

Alchemy Tap Project, first of Icicle Creek's Visiting Artists Series, performs at local schools

MARLENE FARRELL
CORRESPONDENT

Thanks to Icicle Creek Center for the Arts (ICCA), a nonprofit dedicated to performing arts and arts education, schools throughout North Central Washington will get a boost of inspirational arts brought directly to the classroom. Over the next seven months, ICCA is hosting six exciting and diverse artist groups to visit schools in addition to performing in Snowy Owl Theater.

The visits will occur at no cost to the schools, and ICCA is able to partner with an even wider range of schools than when this Visiting Artist Series occurred pre-pandemic. ICCA expects to collaborate with as many schools as possible in Chelan, Douglas, and parts of Okanogan Counties, reaching about 5000 students.

Alchemy Tap Project, based in Seattle, is the first group in the lineup, and is a returning favorite. They will showcase their mix of experimentation, entertainment and excellence that blends tap traditions with elements borrowed from hip hop, ballet, percussion and more. They will visit schools this week with their show at Snowy Owl on Saturday, October 22, at 7:30 p.m.

Other visiting artists also hail from the Pacific Northwest, while Indigenous Enterprise and TaikoProject, with their unique and potentially profound impact on students, are being brought in from Arizona and California, respectively. Indigenous Enterprise has toured the world sharing diverse Native and First Nation dance styles, stories and traditions, performing individually and together. TaikoProject will share the ancient art form of Japanese drumming and dance. They weave complex multi-instrumental rhythms with energetic movement. Schools do what they can to squeeze arts education into the school day, relying a lot on the skills and creative juices of art, band, choir, and drama teachers, but it's not always easy with the requirements and standards in the core subjects. However, it's shown that the arts not only fuel students' creativity, empathy and self-confidence but can also make learning other subjects easier. Examples include drawing a picture to understand climate change or geometry or learning about history and culture as a necessary component to putting on a play like "The Diary of Anne Frank." Participating schools are thrilled to work with ICCA again to connect their eager students with professional artists. Kristin Umbarger-Keene, the elementary music teacher at Vale Elementary in Cashmere, said, "No video or my explanation or passion takes the place of seeing and hearing [the arts] live. As a musician and music teacher, I know how important it is to bring music into the school, since bussing 600 kids

City Council meeting

By Kirk Beckendorf
Correspondent

Mayor Jim Fletcher said he would like to have his ducks in a row before referring the city's chicken ordinance to the Cashmere Planning Commission (CPC). His comments made at the Oct 10 City Council meeting followed previous requests from community members who have asked that the town's Livestock and Poultry Ordinance be changed so that chickens would be allowed on small city lots. Currently chickens are only allowed on lots that are an acre or more in size. Fletcher said that Entiat and Chelan have the exact same wording as Cashmere's current code. Before tasking the CPC with investigating possible changes to the city code, Fletcher told the Council that he wants to do more homework and to look into such things as; use charts and other housekeeping items that the CPC should consider, to make sure any changes made, are done so in a comprehensive fashion. The mayor also reminded the Council that two years ago the CPC had considered the issue, and had decided to not make any changes at that time.

During what he termed, the study phase, Fletcher argued that it is important to determine what exactly the city will try to accomplish with a change in the code, what the Council and community wants, what the city is able to administer and how it would be administered and enforced. When asked about the current process of dealing with violations to the existing poultry ordinance, Director of Operations, Steve Croci, explained that he initially responds to complaints about chickens on a small lot, with a letter. He added that he does not receive many complaints. Typically, he said that seems to take care of the problem.

Fletcher and Councilwoman, Jayne Stephenson, described a meeting they had attended with the sheriff's office, where they learned how the department is dealing with situations involving mental health. He explained that when responding to a police call involving someone in a mental health crisis, the department attempts to send a mental health specialist in the patrol car, so they can best get the person the help that is needed, instead of just throwing them in jail. Reflecting back on the meeting, Fletcher said that when responding to "frequent flier" individuals in Cashmere, the Sheriff's department is attempting to know the person, their specific mental health issues, their case worker and other pertinent information, so that the responding officers can more quickly get the person to the best facility to address the crisis.

