CASHMERE - Governor Jay Inslee cut the ceremonial grand opening ribbon at the old Cashmere Mill District site, Monday, Sept. 16, for the newest tenants of the Port of Chelan just constructed, multi-million dollar business park. Both state representatives Mike Steele and Keith Goehner were in attendance as well as State Senator Brad Hawkins and Chelan County Commissioner Kevin Overbay. The focus of the event was to show community support for Blue Spirits Distilling, LLC and Hurst International, LLC and it seemed to work quite well as the seating was full with another group of folks standing in various places. The event was catered by Cashmere’s own Taqueria el Chavo and also featured a guided tour of the Hurst printing facility. Governor Inslee said he was excited that this particular facility could produce 15 million fruit labels per day. He was personally guided on a tour by Hurst CEO Ari Lichtenberg. Blue Spirits Managing Member Jeffrey Soehren announced he had already employed 20 workers averaging $30 per hour. Cashmere Mayor Jim Fletcher said that it was not too long ago that he worked with Jeff as an small business economic advisor. “He was working out of his garage in Chelan,” Fletcher said. Lichtenberg took the podium and promised the community that his company was “here to stay and working with agriculture companies is our future.” Soehren spoke to the audience and told them his company will become the “largest distiller in the state” once the Cashmere plant gets going at full capacity. Inslee told the crowd, “It isn’t often that the Department of Ecology is credited with job creation.” He was referring to the state department helping the Port of Chelan clean the former toxic waste site and making it suitable for new businesses. The Port of Chelan’s Commission President JC Baldwin was the emcee for the event and several other port commissioners from Chelan and Douglas county were also in attendance. Read more about this milestone event in the October edition of the Wenatchee Business Journal.

Cashmere City Council

By BRANDI CHARLES

The Cashmere City Council met on Monday, September 9, for the first time since August 12, due to the cancellation of the meeting on August 26. There were five items on the business agenda. All council members were present with the exception of councilor Derick Pratt. The agenda was amended to approve streetlights. The first scheduled business item was the agreement for legal services effective as of January 1, 2020, with the legal team of Ogden, Murphy, Wallace. The second item was the contract for janitorial services for city hall and the city library. It was proposed to change janitorial services due to the receipt of a few complaints about the current service. It was proposed that the company that cleans the windows perform all janitorial services for both buildings at a slightly higher cost. The motion was accepted by all. The third item on the business agenda was a professional service agreement with birdzeyephoto.com. Championed by Mayor Fletcher as his “pet project”, he believes that it will be a great way to show the town from a “birds eye” view for possible developers. The fourth item on the business agenda was the water resources drought agreement between the Department of Ecology and the city for grant funds for well #10 improvements. A request for a $50,000 grant was submitted by the city and was approved. Well #10 is not operational at the present time because the ground water level is too low. A grant request was submitted to put in a variable speed drive which would allow the speed on the well to be adjusted so it pumps at a rate where at least some water can be pumped when the water gets low. It was discussed that the well needs to be rehabilitated, with new pumps, cleanup and possible new construction. Steve Croci suggested that they take the grant money to rehabilitate the well so that it is operational and the city can get some water out of it. It was mentioned that during an intense storm this summer the surface water supply was shut down because the water was too turbid and the city was relying on one well which would not have been sufficient long term, so if well #10 was operational the city would be in a more comfortable position. The council agreed to accept the grant well #10 improvements unanimously. Item five on the business agenda was the decision on an increase in water rates. Mayor Fletcher discussed how the city wants minimum balances in the operating fund each year and he would prefer if there was at least 90 days cash for working capital. He says that they are taking money out of the reserves right now and even if the water rates are raised by 4% as suggested, they are still reducing some of the reserves, but staying above the minimum for operating expenses. The issue of raising the water rates has been a hot button issue during council meetings for some time now. Mayor Fletcher gave a presentation on what the balances in city funds would be every year until 2027 if the rates were increased by 0%, 3% and 5% and gave his opinion that a 4% increase is the best option. Mayor Fletcher justified his position by saying “we all want the lowest possible rates, but it’s about long-term sustainability of our water system.” Mayor Fletcher said that they could technically have no rate increase next year, but that would not be sustainable and the rates would eventually need to be raised anyway to make up for the revenue lost. Councilor Kameon Smith said that she wished more members of the community were present at the meetings so the council could get their opinions on the rate increase, she also said that she would prefer the 4% increase because she would know what to expect each year. It was agreed upon that most of the public would rather have a level consistent increase rather than encountering larger, unexpected increases and that consistency is important.

