

Council wrestles with ADU regulations

By BILL FORHAN

ADU – Accessory Dwelling Units are a hot topic around the state. They are promoted as a way to increase the availability of affordable housing or provide a way to care for an aging family member or adult children.

Current Cashmere city codes restrict ADU's to 3 zones in the city, Suburban Residential, Airport Residential and Multi-family Residential. They must be approved through a Conditional Use Permit process that allows only one ADU per single-family structure. The primary residence must be owner occupied and subject to an annual certification. The floor area of the ADU is limited to 50% of the primary structure or 900 square feet whichever is less. It must have separate utility connections and be compliant with existing city building codes.

Last week the city council heard a report from Christina Wollman, the cities contract planner, and reviewed amendments to the city code to allow ADUs as submitted by the Cashmere planning commission.

Sometimes referred to as a granny flat, Casita, In-law suite, carriage house, or backyard cottage ADUs are separate living quarters on the same property as a primary residence. They can be attached to the primary residence in some way like a basement apartment or they can be a completely separate building detached from the primary residence.

Some of the benefits of ADUs are they can allow family members who need assistance to reside nearby; or, they can provide a way for empty nesters to increase their income by renting out the ADU or their primary home while living in the ADU.

The planning commission proposed that the city change the definition of ADU as follows:

Accessory dwelling unit means a separate dwelling unit integrated within or attached to a single-family dwelling or one located as a detached accessory structure located on the same lot as a single-family dwelling.

The proposed changes would require owner occupancy of one of the units but would not require annual certification. It would also require two off-street parking spaces instead of one as required under current code. It would also allow for shared utilities instead of requiring separate utilities for each unit. Designs should be consistent with the principle dwelling design and they cannot be rented for less than 30 days.

Building an ADU is a significant home improvement expense. Estimates of adding an attached ADU are $40,000 - $50,000 while building a detached ADU is estimated to cost $100,000 to $150,000.

After much discussion, council decided to table the decision. Concerns raised during council debate were that the proposed code amendment created new inconsistencies with other code provisions and those needed to be resolved before a code was modified. One of the primary concerns was what happens when the owner of the primary residence sells, moves or dies.

In other business council approved an expenditure not to exceed $131,108 for improvement of the SCADA – Supervisory Control and Data Acquisition System - for the Cashmere water system.

Council also had a brief discussion about Riverside Center. Mayor Jim Fletcher reported that a recent study indicated the city needed to find a way to raise $95,000 per year for use of the facility. As it is currently structured it is not sustainable and is a drain on city resources. Just to cover the costs of the center would require 50 events per year at a cost of $2,000 per event in order to just break even. No decisions were made.

Honoring a former Cashmere School District Educator

SUBMITTED BY KRISTIN UMBARGER-KEENE,

Music Specialist, Vale Elementary

Barbara deRubertis, our beloved Vale Elementary Librarian, respected colleague, and treasured friend, passed away on New Year's Day. We wanted to honor Barb, so the Cashmere High School Key Club, Vale Elementary PTO, and Vale staff and students have been working together to collect, sort, and ship books to create two libraries in communities in Malawi through the non-profit African Library Project (ALP). <https://www.africanlibraryproject.org/>

We collected over 2000 children's books, pre-school through 8th grade reading level, and the Wenatchee YWCA donated books to add more non-fiction, since we didn't have too many of those. The books have been sorted and each one labeled with a stamp showing the book was donated in Barb's honor. We are beginning to pack the books in sturdy boxes

Public Forum with Rep. Kim Schrier Focuses on Social Determinants of Health

By MARLENE FARRELL

On March 12th, US Representative Kim Schrier led a virtual public forum about social determinants of health. More than fifty community members tuned in and learned about the socioeconomic challenges that exist in the Upper Valley that can affect an individual's health and wellness. Also, attendees heard about the work being done to address these challenges.

Schrier moderated the discussion with panelists Diane Blake, CEO at Cascade Medical (CM), Flor Murguia-West, English language learning teacher at Cascade School District (CSD), and Bob Mark, Community Cupboard program manager at Upper Valley MEND.

Murguia-West shared insights about the disparities and issues she's seen for children of the school district. The district, which supports a population of about 1200 students, is 31% Latinx, and a third of those are English language learners. Forty-four percent of students are eligible for free and reduced meals.

