Cashmere FFA traveled to the National Convention in Indianapolis on Oct. 22 to compete in two Career Development Event contests. Students earned the sole right to represent Washington in each of the events. Members of the Environmental Natural Resources team took a 50-question environmental science test, tested surface water for nitrates, temperature, and pH, identified natural resource equipment and species, navigated a GPS course and evaluated a section of soil and land recommending erosion prevention strategies. In order to further prepare for the competitions, the Environmental Natural Resources team toured and worked with professionals from Purdue University's Soil Science Department, Southside Landfill in Indianapolis and a Wastewater Treatment Plant in Carmel, Indiana.

The Meats Evaluation team identified 30 retail cuts from a list of 120, quality and yield graded beef carcasses according to USDA standards and selected/ranked different meat cuts based on quality, cutability, workmanship and color. They also took a written test and identified different muscle and skeletal features of the three livestock species. Earlier in October, the Meats team traveled to Pullman to practice at WSU's Meat Science Lab. Once at Nationals, the team traveled deep into Ohio visiting Ohio State University's Meat Science Lab and Boliantz Meat Packing in Ashland, Ohio. They eventually competed in West Lafayette at Purdue University. After hours of practice and preparation, Cashmere landed all 8 of their competitors in the Gold Tier - meaning they finished in the top one-third of the individuals competing. Both teams were recognized at Lucas Oil Stadium since they qualified in the "Final Four."

Cashmere's Environmental Natural Resources team beat 38 other teams to win a National Championship. Three of the students placed in the top ten individually out of 155 competitors and all four members will receive a $1,000 cash award. The Meats Evaluation team landed 4th out of 43 teams with Dru Heyen placing 6th individually out of 170 students. Carly Schoening was the state winner of the talent competition earning the opportunity to compete on a national stage. She made it to the semifinals and earned the opportunity to perform in Lucas Oil Stadium.

The Environmental Natural Resources and Meats Teams would like to thank everyone who supported them along the way. Listed below are Cashmere's National teams, members and accomplishments.

Coach Davidson Retires

By MATTHEW OCKINGA
Correspondent

For Collin Davidson, fall and football remain synonymous. Since 1972 when he joined his seventh-grade squad, Davidson has spent his autumns on the gridiron, the last 39 as a coach in the Cashmere School District. On Oct. 22, Davidson, who has led the Cashmere Middle School team for 27 years, coached his final game as he will enter the unknown but enticing world of retirement.

"When you do something for 39 years, even if you love it, it's taken a lot of my family time in the fall and I jokingly say I really haven't had a fall off since 1972," Davidson said. "I need to step away from it and find out what fall's going to be like."

After graduating from Western Washington University, he moved to Cashmere to teach social studies and was immediately hired as an assistant for the high school team. The Bulldogs won the State championship that year and finished second in 1985. Entering the job at CHS, Davidson, a former receiver and tight end, initially thought he favored the offensive side of the ball. Yet when he joined the high school coaching staff, he became the defensive coordinator and learned, as a coach, he enjoyed that aspect of the game.

In the fall of 1987, Davidson took the reins of the 8th and 9th grade program before heading back to the high school team the following year.

Join us for an intimate music experience featuring three amazing singer/songwriter/storyteller solo performances on Saturday Nov. 12 at Riverside Playhouse in Wenatchee. Tickets are $15 and are available through numericapac.showare.com or by calling 509-663-ARTS.

Steve Clem of Avalon Music and Dennis Broughton of Mountain Music Productions are renting the Riverside Playhouse, a non-profit facility, and presenting this show in a non-profit manner. What profits are made will go back to the Riverside Playhouse.

Our goal is to have a place where local independent music artists can come and play and interact with an attentive audience. This theater is the perfect place for doing this and our plan is to continue these music events between other shows at the Riverside Playhouse.

Wayne Evans honed his songwriting skills in the clubs of Texas, Nevada and Washington. Wayne is a master of the guitar and has been a continuing mentor to musicians and songwriters throughout his career. Wayne's most recent solo album, Close to Home, was released in September. Evans performs regularly, leading the bands Junk Belly and Older and Wiser and is committed to expanding live music throughout North Central Washington.

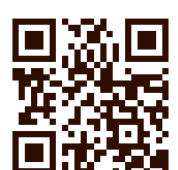

Curtis Moore is a troubadour who has traveled the world and shares his life experiences through his music. Curtis is a gritty performer who will make you laugh and make you cry - sometimes in the same song. Curtis performs solo multiple times per week throughout Washington and also leads his band, The Stone Blind Horses.

