New item to be sold at Costco stores

CASHMERE — Just in time for back-to-school lunches and snacks, Crunch Pak®, the sliced fruit specialist, is partnering with Nickelodeon to create packages featuring SpongeBob SquarePants characters.

The four-ounce snack packs, bundled eight to a package, will feature SpongeBob, Gary, Patrick, Sandy and Squidward and will be initially sold at Costco stores in the Northeast United States before rolling out nationwide.

Launched on July 17, 1999, SpongeBob SquarePants has reigned as the number-one kids' animated series on TV for the last 17 years, while generating a universe of beloved characters, pop culture catchphrases and memes, theatrical releases, consumer products, a Tony award-winning Broadway musical and a global fan base. SpongeBob SquarePants is the most widely distributed property in Viacom International Media Networks history, seen in more than 208 countries and territories, translated in 55+ languages, and averaging more than 100 million total viewers every quarter. SpongeBob SquarePants is created by Stephen Hillenburg and produced by Nickelodeon in Burbank, Calif. The character-driven cartoon chronicles the nautical and sometimes nonsensical adventures of SpongeBob, an incurable optimist and earnest sea sponge, and his undersea friends. "SpongeBob SquarePants and his friends have connected with generations of kids, and we know fans will love to see them on Crunch Pak," said Megan Wade, product development and marketing manager. "We can't wait to hear the response from Costco shoppers when they see these snack packs in stores."

Short term rentals scrutinized at meeting

STORY BY GARY BÉGIN,

Managing Editor, NCW Media

WENATCHEE -- A packed house attended the Chelan County Planning Commission (CCPC) meeting at the Confluence Technology Center Wednesday, August 26.

The two-hour evening affair featured residential speakers from throughout the county and nonresidential rental property owners, many who live on the west side of the state.

Manson resident and Community Councilwoman Kathy Blum stressed to the Commission that she felt the "quality of life" has experienced a "steady decline" due to underregulated short term rental properties in the Lake Chelan town.

She called for a "well regulated" rental industry that will ease the concerns of Manson residents and help all parties coexist.

BNCW's Beardslee, Government Affairs Analyst (See photo), spoke to the Board on behalf of that housing industry nonprofit trade association, saying it would take $750,000 to hire enough county personnel to enforce new regulations as it is currently understaffed.

BNCW CEO Lee Pfluger, stated in an email reply to this reporter, "BNCW has not taken a position against nor in favor of STRs at this point. We do however oppose the proposed code changes currently in front of the Chelan County Planning Commission."

Pfluger continued, "The current proposal as written has not been vetted out properly and leaves many unanswered questions, many of which we addressed in our letter. Since drafting the letter there are a number of other questions and issues that have come up."

BNCW is a well known advocacy group defending the rights of the building community. Pfluger said, "One being since the STR permit is a land use permit involving zoning issues it is very likely that a court would find that all of the current STRs would be exempt from the permit requirements as they have been legally operating at their current locations for years in many cases, and would be considered a "legal non-conforming use" under the new standards. Just like if someone legally built a duplex and subsequent zoning changes barred duplexes, existing duplexes would be considered "a legal non-conforming use."

Pfluger states, "There is really nothing in the proposed regulations that would lead to better enforcement of existing parking, noise, or nuisance ordnances already in place."

He continued, "There is language in the proposal stating that after 3 complaints an STR's permit can be revoked, however no appeals process is defined and there is no protection for unfounded complaints. If the county were to adopt the current proposal there would certainly be costly lawsuits around a number of issues. The current proposal would impose significant burdens on current and future STRs while at the same time not really doing anything to alleviate the issues that STRs neighbors face, all while opening up the county to costly lawsuits..

"We do not believe that Chelan Community Development engaged the community adequately before drafting this proposal. I find it odd that County Commissioners have stated publicly that 'we are in the early stages of drafting this proposal."

