New 9/11 monuments installed at the Spirit of America Memorial

By BRANDI CHARLES

On Thursday, Sept. 5, the final touches were made to the 9/11 Spirit of America memorial in Cashmere just in time for the annual 9/11 ceremony remembering the attacks. Already an impressive monument, the addition of the four granite statues makes it that much more of a site to see. The two nearly 11-foot tall towers are in scale with the real twin towers and are inscribed with the names of everyone that was lost in

New York City. They are a touching but somber and stunning tribute, that will definitely be a huge draw for the memorial. Seeing the names of all of those lost in New York City is a reminder of all that was lost that day. With a combined weight of 11,700 pounds, the two statues are 20 inches square and required an enormous crane and a large crew for their installation.

The crews installed two monuments that were smaller than the ones dedicated to the New York victims, but no less impressive. Commemorating those who were lost on flights 77 at the Pentagon and 93 near Shanksville, Pennsylvania the smaller monuments are placed beside the two taller ones. A small group of onlookers were present to watch the installation of the monuments which took most of the day. Thomas Green is a volunteer with the project and beams with pride whenever he talks about it.

“While working on the site these past six weeks, it is so exciting to see so many tourists and locals who come to the memorial and are moved by what we have,” Green says.

This is definitely a labor of love for all involved. Thomas Green was there for most of the day on Thursday, even bringing the crew donuts. Columbia Crane donated the use of their equipment and manpower, using the biggest crane they had in their fleet to lift the heavy granite statues. Estimates of the use of the crane and crew for the day were $10,000 plus.

Every year Cashmere attracts visitors from near and far for the annual 9/11 ceremony. This year with the planned dedication and ceremony the event will likely receive a record breaking amount of visitors. The 9/11 ceremony and new monument dedication will be taking place on 9/11 at 11 a.m. at 201 Riverside Drive.

Cashmere Museum and Pioneer Village Restores Stoffel Waterwheel

PHOTOS SUBMITTED BY REBECCA CAZZANIGI

By BRANDI CHARLES

The Cashmere Museum and Pioneer Village have a few exciting projects underway and in the near future. The Stoffel waterwheel at the museum is incredibly historically significant to the area. The original waterwheel was made of wood and was used to take water to an orchard and cattle farm from 1897 to 1914. It was when Paul Stoffel, a Columbia River sternwheeler captain, bought part of the orchard and the waterwheel itself, enlarging it partly from salvaged material and steel, bringing it to a height of 29 feet and lifting 400 gallons of water a minute. Having suffered significant damage in the flood of 1948, Karl Stoffel offered the waterwheel to the museum if a way could be found to move it.

In its new home at the museum it has become a popular attraction and has been on the National Register of Historic Places ever since 1973.

Project manager Brad Cazzanigi, his wife Becca and her parents Rich and Toddi Mornae are all working together to restore the Stoffel waterwheel. A drive past will give you a front row seat to see the progress that they have already made. They are all volunteering their time, it's a labor of love for the family. Other significant donations have come in to help pay for the wood, while Tacoma Screw Products of Wenatchee has donated all the hardware.

On Sept. 28, the museum will be having a cabin cleaning from 9 a.m. to noon and encourages anyone who would like a behind the scenes look at the cabins to contact the museum to get their assignment. This is a project that is done at the beginning of each season before Apple Days. Later that afternoon at 1 p.m., writer and storyteller Rob Molzhan will be leading a walking tour of the Pioneer Village. The following month on October 5th and 6th are the Apple Days which is the yearly celebration of the region's significant fruit harvest that was started in the 1970's. Finally, on October 31, the museum is having a special trick-or-treat event at the Pioneer Village from 3-5 p.m. The brainchild of Becca Cazzanigi, community members, volunteers and sponsors come together in the hours prior to the events in downtown Cashmere to enjoy some candy and get into a spooky mood.

DemArmageddon

9-11 is here ... so it is apropos I warn others: DemArmageddon will occur when the country is the most relaxed and fat and happy. It will happen before anyone even knows it, but the conservative country folk who have been staging "end times" dress rehearsals for decades, they will own it and thrive.

People have been building storage and survival shelters for years and now their proactive bent will pay dividends.

This is not a doomsday scenario that I just dreamed up out of whole cloth or in a feverish nightmare, but the reality of things to come if a far left Democrat wins the White House.