Ian Jones is a national songwriting and recording artist based in Seattle who writes poetic, personal narratives with an artist's flair. Ian's performances are melodic and soulful. His messages are clear and bold. Ian's most recent EP, Evergreens, immediately hit the charts and previews his full-length album, Results Not Typical, scheduled for release in 2023. The Riverside Playhouse is in Wenatchee at 233 B N. Wenatchee Ave.

Veterans Day Celebrates 101st Anniversary

SUBMITTED BY LINDA INGRAHAM,
President Cashmere American Legion Auxiliary

November 11, 1921 was the first Veterans Day. Armistice Day, as it was then called, was set aside by Congress to honor the veterans of World War I and marked the fourth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice with Germany. In June 1954, President Eisenhower signed a bill to honor all veterans on that day and the holiday was officially renamed Veterans Day.

Because of our veterans, we are united and live our lives in freedom, enjoying the rights guaranteed by our Constitution.

Some may think Veterans Day commemorates great victories or honors great war heroes or glorifies war. Veterans Day is more than that...it honors our citizen soldiers, the millions of Americans who served and are still serving their country when asked and the thousands who have died.

Since the Revolutionary War, ordinary young citizens have quietly put their affairs in order, kissed their families goodbye and put on uniforms. That takes courage when you're only 18-20 years old and filled with hopes and dreams and plans for your future.

These men and women are heroes. Because of their sacrifice and courage, our country is free today. Because of them, we have the rights and privileges we have always held dear. Freedom is not a cheap commodity. Throughout our nation's history, veterans have paid a heavy price. That is why we honor them. As we celebrate Veterans Day, keep in mind the enormous debt we owe to the veterans of this nation.

It is the VETERAN, not the preacher, who has given us freedom of religion.

It is the VETERAN, not the poet, who has given us freedom of speech.

It is the VETERAN, not the campus organizer, who has given us the freedom to assemble.

It is the VETERAN, not the politician, who has given us the right to vote.

It is the VETERAN, not the protester, who has given us the right to burn the flag.

It is the VETERAN, who lives by, respects and salutes the flag, who serves under the flag, whose coffin is draped by the flag.

'Leavenworth's Father Christmas' is Honored with a Quilt of Valor

By MATT AND CAROL CADE

David E. Severance, Jr, known to many as Leavenworth's Father Christmas from 1996 to 2018, was presented with a Quilt of Valor on November 2, 2022. A Quilt of Valor is an expression of gratitude meant to thank and comfort service members and military veterans. A Quilt of Valor unequivocally says thank you for your service and sacrifice serving our nation.

The Quilts of Valor Foundation is an organization of 10,000 members and volunteers in the United States. It was started in 2003 by Catherine Roberts when her son deployed. Since then, over 300,000 quilts have been awarded. The mission of Quilts of Valor is to cover Service Members and Veterans touched by war with comforting and healing Quilts of Valor.

Severance served in the Marine Corps Reserve from July 1961 to July 1968 at the Sandpoint Naval Station in Seattle, WA. He received an honorable discharge in 1968 with the rank of Sergeant. Severance also served 30 years with the Seattle Police Department.

Fondly remembered as Father Christmas and a steadfast supporter of the Greater Leavenworth Museum, which began in 2002 with his help and support, Severance is a treasured community member.

The Quilt of Valor was presented to Severance by Upper Valley Historical Society current and former board members in a ceremony in the City of Leavenworth Council Chambers. This Quilt of Valor was pieced by Carol Cade, quilted by Althea Gyde with Blue Heron Quilting, and edges bound by Margaret Neighbors.

Coach Davidson during his last game in October.

Coach Davidson

He remained there until 1996 when Phil Zukowski took over the program. After that, Davidson took over the middle school team and has been there ever since.

During his early years of coaching, Davidson learned under the tutelage of Bulldogs Hall of Fame coaches Bill Elliott and Jack Collins. More than anything else, Davidson gleaned from his pair of mentors the art of preparation.

"They really set a foundation for what good football coaches were like and I was just very grateful for those two men to take me in and teach me a lot," Davidson said. "As a coach, my biggest worry is have I got my kids prepared for all the things that I need to do to have them be ready to play and be safe."

Having been a head coach for 27 years, Davidson has had several assistants of his own. One such man is Andy Groce, who has coached with CMS for a decade. Groce knows Davidson well. Not only do they coach together, the two are fellow CHS social studies teachers as well as neighbors. Groce said that Davidson allows his assistants a lot of freedom, but ultimately the respect they have for him creates a deep trust.

