City approves additional funding for Corona Virus relief

By KIRK BECKENDORF
Cashmere reporter

Chelan County Chief of Special Operations, Jason Reinfeld, with the Chelan County Sheriff's Office, updated the Cashmere City Council about efforts to address speeding in the city. He told the Council that officers use their discretionary time for speed enforcement. According to Reinfeld, the department is aware that speeding on Olive Street is an issue and they are using officers and a radar trailer to address the problem. He said the Sheriff's Office used to have more funding to focus on speed enforcement but that that money is no longer available.

The Council unanimously passed amendments to accept an additional $46,500 from the Coronavirus Relief Funds for Local Governments grant and to amend the agreement with the Port Authority to administer that funding. Mayor Jim Fletcher reminded the Council that the use of the funds is strictly regulated and is available for small business grants. He added that the funds must be spent by the end of November. Council member Daniel Scott asked if funds can be given to the food bank, museum or school district. Fletcher said that nonprofits are not eligible for the grant funds. However, he said that food distribution and expenses for distant learning is allowed, and that he would check on options for providing funds through the food bank, and funding options to support the school.

The Council approved an amendment to the budget, to replace and upgrade wastewater pumps at the city and museum lift stations. Director of Operations, Steve Croci, said the wastewater pump at the city lift station has failed, the new pump will cost $41,759. One of the 2 pumps at the museum lift station has also failed but he recommended replacing both pumps with upgraded models, which will cost approximately $30,000. Council member Dave Erickson asked Croci if it would be feasible to buy one pump now and another in a few years. Croci replied that that is an option but that he recommends fixing the problem now with new upgraded pumps. He said this would reduce safety issues and maintenance costs. Scott asked Croci to check and see if any rebates for the upgraded pumps would be available through the PUD.

Fletcher told the Council that he had received a letter about refinancing the wastewater treatment facility. By refinancing, the city could potentially save $1.85 million in interest over 35 years. He said refinancing would require a new delegation bond ordinance and he would begin working on the process and would report back to the Council about different options for new bonds. Scott told Fletcher he would like to see different scenarios such as; the length of financing and public vs a USDA bond issue.

Kirk Esmond, Chair of the City Planning Commission (CPC), provided the Council with updates of the Commission's discussions regarding changes to the city's codes for Accessory Dwelling Units (ADU), short term rentals (STR) and to allow chickens on lots smaller than 1 acre.

The proposed draft definition of ADUs is "Accessory dwelling unit" means a separate dwelling unit integrated within or attached to a single-family dwelling, or one located as a detached accessory structure located on the same lot as a single-family dwelling." Esmond told the Council that the CPC wanted the Council's input on having both an application and annual fee for ADUs. A significant amount of discussion followed that focused on how the ADU code changes could impact potential parking issues, the need for a noncompliance penalty and the city's role in restricting what individuals can do with their own property. Fletcher reminded the Council of public opinions to protect qualities as a small city are very important. He said that "Changes to land use regulations need to consider the effects on our community qualities." Croci said he would take these topics back to the CPC to consider.

Esmond and Croci told the Council that the CPC had been evaluating the County's moratorium on STR and that Cashmere currently does not have any codes that regulate them. Croci said one approach would be to add some code that would only allow STRs in locations where the city allows hotels, he said this would prevent STR rentals from taking over entire neighborhoods, like has happened around Leavenworth and Manson. Scott said he liked this approach and that he would also include, an owner must live on the property. Council member, Jayne Stephenson, said that she understands the concerns but she doesn't like the city telling her what she can do with her own property.

Previously a Cashmere resident asked the Council to consider revising the city code to allow chickens on lots smaller than 1 acre. The Council referred the issue to the CPC to study. Esmond said they had discussed benefits and drawbacks and were seeking input from city residents. Scott asked where do we draw the limit, what if a resident asks to have sheep, or horses or other animals.

In Progress Reports to the Council Fletcher said that the General Fund is in pretty good shape, although revenue in sales taxes have declined, so has the costs associated with opening the pool. He also said that Binder Road is closed due a sink hole that has formed.

As part of an upgrade to crosswalks, Croci said he is considering eliminating the crosswalk on Pioneer at School Lane rather than improving it. Instead he said he would like to put the resources into areas where more people cross the street. The Council agreed and member Chris Carlson said it is a blind corner and it is sketchy to try and cross there anyway. Croci said the project is grant funded and he will need to get permission from the grantor to make the change in the project.

Leavenworth Youth Rise Up

Young people from Leavenworth are taking action and making their voices heard in an unprecedented movement of youth engagement in North Central Washington. Leavenworth young people are leading the way by organizing protests like the Climate March on September 25, organizing youth-run candidate forums, and organizing for regional political campaigns.

