

Pateros teams with Okanogan County for building permit review

By MIKE MALTAIS
 STAFF WRITER

PATEROS – The Pateros City Council met in special session on May 22 to approve a resolution for an interlocal agreement between the city and Okanogan County so the county’s building department can assist with a Pateros building permit inspection.

The building in question is the new commercial/residential structure planned by Chris Anderson, owner of Rock Garden Holdings, on a block of commercial property between Commercial Avenue and Lakeshore Drive. The three-story building will include eight living units on its upper floors.

The county building department will help Pateros building inspector Barry Hansen with the review of the building permit.

inspector Dan Higbee advised Pateros City Clerk/Treasurer Kerri Wilson that he does not have adequate staff to complete the inspection by the end of May as requested by the city. Per an agreement between Anderson and the city the project is on a calendar time frame to be completed in November of this year.

Higbee said it would take the county at least 30 days to complete the permit review with the staff limitations available so he recommended bringing in BHC Consultants, LLC, a Seattle company, for the plan review only if they can complete the job by the first week of June and keep the project on schedule. The company Higbee recommended does frequent work with Forte Architects of Wenatchee who designed Anderson’s building.

Bringing in the plan review specialists will involve a second contract that the council must approve, and Wilson suggested that contract also be greenlighted by the city to keep the project on track. A second special council was scheduled for May 24 to address the new contract.

After approving the resolution, the council met again on May 24 to approve a professional services agreement for plan review services with BHC Consultants, LLC.

Honor Guard salutes Lane-Galbraith Memorial

The honor guard from Columbia Post 97 of the Brewster American Legion presents the colors at the memorial service for Army PFC John Timothy Lane and Marine Lance Corporal Marvin E. Galbraith last Saturday, May 27, at Locust Grove Cemetery. The service marked the 55th anniversary of the 1968 deaths of both Brewster graduates killed in action in separate incidents in Vietnam. Family members, friends, military veterans, and officials attended the service which featured several guest speakers representing the families of both honorees. Part of $4.7 million announced

Pateros Ice Rink awarded $250,000 RCO grant

PATEROS – The North Central Washington Sports Rink and Event Center has been awarded a portion of $4.7 million in grants from the Washington State Recreation and Conservation Office (RCO) to help communities plan for outdoor recreation facilities.

The grants were awarded to organizations in 19 counties and ranged from $12,927 to $250,000 and announced in an RCO media released earlier in May.

Sports Rink and Event Center, a nonprofit 501(c)(3), will use its $250,000 grant to plan for an outdoor ice rink and supporting facilities that when built would provide opportunities for ice skating, hockey, and figure skating in the winter and pickle ball, roller hockey, and roller skating in the summer. The rink site is on Pateros School District land along the Columbia River.

The grant will be used to develop site assessments and construction plans, conduct surveys and support community engagement.

North Central Washington has little or no outdoor opportunities for youth from November to March. The rink will emulate the affordability of Winthrop’s Sport Rink and offer affordable rentals, tickets and scholarships, free skating for fourth graders, field trips, discount pricing for groups, and season passes.

“These grants support community efforts to invest in recreation by helping them take the first step and begin planning,” said Megan Duffy, RCO director. “We know that spending time outside provides so many benefits, such as improved health, less stress and better social skills. We think that everyone should be able to spend time in a park or on a trail and get those benefits. These grants will assist communities in getting started to provide those valuable outdoor amenities.”

Many of the grants will help smaller communities write parks and recreation plans, which then can be used to apply for construction grants, and some will help larger communities plan specific projects in areas that lack public parks.

The Legislature first funded the Planning for Recreation Access grant program in 2021 as a way to fund planning projects in communities that lack adequate access to outdoor recreation opportunities. The first round of grants was announced in February and the second round was funded by the Legislature in its session that ended in April.

Bears down Ducks, 5-2

Brewster teams shine in state championship competition

BY MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

EPHRATA/YAKIMA – The Brewster High School varsity teams that qualified for state competition made their mark on the record books and in personal best performances last weekend, May 25-27.

The defending state champion Bears baseball team finished third in state following a semifinal loss in extra innings to Tri-Cities Prep, 6-4, on Friday, May 26. They faced last year's playoff opponent, Toutle Lake, and polished of the Ducks, 5-2, to place third behind Adna, and Tri-Cities.

