Council votes to restrict ADU's in Single Family Zones

By Kirk Beckendorf
Cashmere Correspondent

Mayor Jim Fletcher started the Cashmere City Council's Oct 11 meeting with a Proclamation recognizing Indigenous People's Day and that the City of Cashmere sits on the ancestral lands of Indigenous people. The proclamation stated that "...the second Monday of October shall be designated as Indigenous Peoples Day to celebrate and learn of the culture, history and contributions of the Indigenous People of North Central Washington, and specifically those who resided here in the Cashmere Valley..."

A public hearing was held prior to a vote on new regulations for accessory dwelling units (ADU). The Council unanimously approved the new ordinance which restricts ADUs from being established in single family zones. One member of the public spoke at the hearing and asked about the requirement for the owner of the property to live on site and if the goal was to encourage more housing. Following the hearing, Fletcher said that initially one of the considerations was how ADUs could increase housing availability but that he and the Council were concerned that ADUs in single family zones (SMZ) could potentially change the character of individual neighborhoods. He explained that the city is thinking about how one homeowner's actions on their property can impact their neighbors' property. Fletcher added that if future Councils would decide to allow ADUs in SFZs it can change the code, but once an ADU is actually built they can't be undone. Council members explained their support for keeping ADUs out of SFZs. Chris Carlson expressed the view that people purchase their home in SFZs for the character of that neighborhood and that ADUs could change the quality of their area. Jayne Stephenson agreed and thought that most people's property would not qualify for an ADU anyway, based on the required size of a lot and extra parking. Derrick Pratt asked how the new regulation would impact someone who wants to add onto their home so that an elderly family member could live with them. Fletcher responded that sort of situation would not be impacted by the ordinance. Dave Erickson said that ADUs may be happening already so it is important to define and regulate their use. Erickson concluded by expressing his appreciation to the Planning Commission for all of their work in investigating and debating the topic over the past year.

The Council voted unanimously to not accept a $14,000 grant to install ADA approved doors in the library. City Clerk/Treasurer, Kay Jones, explained to the Council that the city had received a grant, but it had multiple strings attached, including that the building had to be retained by the city for 10 years, a cultural and heritage study of the building would need to be conducted and the Department of Commerce would use part of the grant funds for their own administrative purposes. Erickson said that sometimes free money really isn't free.

With a unanimous vote the Council approved the use of the $885,457 that the city received from the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA). The funds

Christ Center Church Opens New Church on Kimber Road

Developing for 15 years now opens on Oct. 24th

By: MEGAN SOKOL

Christ Center Church's construction ends on Oct. 24 as they open their brand new church on Kimber Road, settling a permanent foundation for their congregants.

"Over the last 15 years, we've just slowly developed that piece of property," Pastor Steve Haney explained.

The church was previously held behind Apple Annie's at the Conservatory, which could comfortably seat 70-80 patrons. Over the years, that number has grown to almost 200 seats, prompting staff to find a bigger location.

"We were just busting at the seams, we knew that we needed a bigger space to meet," Pastor Haney states. "It's just not our space and we're paying rent every month and we can't really develop it, it doesn't have any grounds to it, so it was limited in terms of what we could do with it."

The late Pastor Paul Williams was involved in the developing Christ Center Church infrastructure, bringing water and electricity to the site so that they were ready to build whenever they decided to start construction.

"[Paul Williams] laid the foundation," Pastor Haney said. "He had a real vision for us being a light in our community and that's what we will be. We kind of have this saying around here, 'everyone's welcome, nobody's perfect, anything's possible.'"

Williams' widow and fellow Pastor Joyce Williams notes how enthusiastic her husband would be if he saw the new church.

"Oh my goodness, I think he's doing a happy dance," Pastor Williams said.

The new Christ Center Church property will include a soccer field that is partnered with Cashmere Youth Soccer, a Learning Garden that is partnered with Cashmere High School, and a new digital graphics stage using versatile environmental projection.

"If we had a Fourth of July celebration we could do a flag all the way across the front of the stage, if we had Christmas we could do a snow scene where it was snowing all the way across, whatever happened to be the theme," Pastor Haney explained. "It just creates that ambience."

Their Grand kick-off will be held on Oct. 24th at 10 a.m. featuring music from Holly Starr and a tour for anyone curious about the new building. They will also be hosting a Fall Fest this Oct. 31st from 5-8 p.m., featuring trunk-or-treat, a live bluegrass band, hay rides, and a chili feast.

The new church is located on 5800 Kimber Road and you can learn more about the Grand opening at www.christcentercashmere.com.

Cashmere Cross Country

Submitted by Jeff Kenoyer

Cashmere High School cross country runners competed at the Chelan Invitational on Tuesday October 12. The meet was held at Lake Chelan State Park. The race begins on the Park's main field, runs down lake through the tent camping area, returns along the lake shore trail and continues to the boat launch area where the course climbs a hill and returns to the start. Runners do the same loop twice. The distance is a pretty tough 2.37 miles. Runners from Chelan, Brewster and Cashmere competed.

Our next race is Tuesday October 19 in a race against the Kodiaks at Enchantment Park. We are currently two weeks away from our League Championship meet which will determine state meet qualifiers and end the season for those runners that do not qualify. The season is going by very quickly!