Aidan Ringel, one of the organizers for the September 25 Climate March, explained why the rise in youth political participation is important. "Young people are the future and it's important for us to get our voice out there because politics is overwhelmingly older people and that isn't sustainable," he said.

Ringel first got involved in activism while participating in climate change protests during his exchange year in Germany, and he has tried to carry that enthusiasm back to Leavenworth. Now Ringel is part of the Sustainability Club at Cascade High school and is a Youth Organizer for the Future of the 12th, a group of young people who are organizing for Adrienne Moore's campaign for State Representative in the 12th District.

The Future of the 12th group of Youth Organizers has over forty active members from around the 12th District, spanning everywhere from Winthrop to Manson. Some organizers, like 14 year old Isabel Menna, will not yet be old enough to vote in November. Others, such Enjoy the fresh fall air and add this social distancing activity to your calendar. Each year over 100 scarecrows are displayed, enlivening the Downtown area and drawing visitors from around the region to take a stroll through town capturing photos, discovering the Cashmere community and enjoying the scenery as creations are on display. This year the town is back at it for the 8th Annual Scarecrow tour known as Scare~Crazy in Cashmere!

October 1st, self-guided scarecrow maps are available at the chamber office at 103 Cottage Avenue and participating businesses. As we social distance, a no contact map is available - QR Code sticker displays will be available to scan. As a reminder, mask up when entering stores or when not 6 ft. apart from others.

Enter the Grand Prize Giveaway by completing the map tour. Select scarecrows will be assigned a scarecrow badge, locate and record on your map. Turn in completed forms by October 31st. The Grand Prize Giveaway is comprised of items donated by participating businesses and will be on display at the Chamber. Winner will be randomly selected on November 2nd.

Scarecrows will be judged at an undisclosed date and time with awards given for the Grand Champion, Most Creative, Best Ensemble and Best Business Theme. Fans can participate by nominating a People's Choice award by viewing the "Scare~Crazy in Cashmere" Facebook page and voting for their favorite.

Winners will be announced on November 2nd via Facebook.

Bring the family and spend the day in Cashmere enjoying the creativities of our locals as scarecrows fill our sidewalks, storefronts and neighborhoods. The ambience will leave you sharing with your friends that Cashmere has gone Scare~Crazy!

Educate yourself on these terms when your doctor talks to you about breast cancer

Adjuvant therapy: Treatment such as chemotherapy, hormonal therapy, or radiation used following surgery to cure, reduce, or control cancer.

Aspiration: The use of a hollow needle and syringe to suction out fluid or cells from a cyst or tumor.

Atypical lobular hyperplasia: Abnormally shaped cells multiplying excessively in the normal tissue of a breast lobule.

Axillary: In the armpit.

Benign: Not cancerous.

Biopsy: Tissue or cells removed from the body and examined microscopically to determine whether cancer is present.

Calcifications: Small calcium deposits in breast tissue that can be seen by mammography.

Carcinoma: Cancer that arises from epithelial tissue (tissue that lines a cavity or surface); occurs often in the breast.

Chemo-prevention: The use of drugs or chemicals to prevent cancer.

Chemotherapy: Treatment of cancer with powerful drugs that destroy cancer cells.

Core needle biopsy: Use of a hollow needle to extract a sample of a lump or other suspicious tissue for examination.

Cyst: A lump or swelling filled with fluid or semifluid material.

Duct: A channel in the breast that carries milk from the lobule to the nipple during lactation.

Estrogen: A female sex hormone produced chiefly by the ovaries.

Estrogen receptor: A site on the surface of some cells to which estrogen molecules attach.

False negative: Test results that incorrectly indicate that the tested disease or substance is not present.

Fibroadenoma: A benign, fibrous tumor commonly found in the breast.

Free radicals: Toxic atoms produced by chemical reactions within a cell.

Hematoma: A swelling formed of blood. Infrequently occurs at the site of surgery, such as in a biopsy cavity after a lumpectomy.

Hyperplasia: Excessive cell growth.

Infiltrating cancer: A cancer that has spread from its site of origin into surrounding tissue.

In situ: Latin for "in place." As part of the term "ductal carcinoma in situ," it means that cancer cells exist and are still contained within the ducts of the milk-producing gland.

Lobules: Milk-producing glands of the breast.

Lymphedema: An accumulation of lymph fluid in the arm, hand, or breast that may develop when lymphatic vessels or nodes have been removed or blocked by surgery, or after radiation therapy. It can appear immediately after treatment or many years later.

Lymph nodes: Small, bean-shaped organs linked by lymphatic vessels. As part of the immune system, they filter out germs and foreign matter. Also called lymph glands.

Malignant: Cancerous.

Metastasis: The spread of cancer cells from the site of origin to another part of the body.

Metastases: Secondary cancers that form after cancer cells spread to other parts of the body.

Neoadjuvant therapy: Therapy with anticancer drugs or radiation given before surgery in order to shrink a tumor.

