County Waste Management considers facility at Pateros

By MIKE MALTAIS
 STAFF WRITER

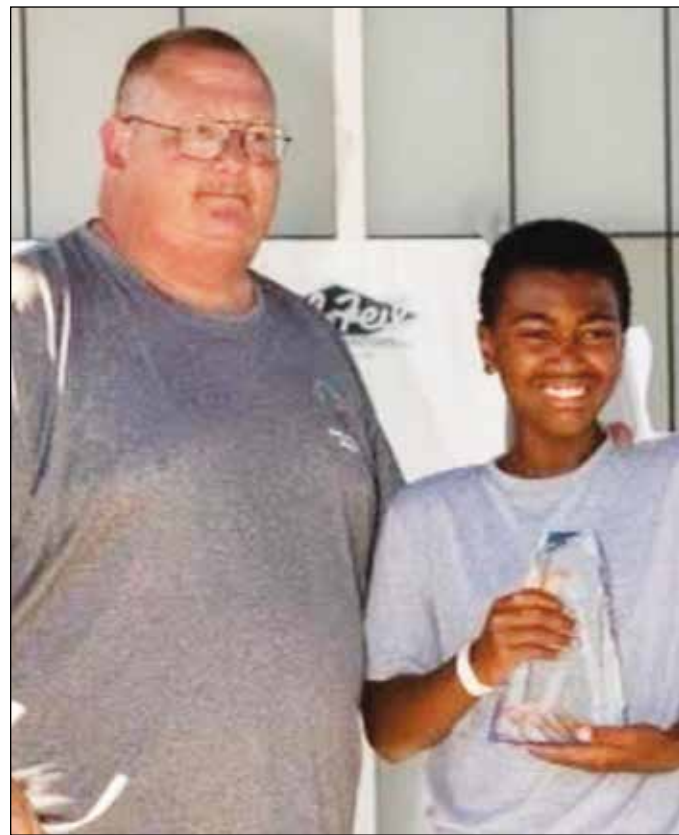

PATEROS – Resolutions supporting the Okanogan County All Hazards Mitigation Plan and accepting the Energy Metering Interconnection Agreement between Okanogan County PUD and the city were among issues on the city council agenda at its regular monthly meeting on Sept. 19.

The energy metering agreement allows the PUD to measure the electricity produced by solar panels that will be installed at the city's treatment plant and reservoir to help offset water and sewer electric bills. The PUD will measure the solar electricity produced and used at both facilities.

The Okanogan County All Hazards Mitigation Plan that the city helped develop will be utilized as a guide for planning related to Federal Emergency Management Act pre-disaster reductions as determined appropriate by the city council.

In other business:

- Council member George Brady met with Okanogan County Waste Management to discuss the possibility of establishing a facility in Pateros on the Starr industrial property south of the city. Brady said he anticipates a proposal to that effect within the next few months.

- City engineer Varela & Associates drafted two options for the scope of work to upgrade Commercial Avenue. The goal is to develop a plan for mall rehabilitation, stormwater management, and aesthetic improvements to the avenue and parking lots using American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funds. Council member Brady proposed proceeding with the upgrade designs and drafting a contract using Varela's first option.

- Council unanimously approved Street & Parks Committee member Megan Sherrard's proposal to have the county kiosk installed by the TranGO bus stop on Commercial Avenue.
- City Administrator Jord Wilson and City Planner Kurt Danison have identified priority projects for the Economic Development .09 Priority Applications due next month.
- The city's Shoreline Master Plan is now posted on the city website.
- USDA Rural Development is still reviewing the final contract and scope of work for water testing at the downtown pump station.
- Mayor Kelly Hook attended the Terry Troxel Memorial Regatta hydro races August 27-28, and selected one driver, Brent Hall, Jr., to receive the Jim Yancy Youth Inspiration Award.

The next meeting of the Pateros city council is at 6 p.m., Monday, Oct. 17.

Bridgeport SR 173 Downtown Revitalization Outreach Project issues final report

By MIKE MALTAIS
 STAFF WRITER

BRIDGEPORT – The city's SR 173 Downtown Revitalization Outreach Project funded by a USDA Rural Development grant has issued its final report at the regular monthly meeting of the city council last Wednesday, Sept. 21.

