Planning commission discusses short term rentals

By KIRK BECKENDORF
Cashmere Reporter

Accessory dwelling units (ADU) and short-term rentals (STR) were the two main agenda items discussed at the Cashmere Planning Commission's June 1st meeting.

Steve Croci, Cashmere's Director of Operations, presented the proposed changes to the ADU code. He said the revisions are more aligned and consistent with state definitions. According to Croci, the changes had previously been sent out for review and comments. The proposed code defines an ADU as "a separate dwelling unit integrated within or attached to a single-family dwelling, or one located as a detached accessory structure located on the same lot as a single-family dwelling". The updates would require new building permits for ADUs have a "limited administrative review". However, if built in the single-family residential zoning district, new ADUs will require a "full administrative review", which includes a public comment period. The new codes will require that the property owner file a restrictive covenant with the Chelan County auditor's office. The property owner would also be required to reside in either the principal dwelling, or the ADU.

The Planning Commission agreed that the new proposed codes are ready to present to the City Council for their input and feedback.

Croci told the Commission that the city needs to develop a definition, and codes, for short term rentals. He added that the County is developing regulations, their draft proposal is currently available online. Croci asked the Commission to consider if they want to wait for the county to finalize their requirements or move forward in developing codes for the city. Christine Wollman, a Planner for Pertect Inc. who is contracted to help with the City with planning, said the county is moving towards establishing licensing requirements and limiting the annual growth of STRs. Kirk Esmond, Commission chair, said that they need to think about if the property owner needs to live on site. According Wollman some codes require a local contact even if the owner is not local.

Wollman recommended the city consider some public outreach to survey city residents' sentiment on STRs- including where they should be allowed, licensing requirements and safety inspections. She added that the Commission may also want to consider some of the overarching lodging and income tax regulations that are relevant to rentals.

Esmond and Commission member, Rick Shorett, recommend waiting to see what comes from the county and then go from there, tweaking those regulations to best suit the needs of Cashmere. The Commission decided that they would stay involved and aware of what the county is doing and proceed from there. Member Maureen Lewison added that this isn't an emergency and so the Commission can take time to plan, observe and prepare.

It is best to get public comments, discussion and opinions during in-person meetings, according to Croci. That of course, cannot happen right now. He said he would hate to move forward too fast with this and other projects, like planning for the lagoon development until face to face meetings can happen again. Lewison said that summer isn't generally a good time anyway and so that waiting until September would be best. The rest of the Commission agreed, and tentatively plan to have a public meeting in September to receive public comments on both ADUs and STRs.

June 5, 1945, Cashmere High School Graduation with Louise Fegley.

WRITTEN BY LINDA INGRAHAM,

Friend of Louise Fegley

Dec. 1941 on Monday the day after Pearl Harbor was attacked, the whole school was brought together to listen to President Franklin D. Roosevelt announce that he had declared war. Lots of boys joined the military immediately. The first one in her class joined when he was only 16 with many following in the years ahead.

In her class they started in ninth grade with 83 students & 59 remained in their senior year. In her junior & senior year when it came time for the Junior-Senior Prom, all the girls decorated the gym, dressed up in their formals and went ahead and had the dance. There were a few boys, but they mainly danced with each other. She said all the "big studs & jocks" were gone.

During the two years of 1944 and 1945 they kept sports alive merely for traditions. The war had taken its toll of many things, but in Cashmere High it had wiped out their sports material. They went ahead and played games with the boys that were still in school.

The 1945 annual was a project of the Senior Class of 1945. It was the first time since 1930 that the High School had an annual. The cost of the yearbook per copy was approximately $2.00 each. The name KA-HI-WA was selected by the members of the class. The name was entirely symbolic; made up of the first syllables of the words "Cashmere High, Washington".

The graduating class of 2020 will remember this year like Louise remembers hers in 1945. This was taken from her annual; "June Fifth! At last we are graduating. The final activity of the class of '45. We decided earlier in the year to put on the graduation exercises and program ourselves. Most of us have not done too much thinking, until now, about how much this moment really means to us. Now it is our turn to go out into the world on our own; to find out what the future holds for us. But however far we go, we will always remember and look back on our High School Days that were filled with all of the work, play and the many good times our class has had together.