Palpable: Able to be felt.

Progesterone: A hormone produced by the ovaries and adrenal glands; essential for healthy functioning of the female reproductive system.

Radiation therapy: The use of x-rays at very high doses to treat or control disease.

Seroma: An accumulation of lymphatic fluid under an incision. Content provided by MammoSite Breast Cancer Information. www.mammosite.com

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Pink Ribbons, Pink Shirts, walks, runs, fundraisers, and now in 2020 because of the COVID-19 we have virtual auctions, benefits, and other events that we hope will help raise more AWARENESS and money in our communities.

What is so special about this month of October?

It is like other months that bring awareness of a special need and every disease or affliction now has a colored ribbon to commemorate their cause, whether it is Heart Month, Diabetes Month, Alzheimer's Month, and so on. October 1-31 is a campaign month intended to educate people about the importance of Early screening and Detection of Breast Cancer. But this month is personal for me. It was my personal fight with breast cancer at a young age that had no actual known cause. At the age of 43 I had my first mammogram, and I had just learned how to do breast self-exam by watching a TV program on self-exam. I had a close friend at the age of 39 years old diagnosed with breast cancer and she encouraged me to get a mammogram after I felt a lump in my armpit. I am so thankful for her encouragement because I felt she saved my life, as I was then diagnosed with Stage 2B-breast cancer with all of my lymph nodes involved on the same side.

Breast cancer effects 1 in 8 women who will get diagnosed with cancer in her lifetime, but some men actually can get breast cancer too. Many years of research has been done on this disease, and breast cancer comes in many forms and stages. We know about the BRAC genes, but not all breast cancer is inherited and HER-2. Great strides have been made in research to find the cause and medicines and therapies are developed to kill the cancer cells. Some treatments can make one lose a breast(s), hair, self-esteem and dignity, and unfortunately some die.

We can replace a breast with a prosthesis or with reconstructive surgery or do nothing, our hair will grow back as well as our self-esteem and dignity. Many women work through the process day by day, whether at a job or career and/or keeping up a home, children, spouse, daily chores and just day to day living.

Many kinds of friendships develop, help and encouragement from another survivor, and support groups may become a part of your life for now, (if you choose too.) We move on, some tell others of their survivorship some tell no one. When we do the survivors' page, in our NCW Media newspapers the first week of October, we are happy to show our smiling faces that we are surviving and thriving. If you know of someone that didn't tell then that is a personal choice and is respected.

Thirty years ago in October while living in Montana, as I mentioned before, I was diagnosed with breast cancer, with no known family history. I survived the treatments of surgery, Chemo and other drugs and therapies. I joined a support group, and called on a Reach to Recovery support person at the American Cancer Society, all while I still worked at 2 jobs, and cared for my family, and my family and friends cared for me. Support is very important to recovery.

I recovered through a long process because of the best treatments available at the time and most of all my Faith. I promised God if I get through this I will always continue to be his servant. I became involved in research, funding, and education. After my final treatment, I started a women's support group and I became an ACS Reach to Recovery volunteer helping the newly diagnosed and her family understand what they will be going through. I continued to be an advocate for all women to get free education, and low-cost and free mammograms for the under-served. I became an advocate and president of a California organization associated with the Y-ME National Breast Cancer Organization headquartered in Chicago, now called * Breast Cancer Network of Strength - a 24-hour breast cancer hotline, 1-800-222-2141 and Networkofstrength.org, they have help in all languages.

Breast Cancer was my #1 fighting cause and it still is. I just wanted to give back and help someone else through the process.

Though it is scary, Cancer does not have to be a death sentence, and cancer is not a one person disease, it affects the whole family.

A few things that are very important to remember and you will be reminded especially in October Awareness Month. Get a mammogram. Know your family history, if a relative like, mom, grandmother, aunt have or had breast cancer, wishes to all of our Survivors. Sad remembrances of those who have passed away either from the cancer or other causes throughout these twenty years.

Q: I'm starting radiation soon for breast cancer. How can I help keep the treatments from burning my skin?

During radiation treatments for cancer, nearly 8 out of 10 people will develop some form of skin irritation, called "radiation dermatitis". Radiation often creates redness and warmth to the area, much like having a mild rash. Skin may also become more sensitive to touch and feel "tight." As radiation treatments continue, skin will often feel "dried out", start itching, and can eventually peel off to expose raw, red patches that ooze a clear fluid.

Your skin is more likely to become irritated by radiation if you have another skin surface rubbing up against the skin being treated, like under large breasts or your armpits.

People who smoke, are diabetic, or who had a previous surgical procedure in the treated area are more likely to develop radiation dermatitis.

Post-radiation skin irritation tends to peak about a week after treatment. To reduce your risk of radiation dermatitis, treat your skin gently. Avoid rubbing or scratching the area being radiated. Drinking plenty of water and applying moisturizing cream to the area faithfully can help keep your skin from peeling.

