Puppeteers perform for Cashmere library patrons

Children and their families gathered at the Cashmere Public Library on July 1 for a performance from the North Central Regional Library (NCRL) summer puppeteers. NCRL hosts a family-friendly puppet show every summer and the library's troupe of puppeteers visit every branch throughout the region. The 2019 puppeteers are comprised of first-year performers Alexandra McGee, Bailey White and James Bench. The troupe has a fourth member, Dillon Clare, a second-year puppeteer, who did not appear at the Cashmere performance. McGee opened the show with a set of rules for the audience to follow, such as the children can attack the stage if all of the adults in the library could perform a headstand at the same time, and kids can pet the puppets if it snowed. While most of these rules were unattainable, McGee gave one important rule that everyone could follow - to have fun. During the first minutes of the play, children met Mr. Rat, an important author, who claimed to be have penned some of the most important stories, though White pointed out she had not seen his name on any books in the library. Mr. Rat introduced one of his characters, Young McDonald, played by McGee. Young McDonald was in the middle of a crisis and unsure he wanted to become a farmer and wanted to try different jobs like an astronaut, chef and yoga teacher. White helped Young McDonald to his career and gathered audience input by asking children questions like what occupation they wanted to pursue, and their favorite foods. Eventually, Young McDonald settled on his true calling - a farmer.

Self-Immolation of the Left

Martyrdom is often a desirable state of consciousness in the eyes of the True Believers of Karl & Vladimir. One who aspires and then attains this essence of victimhood, meant as one's public façade, can be said to have reached the Ganges of the Faithful --- and that's where they burn bodies.

for years now because he was friendly towards another Vladimir - Putin.

Yet our incredible experiment in democracy is about to become a much deadlier experiment in revolutionary politics pitting the extreme left against those with enough guts to fight them back.

Let us have Bernie in Wonderland and Kamela Braveheart Harris show America how to bankrupt itself while simultaneously becoming the world's largest and greatest newly formed Communist nation.

Isn't it ironic that the Left wing and many in the middle, have hated, pilloried and investigated Donald Trump Whether it's gun rights, abortion, free health care, free education, LBTGQ issues or the environment, the Democrat Party has taken a sharp left into Commie Territory while the rest of us "cling to guns or religion or antipathy to people who aren't like them" (Barack Obama).

Perhaps the "anti-fa's" (anti-fascists) of the world don't truly understand that the country will rebel and there will be blood in the streets if this moral minority attempts to co-opt the nation's legislation towards the "all things free to everyone" mentality.

Please America, don't hand your credit cards to these drunken sailors, with apologies to both sailors and drunks.

One day Little Johnny was handed a huge bag of candy. By the end of the day he was so full he couldn't even move and just moaned as he sat on the couch watching TV.

Eventually Little Johnny became addicted to this free candy and did nothing much but eat and lie around. America has become full of Little Johnnies ... and now the wolves are at the door.

Alas, porky and atrophied, LJ couldn't even run from the menace and was devoured as were his porky and atrophied neighbors.

Finally one day, after all the fat was cleared from the land, a man with a rifle appeared from the mountains and shot all the wolves and the country

The next scene featured Mr. Rat renting an air bed and breakfast from Mrs. Hen, also played by McGee. Unhappy with being stuck doing chores, Mrs. Hen, with the audience's help, tricked Mr. Rat into tricking him into completing the work disguised as an "authentic country experience."

Following the scene, Mr. Rat introduced an intermission game show - "The Wheel of Fate." White would spin the wheel and it would land on a space, resulting in her and the audience acting like a honey bee, frog and a pterodactyl.

The final scene featured McGee as the Big Bad Wolf on trial and White as a prosecuting attorney. During the trial, White questioned the defendant about his involvement in destroying the houses of the Three Little Pigs and impersonating Little Red Riding Hood's grandmother.

The Big Bad Wolf, who owned a construction company, explained the Three Little pigs' houses actually belonged to him. He added that Little Red Riding Hood's grandmother was his roommate and only wanted to try on her bathrobe as he had a taste for "luxury, post-bath apparel."

The show ended with Mr. Rat making a promise to read every book in the library.

To prepare for the show, White and the other puppeteers spent a week writing the script and rehearsing before taking the show on the road.

"We took different children books and put them together, and had fun with it," White added. For McGee and Bench, who have performed in high school theater productions, puppeteering was new to them.