75 years ago, Louise's class went through an uncertain time like the class is this year. But she led a full and happy life and still remembers those times like it was yesterday. She still lives in Cashmere and loves to tell stories about her life. She says, "Good luck to the class of 2020", a year they won't forget like she hasn't forgot hers.

Lake Wenatchee Fire and Rescue announces retirement of Chief Mick Lamar

SUBMITTED BY ROLLIE SCHMITTEN, MIKE PAYNE AND BILL GIBBS

Lake Wenatchee Fire and Rescue Board of Commissioners

Chief Mick Lamar retired effective June 1st, 2020, with over 40 years in the fire service. In 1980, he started as a firefighter at the Whidbey Island Naval Air Station.

Recognizing his talents as both a firefighter and a leader, he was assigned as Battalion Chief for the Eastern half of the Puget Sound Federal Fire Department. Over the years, he has also served as the Fire Chief at Coronet Bay, Silver Lake, and Ponderosa. Chief Lamar joined Chelan County Fire District 9 in 2005 as a volunteer firefighter. In 2012 he was unanimously appointed by the board to be the Fire Chief.

Over the last eight years under his leadership and direction, LWFR transitioned from a small rural district to a full-service fire and rescue department. Always seeking ways to improve and expand the public service we provide, Chief Lamar pushed the department to develop a full scope strategic plan that outlined improvements in every area. Chief Lamar tirelessly pushed the district to become more efficient and improve. Key accomplishments under his leadership included:

- Combined Fire Districts 4 and 9 to become a more efficient organization that provides services in the greater Plain and Lake Wenatchee areas.

- Dramatically shortening medical emergency response times by adding emergency medical services to the district scope, training and certifying most of the staff as Emergency Medical Technicians, and housing an ambulance in Plain.

- The department developed a succession plan that clearly defined job descriptions and qualifications for key positions.

- Spearheaded efforts to acquire property in central Plain to allow the department to meet the growing need for services as the community expands.

- Chief Lamar, tirelessly strived to upgrade the training and certifications of our firefighting team.

These and other upgrades resulted in improving our community insurance rating to the best possible for a rural fire district.

More than any single accomplishment Chief Lamar established a culture of service, community, and family. Instilling a commitment that even in a small mountain town, we can lean on each other in times of challenge and ensure we come out on the other side, stronger and better prepared than before.

Chief Lamar's final day was Sunday, May 31st. Last tones and a socially distanced ceremony took place that morning at 0900 at station 93.

Please take a minute to thank Chief Lamar for his service and his wife, Trish, for sharing him with all of us in the community.

Chief Lamar plans to spend his time not getting up for calls at night and enjoying Trish's company and their family here in Plain.

While we will miss Chief Lamar, the district is fortunate to have another well experienced and talented leader to take over the reins. Effective June 1st, Assistant Chief Dave Walker will take over as Fire Chief. Dave comes with a wealth of experience as a career firefighter and Battalion Chief with Kirkland Fire.

Integrated Resource Plan

Chelan County PUD is developing a new Integrated Resource Plan (IRP) as required by state law. The 10-year plan outlines the sources of power needed to supply PUD customers. A new IRP must be developed every four years and updated every two years.

Schedule for the 2020 IRP:

- May 11 PUD Commission began discussion
- June 15 Present final draft to Commission
- July 6 Hearing on final IRP and Commission action

The June 15 meeting will be held during a regular PUD commission study session that begins at 10 a.m. in the boardroom at 327 N. Wenatchee Ave. The July 6, 2020 hearing will be at 1 p.m., during a commission business meeting at the same location. Visit www.chelanpud.org and search on "Integrated Resource Planning" for more information.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hispanic coalition pens open 'Letter to the Chelan-Douglas Health District Board'

We are experiencing very difficult times right now. It is understandable that we want to have a sense of normalcy especially as we see other counties in our state enter Phase 2. But, as we seek solutions to address economic shortcomings in our region, we should recognize it will take a collective effort for our community to stand strong in the face of this pandemic.

As the Chelan-Douglas Health District clearly recognized in the 1.5 Phase proposal, the Latinx community, "which makes up at least a third of our population, suffers a much higher rate of known COVID-19 infection than the general population." We could look at economic disparities and cultural customs to explain these numbers, however, we cannot ignore the systemic factors that leave our poor, Latinx – and Native American – communities behind. The pandemic has clearly magnified unjust practices and policies currently in place.