Climate hoax demonstrates failure of government run education

Last Friday the children of the “World” went out on strike against government inaction to address climate change.

I’m excited to see young people who are motivated to call attention to something other than the latest rock star. The problem is there is not a consensus by real scientists that carbon dioxide is a harmful greenhouse gas or that continued use of carbon based fuels will doom life as we know it on this planet.

Climate Change has become the undebatable religion of the environmental zealots. Try to discuss the flaws in their claims of doom and you are attacked as a denier or worse a sycophant of the evil energy companies that are willing to destroy our planet for the sake of their endless greed. There can be no debate about the underlying hypothesis that our planetary home is being destroyed by our modern lifestyle.

Our government controlled

BILL FORHAN

public schools have used their power to propagandize the issue. Whether as an intentional conspiracy or the unfortunate result of misguided group think the result is the same. Our children have been taught that unless government takes action to control the climate impacts of our current excessively wasteful lifestyle they will inherit an uninhabitable planet.

The problem is politicians are now proposing solutions that are truly draconian and unlikely to actually have any real impact on climate. They will however destroy the economic vitality of the country and give the government dictatorial powers over every human activity.

Consider the “Green New Deal” a proposal that would ban airplanes, cows and require all buildings in the country to be rebuilt to new energy efficient standards.

If you think I am overstating the problem here, try to have a conversation with your children about the issue. I love my two boys and an immensely proud of them but on the issue of climate change they are blind to any argument that draws the issue into question.

I have talked to many parents that have experienced the same reaction from their children.

The environmentalists have taught our children that their parents are not to be trusted on this issue. We are the evil destroyers of the planet with our lifestyle. It sort of takes me back to the 60’s where we weren’t supposed to trust anyone over 30.

There are real climate scientists who are making reasoned arguments about the faulty science of the climate change zealots. My favorite is Patrick Moore. Moore was the former President of Greenpeace and an environmental scientist who has examined the history of our ever changing climate. He has concluded that carbon dioxide levels are not too high, in fact he claims that current CO2 levels are putting plants on a starvation diet.

Our children are ill prepared to assess the issue in a truly objective manner. And going on strike to demand the government take action is a dangerously wrong approach.

If there was ever a case to be made for school vouchers the current success of our government run schools to allow this issue to dominate the political thoughts of our youth is a prime example of the need for educational diversity.

School vouchers give parents the power to decide where the money for their children’s education is best spent. It would create real competition for educational money. Private schools should include religious schools not fake alternatives like government sponsored Charter Schools.

It is time to abolish the Federal Department of Education and put children’s education back into the hands of parents.

The Left hates Trump’s overt masculinity

Actress Joan Lunden is being paid beaucoup bucks for exclaiming the virtues of “A Place For Mom” and apparently no one is complaining that this approach to assisted living/retirement homes is blatantly sexist.

This commercial, this company itself, is proof that actuaries have taken over the world.

That’s right. Actuarial tables have convinced some companies and people and governments to act like robots and shun any semblance of human compassion.

Robots, i.e., computers, are fed information and create algorithms and then act or call for action, based on same. The “default” of numerology-induced logic (statistics) can only lead to alienation between the sexes, races, cultures and countries because these systems only belong in sports - such as the sabermetrics* models used to analyze professional baseball.

If we are all okay with a nationally broadcast commercial telling us that this living arrangement is all about Mom, does that mean Dad is chopped liver?

Yes, he is. Might as well feed him to the dogs now, eh. Men have been relegated to non-human status. I knew this day would come. I wondered why I was barking at the moon more than I used to.

