Rollie Schmittens pens a new book

By BILL FORHAN

Native son of the upper valley, Roland A. Schmittens has just published a new book. Lake Wenatchee Early History. As a great grandson, Schmittens represents the fourth generation of the Schmittens Lumber Company family. He is a graduate of Cashmere High School and Washington State University with a degree in Forest Management.

After serving four years in the Marine Corp where he served 13 months in Viet Nam he returned to the Wenatchee Valley and worked as a logging manager for the family lumber company.

Schmittens has served on the Cashmere City Council, the Chelan County Port Commission and three terms in the Washington State Legislature.

By the time he retired in 2005, he had served 3 presidents, and 7 Secretaries of Commerce besides his remarkable career with the National Marine Fisheries Service and the Washington State Director of Fisheries.

Schmittens and his wife Barbara currently reside in their home on Lake Wenatchee where his family's involvement goes back to 1917.

In the Dedication and introduction to the book, Schmittens writes. "I had always hoped that someone from one of the pioneer families would write a book on the early days of Lake Wenatchee. Now those pioneers are gone, and those who remember are fading quickly, so I wanted to tell the story as best I could."

His list of sources for the book is a who's who of local residents including Pat Morris, Frazier Strutzel and Bill Newell.

Council struggles over small business relief

By BILL FORHAN

The Washington State Department of Commerce has awarded the City $93,000 in Federal CARES Act funds to assist in addressing impacts associated with the Coronavirus Pandemic.

The Chelan and Douglas County Regional Port Authority is offering assistance to the city to help the city in distributing the funds to local businesses that have been impacted by the shutdown. The money can be used to issue grants to reimburse local businesses for costs incurred because of business interruption.

Currently, the city has 193 businesses operating in Cashmere. With only $93,000 available in grant money available under the program.

The Port will administer the Grant program for the city. To be eligible for the grant money the costs to be reimbursed must meet the following test:

a) The expense is connected to the Covid-19 emergency.

b) The expense is necessary.

c) The expense is not to fill a shortfall in government revenues.

d) The expense is not funded through another budget line-item, allotment or allocation as of March 27, 2020

e) The expense would not exist but for Covid-19 or would be for a substantially different purpose.

Council discussions concluded that to be fair and to spread the money around applicants must meet the following criteria:

1) The business must have fewer than 20 employees

2) The business must have been in business prior to March 1, 2020.

3) The business must provide a UBI number

4) Individual grants would be limited to a maximum of $5,000

5) The business must be located within the city limits

Home based businesses would be eligible but they must comply with the criteria.

Expenses that are eligible for a reimbursement grant include:

1) Operating expenses including rent, supplies, inventory, and utility bills

2) Reopening costs including purchasing masks, gloves, thermometers, washing stations, sanitation supplies/equipment, installation of protective covers such as plexiglass, and marketing & advertising expenses.

Expenses that are not eligible for a reimbursement grant under the program include: Payroll, capitalized equipment, travel, office equipment and computer software.

Application forms are available at city hall or on-line at <https://cdrpa.squarespace.com/cashmere-cares-act-small-business-grant-program>

In other business:

Council approved an agreement with Pace Engineering to provide a scope of services to design and provide services for the construction of the water system to connect the Phillips and South Division Road area in the amount of $32,975.

To view a full list of the conditions and the Secretary's letter, visit: <http://cdhd.wa.gov/wp-content/uploads/DOH-Approval-of-Modified-Phase-I.pdf>. Businesses now closed may reopen as soon as they are able to implement the standards issued by the state and operate within the limitations from the Secretary's letter as described above.

This reopening guidance is not only a matter of what businesses do. What we do as individuals counts. "We still need to protect each other – not only because it is a basic civic responsibility but also because controlling COVID-19 is the best way to reopen our community and keep it that way," added Kling. Here is some guidance for individuals to do to help keep our Valley reopened:

- Wear face masks in public
- Maintain at least 6 feet apart from others whenever possible
- Wash or sanitize your hands frequently
- Don't touch your face
- Avoid groups of more than five people outside of your household members

The recovery begins, but where will it take us?