It's okay to wash with soap. Washing your skin gently with mild soap and water has been shown to cause less skin reaction than just rinsing with water. Most patients starting radiation treatment are advised to use a "mild, non-alkaline soap, preferably unscented."

Unfortunately, there isn't much agreement about which soaps are best and no clear evidence that any specific soap is superior. Mild soaps like Dove®, Ivory®, or Neutrogena® are considered safe to use, while most experts agree that highly scented soaps such as Coast® and Irish Spring® should be avoided when undergoing radiation treatment.

You can safely wear deodorant or antiperspirant during treatment unless the skin of your armpit develops a cut, scratch, or blister.

Applying a moisturizer after radiation sessions is one of the best ways to protect your skin from dryness, irritation, and skin breakdown.

Your skin consists of a series of layers of flattened cells that form a flexible, self-renewing barrier that protects your body against exposure to infection and toxins. Deep in your skin, your cells start out nice and plump, then gradually dry out, creating thin, overlapping layers that are water-resistant. As the top layer rubs or flakes off, it exposes the next layer down, continuing the cycle.

Ceramide molecules support the barrier function of healthy skin. A lower level of ceramide is found in dry, damaged skin than in healthy skin. Applying ceramide-rich creams can help heal skin damage. Lotions and creams containing these vitally important compounds can restore skin integrity faster than creams containing only traditional moisturizing agents.

CeraVe® Moisturizing Cream has 3 essential ceramides. I compared it to my previous favorite, Arbordoun's Abundantly Herbal Calendula Cream because I wanted to decide for myself if the claims about ceramides were real or just good marketing. The CeraVe® was impressive! My skin absorbed it quickly, it didn't feel greasy, but it made my skin feel super smooth, even hours later.

Another favorite moisturizer of mine is Arbordoun's Abundantly Herbal Calendula Cream, around $15 for a 4-ounce jar. With olive oil, calendula, and lavender, Arbordoun's helps protect your skin from radiation damage. However, it takes a little time to absorb completely. I always let it soak into my skin for about 5 minutes before putting on clothes so the fabric doesn't stick to it.

You can also apply pure Aloe Vera juice directly to your skin for protection. My stepmother, Joyce, used Trader Joe's Aloe Vera Juice after each radiation session and didn't develop any burns.

Here Are 5 Tips to Help Protect Your Skin During Radiation Treatment:

1. Avoid rubbing or scratching.

Itching causes the urge to scratch even when you sleep, so keeping your fingernails cut short and wearing cotton gloves or socks over your hands at night can really help.

2. Stay out of hot water.

Avoid using hot water or strongly scented soaps when washing or bathing.

3. Don't scrub.

Treat your skin gently. Avoid washing using harsh scrubbing tools like exfoliating cloths, rough washcloths, or loofahs.

4. Keep yourself hydrated.

Irritated skin loses water more quickly, making it feel dry and itchy. Drink plenty of water to help keep your skin well hydrated.

5. Apply a soothing cream.

Support the barrier function of your skin by protecting it after each radiation treatment. Moisturizing creams containing ceramides (CeraVe®, Curel®) or calendula can be incredibly helpful.

BREAST CANCER FACTS

COMPILED BY CAROL FORHAN

Survivor
 The two main risk factors for breast cancer are: Being female and getting older.

Statistics
 Breast cancer is the second most common cause of cancer for American women except skin cancer, and the overall cause of cancer death in women between the ages of 20 and 39.

In the United States, one in 8 women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime.

An estimated 276,480 new cases of invasive breast cancer are expected to occur in women in 2020, with an estimated 48,530 additional cases of in-situ (non-invasive) breast cancer. 64% of breast cancer cases are diagnosed at localized stage for which the 5-year survival is 99%. There are more than 2.4 million women in the United States with a history of breast cancer. 42,170 or 1 in 39 women (3%) will die. But there are 3.8 million survivors in the USA.

In the United States, breast cancer is expected to be newly diagnosed every three minutes, and a woman will die from breast cancer every 13 minutes.

Breast cancer in men

Though rare, 2,620 new cases of invasive breast cancer are expected to be diagnosed, in men in 2020. 520 will die. Black men have the highest breast cancer incidence over all, Hispanic men have the lowest. Median age of diagnosis for men in the U.S. is 68 years old. Breast cancer in ethnic groups African American women have a higher breast cancer death rate than women of any other racial or ethnic population.

American Indian/Alaska Native females have the lowest breast cancer incidence rates.

Breast cancer and age

The risk of breast cancer increases with age: About 18 percent of diagnoses are among women in their 40's and 77 percent of women with breast cancer are older than 50 when they are diagnosed.

White women have a higher incidence of breast cancer than African American women after age 40, while Africa American women have a slightly higher incidence rate before age 40.

