human beings have three lives, public, private and secret."

In our modern world of the Internet search engines and DNA testing, keeping our private and secret lives separate is increasingly difficult. Sometimes they can come crashing in on our public lives when we least expect it.

Father Robert McCarthy is a middle-aged priest who is suddenly and unexpectedly confronted with his secret past. How he deals with the revelation of that past with his family, his congregation and the impacts of that secret life is inspirational. How McCarthy discloses the news of his college indiscretion requires him to take everyone involved on a journey of confession. That journey forces him to deal with issues of homosexuality, judgementalism, divorce and pride.

His pastoring skills and the depth of support from his wife help him bring forgiveness and restoration to many broken relationships.

The bonds of three families are ultimately restored through celebrations of life experiences including fishing, holiday gatherings, the discovery of unknown family connections and a wedding.

Reintroducing Chinook Salmon above Grand Coulee Dam

By JOHN KRUSE

Chinook salmon have not been swimming in the waters of the Upper Columbia River above Grand Coulee Dam since it was built in 1941 but several Native American tribes in our region are working on bringing them back.

I recently had a chance to chat with Conor Giorgi, the Anadromous Program Manager at Spokane Tribal Fisheries, about this subject. I asked Conor why no fish ladder was installed at Grand Coulee Dam so the salmon could get past the dam like others on the Columbia River.

Giorgi said a fish ladder was planned for the dam but as the dam grew bigger and taller, the construction of a fish ladder became unfeasible. There were efforts made after the dam was constructed to trap Chinook salmon at Rock Island Dam near Wenatchee and transport the fish above Grand Coulee Dam but the efforts to sustain the Chinook salmon in Lake Roosevelt and further north into Canada failed within a few years of the dam being built.

Grand Coulee Dam is not the only dam without a fish ladder. The next dam downstream, Chief Joseph Dam, which was built in 1950, also lacks a fish ladder and all migratory salmon passage has been blocked upstream of this dam near Bridgeport to the headwaters of the river in British Columbia.

Asked about the possibility of installing fish ladders at these two dams now, Giorgi said they would be unlikely to work because the fish would simply have to expend too much energy attempting to make it past these dams. Instead, they are trapping salmon and hauling them above Grand Coulee Dam. However, they are not necessarily releasing them right above the dam.

Giorgi points out Lake Roosevelt is 150 miles long and the Spokane Tribe, in partnership with the Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation and the Coeur d'Alene Tribe to release the trapped salmon in multiple locations in the Upper Columbia and tributaries above the dam, to include the Spokane River watershed.

Giorgi went on to explain that the Upper Columbia tribes are taking the lead on this project because, "They have connections with the salmon that go back millennia. The (Chinook) are not just a food source, they are a staple of their cultural and spiritual well-being."

Efforts to reintroduce salmon into river drainages above Grand Coulee Dam have been ongoing since 2015. The first adult Chinook were released into this area in 2019 and the first juvenile Chinook were released into a creek on the Spokane Tribal Reservation in 2017. In 2022, 146 adult Chinook were released into the Spokane River, and some of these fish were released into a part of the river that had not seen the presence of these fish since 1911 when Little Falls Dam was built.

The specific stock of fish being used are summer Chinook salmon because of their abundance in the Upper Columbia. Biologists tagged 752 yearling salmon in 2017 that were released to migrate downstream. Of these fish, only 234 were detected passing over Bonneville Dam and only 75 were detected in the Columbia River estuary near Astoria. However, one of these fish made it back as a spawning adult in the summer of 2019. The salmon made it back to the Chief Joseph Hatchery fish ladder and the remains of the fish were transferred to Tshimakain Creek where it was released as a juvenile fish two years earlier.

This second phase of salmon reintroduction above Grand Coulee Dam is expected to go on for some 20 years and with any luck, we'll be seeing healthy populations of these iconic salmon swimming in the waters and tributaries of the Columbia River in harvestable numbers above the dam by that time or sooner. To find out more about this project go to www.ucut.org.

Dolly Parton to visit Washington for statewide celebration of Dolly Parton's Imagination Library

SUBMITTED BY IMAGINATION LIBRARY OF WA

Olympia - On Tuesday, August 15, legendary icon, musician, and philanthropist Dolly Parton will visit Washington State to celebrate achieving statewide coverage of the Imagination Library. All Washington children from birth to age five can now register to receive one book every month, for free, from Dolly Parton's Imagination Library.