The disparities are stark in terms of housing, which can range from multimillion-dollar homes to agricultural housing. Barriers to healthcare include lack of insurance, language barriers, transportation and scheduling challenges for appointments and lack of access to information.

"Navigating the healthcare system can be cumbersome and difficult," Murguia-West said. This can lead to hesitancy and distrust. "Some families will wait to receive healthcare services when they're back in Mexico on a visit."

Beyond healthcare, Murguia-West pointed out barriers to academic success include language, which makes it harder to tackle the content in a second language. Also, because of the geographic spread of the district, some families are further away from the hub in Leavenworth and thus isolated from extracurricular opportunities. These children often spend more time home alone than their peers who live within the Leavenworth city limits.

Diane Blake shared information about the hospital district, which has an almost identical footprint to that of the school district. She shared key data from a recent Community Health Needs Assessment, which occur every three years. The hospital district has an overall population of 10,000, and the two fastest growing segments are the 65 years old + category and Latinx residents, with projected percentages of the population to be 28% and 12% by 2024, respectively.

Blake echoed some of what Murguia-West said, sharing that close to half of the residents of the district are either in poverty or are the working poor, which means they are employed but living paycheck to paycheck.

CM has started to screen for social determinants of health for all patients, and one barrier that has become apparent is that 7% of patients do not have their own transportation. This is a big deal given that public transportation has limited reach in the district.

Bob Mark has worked for over a decade on issues related to food security and housing and sees them as closely connected to community health. At Upper Valley MEND they've worked hard to improve the healthy food options by expanding gleaning efforts. UV MEND coordinates with local farmers to have gleaned produce go to food banks all over the county. He spoke of the fact that a lot of seniors depend on the food bank.

Mark shared how UV MEND's emergency assistance program often helps individuals who have many intersecting needs, such as rent or utility assistance, transportation assistance and referrals for other needed services.

The discussion also covered the topic of the local "childcare desert." Blake mentioned the licensed childcare providers could only meet the needs of 10% of the children. This is contrasted with the fact that 78% of families have both or single parents working. This discussion expanded to the attendees, and it was voiced that most preschool teachers do not make a living wage and parents often volunteer to help keep childcare facilities open.

Schrier shared how some of the work in Congress is attempting to address these concerns. For instance, the recently passed American Rescue Plan Act includes a change in child tax credit that will help low income families.

During question and answer, when asked what Cascade Medical is doing on behalf of disparities, Blake mentioned the work toward greater dual language, including a key recent hire of a bilingual financial counselor. "We also want everyone to know that we provide free and sliding scale care," Blake emphasized.

The services provided by Lake Wenatchee Fire and Rescue in the Plain area were highlighted. Beyond their normal emergency response duties, they visit some residents regularly for paramedicine checkups. They deliver food boxes and help seniors with snow removal in the winter and assist with social service referral.

Schrier asked how Cascade Medical is doing as a small rural hospital. Blake explained that while CM's charity care is unfunded, the hospital can make margin elsewhere. As a public hospital, CM relies on community taxes. The community has shown support for the hospital continuously through levies.

As for the COVID-19 vaccine, Blake shared that the distribution plan has mostly focused on the mass vaccination sites, such as the one at the Town Toyota Center. She felt it important for critical access hospitals like CM to receive a supply of vaccines for people with transportation issues.

Murguia-West had a final comment, asking to make sure the voices of non-dominant families and individuals are included in future discussions and decision-making processes.

The public forum was a reminder that the work to dismantle barriers to community health is being done by many committed partners. Conversations like these enable better coordination as this collective work continues.

and will send them to the ALP site in Louisiana, where the boxes will be put into a container, shipped to Africa, and finally loaded onto a truck and delivered to their destinations: The Maphanda Community Library (in Maphanda Village, Jali, Zomba, Malawi), and the Mvera Youth and Development Solutions Community Library (in Mvera, Dowa, Malawi). The recipients have been approved and selected by ALP, and ALP will train the librarians and ensure the library is cared for and open regularly to the communities they serve. ALP has already created over 3000 such libraries in 12 countries in Africa, and we are happy to be part of opening two more.