The current transmission rate in Chelan and Douglas counties is the second highest in Washington State and continues to show an upward trend. These numbers are driven by the cases reported from the agricultural industry. The public only knows about COVID-19 cases reported when outbreaks spiked, but there are many more cases in this industry. According to the Washington Department of Health, "outbreaks in agricultural settings can threaten the health of workers, their families, and their communities, as well as the food supply and economic recovery for Washington State and beyond."

Agricultural businesses have been responsible for following state law and federal guidelines to help prevent and slow the spread of COVID-19 in the workplace. However, we continue to see disproportionately high numbers of COVID-19 cases in agricultural workers.

Currently, the Chelan-Douglas Health District is preparing a proposal to move beyond phase 1. The proposal would include language that separates the numbers of COVID-19 positive cases reported in group housing from the general community when reporting and evaluating cases. Although the local health care system regularly tests residents in group living spaces, reporting the number of positive cases in the community that has been hit the hardest, separately from the rest of us is harmful to our neighbors working in agriculture and is harmful to the entire community.

Each harvest season, our state grows by 20,000 seasonal workers, many coming to our region and increasing the number of people shopping at stores and eating at restaurants. If agricultural businesses do not revise and implement meaningful changes to COVID-19 plans and policies, how will employers ensure that our community will be kept safe? We pride ourselves in being an agricultural community, it is time we care about every member of this community.

It takes leadership that is held accountable to comply with necessary health regulations that are in place for the safety of the community.

The responsibility must start with the Health District Board. Employers should coordinate efforts with the Health District to regularly provide and revise culturally-sensitive education about safety practices as recommended by the CDC and required by the State. The number of cases in agricultural workers demonstrates that current COVID-19 plans or policies require third-party oversight and need to be modified to ensure agricultural businesses are protecting workers. The Health District also needs to monitor compliance frequently and enforce the consequences for noncompliance. As it currently stands, workers are responsible for reporting health and safety concerns to the Department of Labor & Industries through a hotline. Many workers fear repercussions and prefer not to file reports.

We can stop the transmission of COVID-19 through contact tracing, which identifies people who have been in contact with COVID-19 positive patients. It appears the Health District has not deployed enough bilingual, bicultural contact tracers to implement regular check-ins with COVID-19 positive cases and their contacts. If these preventive measures are not in place, we can expect COVID-19 cases to skyrocket.

We cannot ignore the clear conflict of interest in the board that governs the Chelan-Douglas Health District. Three of the eight board members are elected officials who appeared as plaintiffs in the lawsuit against Governor Inslee. We need transparency from our elected officials and voices that speak up for the safety of our community.

If we move too quickly back to "business as usual", we will knowingly widen the gap that already exists in health outcomes for the marginalized in our communities. If we continue to suppress the voices of the ones most affected by inequalities in our systems, we will continue to create responses that do not address the actual needs of our communities. To assume that lack of access into spaces where decisions are made is equivalent to a lack of brilliance ignores systemic inequalities in place. The time is now to offer a seat at the table to other voices and ways of knowing.

Let's not rush back to a "normal" where some thrive while many barely survive. Let's create a new community, together.

Wenatchee for Immigrant Justice is a group of local residents whose mission is to promote a community of neighbors that supports immigrant rights in the Wenatchee area. Since July of 2019, it has been working through the state-wide WA Immigrant Solidarity Network to accompany immigrants to local courthouses. It advocates for just immigration policies, and it networks with established immigrant organizations to facilitate bridge-building between culturally diverse communities. Immigrant & Latinx Solidarity Group formed to coordinate different groups including non-profit, community, and grassroots groups to respond to the needs of the immigrant and Latinx communities in our region.

Topical pain relievers

Carol's arthritis was getting worse, and the stay-at-home directive from the COVID outbreak gave her even fewer options to stay active. Her back, knees, hands, and right shoulder ached, and she was miserable. She was told to stay away from anti-inflammatory medicines like ibuprofen (Motrin-IB®) and naproxen (Aleve®) because she had developed blood clots in her legs and lungs several times.

Her family doctor asked me for help. She needed something to relieve her joint pain that would be safe for her while continuing on her blood thinner medicines.