"It was a unique experience," added White, who had no theater credits on her resume before joining NCRL's puppeteer troupe. Cashmere residents who missed the puppet show, or folks who enjoyed the first performance, can look forward to NCRL's puppeteers returning to an encore performance later in the summer.

For more information about the NCRL's programs, visit ncril.org

Should the Fed cut interest rates?

Since 1977, the Fed has operated under what's called their "dual mandate:" They aim to achieve the lowest possible unemployment rate and encourage stable prices (inflation). The unemployment rate is the lowest it has been in 50 years, and inflation is low and steady. So, based on that standard, the Fed should be taking a victory lap.

COMMUNITY VOICES
By BRAD BLACKBURN

However, that hasn't stopped the financial world from overwhelmingly expecting the Fed to cut interest rates at their next meeting. It also hasn't stopped President Trump from repeatedly pushing the Fed to cut rates. So why does everyone want the Fed to cut interest rates - and should the Fed give in to the pressure?

Although President Trump wouldn't frame it this way, the biggest reason for the Fed to cut rates is our slowing economy. Job growth this year is the weakest it's been since 2010, and manufacturing is the weakest it's been since 2016 (based on the ISM manufacturing index). Similarly, retail sales and home sales are down, as are many other economic numbers. Recently, Fed Chairman Powell signaled that he would be willing to lower interest rates if needed. That's not the kind of thing that happens when the economy is booming. In fact, JP Morgan recently predicted our 2nd quarter GDP would be merely 1%.

However, none of that means a recession is coming soon. While the economy is clearly slowing, the fundamentals are still solid. Earlier this year, I called our economy "The Obama Economy," and I think that still makes sense. Over a 15-month stretch through 2014 and 2015, our GDP averaged nearly 4% growth (including a 6-month stretch at 5%). However, after that strong growth, we fell back into the familiar routine of slow and steady growth. Rather than a steep dive into a recession, that may all be that's happening now.

So, what message would it send to the economy if the Fed panicked and lowered rates? Further, would it even help anything? Low interest rates are supposed to help the economy by encouraging borrowing and lending. But how many people are going to refinance their house that didn't already do it three years ago? Similarly, how many businesses are going to borrow money to invest in software and equipment that haven't done it already?

I truly struggle to understand how lower rates would help the economy or the stock market at this point. In fact, I think lower rates could actually backfire by convincing everyone that the economy is worse than it really is - which could cause families and businesses to clutch their wallets a little more tightly. Given all that, I appreciate the Fed's patience. Although the President and the stock market desperately want and expect an interest rate cut, I hope the Fed continues to resist that pressure.

Small Peshastin train fire

By KALIE DRAGO
 Echo Reporter

Between summer wildfires and July 4 firework ban, fires have been a hot topic this summer. On July 1, a Burlington Northern Santa Fe Railway locomotive originally from Seattle and heading to Chicago, caught fire that morning, according to Gus Melonas, Public Affairs director.

"There were no injuries and no damages," said Melonas. "We're investigating further for what caused the fire."

The locomotive was a general freight with containers and was taken to Wenatchee for a mechanical assessment. According to Melonas, the train was stopped for an hour and a half and delayed four other trains.

Local responders were on site.

The Preacher at Pride Fest

In the past two weeks, I have ministered at two different LGBTQ+ events in Washington and people have been curious as to why I choose to evangelize at such events. It is true, the environment is increasingly hostile to anything remotely Christian. It's loud. It's chaotic. The overt display of "pride" is often times obscene and pornographic.

A WALK WITH PASTOR JOHN SMITH

To be perfectly honest, there are a whole host of things I'd rather spend my Saturday afternoons doing than attend an event knowing that I am going to be yelled at, spit on, or even worse.

But the reason why I (and other Christians) go is profoundly simple and it is this: People need the Lord.

If we Christians, believe what the Bible says about the eternal consequences of sin (Hell) and the remedy for it (the cross), shouldn't that motivate us all the more to try to reach as many people as we can with the good news that Jesus saves?

Unfortunately, when it comes to the LGBTQ+ community, some have argued that they are "just too far gone" and any evangelistic effort would be "casting your pearls before swine".

The phraseology "casting your pearls before swine" comes from Matthew 7:6 and it is right after the verses where Jesus exposes and condemns religious hypocrisy.

Matthew 7:6 says, "Do not give dogs what is holy, and do not throw your pearls before pigs, lest they trample them underfoot and turn to attack you."

