Chaplain Maynard W. Atik Brings Memories of Tragedy and Message of Hope

Cashmere's 9/11 memorial improvements create a moving experience for all that have visited.

By Brandi Charles

Long before he brought the crowd at this year's 9/11 Spirit of America Annual Remembrance Ceremony to it's feet, Chaplain Maynard W. Atik was compassionately caring for those brought to their knees by horrific tragedy. From Oct. 2001 to May 2002, he was a volunteer chaplain with the Red Cross and later at St. Paul's Chapel. Located directly across the street from the World Trade Center site. St. Paul's Chapel became a place for exhausted police, firefighters, construction crews, rescue workers and numerous others to clean up, rest and eat. In the days and months immediately following 9/11 the call was made for clergy to come and be of comfort to the weary and Mr. Atik answered the call.

Born and bred in Brooklyn,

New York, Mr. Atik graduated from St. Olaf College and Luther Theological Seminary. Having had many different experiences as a member of the clergy, it would be the events of 9/11 that would leave an indelible mark on him. He was living in Brooklyn at the time and was watching The Today Show when he first saw the news that a plane had hit the north tower.

Working as a volunteer chaplain in the months after 9/11 Mr. Atik remembers the "sad eyes" of the first responders. He recalls an occasion 10 years after 9/11 when he was visiting the Tower Footprints at the 9/11 Memorial and Museum. A firefighter and police officer approached him and said "Tm here for my partner who was younger and faster" he says that was all they needed to say. His is a ministry of presence, often people just need to be heard and to know that there is someone willing to listen.

When discussing the September 11th Victim Compensation Fund, he stresses the need for not only the physical health of the first responders, but also a need for their mental health. If he were to be able to speak to a person who was there on 9/11 he says what he would ask of them would be "how has this affected you?" The reverence he has for those who served on that day is clear in his tone and recollection of events. We all remember where we were that day, but to have been a clergy member at the time, a person who others look to for guidance, must have been on a whole other level of responsibility and grief. Mr.

PHOTOS SUBMITTED BY SKIP MUNGAAS.

Atik credits the grief counseling that he has undergone with being of a great help to him in coping with the aftermath of 9/11.

Today Mr. Atik lives in downtown Edmonds with his wife Darleen. He is a proud father of two. His son David is a flight nurse who lives in San Diego and is married with two children. His daughter Kirsten lives in Seattle working as a communications director at the University of Washington and is married with two children. Quick to tell anyone who will listen that he is not a Yankees fan, he has ushered at T-Mobile park for the Mariners for the past 15 years. He also enjoys swimming and making Santa's out of clay.

To conclude his speech at the 9/11 Spirit of America Annual Remembrance Ceremony he recited these verses from a hymn by Robert Wadsworth Lowry: "Through all the tumult and the strife, I hear that music ringing. It finds an echo in my soul, how can I keep from singing? No storm can shake my inmost calm, while to that refuge clinging. Since Christ is Lord of Heaven and Earth, how can I keep from singing?"

Chaplain Maynard W. Atik

During this year's 9/11 Spirit of America Remembrance Ceremony Mr. Atik was presented with the Spirit of America Award and it was well deserved. For a man that has seen so much tumult in the wake of the horror we all felt that day, he is a true testament to the compassion and caring that can come out of tragedy, and to hear his first hand account of the heroism and strength that he witnessed is truly inspiring.

Preview for 2019 Cashmere High School Cross Country

By Jeff Kenoyer

Cashmere girls won the 2018 Caribou Trail League championship by 19 points. Our fastest five girls (which are the runners that count towards the team score) all placed in the top eleven in the meet. Being first in the league championship meet qualified the girls to run at the State Championship meet in Pasco. At state, Cashmere girls finished eighth. We have six of our seven state runners back on the team this season so we do have some experience returning. Senior Eleanor Nelson has participated in three state meets. Juniors Syd Smith. Adria Torrence and Gabby last two seasons.