On October 19, Fletcher will attend a meeting with Senator Hawkins regarding the proposed regional aquatic center in Wenatchee. He told the Council members that he intends to go to keep an eye on things and protect Cashmere's best interest. At a previous Council meeting he argued that the center could be great for Wenatchee and East Wenatchee, but he did not see much benefit for Cashmere.

Croci announced that the final draft of Cashmere's updated Parks Recreation and Open Space (PROS) plan is available for public comment until Dec 4 and a public hearing will be held at 6 p.m. on Nov 7. The plan includes water features, playground equipment, paving and expanding trails. Individuals wanting to review the PROS plan and to make comments should contact City Hall.

Croci announced that Cashmere, along with the county, has received a Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) grant for approximately $190,000, to be used to for an emergency generator and electrical connections for five water and wastewater facilities: the water treatment plant, Sherman Reservoir, well #4, well #10 and the sewer lift station at the museum.

The Council voted unanimously on two business items. The first vote approved a $25,329.38 contract with Vortex Services to clean and inspect the sewer main on Cottage Ave. and Riverfront Dr. The city had received two other bids which were for approximately $42,000 and $53,000. Croci recommended that the city use Vortex's services after checking their references and reviewing the company's website. The second vote changed the start time of the City Planning Commission's monthly meeting from 5 to 6 p.m.

Fire restrictions lowered; outdoor burning still banned

SUBMITTED BY JILL FITZSIMMONS
Public Information Officer

WENATCHEE -- Chelan County commissioners signed a resolution that lowers current fire restrictions; however, the resolution doesn't remove them entirely.

Beginning October 14, fire restrictions in the unincorporated areas of Chelan County were lowered to Stage 1. Stage 1 restrictions continue the ban on the outdoor burning of yard debris; however, they allow for recreational, residential campfires. Stage 1 restrictions will be in effect until October 21; conditions will be re-evaluated.

Fire Marshal Stephen Rinaldi warns that just because the restrictions are being lowered doesn't mean the fire danger has gone away.

"I caution residents and visitors that if they are going to have a recreational fire that they do not leave it unattended and they ensure it is properly extinguished," Rinaldi said. "Wind conditions can change rapidly, creating blowing embers. We want everyone to enjoy a recreational fire, but to do so safely."

It is unusual for fire restrictions to remain in Chelan County past October 1. Chelan County Code calls for any imposed travel and activity restrictions related to wildfire season to expire in the unincorporated areas October 1. However, the county announced late last month that restrictions would remain in place because of the ongoing dry conditions and lack of rain.

While Stage 1 restrictions began, the fire hazard levels in both the Valley and Mountain zones of Chelan County will remain at "high," meaning conditions are still highly prone to wildfire.

"Even though we are seeing cooler temperatures, the Fire Danger Rating remains at high because of the continued lack of precipitation and dry fuels," Rinaldi said.

Under Stage 1 restrictions:

- Outdoor burning is not allowed.
- Motor vehicles cannot be operated off the county roadway.
- Fireworks are prohibited.
- The use of exploding targets and incendiary ammunition are prohibited.
- Target shooting is now allowed.
- Recreational fires on private residential premises or in designated campsites where such fires may be built in a permanent barbecue, portable barbecue, outdoor fireplace or grill are allowed.

Working together to support housing solutions

Many areas in our region and throughout the state have been experiencing affordable housing challenges. Some communities in Chelan County, such as Leavenworth and Chelan, have seen home prices more than triple since 2012. This is a massive challenge because stable housing is fundamental to successful careers, communities, and families.

COMMUNITY VOICES
By Brad Hawkins

Our state has a number of programs focused on homelessness and very low-income housing, some of which have only been marginally successful. While our local communities have seen an unfortunate uptick in homelessness in recent years, most state programs do not address the bulk of our challenges because our region mostly struggles with "workforce" housing issues.

