Cashmere City Council Meeting

BY KIRK BECKENDORF
Correspondent

At their March 27 meeting the Cashmere City Council unanimously approved a financial settlement between the City and Tucker Furniss, Sarah Germaine, Phil Furniss, and Beverly Furniss (Property Owners). Mayor Jim Fletcher explained that the city miscommunicated the city's code requirements, as a result the Property Owners paid for improvements to their private wells, but then were required to connect to the city's water system. Fletcher told the Council that "we are trying to make things right" and are reimbursing them for some of their cost. City documents state, "As a result of this miscommunication, the Property Owners made substantial improvements to a private well to serve the Properties. The Property Owners claimed that the cost of improving their private water system and well was $8,974.67." The settlement that was approved by the Council accepted that the amount was fair and reasonable. The City will convey $6127 from the Property Owners to Christ Center Church, plus an additional $534, for Latecomer Fees, connecting to the water line, that was installed at church expense.

Approval was unanimously given by the Council for the city to submit a loan application, to fund an inventory of all water line connections installed prior to 1986, to determine if they contain lead soldered joints, galvanized steel pipes, or copper pipes. The inventory is required by a 2021 federal law addressing safe drinking water. Director of Operations, Steve Croci, said that most likely the city will receive a grant rather than a loan, but permission is needed from the Council to initiate the application process. He explained that by October 16, 2024, the city will be "required to have an inventory of all of our water service lines, from the main water line to the house..." so we will look through old construction documents and building permits. We don't have data on older water service lines, so the inventory will assist in prioritizing future water line projects. Fletcher added that the upfront cost will be data research, looking at records. He stated that the city has very clean water that meets water quality standards.

Link Transit CEO Richard DeRock provided the Council with a description of the status of current operations and plans for the future. According to DeRock, a shortage of bus drivers has kept Link Transit from implementing planned additions to the system. It currently has 155 employees, and 78 operators, but requires about 105 drivers to provide full service. He said, "This has been a huge issue, we have not been able to actually carry out the expansion that was envisioned in the sales tax that passed in 2019...we have got about 50%... of the service expansion that we wanted done, because we have not been able to hire enough operators".

DeRock said that Link is now providing Sunday and late-evening service to Cashmere, but not as much as we were supposed to, and that we have not been able to increase the frequency during the day. The tax ballot also called for a Cashmere Park and Ride, which has yet to be started. He said that it would be best to locate it alongside the highway on the east end of town, but property will need to be purchased before it can be built. That location would facilitate an express service route from Leavenworth to Wenatchee, without the bus having to go into Cashmere. He added that this would be in addition to the current route that makes stops in town.

Ridership has changed due to the pandemic and the number of boardings is 92% of pre-Covid numbers. Weekend and evening ridership has substantially increased and has partly replaced weekday ridership. DeRock said that the

Confluence Parkway scheduled for funding in transportation budgets

Last year's legislative session concluded with the approval of a 16-year, $16.9 billion transportation investment plan, known as "Move Ahead Washington." The long-term plan primarily funded preservation and maintenance of our existing transportation system as well as new, large-scale construction projects. Despite being a 16-year plan with numerous projects funded, the legislation did not include its typical "aged and phased" project list, which itemizes each project's funding over the duration of the plan.

revenues approved during a previous session, transfers from the operating budget, and license plate and driver license fees to fund the new 16-year investments.

Wenatchee's Confluence Parkway Project

I am pleased to share that the $85 million identified in 2022 for Wenatchee's Confluence Parkway is now proposed for funding in accordance with the city and stakeholders' preferred allocation timeline. Securing and scheduling the Confluence Parkway funding is one of my top legislative priorities this session. The House proposal released March 27 and the Senate proposal released March 29 are aligned with the governor's proposed transportation budget for Confluence Parkway. This is terrific news for the project because it not only proposes to fully fund Confluence Parkway, but its funding would also begin this year.

The proposals would allocate

The proposed Confluence Parkway would provide a much-needed second bridge across the Wenatchee River, a widened pedestrian bridge, and a roadway with a direct connection to the U.S. 97A/US 2 Interchange and Odabashian Bridge.

Cashmere splits doubleheader with Kiona Benton

The Cashmere Bulldogs (5-4) hosted Kiona Benton City High School for a doubleheader on Tuesday, March 28. On this windy afternoon, Cashmere was set to add to a strong start to the season. The first game began scoreless until the fourth inning. Kiona Benton managed to get the bases loaded and proceeded to hit a blooper that fell into right field, scoring 2 runs. Cashmere quickly responded in the next inning, tying the game by a couple of hits, and stealing home plate. After being tied for five innings, Kiona Benton pulled away and finished the game with a final score of 6-2. This loss was difficult for the doubleheader and completely shut out Kiona Benton. With a final score of 13-0, Cashmere, once again, showed their resilience and tendency to come together for well-played baseball.