Based on the 2.5 million new jobs reported in the May Jobs Report, the economic recovery from Covid-19 has officially started (yes, there were some technical problems with the report, which made it look better than it was, but any way you slice it, it was a positive report). While it's wonderful that the recovery is underway, the far more important question is where the recovery will take us. Will we end up with a stronger economy than before the virus, or a weaker one? It's not a surprise that a chunk of the economy would come back quickly. But, the lowest hanging fruit gets picked first. Picking the entire tree probably won't be so easy.

If our economy claws back to 90% of its previous glory, that might sound like a victory. But, that implies a 10% recession, which would be the 2nd worst of all time.

COMMUNITY VOICES
By BRAD BLACKBURN

As a comparison, during the Financial Crisis in 2008, the economy only fell 4.3%. During the 2001 recession (caused by 9/11 and the bursting dot-com bubble), the economy fell less than 1%. So, we may have a deep hole to dig ourselves out of.

Thankfully, there is good news. As many parts of the world reopen, emergency rooms haven't been overwhelmed. In addition, trillions of dollars were tossed at this problem, so, there's lots of money floating around the economy. Also, gas prices are low, interest rates are low, and there's pent-up demand from the millions of people who've been stuck in their homes eagerly waiting to go buy stuff.

But, there will be bumps along our road to recovery. Obviously, the biggest bump would be a major recurrence of the virus. If hospitals become overwhelmed in reopened parts of the country, the economy could suffer even more. However, even in the best-case scenario, in which Covid-19 fades away forever, there will still be a price to pay. Nearly every family, business and government across the world has less wealth, more debt, and more uncertainty as a result of all this. Because of that, the whole world may tend to spend less, save more, pay down debt, and lick their economic wounds. In China and Italy, which reopened their economies first, consumer spending has only recovered modestly. That's not all bad, of course. Saving more and paying down debt is a good thing. However, it is not a recipe for a quick, robust economic recovery.

Week of June 15

SUBMITTED BY JILL FITZSIMMONS

PIO/Special Projects Coordinator Chelan County Public Works 509-667-6415

To minimize potential exposure to COVID-19 to staff and the public, Chelan County Public Works is open by appointment only. Call 667-6415 for an appointment.

County Construction/Projects

Yodelin Creek Culvert Replacement Project: On June 15, the county's contractor for the Yodelin Creek Culvert Replacement Project will begin work on the final portion of the project - grading and paving the roadway in the project area. Last summer, the contractor built a single-span bridge on Stevens Road. Stevens Road will be closed until June 22 as crews complete the roadwork. (Re-opening date is dependent upon weather impacts.) A detour route is available to local traffic only.

West Cashmere Bridge Replacement Project: Details are on the project's construction page: <https://www.co.chelan.wa.us/public-works/pages/west-cashmere-bridge-replacement-crp-693>

gram: Chip sealing will start on June 22 in Chelan County. Road crews will begin in the Cashmere District and then move to the Leavenworth District. They will follow with the Chelan District and then wrap up in the Wenatchee District. Crews expect to complete chip sealing in early August; however, weather and equipment may delay or change that schedule. For a list and map of this year's roads that will be chip sealed, go to: <https://www.co.chelan.wa.us/public-works/pages/public-preservation-program>

Road District Maintenance

Maintenance plans may change with weather conditions or equipment difficulties. Visit the Public Works website, where the weekly road maintenance information is regularly updated.

District 1 (Wenatchee) Crews will be prepping 2020 Preservation Roads (see above) and training for upcoming chip sealing. The crew also will be patching roads and cutting brush around the district.

District 2 (Cashmere) Crews will be prepping 2020 Preservation Roads as well as mowing and cleaning culverts throughout the district.

District 3 (Leavenworth) Crews will be crack sealing this week on Chiwawa Loop Road, North Shore Drive and Little Wenatchee Road. When crews are crack sealing, motorists should watch for one-lane, flagger-controlled traffic. Minor delays may occur. The crew also will be brushing upcoming chip seal roads. And the crew will be grading and putting dust oil down on Mountain Home Road.

District 4 (Entiat) The crew will be cleaning shoulders and brushing across the district.