Barbara deRubertis was a gifted author of 64 children's books, all of which are published by Kane Press. Barb's editor, Juliana Lauetta, and Kane Press have generously donated 350 (that's not a typo!) brand new copies of Barb's books to include with our shipments! What a gift!

We know Barb would be thrilled about this project, especially since she was always one to think of others near and far. Year after year, Barb taught Vale students about cultures and traditions around the world, and it is an honor to be part of this project and continue her tradition of exposing our students to another culture in this meaningful way. Another plus from this project is the pen pal part (Barb would love that alliteration!). 20 high school students in Mvera have already composed letters, which are being sent to Cashmere High School students who want a pen pal.

Senate majority proposes massive increase in spending while draining reserves

By Jason Mercier

The expectations were that the Senate majority's budget would be more fiscally conservative than the House version (set to be released later today). Let's hope that belief was wrong. The Senate majority proposes a massive 12% increase in spending that takes state appropriations to $59.2 billion (Funds Subject to Outlook) while draining total reserves to less than $1.1 billion (under 2% of spending). Total budgeted operating spending for 2021-23 under the proposal is projected to increase to $119.4 billion.

The Senate budget assumes passage of an income tax on capital gains (SB 5096), as well as economically troublesome proposals for Cap and Trade (SB 5126) and a Low Carbon Fuel Standard (HB 1091). The balance sheet does appear to have an $800 million cushion though until June 30, 2023 (last day of biennium). It isn't until that day than an $800 million appropriation would be made to pay down the unfunded liability in the Teachers Retirement System (TRS 1).

By waiting to make this pension payment until June 30, 2023, the Senate gains time to see if this spending will be allowed under the new federal COVID stimulus package and how the balance sheet looks at that time. Buried on page 579 of the new federal COVID stimulus law is this restriction: "No State or territory may use funds made available under this section for deposit into any pension fund."

Along with the $800 million pension payment, there were several other interesting budget provisos in the proposed 946-page Senate budget bill:

- Assuming passage of the income tax on capital gains, $6.7 million is provided to Department of Revenue (DOR) to implement the new income tax and $122,000 is provided to the Attorney General for legal costs relating to the tax.
- Sec. 302 (28) assumes passage of the Low Carbon Fuel Standard bill and makes related appropriations.
- There are several budget sections that assumes passage of the Cap and Trade bill and makes appropriations for the implementation.
- Sec. 965 creates reporting requirements for the Governor if spending unanticipated federal funds exceeding $5 million. This is in response to the Governor not calling a special session last year when spending billions in federal COVID funds.

- Sec. 137 (2) provides just over $2 million to DOR "to enable the tax structure work group to complete its duties and activities during the 2021-2023 fiscal biennium."
- Sec. 607 (15) provides $85k "to gauge the prospects for a collaborative approach to integration of leadership, aligning roles and responsibilities, and increasing efficiency and responsiveness of the state's K-12 education governance structure."
- Sec. 205 (9) is a $77k study on "feasibility of implementing a universal basic income pilot program."
- Sec. 607 (8) has $500k "for Washington State University's energy program to launch a least-conflict priority solar siting pilot project in the Columbia basin of eastern and central Washington."
- Sec. 309 (2) has $576k "for the Puget Sound partnership to develop and implement an action plan that advances diversity, equity, and inclusion and environmental justice in Puget Sound recovery efforts."

- Sec. 308 (10) provides $940k "to survey the diets of seals and sea lions in Puget Sound and identify non-lethal management actions to deter them from preying on salmon and steelhead."
- Sec. 308 (5) says Fish and Wildlife "must provide focus on minimizing wolf-livestock issues in the Kettle range. The department may not use firearms from helicopters for removing wolves."
- Sec. 129 (41) shows earmarks are alive and well in the state budget. How many entities across this state are eligible to apply for this $1 million Commerce childcare contract? "The nonprofit organization must be a Bellingham, Washington-based nonprofit community action agency with fifty years of experience..."
- Sec. 119 provides the Lt. Governor $300k "to conduct a business competitiveness analysis of the state's economy."