5 ways to boost your home's curb appeal

(BPT) - It's no secret that the U.S. housing market is booming right now. According to realtor.com, "Strong demand and insufficient supply pushed home prices up at a record-breaking 16.6% pace. The combination of historically low mortgage rates, businesses reopening and the lifting of pandemic restrictions fueled a buying frenzy with multiple bids," creating a seller's market, while making the path to home ownership difficult for some buyers.

Whether you're purchasing a fixer-upper as an attainable option to home ownership or selling your home and want to create a positive first impression, licensed landscape contractor, author, TV personality and STIHL spokesperson Sara Bendrick suggests five ways to boost your home's curb appeal.

1) Create a welcoming front walk

The entrance of your home should be your first point of focus. A great way to work with what you already have is to add color to your concrete walkway and steps. Concrete can wear over time and become somewhat of an eyesore and dull in nature. Staining is an easy and perfect way to soften up the look of concrete in any landscape and many colors of stain are available to complement your outdoor spaces. Always remember to pressure wash your concrete before staining it to remove dirt. This is important as you need a clean surface so that the stain can absorb easily and evenly. A clean surface will also help the stain soak entirely through.

2) Trim hedges and shrubs for definition

Bushes, hedges and shrubs possess a natural beauty that can boost the curb appeal of your home, while providing an attractive complement to lawns, trees, gardens and landscapes. Well-trimmed plants also prevent your outdoor spaces from looking overgrown and open up walkways and sightlines. Consider pruning low-hanging branches that obscure the view of your home from the road and reduce the aesthetic impact of your landscaping features.

3) Don't forget to mulch

After trimming your hedges and shrubs for definition and planting flowers, add two to four inches of mulch to your beds. Mulch keeps weeds down and helps dissipate heat from the sun to protect the soil from drying out, and it also provides a refined look to your landscape. As an alternative to mulch, you can purchase wood chips made of bark.

4) Make a statement in your yard with flowers and blooms

Pick flowers with colors that complement the house colors, which will bring softness to the front yard. Be sure to choose plants that are climate appropriate and thrive in your area; local nurseries are great resources for this. Consider using an auger instead of a shovel to help get through the planting process quickly. Also, be sure to spread your new plants out so that they have enough room to grow and thrive.

5) Add a finishing touch

To draw the eye toward the entryway of your home, hang a wreath on the front door, place a potted plant near the steps and add a water feature such as a self-circulating fountain. Water features such as ponds and fountains can add an architectural element to soften your landscape design and may also attract natural wildlife to your yard.

Whether you're a seller trying to create an unforgettable memory for a prospective buyer, or a new homeowner trying to make your home more inviting, these landscaping improvements are easy ways to boost your home's curb appeal.

Designing Gardens for Year-Round Color and Protecting Your Investment

BY MELINDA MYERS

Create a colorful year-round garden filled with flowers, greenery, colorful fruit, fall color, winter interest and a few surprises. Consider seasonal interest when planning a new garden or landscape. Adding a few key plants to existing gardens can help boost your landscape's seasonal appeal.

Include a variety of plants with multiple seasons of interest as well as bird and pollinator appeal. You will look forward to the change of seasons as your landscape transforms throughout the year.

Use trees and shrubs to provide the framework and longevity in your landscape. Serviceberries, crabapples, dogwoods, and many others have flowers, fruit, pollinator, and bird appeal and add winter interest with their bark or form. Look for those with colorful exfoliating bark like paperbark maple, heptacodium, and river birch for a beautiful statement in the winter garden.

Include a few summer blooming shrubs like St John's wort, buttonbush, panic hydrangeas and Rose of Sharon. They add an unexpected fresh look to your summer landscape.

Perennials combine nicely with trees, shrubs, and annuals, adding seasons of color and texture. Include those that also attract songbirds, bees, and butterflies by creating a beautiful habitat. Blue star (Amsonia), Siberian iris, sedum, Rudbeckia, coneflower, and grasses are just a few that can brighten any garden with several seasons of color, provide homes for beneficial insects and food for the birds.

End the season with fall bloomers like goldenrod, asters, and hardy mums. These provide food for late season pollinators. Leave healthy plants stand, providing homes for many beneficial insects, winter interest in the garden, and food for the songbirds.

Use annuals to fill any voids, add season long color and yearly changes in the landscape. Containers on steps, decks and patios help bring the garden to your front and back door.

Include spring flowering bulbs like tulips, daffodils and hyacinths planted in fall for a colorful welcome to spring. These and many of the earliest bloomers like winter aconites, grape hyacinths, and crocus provide needed nectar for early season pollinators.

Evergreens are always a welcome addition to any landscape. They provide shelter for the birds and year-round greenery. Find new and interesting ways to include them in your landscape.

Use taller evergreens for screening bad views, buffering traffic and other noises, or creating privacy. Use evergreens with interesting form and texture to create a focal point in a garden bed or landscape. Combine them with perennials and flowering shrubs for added seasonal interest.

Then keep your landscape looking its best by protecting key plants from hungry critters like deer, rabbits and voles. Skip the fencing and scare tactics by applying a rain resistant, organic repellent like Plantskydd (plantskydd.com) at planting. You will need fewer applications and the odor-based repellent sends animals dining elsewhere before taking a bite out of your plants. Apply repellent before animals start feeding and follow the label directions for best results.