City Planner Kurt Danison recommended scheduling a joint workshop between the council and the Revitalization Committee to discuss in greater detail the responses of the business community that was surveyed in the outreach effort. A workshop was agreed for 6 p.m. last Monday, Sept. 26.

Danison said among the key findings the door-to-door survey revealed:

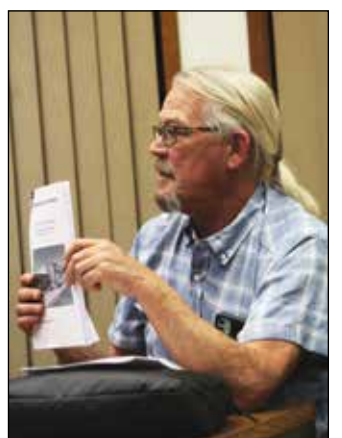

- Communication – More communication across the language barrier with city officials including forms and permitting
- Regulatory – Updating and clarifying city codes and regulations and applications.
- Financial – What resources might be available for small businesses.
- Unregulated competition – Vendors without required business licenses or paying taxes undercutting local businesses
- Public Safety – More lighting on sidewalks, crosswalks, etc.
- Community Events – More community events wanted.

Turning to other Revitalization topics Danison said the city received a Rural Development grant to replace gateway signage at both ends of the city. Another grant for the tree sculpture parking lot will allow addition of an ADA ramp and sidewalk access among other improvements.

The city applied for a Recreation and Conservation Office (RCO) grant for Berryman Park upgrades and came in fourth among 62 applicants for consideration. Those funds will be used for a variety of projects including trails, court resurfacing, picnic tables, ADA access, new bathrooms, and more.

Tree sculpture preservation is looking for about $80,000 from the Council of Governments to pay for foundations for the large tree sculptures

Canine parvo solutions remain a topic of concern in Bridgeport

By MIKE MALTAIS
 STAFF WRITER

BRIDGEPORT – City Animal Control Officer Randy Stanley made a return visit to the regular meeting of the Bridgeport City Council last Wednesday, Sept. 21, to update members about the status of the parvo virus among city dogs, an issue he brought to the council's attention at the August meeting.

Stanley's message was simple and to the point: "It has gotten out of hand," Stanley said.

The incidence of the highly contagious canine disease is growing within the city according to the latest reports Stanley has received from the Wenatchee pound.

This month the last five dogs I sent to Wenatchee, four of them have tested positive," said Stanley. "They are not taking parvo dogs."

Stanley said his procedure involves observation of dogs to determine if they show symptoms of infection. Those infected with parvo are euthanized.

"That's the remedy of it," Stanley said.

Stanley said that of the 10 dogs he has sent to the Wenatchee shelter this month, nine have come back positive for parvo.

"Four of those died," said Stanley, "and they were young ones."

To inform residents about the parvo problem Stanley said he enlisted the assistance of deputy city clerk Ariana Auburto to include a Spanish translation of a flyer included with the September water bills explaining the disease and advising citizens to have their dogs vaccinated.

Unlike rabies which can be spread to humans and requires mandatory dog vaccinations, parvo cannot be transmitted to humans so canine vaccination is voluntary. Parvo vaccination is included in a veterinarian's recommended regimen of canine treatment.

Council members discussed options

Mayor Janet Conklin said she has reached out to city attorney Julie Norton to see if the city can legally require a parvo test, paid by the owner, before a dog is release from impoundment.

Public Works Superintendent Stuart Dezelle suggested changing the city code to require proof of parvo vaccination at the time of updating a city dog license.

"I have picked up 60-plus dogs during the time I have done this," said Stanley. "You could probably count on one hand how many actually had a city tag."

Stanley pointed out that there are provisions already in the city code that assess penalties for letting a dog run at large, trespass, harboring a sick animal, walking a dog without a dog waste bag, and other violations not presently being enforced.

The council will revisit the issue after conferring with the city attorney to determine what can be legally done to update the code.