"Even when as assistants we have ideas or we're going to do this. We trust him and it's ultimately his decision. He trusts us with our plan or what we want to try," said Groce, who's also had Davidson as an assistant coach. "We want to throw more or run more, but he has the game plan. He knows what works."

Groce added that while he personally is louder and more demonstrative, Davidson often maintains a more subdued demeanor. Though the long-tenured coach has mastered the ins and outs of football, he also has learned much about the game of life.

"He's been kind of a mentor towards me. He and his wife have been probably one of the closest families to us over the years. My kids look up to them, my kids talk to them all the time maybe when they don't want to talk to us about stuff," Groce said. "He's always looking out for others. I've gone to him with other things. 'Hey what do you think about this in life?' He's always had a good perspective."

CHS Athletic Director Jeff Carlson coached with Davidson from 2007-2014. While Davidson could have easily pursued other coaching opportunities, he chose to stay with the middle school for the better part of three decades. Carlson believes that Davidson's steady presence has contributed to CHS's football prowess.

"Our middle school football program has a tremendous amount of pride, and our kids love to play for him," Carlson said. "I believe the energy and effort that he has put into our middle school football program over the years has been a huge part of the success of our high school football program. Our kids enter our high school program very knowledgeable and skilled, and set-up for success."

While Davidson is passionate about the game, the athletes' characters come first. He sees football as the means to provide training for work ethic and life in general.

"We've always tried to take in the fact that it's just an extension of our classroom and education and trying to teach them not only to love the game of football, but to be good young men," Davidson said. "That's real satisfying when you see somebody and they come up and call you 'coach' and you talk about your experiences together and I always ask them how they're doing and what they're doing with their life and hopefully we played a small role in them having a good, happy life and that feels really great, yes it does."

Next football season, Davidson plans to distance himself from Cashmere football. He has no desire to be that former coach watching his successor from the stands or up on a hill. Rather, he wants the next CMS coach to do whatever he thinks is best for the program. As for Davidson, for the first time in decades, he'll discover what fall is like without football.

"I just think after 39 years I've pretty much taken the program where I can with the help of so many people in the district," Davidson said. "I've got other things I'd like to do, and I'll miss football. You just kind of know when it's time to go."

are going to be hoofing it you are not going to be able to haul three or four dozen decoys. That's okay because you can get by just fine with anywhere from as little as six to 18 decoys.

THE RIGHT DECOYS – Many hunters just throw out a mix of plastic hen and drake mallard decoys with heads in a forward facing, upright position. However, the ducks quickly get educated to the look of these spreads and will avoid them. Consider mixing in a few decoys of other species (pintails, wigeon and teal) and sprinkle in some feeder decoys that just show the bottom half of a duck in an upright position. Confidence decoys are also used by some hunters, one of the more common ones being a great blue heron decoy at the edge of a spread near the shoreline.

GIVE THOSE DECOYS SOME LIFE – A still decoy spread on a calm bluebird day is not going to attract many ducks. While electronic motion decoys are not legal in Washington State you can use decoys with wings that spin in the wind or attach a string to a decoy and jerk on it, creating disturbance in the water when you do. Another option if you are hunting in a blind that is in the water is to use your feet to create a disturbance so that will make your decoys seem more lifelike.

STAY HIDDEN – Taking the time to construct a good blind will pay off. Hunters who don't take the time to do this are often spotted by the ducks which will flare away before coming in range. Be sure to use fresh foliage that matches the surrounding brush on your blind and whatever you do, don't look up at the ducks as they circle above your decoy spread because they will see your face and once again, flare off before you can get a good shot.

DON'T OVER CALL – Far too many hunters use their duck calls too much and instead of luring in the ducks, drive them away. Ducks get educated not only about decoy spreads but also about excessive calling so be judicious in the amount of calling you do. Limiting yourself to a few lone hen calls and feeding calls will likely work much better than a barrage of hail or come back calls.

HUNT DURING THE WORK WEEK – Our state wildlife areas get pretty crowded during the weekend so if you can, schedule your duck hunt during the work week. In much of Eastern Washington, you can only hunt geese on Saturdays, Sundays and Wednesdays so if you want a crack at a mixed bag of waterfowl without too much competition, shoot for a Wednesday hunt.