(I admit that I have eaten Milk Bones in the past and they aren’t so bad.)

So why is the hatred of men on the Left so obvious? Must men act effeminate and subservient to get the “female” vote? I hope that is not the case with all these Democrat men vying to become President of the United States of America.

The natural machismo, bravado and utter confidence of our current leader, President Donald Trump, infuriates the Left. Have you heard the recent pledges made by nearly every male Democrat running for president? They are falling over themselves to tell the world how they would all choose a woman as a running mate.

What wimps. Can’t they just choose a running mate based on actual skills, knowledge and dedication to public service? Well folks, that is just too much to ask for.

I was recently counseled by one reader, who refused to go on the record, that I should stop my constant ranting against Democrats and complain instead about local issues.

As far as I’m concerned, our fairly cosmopolitan communities are microcosms of the big world out there and so I have every right to point to overt sexism being flaunted on national television.

Women of America are much smarter than the Left gives them credit for. They don’t need to be pandered to by men who fear their own manhood.

It is a phony way of getting votes from “the fairer sex.” For the most part, women are the fairer sex, but that is not indicative of their toughness nor does it have anything to do with their intelligent quotient.

The right way to show women respect is to show them respect. If you want the “female” vote then give them something to vote for, not just a token candidate with an empty brain.

**Sabermetrics is the empirical analysis of baseball statistics that measure in-game activity by player, situations and a variety of outcomes and is used for predicting future game results based on players’ past performance. It has gained great favor among general managers of professional baseball teams beginning about 20 years ago and has gradually grown in use.*

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Gross malfeasance Killing America

As time passes, I find myself becoming more and more pessimistic about the future of our country due to what I consider to be the gross malfeasance of our elected officials in Washington, DC. These professional politicians have done two things over past years which really upsets me when I think about them. First, they have run the national debt up to where it is now, totally out of control. Second, they have sanctioned wars which we had absolutely no business being involved in.

THE NATIONAL DEBT
-- For some 50 years now our representatives in Washington have, year after year, spent more money than they took in and the debt has steadily climbed. Then someone had the bright idea that we could have a war without telling the American people that they had to sacrifice to pay for it. Just put the cost on the national credit card! The national debt then soared and is now at 22 trillion dollars, is increasing rapidly, and is totally out of control! No one even talks about ever paying down this debt. All they talk about is reducing the deficit (in other words, decreasing the rate at which the debt is increasing). In 2019 the deficit is actually increasing due to Trump’s tax cut and is projected to be 960 billion dollars (nearly one trillion dollars). Just an unbelievable amount!

We are now paying approximately 400 billion dollars a year just to cover the interest on the debt. At the present time, interest rates are historically low (somewhere around 2 percent). I am afraid that sometime in the future international interest rates will rise, and we will be facing having to pay as much as a trillion dollars a year. If this happens, our country will be approaching bankruptcy, and we would probably be forced to default on the debt. What the ramifications of this would be I don’t pretend to know, but you can bet it would be disastrous. Probably the US dollar would no longer be worth the paper it is printed on in the international market for one thing.

I have no idea what, if anything, can be done about this problem. I’m afraid this debt is so far out of control that it is simply a disaster waiting to happen.

WAR SANCTIONS -- When

being asked to sanction a war, the politicians in Washington, DC should ask themselves a very simple question, “Am i willing to sacrifice my son or my daughter’s life for this cause?” If the answer is no, they then have absolutely no business voting to allow a war.

If this criteria had been applied in years past, I suspect there would never have been a Vietnam War or an Iraqi War. Personally, I don’t believe we had any business being involved in either of these wars. Also, there is the Afghanistan War. We invaded Afghanistan after 9/11 with the purpose of wiping out the Al Qaeda camps there, which was a valid reason. However, somehow we became involved in a never ending guerilla war with the Taliban which was a huge mistake. Here we are 18 years later and, despite our technological superiority, we have never been able to defeat them. We should have heeded the primary lesson to come out of Vietnam, which was that you can’t win a guerilla war against a determined enemy!