Wellness Place breast cancer awareness month events

SUBMITTED BY WELLNESS PLACE

WENATCHEE - October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month, an annual campaign to raise awareness about the impact of breast cancer. To kick off this important month, Wellness Place has four events the first week of October to bring awareness, and support their mission of providing FREE support to cancer patients in North Central Washington.

München Haus Benevolent Night - Tuesday, October 4, 4 p.m.-close.

If you like cold brews and hot brats, then join us at München Haus in Leavenworth for the Wellness Place benevolent night. From 4 p.m.-close they will donate 25% of all dine-in and takeout sales to Wellness Place.

Taproom at Hellbent Brewery - Wednesday, October 5

It's "Warrior Wednesday with Wellness Place" at The Taproom By Hellbent Brewing at Pybus Public Market in Wenatchee in honor of Breast Cancer Awareness month. All day long, they will donate $1 for every Hellbent Pint and $2 for every "Pint to Go" to Wellness Place (glassware included, availability limited). Also, you can write notes of encouragement to be given to our NCW cancer warriors. Do Good. Drink Beer.

Pybus Farmers Market - Saturday, October 8th, 9-11 a.m.

Visit us at the Wellness Place table during the Pybus Farmers Market to learn about our nonprofit, and the free cancer services and support we provide. We will have breast cancer awareness handouts, and kids can draw "Happy Letters" to provide a smile and encouragement for our NCW cancer warriors during their cancer journey.

Wellness Place FREE education afternoon - Saturday, October 8, 1-4 p.m.

Join us for "A Mindset of Meaning". Designed for, and FREE, for ALL cancer patients, survivors, caregivers, and loved ones. An afternoon of learning how to cultivate tools to support meaning and well-being.

Registration required at www.WellnessPlaceNCW.org
Dr Chandra Villano, ND, and Kari Lyons-Price, MSW with Meditate Wenatchee will present topics including:

Cultivate Connection- Open hearted approach to harmonious and consistent optimal breathing, grounding, and mindful movement.

Nutrition: Wellness Mindset- Overview of tasty Abundance Bowls & Gratitude Bowls for ease of anti-inflammatory whole foods prep, rotation, variety, and maximizing nutrition.

The Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction (MBSR) Experience- By design this course empowers participants to take an active role in the management of their health and wellness.

Sleep Hygiene- High quality sleep is vital for healing and feeling and being well. Learn about an arsenal of practices for getting the invaluable sleep you need.

"At Wellness Place we are committed to helping all cancer warriors in our community, no matter the cancer diagnosis," says executive director Julie Lindholm. "However, 1 in 8 women will be diagnosed with breast cancer during their lifetime, so for the month of October it is our mission to bring awareness and reminders to our community members to get your mammograms, and self-check your breasts regularly. The earlier breast cancer is diagnosed, the better the chance of successful treatment."

At Wellness Place, we give compassionate support and FREE resources to individuals, their families and caregivers through their cancer journey, from diagnosis to survivorship, for those residing in Chelan, Douglas, Grant and Okanogan counties. For more information visit www.wellnessplaceNCW.org.

Low-level flights to image 3D geology in northeastern Washington state

Includes Okanogan, Douglas, Chelan counties

SUBMITTED BY U.S. GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

NORTHEASTERN WASHINGTON - Scientists with the U.S. Geological Survey and the Washington Geological Survey are partnering to image geology using airborne geophysical technology as part of the USGS Earth Mapping Resource Initiative (Earth MRI) project.

Flights began Sept.22 and will continue through November until winter weather impacts safe aircraft operation and data quality. If needed, the data collection will resume in June or July of 2023 when weather is again favorable for surveying. Flights will be based out of assorted regional airports.

The USGS is contracting with Precision GeoSurveys and EDCON-PRJ to collect the data in 11 northeast Washington counties, including Pend Oreille, Stevens, Ferry, Okanogan, Spokane, Lincoln, Grant, Douglas, Chelan, Skagit and Whatcom.

Data collected as part of the survey is part of a national-scale effort to acquire modern high-resolution airborne magnetic and radiometric data. The survey will replace existing low-quality geophysical data, collected mostly in the 1980s, that is of limited use for geologic mapping. The new geophysical survey will use the latest technological developments that will allow scientists to develop high-resolution three-dimensional representations of geology to depths several miles below the surface. The 3D models and maps produced from the survey will help understand the distribution of groundwater, mineral, and energy resources as well as the potential for natural hazards. Data collected as part of this effort will be made public and used by USGS in collaboration with Washington Geological Survey scientists to guide more detailed geologic mapping at local scales.