August 15 will also be signified by a proclamation from Governor Jay Inslee and Lieutenant Governor Denny Heck as "Imagination Library of Washington Day".

Governor Inslee expressed, "We welcome the great Dolly Parton to celebrate our statewide program and promote registration for our youngest learners into the Imagination Library. It is important to get high quality books to children from a young age and ensure that their families, and their unique races, ethnicities and identities are well-represented among the selection of books."

Hosted by the Imagination Library of Washington, the celebratory event will feature a fireside chat with Dolly Parton, a small performance, and recognition of champions from across the state who are making Dolly's dream possible for Washington's earliest learners.

This invite-only event will be broadcasted and streamed live on TVW and available to view on both Imagination Library of Washington and TVW social media channels beginning at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, August 15, and all are invited to tune in.

"We did it, Washington. This is such a magnificent moment and achievement. Our team, program affiliates, state leaders, and partners have been on a quest to make this happen for the children of Washington, ensuring that all early learners have equitable access to this magical, connective, world-class literacy opportunity. What a positive, collaborative adventure this has been, and now we take a moment to celebrate and continue igniting support and enthusiasm around this for our future generations," stated Executive Director of Imagination Library of Washington, Brooke Fisher-Clark.

Dolly Parton's Imagination Library of Washington was established in June 2022 by legislative direction, sponsored through a partnership with the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI) and the Department of Children, Youth, & Families (DCYF), and administered by United Ways of the Pacific Northwest. The program provides a high quality, age-appropriate book each month in the mail to enrolled children from birth to age five - at no cost to families in all 39 Washington counties. Currently, more than 65,000 children in Washington are enrolled in Dolly Parton's Imagination Library and in total, more than 1.6 million books have been gifted to children across the state. Prior to state commitment, Dolly Parton's Imagination Library was only available in a handful of Washington regions.

"It's been an honor to support the expansion of early literacy across Washington," said State Superintendent Chris Reykdal. "By providing free books to our youngest learners, the Imagination Library is breaking down barriers to skills that will support Washington children for a lifetime. OSPI is grateful to our partners for supporting this work."

"Books develop literacy habits, strengthen ties between adults and children, and help children overcome intergenerational poverty," said DCYF Secretary, Ross Hunter.

Inspired by her father's inability to read and write, Dolly started Dolly Parton's Imagination Library in 1995 for the children within her home county of Sevier County, Tennessee. Today, her program spans five countries and gifts more than 2.4 million free books each month to children around the world. In March of 2023, Dolly Parton's Imagination Library reached a monumental global milestone: gifting more than 200 million books to children worldwide.

Dolly Parton's Imagination Library is backed by decades of research showing that having access to books in the home inspires a love of reading and promotes changes in home literacy environments, while building important foundational skills for entering kindergarten ready to succeed. Families with children under five can sign up for the Imagination Library by visiting www.imaginationlibrarywashington.org.

Teach kids kindness and gratitude with thank you notes

Courtesy StatePoint

Kids love devices, so put their screen time to good use with apps like American Greetings Creatacard for iPad.

STATEPOINT - Nearly 60% of Americans say they send thank you notes at least occasionally to show their appreciation for a gift or favor, according to a recent poll from AmericanGreetings.com. While writing thank you's might seem time consuming, it's actually a wonderful opportunity to teach children important life lessons such as kindness, gratitude and empathy.

Whether they are thanking their new teacher, their favorite fall sports coach, or a friend or family member, here are a few tips and tricks for creating meaningful, yet simple, thank you notes with kids this back-to-school season and beyond.

Focus on the positive
 It's important to give children a "why." Parents should explain that when people receive a thank you note, it not only makes them feel good, but it lets them know that the gift arrived safely and was appreciated. By placing the emphasis on the person who gave them the gift, rather than on themselves, it changes thank you notes from a pain-point to a positive.

Make it a fun with devices

Kids love devices, so put their screen time to good use with apps like American Greetings Creatacard for iPad. The app offers a fun, easy and engaging tool to make and send greeting cards. Plus, receiving them will be just as exciting, as homemade cards from kids are enjoyed by 93% of Americans.

Whether making a card from scratch, coloring a card or customizing a pre-made design, the Creatacard app allows kids to explore their imaginations. Simply choose from a variety of virtual (and mess-free) tools, such as pencils, paint, markers, photo frames, stamps and stickers to add designs, images and personalized messages. Best of all, the app is free to download, and cards can be sent instantly via email, text, messaging apps or shared on social media.