The debt will keep growing and more and more "entitlements" will be created. There will be freebies handed out to all sorts of folks. The LGBTQ community will lobby for and get special rights for bathrooms, classrooms and even jail cells.

APPLES TO APPLES
GARY BÉGIN
NCW MEDIA MANAGING EDITOR

The "undocumented alien" immigrant community will get even more free food, medical treatment and education. So called "chain migration" will explode in the next four years if the White House turns Blue.

Small towns across the nation will be forced to accept thousands of thousands of welfare deadbeats on their social services agency budgets with no relief in site from the state or Feds because every part of the government will be caught short as the promises continue to build and the revenues continue to fall.

What is Armageddon? The battle of Armageddon refers to the final war between human governments and God, or any doomsday endtime scenario in its broader meaning. The United States government(s) will fall under demonic forces that think abortion is good for population control and those babies that do survive will then be coddled from cradle to tomb by a massive series of laws giving them all the rights of American citizenship, but none of the responsibilities.

Taxes? Who cares. Military service? Not if you don't want to. Protection of civil rights? Only those the left agrees with. Freedom of religion? Not really, after all, is respect for God a requirement of the new Millennial American? Never has been, why start now?

Pick anything that requires standards, even minimal standards to be met and the left will tear it down and abolish it, just like the babies in the womb.

Will future applicants to the police academy have to pass a background check? Not in the new world order. Former crooks are welcomed. What about teachers? The heck with curriculum, just teach what you want.

Remember to revise all history to do with America fighting great wars or freeing whole countries from tyranny or feeding the world in times of crisis.

Make sure to glorify the Commies and how wonderful it is to share a society's wealth with every person regardless of in-kind participation.

Who needs credentials anyway when what the left wants is diversity above and beyond anything else. Doesn't matter if you can read or write or even add a few numbers up, you'll be hired if you are the right demographic.

In fact, there'll be a law that demands diversity be enforced at any cost.

Driver licenses and voting cards will be handed out like popcorn to anyone and no fees will be charged, because after all, why should someone with no money have to pay a fee for government services?

I have always considered myself to be blessed with many things over the last six decades.

Now for a final blessing request: Please God, let me take my dirt nap before all of the above "freedoms" take place.

I want to die remembering America as it was before those crazy hippies and their kids took over the universe. I would ask to be buried with my guns, but they probably will have been confiscated before I go.

Learning by Listening

Earlier this September, I concluded my third annual district-wide listening tour. We expanded it this year by one additional day which was helpful and much needed. Traveling throughout North Central Washington with my staff has become an annual tradition in the fall, the time of year that legislators traditionally begin planning for the upcoming legislative session.

In past years, I have visited Leavenworth, Cashmere, Wenatchee, East Wenatchee, Chelan, Quincy, Coulee City, Soap Lake, Bridgeport, Pateros, Twisp, Winthrop,

COMMUNITY VOICES
By BRAD HAWKINS

and Waterville - all communities in our vast 12th Legislative District. This year's tour included many of those same stops along with new additions of Mansfield and Mazama. Despite all of the communities we have visited, there are some still remaining on my list for a future year. The size and diversity of our district can make some decisions more difficult in Olympia, but I try my best to learn the range of issues affecting us and to represent the entirety of our district when making decisions.

Hearing the diversity of voices throughout the region

- as is the case each year - helps me do my job better. During this year's listening tour, community members helped me learn more about agriculture, healthcare, wildfire, transportation, education, land use, and clean energy issues just to name a few. Business regulations, tax pressure, outdoor recreation, traffic slowdowns, wildfire response, education funding, water availability, and housing affordability continue to be topics of major interest. This feedback will certainly be helpful for me when casting key votes in Olympia.

Similar to past listening tours, I concluded my busy week with a community hike, this year up the Chelan Butte Trail overlooking beautiful Lake Chelan. Participants included Chelan Mayor Mike Cooney, Representative Mike Steele, Lake Chelan Trails Alliance, Chelan High School football team, Butte Brand apparel creators, and other individuals and groups. The hikes provide me with an opportunity to connect with people in a unique and different way - and they have become political "walk and talk" opportunities, which are a fun change of pace from common conference room or office discussions.

As I review my notes from this month's listening sessions and look ahead to the legislative session in January, I will travel to Olympia not only better prepared to represent us but also filled with gratitude for the opportunity to do so. If you were not able to participate in my recent listening tour, please know that you can connect with me year round. Whether here in the district or in Olympia, please reach out and stay in touch through letters, phone calls, or emails. Thank you for the opportunity to serve as your 12th District state senator. I appreciate your willingness to share your thoughts and ideas with me. I learn by listening.