The Cashmere boys finished in third place at the league championship meet. Two boys finished in the top seven in the meet and earned a chance to run at the state championship meet even though the team itself did not qualify for the meet. Rob McManus finished 6th overall at the state meet and Sam Kinser was 37th. Both are on the team again this season.

Cashmere has twenty-nine boys on the roster which makes this our largest boys team ever. Junior Rob McManus and Senior Sam Kinser both have run twice at the state meet. Junior Dyllion Taylor ran at state as a freshman.

Every year, between 5-20% of Americans become ill from influenza, also called the flu. They suffer from fatigue, chest congestion, body aches and fever.

Most people with influenza recover within about 2 weeks, but in older people and those with health problems like lung disease, congestive heart failure or diabetes, influenza can trigger serious, even fatal complications, like pneumonia.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) between 12,000 and 79,000 Americans die from influenza-related causes every year, 90% of them being over 65 years old.

Q: When's the best time to get a flu shot?

Before it hits your community. The CDC recommends everyone 6 months and older should get vaccinated by the end of October.

Young children age 6 months through 8 years who need 2 doses of flu vaccine should get their first one as soon as the vaccine is available, and get the second one 4 weeks later.

Q: How long does it take to be protected against the flu after getting vaccinated?

It takes about 2 weeks to for a flu shot to become fully effective.

Q: Will a flu shot last vou the entire flu season?

Your best protection from the vaccine kicks in at about 2 weeks and lasts for at least 4 months, after which it decreases gradually over time.

The peak flu season in the United States runs from October through March, with most infections occurring in February. If you are young and healthy, one shot provides protection for the entire flu season, even if you are vaccinated in early September.

Q: Why do we need yearly vaccinations against influenza?

Most viruses have stayed the same over the decades we've had vaccines against them, but influenza keeps changing its shape, making it harder for our immune system to protect us against it. Various influenza strains infect geese, chickens, ducks, pigs and humans, and chance errors occurring while the virus is reproducing can create a slightly different copy. If that copy is better than the old one it replaces it.

Q: Is this year's flu vaccine any different from last year's vaccine?

Most human influenza is caused by one of two main types, called A strain and B strain. Influenza A strains are associated with pandemics and cause more severe symptoms and deaths than B strains.

The World Health Organization (WHO) keeps track of influenza patterns across the world with centers in Tokyo, Beijing, Melbourne, London and Atlanta, meeting each February to decide on the 4 strains best suited for the next influenza vaccine, usually two B strains and two A strains. This year they chose 3 of the 4 strains in February but delayed until March to select the final A strain.

Compared to last year's vaccine, both A strains have been updated while both B strains remain the same.

Q: Is the 4-strain (quadrivalent) flu shot any better than the 3strain (trivalent) vaccine?

There is no clear evidence that the quadrivalent vaccine is more effective, although you get broader protection against influenza with 4 strains (two A and two B) than with 3 strains (two A and one B).

Q: My pharmacy is advertising the "high dose" flu shot. Should I get that one instead of the "regular" formula?

It's your choice. Since older adults with weaker immune systems get only about 50% of the protection of influenza vaccines compared to younger people, the FDA approved 2 trivalent formulations designed to increase effectiveness: a "high dose" influenza vaccine containing 4 times the concentration of Currently Cashmere has nineteen girls on the roster. It is our largest number of girls ever. There will be a lot of competition among the girls for the top seven spots on the team.

The Caribou Trail League should be very competitive for the girls again this year. Only two girls that finished in the top 15 at the league championship meet graduated. There will potentially be 13 of the 15 top runners in the league returning. Cashmere girls have won the league meet the

Based on potential returning athletes, Cascade will be the team to beat in the boys' portion of the league meet. They finished in second place at the State Championship meet. Six of their top seven runners are returning.