CLEAN YOUR BIRDS IN THE FIELD AND COOK THEM FRESH – By cleaning your birds in the field, even if just removing the entrails and organs, you'll improve the taste of the meat and reduce spoilage. Likewise, freshly cooked duck makes for a great meal and will not have the gamey taste previously frozen birds tend to have.

By using these tips, you will put yourself in a great position to harvest some ducks this month. Good luck!

November duck hunting

By JOHN KRUSE

If you are a duck hunter, it's hard to beat November. The local ducks are joined this month by northern migrants who show up in big numbers. Usually the green-winged teal arrive first, followed by wigeon and gadwall, and after that, the big northern mallards and pintails.

One of the advantages of hunting ducks in November is the relatively mild weather. Marshes, ponds and other waterways favored by ducks are still ice-free for much of the month and hunters wearing a pair of hip boots or chest waders with one or two dozen decoys can put themselves into a good position to harvest a limit of seven ducks in a morning of shooting.

If you are looking for some November hunting tips here are a few for you:

SCOUT FIRST – Use your binoculars and hit the rural roadways to find out where the ducks are feeding and where they are loafing on the water. If you can put yourself in either place or in between these areas you'll increase your chances for success. Using Google Maps is another way to scout potential hunting locations before you even leave your home.

BE WILLING TO WALK – Most duck hunters don't wander too far from their vehicles but they should because the places that are harder to get to, maybe a half-mile to two miles away from where you park, often offer good hunting with very little competition.

TRAVEL LIGHT – If you

The Contract
Unveiling the healing power of forgiveness
A novel by local writer William E. Forhan.

Nobel Prize winning author Gabriel García Márquez was quoted as saying, "All human beings have three lives, public, private and secret."
In our modern world of the Internet search engines and DNA testing, keeping our private and secret lives separate is increasingly difficult. Sometimes they can come crashing in on our public lives when we least expect it.
Father Robert McCarthy is a middle-aged priest who is suddenly and unexpectedly confronted with his secret past. How he deals with the revelation of that past with his family, his congregation and the impacts of that secret life is inspirational. How McCarthy discloses the news of his college indiscretion requires him to take everyone involved on a journey of confession. That journey forces him to deal with issues of homosexuality, judgmentalism, divorce and pride.
His pastoring skills and the depth of support from his wife help him bring forgiveness and restoration to many broken relationships.
The bonds of three families are ultimately restored through celebrations of life experiences including fishing, holiday gatherings, the discovery of unknown family connections and a wedding.

Bill's Book is available online through Amazon.com, BarnesandNoble.com and Apple iBook. The paperback is $16.99 and the ebook is $8.99. Retraction and more

A few weeks ago, I had written an article about how Christianity should influence our politics and I quoted George Washington. Mistakenly, I had quoted our dear beloved 1st President as saying, "It is impossible to rightly govern a nation with God and the Bible." The actual quote should read thus: "It is impossible to rightly govern a nation without God and the Bible."
So, here is my official retraction and correction and hopefully George Washington didn't spin too much in his grave in Mount Vernon.
Yet what leads me to write this piece isn't necessarily to correct my error (which should be done regardless) but rather to point out how my blunder eventually came to my attention.

Upon publishing, a dear reader called me and very graciously made me aware of my poor proofreading skills and how by accident, I completely turned Washington's quote on its head. It was her willingness to take time to reach out to me that made me realize two things: 1) people do actually read what I write and 2) I am very grateful for observant people in my life.

We all need observant people in our lives. It is a common condition in all of us to have blind spots—things we are just oblivious to. It is always the case that blind spots are revealed and how to correct them comes from people willing to be courageous enough to bring them to our attention. Yes, I say that it is courageous because you run the risk of hurting someone's feelings or making them feel embarrassed. For example, imagine speaking with someone, and you notice that they have something in their teeth. You can ignore it and continue in pleasant conversation until they move onto the next person, all the while that piece of broccoli remains lodged in between their teeth. Imagine how they would feel when they return home that evening, look in the mirror and feel ashamed and wonder why no one told them of their situation. Wouldn't it have been better to pull them to the side and quietly let them know that they still carry a piece of salad in their choppers? Sure, they may flush with embarrassment for a moment and rush to the restroom to make themselves presentable. I know from experience that they would be grateful for the help. In that situation, a momentary experience of embarrassment and being able to correct the issue is better than an evening of unbeknownst shame.