Continue to gather ideas with visits to public gardens and partaking in garden tours. Be sure to take notes and pictures that you can reference later. Creating a year-round landscape is an ongoing process that is part of the fun and adventure of gardening.

Pet owner? How to be prepared for fire or carbon monoxide danger

(BPT) - Pets nationwide are considered beloved members of the family. Pet ownership throughout the U.S. has skyrocketed, with approximately 12.6 million Americans opening their home to a new pet since March 2020, according to a study by the American Pet Products Association.

Whether you're a first-time pet owner or a pet pro, it's important to consider your furry family members when preparing for the unexpected. First Alert offers the following tips to help families be prepared in case of a fire or carbon monoxide (CO) incident.

1) Prevent a fire. While candles add ambiance, it's important to never burn them unattended. Wagging tails and pawing kitties can haphazardly knock over candles, which can potentially cause a fire. Additionally, avoid electrical fires by securing loose wires and running long cords behind couches or other out-of-reach locations to prevent them from being chewed.

2) Protect against the silent killer. Due to their smaller size, your pet may be affected by CO poisoning before you. Signs of CO poisoning can include weakness, sudden vomiting, difficulty breathing, seizures and even loss of consciousness. The only way to detect CO poisoning is by equipping your home with working CO alarms. For premium protection against fire and CO, install combination alarms with 2-in-1 protection, such as the First Alert 10-Year Battery Smoke & Carbon Monoxide Alarm, which eliminates battery replacements for a decade. Once installed, maintenance is key. Remember to test your alarms regularly and replace smoke alarms every 10 years and CO alarms every five to 10 years, depending on the model.

3) Improve their safety when home alone. To help ensure your pet is safe even while you're not home, use a pet gate to keep your animals in the main living area for easy rescue in case of an emergency. Place pet alert stickers on windows near each entrance to inform firefighters of the presence of pets in your house.

4) Have an emergency escape plan. When planning your emergency escape route, don't forget to include your pets. Know which family members will be responsible for each pet and note their hiding spots for a faster evacuation. Have leashes and collars stored near the main entrance of your home and, if possible, near other potential exits during an emergency, so you can grab them on your way out the door. Practice your escape plan at least twice a year, including crating your pets. And, remind your family to never delay escape or go back inside to rescue your pet. If a pet is missing, inform the fire department dispatcher when you call and the responders when they arrive. # 3 weekend DIY project ideas to breathe new life into your home

(BPT) - Virtual birthday parties. Online family game nights. Digital dinners with friends. You've done your part to stay connected yet socially distanced, however, as fall arrives, you're preparing to host friends and family in your home again.

"The problem is after working, studying and playing at home, many people's houses are looking a bit drab," says Jennifer Meska, director of merchandising and design at LL Flooring. "If you want to refresh spaces for future entertaining, start with the floor and work your way up to add fashion and function to your home."

Meska shares some top DIY projects that can be completed in as little as a weekend so you're ready to welcome back guests:

1) Update flooring

When you think about visual real estate in a home, the flooring is the foundation of the aesthetic. Consider updating flooring with modern options that add style, but are also durable enough to handle guests and everyday demands.

A good option is Rigid Vinyl Plank (RVP) that provides the look of hardwood but is waterproof and scratch-resistant. Lake Geneva Oak CoreLuxe RVP is a good option, with its innovative rigid core that clicks together with ease for a simple DIY project. CoreLuxe stands up to heavy traffic, busy families and plentiful entertaining, making it ideal for bathrooms, kitchens and living rooms.

"These floors deliver quality, beauty, waterproof functionality and are easy to install," says Meska. "What's great about these floors is they work well in any room."

2) Rethink furniture

Once the floor is updated, think about how you use your furniture and how it might best serve you when entertaining. Consider rearranging furniture to breathe fresh life into a space and encourage guests to mingle comfortably. Prioritize grouping furniture to facilitate conversation and interaction while keeping common traffic areas open for ease of movement.

In addition to rearranging furniture, now is the time to address functionality of pieces and swap in multiuse options when appropriate. For example, an ottoman is great for kicking up your feet or as additional seating for guests, especially young children. Select an ottoman designed with a top that opens, providing storage space for blankets, toys or other clutter. You can even add a serving tray to the top when closed and you have a coffee table or small buffet space for snacks.

3) Create a statement wall

Once you decide on an arrangement of furniture, try transforming a focal wall to give the space an elevated interior design. One easy way to do this is to paint one wall different than the others in an accent color, like a blue or yellow. DIY-friendly peel-and-stick wallpaper is growing in popularity and is another fun option if you want to add a pattern on an accent wall.

Another way to create a noteworthy accent wall is to design a gallery wall with a collection of treasured items hung in a group. Framed photography is common for creating gallery walls and serves as a wonderful conversation starter when guests arrive. In addition to photographs, you can add other framed items such as typography, children's artwork, travel keepsakes, mirrors and more.

"Now is the ideal time to prepare for the revival of entertaining at home," says Meska. "Start with the floor, think beyond the conventional and make updates that you'll enjoy whether you're hosting guests or spending time at home with family."