Risk and recurrence of breast cancer

Postmenopausal women with early breast cancer are at their greatest risk of disease recurrence during the first five years after diagnosis.

The absolute number and percentage of recurrences in the first five years after surgery is much highest than the following five to 10 years.

Treatment received during these first five years is paramount in combating the disease.

Early Detection

One of the earliest signs of breast cancer can be an abnormality that shows up on a mammogram before it can be felt. The most common signs of breast cancer are a lump in the breast, abnormal thickening of the breast, or a change in the shape or color of the breast.

Finding a lump or change in your breast does not necessarily mean you have breast cancer. Additional changes that may also be signs of breast cancer include: Any new, hard lump or thickening in any part of the breast/and armpit. Change in size or shape.

Dimpling or puckering of the skin. Swelling, redness or warmth that does not go away. Pain in one spot that does not vary with your monthly cycle. Pulling in of the nipple, nipple discharge that starts suddenly and appears only in one breast. An itchy, sore or scaling area on one nipple.

It is important for women to practice the elements of good breast health. It is suggested women obtain regular mammography screening starting at the age of 45, or earlier if you have a family history. Obtain annual clinical breast exams, perform monthly breast-self exams and obtain a risk assessment from a physician.

Save America – reject the Democrat lies

People on both sides of the political fence have decried the Presidential Debate as disappointing. Mostly, they were disgusted by the pugnacity, welcome to Trumpville.

Reading the commentary and watching the talk shows reveals neither side was really influenced much by the combativeness of the event. The lame-stream media resorted to the usual condemnation of the President. While the conservative talk shows maintained their support of the President.

CNN, ABC and NBC continued to call Trump a racist because he wouldn't reject White Supremacists. It's unclear how often they expect him to do this. Clearly, they haven't been listening. Of course, none of them criticized Biden for failing to reject Antifa or BLM for their violent and racist activities around the country.

One thing is clear from the debate. We are in a fight for the life of our country.

Listening to Biden, the only clear stand he took was you need to vote for him because Trump is the worst President the country has ever had. When asked to take a stand on any issue he was evasive. For example, when asked how he stood on the issue of packing the Supreme Court he refused to answer. When challenged he said if he took a stand that would become the issue. Exactly Joe. People deserve to know what you stand for if you're elected.

Bill Forhan
PUBLISHER

He attacked Trump's efforts to address the Covid pandemic without spreading panic across the country. Democrats have refused to accept the results of the 2016 election and done everything they can to disrupt Trump's Presidency.

In the midst of all that, Trump had his best line of the night. He pointed out that he had accomplished more in 47 months than Biden has accomplished in 47 years.

Of course, now the media is criticizing Trump's performance as focusing too much on his accomplishments and not on what he planned to do if re-elected.

Biden did say the Democrat Platform is his platform. He is the Democrat Party.

So, let's take a look at the platform:

If you go to the Biden for President website you will find a section buried at the very bottom called "Joe's Vision." It is 48 separate programs to totally alter life in this country. It is far too long to address every issue here but it is big on taxpayer funded programs like:

- Free college tuition for every student whose family income is less than $125,000 per year.
- Provide over $50 billion dollars for new government programs to support minority colleges.

- Massive new programs to limit weapons in the hands of private citizens and programs to hold gun manufacturers accountable for crimes committed by individuals.

- Biden's climate and environmental justice proposal will make a federal investment of $1.7 trillion over the next ten years.

- Biden's tax plan will raise corporate taxes to make sure corporations pay their "fair share." He doesn't define what constitutes a fair share.

Biden claims his massive spending program will be funded by eliminating Trump's massive tax cuts to wealthy corporations. Well, there is a big problem here. Let us just look at the total government tax receipts for the last ten years. According to the IRS, total tax Federal tax collections have grown steadily from $2.7 trillion in 2010 to a record high in 2019 of $3.5 trillion. They have grown from $3.27 trillion during the last year of the Obama/Biden administration to $3.5 trillion last year. An increase of just over 7 percent.

In other words, supply side economics works once again. When you lower taxes on the private sector business, government tax receipts increase. Employment increases and the economy flourishes. It was John Kennedy, a Democrat, who first made that case. Reagan proved it once again during his administration.

Despite their best efforts, Democrats have not been able to destroy the effectiveness of President Trump's policies. Now Biden is trying to argue that his plan to enlarge the Federal Budget with billions of new programs for by reversing Trump's corporate tax policies.

Biden has no serious plan for raising the money to pay for his program. It is just like the Democrat claims that Republicans are out to destroy the Affordable Care Act. The reality is that it is not affordable. Remember when they promised it would save you $2500 per year? Remember how they said the mandatory insurance program was not a tax? They lied.