Pfluger commented, "Typically a hearing in front of the Planning

First Gay president could be on the horizon

COMMUNITY

...And I don't mean that he's a jolly good fellow

America is on the brink of having its first Gay president ...and I don't mean that he's a jolly good fellow. I am not against the LGBTQ community at all, just explaining how this modern miracle of the 2020 electorate will happen.

A precedent for president. First: The Democrats choose Kamala Harris, Elizabeth Warren or Joe Biden as their presidential nominee.

I'll start with Harris. She is a Black woman and will possibly choose South Bend Indiana Mayor Pete Buttigieg who is Gay. She will do this to garner a few million votes from the LGBTQ community. Even though most of that community vote Democrat anyway, this is Harris' way of pandering to the White male vote and the ultra left at the same time.

That's right. For the first time in the history of American presidential politics, the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender and Queer community will have a major impact on the 2020 race for several reasons, but one stands out above all the others: South Bend, Indiana Mayor Pete Buttigieg is the first openly Gay contender from any major party ever.

That makes him a sure fit for any progressive Democrat to pick him as a vice presidential running mate.

My scenario is simple, but ultimately tragic. Buttigieg is the darling of the left and of diversityfiles on the left because not only is he Gay, but he is only one of two combat $\,$ GARY BÉGIN $\,$ veterans running for office on the "blue" side of the ledger. White male, mayor of a moderately-sized city famous for Notre Dame football, he comes into the battle for the nomination "punching above his weight" in that he represents a major breakthrough in the civil rights of the LGBTQ community.

As vice president, should the top of his ticket be victorious, Buttigieg would be next in line to the presidency should his boss, the president, die while I would not think Jumping

Joe Biden would choose another White male because he would end up alienating far too many liberals of color and/ or gender conscious, preferring a female be chosen.

I'm thinking that Kamala Harris or Elizabeth Warren might want Buttigieg on their ticket to balance the sexes - so South Bend, Indiana has had its racial problems, but at least Buttigieg has some experience dealing with city (realpolitik) politics.

Tough, street level, practical decisions and alliances are paramount at the city level and may well be Buttigieg's greatest strength.

APPLES TO APPLES NCW MEDIA

The other candidates are senators, governors or business-types who don't have much of that grassroots experience, MANAGING except for one or two former mayors.

Republicans beware. Some guy named Obama was a social activist in Chicago before his ascension to becoming the most powerful man on earth.

Harris or Warren may very well choose Buttigieg and through fate, luck circumstance or serendipity, he may be in line to become the first Gay president of the most powerful and richest nation.

I'm not saying that it would be a bad thing, just incredibly weird to comprehend. Another thought to ponder: There are so-called Log Cabin Republicans who may desert the GOP and vote for Buttigieg's ticket rather than vote for a seemingly homophobic Trump.

Log Cabin Republicans exist in the shadows of the main party, but no one will ever know how loyal they are if given the choice between Trump or an obviously pro-LGBTQ ticket the Dems may through into the fray come

In either case, I believe having diversity to choose from is a healthy form of Democracy, but I don't think the Dems will win.

Americans have 3,000 choices of things to drink, why not a few rainbows in a sea of White as candidates?

Think about this: First we had the first Black president (actually mixed race), then the first mobster president (German-American strong man) and then the chance of the first women president, Harris or Warren. She then dies in a tragic car accident, plane crash, shooting or explosion of her limo. Then we will have the first Gay president.

Buttigieg's ascendency to the throne may harken the greatest sexually liberating revolution in the history of man, or it may never happen as American voters recoil in horror at the thought of two men sharing the same bed in the White House and yes, Pete Buttigieg is married to another man, Chasten Buttigieg.

It's kinda fun to dream of the future and what may be. Of course I watch too much television, but ain't life grand with possibilities!

Imagine when Buttigieg's wife runs off to a spouse-only fashion show and comes back with a snazzy suit from Lord & Taylor while the others are wearing Chanel?

Socialist Price Controls Will Harm American Patients

By Sally C. Pipes

The Trump administration is planning one of the biggest changes to Medicare in decades.