By JUSTIN PARDINI, REPORTER

The Bulldogs have had some strong showings in the season thus far and look to continue their resilient efforts with another doubleheader on Saturday, April 8 against La Salle.

Book Launch for Local Author, Jacqueline Haskins

Help A Book for All Seasons celebrate the book launch for local author, Jacqueline Haskins. Join us at the Leavenworth Public Library on Thursday, April 13 from 6:30-8 p.m. for an author meet and greet, book presentation, and book signing. A few years ago, Jacqueline was misdiagnosed with type 2 diabetes—but, encouraged by a friend to keep asking questions, she finally received a true diagnosis. A simple blood test showed antibodies in her blood... the footprints of an autoimmune disease. The true name of the disease is LADA. Even after the correct diagnosis, Jacqueline wasn't finding good answers to her most important question: how to be healthy and happy with LADA. She spent three years researching, talking with doctors, reading hundreds of scientific journal articles, and learning from patients across the US. She compiled all her findings into her new book, Kickass Healthy LADA: How to Thrive with Latent Autoimmune Diabetes in Adults. The first book for the general public on LADA (Latent Autoimmune Diabetes in Adults) aka Diabetes 1.5, Kickass Healthy LADA offers the most up to date information, with practical strategies and tips for healthy living. Jacqueline Haskins calls Leavenworth her home. She received her Masters in Biostatistics from the University of Washington and her Masters in Creative Writing from Northwest Institute of Literary Arts. Her work appears in dozens of publications, and she has been nominated for a Pushcart Prize. After 30 years as a field biologist, she now – to her wonder and delight – gets paid to hang out in a local bookstore, A Book for All Seasons. # The Washington Outdoors Report

Outdoors Roundup

By JOHN KRUSE

YOUTH TURKEY SEASON OPENS

The youth turkey season runs from April 1 through 7 this year and this is a great time to introduce a kid under the age of 16 to all the fun turkey hunting has to offer in a non-crowded environment. The best region of the state to hunt for turkey is in the northeast, specifically Ferry, Stevens, Pend Oreille and Spokane Counties which has a healthy population and mix of both Merriam's and Rio Grande turkey. In fact, over 5,000 turkeys were harvested in this region in 2021 and hunters had a 59 percent success rate during their outings.

Huntible populations of Merriam's turkey can also be found in the Southeastern Washington counties around the Blue Mountains as well as Klickitat and Chelan Counties in Central Washington. Another place to go turkey hunting is on U.S. Forest Service land near Conconully or in the Sinlahekin Wildlife Area in Okanogan County. According to Sara Youngblood, who works for the Conconully Chamber of Commerce, "Turkey are everywhere" in this area.

If you don't have a kid to take hunting this is a great weekend for adults to scout out where those turkeys are before the general season opens April 15 and with any luck, secure permission to hunt private land from landowners. Patterning or sighting in your shotgun to get used to firing it again and practicing a bit with that turkey call are also good preseason bets.

EARLY APRIL LAKE OPENERS

For years there was an April 1 opener for trout anglers at the Seep Lakes around the Columbia National Wildlife Refuge as well as at Dry Falls Lake near Coulee City which is a quality, selective regulation lake for big trout favored by fly fishing enthusiasts, fishing from float tubes or pontoon boats.

That has changed and Dry Falls Lake was moved to a March 1 opener while most of the other lakes now open the fourth Saturday of April, which is the lowland lakes opener around the state.

There is one lake that has maintained its early opening date in April. That would be Spectacle Lake in Okanogan County which is open from April 1 thru September 30.

This scenic lake boasts two resorts and a WDFW public access launch. Sara Youngblood told me she loves to take her family there in April to catch trout, bass and bluegill.

Another fish you will find in Spectacle Lake are kokanee salmon. WDFW started stocking them in 2014 and they have done well. Last year anglers posting on the Northwest Fishing Reports website reported catching kokanee averaging 14-inches in size.

Spectacle Lake used to be stocked with rainbow trout but in recent years WDFW has stocked the lake with a mix of brown trout in the fall and tiger trout in late March so fishing should be very good this month.

If you plan to stay, there is a small public campground at the north end of the lake. The resorts to stay at are the Spectacle Lake Resort on the east end of the lake or the Spectacle Falls Resort on the west end.