Often this verse is taken as justification to not evangelize certain groups because they are deemed as "unresponsive" or "hostile" to the gospel. For instance, rather than waste time with those who care nothing about Jesus or aggressively oppose Christianity, a discerning evangelist should move on to more of a receptive and welcoming audience.

There are situations where it is wise to move on rather than waste time in engaging in a fruitless argument. However, to use Matthew 7:6 as a reason to not engage certain people because they show hostility toward the gospel denies a fundamental Biblical truth: All unbelievers are hostile toward the gospel (Romans 8:7).

Regardless of the degree of hostility, people in their natural state of rebellion and sin hate the gospel and it is never well received until a supernatural work of the Holy Spirit happens within their life. To put it another way, "pigs" will never appreciate the preciousness of a "pearl" unless they are fundamentally changed.

In addition, as my former college professor reminded me just recently, we ought to be extremely cautious in developing a philosophy of ministry that denies evangelism to one specific group of people because of one verse in the Bible when there are numerous passages that say the gospel is to be proclaimed to all.

My experience at these LGBTQ+ events has been some of the most fruitful endeavors in all my years of ministry. Not only was I stretched beyond my comfort zone but I was reminded that the people of the LGBTQ+ community are in fact, people. Beyond the parades and the flamboyant displays of "pride", these are real people with real questions, hurts and have experienced an incredible amount of brokenness.

If there is any demographic that needs to hear of the glorious good news of a Christ who can redeem, restore and heal, it's those of the LGBTQ+ community.

Many within this lifestyle, have little to no idea what a Christian is, let alone the power of the gospel we proclaim. This may surprise you, but those who are entrenched in and have embraced LGBTQ+ ideology are as close to an "unreached people group" as you can get within our own community.

I remember one conversation I had at an event where I was engaging a young woman who identified as a lesbian. After explaining Bible passages concerning homosexuality, answering her questions and ultimately commending Jesus to her, she wiped tears from her eyes and said: "I can see you really believe this and that you really care."

"Of course, I do. I am a Christian."

After we shook hands and parted ways, I had no idea if the gospel had taken root. I still don't know and I doubt I will until I meet Christ.

But what I do know is that she needed the Lord, as does everyone.

As Christians, we have such a compelling message for the world, especially to those of the LGBTQ+ community.

Let's not waste such an opportunity to share Jesus.

Lady Bulldogs soccer finishes second in Knights Showcase

By AL STOVER

The Cashmere High School girls soccer team will have a lot of momentum coming into their 2019 campaign as they finished second in the fifth annual Knights Showcase tournament on July 1, held at Wenatchee Valley College.

The Lady Bulldogs began the tournament with back-to-back 6-1 wins against 4A Big Nine Conference's Eastmont and Davis.

Cashmere recorded a 2-2 tie with Northwest Central's Anacortes. The tie brought the Lady Bulldog's record to a 2-0-1 record and 23 points, one below Knights Showcase champion and fellow Caribou Trail League rival Okanogan.

Lady Bulldogs' head coach Dennis Tronson said senior Chloe Diaz led the way and felt the team gave an "outstanding" performance, especially given that their side was comprised mainly of freshmen and sophomore players.

"I felt like we got a little tired versus Anacortes as we only had one sub for this match," Tronson added.

Tronson added that the WVC women's soccer program ran a good tournament and gave props to Head Coach Anya Belcher for running the event.

The Lady Bulldogs, who are the defending CTL and District 6 champions, will begin their 2019 season in September.

Cashmere baseball begins summer schedule at 5-0

Cashmere's Brayden Weatherman continued his momentum from the 2019 season into the Bulldogs' summer schedule.

By AL STOVER

The Cashmere High ballclub is already beginning the path to the 2020 season with their two-month summer schedule.

The Bulldogs are currently 5-0 and are showing no signs of slowing down as they head into the tail end of the season.

Cashmere began their campaign on June 12 by sweeping Cascade in a doubleheader, winning 8-3 in game one and 15-3 in the nightcap in a game that ended in the sixth inning due to the 10-run mercy rule. In the first contest, Colson Brunner led the Bulldogs at the plate after going 2-for-4 with two RBIs while Martin Perleberg collected one hit and two RBIs. Cole Scott, Cort Lawson, Brayden Weatherman and Jack Croci all collected hits.

Weatherman picked up the first win after giving up for hits and striking out nine batters in five innings. Brooks Elliot relieved Weatherman in the sixth inning.