CONCLUSION -- Obviously, the debt and the wars are related since the major cause of the out of control debt is the wars. These wars are bankrupting us both morally and financially. They have cost us nearly 100,000 of our soldiers dead and untold thousands more scarred for life, either physically or mentally, and they have added trillions to the national debt.

Peshastin Library Kicks off “Read Around the World” program

By BRANDI CHARLES

The Peshastin Library kicked off their “Read Around the World” program on Wednesday, Sept. 18, with a virtual trip to the African country of Ghana. The library invites visitors to this monthly event saying “Join us every 3rd Wednesday for ‘Read Around the World!’ Every month we will be learning about a new culture through stories and art.” Librarian Alicia O’Dell says inspiration to choose the country of Ghana came from a friend who was a Peace Corps volunteer in the country.

The book “Anansi the Spider” drove the theme for the day. The book is available in the library and videos for the famous Ghanaian folk tale are available online. Alicia felt that the story was an appropriate representation of the culture for the audience and expertly directed a discussion pointing out the similarities between our culture and theirs by focusing on the correlation between the style of dress, the housing structures and festive celebrations. Alicia showed videos taken in Bole, Ghana of the local people celebrating the harvest and correlated it with our own harvest celebrations like the Apple Days in Cashmere and Thanksgiving.

The next “Read Around the World” event will focus on the Dia de Los Muertos in Mexico where visitors young and old can learn about the holiday and explore more about the culture. In the book “Innocents Abroad” Mark Twain states “travel is fatal to prejudice, bigotry, and narrow-mindedness, and many of our people need it sorely on these accounts. Broad, wholesome, charitable views of man and things cannot be acquired by vegetating in one little corner of the earth all one’s lifetime.” We all know that travel is important for opening our eyes to new people and experiences, but the cost on our wallets often hamper us from being able to do so, so the “Read Around the World Program” is a wonderful way for visitors to the library who are young and old, to be able to explore the world without leaving the comforts of Peshastin. For more information about the “Read around the World” program and all other special events happening at the Peshastin library, call (509)548-7821 or visit ncr.livanced.info/signup/calendar.

Sleep Aids

Several years ago, Seattle Seahawks quarterback Russell Wilson shared his relentless work ethic in 2 phrases: The Separation is in the Preparation, and No Time 2 Sleep.

Sorry, Russ. You may be the highest paid football player in the National Football League right now, and a hardworking, compassionate and generous young man, but when it comes to sleep, you've got it wrong. You Need 2 sleep!

Arianna Huffington, founder of the successful news website the Huffington Post and author of the books Thrive and The Sleep Revolution: Transforming Your Life, One Night at a Time has credited getting adequate sleep as the key to her success: "When I get enough sleep, I am better at everything."

According to Ms. Huffington, Russell Wilson isn't the only one who devalues the need for sleep. Many Americans consider time spent sleeping as time NOT well spent. However, Amy Myers, M.D., physician and author of the book The Autoimmune Solution insists, "Sleep is medicine."

How much sleep should you get? According to the Sleep Foundation (www.sleepfoundation.org), most adults should get between 7 and 9 hours of sleep every night.

Ten years ago, my dad, an 82-year-old widower, faced surgery to replace his left knee. Rather than force him to stay at nursing home to recuperate from his surgery, I took some unused vacation time and took turns with my sisters to stay with him. We did the cooking, made sure he took his medicines and did his daily physical therapy exercises, and drove him to his doctor and physical therapy appointments until he was again able to do it himself.

"Dad, you need more sleep. Are you uncomfortable?"

"The pain pills work fine, Lulu. I've had trouble sleeping for years."

"If you don't get more than 3 hours of sleep at night, you won't recover very fast from your surgery."

At 6 foot one and 270 pounds, my father has never been sensitive to medicine, so I thought a non-prescription sleep aid could work for him.

Most over-the-counter (OTC) sleep-aid products contain a sedating antihistamine, either diphenhydramine or its close cousin, doxylamine. Instead of treating allergy symptoms like runny nose, itchy eyes and sneezing, these antihistamines are chosen because of their most noticeable side effect: drowsiness.