District 5 (Chelan) In downtown Manson, the crew will be flushing stormwater drains. People will see a water truck downtown, spraying the curbing along the road. Watch for one-lane, flagger-controlled traffic downtown. Traffic delays will be minor. The crew also will be hand patching and brushing in the Manson area, cleaning up the county's Manson pit site and marking monuments and valve cans on 2020 Preservation Roads.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Community Worship: To Be or Not to Be?

Being together to support one another in our diverse spiritual journeys is critical. It is foundational to all World Faith traditions. And there is good reason for this. In such gatherings, encouragement, affirmation, emotional connection and spiritual touch are given and received. Allowing the loving and compassionate Divine to embrace and sustain us. The absence of this communal aspect of spirituality is like trying to shower while wearing a raincoat. Not quite the same.....

We have learned yet again that the "church" is not the building. True indeed, but so much of the intimate encounter with God seems to happen within the gathered community of faith. In the midst of this historic time of "separation," commendations to the many ways in which the "separated" people of faith have continued being "church" by responding to those in need. Loving the neighbor remains alive and well!

So, it is quite understandable that there have been debates, petitions, and even legal action to encourage the appropriate authorities to make person-to-person worship accessible and open now. Let us be mindful that this heartfelt emphasis must be tempered and balanced with the informed advice, counsel, and direction of those whose passion is also the greater welfare of our communities. The "We Are One" objectives eloquently summarize what needs to be our common direction: Empathy, Compassion, Civil Communication, Finding Balance, and Hope.

In the midst of all the pandemic chaos and recent national upheaval, it seems a bit ironic and somewhat hypocritical that such passionate and assertive debating and "petitioning" on our part has rarely addressed another life threatening contagion that has debilitated and inhibited so many long before Covid-19. The recent tumultuous events have illuminated yet again the inequity and trauma that has predated this epidemic by centuries. It behooves us, because we are mandated by God regardless of our faith tradition, to also love our neighbor, as Jesus said, by loosing the bonds of injustice "to let the oppressed go free." We are obliged, we are required "to do justice and to love kindness," to "let justice roll down like waters and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream." If not, we may well fall into the temptation of simply worshipping without corresponding acts of social justice. We are admonished by the Hebrew Prophets, speaking for God: "I hate, I despise your festivals and take no delight in your solemn assemblies....but let justice roll down like waters, and righteousness like an ever-flowing stream." This is the heart and intention of the Creator.

So, when we finally are able to gather together in our respective communities of faith, will we seek to engage the deeper and more difficult issues of our own privilege and intolerance? Will we also confront the systems and policies that continue to debilitate our neighbor long after we have delivered their boxes of food?

Therefore, we the undersigned, members of the North Central Washington Cluster, Northwest Intermountain Synod (NWIM) of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, commit ourselves and our congregations to continue as a "church in exile" until such time as our state and health leaders indicate congregational worship is appropriate. Once gathered, we will continue direct service to our neighbor. It is also imperative that we again renew our efforts to deepen self-awareness of our own white privilege and gain a more complete understanding of the dynamics of intolerance and racism. Together we will work more effectively to counter the unjust structures and policies that continue to weigh heavily upon the lives of our neighbor.

Glucosamine for arthritis

Keith, an 86-year old retired basketball coach, and PE teacher, limped down our clinic hallway last week to see me. “Getting older sure isn’t for sissies,” he answered as I asked him how things were going for him.

“I had my left knee replaced five years ago, and now my right knee is going the same way. It’s this darn arthritis.” Settling his 7-foot seven-inch frame in the exam room chair, he asked me, “Would taking glucosamine help my knee? Is it safe to take with my other medicines?”

“Glucosamine helps relieve knee joint pain in 1 out of 3 people, helping them stay more active. Keeping active is the key thing because it’s the best way to combat the pain and stiffness of arthritis. Glucosamine is a very safe supplement to take, even with other medicines. If I were in your shoes, I’d definitely give it a try.”

Keith has lots of company. Osteoarthritis is the most common chronic joint disease, affecting at least one out of every 10 older adults in the United States. Osteoarthritis causes cartilage to deteriorate, creating joint pain and stiffness.

