Cashmere Cares exemplifies community outreach

By KALIE DRAGO
Record Reporter

It takes a village - One particular program is a demonstration of this mantra. Cashmere Cares uses internal connections and external connections within Cashmere to project children to reach the high standard set. Kickstarted by Cashmere School District superintendent, Glenn Johnson, the program has become a flourishing non-profit. Since its inception, the good cause has gained traction and participation in its goal of implementing steps to meet students' needs beyond education.

"The genesis of Cashmere Cares came from that there's kids that have gaps in their life and we talk a lot about achievement gaps in education and achievement that way - but there's a predecessor to the achievement gap and that's an opportunity gap. Some kids just don't have the same opportunities," said Johnson.

Cashmere Cares has set four pillars for its foundation, a motto that's well known amongst those involved in the Cashmere School District realm: 'No kid cold, no kid hungry, every kid with mentor, every kid literate.' Johnson stressed the importance of making sure those needs are met so every student has the same chances of meeting the standards set. A lack of an integral component in a child's life, such as food or a mentor, shouldn't stunt a child's ability to achieve success.

"We're closing those gaps, because at the end of the day, we can't lower the bar for kids, it'll cripple them. We can't lower our standards for the kids, we can't say we don't care enough to hold them accountable to attain our goals, we want them to be successful. But to do that we're going to have to do some things to close those gaps," said Johnson. "If our mission is to provide a quality education for every child, then every child means every."

Cashmere School District superintendent, Glenn Johnson, was a founder of the Cashmere Cares program but credits many members of the community for helping Cashmere Cares flourish.

With the aid of local businesses, churches, service clubs, parents, empathetic citizens and the school district - the program has developed a series of opportunities to form solutions to these four needs.

"Cashmere Cares, even though it's a school based program, it truly is a community program," said Johnson. "The school on its own can only do so much, the community can only do so much, the parents can only do so much but together we can make a difference."

Contribution and help funnels into the effort to help kids from many avenues in the community. Such as Martin's owner, Phil Blackburn, who buys groceries at wholesale value and donates for Cashmere Cares program, Packing Friendships. School district staff stuff a backpack with food inside in an effort to make sure students are fed over the weekend, instilling the 'No kid hungry' motto.

"Phil is a huge supporter of that (Packing Friendships). He knows the kind of food we need, he looks for donations from his suppliers, he looks for down the road when there's going to be a special from his suppliers," said Bob Wildfang, chairman of Cashmere Cares.

Beyond the school district's effort to achieve the literate goal for students, which is ensuring children are enrolled in preschool, after school and during the day intervention, etc. - Vale teacher, Scott Griffith, leads a volunteer group at Vale Elementary that according to Johnson, is largely a retired group of adults. The group reads to the kids which helps progress the students reading fluency and comprehension which also serves the need of 'Every kid literate'.

"Our Vale Volunteers go above and beyond expectations. Not only are they committed to the program by giving hundreds of hours each year, but they are committed to the kids lives, truly care about them, and develop a close bond with them. When kids know they are cared about, their desire to learn to read increases and they look forward to this special time with their adult helper. This is just one of the many ways our community supports the children of Cashmere and their education," said Griffith. "This is a special community which I am proud to be a member of and am glad to call home."

Despite Cashmere Cares roots being grounded in the school district, the dedication to meeting those needs of children branches out within the whole community.

"Without a community, tree wouldn't be a Cashmere Cares. As the word gets out, people like what Cashmere Cares is about so we get more and more contributions all the time. It continues to grow and get bigger," said Wildfang.

Cashmere Rotary, Mission Creek Community Club, Kiwanas, individual do-gooders, such as John Prescott, just to name a few - play an instrumental role in supporting Cashmere Cares.

"The greatest strength of Cashmere is its unyielding commitment to kids. Kids are first in the community and I think we've seen that reflected in the support for Cashmere Cares," said Johnson.

City Council focused on roof collapse, streetlight outage

By KALIE DRAGO
Record reporter

With buzz surrounding the darkened streetlight situation and speculation about the Sherman Water Reservoir roof, a lot of discussion unfolded amongst council members. The Monday, April 22 city council meeting tapped into the city's to do list and how to tackle the issues.

Cottage, Elberta, Olive, Chase, Washington, Birch, Paton, Perry and Pioneer streets and the school crosswalk sign near Vale Elementary have been shut off after electrical problems. At the meeting, Steve Croci, Director of Operations, elaborated on what the current standing is with the streetlight issue.