Does China want "regime change" in America?

Just a few months ago, the stock market was celebrating a "cease fire" in our trade war with China. Since then, things have really calmed down. Just kidding. Here's a quick synopsis of the last month or so: China devalued their currency, so Trump labeled them a currency manipulator and threatened more tariffs, but then backed off those tariffs a little bit. However, he didn't back off enough for China, so they retaliated with tariff threats of their own, which prompted Trump to claim he was the "chosen one" to fight China, and "hereby order" all American companies to stop doing business in China. Most recently, a new round of tariffs was officially put into place on September 1st.

Unfortunately, we are two years into the trade war, and there's no end in sight. Even if we get a big, beautiful, comprehensive deal tomorrow - that won't likely be the end of it. We just had a cease-fire in May, and neither side held to the deal for any amount of time.

COMMUNITY VOICES
By BRAD BLACKBURN

As the trade war grows and lingers, it's hurting both sides more and more. The American manufacturing industry is in a recession, and the Chinese economy is weaker than it has been in almost 30 years.

I worry that China is trying to outlast Trump. Yes, they have endured more economic pain than us, but they've weathered the storm so far, and now we are only 14 months from an election. Not only that, the weaker the American economy is, the more likely the Chinese won't be negotiating against Trump. So, China has a lot of incentive to wait this thing out. You might even say that China is trying for "regime change" in America, which wouldn't bode well for the American economy, or the stock market.

SUBMITTED BY AMERICAN LEGION POST 64

Every year at the Chelan County Fair the American Legion Post 64 booth raises money for veteran services by selling an array of baked goods including corn dogs, cotton candy and fresh corn on the cob. On Thursday, a nonprofit organization, Northwest Laborers' Employers Cooperation Fund, interviewed some of the key members of the American Legion Post 64 about the benefits of volunteerism.

Glen Hendrickson, a Korean War veteran, and his wife Norma have been volunteering for 20-years with the organization.

"We need more volunteering in this day and age and looking for service rather than yourself is important," said Norma Hendrickson.

As the American Legion boasts its centennial, volunteers, members and leaders are excited to continue the tradition of honoring the men and women who have served this country.

Bob and Gina Abbott have been volunteers and members of the American Legion for over 15-years.

"The veterans we have been involved with have touched our lives and have shown us the importance of volunteering our time in the communities that we serve," said Bob Abbott, Vice President and Northwest Regional Manager of the Laborers' International Union of North America.

Member and volunteer efforts can be seen throughout Cashmere, from the fair booth to statue restoration and placing flags on Memorial Day, among many others, which continuously show the importance of community service. American Legion Post 64 meets the first Thursday of every month at the Legion Hall located at 401 Sunset Highway.

Korean war veteran and 20 year American Legion volunteer, Glen Hendrickson and his wife Norma prepare corn to be sold at the fair.

Bob and Gina Abbott have been volunteering at the American Legion for 15 years and enjoy coming to the fair every year.

A Silent Witness is Not a Witness

How do you share the gospel?

That question causes a bit of discomfort for some. Some people cannot remember the last time they actually "shared" the gospel with someone. Others have never shared it in their entire life, which is alarming, to say the least. Still, other people will answer, "I share the gospel by my life and actions."

"Lifestyle Evangelism" is fairly popular among churchgoers. It is the idea, that if I morally live my life, am kind and giving to everyone, then unbelievers will know that I am a Christian and therefore come to know the gospel. After all, didn't Francis of Assisi say, "Preach the gospel but use words if necessary"?

No, he didn't. That method of sharing the gospel is very dangerous because it is not sharing anything at all. The only thing it is doing is communicating how great of a person you are rather than how great Jesus is.

Think about it this way, here you have an individual in the middle of an unbelieving world. He is kind, generous, and is a very upstanding guy. He even volunteers at the local food bank and helps elderly ladies cross the street, but he never mentions that he is a Christian.

What will those around him say? They will most assuredly see the good he does and approve his charity but they will never know about Jesus, what he came to do and their desperate need for him to save them.

They will never know the gospel.