The draft rule would effectively bring socialist drug price controls to the United States. The change would threaten patients' health and discourage companies from funding experimental treatments for deadly diseases.

The rule impacts Medicare Part B, which covers drugs administered via shots and IV drips in hospitals and doctor's offices. Most cancer treatments, for instance, are covered through Part B.

Part B drugs cost more in America than in countries like Canada and the United Kingdom, which impose strict price controls on prescription drugs. If bureaucratic agencies such as Canada's Patented Medicine Prices Review Board deem a drug too expensive, they refuse to cover it.

Apparently, the Trump administration thinks these countries have the right idea. Officials believe that tying Medicare reimbursements to the average prices paid for drugs in a handful of foreign countries, where price controls are common, would reduce Part B drug spending.

Americans have little to gain and much to lose from statist price controls.

Drug development is risky. It can take decades and cost a staggering $2.9 billion to develop a new medicine. Most experimental drugs never even make it out of the lab. Manufacturers fund future research with the revenue from just a handful of successful products.

The rule would make drug development far less appealing. If the potential return on investment were capped, companies would have little reason to spend billions trying to develop new medicines.

History shows us what happens to drug development when price controls are employed. Europe was a hotbed of drug innovation in the 1970s, producing over half all drugs worldwide. But European nations gradually ramped up price controls in the ensuing decades.

U.S. leaders resisted that temptation -- which explains why America now attracts 75 percent of global biopharmaceutical venture capital investments and develops more than half of the world's medicines, while Europe invents a mere third of drugs.

Price controls may yield some short-term savings, but they would cost patients dearly in the long run.

Appeals Court asked to reconsider its bizarre income tax ruling

By Jason Mercier

Some rulings are so bizarre you give the court a chance to fix them before appealing to a higher court. Such is the case with the recent Court of Appeals ruling on Seattle's income tax. That Court has officially been asked to reconsider the part of its ruling declaring the explicit 1984 local income tax ban unconstitutional and saying that local governments have already been given permission to impose an income tax.

Led by former State Supreme Court Chief Justice Gerry Alexander, former Associate Justice Phil Talmadge and former Attorney General Rob McKenna, plaintiffs filed an extensive brief painstakingly pointing out the errors of the Courts original ruling. Included in the brief are the transcripts from the 1984 public hearings and floor debates on the law explicitly banning a local income tax.

The brief also points out that Article 11, Section 16 which the state Supreme Court has already repeatedly ruled that income is "intangible personal property." This is important because the Appeals Court "refused" to read income into the exemption against taxing intangible personal property.

As explained by the motion for reconsideration:

"The City cannot tax income pursuant to RCW 35.22.280(2) as intangible property because, after 1977 amendments, RCW 84.36.070 bars ad valorem taxation on all such property, and in any event the city cannot impose property taxes without providing the specific dollar amount to the auditor to include within the restrictions on total tax calculations.

In addition, SSB 4313, enacting RCW 36.65.030, satisfies the single-subject analysis of Article 2, Section 19 because each of the six sections address the citycounty form of government, particularly in light of Washington Constitution requires all prohibitions on that form of local government also to apply equally to every other city and county."

The Court has given Seattle until Sept. 23 to file its response.

While this case continues its legal journey, don't fall asleep on the election this November in Spokane. Voters there will be considering a charter amendment to prohibit a local income tax no matter what happens with this case.

As a reminder, Washingtonians have already rejected six proposed constitutional amendments to allow a graduated income tax. In fact, 10 straight income tax ballot measures have been rejected.

Commission takes place near the end of the process, with their recommendation being forwarded to the County Commissioners for adoption or rejection." He concluded, "It is our position that the county needs to go back to the drawing board on this issue. Unfortunately at this point parties on both sides of the issue are dug in and there doesn't seem to be much interest in coming together in an effort to reach a workable solution.'

A large group of meeting attendees wearing bright yellow T-shirts, members of the Short Term Rental Alliance of Chelan County, or STRACC, were in attendance to show solidarity in favor of less draconian regulations.