The Senate proposes a 12% increase in spending (not counting the federal COVID funds) while draining reserves to less than 2%. The budget assumes adoption of a constitutionally suspect income tax on capital gains and the expensive environmental Cap and Trade and Low Carbon Fuel Standard bills. By increasing spending this high and leaving such low reserves, while at the same time enacting these economically controversial tax and climate policies, the Senate is making a big bet that employers and individuals can absorb the shock of these proposals without harming the state's economic recovery.

How Candy Can Kill Your Pet

Easter is the holiday most associated with candy. According to the National Confectioner's Association, Americans purchase more candy at Easter than at any other holiday, surpassing even Halloween and Valentine's Day.

Over 75% of Americans make an Easter basket each year. Bunnies made out of chocolate are the most popular Easter candy. In 2018, Americans spent $935 million on chocolate, purchasing over 100 million chocolate bunnies.

It's traditional to hide colored eggs and chocolates in preparation for a Sunday morning Easter Egg Hunt. While toddlers wander about in the spring sunshine, their older siblings and cousins dash past them. Their goal? Finding brightly colored eggs lurking under bushes, hidden along hedges, tucked into tufts of grass, and nestled behind flower pots.

Easter Egg hunts are fun for little ones and entertaining for older adults. Unfortunately, the chocolate bunnies and other treats nestled in Easter baskets can be dangerous to our pets. Chocolate smells wonderful to dogs. They seek it out and eat it with enthusiasm.

Cats rarely eat enough chocolate to cause them harm. In contrast, most dogs will eat any chocolate that they can smell and find, even entire bags of candy containing chocolate. For small dogs, this can be enough to cause poisoning and death.

Why is chocolate so dangerous to our pets?

One of the compounds found naturally in chocolate is theobromine. Theobromine is closely related to caffeine. If enough of it were concentrated in a capsule or tablet, it would have a similar effect, increasing your energy level and mental focus.

Theobromine is found in all parts of the cacao bean. The hard outer cacao shells, which are removed during processing, and the delicious inner beans used to make Hershey's kisses, Dove's bars and chocolate bunnies all contain theobromine.

The danger to animals wasn't realized until someone started recycling the discarded cacao beans' shells by adding them to animal feed. Suddenly, baby ducks, chicks, baby goats, and young calves were dying, all with similar symptoms: vomiting, diarrhea, confusion, and seizures, followed by collapse and death. These tragic deaths were eventually traced to animal feeds that contained recycled cacao shells.

How much chocolate is dangerous to your pet? The smaller your dog is, the less it takes for them to be poisoned. The more concentrated the chocolate, the more theobromine it will contain and the more danger your pet will be in.

In general, the darker the chocolate, the more poisonous it is to a pet. A small, 6-ounce bag of semi-sweet chocolate chips has enough theobromine to kill an 18-pound dog. Baking chocolate squares are particularly dark and potent, with 2 squares enough to make a 50-lb dog sick or kill a 20-lb dog.

Puppies and elderly dogs seem to be more affected by theobromine, so it takes even less chocolate for them to be poisoned.

If chocolate is so dangerous to our pets, could toddlers and small children be at risk, too? Thankfully, NO, because our human bodies are very good at detoxifying theobromine. Humans and animals have particular proteins called enzymes which are designed to break down and detoxify compounds like theobromine. In humans, these special enzymes work twice as fast as the ones in dogs, cats, and other animals.

Despite christening chocolate-rich cake and dessert recipes Death by Chocolate, it's pretty much impossible for humans, no matter how small, to die from eating chocolate.

5 Tips on How to Protect Your Pet from Poisoning from Candy

1. The darker the chocolate is, the more dangerous it is.

Be especially vigilant about keeping dark chocolate and semi-sweet chocolate chips out of reach. One small 8-ounce bag of Toll-House chocolate chips is a FATAL dose for a 20-lb dog.

2. Size matters:

How much chocolate it takes to poison a dog depends on their size, with small dogs especially at risk. What a black lab can get away with ingesting can be fatal to a Yorkie or Shih Tzu.

3. Avoid repeat

4. White chocolate is nearly as dangerous.
 Multiple incidents of eating chocolate close together are dangerous even to big dogs because they detoxify chocolate a little at a time. Another ingestion within 24 hours can turn a harmless incident into a painful death.