EASTERN WASHINGTON VOLUNTEERS HONORED

Two longtime Yakima County hunters, mentors and conservationists have been recognized by major non-profit organizations recently. One of them is Rich Mann, who served a career as an enforcement officer for the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife, retiring as a Captain. Rich is an avid turkey hunter who loves to introduce others, especially kids, to the sport and spent 30 years working with the National Wild Turkey Federation working on mentored hunts and more. In February at the NWTFF's annual convention in Tennessee, Mann was honored as the 2022 Mentor of the Year by the organization.

Meanwhile, Rachel Voss, a longtime volunteer for the Mule Deer Foundation and the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife, has had a one-woman mission of introducing other women to the sport of hunting. She started with one-on-one mentored hunts and soon, she was taking groups of women on guided goose hunts in the Columbia Basin. This year, she went with a group of women to Texas for a guided hog hunt.

Voss's work caught the eye of the First Hunt Foundation, a national organization dedicated toward introducing new hunters to the sport with the help of mentors. Last week, Voss was hired as the new National Share the HERitage Director, heading up the non-profits programs to get more women afield as hunters. Voss plans to do this by recruiting experienced women huntresses into the organization to mentor new potential hunters on everything they need to know (from scouting to harvesting to cleaning to cooking) so they can enjoy a lifetime of hunting. You can find out more about these organizations at www.firsthuntfoundation.org and www.nwtff.org.

City Council Meeting

drop in weekday ridership is primarily from fewer college students using the system. He said that Link Transit vehicles run about 2.6 million miles/year and the ones that run through Cashmere run about 75,000 miles/year. According to DeRock, Link Transit is on a path so that by 2026 100% of its bus fleet will be electric. He said that the primary driver for this trajectory is that electric buses are substantially cheaper to operate.

The Council unanimously approved an interlocal agreement with Sourcewell, a service cooperative, to find and purchase a new fire truck. Mayor Jim Fletcher said that one of the city's fire trucks is 30 years old and that Fire Chief Blake Larsen has researched potential firetruck manufacturers. Sourcewell's Cooperative Purchasing Program will allow the city to search nationwide, use bid prices from other cities, and eliminate the need for Cashmere to create its own independent search.

During the public comment portion of the meeting two community members were not allowed to address the Council due to the nature of the comments in a letter that had been submitted. Mayor Jim Fletcher said that "the letter is inappropriate, it is dealing with things that are not subject to the city council, the council does not have authority to discipline or remove other council members from the board..." He invited the individuals to schedule a meeting with him to discuss the other issues contained in the letter.

Obituary & Memorial Policies

NCW Media, Inc.: Leavenworth Echo, Cashmere Valley Record, Lake Chelan Mirror, Quad City Herald. An Obituary is a way for family member(s) to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the community of the passing of the loved one. Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data. Memorials are another way to let the community know about the life and memories of the person who has passed. A Memorial is different from an Obituary. An Obituary is usually current, while a Memorial can be written later. Obituaries and Memorials need to be typed and emailed as a Word Document. They can be placed in one or more papers - all publish weekly on Wednesday. Obituaries are priced by the number of words and include one color photo and go online at no extra charge. Memorials are priced per column inch. Please call for cost. *Payment is due at the time of placement. *Exception: Chapels, funeral homes who have an account, can be billed. There is no charge for a Death Notice - information is limited. Deadline is 4 p.m. on Friday - some exceptions may apply. Please call 509-548-5286 for more information Or email classifieds@leavenworthecho.com

Confluence Parkway's $85 million over the next three transportation budget cycles: $28 million (2023-25), $47 million (2025-27), and $10 million (2027-29), aligning with both the Governor and Department of Transportation's suggestions. This proposed funding would allow the City of Wenatchee to fully benefit from the federal grant dollars identified for Confluence Parkway and allow the project to be bid and contracted as one project, streamlining construction, and maximizing efficiency.

Cooperation at all levels of government

Achieving full funding of this project has required cooperation at all levels of government. Congratulations to the City of Wenatchee, Link Transit, and Chelan-Douglas Transportation Council for their advocacy in recent years along with their efforts to secure significant INFRA grant funding at the federal level. Thanks also to my House seatmates and local officials for their efforts. I'm proud of our community for working together at multiple levels of government and across political lines to take a step forward toward something so significant. The Wenatchee Valley has a long and proud history of thinking big, working

Wenatchee surrounded by mountains and rivers

Thank you, Mayor Frank Kuntz. Wenatchee Mayor Frank Kuntz and city officials past and present have been working for several years to secure funding and complete the Confluence Parkway project. I have worked closely with the city along with several other community organizations and local, state, and federal elected officials. This has been a multi-year process, and I'd like to personally thank the city of Wenatchee for their years of leadership and hard work toward this important project.