One member, Tom Latta of Auburn, claimed that the Chelan County Sheriff's Office has only had "two complaints in two years in regards to tenants of rental properties."

Latta said the SCSO responded to area hotels and motels at a far greater rate. The irony of Chelan County having two major destination resort towns, Leavenworth and the Lake Chelan area, is that both areas spend a small fortune to attract tourists every vear and those advertisements have been successful.

Some short term rentals easily cost $400 a day with higher rates during festivals, especially Leavenworth's Oktoberfest, Christmas Lightning and Chelan's Ice Festival and summer lake season.

Though the massive influx of money is great for business owners, some residents aren't too happy with what they perceive as lax enforcement of ordinances by the town councils. The CCSO is the only law enforcement entity these towns have, but civil zoning enforcement is a matter for each town to figure out for themselves. Now there is the possibility that the CCPC will move to take care of short term rentals that exist out of town boundaries, but in the county. It is that board's job to make recommendations to the Chelan County Commissioners for any suggested policies to be enacted into law.

Public 'moving art exhibit' wants you!

SUBMITTED BY SELINA DANKO

Link Transit is seeking participants in a moving art exhibit for the Sept. 6 First Friday ArtsWalk. The moving art exhibit consists of t-shirts with special fish prints created with guidance from Wenatchee artist Lisa Robinson on the grounds of the Leavenworth National Fish Hatchery.

The free workshop will take place from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 5 and the time commitment involves commuting by Link Transit bus. Participants are invited to wear their fish print t-shirt art creation as part of a moving art exhibit during the Sept. 6 First Friday ArtsWalk.

Anyone who posts a picture on social media with a person in a fish-print shirt and tags Link Transit will be entered in a drawing to win fun prizes.

The moving art exhibit participant with the most social media postings also will receive a special prize. The trip to Leavenworth and the fish printing activity are free and open to the public. Space is limited. There will be some walking over uneven trails as part of the art experience, which includes a tour of the hatchery.

To register for hatchery trip and artist experience, call Selina Danko, 509-664-7624 or email sdanko@linktransit. com. Free Link Transit service begins at 4 p.m. on all First Fridays on routes 1, 5, 7, 8E, 8W, 11 & 12.

Lessons I Have Learned From My 20 Year Struggle With Fear And Anxiety

Do you currently struggle with fear and anxiety and wish you could talk to someone who can relate to your situation?

If so, I dealt with fear and anxiety for over 20 years and here are some lessons I learned during my mental health struggles.

To The Listen Professionals And Not Your Friends: Your friends may mean well, but when it comes down to it, the professionals know your situation more than anyone. They know what you are going through and are trained to deal with your situation. Consult with a counselor when you have questions about your mental health issues.

2. Distance Yourself From People Who Give You A Hard Time: Distance yourself from those people who won't make an effort to help understand what you are going through. You need to surround yourself with positive and supportive people. I felt better when I avoided those people who would constantly argue with me regarding my anxieties and stresses

3. Focus On The Facts of Your Situation And Not Your Thoughts: When people are depressed they rely on their fearful and negative thoughts. Your fearful thoughts are exaggerated and are not based on reality. When you are depressed, focus on the facts of your current situation and not on what you think.

Learn From Your Experiences: In every anxiety-related situation I experienced, I learned what worked, what did not work, and what I needed to improve on as I managed my fears and anxieties. For example, you have a lot of anxiety and you decide to take a walk to help you feel better. The next time you feel anxious you can remind yourself that you got through it the last time by taking a walk.

5. You Can't Predict The Future Regardless What Your Thoughts May Tell You: No one can predict the future with one hundred percent certainty. Even if the thing that you are afraid of does happen, there are circumstances and factors that you can't predict which can be used to your advantage. For instance, you miss the deadline for a project at work. Suddenly, your boss comes to your office and tells you that the deadline is extended and that he forgot to tell you the day before. This unknown factor changes everything.