One 25mg tablet of diphen-hydramine that night didn't help, so the next night we tried two tablets. Dad was smiling as I poured him coffee the following morning.

"I slept for five hours straight before waking up. It's been years since I've slept that well. That stuff really makes a difference."

According to a recent Pharmacy Times survey, the non-prescription sleep aids recommended most by pharmacists all contain diphenhydramine. The most recommended product was Unisom® with 35% of the votes and Tylenol PM took second place with 25%. Sominex® and zzQuil® tied for third place with 9% each of the votes.

Here are 5 Tips on Using Non-Prescription Sleep Aids:

1.Diphenhydramine is the most common and recommended ingredient.

Benadryl® is the most common form of diphenhydramine, available as a 25mg tablet or capsule sold in the allergy section and 50mg as the sleep aid Maximum Strength Unisom®.

2. There are several formulas to choose from.

Unisom® is available both as diphenhydramine and doxylamine. zzQuil® contains the exact same medicine as Benadryl®. Tylenol PM® and Advil PM® each have a painkiller as well: there's an extra-strength 500mg tablet of Tylenol® in each Tylenol PM®, and Advil PM® contains one 200mg Advil® in each one.

3. Beware of a "hangover" effect in the AM.

The sleepiness from doxylamine may last up to 10 hours compared to 6 hours for diphenhydramine. A longer-acting sleep aid is not always an advantage because you may feel "hung over" if the effects of your sleeping pill haven't worn off by the time you need to wake up.

Ask...

Dr. Louise

4.They're not for everyone.

If you get up in the night to use the bathroom, watch out; either diphenhydramine or doxylamine can cause dizziness and lightheadedness as well as blurred vision, urinary retention, dry mouth, constipation, and confusion. If you have constipation, prostate problems, urinary retention or take prescription sleep medicine, you should be very cautious or avoid them entirely.

5. Take the lowest dose that works for you.

I suggest starting with just half a dose of any new sleeping pill, just in case it affects you more powerfully than you expect it to. If you're not sleepy within 30 minutes, go ahead and take the other half.

We all need 2 sleep. Sweet dreams!

NCW Media Inc.'s Obituary and Memorial Policy

An obituary is a way for family members to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the larger community of the deceased.

Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data. Memorials are another way of letting the community know about the life and memories of the person who has died. A memorial is different from an obituary. An obituary is usually current while a memorial can be written later.

For publication in the Cashmere Valley Record or The Leavenworth Echo, an obituary or memorial needs to be typed and emailed to editor@leavenworthecho.com no later than 4 p.m. Friday for the next week's issue. Funeral homes and chapels can submit obituaries by noon on Monday, except holidays.

Obituaries are priced per word while the charge for memorial ads are by the column-inch. Cost of the obituary/ memorial is due at the time of placement.

For information call 509-548-5286, or email editor@leavenworthecho.com

Wenatchee Invitational
XC Results

Cashmere participated in the Wenatchee Invitational Cross Country race held at Walla Walla Point Park in Wenatchee. The race was 5 kilometers in length and is the location we will use for our league championship race that determines which teams will go on to the state championship meet.

Coach Jeff Kenoyer reports that on Saturday the grass was long, there were a couple of muddy spots but at least the sun was out and temperatures were comfortable.

The teams next race was Tuesday Sept. 24th at the Okanogan Invitational followed by the Bellevue Invitational on Saturday September 28th.

Fish Camp

Every September a diverse group of outdoors media professionals, tournament anglers and fishing guides as well as representatives from companies that make fishing gear and other outdoors products all head to the Columbia River Gorge. Their specific destination? The Peach Beach RV Park, located a stone's throw away from US 97 and the bridge that crosses into Oregon and into Biggs Junction.