Your electric vehicle charging questions, answered

(BPT) - Have you been wondering if an electric vehicle is right for you, especially as more models are rolling out from automakers? Living the electric vehicle lifestyle is fun and exciting, good for the environment, and even your wallet - but there are some key things to know, like understanding how and where to charge. While charging at home is always an option, the prevalence of electric vehicle charging options is widespread and growing, so there are a few things to know about maximizing an electric car's battery power when charging while out and about.

Here are answers to some commonly asked questions about electric vehicle charging:

What's the easiest way to locate a public charger?

There are various resources to help drivers identify where they can easily stop for a charge. For example, the U.S. Department of Energy Alternative Fuels Data Center offers a station locator map, and various apps such as Open Charge Map and ChargeHub can help locate chargers on the road. Additionally, many automakers' new electric vehicles include in-vehicle tech features - like connected infotainment systems - to make planning routes based on charging stations even more simple for your journey.

Individual charging companies also offer their apps for locating stations. For example, Electrify America - the largest open ultra-fast-charging network in the U.S. - recently redesigned its mobile app so drivers can more easily navigate station information. Users can download the app via the App Store and Google Play - and now, drivers can locate a charger, start and stop a charging session, and view charging plan details via Apple CarPlay and Android Auto.

What does fast-charging mean?

Not all electric vehicle charging is the same, and charging time depends on how much electricity your EV's battery can handle and how much energy the charger can dispense. Charger power is measured in kilowatts and charging time is measured in kilowatt-hours, a unit of which is the amount of energy a charger can deliver in one hour.

For example, some public chargers only dispense 6kW - such as Level 2 chargers, an option most commonly found in settings like work offices, apartment complexes and hotels. But other chargers, like direct current (DC) fast-charging, uses technology that can dispense 150kW or even 350kW to capable vehicles - allowing for quicker charge times. DC fast-charging is especially great for drivers taking road trips or who don't have access to overnight charging, who will need chargers that can deliver the maximum amount of energy in the shortest amount of time.

Companies like Electrify America offer the fastest charging rates available - with speeds up to 350 kilowatts (kW) - that can charge a capable vehicle in as little as 20 minutes. Visit ElectrifyAmerica.com or check out their social media pages to learn more about fast charging and find nearby locations.

How do you know which charging connector to use?

You can check your vehicle's specific settings, but most electric vehicles use a connector called the Combined Charging System (CCS). CCS got its "combined" name by incorporating two types of plugs within the same larger plug: the connector for DC fast-charging, and the connector for Level 2 charging. Level 2 is a form of electric vehicle charging with slower charging speeds than DC fast.

CCS is now the most common connector used by electric vehicle manufacturers.

How can hot or cold weather affect charging?

While you can charge during very cold or hot weather, you will probably need to allow more charging time. Electric vehicle batteries are designed to deliver maximum charging power at temperatures between 60-80 degrees Fahrenheit. Temperatures below 40 degrees or above 115 degrees Fahrenheit dramatically reduce the battery's charging power. The chemical process inside the battery slows down outside of these temperatures - often to less than half of its peak charging power.

Should an electric vehicle battery be charged to a 100% state of charge (SOC)?

Different electric vehicles have different battery sizes, affecting both the charging speed and how much total energy the battery can accept. Check the vehicle manual for the maximum charging power provided by your electric vehicle.

On a public fast charger, the speed at which energy enters the car battery slows after the battery reaches an 80% SOC. This may help prevent wearing out the battery too quickly, therefore extending the battery life. The battery can still charge to a 100% SOC, although getting from an 80 to 100% SOC may take a little longer. So while it's counterintuitive, it's best to minimize the time spent charging to 100% battery SOC to reduce wear and tear.

While embracing electric vehicle technology has many benefits and is quickly becoming more mainstream, adopting this lifestyle requires some basic education. By understanding how charging works, new electric vehicle drivers can make the transition to electric much smoother - and perhaps convince others to make the switch as well.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Les Moscoso for Cashmere School Board

Campaigns are expensive, time consuming, and stressful, but they don't need to divide communities. Unfortunately, even expressly non-political campaigns are currently being pushed toward issues that seemingly need to be labeled with R's and D's. Conversations, digital or analog, too often spiral into doomsday scenarios - painting pictures full of fear for our future. Overall, I wish individuals could run for elected position without being painted as an "invading force" bent on conquest and revolution. Such is the challenge facing Les Moscoso as he runs for Cashmere School Board. Les and his family have been knocking on doors introducing themselves, and more importantly, listening and learning from community members. Les understands that the strength of our community and schools rest within the stories of its families. Les's character and values align word for word with the school district's stated core values. He is a father and active community member with the energy and commitment to help our Cashmere Schools continue their tradition of success. Yet, his mere candidacy versus an incumbent has resulted in him being labeled as a radical invader to be feared. This is a deeply unfortunate assumption, and a sad situation. I support Les Moscoso for Cashmere School Board, not for any specific agenda, but because I know he will put in the time and effort necessary to be an informed member of a strong team that will continue to put the students' needs first.

Please vote for Roger Perleberg

In regard to the re-election of Roger Perleberg, I am honored to endorse him to serve another term for the Cashmere School District as a member of the school board . I have known Roger for over 40 years, and have had the privilege of serving with him on the school board in years past. I have always known Roger to put the needs of students first. He has never shown that he has a personal agenda but rather is open to learn and advocate for what best serves students and ensures excellence in their education experience. Roger is not afraid to listen or to act on behalf of the benefit of our students. Over the years, Roger has contributed positively to the shaping of the Cashmere School community in which we all take pride. In these changing times, my vote is for Roger Perleberg and his consistent track record of integrity and his valuable experience.