The 10th ranked Brewster girls met No. 7 Forks in the round of 16 at Yakima on Friday, May 26, and saw their run to state with a 13-4 loss to the Loggers.

Courtesy brewstersportsfacebook
Gimena Hurtado placed second in the discus event with a personal best throw of 116-feet, 6 inches, a distance that sets a new Brewster High School record.

Following are track & field results as of Saturday, May 27:

Outdoors Roundup

BY JOHN KRUSE, THE WASHINGTON OUTDOOR REPORT

Spring Chinook fishing improves

After a very slow start for the Columbia River spring Chinook salmon run things turned around in a big way. As of May 24, over 101,000 springers had crossed Bonneville Dam, which matches the ten-year long-term average. Because of this, fisheries managers have reopened Chinook salmon fishing on the lower Columbia River below Bonneville Dam to June 4 and it may be extended again after that. Boat anglers can fish from the mouth to Beacon Rock while bank anglers can fish right up to the deadline below Bonneville Dam.

The Icicle River near Leavenworth and portions of the Yakima River are also open for hatchery raised spring Chinook and large returns of fish are expected up both streams. The Icicle River is best fished from a drift or pontoon boat though bank anglers do have some access to the river below the Leavenworth National Fish Hatchery and at a marked pullout on East Leavenworth Road. Catch rates have been relatively low thus far due to high waters and spring runoff but the waters have been receding and there should be good fishing in the week ahead.

One angler who has had a lot of success fishing the Columbia River in recent days is Jarod Higginbotham with Yakima Bait Company. He has been catching springers using a 2.5-inch Spinfish plug with either Northwest Scent's Graybill's sand shrimp formula or Pro-Cure's bloody tuna scent. Swakane Shooting Range closing for renovations

The Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife closed the Swakane Shooting Range on the Chelan Wildlife Area north of Wenatchee at dusk May 30. It will reopen in the fall following a standard fire restriction summer closure.

While the range is closed WDFW will be upgrading the site to National Rifle Association range standards. A 25-yard pistol range will be added, completely separated from the rifle ranges. The pistol and rifle ranges will have amenities added including shed-style covers over the firing lines, shooting benches and tables, a kiosk and additional signage. There will also be an improved pistol range back stop and better drainage in the area.

Lake Roosevelt walleye fishing in on fire

Steve Morris, the owner of SJM Guide Service posted a photo this week of five anglers at Lake Roosevelt who all had limits of eater-sized walleye. According to Morris, "The fishing doesn't get any better than it is right now!". Morris has just a few openings available over the next few weeks. Go to www.sjmguideservice.com if you want to book a trip with him.

Time for morel mushrooms

Several of my friends have reported having good success hunting for morel mushrooms. If you are wondering where to find them start off in forested areas that have been burned by wildfire in the last couple of years. These mushrooms are prized for their taste and can be fried, roasted or sautéed. If you are looking for recipes here is a good place to start: www.allrecipes.com/gallery/best-morel-mushroom-recipes/.

Leave the babies be

With a late winter in much of the Northwest, now is the time you may run across young fawns, calves along with other animals or birds that appear to be abandoned. Ninety-nine percent of the time these animals are not orphaned and the mother is foraging or hunting for food nearby. So don't make the mistake of removing the animal to save it.

Such an act occurred last week in Yellowstone National Park where a man decided to lift a bison calf out of a river so it could rejoin its herd. Unfortunately, the herd rejected the bison calf after the human interference and park officials had to euthanize the animal.

Workers eligible for WA Cares exemptions must apply by June 1 to avoid paycheck deductions starting in July

200,000 workers may be eligible, but still haven't applied

SUBMITTED BY WASHINGTON STATE EMPLOYMENT SECURITY DEPARTMENT

OLYMPIA, WA — Starting July 1, employers will begin deducting premiums from Washington workers' paychecks for the WA Cares Fund, the state's new long-term care insurance program. While almost all working Washingtonians will contribute to WA Cares, exemptions are available for certain categories of workers who are unlikely to be able to use the benefits — but eligible workers must apply to receive the exemption.

To date, more than 10,000 workers who meet specific criteria have submitted exemption applications to the Employment Security Department (ESD) since the criteria became available on Jan. 1, 2023. ESD estimates that more than 200,000 workers may still be eligible to apply.