6. Things Change Over Time: Regardless of your current situation, things do not stay the same. You may feel very bad today, but it won't last forever. Everything changes over time and this includes your current mental health

Thanks to generous donors and volunteers ten people received free preventative dental care last week in a big red bus parked at the Leavenworth Fire Station. Dr. Ryan Busk and dental hygienists Jill Jannison, Cecy Nerenjo and Clarissa Manzano volunteered to work last Saturday to meet this need in the Upper Valley community. Patients got x-rays, their teeth checked and cleaned, and information on any dental issues they should address.

Good oral hygiene is essential to our overall health.

Regular cleanings and checkups are an important part of oral hygiene, but for adults without dental insurance, cost can be a barrier to getting the care they need. Upper Valley MEND's Upper Valley Free Clinic organizes the mobile dental van to provide essential dental care to adults without dental insurance. Sponsored by the Kahler Glen Ladies Division Swing for Smiles tournament and community members, this is the second of three visits the mobile dental van will make to the Upper Valley this year. The next dental van will be in October and will provide urgent dental care such as extractions and fillings.

NCW Media Inc.'s Obituary and Memorial Policy

An obituary is a way for family members to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the larger community of the deceased. Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data. Memorials are another way of letting the community know about the life and memories of the person who has died. A memorial is different from an obituary. An obituary is usually current while a memorial can be written later.

For publication in the Cashmere Valley Record or The Leavenworth Echo, an obituary or memorial needs to be typed and emailed to editor@ leavenworthecho.com no later than 4 p.m. Friday for the next week's issue. Funeral homes and chapels can submit obituaries by noon on Monday, except holidays.

Obituaries are priced per word while the charge for memorial ads are by the column-inch. Cost of the obituary/ memorial is due at the time of placement.

SEPTEMBER DOVE

Decoy set, a dove hunter waits for the birds to arrive - John Kruse

By John Kruse

Sept. 1 is opening day for dove hunting, a season much more popular in years past than it is now. Mourning Dove are migratory birds, here for the summer and gone with the first frost though there are a few tough ones that remain into the winter months.

For many hunters, dove provide a fun warm-up for the season ahead. It's an opportunity to fire a few (or a lot) of shells at birds that can be surprisingly hard to hit not only because of their smaller size but also because of their acrobatic maneuvers.

The dove opener is also a social event. The competitiveness seen amongst duck hunters racing to their favorite spot to beat out other hunters isn't really a factor here. In fact, fast friends can be made in a dove field and the more eyes the better when it comes to spotting these birds as they approach. Add to the fact that several hunters may shoot at any given bird before anyone manages to hit their target and some good-natured laughing at the misses and congratulations at the clean

Then there are the dogs. Like their owners, it is usually the first hunt of the season and the excitement is palpable. During the dove opener you'll likely see a variety of hunting breeds racing to sniff out and retrieve these birds after a successful shot; not an easy task given dove give off very little scent. It being the first of September, it is important to keep your dog hydrated with plenty of water and don't over work that pup as the heat of the day comes on.

Hunter orange is not required for dove hunting and camouflage clothing does help. Another tactic involves the use of dove decoys. Put a few on barbed wire fences or bare tree limbs and you'll be in a good position to attract some dove your way hoping to roost near them. Shotguns favored by hunters range from 12 gauge to 28 gauge. Light loads (#8 in lead shot or #7 ½ to #6 in steel shot), work well on these birds.

What makes a good dove location? Quite often, a freshly cut wheat or alfalfa field will bring in flocks of mourning dove intent on feeding. If vou can find good roosting locations bordering these fields such as trees or a nearby water source, you'll likely be in for a very good hunt. In years past the Washington Dept. of Fish and Wildlife allowed farmers to plant crops dove and other wildlife were attracted to in select State Wildlife Management Areas but that is rare now due to budget constraints. This means knocking on doors and getting permission from farmers to hunt on their land is often the best way to secure a good hunting spot. Absent that, look for public land that abuts a farmer's field the birds are drawn to or find an area near ag fields with roosting trees or water sources on them like ponds and lakes.