Fall Bass And Fall Out At State Parks

By JOHN KRUSE

This is the time of year when many anglers winterize their boats and put them away until spring, but they are missing out on some great fall bass fishing. I had the opportunity to chat with Ed Chin, a well-known Pacific Northwest tournament angler and the owner of All About Adventure Excursions (www.aaexcursions.com), for an interview that aired last week on Northwestern Outdoors Radio.

Some of Chin's favorite waters to fish for fall bass include the Columbia River from Portland to the Tri-Cities as well as Banks Lake, Potholes Reservoir and Lake Roosevelt. Chin says these bass are, "Moving out of their traditional summer areas, moving up into the shallows...There putting that fall time, winter time feedbag on so they're going to be aggressive."

Chin will use what he calls search baits like spinnerbaits or lipless Rat-L-Trap style crankbaits or a medium to deep-diving crankbait to find these aggressive fish, which often school up together during the autumn months. Once the reaction bite dies off for the aggressive fish, Chin will often turn to soft plastics to tempt more reluctant fish in these schools to bite. Chin likes to use a drop shot rig, fishing the plastic about 16-inches off the bottom.

Chin reminds anglers the fish will be deep part of the day and shallow during other times so don't just fish one depth this time of year. Chin also suggests moving on to new places when the bite in any particular spot dies off after using this searching hard bait/finessing soft bait tactic. Good fall fishing should be available for bass anglers through mid-November as long as the weather cooperates.

Washington State Parks Director Out:

Meanwhile, in our state capitol, State Parks Director Peter Mayer stepped down on October 6. A press release from Washington State Parks stated, "Mayer's decision to resign is based on the best interest of his family and he steps down as director to pursue other opportunities closer to his new home."

This explanation is as fishy as Ed Chin's bass. Mayer's home in Issaquah isn't exactly a world away from Olympia, let alone out of state, or even east of the Cascades and he only started his job as the director in March.

Furthermore, Mayer's decision comes in the wake of three special meetings that took place on September 22nd, October 4th and October 6th where the State Parks Commission immediately went into executive session. The purpose of these meetings, according to published agendas, "Is for the Commission to receive and evaluate complaints brought against a public officer or employee, and to determine and/or set the proper course of action in light of the complaints." In the latter meetings the agenda also addressed the potential need to put the employee in question on administrative leave and whether an interim officer should be put in the employee's place to fulfill their duties."

All of the meetings immediately went into Executive Session and there is no public record of what transpired except for Mayer's sudden resignation the same day the October 6th meeting took place. When asked what the nature of the complaint was and if Mayer was the subject of the complaint, Washington State Parks Communications Manager Amanda McCarthy stated, "Mr. Mayer voluntarily resigned" and "Since the meeting was related to an ongoing personnel matter, I do not have any additional details to provide at this time."

The bottom line? Something happened to force Mayer out, but nobody at Washington State Parks is saying why right now. I have put in a Public Disclosure Request in an effort to find out more details.

Goodwin Road Bridge Update

SUBMITTED BY JILL FITZSIMMONS

Chelan County public information officer

The setting of girders for the new bridge resumes with placement scheduled for over the Wenatchee River early in the week. On Friday night, the contractor expects to be placing girders over Highway

2, so nighttime closures on the highway near Hay Canyon Road will be in effect.

The nighttime closure on Friday, Oct. 15, will be 9:30 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. Nighttime traffic will be able to get through the project area on a one-lane, temporary bypass road that will be set up off to the side of the eastbound lanes of the highway.

A trooper with the Washington State Patrol will serve as a flagger, helping motorists through the area. Traffic delays are expected and will depend on the level of traffic.

The nighttime girder placement then will continue into next week, with nighttime closures also scheduled for Oct. 18-20.

Cashmere Bridge construction will span across US Hwy 2, adding steel girders on Oct. 15th from 9:30 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. and will continue for the rest of the week.

Marine Lt. Col. Scheller Pleads Guilty, Renews Calls for Accountability

Marine Lt. Col. Stuart Scheller.

KEN SILVA

Marine Lt. Col. Stuart Scheller pleaded guilty Oct. 14 to all charges against him at a special court-martial trial related to his criticisms about how senior military officials handled the U.S. withdrawal from Afghanistan, although he didn't backpedal from his calls for accountability.

Scheller's punishment has yet to be finalized. U.S. Marine Corps Judge Glen Hines accepted his plea agreement and stipulation of facts, and witnesses testified about Scheller's character to inform his sentencing decision.

Scheller spoke just before this article's publication, and The Epoch Times obtained a copy of his written testimony. Closing arguments are still scheduled before Hines renders his punishment.

According to the written testimony, Scheller apologized for the unprofessional nature of some of his comments, but he still criticized senior leadership for failing to accept accountability for the disastrous Afghanistan withdrawal.

"I believe the General officers have demonstrated that they are unable or unwilling to hold themselves accountable. As a result, I believe fundamental change needs to occur in the military," he said. "I am being held accountable for my actions. The General officers should be held accountable for their failures."