Vitamin B3: How did one vitamin get so many names?

Q: Why are nicotinamide, niacinamide, niacin and nicotinic acid names for the same thing, vitamin B3? It's confusing

How did one vitamin get so many names? Vitamin B3 is two closely related compounds, niacin and niacinamide, with each version having two different official titles.

When vitamin B was first discovered, it was thought to be only one compound. Over time, 11 separate compounds were isolated and identified, often called B complex vitamins. One B-complex vitamin, vitamin B3, was initially made synthetically by adding nitric acid to nicotine, resulting in a nicotinic acid molecule.

When vitamins began to be marketed to the general public in the 1940s, the name nicotinic acid confused consumers because it was similar to nicotine. To solve this, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) allowed nicotinic acid to have a second name: niacin.

The original name for the other form of vitamin B3 is nicotinamide. To minimize confusion, the FDA allowed it to be called niacinamide. Today, niacin and nicotinic acid refer to one form of vitamin B3; its other form is called nicotinamide or niacinamide. Vitamin formulas containing vitamin B3 may use any of these 4 names to describe its vitamin B3 component.

Niacin and niacinamide are very similar in shape and work identically in your body to protect you from pellagra, a disease caused by a diet with inadequate amounts of vitamin B3. Pellagra became common in Asia and the United States in the early 1900s after new milling techniques created a whiter wheat flour and white rice.

This new technology removed the outer husk or germ from wheat, corn, and rice, creating a more refined flour. These new flours, cereals and white rice were tastier than whole-grain foods, and consumers overwhelmingly preferred them.

Diseases from deficiencies of B vitamins like pellagra started showing up. Stripping the outer husks or germ from cereal grains and rice removed small but vital amounts of vitamins B1, B2, and B3, folic acid, and iron.

In the United States, pellagra became very common, causing over 7,000 deaths annually for over 2 decades, until vitamin B3 was added to flour, bread, cereal, and corn. Today it's rare to be deficient in Vitamin B3 because of the mandatory addition of B vitamins and iron to refined grains, flours, and pasta.

Niacin and its close cousin, niacinamide, are identical in how they work inside your body. In fact, if you get more niacin than your body needs, your body converts the excess into niacinamide. Many multivitamin formulas use the niacinamide version of vitamin B3 instead of niacin.

Niacin has a very different effect on cholesterol and blood vessels than its close cousin, niacinamide. Niacin is used therapeutically to lower triglycerides, lower LDL (bad cholesterol), and increase HDL (good cholesterol), unlike niacinamide, which has no effect on cholesterol or triglyceride levels.

1000-2000 of niacin per day is used medically to lower LDL ("bad" cholesterol) cholesterol and increase HDL (the "good" cholesterol), while the amount in your diet needed to prevent pellagra is only 16mg of niacin equivalent (NE) for men and 14mg of NE for women. Your body can transform 60mg of tryptophan, an amino acid in meats, into 1 mg of niacin or niacin equivalent (NE).

Niacin can cause rapid heart rate, palpitations, and hypothyroidism. In contrast, large doses of niacin can cause liver problems, trigger gout or stomach ulcers, or exacerbate asthma or gall bladder disease. Niacin can also cause insulin resistance and has been shown to increase the risk of becoming diabetic.

The most common and annoying side effects of niacin are dose-related flushing, low blood pressure, and headaches. Flushing is less of a problem with slow-release niacin. Still, doses over 2 grams daily have been associated with liver problems. "No-flush" niacin is actually niacinamide, which does not affect cholesterol.

Here Are 5 Key Facts About Niacin:

1. Limit niacin to 2 grams daily.

The risk of liver problems increases in doses of more than 2 grams, especially with slow-release or long-acting formulas of niacin.

2. Avoid taking niacin with hot beverages or foods.

To minimize flushing when taking niacin, take it with food but avoid hot drinks or soup.

3. Avoid adding niacin to "statin" cholesterol drugs.

Taking prescription "statin" medication and concentrated niacin increases your risk of muscle pain and weakness.

4. Avoid taking niacin with tryptophan or 5-HT.

Tryptophan is converted to niacin in the body and can increase the risk of flushing.

5. Avoid "No-Flush" niacin (niacinamide).

Niacinamide has no effect on cholesterol or triglycerides. Stick with nicotinic acid.