Due to the service nature of our local economy - including many health care, agricultural, education, and hospitality workers - people who earn 60 to 120 percent of the area's average income struggle to live in the communities where they work. This leads to a whole host of other issues, including longer commutes, traffic congestion, and quality-of-life impacts.

To compound matters, we live in a beautiful place with year-round recreation and high-speed broadband connectivity. The frequent purchases of second homes along with the COVID trend of converting second homes to primary homes has greatly increased housing prices, pushing out essential workers. With every passing month communities like Leavenworth and Chelan (and even Wenatchee) are gradually losing their sense of community due to high-cost housing.

I'm grateful to many local leaders who stepped up alongside me last legislative session to enact a bipartisan solution to improve workforce housing options. With their help, we successfully passed my Senate Bill 5868 to provide counties with more flexibility to utilize an existing tax stream (known as the ".09 dollars") for housing infrastructure. This bill didn't authorize a new tax but broadened the permissible uses of an existing revenue source, providing county commissioners more options.

Just weeks after the bill was signed by the Governor and enacted into law, the Chelan County Commissioners awarded over $823,000 in local grants through their Cascade Public Infrastructure Fund, to housing authorities throughout Chelan County. This action is perhaps just the first step among many the commissioners will advance under this new authority.

Passing any bill through the Legislature is a difficult process. Less than 10 percent of the bills introduced each session actually become law, and housing proposals have struggled more than most. I'd like to especially thank Leavenworth Mayor Carl Florea, Chelan County Commissioner Kevin Overbay, and Chelan County Housing Program Coordinator Sasha Sleiman for their helpful ideas, beneficial suggestions, and active participation throughout the intense and stressful legislative process.

I'd also like to thank the Chelan Valley Housing Trust, Upper Valley MEND, Wenatchee Valley Chamber, Confluence Health, Cascade Medical Center, Washington Hospitality

Association, Serve Wenatchee Valley and others who assisted in our collective efforts. It is gratifying to see the combination of everyone's hard work result in tangible benefits distributed to worthy organizations who will leverage those funds for greater good. We can be proud of what we accomplished together.

3 Ways to Save the Planet in Your Own Backyard

(StatePoint) “Think globally, act locally” is a motto that everyone should take to heart. With that in mind, here are three great ways to save the planet in your very own backyard this fall:

- 1. Save the lives of birds: North America has lost more than one in four birds in the last 50 years, according to the Audubon Society. Amid this alarming trend, you can make the skies safer for birds by mitigating the chance of window strikes, one of the more common threats birds face. Research shows that applying decals that reflect ultraviolet sunlight to your home’s windows can substantially reduce the likelihood of this occurring. Check out the bird decals from WindowAlert, which feature patterns that give the appearance of slightly frosted translucent glass, but glow like a spotlight for birds. The brand also makes WindowAlert UV Liquid, a high-tech liquid that offers even greater protection when applied between decals.
- 2. Start a compost bin: Composting food scraps and yard waste is one action you can take with multiple benefits. It’s not just an excellent way to reduce the amount of trash you send to the landfill, your finished compost can be added to your lawn and garden to help plants thrive without chemical fertilizers. Be sure to read up on best practices before you get started so that you only toss compostable items into the mix, and so you strike the right balance between nitrogen and carbon.
- 3. Go low maintenance: You can swap out your conventional lawn for a meadow (which is comprised of native plants already adapted to thrive in your region), xeriscaping (a drought-resistant option requiring no mowing and little to no irrigation) or by simply letting your grass grow wild and free. By conserving natural resources, you can help make a difference at home this fall.

Window Weatherization 101

(StatePoint) Prepping windows for cold, gusty weather are essential no matter your home’s age, but what exactly needs to be done? Read on for the ultimate breakdown of how to seal windows and protect your home from the winter chill.

Step 1 – Test for Air Leaks. Any style of window could have small air leaks that allow drafts and moisture to enter without your knowledge. Check your windows’ seals by lighting a match or candle and seeing if the smoke is affected by a breeze. The smoke trail can help pinpoint any small cracks you should address while weatherizing.