Scheller also criticized the Marine Corps for apparently leaking confidential records about him to Task and Purpose.

"I was painted as a violent extremist, fascist, and the journalist even made a connection to Hitler. Obviously, you can understand that I was very angry following the article," he said. "After everything I've been through, I feel it's reasonable to conclude that the Marine Corps and Task and Purpose were working together in an effort to smear my name."

The Marine further pointed out that he hasn't been charged with making false statements "because everything I have said is true."

"If the Marine Corps could have charged me with it, they would have," he said.

According to a person familiar with the matter, the maximum punishment Scheller faces is a letter of reprimand. He also faces a potential general discharge under honorable conditions, which can reduce the number of benefits available to him.

The Epoch Times also obtained the stipulation of facts accepted by Hines. The document specifies the statements that put Scheller in hot water with his superiors, as well as Scheller's reasons for pleading guilty.

I am being held accountable for my actions. The General officers should be held accountable for their failures.

Lt. Col. Stuart Scheller

The first charge stems from an Aug. 26 video he posted criticizing leaders for abandoning Bagram Air Base.

"Potentially, all of those people die in vain if we don't have senior leaders that own up and raise their hand and say we did not do this well in the end," Scheller said.

Scheller also pleaded guilty to charges related to his continued social media messages made after officials placed restrictions on posting.

"You recently banned all unit social media pages so that you could centralize the message. Because, I'm assuming, you think Marine leaders aren't capable of passing a message in line with your intent," Scheller admitted to saying on Aug. 31. "Your problem right now... is that I am moving faster than you. I'm outmaneuvering you."

According to the stipulation of facts, Scheller received a lawful order on Sept. 17 to refrain from posting on social media. But Scheller admitted to posting on Sept. 25 and 26, including saying, "I'm ready for jail."

"My actions compromised my character as a gentleman because they were contemptuous towards the Secretary of the Navy and/or otherwise did not comport with the expectations of an officer," Scheller said, according to the stipulation of facts.

"My actions were serious misbehavior, as opposed to just merely inappro-appropriate or merely in poor taste," he said.

Scheller, who was thrown into the brig on Sept. 27, was released on Oct. 5.

He could have faced up to eight years imprisonment, forfeiture of all his pay and allowances, and dismissal from the service—but the parties reached an agreement for him to stand before a special court-martial, which is the military's version of a civilian misdemeanor court.

Scheller said in his written testimony that he tried to submit a resignation in lieu of trial while he was in the brig, but his command rejected the offer.

"They wanted a conviction of guilt," he said. "Thus, I obviously signed a deal to plead guilty to a litany of charges at special court-martial, which brings us to today."

Numerous lawmakers and Scheller's family have spoken out against what they view to be political persecution against the Marine veteran.

"This confinement appears to be simply for messaging, retribution, and convenience in flagrant violation of R.C.M. [Rule for Court Martial]: 'a person should not be confined as a mere matter of convenience,'" reads a Sept. 29 letter from 35 members of Congress calling for Scheller's release.

"He is an American war hero. He has fought for his men and women that follow him. He's fought on the battlefield for them. I believe he has risked his life for his fellow service people and Americans. He is now risking his livelihood for them. He saw a injustice happening at the top, and he felt that they should be held accountable for it," Cathy Scheller, Scheller's mother, told NTD's "The Nation Speaks."

Scheller's father, Stu Scheller Sr., said support from fellow Americans will greatly help his son. The Marine Corps will "win the battle."

"But America is going to help Stuart win the war," he said.

US Surge in Homeschooling Sparked by More Than Pandemic

DAVE PAONE

Because of the CCP (Chinese Communist Party) virus, there's been a surge in homeschooling in the United States.

The U.S. Census Bureau conducted what it calls its "experimental Household Pulse Survey," described on the bureau's website as "the first data source to offer both a national and state-level look at the impact of COVID-19 on homeschooling rates."

The survey shows "a substantial increase" in homeschooling from spring 2020 to the start of the school year the following fall. These dates coincide with the start of the pandemic.

But the surge didn't end there. In March, the agency reported that the number of households with at least one homeschooled child more than doubled to 11.1 percent from 5.4 percent.

Why the dramatic increase? "COVID last year was the No. 1 reason people started to homeschool," according to Steve Duvall, the director of research at the Home School Legal Defense Association in Virginia. "That made a lot of people try this for the first time."

Sandra Kim, the association's media relations manager, added that the health risks the CCP virus poses to children in a school setting prompted parents to take on homeschooling.

"A lot of parents are unsure about the vaccine for their child," Kim said. "So that might be another factor going forward, as we're seeing things like mandates, starting from California."

Duvall said for the past 20 years or so, the leading reason for homeschooling was poor school safety. That has fallen in importance, while increased flexibility and more one-on-one attention have gained to become the No. 2 and No. 3 factors, respectively, he said, citing statistics from a Hanover Research survey.

Brian Ray, who holds a doctorate in philosophy and is a co-founder of the National Home Education Research Institute in Oregon, agrees there's been "significant" growth in homeschooling, although he feels the bureau's statistics are flawed for several reasons. He also believes its numbers are being misinterpreted.

"The Census Bureau did not say the number of homeschooled children doubled. They said the number of adults living with a homeschooled child about doubled," he said.