5. Find out more.

Skunked

By JOHN KRUSE

You are never too old to eat a slice of humble pie, that's for sure. My problem is, when it comes to recent fishing expeditions, I've been on a steady diet of this less than delicious dessert.

If you would have asked me last October what I thought of myself as a fisherman, I would have shared so many stories you would think me a braggart. Truth be told, it was one of the best fishing years of my life when it came to catching trout, walleye and bass. I got skunked once last year while my best friend, Rusty Johnston, cleaned up on bass at our favorite lake. However, I was usually the one that ended up with the biggest bass or walleye on our combined outings and caught more fish too. Trust me, in the 40+ years we've fished together, that hasn't happened too often. Rusty's "a pretty good stick", as anglers like to say when they are describing those who have the ability to reel in good numbers of fish no matter what the conditions.

In addition to those outings with my friend, Rusty, I went on a number of solo trout trips not only in Washington, but also in Montana and Wyoming and every one of them was successful when it came to catching trout. Mind you, it helps when you are fishing rivers that literally have more than a 1,000 fish per square mile but to the casual observer of my Facebook page, I was looking like "a pretty good stick" too.

Then came 2021 and the appearance of a skunk whose persistent stink stays with me. I caught fish the first time out with Rusty this year going after carp but on the five trips I've taken since then with Rusty, my daughter, Faith or by myself? Not a fish to be found... At least, not by this angler.

Humans are great when it comes to self-deception and I'm just as fallible as anyone. The first time out I blamed the weather, which was valid, since the winds were gusting to 40 MPH. The second time? I blamed an approaching cold front which must have put off the bite for my daughter and I going after trout at the Quincy Lakes. The other three trips though? That's where doubt crept in to take up residence with that stinky skunk. You see, the next two trips were with my friend, Rusty. And each and every time while I failed to catch a single fish, Rusty was catching them. Trout, bass, he caught them both and handily too. It would be fair to say my friend Rusty had found his mojo...and I had lost mine.

In desperation, I loaded my kayak into the back of the truck for a fifth trip. This time I headed to the north end of Potholes Reservoir and fished flooded areas close to shore that are normally magnets for bass this time of year. I cast a variety of offerings into the water for four hours but after all that I turned around to see that pesky skunk in the back of the boat, just sitting there staring at me.

At this point I had a couple of ways to deal with this situation. My initial game plans of curling up into a ball or pouting like a petulant child didn't hold much appeal for me. Instead, I focused on other things. Number one, I was out in nature and it was a beautiful day. Second, the bird life was abundant. Ducks, geese, hawks, and several bald eagles were seen and heard on this trip and many of the other ones too. Good company? I had that too on several of these trips and going fishing with friends or family is certainly an event to be treasured no matter the end result.

Finally, being a duck hunter, I couldn't help but notice a couple of mallard decoys that were washed up amongst a wave of broken willow limbs floating near shore. They were in good shape and still had both their cords and their weights. Some duck hunter had probably lost them in high winds this past season but that hunter's loss was my gain as I hauled in the hen and drake decoys. Suddenly, I felt empowered. I had caught something after all. It wasn't the fish I was after, but it was something I could use. It was enough for me to shoo that skunk out of the back of my kayak. He had to move anyway because that's where I tossed the decoys.

Here's hoping your next fishing trip brings you many fish but on the off chance you do get skunked, remember the real reasons you are out there and see if you can find something else of value to reel in.

The Cashmere High School cross country teams competed in the North Central Region 2A/1A Championship Meet on Thursday March 25th. Cashmere runners raced athletes from Cascade, Chelan, Omak, Quincy, Royal City, Waukluke and Ephrata. It was a good meet for the Bulldogs with a lot of personal record times for 5 kilometers and many season best times. Weather conditions were good for the meet. The PUD was testing its irrigation lines before the race and found a break in a line that happened to put a lot of water on one part of the course.

Boys Results - 91 runners competed in the boys race. The boys raced first as has been usual this season. Senior Rob McManus won his fourth race of the season in his best time of the season, 15:53.6. The time is the fastest that Rob has ever run on the Walla Walla Point Park racing course. Thirteen other boys ran season best times. Seven of those boys ran personal record times for the 5K distance.

Girls Results - 41 girl runners completed the race. Five of the runners were from Cashmere.