Step 2 – Fill the Seals. Reinforcing the seal around the entire window frame will ensure it’s ready for cold weather. Using a product such as Duck brand Foam Weatherstrip Seals will help form a solid barrier around window edges, thanks to self-adhesive foam strips that block drafts. This can help lower utility costs by stopping leaks. Updating these seals every few years helps keep the window frame in the best possible shape and maintains protection from the winter winds.

Step 3 – Restore with Paint. Updating your window with a fresh coat of primer and either paint or stain helps keep it in great condition for a change in season. Not only will it provide a new look, but paint or stain also creates a tight seal around the wood framework and acts as an additional barrier for pinhole cracks or air leaks.

Step 4 – Insulate the Frame. Winter weather can be brutal in certain regions. Rolled Window Insulation Kits are crystal clear and create an additional cold-air barrier for when you need extra protection on top of foam seals. The window kit film comes in an easy-to-use roll of shrink film, which means no measuring is needed, and excess film can be cut once applied. Once secured to indoor window frames, the film provides an airtight seal that can be removed once warmer weather arrives.

Step 5 – Add Thermal Protection. After preparing your window for the approaching winter winds, swap out your everyday curtains for thicker, thermal fabric window treatments. These insulating curtains typically have two or three layers of thick fabric, combined with a layer of acrylic foam, to prevent air infiltration and cold.

Precautionary steps to seal in warm air and keep out potential drafts will help reduce energy costs this winter – and help protect the longevity (and comfort) of your home.

Chelan County offers additional Recycling Options including Glass and Styrofoam

By BARBARA WASHBURN AND CAROL FORHAN

Recycling is a real struggle that many do not want to bother with. And yes, it sure does take an effort. Then again, many things in our life, actually in our world, are out of our control. Nonetheless, recycling and taking care of our planet is not. At least not on an individual level. We have a choice to participate in a healthier and cleaner environment – one step at a time. These days Chelan County residents have more chances to recycle products, and most of us are not even aware of them.

Number 6 polystyrene, also referred to as Styrofoam can be dropped off for recycling at TekniPlex in Wenatchee. Kevin Litterell, Plant Manager at TekniPlex Consumer Products of Wenatchee says, “Please let readers know that while we appreciate it being relatively clean, a little bit of food waste remaining is no longer a reason to not recycle their food containers”. Litterell states that the process that Cyclyx uses allows for some organic matter in the feedstock, and the process filters that out when it is reduced to the original styrene monomer. Their company recycling container for Styrofoam is located at 1000 S. Columbia St., the SW corner of Columbia and Ferry.

Glass Recycling: In partnership with Waste Loop, a local nonprofit, our local smaller recycling center located at 216 14th Street, now accepts glass (which is no longer accepted in Waste Management’s single stream recycling). Their hours of operation are Wednesday 4:30 p.m.- 6:30 p.m. and Saturdays 11 a.m.- 3 p.m. Glass must be clean and free from corks and caps.

Waste Management cannot make it any easier than they do already. Their website, www.WMNorthwest.com, is the number one resource for their residential customers. Our recycling services provide the newest and up to date lists, showing us what can be recycled. Your best bet is to use the drop-down menu to find the community we live in which shows our local recycling lists.

Waste Management’s

recycling goes from our homes to their regional recycling facility in Spokane. No small operation! It is pretty much a true state-of-the-art facility with magnetic belts which pull out cans, obstacle sorters which are referred to as computers with eyes. That one uses a reverse plastic current to push out the aluminum since it is not magnetic. Spinning discs separate paper and cardboard.

As an example, did you know that even our large blue curb side recycling bins supplied by Waste Management are made from recycled materials?

Household battery recycling can be done at Target stores, by dropping them off at the information counter.

Safeway Stores have bins near their entrances that accept clean grocery plastic bags and wrapping which are used to wrap food into, such as the type used for cases of plastic bottles. A list of accepted items are pictured on the containers themselves.

Other specialized recycling options in our county:

General household light bulbs, such as compact fluorescent and small bulbs, are accepted at Lowes, Home Depot, and Stan’s Merry Mart, call to find out how many they will accept at one time.