Ray accumulated data from several sources and came up with his own estimated number of U.S. homeschooled students. He "mixed it up in the mathematical pot," and concluded that there are roughly 3.721 million students being homeschooled in the current school year.

The previous school year had an estimated 2.2 million to 2.5 million homeschooled students.

Ray believes U.S. public schools didn't offer the infrastructure, or even the know-how, to produce effective remote learning during the lockdowns.

That, in turn, caused part of the surge.

He also believes that critical race theory and the LGBTQIA-plus push are additional factors.

He said parents perceive, or believe, "that critical race theory is being forcefully introduced throughout the schools," and "they think it's way over the top, a form of indoctrination."

"There's been an accelerated push for sexuality philosophy and theory into every field of what's being taught in public schools," he said. "Parents, whether they're progressive, conservative, libertarian, they're tired of that."

"Right now, it doesn't seem like the growth of homeschooling is slowing down any," said Duvall. "It doesn't look like the end is in sight."

Florida Fines County $3.57 Million for Alleged Violation of Law Against COVID-19 Vaccine Passports

ZACHARY STIEBER

The state of Florida has fined a county more than $3 million for allegedly violating a law that bans entities from requiring proof of COVID-19 vaccination.

Leon County was fined for 714 instances of violating the law, the Florida Department of Health announced on Oct. 12. The law in question, passed earlier this year, forbids any business, government entity, or educational institution from requiring so-called vaccine passports, or proof of vaccination.

Violators face a fine of up to $5,000 for each violation.

Florida officials warned last month that they would fine violators. Gov. Ron DeSantis, a Republican, said the fines could total millions of dollars.

According to a notice sent to Leon County Administrator Vincent Long on Oct. 6 and released Oct. 12, the government required 714 former or current employees to provide vaccination documentation to gain access to, entry upon, or service from the county government.

The county was ordered to pay $3.57 million within 30 days by check or money order.

Leon County terminated 14 workers for refusing or failing to submit documentation, Florida officials found.

"These are people that presumably have been serving throughout this whole time. And now all of a sudden, they're basically getting kicked to the curb. And so that violates state law," DeSantis told reporters in Pinellas County.

"They're creating a system where just your operation in normal society is constantly requiring you to have to show different types of papers just to go in. And I object to that, period."

Florida Surgeon General Dr. Joseph Ladapo said in a statement that firing workers over COVID-19 vaccine passports "leads to resentment in the workplace, and loss of employment impacts individual and public health."

"Individuals have every right to choose how to best protect themselves and their families, and the Department will continue to enforce this law," he said.

COVID-19 is the disease caused by the CCP (Chinese Communist Party) virus.

Leon County is the 22nd most populous in Florida. It has roughly 279,000 residents and includes the state capitol, Tallahassee.

Long, the county's administrator, said in a statement that the county was made aware of the notice.

"The county strongly contends that our employee vaccination requirement was not only completely legally justifiable, but it was a necessary and responsible action to take to keep our employees safe, protect the public, and ensure our readiness as a front-line response organization."

The county "fully intends to enforce its rights using any remedies available to settle all arguments about the applicability of the statute at issue so that we can continue to direct our full and undivided attention on combating the virus, protecting our employees and citizens, and fulfilling our obligations to our community," he added.

The fine appears to be the first imposed under the law. Other potential violations are being investigated, according to state officials. Some local governments planning to impose vaccine requirements have backed off in recent weeks, including the city of Gainesville.

What should we then do?

Please print Luther's own words. Let Luther speak for himself and set the record straight about what is God-fearing faith during pandemics and what is not. During an outbreak of the Bubonic plague, Luther and his wife opened their home to care for the sick. Luther encourages us to make use of medicine and intelligence!

PASTOR NANCY GRADWOHL
FAITH LUTHERAN CHURCH, LEAVENWORTH

After praising those who lovingly serve the sick, Luther says, there are those who, "Sin on the right hand. They are much too rash and reckless, tempting God and disregarding everything which might counteract death and the plague. They disdain the use of medicines; they do not avoid places and persons infected by the plague, but lightheartedly make sport of it and wish to prove how independent they are. They say that it is God's punishment; if he wants to protect them he can do so without medicines or our carefulness."

Furthermore: "This is not trusting God but tempting him. God has created medicines and provided us with intelligence to guard and take good care of the body so that we can live in good health...If one makes no use of intelligence or medicine when he could do so without detriment to his neighbor, such a person injures his body and much be aware lest he become a suicide in God's eyes. By the same reasoning, a person might forego eating and drinking, clothing and shelter, and boldly proclaim his faith that if God wanted to preserve him from starvation and cold, he could do so without food and clothing. Actually, that would be suicide."

"It is even more shameful for a person to pay no heed to his own body and to fail to protect it against the plague the best he is able, and then to infect and poison others who might have remained alive if he had taken care of his body as he should have..."

"No, my dear friends, that is no good. Use medicine; take potions which can help you; fumigate house, yard, and street; shun persons and places wherever your neighbor does not need your presence or has recovered, and act like a man who wants to help put out the burning city. What else is the epidemic but a fire which instead of consuming wood and straw devours life and body?...Then I shall fumigate, help purify the air, administer medicine, and take it...If God should wish to take me, he will surely find me and I have done what he has expected of me and so I am not responsible for either my own death or the death of others. ...But if some are too panicky and desert their neighbors in their plight, and if some are so foolish as not to take precautions but aggravate the contagion, then the devil has a heyday and many will die. On both counts, this is a grievous offense to God and to man.