As it progresses, osteoarthritis causes the bones of your knee joint to move closer together. Imaging studies measuring the spacing of bones in your knee joint illustrate how as the spaces between the bones in the joint get smaller over time, the pain and stiffness of osteoarthritis get worse.

Glucosamine is a compound produced by your body. There are three primary forms, each having a different role in supporting your health. The only type of glucosamine proven to be helpful against osteoarthritis is glucosamine sulfate.

Glucosamine sulfate has been shown to slow down the progression of osteoarthritis by keeping the spaces inside knee joints from crowding closer together. One study compared people who took glucosamine for 1 to 3 years with a similar group that didn’t. Those who took glucosamine sulfate were 60% less likely to need a total knee replacement due to osteoarthritis than those not taking it.

Although glucosamine sulfate can slow down the progression of osteoarthritis, it can’t stop it completely. It’s best for mild to moderate arthritis pain and stiffness, and less effective in people who are older or are overweight.

Glucosamine sulfate works better on knee joints than your hip joints, wrists, or your back. Unlike other types of pain medicine, glucosamine sulfate takes about 4 to 8 weeks to take full effect and is most effective when taken daily. Tylenol® (acetaminophen) also helps arthritis pain and stiffness and can be safely taken daily along with glucosamine. For flare-ups, Aleve® (naproxen) or Motrin-IB (ibuprofen) are more useful but can cause bleeding or kidney problems.

The most effective dose of glucosamine sulfate seems to be 1500 mg a day, which can either be taken all at once or divided into two or three doses. Taking glucosamine sulfate is as effective as taking six tablets of Extra-Strength Tylenol® every day. It can also be combined with other pain medicines for even more relief, like Tylenol® and anti-inflammatory medications like Aleve® (naproxen) or Motrin-IB (ibuprofen).

Here Are 5 Tips on Taking Glucosamine Successfully:

1. Take the “right stuff.” Avoid glucosamine hydrochloride, and take glu-cosamine sulfate. For best results, take a total of 500mg-1500mg per day in 2 or 3 divided doses.

2. Be patient.

Allow 4 to 8 weeks for the full effect of glucosamine to take effect before giving up on it.

3. Use the powder formulation, not the tablets.

Crystalline glucosamine in a capsule or dissolved in water is more consistently effective than the tablet forms. The brand with the most favorable results is DONA crystalline powder. My patients have also reported dramatic results with VERY reasonably priced glucosamine crystalline powder from the company Bio-Alternatives, available online at www.bio-alternatives.net, or by calling 1-866-882-0213.

4. You can take glucosamine even if you are allergic to shellfish.

If you have a shellfish allergy, you can still take glucosamine safely. Shellfish allergies are to the meat, not to the shell, and glucosamine is processed from the shell.

5. If you take the blood thinner warfarin, tell your doctor.

If you take Coumadin® or warfarin, glucosamine can increase your level of blood thinner. I have used glucosamine sulfate in my patients taking warfarin for decades, with excellent results. I recommend starting glucosamine two weeks before their next blood test is scheduled. Depending on the outcome of the blood test, I adjust their dose of warfarin as needed.

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

Oh Shad!

By JOHN KRUSE, THE WASHINGTON OUTDOOR REPORT

Not to be confused with an oft-uttered curse phrase, “Oh shad!” is something you may hear an angler say repeatedly as they hook into these fish in quick fashion this month in the Columbia River Gorge.

The American shad isn’t native to the Pacific Northwest. It is an Atlantic Ocean fish that spawns in several rivers along the east coast and was an important food fish for Americans in the 18th and 19th centuries. In 1871 Seth Green, a fish culturist, transported eight cans of shad fry to Sacramento, California by rail. More than 2/3 of the fish survived the seven-day trip and they were put into the Sacramento River. The stocking took and the Sacramento still hosts a healthy run of American Shad to this day. The shad, which are an ocean-going fish, also began spawning in Oregon’s Umpqua River and in the Columbia River, where the strongest run of these fish return every year from mid-May through early-July.

The shad is a member of the herring family. On the Columbia River they commonly weigh between 1 and 4 pounds. They are scrappy fighters and fun for both adults and kids alike to catch from boats or from shore.