Earth MRI is a cooperative effort between the USGS, the Association of American State Geologists, and other federal, state, and private sector organizations to improve our knowledge of the geologic framework in the United States.

It's fresh fruit season - time for a peach cobbler

Last month, I needed to make a dessert for a potluck. I had recently purchased an entire box of locally grown peaches from a lady who goes to our church. The fresh fruit was marvelous, but I needed to use the rest of them quickly. One peachy possibility for the potluck was a peach pie. However, I didn't want to mess with making the crust for a peach pie, so I considered making a cobbler instead.

My family made fruit cobbler using a drop biscuit recipe. Unlike regular biscuits, drop biscuits have more liquid in the dough. Instead of rolling out the dough and cutting out circles for each biscuit, you scoop up the raw dough and "drop" it onto a baking sheet.

My grandmother had always made cobbler by dropping scoops of drop biscuit dough onto the fruit filling and baking it.

I scoured my cookbooks for a recipe for "peach cobbler." One recipe used canned peaches. No, thank you. I had fresh, ripe, delicious peaches, and I wanted the fruit to shine.

In 1985, while living in a small farming community just outside Dayton, Ohio, I purchased a copy of the Discover Dayton Cookbook. This cookbook was one of the main fundraising projects of the Junior League organization of Dayton, Ohio.

When moving back to Washington State in 1990, I gave away a lot of cookbooks but kept that one because it contained delicious regional recipes unique to the greater Dayton area, where my husband grew up.

I found a recipe for peach cobbler in the index of my dogeared Discover Dayton cookbook. Titled Five Generation Peach Cobbler, it was submitted by Mrs. George L. Word (Paige Early). Her introduction described it as "a luscious standby" that "contributes to the happiness, health, and longevity of our family." That sounded intriguing.

Her recipe included a peach filling with sliced peaches sprinkled with flour, sugar, and cinnamon. The crust was more complicated. Instead of islands of biscuit dough with peaches peeking through, the recipe required you to cut the shortening into the flour, just like a pie crust, then roll it out. Hmm...

Because of the crust, it took longer than I expected to make and bake the cobbler, making my husband and I late for the potluck. My peach cobbler was placed at the very end of the dessert table, behind

2 other peach desserts. Then an odd thing happened. A couple of men served themselves a small piece of my cobbler, then, a few minutes later, they returned to collect a second piece of my dessert. One guy returned for a THIRD helping. What was going on?

I had my answer when I brought the leftover half of the cobbler home with me and tried a bite.

Oh, my. WOW. Best cobbler EVER! You might be wondering what made it so good. Was it the ripe peaches, or was it the crust? Probably some of both. It's definitely worth the extra effort of making the rolled crust. Enjoy!

FIVE GENERATION PEACH COBBLER
5 cups fresh peaches, peeled, pitted, and sliced
3 tablespoons flour
1 1/4 cups sugar

1 teaspoon cinnamon
4 tablespoons butter
Slice peaches into a heavy, greased baking dish, approximately 9 inches around and 3 inches deep. (I used an 11 x 7-inch rectangular glass baking dish that was 2 inches deep. It worked just fine.)

Mix together flour, sugar, and cinnamon, and sprinkle over peaches. Dot with butter.

CRUST
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1/3 cup shortening. (I used butter.)
1/3 cup milk
Sift together dry ingredients. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Pour milk in all at once, and stir with a fork. Roll dough out on a floured board until it is the size of the baking dish - it will be 1/4 to 1/2 inch thick. Place crust on top of peaches. (I rolled my crust onto a rectangular cutting board instead of on the counter, then flipped it over into the baking dish.) Bake in a preheated 425 oven for about 30 minutes. YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

This recipe is from the Discover Dayton Cookbook, 1984 edition, submitted by Mrs. George L. Word (Paige Early). Many thanks to Paige and the Junior League of Dayton, Ohio.