Bulldogs lose Pear Bowl in tight contest

By BILL FORHAN

The Cashmere Bulldogs lost their chance to retain the Pear Bowl Trophy on a 4th down play from the 14 yard line with only seconds remaining on the clock. Both teams played a hard-fought contest with Cascade taking an early 12 to nothing lead. Cashmere responded in the second quarter to take over the lead at the half 13 to 12.

The Kodiaks regained the lead on the second play of the second half with a break away run. The Kodiaks overcame a first down and 40 at the start of the 4th quarter to score again. With the Bulldogs down 24 to 13 the Bulldogs rallied and scored on a Jack Croci touchdown pass to narrow the Kodiak lead. The Bulldogs then shut the Kodiak offense down in a three and out and began a drive with 8 minutes to go.

With seconds remaining on the clock the drive stalled on a 4th down and 9 from the 14 yard line allowing the Kodiaks to run out the clock.

How to live with anti-estrogen medicines

"I ache all over. I just don't know how I can do this for the next 5 years."

65-year-old Sarah is a breast cancer survivor. Upon completing her successful chemotherapy and surgery 6 months ago, her doctor prescribed an anti-estrogen medicine called Arimidex® (anastrozole).

Anti-estrogen medicines help prevent breast cancer, treat it, or, like Sarah, prevent it from coming back. There are two types of anti-estrogen medications: estrogen production inhibitors and estrogen-blocking agents.

In women who have gone through menopause, a particular enzyme called aromatase is responsible for creating estrogen. Medications that interfere with aromatase are called aromatase inhibitors. Aromatase inhibitors like anastrozole (Arimidex®) and letrozole (Femara®) are often prescribed for 5 years after initial breast cancer treatment to decrease the risk of recurrence.

Estrogen blocking medicines prevent estrogen from binding to breast tissue. The estrogen blocker tamoxifen (Nolvadex®) is combined with other drugs to treat breast cancer and avoid its recurrence in high-risk women.

The most common side effects of anti-estrogen medicines are aching muscles or joints, hot flashes or night sweats, weight gain, dry skin and hair, and vaginal dryness and discomfort.

One way to combat dry skin and hair is to eat a "good fat" diet with olive oil like in the Mediterranean diet or coconut oil instead of vegetable oil or butter. Since I'm not a fan of the taste of olive oil, I use avocado oil, which has a buttery flavor.

Hot flashes and night sweats are common side effects of taking tamoxifen or aromatase inhibitors. Unfortunately, hot flashes from these medicines don't seem to respond to soy or supplements containing black cohosh like Remifemin® or red clover.

Unfortunately, some prescription medicines can help relieve menopausal symptoms without estrogen. Antidepressants like venlafaxine and citalopram, and gabapentin, a drug that relieves seizures and nerve pain, can ease hot flush and night sweat symptoms.

Sarah is not alone; nearly half of women taking aromatase inhibitors experience aching muscles or painful joints. Although non-prescription medicines may offer relief, no option is better than any other.

One place to start is with either Tylenol 8-Hour® or Tylenol Arthritis® Extended Relief, which lasts twice as long as Tylenol®

Extra Strength. Sarah could try one or two of the 650mg tablets twice daily every day. Anti-inflammatory medications may also help muscle aches and joint pain, like Ibuprofen (Motrin-IB), naproxen (Aleve®), fish oil capsules, and cannabidiol (CBD).

Glucosamine may offer relief and has minimal side effects; it can also be added to other medicines without causing problems. I recommend glucosamine powder twice daily because it is less expensive and better absorbed than pill form. Allow 4-6 weeks of taking glucosamine to see the full effect before deciding if it's helping you.

If these don't help, please talk to your doctor. People differ widely in how drugs can affect them, and a different medicine could make a huge difference.

Here are 6 Tips for Taking Anti-Estrogen Medicines Successfully:

1. Try a "good fat" diet. Switching from a "low-fat" to a "good fat" diet like the Mediterranean diet can relieve dry skin and hair. "Good fats" include coconut, avocado, and olive oil. Taking a fish oil supplement may also help.
2. Avoid soy.
3. Keep moving.

Physical activity discourages weight gain and helps boost your mood. It may reduce muscle aches and joint pain experienced by nearly half of women who take an aromatase inhibitor like anastrozole or letrozole.

4. Try a non-prescription remedy.

Although they don't work in everyone, Tylenol® Arthritis or Tylenol 8-Hour® 650mg tablets, Aleve® (naproxen), or Motrin-IB (ibuprofen) may help Sarah's discomfort. Other options include glucosamine powder, fish oil capsules, or CBD, or even a combination of them.

5. Talk to your doctor.

For hot flashes and night sweats, prescription medicines like the antidepressants venlafaxine and citalopram or the anti-seizure medicine gabapentin may help.

6. Speak UP.

If you notice that your muscles or joints ache, don't blame old age; it may be your medicine. Talk to your doctor if your muscles or joints hurt. Switching to another medicine may improve your symptoms, making your next 5 years more tolerable.