12th District Reps. Goehner, Steele hold town hall

By GARY BÉGIN

Managing Editor, NCW Media

OLYMPIA – State District 12 representatives Michael Steele (R-Chelan) and Keith Goehner (R-Dryden) held a virtual joint town hall meeting Tuesday, March 23. The two were asked questions from both pre-submitted (online) and phone-in community members during the one hour plus session, hosted by a House Republicans spokesman.

Steele, in his third term in Olympia, cited the fact that rural citizens must travel further to obtain basic goods, in his response to a question about the program that was initiated last summer, which might charge a road usage fee per mile.

He stated he was part of the pilot project and noted that “it takes me 45 minutes just to drive from my home to Costco.”

He went on to say that the state “must find other ways to raise revenues” other than relying on increasing the gas tax. “Shifting to alternative fuels” might be one way to level the driving playing field across the state, according to Steele.

One caller questioned the state voting tabulation system and said he has lost trust in the status quo because he felt many non-citizens were allowed to vote and to serve jury duty, all because they were registered as voters while getting drivers licenses.

Steele stated, “voting had always been an important part of his life ever since he would accompany his parents to go and vote as a youngster.”

He advocated for enforcement of identification practices to stop non-citizens from serving on juries as well as voting. “There should be a higher bar” that voters must reach to be allowed to vote, Steele said. “Voting is a fundamental reality of being a citizen,” he concluded.

Goehner and Steele both said they were happy that Secretary of State Kim Wyman could be trusted to run elections fairly and be on guard for voting anomalies.

Phyllis from Manson questioned the two, both growers, as to what can be done to help small farmers to compete with massive corporate farms in the light of more property and employment taxes. Steele said “Property owners were hardest hit,” by the pandemic.

“Property taxes were just one way of shifting burden from one group to another,” said Goehner, who noted that “in the last nine years, the cost of running state government has gone up 80 percent.”

Steele said the passage of the payroll tax, HB1087 should have undergone a logistics analysis before the law passed.

Steele also said there was a reason for separation of powers in a democracy and part of that was for him and others elected by their constituency to do what he was elected to do.

Having the governor enact executive decisions showed a “lack of collaboration” and led to frustration among legislators, according to both men.

Goehner said the emergency powers vested in the executive of the state were meant for unforeseen emergencies and not for “sustained emergencies” such as the COVID-19 pandemic, which crippled economies statewide.

“More heads are better than one,” Steele said. Goehner agreed stating, “A broader base of input was needed for statewide declarations.”

On a more positive note, both men agreed that state forestry management was vital to lowering the dangers of reoccurring massive wildfires.

“It’s important that we recognize the role forest management plays” in regards to habitat, clean air, clean water and the reduction of fire particulates into the air, Goehner said.

Steele said it was a good thing that State Director of Public Lands Hilary Franz was able to help steer HB1168 through acceptance in the House as it will “help reduce greenhouse” production.

Although Franz is a Democrat, she holds one of the few statewide posts that attract bipartisan agreement from both sides of the mountains.

Regarding HB1054, Goehner and Steele voted against attempts by the Democratic majority to reduce law enforcement’s ability to fight crime, but to no avail.

“There is already so much liability involved,” said Goehner about fighting crime. “We must ensure tactics, equipment” and hiring and training of officers does not hamper police departments.

Steele said the state “should not reduce resources” when it comes to law enforcement.

The Growth Management Act (GMA) also came up during questioning, but Goehner noted “a lot can be done without being mandated” by Olympia.

Steele, who spent years on the Chelan City Council agreed.

“There should be balance in the GMA,” not just in regards to the environment,” he said. Steele said more government regulation wasn’t the answer.

SEPA and NEPA rules also play a part in regulations besides the 30-year-old GMA, according to both men.

“The State Environmental Policy Act (SEPA) process identifies and analyzes environmental impacts associated with governmental decisions. These decisions may be related to issuing permits for private projects, constructing public facilities, or adopting regulations, policies, and plans.”

The SEPA review process helps agency decision-makers, applicants, and the public understand how the entire proposal will affect the environment. SEPA can be used to modify or deny a proposal to avoid, reduce, or compensate for probable impacts,” according to the SEPA website.