"Schmitt Electric came out today and looked at a couple of the boxes. It's something underground, as we expected. They talked about trying some other industrial level breakers and hope that will fly with L&I (WA Labor and Industries)," said Croci. "It's hard to know what the specific problem is, where's the ground fault in the string of eight lights."

The city has narrowed down the issue to being underground. As for the school crosswalk, Croci stated it appeared there is some wire missing but that should be an easy fix and will most likely be the first problem tackled. According to Croci, the lack of available electricians is stalling the first step of solving the streetlight problem.

"We did put a request in for a variance so we can at least test the lights, because we're not supposed to put in a different breaker - we asked for the variance so we can put in a different breaker to at least test the system," said Croci.

Council member Daniel Scott raised the question as to funding and looked to the Transportation Improvement Board. Croci confirmed that the TIB is aware of the situation and that help is available - the amount of funding that the TIB would be able to offer isn't a set figure.

"That's the hold up is finding the electrician that can do at least the first phase, identifying where the problem is," said Mayor Jim Fletcher. "We're trying hard to keep it open and as we have progress, keep people in the know."

As for the Sherman Water Reservoir, the roof had partially collapsed due to snow accumulation during the winter. The city feels October is the best time for the work to be done on the roof.

"To keep the water reservoir on line during the summer, we need the capacity to keep the town wet. If we shut it down we have to ration water, no outside watering lawns, things like that in the summer," said Fletcher.

The city is looking at options as to how to fund the fix and who to

Firefighter Challenge

By KALIE DRAGO

Echo Reporter

With fire season nearing, the local firefighters have been preparing and bracing themselves. The third annual Leavenworth Firefighter Challenge hosted by Chelan County Fire District No. 3 has become a way to kick off the fire season on a light, but impactful start. On Saturday, April 27, locals, children, the community firefighters, and firefighters traveling from out of state gathered to participate in the community event.

"It's kind of becoming a kick off to fire season. It's like waking up our local community here in the North Central Washington area," said Glenn Brautaset, Chelan County Fire District No. 3 representative.

Despite being the opener to the challenging season with a rigorous course for the firefighters, the atmosphere was lighthearted. With the striking scenic venue on Ski Hill setting the backdrop and a live band, The Hoyer Brothers, providing a cheerful soundtrack, those in attendance appeared entertained.

"Its an opportunity to really interact with their local fire service groups," said Brautaset.

Children got a hands on opportunity at the event with a District No. 3 fire truck and many gravitated toward the engine, eager to explore. Games and activities also kept the kids occupied while adults gravitated toward the beer garden and El Chavo food spread. Regardless of age, everyone mingled and chatted with their local firefighters.

"I would consider it a fun, family event and they also get that benefit of seeing this really unique firefighter race challenge that involves firefighters from across the whole northwest United States to come and compete against one another," said Brautaset.

Firefighters drifted in from the local districts, such as Chelan County Fire District No. 6 and Lake Wenatchee Fire and Rescue. Some groups made the trek from Oregon and California to participate in the challenge. Some of those participating in the challenge got competitive with the race and charged for the finish line. While others hiked at their own stride and made it a more casual experience.

Some that had been in the fire service for many years, came to partake in the comradery and cheer on their fellow firefighters.

“(One of the highlights of the event) is to feel this kind of palpable competition going on with all these firefighters here in the area,” said Brautaset.

The proceeds from the challenge go beyond just the local volunteers, but firefighters everywhere. Wildland Firefighter Foundation has teamed up with the program as well, according to the Leavenworth Firefighter Challenge website.

“For just being the third annual event, it’s interesting to see how its blossomed across the whole Northwest. Last year we had firefighters from as far as Montana. Everyone is starting to make this a homage to come over and run in Leavenworth and challenge each other,” said Brautaset.

It was a chance to invite residents to rub shoulders with their regional firefighters before the impending hard work ahead of the fire districts. The challenge also prompts residents to recognize the season and offers a learning experience for fire season preparation.

the firefighter challenge but fire season is quickly coming upon us so maybe we should be a little more fire wise or learn a little more about fire prevention. And we had those opportunities up at the venue,” said Brautaset.

With resources such as Department of Natural Resources and the Forest Service, people could educate themselves while simultaneously enjoying the fun atmosphere.