Goodwill Industries takes small appliances, such as toasters, coffee makers, hair dryers and curling irons. They also accept computer towers, monitors, TVs, and VCRs. They are not set up to recycle printers and scanners or large appliances such as washers and dryers.

Luis Ramirez of Pacific Power Batteries in Wenatchee was a lot of help when researching battery recycling. Ramirez said they take most batteries other than lithium. Examples are alkaline, nickel metal and power tool batteries. This company is also part of an E-Waste Program. Recycle paint at Lowes, Home Depot, Sherwin Williams, and Walmart.

Also go online to recyclingcentersnearme.com for more information on all the places you can recycle. Thank you for doing your part in keeping our communities clean.

Community Foundation of NCW and Pybus University present the benefits of giving

SUBMITTED BY JENNIFER DOLGE
Director of Communications

The Community Foundation of NCW is partnering with Pybus University for a special presentation, "Do Well by Doing Good: The Multifarious Benefits of Altruism" on Tuesday, October 25 at 7:00 p.m. at the LocalTel Center in Pybus Market.

Drawing upon recent scientific evidence, this presentation will share the psychological, spiritual and health benefits of giving. It will also provide compelling information on the valuable role of philanthropy in training the next generation, inoculating them from "affluenza" and paving the way for more successful wealth transition. The presentation will provide the economic benefits of philanthropy in the U.S. and will illustrate these through case studies that show the power of smart giving strategies. Finally, the presentation will also share some inspiring stories of magnificent legacies left by ordinary people through their estates.

Presenter Lorraine del Pardo is principal of del Prado Philanthropy and Senior Vice President of Thompson & Associates. She specializes in values-based estate planning consulting and philanthropic planning and is a frequent speaker on topics related to philanthropy and purposeful estate plans.

"We have been so inspired by our community's giving in recent years, especially those who have committed to leave a legacy through the foundation and have joined our Heirloom Society Legacy Circle" said Beth Stipe, the foundation's executive director. "Bringing Lorraine to Wenatchee for this special presentation will give us a better understanding of how giving can be impactful not only in our communities, but in ourselves as we continue to learn about its health and spiritual benefits. Lorraine is an expert in the field of philanthropy and this no-cost presentation will be a treat for everyone who attends."

For more information and to register visit www.cfnw.org. Walk-ins are also welcome.

The Community Foundation of North Central Washington's mission is to grow, protect, and connect charitable gifts in support of strong communities throughout Chelan, Douglas, and Okanogan counties. Established in 1986, the Community Foundation manages $148 million in assets through 600+ individual funds and has awarded over $46 million in grants and scholarships.

to a performance isn't feasible. "We have 43% free/reduced lunch here at Vale Elementary, which tells me that same percent would probably never get to go to a performance like this at a live venue such as Icele Creek. Also, for the other students, parents are busy and not likely to make time/money for this."

Umbarger-Keene works hard to provide as many eye-opening arts experiences as possible for her students. "We never know which one child will be inspired by any one performance. And that can make all the difference for the world." She goes on to speak in broader terms, saying, "Experiencing the arts live gives every audience member a new way to see, imagine, experience, think about, and connect to life."

ICCA welcomes all community members to experience the joy and awe of the stellar Visiting Artist performances. For more information about Alchemy Tap Project's show on October 22, as well as the other future Visiting Artist events, please visit: www.icele.org

Bronze Shoe Cashmere vs. Chelan

By RUTHEDNA KEYS
Staff Reporter

Who will win "The Bronze Shoe" Trophy? Chelan High School football fans will have to travel this Friday, October 21 to the Cashmere High School Football Stadium at 7 p.m. to find out who will keep The Shoe for the next year. In the 68th Battle of the Bronze Shoe in 2021 the Bulldogs came out on top, 22-12, over the Chelan Mountain Goats on their home field.

Coach Travis Domser leads the Chelan High Mountain Goats Football team in his 9th season of coaching at Chelan High School and has a combined total of 25 years coaching. With six defensive, five offensive and no new players returning this year the team is well rounded in talent.

The Chelan High School Football team has eight returning players on defense and six on offense. There are 12 seniors on this year's team.