The gospel is not meant to be lived out because the gospel is news. The gospel is the good news that Jesus came, died, rose again and ascended to heaven as Lord and Savior. It is the news that because of what Christ did on the cross, that offer of peace and eternal life is for today and given to all who would receive it.

And this news must be shared.

The very last command of Jesus recorded in the Gospel of Mark is, "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to all of creation" (Mk. 16:15). The word, "preach" has the connotation of a herald giving an announcement of a royal decree. This last commission is the direct opposite of a silent witness.

Why is "lifestyle evangelism" so popular? The answer is very easy because it is comfortable. There is hardly any risk or cost to being a kind person. Generally speaking, most like and appreciate individuals who have a moral compass and seek to do good. Yet when that individual claims Christ and urges all to follow him, then that individual becomes disliked or mocked as being "one of those Christians".

I also have to ask, is the reason why lifestyle evangelism is so popular is that deep down we are ashamed of the gospel?

Perhaps so, because if you tell people about their sin and their need for a Savior, you will be rejected and certainly nobody wants to feel that.

Yet, think about how you came to know the gospel. Undoubtedly someone in your life told you the good news, risking your rejection and your disapproval but shared with you anyway the hope found only in Christ. You heard and faith was birthed in your heart, because "faith comes by hearing..." (Rom. 10:17).

Now imagine if no one shared the gospel with you because they were too scared or figured you would just observe it in their life. How would you feel? Not good, because you would be deprived of the very antidote to your biggest problems—your sin and condemnation.

I am reminded of a quote from the outspoken Atheist Penn Jillette which should cause us to hang our heads in shame, he asks, "How much do you have to hate somebody to believe that everlasting life is possible and not tell them that?"

Do we really hate people that much to not tell them the good news?

Are we that ashamed of Jesus, his blood and cross, to not share with those who need to hear that message? No? Then go out and tell somebody the gospel.

OBITUARY

Ernest Paul Guthrie

February 6, 1924 - August 30, 2019

Ernest Paul Guthrie, (aka. Ernie, Joe, Tuff), age 95, of Cashmere passed away August 30 while camping and planning his "final" fishing trip with his family and friends at Thousand Trails Campground in Crescent Bar.

He was born February 6, 1924 in Proctor, Oklahoma but moved at a young age with his parents and siblings to Huntsville, Arkansas. The family lived on 180 acres where they produced timber and garden vegetables.

He married Velma Eubanks April 24 1943 near Hindsville, Arkansas. They were married by Ernie's great-uncle Rev. D.W. Alderson along side the road because the preacher was headed the opposite direction and they flagged him down and were married then and there.

The couple moved to the Wenatchee Valley in 1945 where he worked as a laborer in the local orchards until 1952, when he hired on at the Cashmere Sawmill. He worked many positions there until his retirement in 1986.

After Velma passed away in 1986, he married Pauline Evans, a long time acquaintance from Arkansas. They both loved to fish and traveled all over Washington state. Ernie also loved to hunt deer, elk, and upland birds. When he wasn't hunting or fishing he was in his garden where he produced some of the finest vegetables and melons in the valley. He entered his produce in the county fair and won many ribbons and awards. He enjoyed selling his produce from his front yard but he really loved visiting with those who stopped by his house forming many lasting friendships.

Ernie is survived by his brothers Keith, of Arkansas; Johnny (Nona) of Dryden; his son Jim of Chewelah; and daughter D'Lynn (Aaron) Davis of Wenatchee. Nine grandkids, Twenty-three great grandkids and two Great Great grandkids.

He was preceded in death by wife Pauline, parents, five siblings, daughter Oneita Owenby, Grandson Zachary. His son Ernest (Jay) joined him in death 3 days later on 9/2/2019.

Services will be held Saturday September 14, 11:00 at Church of God, Faith of Abraham, at 1835 North Western Avenue in Wenatchee.

We are here to serve families in Leavenworth, Peshastin, Plain and the entire Upper Valley.

Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data. Memorials are another way of letting the community know about the life and memories of the person who has died. A memorial is different from an obituary. An obituary is usually current while a memorial can be written later.

For publication in the Cashmere Valley Record or The Leavenworth Echo, an obituary or memorial needs to be typed and emailed to editor@leavenworthecho.com no later than 4 p.m. Friday for the next week's issue. Funeral homes and chapels can submit obituaries by noon on Monday, except holidays.

Obituaries are priced per word while the charge for memorial ads are by the column-inch. Cost of the obituary/ memorial is due at the time of placement.