Head Coach Jeff Carlson said he has been pleased with how both Weatherman and Elliott's performances on the mound. One focus for Cashmere going into next spring is developing more arms to deepen their bullpen, with Elliott possibly being the No. 2 pitcher behind Weatherman.

"We know we can win games with Brayden (Weatherman) pitching, it's finding that No. 2 guy, to give us that (additional) high quality pitching," Coach Carlson added.

The Bulldogs boosted their momentum in game two as Cade Carlson went 3-for-3 with a double and an RBI while Brunner was 2-for-2 with an RBI. Weatherman collected two hits and four RBIs while Cole Scott also had two hits and an RBI. Kaden Keogh had a two-RBI double and Carter Alberts collected an RBI.

Alberts picked up the pitching win after sharing the mound with Carlson.

Cashmere continued their road trip to on June 19 where they earned a 14-10 win over Kittias/Cle Elum in nine innings.

The Bulldogs collected 16 hits, including Weatherman's 2-RBI home run. Keogh went 3-for-4 with a double and two RBIs while Elliott was 3-for-6 with two runs. Duke Odenrider had two hits, including a double, while Dominic Harrington had a double and a triple.

Weatherman earned another pitching win after striking out 10 batters.

Carlson said JV players Keogh have performed well at bat, as have returning starters like Scott, Elliott, Weatherman and Odenrider.

"We're scoring a lot of runs, which is nice to see," Coach Carlson said. "Our guys look confident now that they have had a year of experience under their belts."

The Bulldogs earned another doubleheader sweep on June 26, this time against Toppenish.

Cashmere collected a 17-5 win in game one and 9-6 in the nightcap.

In the first game, the Bulldog's bats came alive and racked up 14 hits en route to their victory in five innings.

Elliott led the Bulldogs at the plate after going 4-for-4 and Keogh was 2-for-3 with a double and three RBIs. Croci was also 2-for-3 with three RBIs and Scott had a three-RBI single.

Lawson picked up his first pitching win after sharing the mound with Weatherman, Carlson and Odenrider.

Cashmere's bats were a little quieter in game two as Keogh was 2-for-2 with a triple and RBI. Brunner was 2-for-4 with three RBIs and Croci was 2-for-3 with three RBIs.

Weatherman secured the victory on the mound after striking out nine batters and giving up zero hits while Elliott came in the sixth inning.

Coach Carlson commended the progression the Bulldogs have made so far in the summer, and noted it could carry over into the spring season.

"It looks like it's going to be a more successful (2020 spring) season based on their energy and attitude," he added.

How to treat Heat Rash

Q: I have a heat rash from the hot weather we've been having recently. What's the best way to get rid of it?

In her seventies, Donna developed redness and itching in her groin area during a recent heat wave. She tried applying Gold Bond® powder but it didn't seem to help. She came into our pharmacy, asking what else she could do for it.

Heat rash, also called prickly heat or miliaria can happen to anyone with active sweat glands. It's estimated that at least 40% of infants will get a heat rash at one point. Heat rash also afflicts people who are physically active and sweating in the summer heat doing strenuous physical work, performing sports or exercise, even gardening.

Prickly heat or heat rash is caused by clogged sweat glands. When sweat builds up under your skin it can become trapped, causing your pores to swell and rupture. This creates small red, raised lesions that burn or itch that cluster in small clumps or spread out over larger areas. Outbreaks can occur anywhere you tend to sweat: your armpits, chest, upper back, belly, and groin. If the blockage is severe enough it creates inflammation, pustules, or a yeast infection.

Heat rash or prickly heat can also happen to people who have been treating their dry itchy skin with heavy creams or ointments which work great during the winter months but during a hot, sweaty summer can plug up their hard-working sweat glands.

The first key to relieving the itching and burning of prickly heat is to keep your skin dry. One of the best ways to do that is by maximizing airflow to the skin to discourage excess sweating. Wearing loose, lightweight clothing during hot weather is critically important, along with using fans to improve air flow. Fevers can cause profuse sweating and should be treated with appropriate doses of acetaminophen to decrease excess moisture next to the skin.

The second key to treating heat rash is to avoid applying oils, heavy creams or ointments to your overworked sweat glands in areas that perspire heavily like under your arms, your chest, around your groin, behind your knees and under any folds of skin.

The third key to treating prickly heat is to avoid applying either medicated or plain powders to red, broken or irritated skin. Powders can clog inflamed pores and sweat glands, so it's best to stay away from them entirely until your skin has calmed down.