In the last few years jumbo runs of these prolific fish have returned to the Columbia River. Last year, over 7.5 million shad returned, a new record. This year’s run looks to be healthy, if not record breaking. As of June 9th, over a million shad had passed over Bonneville Dam.

Fishing for shad is a simple affair. The main places to target them are on either side of the Columbia River below Bonneville Dam (very crowded) or the John Day Dam (less so).

Start off with a medium action rod between 6 ½ to 8 ½ feet long. A spinning reel with 12-pound monofilament is a good bet, not because the fish will break you off, but because the shoreline is rocky and your line will become damaged on the sharp edges. The lures to use are very simple. A shad dart is a uniquely shaped jig head that usually sits on a bare hook. Common colors to use are Chartreuse/Green, Green/White, Red/White or Chartreuse/Orange. Shad Killers, which look like crappie jigs and are made in Hermiston, Oregon also work very well. The size of jigs you’ll want to use range from 1/8 to 1/16th or even 1/32 of an ounce.

Tie on the jig and a three-foot leader to a swivel. Above the swivel you’ll want a sliding swivel with a ½ to ¾ ounce weight. Simply cast slightly upstream, reel slowly, making sure your weight and dart stay above bottom. As the line quarters towards you reel in rapidly to make sure you don’t get hung up. If you are fishing from a boat plunking a weight on the bottom and fishing a small DickNite spoon can work wonders.

It’s not uncommon to catch one to three dozen shad on a good day, especially when the dam counts show over 10,000 fish a day crossing over Bonneville Dam. As for what to do with them? There are three schools of thought here.

A lot of anglers will keep them for sturgeon or crab bait. These oily fish work very well for both. Some anglers will eat them. Fried shad roe is considered a delicacy by some and baked shad or pressure cooked and canned shad is an option as well. I wouldn’t recommend smoking them though. I ruined a Luhr Jensen smoker a few years ago when I tried to cook them this way. The smoker pan and everything inside was coated with shad oil and I was never able to remove the smell or awful taste that resulted from that experiment.

The third option? Just catch and release them. They really are a lot of fun to go after and for kids who have never caught anything bigger than trout or panfish, the sporty fight offered by a three to four-pound shad is one they’ll remember for a long time.

The Fair Board is still trying to work out an opportunity for the young people to show their animals like they did last year.

Chelan County Fair Cancelled for 2020

It is with heavy heart that we announce the Chelan County Fair will be postponed for the 2020 year. The Fair Board, fair staff and the Chelan County Commissioners have worked very hard to try and make this year's fair work. All possible avenues or changes were explored but none could meet the requirements outlined in the Washington's "Safe Start" reopening plan. With Chelan County only just now getting into a 1.5 phase it became obvious that our County may not even move to Phase 4 until after our Fair. We want you to know that this decision was a very difficult one to make and wasn't taken lightly.

We put quite a bit of planning into this year's Fair and had some great entertainment lined up that we know everyone would have enjoyed. Unfortunately, a major percentage of our volunteers are over the age of 65, and there was no way we could manage the crowds expected and still adhere to the social distancing rules.

The Fair board and Livestock Committee are still working to hopefully plan some type of showing and Judging for youth who have purchased animals. At the very least we will have some form of livestock sale. We want to do something to help these kids get their livestock projects completed and the animals sold.

Details of the potential showing and auction will be sent out through our Facebook page and website once the plan is finalized.

We owe it to our visitors and fair family to give you the very best fair that we can and in the safest environment possible. Unfortunately this is the right decision to make, no matter how hard it is. We hope you take this time to find ways to get involved in agriculture and exhibits, to showcase your skills at our 2021 Fair. You could learn to grow vegetables, can peaches, make a quilt, or craft new artwork. We want to see all of your exhibits displayed next year at the Chelan County Fair. We will miss you all, until we are together again, because we are "Better Together".

Washington State Department of Commerce announces new childcare initiatives

OLYMPIA, Wash. – The Washington State Department of Commerce is now accepting applications for the first round of a new competitive Child Care Partnership grant program. Funding will support grants up to $100,000 each for collaborative efforts that expand childcare capacity in communities throughout the state.