First, we tried Tylenol Arthritis Extended Relief®, taking two tablets in the morning and at bedtime. Within a week, Carol's pain level in her back, knees, and shoulders dropped from a 10/10 to a 6/10.

"My knees and back feel much better, but is there anything you can suggest to help the arthritis in my hands?"

Now there is a safe way for Carol to take an anti-inflammatory medicine like ibuprofen and naproxen. These medicines belong to a family of drugs called Non-Steroidal Anti-inflammatory Drugs, or NSAIDs.

NSAID medicines help to relieve swelling and pain, whether from a sudden injury like a muscle sprain or strain or chronic inflammation such as arthritis.

Many Americans with ulcers, kidney, or heart problems could benefit from using an NSAID regularly. Instead, they may rely on dangerous narcotic pain medicines because of the possible side effects caused by NSAIDs. Luckily, NSAIDs are available as topical gel and patches, and one of the most effective ones, diclofenac, is now available without a prescription.

Applying an NSAID directly to sore muscles or joints as a cream or gel can relieve pain and stiffness. This approach avoids the side effects that NSAIDs can cause, like stomach pain, burning and bleeding, and heart and kidney problems.

NSAIDs applied to the skin can ease the acute pain of sprains and strains as well as the chronic pain of osteoarthritis. In September 2012, the Cochran Institute published a review of multiple studies called a meta-analysis on this topic, called Topical NSAIDs for Chronic Musculoskeletal Pain in Adults. They collected and evaluated lots of studies done with topical NSAIDs, many of them unpublished work from the files of drug companies.

Two medicines, diclofenac and ibuprofen, were able to relieve chronic musculoskeletal pain when applied to the skin. Diclofenac was effective whether used over sore joints and muscles or taken as a pill.

Carol may get more pain relief if she uses an NSAID gel or cream because using diclofenac gel regularly puts MORE medicine into joints than taking an NSAID pill.

Topical diclofenac is available as several formulations and brand names in the United States. Until now, it was only available with a prescription.

Diclofenac is now available without a prescription as Voltaren® 1% gel, applied four times daily. Other options containing diclofenac are still accessible only by prescription. These include diclofenac gel 1% (the generic of Voltaren® gel), Pennsaid® 1.5% solution, used 3-4 times daily, Pennsaid® 2% solution in a pump applied twice daily, and Flector® 1.3% as a patch applied twice daily.

Here are 5 Tips on Using a Topical NSAID for Pain and Stiffness:

1. Small areas work best.

Topical pain medicines work best for treating a specific area that you can easily reach, like Carol's arthritis in her hands.

2. Topical NSAIDs are particularly useful if you take a blood thinner.

Switching to a topical NSAID can be particularly helpful if you take a blood thinner to minimize the risk of stomach pain and bleeding that is common with the pill versions.

3. Don't take more than one anti-inflammatory medicine at a time.

Aleve® (naproxen) and Motrin® (ibuprofen) are closely related to diclofenac. You should avoid taking either of these when using a topical NSAID like diclofenac (Voltaren®) gel without your doctor's supervision.

4. Don't skip doses.

When you apply diclofenac gel to your joints several times a day, it builds up, but in a good way. You can get a higher concentration of medicine in your joint fluid using it topically than by taking it as a pill. You'll get better results without risking dangerous NSAID side effects like stomach bleeding and kidney problems.

5. Consider other topical NSAID options.

If ketorolac gel doesn't help, you can ask your doctor if you could try a different NSAID. Besides ketorolac, other NSAIDs can relieve pain and swelling when used topically. Ibuprofen, ketoprofen, piroxicam, or indomethacin can be made into a topical gel by a pharmacist who makes specialized formulations.