Workers eligible for exemption

Private insurance exemptions are no longer available, but four new types of WA Cares exemptions are available on an ongoing basis. Veterans with a 70% or higher service-connected disability can apply for a permanent exemption from WA Cares.

Other workers are eligible for exemptions based on their circumstances. Those circumstances must continue to exist for them to remain exempt. These workers must notify their employer and ESD within 90 days if they no longer qualify. This includes:

- Workers who are a spouse/

registered domestic partner of an active-duty U.S. armed forces member.

- Workers who work in Washington but live out of state.
- Workers who have a temporary non-immigrant visa, including H-2A and H-1B visas.

Workers must apply to ESD for an exemption

Workers who want to apply for one of the ongoing exemption types but have not yet submitted their application should do so as soon as possible. ESD will process all exemption applications submitted on or before June 1, 2023, before premiums take effect in July.

ESD will continue to process applications received after June 1 as quickly as possible. Applications approved on or after July 1 will not be effective until Oct. 1, 2023, at the earliest because premiums are collected on a quarterly basis.

"We're encouraging eligible workers who want to apply for an exemption to continue sending in their applications after June 1," said ESD Commissioner Cami Feek. "Our goal is to process as many applications as possible before workers see their first paycheck deductions in July."

Exemption application available online

Workers can apply online for an exemption from WA Cares. Visit the WA Cares website for instructions and a link to the application: wacaresfund.wa.gov/exemptions.

Once a worker's application has been approved, ESD will send an email informing them that their status has changed. Within 48 hours of ESD approving their application, workers will be able to access a copy of their approval letter on their WA Cares exemption online account. They will be able to print and save the letter for their records.

Workers should make sure to provide their exemption letter to their current employer and any future employers as soon as possible to ensure premiums are not deducted from their paycheck. It is the worker's responsibility to provide their letter to their employer. Refunds will not be available for workers who do not submit their letter in time.

Employers can help by sharing exemption information with employees and reminding them to apply

ESD has resources to help employers inform their workers. Visit the employers page on the WA Cares website to access the employer toolkit, view webinar recordings and more.

About WA Cares: WA Cares is a new program designed to ensure working Washingtonians can access long-term care — including paid family caregivers and in-home care — when they need it. "The majority of us will need long-term care at some point in our lives, but most don't have a way to pay for it," said WA Cares Fund Director Ben Veghte, Ph.D. "WA Cares offers a modest benefit at an affordable cost to keep people living independently in their own homes as long as possible." WA Cares is self-funded by worker contributions and investment earnings on those contributions. Working Washingtonians earn $36,500 in lifetime long-term care insurance coverage (adjusted up to inflation) by contributing 0.58% of their wages during their working years. Learn more on the WA Cares Fund website.

The Contract

Unveiling the healing power of forgiveness

A novel by local writer William E. Forhan.

Nobel Prize winning author Gabriel García Márquez was quoted as saying, "All human beings have three lives, public, private and secret."
 In our modern world of the Internet search engines and DNA testing, keeping our private and secret lives separate is increasingly difficult. Sometimes they can come crashing in on our public lives when we least expect it.

Father Robert McCarthy is a middle-aged priest who is suddenly and unexpectedly confronted with his secret past. How he deals with the revelation of that past with his family, his congregation and the impacts of that secret life is inspirational. How McCarthy discloses the news of his college indiscretion requires him to take everyone involved on a journey of confession. That journey forces him to deal with issues of homosexuality, judgementalism, divorce and pride.

His pastoring skills and the depth of support from his wife help him bring forgiveness and restoration to many broken relationships.

The bonds of three families are ultimately restored through celebrations of life experiences including fishing, holiday gatherings, the discovery of unknown family connections and a wedding.

Bill's Book is available online through Amazon.com, BarnesandNoble.com and Apple iBook. The paperback is $16.99 and the ebook is $8.99. You can also pick up a copy of the book or order the book directly from Carol Forhan at The Leavenworth Echo (509-548-5286), or the Lake Chelan Mirror (509-682-2213), or by emailing your contact information to Carol@leavenworthecho.com. Mail delivery add $3.00 for postage. There is no extra charge if your order is picked up at the Echo/Record office, call for details, 509-548-5286.