The reality is the government cannot create jobs. They never have. The only jobs they create are government jobs paid for with your taxes. In the process they eliminate competition from the for profit sector. The cost of living goes up. The Democrats have nothing to offer except more lies and increased control of your life. It is time to give them their walking papers. They once were honorable if somewhat misguided opponents that kept our government honest. They have become drunk with power and if given control of the Presidency, House and Senate, they will move quickly to insure they permanently change the system.

As a free people we must hand them an overwhelming defeat. Not just at the Federal level but at the state and local level as well. This is a shaping up to be the most important election in our history. Don't be fooled by the polls. They are propaganda from the elitists who are anxious to end the American experiment in self-governance.

Save America, Fire a Democrat.

Wealth Tax' proposed by Warren, Sanders is un-American

Senators Elizabeth Warren and Bernie Sanders have been busying their otherwise lazy hands and brains proposing a tax on the wealthiest Americans.

This is patently un-American. Our nation was built on the ingenious inventions, business acumen and outright guts of a handful of people who had the nerve to invest in great ideas and came out the other end of the tunnel with great results and revenue to match.

Why are these two miscreants using wealthy Americans as punching bags? Why are they chastising the idea that wealth is inherently evil? Have Bernie and Elizabeth drunk the Kool-Aid of Marxist-Leninist-Stalinist theory?

These questions are facetious, because it is obvious both of these Democrats are paying fealty to the Gods of the so-called "equal distribution of wealth" when in reality, the wealth belongs to them that earn it.

Redistribution of the money is an insane idea. Why bother even working if I can get an equal amount that the successful and hard-working folks get? Why bother getting a degree if I can get the same pay as a scientist, engineer, mathematician or software developer?

It should be noted that former President Obama and Warren were college professors and Bernie has always been a socialist so there should be no surprise about where their hearts and intentions are.

The question remains, why are they so adamantly opposed to a handful of Americans making real money from their ideas or cleverness in business?

Isn't the American dream all about making it to the top financially and thus achieving what is unachievable in about 95% of other countries?

Why do the Democrats, admittedly not all of them, hate the wealthy so? If it makes them feel better, give the poor "participation" awards for finishing their lives on welfare, food stamps or some other crutch our great tribe has deemed necessary for the survival of the weakest among us.

I feel for the homeless, I feel for the hungry, I feel for the least among us like any Christian should, but I cannot allow the penalizing of those who are successful. It makes no sense.

Instead of penalizing the successful in our midst, how about we eliminate federal funding of colleges that inculcate the cancer of "we all get everything for free" philosophy.

How about Warren/Sanders donate their salaries? They each get $174,000 per year.

Literally millions of Americans don't make that much after working for many years, but at least they are working and not asking for handouts.

Ask anyone to pledge 10% to their church and 40% to the local socialist/communist/

Democrat slush fund to redistribute. That leaves 50% to survive and plan their life and pay their bills.

Forget about vacations. Forget about 401k's. Forget about starting a new business and definitely forget about sending your kids to a decent university that actually teaches subjects the world so desperately needs like STEM.

Welcome to the evil world of equal treatment for unequal performance. Joe Biden might mean well, but he will be co-opted and the lazy and stupid among us will reap the rewards of their ignorance and sloth.

Keep this in mind when the Commies take over thanks to inadvisable votes.

What's so great about a Donor Advised Fund?

In a recent meeting, I suggested a client consider opening a Donor Advised Fund and they asked, "what's so great about them?". I mentioned they were a great option for charitable giving flexibility in tax planning, and we moved on.

But as I consider the overall grandness of the Donor Advised Fund, it is important to know that they offer something for nearly every giver.

As a result of the most recent tax reform, the standard deduction was increased to $24,000 for married couples and $12,000 for singles. At those levels, many of us are unable to itemize our deductions and our charitable contributions no longer help us for tax purposes. While none of us are charitable purely because we get a tax deduction, the tax deduction is an incentive for us to give consistently, or perhaps just a little bit more.

Using a Donor Advised Fund to "stack your donations" is an effective charitable giving opportunity which allows you to make multiple years' worth of annual donations in one tax year.

When taking advantage of this tax option, you deduct the donation in the year of the gift on your tax return. You then have flexibility to have the invested money sent to the charity(s) of your choice, in the year of your choice.

For example, you could donate $24,000 to a donor advised fund in 2019 and then send $8,000 per year for the next three years to the charity(s) of your choice. The tax deduction would be taken in 2019 for the donation made to the donor advised fund plus any other itemized deductions (property taxes, sales tax, and mortgage interest) and the charity(s) would receive a donation over the next three-year period according to your specific instructions.

By KRISTINE LOOMIS

Managing Principal,

This tax planning technique can be particularly beneficial in a year in which significant tax events, such as a large IRA distribution, ROTH conversion, sale of an appreciated asset, or a large bonus. Not only do you get the benefit of the tax deduction, you get the deduction at a higher tax rate.