Mourning dove

Where should you go to find dove? You'll want to head East of the Cascades into Central and Eastern Washington. If you look at the harvest statistics from the last five years there are three counties, all of which have lots of agricultural land, that stand out. Grant County is year in and out the best place to go if you are after a limit of mourning dove but both Yakima and Franklin Counties offer excellent opportunities as well with some 8,000 to 9,000 birds taken by hunters every year. Walla Walla, Benton, Adams, Douglas and Spokane Counties are options too. Harvest numbers in these counties range from 1300 to 4000 birds each season.

Last, but not least, enjoy the harvest. There are several great recipes for dove ranging from apricot dove to dove kabobs to dove poppers. Google search any of these dishes for some great ideas on how to prepare these tasty birds which offer great table

If you plan on going out for a mourning dove hunt, you'll need not only a small game license but also a state migratory bird permit. The season runs from September 1st through October 30th and the daily limit has expanded to 15 birds.

Chelan Ridge Hawkwatch Field Trip with the Wenatchee River Institute, Thurs. Oct. 3

SUBMITTED BY WENATCHEE RIVER INSTITUTE

Leavenworth and Chelan, WA. Each fall thousands of hawks, eagles, and falcons fly along a high ridge above Lake Chelan on their way to winter territories. Join Wenatchee River Institute for a field trip to the Chelan Ridge Hawkwatch International (HWI) observation point to witness this amazing spectacle. Chelan Ridge HWI is located in the USFS Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest.

Learn about raptor biology and hone your identification skills by assisting researchers as they count passing hawks!

During the excursion, you will hear from local biologists about the why of these migrations, as well as the how it all relates to habitat and land management. While visiting the field station, biologists will be working the trapping blind providing for a rare, closeup opportunity to witness a live bird capture, banding, and release. Participants will also gather data in an effort to glean information about the health of North America's raptor populations.

After exploratory surveys in 1997 at Chelan Ridge Hawk-Watch, in partnership with the USFS Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest in 1998 HWI began annual counts at the Chelan Ridge site. These counts helped to monitor the raptors and learn more about their migration through the East Cascades of Washington State within the Pacific Coast Flyway. HWI has been banding raptors at Chelan Ridge since 2001, while also using the site to conduct satellite-tracking research.

Each season, counts typically range between 2,000-3,000 migrating birds of up to 17 species. The most commonly seen species are the Sharpshinned Hawk, Red-tailed Hawk, Cooper's Hawk, Northern Harrier, Golden Eagle, and American Kestrel.

Field Trip Cost: WRI-Members $45, Non-Member $60, with WRI Otter Van transportation included. Participants will leave from the Wenatchee River Institute campus in Leavenworth at 8 a.m., or from the Penny Road Park & Ride in Wenatchee at 8:45am. Please pack a lunch, snacks and water, and be prepared to hike for 30 minutes at approximately 6000 feet elevation.

The Breath of a Whale, Wenatchee River Institute Red Barn Speaker Event

Wenatchee River Institute, Red Barn Event: Leigh Calvez, The Breath of a Whale

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. for community social and no-host refreshments, presentation begins at 7

Wednesday, Sept. 25, 2019 | 7 p.m,- 8:30 p.m.

Join Wenatchee River Institute and A Book For All Seasons as author and naturalist Leigh Calvez presents from her book, The Breath of a Whale. Experience through imagery and imagination the true size of a humpback whale, listen to the calls of endangered orca whales, and learn fascinating facts about these majestic creatures that inhabit our planet's oceans.

In The Breath of a Whale the lives of these marine mammals are conveyed through the work of dedicated their secretive routes extending patterns along the way. To decades tracking

researchers having spent thousands of miles, gleaning their habits, sounds, and > understand the lives of whales deepens our connection with the natural world. Calvez draws from a dozen years of research and observation while studying the lives of these giants of the deep to relate the stories of nature's most remarkable creatures—from ancient blue whales migratory humpbacks, to the familial orcas who struggle against catastrophic ecological change in order to survive.