Chelan County Fair Rodeo mud-slingin' delight

Sure-footed horses were the necessity, not the luxury, as the heavy mud of the Chelan County Fairgrounds rodeo arena demanded as much for barrel racing and several other events.

Another bull rider is told to "get off my back" as the last event of the 2019 rodeo season comes to an end.

Bronco busting is easier said than done, this cowboy can attest.

Rodeo announcer Tucker Cool kept the crowd engaged for hours with light-hearted and encouraging banter. He is the son of Rod Cool, former Chelan High School FFA director.

I can see clearly now my ride is gone. Nothing but blue skies in my view.

Two men and a steer. One goes for the horns, the other for the rear.

CASHMERE -- The Chelan County Fair Rodeo came to a thrilling end.

Well it's bulls and blood
It's dust and mud
It's the roar of a Sunday crowd
It's the white in his knuckles
The gold in the buckle
He'll win the next go 'round
It's boots and chaps
It's spurs and latigo
It's the ropes and the reins
And the joy and the pain

And they call the thing rodeo
--- Garth Brooks

The crowd was sparse and the mud was deep, but the Chelan County Fair Rodeo was going on despite, with men putting their lives in danger on another Sunday in the world of man vs animals, where the animals often won hands down.

Every once in a while a tough hombré would hang on to a raging bull or a wild bronco for eight seconds and suddenly a paycheck and a prized buckle might be in his future.

For the ladies it was a matter of racing around three barrels without making a mess of things. After all the tight turns and giddy-ups they still had that long, last sprint to the timing lasers.

The voice that afternoon on Sunday the 8th of September, 2019 in Cashmere belonged to Tucker Cool, son of longtime Chelan High School FFA director Rod Cool.

His patter called the next riders, calmed the last fallen

SUBMITTED BY MARLENE FARRELL
CMF Coordinator

Cascade Medical Foundation's Home and Garden Tour is fast approaching, with this, the 24th annual, occurring on Saturday, September 14, from noon to 5 p.m.

You won't want to miss these five Plain homes, each with a story to tell.

The love and care of home and community is apparent at each house. Some were built by the current owners, who transformed thickets into gorgeous riverfront homes and yards. Artistic, locally crafted details in the architecture and décor will surprise you at each location. Many of the owners have brought back mementos from travels and incredible life experiences, piquing your curiosity.

Once you've enjoyed the interiors, both plush and cozy, you can wander outside to delight in gardens, rolling terraces and calming views of the river.

The fun of exploring these homes in Plain benefits Cascade Medical Foundation in our efforts to help Cascade Medical provide the highest quality healthcare for our community. This year's fundraising efforts all go toward 3D Mammography equipment, which is a sophisticated upgrade from the previous technology and aids in early detection of breast cancer.

Other opportunities to support CMF include a stop along the tour at Plain Cellars. This local winery has generously offered free wine tasting to tour participants. There will also be fare for sale and a complimentary treat from Taste of Plain.

The home of Don and Pat Bottoms, at 12398 Hill Street, will also host Glassybabies, hand-blown glass tea light holders. CMF will receive 10% of the proceeds from Glassybabies sales.

The $20 tickets are on sale right now. You can get them online (cascademicalfoundation.org/fundraisers/home-garden-show), at Plain Hardware and on the day of the event. Feel free to begin your tour at any of the homes.

CMF wants to thank the generous event sponsors who have helped make this year's Tour possible. They include Windermere Real Estate, Mike West Realty, Berkshire Hathaway/Leavenworth Properties, One Way Construction, Axelson Construction, Syndicate Smith, Leavenworth Electric and Excavation and Blue Spirits Distilling.

ones and encouraged those in the arena shadows ready for their day in the ring.

Canadian cowboys, Ellensburg riders, folks who have never rode in competition before, all gathered for this American classic expression of the country life we all hold near and dear.

After a monsoon-like downpour on Saturday night, the arena was calf-deep in mud in more ways than one.

Many a rider had trouble catching those rear heels with the lariat and many a steer 'rastler found himself with a handful of air instead of the horns he needed to flip that beast on its back.

The mud played a part, but the show went on despite.

When all was calculated, the result was another winning good time for fans, cowboys and cowgirls. The animals ... well at least they aren't on the dinner table yet.