More than 1,100 childcare centers have temporarily closed since March due to the coronavirus pandemic, bringing an existing crisis of scarcity to a head. Disparities in access to childcare are even more pronounced and damaging in economically disadvantaged communities and communities of color.

"We cannot allow a learning gap to persist in Washington state – the long-term costs in human potential for our kids, our communities and our economy are staggering," said Commerce Director Lisa Brown.

Even before COVID-19 and the ensuing financial crisis, many working parents in Washington were either paying more than they could afford, or struggling to even find quality childcare facilities and programs near where they live or work. State funds for the new Childcare Partnership grants will invest in local collaborations to develop community-driven action plans to increase capacity access to child care.

"This is a broad, complex societal challenge that demands strong partnerships among local government and tribal leaders, school systems, employers, philanthropies and others to develop and implement programs and projects that will strengthen communities and families," Brown emphasized.

Who and how to apply

Organizations eligible to apply for grants up to $100,000 are: nonprofit organizations having a 501(c)(3) status; local government entities, educational service districts, and federally recognized tribes. Awards will be up to $100,000. This is the first of two application cycles and projects must be completed by June 30, 2021. A second application round is expected to open mid-

August.

Only electronic submissions of the application form and required documents (details below) will be accepted and via a single email to the application coordinator at mary.baldwin@commerce.wa.gov by 5 p.m. PDT July 10, 2020. Application materials are available through the Washington State Department of Commerce. For questions and more information, contact Mary Baldwin, program coordinator, Community Engagement and Outreach Division, at 360-725-2815 or mary.baldwin@commerce.wa.gov.

Commerce's work with the state Child Care Collaborative Task Force revealed the need to fund local planning processes to support increased capacity in childcare and after-school programs, and to address disparities and unmet needs for children. A detailed childcare industry assessment study commissioned by the task force, due out in July, will provide additional data and survey information for the state and prospective community-based partnerships.

The World of Animal Skulls and Bones

SUBMITTED BY RACHEL BISHOP

Leavenworth– Spend one evening with naturalist, educator, facilitator, and photographer Marcus Reynerson, from the Wilderness Awareness School, as we explore the fascinating world of the skulls and bones of some of our local species. Thurs., June 18, 7:00 p.m. PST via Zoom, from your own home.

All animals engage with the world through their sensory perception via the skull. Through studying the evolutionary history that is evident in the structures of skulls, we can get a rich glimpse into the lives of animals. What are its dominant senses? What is its primary diet? How is this animal adapted to live in particular environments? How do you identify an animal based on its skull? These are some of the questions we will work through in this class.

Marcus is a wildlife and skull expert. He has worked in wilderness education, outdoor leadership, and conservation for numerous organizations and communities across North America and Europe. He is engaged in telling stories that bring to light and life, the complexity of humans living in the 21st century. Marcus currently lives in the Snoqualmie Valley in Washington State, just east of Seattle. He is the Lead Instructor for an internationally renowned environmental leadership immersion program for adults at the Wilderness Awareness School in Duvall, WA. He is also an evaluator with Cybertracker Conservation, an organization dedicated to providing leading edge assessment and certification in the art and science of wildlife tracking.

"Even though we cannot meet in person, this class is sure to provide you with new information and answer everything you have ever wanted to know about skulls and bones," explains Rachel Bishop, Community Programs Manager at Wenatchee River Institute. This class is family and individual friendly.

Class cost is $15 for WRI members and $20 non-members. This class will be offered through Zoom. After registering the link for the workshop will be sent to your email. Limited space so please, register soon!

NCW Media Inc's Obituary and Memorial Policy

An obituary is a way for family members to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the larger community of the deceased.

Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data. Memorials are another way of letting the community know about the life and memories of the person who has died. A memorial is different from an obituary. An obituary is usually current while a memorial can be written later.

For publication in the Cashmere Valley Record or The Leavenworth Echo, an obituary or memorial needs to be typed and emailed to editor@leavenworthecho.com no later than 4 p.m. Friday for the next week's issue. Funeral homes and chapels can submit obituaries by noon on Monday, except holidays.

Obituaries are priced per word while the charge for memorial ads are by the column-inch. Cost of the obituary/ memorial is due at the time of placement.