Not only should we be willing to help others, but we should also be ready to receive correction. Defensiveness is a natural reaction when a blind spot is exposed. However, we must put that aside and see the motive behind the one bringing it to our attention. I admit I have many blind spots, and I have people in my life that help me see them. I could get angry with them or sad when they bring them to my attention, but what good would that do? Rather they are revealing these areas precisely because they care about me. The Bible puts it this way in Proverbs 15:32, "Whoever ignores instruction despises himself, but he who listens to reproof gains knowledge."

To the dear saint who helped me with my last article, I thank you. I pray that when given the opportunity, I will be bold enough to help others in that way. In fact, I pray for all of us because, in this world, we definitely need each other.

My Favorite Autumn Casserole

With the time change upon us, the holidays are nearly here. I want to share with you one of my very favorite recipes. I started making it over 25 years ago and have never seen this particular combination of flavors in any cookbook.

It's super easy to make, with only 5 ingredients for the casserole part plus mashed potatoes to serve it with. I often prepare it in the morning before we leave for the day. When I return, my home is filled with an aroma that says to me, "Autumn is here!"

Autumn Casserole is a sauerkraut/ onion/ apple/ sausage combo that you simmer in a crock-pot and serve with mashed potatoes. My husband likes to eat his with mashed potatoes on the side of his plate. I prefer putting a big scoop of mashed potatoes on my plate, making a "well" in it, and pouring this into the well like it was gravy. Mmmmm...

For variety, I vary the ingredients in several ways, using different types of onions, apples, and sausage. The only disappointment I've ever had was when using a heavily smoked sausage. My family was vocal in asking me not to repeat that particular combination. However, you may prefer using a smoky sausage. Go ahead, be creative.

Serves: 6-8 depending on the size of your cooker

Prep time: 15 minutes

Cooking time: 6-8 hours in a slow cooker

Best with: Mashed potatoes
The key to this recipe is the endless possible variations of the ingredients, particularly the sausage and apples. We enjoy trying new combinations.

The amount of each ingredient should be about the same, with the total amount needed depending on how big your slow cooker is. Mine is tall and round, holding 3 layers each of sauerkraut, onion, apple, and sausage.

You can vary the proportions of sauerkraut to the rest of the ingredients by how thick you make your layers. This is my favorite combination, but I encourage you to use your own preferences to guide you.

Ingredients:

- 64 ounces Sauerkraut, drained
- 2 medium onions, sliced

Ask...
Dr. Louise

into 1/3-1/2- inch slices (like onion rings)

- 2 medium apples, sliced into eighths
- 4 individual bratwurst/ knockwurst/kielbasa, cut into 1/2 inch medallions

Layer 1/2 inch of drained sauerkraut on the bottom of a slow cooker. Make sure that you cover the bottom evenly. Follow that initial layer with a layer of sliced onion, then a layer of apples, then a layer of sausage. Repeat this 1-2 more times, depending on the depth of your slow cooker, finishing with a thin layer of sauerkraut on top. Cook for 4-6 hours on low or 2-3 hours on high. Serve with mashed potatoes.

The North Central Education Foundation announces new board member

SUBMITTED BY ELDENE WALL
M.S., CEOE

The North Central Education Foundation (NCEF) is thrilled to welcome new NCEF Board member Jeff Kimbell from Wenatchee. Dr. Lois Davies, NCEF President, shared, "Jeff has been an enthusiastic supporter of teacher grants for the past five or six years. He came to know about the opportunity to adopt grants when Rufus Woods highlighted NCEF in the Wenatchee World. Since then Jeff and his wife Kim have been faithful sponsors and have adopted teacher classroom grants each year since. He will be a great Board member, as he shares our passion for enriching the lives of teachers and students through our Teacher Classroom Grants"

"I believe adopting a teacher grant is a wonderful and cost-effective way to support our region's students and schools in a more personal manner, by connecting with a specific teacher and grant request," said Jeff. Jeff Kimbell is a native of Everett, where both of his parents were educators. He then raised his family in Woodinville, before moving to Wenatchee with his wife, Kim. He is proud to come from a three-generation family of teachers and has enjoyed being a life-long learner. Jeff recently retired from a career in operations and engineering management and consulting, to devote more time to volunteering, family and the outdoors. He has previously volunteered in a variety of public and private schools, and homeschool organizations, as well as 15 years on an Executive Advisory Board at the University of Washington. Jeff currently volunteers to support youth and education through Chelan PUD's Rocky Reach Discovery Center, Youth Dynamics' Stonewater Adventure Center, Columbia Break Fire Interpretive Center, Serve Wenatchee Valley, and Westside High School. He also enjoys volunteer work on a variety of trails and other outdoor recreation and education projects.