Taking A Supplement Safely

I have a dessert recipe that only takes 15 minutes to make and bails me out when I need something QUICK for a potluck. I mix butter, milk, powdered cocoa and sugar in a heavy pan, boil it for 2 minutes, add vanilla, rolled oats and peanut butter, then quickly scoop out the mix onto on wax paper. These "No-Bake Chocolate Cookies" are a bit hit with my clinic coworkers, but my nephew Peter has to avoid them because he is severely allergic to peanut butter. And while a fresh cup of coffee is a pleasant "jump-start" to my day, it gives my sister Sara serious heart palpitations. We are amazingly unique individuals when it comes to medicines and supplements, too. A single dose that gives relief to one person can totally fail to help someone else. At one hospital I worked at, the pharmacy staff was responsible for storing and delivering special pumps that delivered intravenous pain medicine directly by just pressing a button attached to the machine. Patients liked them because it beat waiting in agony until a busy nurse got around to giving them a shot. Some patients didn't seem to get any pain relief from the pain medicine in their pump, even after getting multiple doses from both the machine and the nurse, as if the medicine didn't work for them. When we tried a different pain medicine, they'd get relief after just one dose. No medicine works the same in everyone. Medicines and supplements that work just fine for some people may not work at all for others. When a doctor prescribes a medicine, they expect it to help you, and most of the time, that's what happens. But if you take a new medicine and nothing happens, something needs to change. If a blood pressure medicine doesn't lower your blood pressure, your doctor will either increase your dose or change you to a different medicine. Many of us are looking for ways to improve our health or increase our energy. I find that when I ask people who are taking supplements why they take them, they aren't always sure. And when I ask them if their supplement is helping them, they shrug their shoulders. Since no medicine or supplement works for everyone, how can you tell if your supplement is actually helping you? One of the easiest ways is to start a symptom diary before you start on any new supplement. Memory is a funny thing. If you wait until AFTER you've been on a supplement to recall how you were feeling or doing before you started it, your description will not be very accurate. That's because our ability to recall exactly what happened before a particular event is not nearly as complete or accurate as we think it is. In the world of human research, this difference between how a study participant remembers things before and after an event is called "Recall Bias". Most studies are carefully designed to avoid recall bias because the difference between what is remembered later by a study participant is often startlingly different from what really happened. With a symptom diary, you can compare your "before" description of your symptoms or energy level to how you are doing "after" you start taking that new herbal product or supplement, helping to eliminate the discrepancies that can creep in when you try to remember how you felt before you started it. Since not everyone responds to every medicine or supplement, why continue to waste your time and spend money on something that isn't helping you?

Here Are 3 Tips on How to Use a Symptom Diary:
1. Decide WHAT you expect/hope the supplement will do for you.
Do you hope it will help you sleep? Reduce your knee pain or stiffness? If it worked, how would life improve for you?
2. Score yourself on a scale of 1-5 or 1-10 BEFORE starting your new supplement.
Score yourself on the intensity of each symptom or just describe the symptoms that bother you the most, at least a couple of days before you start your new product. The key here is to physically record your symptoms or what you hope will change BEFORE you take your first dose.
3. Compare your "before" scores to your "after" scores.
In the words of a Chinese proverb, "The palest ink is better than the best memory." This approach can help you decide whether you really are doing better now that you're taking it, and whether your supplement is worth purchasing again.

Bulldogs drive for second touchdown against Ephrata

The Cashmere Bulldogs clinched their victory early on Friday night against the Ephrata Tigers. In this sequence Quarterback Sam Phillips tosses a 15-yard pass to wide receiver Reid Smith who then advances the ball to the 25. A couple plays later Phillips takes off on a Quarterback keeper and drives into the endzone.

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

By JOHN KRUSE

GREEN(LING) WITH ENVY!

It's no secret fishing opportunities in Puget Sound have taken a big hit in recent years. First, rockfish populations plummeted and the opportunity to catch and keep them ended. Lingcod seasons are short in duration (May 1st through June 15th) and salmon seasons open and close in the various marine areas on a continual basis these days due to low abundances of Chinook salmon in much of the Salish Sea.

So, what's an angler to do? Well, there are always bottomfish. Many anglers immediately think of cabezon, a huge sculpin like fish that is tasty but won't win any beauty contests. The other problem with cabezon is that most of its weight is in its head, leaving not much to fillet unless you have a sizeable fish. And while Cabezon season lasts longer (May 1st through November 30th) there are still six months out of the year where you can't fish for these bottom swimmers either.