Rediscovering Washington's state parks

By JOHN KRUSE

Washington State Parks are reopening for camping across the state in areas that have achieved a Phase 2 recovery status during the COVID-19 pandemic. That makes this a great time to rediscover these treasured places we've been unable to visit for much of this year. If you are looking for some ideas on which ones to go to you could always start with the most popular parks. After all, people are coming to them in droves and they do so for a reason! With that in mind I reached out to Meryl Lassen with Washington State Parks and learned three of the most visited state parks in 2019 were:

DECEPTION PASS STATE PARK which is Washington's most popular state park. Located on Whidbey and Fidalgo Islands, it received more than three million visitors last year, more than many of our National Parks. At over 3800 acres it's a big park and there is plenty of salt and freshwater shoreline to enjoy whether you take in the views of Puget Sound from the beach or explore the three lakes found here. This big park also offers ample opportunities for camping

Besides camping and exploring this huge park there are several things you can do while you are here. The photogenic Deception Pass bridge is a place you have to visit that links the two islands. On Fidalgo Island Bowman Bay is a great place to hang out for the day and explore by kayak. If you don't have a kayak or experience Anacortes Kayak Tours offers fun guided trips here to paddlers of all experience levels. The main portion of the park is on Whidbey Island. It features both a huge saltwater beach with great views and Cranberry Lake, a fun place to cast a line for trout, bass and perch. During odd-numbered years in the late summer you can also cast for pink and coho salmon off the beach. Finally, if you want to stretch your legs there are 38 miles of trails to explore including 3 miles of bike trails.

CAPE DISAPPOINTMENT STATE PARK near Ilwaco offers lots of things to do in a beautiful setting near the mouth of the Columbia River. History buffs will enjoy learning about this park, formerly known as Fort Canby, that served as a military installation. The Lewis and Clark Interpretive Center is a world class museum chronicling this famous expedition that surveyed the Pacific Northwest. There are also two picturesque lighthouses are also worth visiting. The stretch of sand between the two lighthouses is Benson Beach which is perfect for strolling and there is also a freshwater

OBITUARY

Col. Kjell Magnus Bakke

1933-2020
Leavenworth, WA

Kjell Bakke, known as the "keeper of the ski-jump flame for Leavenworth," passed on May 28 at Mountain Meadows Assisted Living in Leavenworth, after a long illness. Kjell was 87. Born in 1933 in Merritt, Near Nason Creek, to Norwegian immigrants Inga Dorthea Mork Bakke and Magnus Bakke, Kjell carried on the work begun by his father and his uncle, Hermod Bakke, to promote skiing and ski-jumping in Leavenworth on what became known as Bakke Hill. With its 90-meter ski-jumping hill built in 1933, Bakke Hill once hosted national and international jumping competitions and held a world ski-jump record of 345 feet. The big ski-jump closed in 1978. Kjell recounted that his father was a supervisor in building the Leavenworth Ski Hill Lodge under the Civilian Conservation Corps in 1936. The Leavenworth Ski Hill continues to operate under a permit from the U.S. Forest service, first granted in 1930.

After learning to ski at the age of three, Kjell went on to compete nationally in downhill, cross-country, and ski-jumping. After graduating from Leavenworth High School, he won a ski scholarship to the University of Washington and skied with the UW ski team. He even competed for a position on the US Olympic team, but unfortunately it wasn't to be. Kjell graduated with a degree in Civil Engineering in 1956 and then married Eleanor Loomis in 1957. After ROTC and a brief stint in the regular Army he served 30 years in the Army Reserve, retiring in 1986 with the rank of Bird Colonel. He began his career as a civil engineer with the U.S. Forest Service in the Wenatchee National Forest and later transferred to Oregon, retiring in 1985. He continued to work free-lance as a Value Engineer and then began his body-building career. From his late 50's to late 60's he competed in body-building earning 4th place nationally for men over 60.

After his full retirement in 1993, Kjell returned to Leavenworth, where he continued the Bakke ski legacy and served his community. He served on the Leavenworth Winter Sports Club Board; founded the Leavenworth Ski Hill Heritage Foundation with his friend Don White; and secured funding, initiated and oversaw construction of the 15- and 27-meter ski jumps for the training hill to ensure that future generations can enjoy the sport Kjell loved. The annual Bakke Cup, started in his honor, is a Nordic Combined Ski Tournament that fosters competition for community young people in alpine skiing, cross-country and, of course, ski-jumping. Kjell's protégés remember how he "coached new generations of ski jumpers with knowledge and humor." Kjell belonged to the Northwest Ancient Skiers Association and, along with his father, Magnus, and uncle Hermod, is an inductee into the Northwest Ski Hall of Fame. He has been most recently active in planning a Mountain Sports Museum and Training Center in Leavenworth that would include the Northwest Ski Museum and Hall of Fame. Kjell continued downhill and cross-country skiing into his early 80's.