"Leigh Calvez writes wellresearched, thoroughly beautiful books that illuminate the lives of animals without stripping them of their essential mystery," —The Stranger

Calvez is a naturalist and nature writer, studying humpback whales Massachusetts and on Maui, and spinner dolphins near the Big Island of Hawaii. As a naturalist, Calvez led whalewatching tours around the globe in British Columbia and faraway places like New Zealand and the Azores Islands off Portugal. Interest in the natural world inspired Calvez to write about nature and to her first book, The Hidden Lives of Owls: The Science and Spirit of Nature's Most Elusive Birds. Her essays have appeared in Smithsonian Magazine, High Country News, The Ecologist, Ocean Realm, The Christian Science Monitor, The Seattle Times, and The Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

The World Famous Glenn Miller Orchestra Swings Into The Numerica PAC

Submitted by Marissa Collins

Wenatchee, WA: Numerica Performing Arts Center kicks off the 2019-2020 Season with THE WORLD FAMOUS GLENN MILLER ORCHESTRA on Sept. 18 at 7:30 p.m., sponsored by Ford & Marlys Barret and Wild Birds Unlimited of Wenatchee. Appealing to both old and new audiences, this has become a must-see show for jazz and swing fans alike.

The legendary Glenn Miller was one of the most successful of all dance bandleaders back in the Swing Era of the 1930's and 1940's. In 1942, at the height of its popularity, Glenn disbanded his musical organization to volunteer for the Army. There, he organized and led the Glenn Miller Army Air Force Band. In December 1944, Major Miller took off in a single engine plane to France, disappearing over the English Channel, never to be seen again.

With the release of the major motion movie The Glenn Miller Story, featuring Jimmy Stewart and June Allyson in 1954, interest and popular demand led the Miller Estate to authorize the formation of the present Glenn Miller Orchestra. In 1956, under the direction of drummer Ray McKinley, who had become the unofficial leader of the Army Air Force Band after Glenn's disappearance, the reformed Glenn Miller Orchestra performed its first concert and has been on the road ever since. Other leaders have followed Ray including clarinetists Buddy DeFranco and Peanuts Hucko, trombonists Buddy Morrow, Jimmy Henderson, Larry O'Brien and Gary Tole, and tenor saxophonist Dick Gerhart. Since January 2012, vocalist Nick Hilscher leads the band. Today, the 18-member ensemble continues to play many of the original Miller arrangements both from the civilian band and the AAFB libraries. Additionally, it also plays some more modern selections arranged performed in the Miller style and sound. Just as it was in Glenn's day, the Glenn Miller Orchestra today is still the most sought after big band in the world.

"The Elephant Man" by Bernard Pomerance has been recognized with a Tony, an Obie, Drama Desk Award, and a New York Drama Critics Circle Based on the real life of John Merrick, the story is a powerful and poignant look at both humanity and inhumanity, of the suffering and stigma endured by a man whose only way of survival was by appearing as a freak in a touring show of physical curiosities. He was the butt of terrified screams, stares of revulsion, finger-pointing, name-calling, and actual physical abuse. A story of heart and heartache, The Elephant Man will bring a tear to your eye, leaving the audience reflecting on our own view of 'normality', and imagining how we would feel in Merrick's shoes.

of Directors of the Upper valley Parks and Recreation Area (PRSA). Meeting once per quarter, the PRSA makes decisions regarding the Leavenworth Pool and is always exploring ways to expand Peshastin's recreational facilities and public parks. This is an appointed position that is ongoing. Anyone interested in serving is asked to contact the Peshastin Community Council either by attending a meeting or by sending an email to communitycouncil@ peshastin.org.

The Peshastin Cemetery District is in need of one Commissioner. The Cemetery District is managed by a board of three elected Commissioners. Short one member due to a resignation earlier this year, they are looking for a resident who wants to serve their community. Commissioners are responsible for the cemetery and the Peshastin Memorial Hall. Anyone interested in the appointment for the remainder of the term is asked to send an email to cemetery@peshastin.