Fortunately, there are other bottomfish you can target all year long in Puget Sound. There are several species found in our State's waters but in particular, try going after kelp greenling, rock sole, pacific sand dab and starry flounder. The three latter flatfish species are often just referred to as flounder by those who catch them off sandy or gravel bottoms while kelp greenling are found, as the name implies, near kelp beds as well as around piers and rocky structures.

Greenling and flounder are not big fish...Think 12 to 18 inches here, but the daily limit is plentiful. The state record for the kelp greenling and the rock sole is just under 4 1/2 pounds and the largest starry flounder taken in our state was caught in 2009 in the waters off of Clallam County; a halibut sized 9 1/2 pound fish.

Catching flounder and greenling is a whole bunch of fun, especially on light tackle.

It also makes for a great family outing. No fancy rods, reel or tackle are needed here. Simply get out a bass fishing rod and spool the reel with 8 to 12-pound test. After that tie a lure on or bait a plain hook with a small herring or anchovy and drop it towards the bottom. You'll often be fishing in depths of 30 to 50 feet, sometimes as deep as 120 feet for these species, and the bites can come fast and furious on a good day.

Jigging spoons like a one-ounce Mack's Sonic Baitfish or Point Wilson Dart are very effective lures that you work vertically just off the bottom. One to three-ounce lead head jigs with a curly tail plastic grub on them also work very well. As for color? Some guides say it doesn't matter. Tom Burlingame, the owner of Excel Fishing Charters out of Neah Bay, targets bottomfish with unpainted lead jigging spoons.

Others, like Bob Loomis with Mack's Lure in Wenatchee, swears by the white Sonic Baitfish with black stripes. Still others use jigging spoons that are blue and chrome or green and chrome to simulate the bait the fish are after. As for curly tail grubs? White and chartreuse are favorite colors for many.

What about the status of these fish as far as numbers go? Robert Pacunski is a groundfish research scientist with the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife. He says that unlike many other fish species in the Sound, greenling and flatfish populations are stable and they don't receive much fishing pressure.

When it comes to greenling and flatfish, Pacunski says "Get out and enjoy! They are good to eat, fun to catch, and they are a plentiful resource." If you are looking for these species of fish Pacunski suggests Marine Area 7, particularly the west side of San Juan Island which has "super productive habitat". Another part of the Sound to try are in the waters off the Olympic Peninsula, especially where kelp beds are present.

Pacunski does sound a note of caution though when it comes to following the regulations. For example, unless you are fishing off a pier or off shore you'll need to have a rigged descending device with you. This is because there's a good chance you'll catch a rockfish while targeting these other species and a descending device allows you to release the rockfish at depth where they can survive.

You are allowed to keep up to 15 bottomfish (greenling and flounder) a day. The daily limit for lingcod and cabezon is one fish from each species when the season for them is open. Find additional details in the latest published Washington Sport Fishing Rules pamphlet.

New Dock, Deeper Basin Coming For Riverfront Park Boat Launch

Much-needed improvements will close the Wenatchee ramp starting Sept. 30

SUBMITTED BY KIMBERLEE CRAIG
Chelan County PUD

WENATCHEE, WA – Boaters love the convenience of launching at Wenatchee Riverfront Park.

That's why Chelan PUD is letting the community know now that the popular boat launch behind Pybus Public Market is getting a much-needed upgrade this fall – and will close Sept. 30 for seven weeks.

There is just a short time each fall when Chelan PUD can do work in the Columbia River, said Ryan Baker, Parks manager.

"We wanted to get the word out now so boaters can plan for using other nearby launches during the work," Baker said. "We understand that fall is a great time for being on the river, and we appreciate the community's patience during this work to improve the launch."

For safety, the parking lot at the launch will close, too. Contractor KRCI of Wenatchee will use the lot to stage materials and park big equipment. The work will cost about $602,000 fish-friendly dock, rebuilding and extending the eroded launch ramp and removing sediment from the boat basin so the launch is accessible at lower river levels. A gangway will connect the new dock to the ramp. The dock design and materials allow more light into the water to reduce the opportunity for predator fish to hide in the shadows.

During the closure, boaters can use the free launch at Kirby Billingsley Hydro Park, just south of East Wenatchee, or pay to launch at Confluence State Park.

Plans are to reopen the Riverfront Park boat launch by mid-November.