In addition to charitable donation stacking, your donor advised fund (which grows over time) allows for purposeful giving as a family and allows you to pass along a legacy of charitable giving to your children. By investing in their donor advised fund, you will benefit from the tax deduction and have the option to donate to any qualified charitable organization on your own schedule.

Using the Community Foundation of NCW's Donor Advised Fund gives you the opportunity to maximize the benefits of charitable giving. It's easy, effective, and controlled giving with tax benefits. You can even make your donation anonymous if that's your preference.

I encourage you to speak with your CPA, lawyer, or financial planner about these charitable giving options and how they can benefit you and those causes you care about!

TEK Construction, Inc., Dean Irwin, 1980 W Bakerview Rd Bellingham, WA 98226-9133, is seeking coverage under the Washington State Department of Ecology's Construction Stormwater NPDES and State Waste Discharge General Permit.

The proposed project, Leavenworth National Fish Hatchery, is located at 12790 Fish Hatchery Road in Leavenworth in Chelan county. This project involves 1 acre of soil disturbance for Commercial construction activities. All discharges and runoff goes to ground water.

Any persons desiring to present their views to the Washington State Department of Ecology regarding this Application, or interested in Ecology's action on this Application, may notify Ecology in writing no later than 30 days of the last date of publication of this notice. Ecology reviews public comments and considers whether discharges from this project would cause a measurable change in receiving water quality, and, if so, whether the project is necessary and in the overriding public interest according to Tier II anti-degradation requirements under WAC 173-201A-320.

Comments can be submitted to: ecyrewqianoi@ecy.wa.gov, or Department of Ecology Attn: Water Quality Program, Construction Stormwater P.O. Box 47696, Olympia, WA 98504-7696

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

Courtesy John Kruse

The Yakima River from the Thorp Highway.

Blue Ribbon Trout and plenty of Coho

If you are looking for a high-quality stream fishing experience for trout, look no further than the Yakima River, Washington's only Blue Ribbon trout stream. Flowing from Keechelus Lake near Snoqualmie Pass into the Snake River at the Tri-Cities, the river offers cold water fisheries in the upper river and warmwater fishing for bass, catfish and more in the lower section.

The upper stretch of the Yakima, flowing 75 miles from Easton to Roza Dam in the canyon below Ellensburg, is where the Blue Ribbon trout fishery exists. In this stretch all of the fishing is a catch and release affair. Rainbow trout are found throughout this part of the river, and there are cutthroat trout as well above Cle Elum. Not only are catch and release rules in effect, but selective regulations are too. No bait is allowed and lures may only have a single barbless hook. Having said that, 19 out of 20 anglers you see fishing the Yakima are fly anglers who come from all over the state to fish from shore or from drift boats, pontoon boats or rafts to hook into trout measuring from 8 to 18 inches or better.

The strict management of this river has paid off. Since this area was designated as a Blue Ribbon trout stream in the 1990's by the Washington Dept. of Fish and Wildlife, trout populations have flourished. Outdoors writer Terry Sheely, writing about the Yakima River for Washington-Oregon Game & Fish Magazine 10 years ago, reported that in the canyon between Ellensburg and Roza Dam there were "1,129 rainbow trout per mile or one trout for every 4 1/2 feet of river." With that many fish present, it's not hard to have a good day of fishing.

Having said that, the Yakima doesn't always offer easy fishing. It is heavily pressured and skill is required when it comes to presenting a fly or lure in front of a trout to get it to strike. This is where reading the water comes into play and "matching the hatch" to offer flies that imitate a food source for the trout is a key to success.

As for what kind of flies you should use in October? The staff at the Ellensburg Angler Fly Shop suggests using cranefly, stonefly, caddis or blue wing olive imitations. Specific flies that are working right now include Pat's Rubber Legs in coffee, orange or black. Orange Chubby Chernobyls, Purple Haze and Pheasant Tail flies.

The Blue Ribbon stretch of the Yakima River is open to fishing all year. There are numerous public access points for do-it-yourself anglers. If you want to learn the ropes of fishing the Yakima for the first time a guided trip could be a good investment. Several fly shops, many of them offering guided outings, can be found in Cle Elum and Ellensburg.

Coho Salmon Opportunities:

The return of coho salmon up the Columbia River this fall has exceeded expectations. Some 90,000 adult salmon passed over Bonneville Dam as of Sept. 29, a 50 percent increase over the 10-year average return of 60,000 fish.

One place that fishes very well for coho is the Columbia River just off the mouth of the Klickitat. Try hover fishing cured salmon roe just off the bottom to entice strikes from both coho and fall Chinook salmon.