Serving on a committee, council, board or other type of local organization can be a wonderful way to serve your community, learn more about the community and meet your neighbors. Whether you're a newcomer or lifelong resident, your participation is invaluable. Our community organizations are responsible for the way the city's money is spent, so even if you've never served on any kind of committee please consider one of these open positions.

Boric acid is a mineral salt of boron, first used as a medicine in 1702 and still used today as an anti-infective and preservative. Causing lethal boron poisoning when taken internally, boric acid is widely used as a pesticide and to preserve wood as well as in trace amounts as a food additive to protect against yeasts and molds. Because it rarely causes irritation to the skin or eyes boric acid is also used to preserve cosmetics.

Boric acid and its close cousin borax are found all over the world, with the largest deposits in Peru, the Middle East, and California. Borax is found in plants, seawater, mineral springs and hot springs. The main source of borax in the United States lies in deposits in the sandy deserts of California near Death Valley.

and Drug The Food Administration (FDA) has approved the use of boric acid as a soothing eyewash for irritated eyes and also as eardrops to treat external ear infections. It's an active ingredient in Collyrium® for Fresh Eyes and Advanced Eye Relief®. Although not approved by the FDA, boric acid is also considered an alternative to more traditional treatments for persistent yeast and bacterial vaginal infections.

I use boric acid powder as a non-toxic flea killer. If one of my 3 Scottish Terriers start scratching after a trip to the vet or staying at a boarding kennel, I sprinkle boric acid powder liberally onto their bedding and where they like to lay down, working it in so it can't be licked off or inhaled. It's not an instant fix, but with just one application they quit scratching within 3 days. I wait for at least a week before washing the boric acid treated bedding and vacuuming it out of the carpet.

Boric acid has also been used with success as an alternative treatment for vaginal yeast infections and bacterial vaginosis.

Bacterial vaginosis (BV) is a condition that causes a nasty fishy-smelling vaginal discharge. BV is caused by a lack of a certain kind of friendly bacteria called Lactobacillus. If your vaginal population of Lactobacillus is killed off by antibiotics, it can allow fewer friendly organisms to multiply and take over. It's like if you remove an unwanted plant from your garden, other plants will often start moving into that space. When the organisms replacing Lactobacillus in your vagina multiply, they create byproducts which irritate your vaginal lining, creating a foulsmelling discharge and intense

Although specific antibiotics will kill off the excess bacteria causing BV, the lack of friendly Lactobacillus bacteria often triggers recurrent BV infections. Some clinicians a possible alternative to using antibiotics in BV because it not only kills off the unfriendly bacteria triggering BV's fishy discharge but helps reestablish friendly Lactobacillus in your vaginal tract, preventing BV recurrence.

Boric acid can treat vaginal veast infections because it enhances the acidity of your vaginal tissue, encouraging the re-establishment Lactobacillus and helping restore a healthy balance of vaginal microbes.

When used for yeast or BV vaginal infections, boric acid is NEVER taken by mouth because at that dose, it's poisonous. Boric acid containing capsules are inserted into the vaginal tract, much like a suppository. Ready-to-use boric acid capsules can be hard to find; you can look for them at a compounding pharmacy or make them yourself at home.

gelatin capsules, available either online or at a pharmacy or veterinary supply store. Sprinkle a thick layer of boric acid powder on a clean flat surface and pick up the shorter of the two halves of an empty gelatin capsule. Turning it upside down with the opening toward the powder, push down into the powder like you are cutting biscuits from rolled out dough. Lift up the capsule and repeat until the capsule fills up with powder, then pick up the empty other half of the capsule and push it over the powderfilled half. Done!

To treat a yeast infection, insert one boric acid capsule vaginally twice a day for 2 weeks. If treating BV, insert one capsule vaginally 1-2 times daily for 2 weeks. Some women may need long-term treatment, usually as one capsule vaginally twice a week at bedtime for several months. Keep boric acid capsules in a cool, dry place and well separated from your other medicines to avoid accidental poisoning from swallowing