The top two boys teams and top two girls team will qualify for state this year. It should be an interesting league meet (Tuesday October 29th at Walla Walla Point Park in Wenatchee).

Former Cashmere state competitor, college athlete and 1st grade teacher, Kea Paton Yamamoto, is the assistant coach this season. Former head coach John Durheim is returning as a volunteer coach this season.

Smell the Roses and Praise God

SMITH

Earlier this week, I took a moment to spend some time at the Wenatchee River. As I sat there, watching the river pass by and enjoying a moment of peace, I was reminded of the Christian's very unique relationship to nature.

Living in Washington, we are extremely blessed to be surrounded by natural beauty. Whether it be the rocky crags of Mount Cashmere, the greenery of the Columbia River Valley or the powdery snow of Mission Ridge, it is a true statement to say: This is God's country.

Being surrounded by such picturesque views, I still find it strange how many people in our community still deny the existence of God. Although I understand the theological answer as to why people reject God's existence (they are in love with their sin), I still find it hard to believe that a person can visit Mt. Rainer or spend time kayaking the Columbia River and still say "There is no A WALK God". Creation testifies WITH to the glory of God and PASTOR evidences his eternal attributes, divine nature JOHN > (Psalm 19:1, Rom. 1:20). When someone asks me to prove that God is real as I minister on the street, I simply say "Open up your eyes and look around.'

and eternal power

Yet for the Christian, our eyes have been opened by the Holy Spirit to see God in nature. When we look outside through our window and see the massive oak tree with its hundreds of branches, each of them unique, and then follow along its trunk to see a woodpecker, searching for a meal, we should be able to recognize the work of God and rejoice.

In spite of this world's fallenness, God has given us Creation to enjoy. Otherwise, why would he make it so beautiful? For example, why would God design the autumn leaves to turn a brilliant red or fiery orange, if not for us to marvel at their beauty and turn our praises toward the Master Artist and Creator? After all, since God is the Creator, he could have made those very same leaves (as well as this whole world) a drab grayscale but he didn't and I praise God for that.

However, our enjoyment of Creation is not an end in itself rather it is a means to an end. As we enjoy God's handiwork and take in his artistry, it should draw us to worship him. I believe this is where the ancient Celtic Christians had the right idea. Instead of locking the worship of God within ornate man-made cathedrals, they chose to worship in the open air, performing their church services underneath the shadow of a large stone Celtic cross, surrounded by the scenery of rolling hills and at times, the crashing waves of the ocean. There in those moments, those early believers recognized that God was immanent among them and that they were surrounded by his presence because his work was clearly on display. I can certainly attest to this in my personal life. Some of the dearest moments I have had with Christ were not in a church building, but rather alone, overlooking the Pacific Ocean from House Rock in Oregon. Likewise, some of the most powerful experiences in preaching I have seen were in places not covered by a roof with a steeple, but in the open air, with nothing separating the preacher from the clear blue sky.

In our lives, we do need to take time to get out and see what God has done in this world-how he has designed it and sustaining it with his power. Our Father's world is meant to be tangibly experienced, taken in and enjoyed.

So, this week, take time to smell the roses and then give God the praise and worship.

NCW Media Inc.'s Obituary and Memorial Policy

An obituary is a way for family members to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the larger community of the deceased. Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data. Memorials are another way of letting the community know about the life and memories of the person who has died. A memorial is different from an obituary. An obituary is usually current while a memorial can be written

For publication in the Cashmere Valley Record or The Leavenworth Echo, an obituary or memorial needs to be typed and emailed to editor@leavenworthecho. com no later than 4 p.m. Friday for the next week's issue. Funeral homes and chapels can submit obituaries by noon on Monday, except holidays. Obituaries are priced per later.