The Washington Outdoor Report

A busy weekend at Potholes Reservoir

By JOHN KRUSE, THE WASHINGTON OUTDOOR REPORT

The weekend of September 17 and 18 was a very busy one at MarDon Resort at Potholes Reservoir. Four fishing tournaments took place there, and at 6 a.m. there was a long line of trucks with boat trailers waiting to launch at the resort. One of the tournaments was a high school bass fishing tournament, another was the Mt. St. Helens Bass Masters club tournament and the third was the one I was fishing in with my best friend Rusty Johnston, the Old Farts Bass Tournament. Put on by the Banks Lake Bass Club every September, at least one angler on each team has to over 40 years old. This is an open tournament (meaning anyone can enter) and $400 of proceeds from this year's event will be used to provide a scholarship for a local student.

It was a beautiful morning. The temperature was around 50 degrees and the skies were partly cloudy with only mild winds. Rusty and I had fished the reservoir a week earlier in an effort to figure out where the fish were and found the water levels had changed dramatically since our last time on the water in June when the reservoir was at full pool. Since then, work was being done to improve a public boat launch on the east side of O'Sullivan Dam and in order to do this the water levels were dropped nearly 23 feet. This meant the entire sand dunes portion of the reservoir was inaccessible, and the lake was fishing pretty small.

Despite this we had good success finding and catching bass at the mouth of Frenchman's Wasteway, near the face of the sand dunes, and off the rip rap at O'Sullivan Dam. Better still, we were the first boat out for the tournament and actually got to the spot we wanted at the mouth of Frenchman's Wasteway before anyone else did.

Things started off promising. We were after a shared limit of five bass, with the heaviest limit weighed in winning the one-day tournament. I caught a two-pound bass right off the bat that went into the livewell and then hooked into a very big fish that I thought for sure was going to be a huge smallmouth bass. Alas, it was a six-pound walleye! An impressive fish, but not what we were looking for during a bass tournament. After that the bite died down and we didn't catch anything else for 90 minutes.

We decided to try fishing off one of the sunken humps near the face of the sand dunes, something many of the contestants were doing. Rusty caught a keeper but that was the only bite we got. From there we went towards Medicare Beach on the east side of the lake where I caught another keeper but that was the only fish we got there.

Finally, we fished crankbaits off the face of O'Sullivan Dam, something that worked very well a week earlier. Unfortunately, the only fish I caught was another walleye but Rusty caught several keepers using a black and chrome Berkley Flicker Shad crankbait. By the end of the day, we had caught seven bass weighing two pounds or better. Unfortunately, we couldn't find any bass that weighed over three pounds and our final weigh in was just under 11 pounds for our five fish.

Most of the other contestants had a day similar to ours but some of the anglers, as always, figured things out. That included the team of Tag Watson and Matt Krumdiack who came over from Bellingham to fish this tournament. Using big soft plastics from a company called Magnum Baits, their five fish weighed in at 20.95 pounds, besting the next team by almost four pounds. Matt also caught the big bass of the Old Farts Tournament, a 4.82-pound largemouth bass. Between the first-place finish and biggest bass caught, the two went home with a check for $1620.

As for the fourth tournament, this one is something special because no boat is required. It's the annual MarDon Resort Dock Tournament, taking place on and around the marina at MarDon Resort. It kicks off Friday night and runs thru Sunday morning and the anglers catching the largest two fish out of ten different species wins cash prizes.

Pumpkinseed - G. Goss
Crappie - Rolondo Duddly
Walleye - Kevin Kay (6-pounds)
Largemouth bass - Greg Watson (3.9 pounds)
Smallmouth bass - Chris Sliker (3.4 pounds)
Rainbow trout - none weighed in
Carp - Kevin Kay (14.4 pounds)
Bullhead - Z. Taketa

And then there was the biggest fish caught off the docks during the tournament, a channel catfish reeled in by I. Harris that weighed in at just under 17 1/2 pounds.

Fishing for bass, walleye and other species should continue to be good through October. If you are looking for a place to stay (and eat and stock up on fishing tackle) go to www.mardonresort.com. Potholes State Park is an option as well and also has a useable boat launch.