Supporting Coach Domser are assistant coaches Robin Weathersby, Derek Todd, Christopher Alexander, Quinn Courtney, Rob

Rainville, Terry Sanders, Dave Huewe and Jerry Lopez.

When asked at the beginning of the season who will be the teams to beat, Coach Domser said all of the games are equally important.

"This is a really fun group to coach. They work hard in practice and fly around on Friday nights," said Coach Domser.

The Mountain Goats are 4-2 for the season, beating Colfax on October 7, 48-34. They played the Quincy Jackrabbits on October 14 in their Homecoming Game.

The Cashmere Bulldogs were 6-0 for the season after beating the Cascade Kodiaks, 35-20 on October 7 in the annual Pear Bowl matchup between the two teams. Sixteen of Cashmere's 44-man roster graduate this year.

"We are excited for another Bronze Shoe matchup on October 21. Both teams are looking very strong this year. It should be a great game and an amazing atmosphere in the Cashmere Football Stadium for the Bronze Shoe. I know the Cashmere Bulldogs will be ready to defend the "Shoe," said Bryan Bremer, coach of the Cashmere Bulldogs.

Shoe History

Bill Lippincott, a former Cashmere High School football coach, was the one who originally started up the hype about the coveted Bronze Shoe trophy.

Lippincott coached Cashmere into a winning team beginning in 1949. The Bronze Shoe trophy was molded from Lippincott's old football shoe.

Lippincott moved to Chelan in 1953 and began coaching the Chelan Goats into a winning team. That is when the rivalry between the two teams officially began.

Now, the two teams compete each year to see who will be the champions and take home the ultimate prize of the Bronze Shoe.

Icicle Fund grant applications are open

SUBMITTED BY CHRISTINE JAKOBSEN MORGAN Ph.D., EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AT ICICLE FUND

We are happy to announce the opening of our 2023 Community Grant Program. Application materials were made available October 15, 2022, with a deadline of December 1, 2022. Award recipients will be notified by April 1, 2023. The minimum grant request is $3,000.

Community Grants are one- or two-year grants for non-profit organizations who develop North Central Washington as a region where nature, the arts, and the area's natural and human history encourage appreciation, understanding and stewardship of this special place. The grants support nonprofits in doing their most important work in the community in innovative and impactful ways by implementing not only the high-profile but also the hard to fund projects.

Grants are made possible by the generosity of our founder, Harriet Bullitt, and by the net profits from her gift of Sleeping Lady Mountain Resort to Icicle Fund.

Two types of funding are available through the Community Grants Program: Unrestricted and Project. Your organization's mission and service areas as well as organization type determines what type of funding you can apply for.

The application process includes the option of a pre-application check-in meeting with Christine Morgan, optional application financial report coaching with the Fund's staff, and the availability of the application questions in Spanish language.

Icicle Fund is rooted in the belief that strong connections of people to place is built and nurtured through artistic expression, imagination, understanding of past, experience in nature, and care for wildlife and natural landscapes. As a catalyst for partnerships and collaboration, Icicle Fund helps to nurture these connections and as a result, strengthens and sustains our beloved region of North Central Washington

Complete information and application instructions can be found at www.iciclefund.org.

Obituary & Memorial Policies

NCW Media, Inc.: Leavenworth Echo, Cashmere Valley Record, Lake Chelan Mirror, Quad City Herald. An Obituary is a way for family member(s) to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the community of the passing of the loved one. Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data. Memorials are another way to let the community know about the life and memories of the person who has passed. A Memorial is different from an Obituary. An Obituary is usually current, while a Memorial can be written later. Obituaries and Memorials need to be typed and emailed as a Word Document. They can be placed in one or more papers - all publish weekly on Wednesday. Obituaries are priced by the number of words and include one color photo and go online at no extra charge. Memorials are priced per column inch. Please call for cost. *Payment is due at the time of placement. *Exception: Chapels, funeral homes who have an account, can be billed. There is no charge for a Death Notice - information is limited. Deadline is 4 p.m. on Friday - some exceptions may apply.