Salmon Festival Volunteer Award 2019

Welcome to the 29th Annual Salmon Festival!

classrooms are expected to visit on Thursday and Friday. For many schools this will be the only field trip they take all year long so the staff aims to make their experience extra special. Salmon Festival is expanding this year and one of the highlights will be representatives from 20 Native American tribes; including the local Wenatchis, on hand to share a wide variety of knowledge and skills. Salmon preparation, drumming, dancing, basket making, canoeing and storytelling are just a few of the areas that will be covered by the tribal representatives. The participation of the Native American community is of the utmost importance as the fish hatchery is located on traditional Aboriginal lands. As a part of the local community since 1991 locals are well aware of the value of the of the Salmon Festival but the word has spread far and wide. The event has been the recipient of several awards over the years including the International Festival and ents Association's Children's Program" award. Staff and volunteers work tirelessly year-round to make the festival happen. Corky Broaddus says that without the help of the volunteers the Salmon Festival would not happen. She made special mention of the high school students that are eager to come and get their hands dirty every year to help out. This year Cascade High School will be receiving the Volunteer of the Year award, having worked to make the festival a success since it's inception. Broaddus says that every year she sees a number of visitors who came to the festival as children and high schoolers back to visit with their own families and that's one of the many reasons why she volunteers year after year.

There are many organizations that partner with the Fish Hatchery to make Salmon Festival successful.

Executive Directors, Corky Broaddus (right) and Hailey Croci welcome everyone to the 29th Wenatchee River Salmon Festival "Catch The Salmon Fest Fever".

By Brandi Charles

This year marks the 29th anniversary of the Salmon Festival at the Leavenworth National Fish Hatchery. Corky Broaddus has been a part of the festival for 22 years and talks with pride about what it stands for and how much it has grown. It was one of the first nature festivals in the country and serves as a model for programs nationwide. What is unique about Salmon Festival is it promotes outdoor recreation while providing high quality natural resource education in a fun, familyfriendly environment.

The first two days of Salmon Festival are dedicated to the students. Over 2,500 children from more than 85 The Chelan County PUD and their River Ramble activities will be available for students on September 19-20, with some also available on the free family day on Saturday. A few of these activities include the 30 foot long Salmon Storytelling Tent and a traditional drumming demonstration. The curators of the Salmon Festival want it to be an inter-generational experience where grandparents can come with the little ones and learn and play together. With so many distractions for young people that encourage them to sit and stare at a screen, Salmon Festival is a rare free opportunity for the whole family to have fun and learn new things while enjoying the

Wenatchee River Salmon Fest, September 19-21, 2019

The Wenatchee River Salmon Festival invites you to the 29th year.

Don't miss this unique nature festival that has been awarded many achievements throughout the Pacific Northwest, including the "Best Children's Program" by the International Festivals and Events Association.

The Wenatchee River Salmon Fest is an annual event held at the Leavenworth National Fish Hatchery off of Icicle Road in Leavenworth, Washington. Over 3,000 north central Washington school children attend 'School Days', scheduled for Thursday and Friday, September 19 and 20. Salmon Fest is an award winning event devoted to engaging visitors of all ages in fun-filled "edutainment", a venue that is both educational and fun at the same time. Salmon Fest's mission is to connect people with nature and help to build discovery and appreciation of the diversity and importance of the great outdoors. Our location within the stunning Icicle Valley is a prime spot to enjoy both nature's beauty and the interconnectivity of nature within our lives, and to gain an understanding of the cultural significance of salmon to all people. Recognized internationally for its educational excellence, Salmon Fest is located just off of Icicle Road at the Leavenworth National Fish Hatchery, two miles south of the "Bavarian Village" of Leavenworth, Washington. Parking and entrance are free!

This year's event will feature an incredible Inter-Tribal program hosted by the Chelan PUD called "River Ramble at Salmon Fest". Tribal educators and leaders. dancers and drummer, elders and youth will share the cultural significance of salmon to the peoples of the Pacific Northwest. For more information, swim to our website: www.salmonfest.org or call 509.548.6662 ext. 226 and visit our FB page, as well.