Kjell served his community in other capacities, including the boards of Cascade Medical Foundation, Upper Valley Museum, Barn Beach Reserve, and Leavenworth Seniors.

This ski legend also famously possessed an outstanding tenor voice, which for years graced Leavenworth Village Voices. His performances as the Admiral in Leavenworth Summer Theatre's Sound of Music are remembered by founders Susan and John Wagner as "the most Admiral-looking Admiral we've ever had." Kjell Bakke is preceded in death by his parents; sisters Marie Johanna Bakke Bremner and Ethel May Bakke Gehring; and brother Knute Aksel Bakke. He is survived by his wife, Georgia Bakke-Tull; daughters Sonja Lahana, Sandra Rome, and Brenda Bakke and their mother, Eleanor Loomis Bakke; four grandchildren; and numerous cousins, nieces, nephews and step children Exxene Tull, Karla Tull-Esterbrook, Gavin Tull-Esterbrook, Kendal Tull-Esterbrook and 5 step grandchildren.

Memorials in Kjell Bakke's name may be sent to the Leavenworth Ski Hill Heritage Foundation, a 501c3, at PO Box 54, Leavenworth, WA. 98826. The LSHHF funnels financial support to LWSC and the NWSM.

A celebration of Kjell Bakke's life is tentatively set for September 5 at the Leavenworth Ski Hill Lodge.

I am angry, is that okay?

I feel angry. I am angered at the brutal murder of George Floyd.

I am angered at cities burning to the ground from rioters and looters.

I am angered at arbitrary government decisions that cost people their jobs, their homes, and have shut down whole communities.

I am angered at the cowardice, carnality, and sin of my own heart.

I am angry, just like you.

Anger isn't a bad emotion, in and of itself. There are moments in time where it is more than appropriate to be angry. For example, when acts of injustice are on full display or we see suffering caused by another; there should rise within us some emotional response. To not show anger or display any emotion to those situations would reflect a callous indifference.

We must understand that we are emotional creatures and our emotions and feelings should be expressed, including anger. Look at Christ for instance. He is hardly the stoic that is often displayed in film or Christian iconography. Jesus expressed the full range of human emotions; sorrow, joy, vexation, even anger. In the Gospels, Jesus angered by the corruption and greed of the temple leadership, drives out the money changers and all those who were bilking poor pilgrims to Jerusalem. Additionally, in the Psalms,

A WALK WITH PASTOR JOHN SMITH

God is said to feel anger every day (Ps. 7:11) and when you think about how often God is mocked, denied, and lied about, can anyone blame him?

The Bible says to "Be angry and do not sin" (Ps. 4:4) but that proves to be challenging for us because everything we do is tainted by it. Although situations call for righteous indignation, it is often our malady that we express it unrighteously and direct it toward others.

The murder of George Floyd is a situation that calls for righteous indignation. Much like what happened to Arbery a couple of months ago, as well as the thousands of black lives that are destroyed in the womb every day, we should be angry and decry the overt demonstration of injustice. However, as we have seen in recent events, that anger unchecked can easily turn into riots, destruction, and vandalism. Even when our anger doesn't create an outburst of violence, it can still be just as sinful when using that anger to denigrate and destroy others with our words and attitude.

In our anger towards evil, however, justified as it may be, we should never manifest more evil. As the old saying goes, "two wrongs don't make it right."

When we believe that the only appropriate response to unjust force is to use force ourselves, all we are doing is adding more fuel to the fire which will damage many, including ourselves.

The Biblical exhortation is to "overcome evil with good" (Rom. 12:21) and the emotion of anger can be channeled righteously into acts of mercy, compassion, and justice. We can be angry at policies that are unjust and therefore endeavor to change them. Likewise, we can be angry that people are wrongfully murdered and demonstrate peacefully to show we are not okay with any form of injustice. But what we cannot do is riot, burn, loot, and destroy public property as well as harm others all because we are "fighting mad". It's sinful and those acts of rage are condemned by God.

In these days where there is so much to be angry about, I pray that all of us will check our anger as to not harm others. Instead, we should endeavor to express our feelings in ways that are productive and better the lives of those around us. We should also humbly confess to God when we have responded in the flesh and pray all the more that He would test our motivations and restrain our evil.

It is okay to be angry, but let's not use that anger as an opportunity to sin.