The reason they come to the tidy, well-kept RV Park is to go to Fish Camp. For five days this group camps in the park, eats meals, socializes, networks and most of all, goes fishing. The annual event is the brainchild of Ed Iman, a promoter and well-known guide from The Dalles who pioneered walleye fishing on the Columbia River. The first gathering occurred in 2003. Originally called the Northwest Outdoor Writers Rendezvous, Ed says "Most of the writers couldn't spell rendezvous and decided to change the name of the event to Fish Camp. The new name stuck and the event became an annual, can't miss experience.

What you fish for depends on your fancy. There are lots of options to choose from. Most attendees head out in boats with guides for salmon, since the Fall Chinook tend to run hot and heavy off the mouth of the Deschutes and Klickitat Rivers at this time of year. Trolling or hover fishing are both good techniques to use that will draw strikes from salmon that often weigh over 20 pounds. If you prefer to fish from shore, you can hike along trails on either side of the Deschutes River or drive along a road the follows the Klickitat. Both streams offer plentiful opportunities to hook into a salmon or summer steelhead for anglers fishing bait, tossing spinners, or casting flies.

There's more than cold water species too. There is very good catch and release sturgeon fishing below the John Day Dam on the Columbia and sturgeon up to 11 ½ feet have been caught by attendees, most of whom report having very sore arms after the experience. This same stretch of the river, and for that matter, the Columbia from the Tri-Cities downstream to the Dalles, is also a good place to catch a walleye. However, September fishing can be challenging since the walleye tend to be gorged from all of the juvenile shad swimming in the river this time of year. Easier to catch, and plentiful to boot, are smallmouth bass. They can reach up to five pounds in size though the average fish runs between a half a pound to two pounds.

Another place for great smallmouth bass fishing is the John Day River. You can fish the mouth where it flows into the Columbia or fish further upstream, hiking along miles of trails that follow this scenic waterway through Cottonwood Canyon State Park. Try casting spinners or grubs for small, feisty bass more than happy to hit what you send their way. Pay attention though, because even though most of the bass are small in Cottonwood Canyon there are a few lunkers.

Returning to camp there are fish stories to swap, salmon to fillet, salmon eggs to cure for bait and for a fortunate few, a nap before dinner. After a filling meal prepared by Ed's camp crew over camp stoves and Dutch ovens there are presentations given by the companies attending the event where new products are rolled out and the media members are given a chance to ask questions or try out samples.

Fellowship and networking follow as the day ends and a propane firepit tends to be a popular place to chat over drinks before everyone heads to bed and gets up to do it all again. It is certainly no chore to do so, it's a pleasure that brings many of the attendees back, myself included, for many years.

Ed Iman's Fish Camp is an invitation only event but the Peach Beach RV Park and Maryhill State Park next door are excellent places to camp and enjoy a September or October fishing vacation. Additional accommodations, as well as numerous restaurants, breweries and sporting goods dealers, are found in The Dalles and neighboring communities like Rufus, Oregon. Burning Restrictions Drop in Portions of Eastern Washington Lower Temperatures and Rain Ease Fire Danger

OLYMPIA – The Washington State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced today that burning restrictions have been lowered in many portions of eastern Washington on DNR-protected lands. This became effective Sept. 18, 2019 at 12:01 a.m.

Rule and permit burns are allowed in most areas, however, there are still burn restrictions in a few areas. Please check with the local fire district or visit <https://fortress.wa.gov/dnr/protection/firedanger/> before lighting any fire.

Campfires may be allowed in designated approved campgrounds. Always check first with the campground host before lighting a campfire. Individual campgrounds may still prohibit campfires.

Also, follow the conditions of the burn permit, and be careful when burning by following these simple steps:

1. Check before burning by calling 1-800-323-BURN (2876) or visiting <https://fortress.wa.gov/dnr/protection/firedanger/> for current burning conditions.
2. Put a firebreak around your fire.
3. Never leave fire unattended.
4. Put the fire completely out every night.
5. If wind speeds increase, put out your fire.

DNR's wildfire mission Administered by Commissioner of Public Lands Hilary Franz, DNR is responsible for preventing and fighting wildfires on 13 million acres of private, state and tribal-owned forestlands. DNR is the state's largest on-call fire department and participates in Washington's coordinated interagency approach to firefighting.