NEPA, or National Environment Policy Act, enacted in 1970, mandates governments “to use all practicable means and measures, including financial and technical assistance, in a manner calculated to foster and promote the general welfare, to create and maintain conditions under which man and nature can exist in productive harmony, and fulfill the social, economic, and other requirements of present and future generations of Americans.”

Cashmere Museum hires new director

The Board of the Cashmere Museum is thrilled to welcome Cashmere native Nicky Crossland Clennon as the new Director of the Museum. Nicky’s background in archaeology and extensive experience in lithics, fieldwork, and community engagement made her the best candidate for the position. Particularly poignant is that Nicky notes her interest in archaeology began at a young age when she visited the Museum, especially the Congdon Collection. Nicky will replace Lexie Palmer-Gapper, who is stepping down as Director after four years, and will be relocating to New Zealand with her husband. Lexie is excited to see how the Museum will thrive under Nicky’s leadership. Please welcome Nicky if you see her around town and when the Museum re-opens for the season after June 1.

The Cashmere Museum and Pioneer Village will be re-opening for the 2021 season after June 1, 2021. Normally, the Museum would re-open at the end of March, and we anticipate that will be the case for 2022. This year, however, due to COVID restrictions, staff changes, and new leadership, the Board of the Museum and new Director, Nicky Clennon, have decided to re-open after June 1.

Bold new film presents a look back on abortion

By BILL FORHAN

Nick Loeb and Cathy Allyn have produced and directed a new film to be released on Friday, April 2, about how the public and Supreme Court were manipulated to pass the historic bill that legalized abortion on demand.

It is a highly controversial film with a cast of notable actors including Corbin Bernsen, Jon Voight, Stacey Dash and John Schneider. The film tells the story about how activists manipulated the courts and public opinion to legalize abortion. It originally premiered at the Vienna Independent Film Festival where Voight won an award for best supporting actor.

The film is an excellent portrayal of the way the proponents of abortion made their case. Building public support by twisting the challenges of Christians and those on the right who opposed it. Since its legalization more than 60 million unborn children have been killed through abortion in the U.S.

While abortion was originally promoted as only to be permitted during the first trimester, it has since advanced to the point where many abortion rights activists approve of infanticide.

It will come as no surprise that the movie is highly criticized by the left with little more than personal attacks on the ineptitude of the producers and the laundry list of actors who refused the part after reading the script. Facebook has refused to run advertising for the movie.

Having personally screened the movie I can say it is well done and a compelling story not just about abortion, but about the state of our regulatory process and judicial ineptitude today.

None of our local theaters are planning on screening the movie. You can view the trailer for the movie on our website. Producer Nick Loeb tells me the movie will be available through PVD (Premier Video On Demand), Amazon, iTunes, Google play and On Demand. It is now available for pre-order on iTunes, <https://itunes.apple.com/us/movie/roe-v-wade/id1559069549?ls=1>

‘Tax day’ now May 17: Treasury, IRS extend filing, payment deadline

SUBMITTED BY THE IRS

WASHINGTON — The Treasury Department and Internal Revenue Service announced last week that the federal income tax filing due date for individuals for the 2020 tax year will be automatically extended from April 15 to May 17. The IRS will be providing formal guidance in the coming days.

“This continues to be a tough time for many people, and the IRS wants to continue to do everything possible to help taxpayers navigate the unusual circumstances related to the pandemic, while also working on important tax administration responsibilities,” said IRS Commissioner Chuck Rettig.

“Even with the new deadline, we urge taxpayers to consider filing as soon as possible, especially those who are owed refunds. Filing electronically with direct deposit is the quickest way to get refunds, and it can help some taxpayers more quickly receive any remaining stimulus payments they may be entitled to.”

Individual taxpayers can also postpone federal income tax payments for the 2020 tax year due on April 15, 2021, to May 17, 2021, without penalties and interest, regardless of the amount owed.

This postponement applies to individual taxpayers, including individuals who pay self-employment tax. Penalties, interest and additions to tax will begin to accrue on any remaining unpaid balances as of May 17. Individual taxpayers will automatically avoid interest and penalties on the taxes paid by May 17.