Heat rash can cause intense itching and an almost uncontrollable urge to scratch. Scratching feels good but only provides short-term relief and instead triggers more inflammation and itching. Instead, apply cloths dampened with cool water along with a non-prescription steroid cream containing 1% hydrocortisone. Hydrocortisone 1% cream is safe to use on small areas of broken skin or larger areas of unbroken skin in adults but avoid putting it on broken skin of children or infants.

Be sure to avoid using hydrocortisone ointment because ointments can block your sweat glands. If these strategies don't help the itching and irritation of heat rash, contact your doctor as there are other conditions that may look like heat rash at first but need to be treated differently.

Here are 6 Tips for Treating Prickly Heat or Heat Rash:

1. Increase airflow to the affected area.

Wear lightweight, loose clothing or no clothing at all. House fans can help circulate air over your skin.

2. Lukewarm sponge baths increase evaporation, helping to cool and dry the skin.

Avoid hot water for showers or baths, which can increase inflammation. Adding oatmeal or a similar product like Aveeno® can also help soothe irritated skin.

3. Avoid using skin powders like Gold Bond®, especially on broken skin.

Because powder can clog your sweat glands, avoid them until the acute symptoms of redness and itching subside.

4. Avoid using topical Benadryl® cream or spray and use 1% hydrocortisone cream instead.

Although Benadryl® (diphenhydramine) capsules and liquid can help relieve itching, diphenhydramine cream or topical spray should be avoided. Benadryl® can be absorbed into the bloodstream from areas of broken skin, and when combined with the capsules or liquid can cause drowsiness and confusion.

5. Avoid using heavy creams and ointments that can trap moisture.

Keep your armpits, groin, and chest plus any skin folds as dry as possible. Tucking a light cloth like a pillowcase between skin folds and changing it frequently absorbs perspiration.

6. Cool it before you use it. For additional soothing power, refrigerate your hydrocortisone cream or alo vera gel before applying it.

Big Chill quenches thirst

By KALIE DRAGO
Record Reporter

With the sun beating down and the temperatures not budging any lower than 70 degrees in the afternoon, the Big Chill Ciderfest is an ideal way to quench the thirst and beat the heat. The second annual Big Chill Ciderfest is on July 20 and hosted at the Riverside Center and the Riverside Yard, sponsored by Cascade Farmlands.

"Cascade Farmlands, the event sponsor, is dedicated to showcasing artisan food and beverages, especially those crafted from local growers," said Rhona Baron, Executive Director of Cascade Farmlands. "Almost all the 13 cideries in the Big Chill source are from local, multi generational family orchards. These orchards grow apples, pears and cherries."

Anyone who takes a look around North Central Washington can see orchards far and wide - this event is an opportunity to showcase the hard cider producers that surround the local area and highlight the wide and unique variety of ciders Chelan County churns out.

"Pear ciders are rare in America. Besides dry to sweet apple ciders, The Big Chill will provide tastes of over a dozen pear ciders," said Baron. "Ciders can be as complex as wines and Chelan County is on the verge of becoming one of the best, most concentrated regions to produce premium quality hard ciders in the Pacific Northwest."

Local cider shops participating come from right down the street in Cashmere, neighboring Leavenworth, Wenatchee and East Wenatchee along with Manson and Chelan. Some Yakima cider shops have decided to join in on the fun this year - Independent Cider, Union Hill and Tieton Cider.

"Many of our cider makers are creating fusion flavors including hops, ginger, cherry, vanilla and other natural additional flavors to build variety and complexity. People will be surprised by the variety and complexity of the flavors and the sophistication of tasting high quality hard ciders," said Baron.

Many residents will be familiar with vendors and options at the event, giving those in attendance a chance to get a hands on encounter with local businesses with special offers.

"Another highlight is the one day only hard cider store, set up inside the Riverside Center. Cascade Farmlands is selling over 40 local flavors in one shop for one day. You can't find this anywhere else, all year long," said Baron.

Along with that, the Cashmere Museum will have an opportunity to get hands on with their display of how cider is made along with local orchard history. Local Yobel, Leavenworth restaurant that has their own large organic garden, will be a food vendor for those that want to pair a bite of food with their cider.

"Come to the Big Chill to be refreshed and to experience the debut of the next wave of local beverages — hard ciders, hand made in the heart of the apple capital of the world," said Baron.