Hosted by the Leavenworth National Fish Hatchery, The Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest, Chelan County PUD and Friends of Northwest Hatcheries.

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

By John Kruse

THE PERFECT TIME OF YEAR FOR A HIKE

There's something about September if you like to hike the mountains and forests of our state. Perhaps it's the crisp feel of the air in the morning in the lowlands and in the mountains throughout the day. Mavbe it's the softer light that shows off the pastel of changing colors of the foliage to yellow and scarlet. Or maybe it's just the fact that hordes of summer hikers are by and large off the trails after Labor Day.

Whatever the reason, it's a good month to go hiking. One great destination this time of year is found at Stuart Lake in the Alpine Lakes Wilderness. The trailhead to Stuart and Colchuck Lake southeast of Leavenworth is a popular one, so much so the U.S. Forest Service had to institute a noparking policy along the side of the gravel road leading to the parking lot. Having said that, if you can visit mid-week, you'll still find quite a few cars at the trailhead but surprisingly few hikers heading towards Stuart Lake as their destination. The reason? Most hikers are heading up the trail 2 ¼ miles to Mountaineer Creek and taking a left on a trail that takes them to Colchuck Lake. This lake is a beautiful destination in its own right and also the gateway, via Aasgard Pass on the far side of the lake, to the Upper Enchantments that draw thousands of hardy visitors every year.

Of the hikers that stay straight on the trail to Stuart Lake you'll find many of them are climbers, not interested in spending time at the lake but instead, interesting in testing themselves on the granite rock face of nearby Mount Stuart. That's why, even with a parking lot full of cars, you may find yourself alone or with very little company along the shoreline of Stuart Lake.

Take the time and linger over the picnic lunch you hopefully brought along to enjoy after the 4 ½ mile hike in with a 1,665-foot elevation gain from the trailhead. The views of the lake and towering mountains are amazing and at this time of year you'll see the changing colors of the larch trees turning from green to bright yellow to gold.

The fishing for cutthroat trout can be good too. Try casting a 1/8-ounce Roostertail, Mepps or Promise Keeper spinner or if fly fishing, an attractor fly like a Royal Wulff to draw strikes. The trout population is healthy but not endless so if you want to keep a couple for a shore lunch over a gas stove that's fine but otherwise consider catching and releasing these fish that measure anywhere from 7 to 13 inches in size.

A Forest Service Recreation Pass is required in your vehicle for the Stuart Lake trailhead. You'll also need an overnight permit (available but in high demand) from the Leavenworth Ranger District Office or through an online lottery since Stuart Lake lies within the Enchantment Zone of the Alpine Lakes Wilderness. On the other hand, you only need to fill out a free permit at the trailhead and deposit the stub into the box there for a day hike.

MORE SEPTEMBER HIKES

Looking for other fall hiking opportunities? We reached out to Anna Roth with the Washington Trails Association to learn about some of her favorites which include:

NE WASHINGTON WHISTLER CANYON TRAIL This little-known destination

is located near Oroville. You'll burn some calories as you gain up to 3,000 feet of elevation along this 12-mile long trail which is part of the Pacific Northwest Trail. Its open to hikers and horses and offers stunning views of the Okanogan Valley and Osoyoos Lake along with a chance to see a variety of wildlife species from wild turkey to mule deer to mountain goats.

FILE PHOTO

OLYMPIC PENINSULA QUINAULT NATIONAL RECREATION TRAILS Located near Lake Quinault, enjoy a 4.25-mile round trip hike that takes you along an interpretive nature loop amongst giant Sitka spruce and western hemlock. Other parts of the trail follow the shore of Lake Quinault and alongside Falls Creek. This is a family friendly hike with only 350 feet of elevation gain. If you go hiking this September remember there are several hunting seasons underway in our National Forests so hot pink and blaze orange are not only fashionable, but smart choices for hikers to wear.