Individual taxpayers do not need to file any forms or call the IRS to qualify for this automatic federal tax filing and payment relief. Individual taxpayers who need additional time to file beyond the May 17 deadline can request a filing extension until Oct. 15 by filing Form 4868 through their tax professional, tax software or using the Free File link on IRS.gov. Filing Form 4868 gives taxpayers until Oct. 15 to file their 2020 tax return but does not grant an extension of time to pay taxes due. Taxpayers should pay their federal income tax due by May 17, to avoid interest and penalties.

The IRS urges taxpayers who are due a refund to file as soon as possible. Most tax refunds associated with e-filed returns are issued within 21 days.

This relief does not apply to estimated tax payments that are due on April 15. These payments are still due on April 15. Taxes must be paid as taxpayers earn or receive income during the year, either through withholding or estimated tax payments.

In general, estimated tax payments are made quarterly to the IRS by people whose income isn’t subject to income tax withholding, including self-employment income, interest, dividends, alimony or rental income. Most taxpayers automatically have their taxes withheld from their paychecks and submitted to the IRS by their employer.

When they walk away

I believe one of the hardest things to deal with as a parent is to have a child abandon their faith as an adult. Hearing them say they don't believe in Christ anymore is hard to accept given all the memories of them excited about Jesus, memorizing Bible verses, and attending youth camps throughout their adolescence. When a child walks away, all you are left with is "Why?" or "What did I do wrong?"
The number of adults who grew up in a Christian home, suddenly "deconstructing" their faith is troubling. On one hand, we want people to really own and understand their faith, so breaking down the reasons for belief and weighing Christianity's truth claims is a healthy thing. However, most who deconstruct their Christianity and eventually abandon their Christian profession, reveal that they knew very little of the faith that they once held to. At best, their Christianity was merely a folk religion and certainly not robust to answer life's biggest questions regarding eternity, suffering, and ethics. Not to say that the process of abandoning once-held beliefs isn't painful. I have heard the stories of many people who have left Christianity, agonizing for many years till they reached their decision to walk away and for some, they still carry the shadow of their abandoned faith in the way they speak and conduct their life.

Now the aim of this piece is not to discuss the psychology of an apostate—those who walk away from Christ. It can easily be said, from a theological and Biblical perspective, that those who leave Christianity, never knew Jesus or understood the gospel in its fullness (1 Jn 2:19). Rather I want to speak to the parents, who are looking at their children and wondering if they were responsible for their children falling away.
Maybe you were partly responsible.
Maybe your children saw gross inconsistencies in your life that undermined the Biblical worldview you espoused.
Maybe you shouldn't have sent your children to public school and have them sit for hours on end, indoctrinated in an anti-Christian worldview.

The list could go on and on but the point is, the one who has the clearest perspective regarding your children's salvation is God. So, instead of deconstructing your children's deconstruction, focus on what you can do today.
For starters, give your children the gospel. At every opportunity, remind them of the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ and have that message infused in every conversation. If they ask you for advice, apply Biblical wisdom to their situation and demonstrate in a real tangible way, that God's Word is sufficient. If that makes you reticent or anxious, concerned that you will push your children farther away, let me be clear: They are already as far away from God as they could be. God in his providence, has given you this opportunity to minister to your children, loving them with the gospel and pointing them to Christ, so make every opportunity with them count.

Secondly, pray for your children continually. When you are alone, intercede for them, praying that God will bless and protect. Moreover, be open in saying that you will pray for them for whatever they need, salvation, yes, but even in the little things that can happen in their life. Make it abundantly clear that you are there for them, praying for their good. After all, even the most hardened sinner, appreciates and values a mother who prays for them. Furthermore, lift up your prayers for them while they are present. It was said that John G. Paton, who ministered among the Cannibals in the South Pacific, recounts that it was hearing his father's prayers for his children's salvation and for that of the whole world that led to John's conversion and sustained him in the most difficult of situations. Do your children know that you weep for them in prayer? Do they see your burdened heart? Show them and may God use your tears to melt their cold hearts unto Christ.

Seeing your children walk away from Christ is a pain like no other. However, parents, we never give up on our children. As long as they have life and breath in their lungs, they are not beyond the scope of redemption. Love your children unto the Lord, give them the gospel, pray fervently and trust in God's goodness and sovereignty regarding your children.