Other opportunities have come open too because of this strong Coho run. On the Upper Columbia between Priest Rapids Dam to Rocky Reach Dam near Wenatchee you can keep up to six salmon a day until Oct. 15 (check the e-regulations for more details). The Icicle River near Leavenworth opened up for coho on Oct. 1 (a full month earlier than last year) as did the Lower Yakima River and even the Grande Ronde River (at least the Oregon part of it) has opened up for coho salmon; the first time this has happened in 40 years.

The bottom line? Now is not only a good time to go fishing on the Yakima River, but also an excellent time to go fishing for Coho salmon. Enjoy.

as Stella Johnson, will be voting for the first time in the November 3 election.

Johnson helped found the Cascade High School Sustainability Club and co-organized the march on September 25. She wishes climate change was not a political issue.

"We offered the invitation to both Keith Goehner and Adrienne Moore [the two candidates for District 12 State Representative] to speak at our Climate March and Adrienne was the one who took the time to come out and show us her support." Johnson explains. "That's why so many young people support her."

Other Leavenworth young people are working to increase voter turnout among their peers through the newly formed non-partisan organization, NCW Young Voters.

Youth voter turnout has historically been low, with only 35% of registered voters age 18-30 turning out in 2018 according to voter data. Common reasons young people do not send in their ballots are a lack of information on how to register, not having access to information on candidates, and feeling like their votes do not matter.

NCW Young Voters is addressing those barriers by running voter education campaigns and organizing youth-moderated candidate forums where young people can ask questions directly to the candidates running to represent them, including Goehner and Moore as well as the candidates for Washington Secretary of State, Gael Tarleton and Kim Wyman; and the candidates for Chelan County Commissioner, Dale England and Tiffany Gering.

Activate Leavenworth has continued organizing as well. The group formed after the Black Lives Matter March of Solidarity on June 5th that garnered a turnout of 1300 community members. Their most recent initiative was community support for the Cold Spring Canyon/Pearl Hills Fire-- the group collected donations from Leavenworth and drove them to Brewster and Bridgeport.

Ringel's advice for other young people: "Change starts in the streets but it is finished in Olympia or Washington, D.C. Find a candidate running at any level and volunteer for their campaign. You can feel good not only because you helped get them elected but they will pass legislation that creates change that benefits causes you care about."

The September 25 Climate March was organized by Stella Johnson (12th grade CHS), Aidan Ringel (12th grade CHS), Heather Hayes (12th grade Wenatchee HS), Andreas Broxson (12th grade Wenatchee HS). Additional speakers included Allison (Allie) Ward (6th grade IRMS), Molly Renner-Singer (9th grade CHS), Braden Dilly (20 year old from Wenatchee), Rory Swoboda (12th grade CHS), Chelsea Murphy (Leavenworth community member), and Adrienne Moore (Candidate for Washington State Representative for District 12).

Celebrating Public Power through the generations

SUBMITTED BY RACHEL HANSEN

WENATCHEE. – Going through some old boxes this summer, Ray Taylor discovered a check he wrote on July 27, 1957 to Chelan County Public Utilities District #1. The amount was for $1.80 – the cost of electricity for two months.

Taylor has been a Chelan County PUD customer-owner for 66 years, first as a newlywed when he and his wife Betty Lee rented their first apartment together, and then as treasurer of his church, First Baptist, as it built a new facility on Maple Street in Wenatchee.

Ray was working at the National Bank of Commerce when Chelan County PUD leadership walked in to buy Rock Island dam from Puget Sound Energy. The bank buzzed with excitement as executives flew in from New York to arrange the financing.

A decade later, Ray and Betty Lee took their kids to the dedication of Rocky Reach in 1963. He still remembers the tours, festive food and high school band.

“One of the best things we’ve ever done in this county was to purchase the dams for ourselves, so the benefits would stay in the community,” he said.

As we celebrate Public Power Week, Oct. 4-10, we want to honor our heritage as a nonprofit, community-owned utility. Your history is our history.

We look back with gratitude to a generation of community leaders who saw the value in public power. Imagine the courage it took for a small, rural county to build, buy and operate three hydropower projects in the 1950s.

That investment now produces five-to-six times the amount of energy we need to serve our 50,000 customer-owners. The surplus power is sold on the power market. The proceeds are reinvested back into Chelan County to improve the quality of life.

Thanks to those founding leaders, residents of Chelan County enjoy clean, reliable energy, with some of the lowest rates in the nation, as well as high-speed internet and quality parks and trails.

Ray Taylor went on to lead Chelan County Medical Services Corporation, the first nonprofit in the area to offer prepaid medical plans. When it sold to Blue Cross for $2.1 million in the 1980s, he used the money to establish the Community Foundation of North Central Washington. That endowment has grown into $65 million in assets – another example of an investment into the community that will pay dividends for generations to come.

During Public Power Week, we plan to feature more long-tenured customer-owners of Chelan County PUD. If you have a story to share, please contact us at rachel.hansen@chelanpud.org or (509) 661-4320.