Power of personalization
 According to the American Greetings poll, personalized messages are the most important and enjoyed part of thank you notes. Parents should encourage kids to think about what made the gift so special and be sure to communicate that message. Was it something they really needed or wanted? Will they use the check or money for a specific purpose? Spending a few extra minutes personalizing each note will go a long way to show their sincere appreciation.

Timing is Everything – The Sooner the Better

It's proper etiquette to be timely in sending thank you notes. In fact, 54% of Americans say they should be sent within one week of receiving a gift. Build good habits with kids by sending thank you notes as soon as possible. It may be helpful to plan ahead and establish a set time within a week of the celebration for children to create and send their cards. And luckily, if you're sending digital greetings, they'll arrive instantly, save money on postage, and save time by eliminating the need to find current street addresses.

Teaching kids the importance of properly showing gratitude is a life skill they can take with them as they grow older. Starting small with thank you notes can be an invaluable step to becoming a kinder and more gracious person.

Drug information sheets – why you get them

Q: I always get a sheet of printed information with every new prescription and refill. I usually throw them away without reading them because the print is too small. Why do I get these?

 The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) wants you to be informed about important facts about your medicines so you can take them safely. Each time a pharmacist dispenses a new or refilled prescription, he or she is REQUIRED to provide written information about every one of your medicines. They are also expected to ensure that you have received it, so you get these either folded inside the bag containing your pill bottles or stapled to the outside.

Written information is considered one of the most reliable ways to give you essential information about your medicines. Instead of only hearing it once from your doctor or pharmacist, which you may forget by the time you arrive home, with printed information, you can read it at your own pace. Written communication can also be stored where you take your medicines in case you have a future question about one of your medicines.

There are 3 types of printed consumer information given out with prescription medicines: consumer medication information sheets (CMI), Medication Guides (MedGuides), and Patient Package Inserts (PPIs).

Every time you get a new or refilled medicine, you are supposed to receive a consumer medication information sheet or CMI.

Each CMI is computer-generated and designed to travel home with you, either stapled to or placed inside the bag holding your prescription. Although the FDA has published guidelines about what types of information they feel should be included in a CMI, they don't directly regulate or control what form a CMI takes.

The FDA recommends specific elements that they prefer pharmacies to use in their CMI handouts. However, each pharmacy retains the choice of which of those elements they will use. For example, the CMI you receive for your blood pressure medicine at one pharmacy may look different from the CMI for the same drug from another drugstore. Some leaflets give only a few sentences of information, while others covering the same medicine can go on for several pages. One reason for this variation is how the printers used by each pharmacy limit the length and format of their CMI printouts. Whichever form they take, what most people consistently notice about their CMI is how small the print seems.

In a study published in 2010 by the University of Florida College of Pharmacy, professional shoppers filled prescriptions for two common medications in a sampling of 365 pharmacies nationwide. 94% of the pharmacies in the study dispensed a CMI with each drug. However, fewer than 50% of the CMIs provided were considered easy to read or understand.

A collaborative workgroup, including the FDA and other stakeholders, has been developing and promoting an easier-to-read format for medication information called a Patient Medication Information sheet (PMI). PMIs use bold print, bigger fonts, and much more white space.

Here are the 4 types of written information for consumers about medications:

1. Consumer Medication Information sheets (CMIs)

CMIs are required by the FDA to be given out with every new prescription and refill. According to FDA guidelines, a CMI should include 8 criteria: the drug name and what it's used for; any contraindications and what to do about them; specific directions about how to use it, how to monitor your progress and get the most benefit; any special precautions and how to avoid harm while using it; symptoms of severe or frequent side effects and what to do if they happen; and encouragement to ask questions. The information must be up to date and scientifically accurate, easily understandable and legible, and have print large enough to read easily by most people.

2. Patient Medication Information sheets (PMIs)

PMIs are CMIs that are easier to read. They have larger fonts and more white space. PMIs usually include separate boxes or bubbles for crucial topics such as "Uses," "Important Safety Information," "How to Take," "Get emergency help if you have," and "Possible side effects."

3. Medication Guides (MedGuides)

MedGuides are specialized information sheets describing how to reduce the risk of taking certain medicines known to have serious adverse reactions. MedGuides explain what side effects to watch out for. Non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs, blood thinners, and antidepressants are examples of drugs with MedGuides.

4. Patient Package Inserts (PPIs)

PMIs are similar to MedGuides but from the manufacturer. PPIs are required for products containing estrogens, like birth control pills, patches, and vaginal creams.