Link Transit offers more options with a price tag - sales tax increase

By KALIE DRAGO
Echo Reporter

Throughout the Valley, residents check bus routes, climb on and off Link Transit buses and depend on the public transportation to make it to work or class. At the April 23 City Council meeting, Richard DeRock, Link Transit General Manager, came to present the sales tax increase option on the upcoming August 6 ballot. Voters will have the option for an increase in the local sales tax up to two tenths of a percent (two cents on a ten dollar purchase).

DeRock set the disclaimer that Link is monetarily stable and the sales tax increase isn’t a vital need, but rather optional improvements to the system. Sales tax currently supports 76% of the budget (the increase would cause it to jump from four cents to six cents - it has been steady at a .4% sales tax since LINK’s start in 1990).

“Financially, we are not in need of any additional money. We can operate the system we have for the next ten, twenty years based on our financial projections of where we’re at,” said DeRock. “But the question we raised to the board is, is that where we should stop?”

LINK’s operations have actually shrunk since 1995 despite population usage increasing 35% in the same period, according to DeRock. While LINK is stable, its growth is currently stunted to remaining as is.

“We don’t meet a lot of needs of the community. We’ve never operated on Sundays, we only have about 25% of the service on Saturday we have on weekdays, on the most part we don’t operate after 7 at night or before 6:30 a.m. in the morning which means we can’t service second or third shift employees,” said DeRock.

LINK underwent a community interactive process that allowed communities to offer suggestions for improvements and then narrow down suggestions by asking the community how much they’d be willing to pay for these options.

“As they went through that process, what we ended up with was 67% of our community said they were in favor of services cost about a two tenths of a sales tax,” said DeRock.

The sales increase contribution would serve as a means for LINK to undergo around 30 projects to better serve riders. These changes and improvements will happen in two phases over the course of two years. One tenth will be effective immediately while the second tenth further down the timeline, according to DeRock.

“To make that leap to higher level service that could generate more ridership takes a lot. We’re essentially proposing to do it all at once,” said DeRock.

Projects directly impacting Cashmere residents: later evening service, better frequency throughout the day (currently there can be an hour between buses that come into Cashmere, according to DeRock), minimize transfers (LINK has proposals to split the routes to get direct access to certain locations) and Sunday and holiday service.

“The capitol project here is to develop a Park and Ride for Cashmere. That is undefined because we have no idea where to put it,” said DeRock. He explained there is movement for this to be established, the question is just where to put it.

It was reiterated that these proposals and improvements aren’t a necessity, but rather options for riders to consider for the August ballot. Sales tax as the chosen revenue route was due to it being the only source allowed under state law.

“What we’re asking the community is not the question of how much the increase is, but do you want the service? This is what it costs to do it. We’re not using any of this revenue to cover basic operations,” said DeRock. “This is an investment for expansion.”

contract for the fix. It could be a million dollar project, according to Fletcher. He then elaborated into an idea as to how to pull together the fund. Fletcher stated that the city could fund the fix on its own without having to borrow money.

“Typically each year we transfer money into the water department and the wastewater department to the reserves. $400,000 each, put them together that’s $800,000 that could go to the water fund to help cover the cost of this thing. That would deplete the reserves and that water fund to $200,000,” explained Fletcher.

The million dollar number came from demolition, engineering fees and those responsible for building these tanks estimating $700,000. But that is still being adjusted and examined while the city considers the array of options for how to fix the issue.

Despite the construction window being in October, there is still an urgency to the matter. It is declared as a public health emergency so the city is hustling to get their i’s dotted and t’s crossed to get the fix underway.

Other business tended to at the meeting:

- Tom Green came to update the council on the 9/11 memorial and Flight 93 site plan. He presented a stone that is a fragment from where Flight 93 crashed that is on permanent loan to the city. There will be a presentation for the stone at a later date.
- There was an executive session where no action was taken.

Which ear drops remove ear wax best?

Some people (like yours truly) are enthusiastic earwax producers and end up asking themselves this question frequently.

The medical name for earwax is cerumen, which comes from the Latin word "cera", which means wax. But cerumen isn't really a "wax" at all. It's a sticky liquid secreted by the cells of the skin lining your ear canal, and it has an important job: protecting your eardrum by trapping dirt and dust as it works its way along the ear canal and eventually out of your ear.

Some people's earwax just flakes away and never causes any trouble. But for the rest of us, it can be an ongoing source of discomfort. In fact, problems with earwax are one of the most common reasons people make appointments to see their doctor.

Wearing hearing aids or ear buds increases production of ear wax and can block the normal movement of it out of your ear.

Cerumen trapped inside your ear canal can cause pressure, discomfort and hearing loss. Trying to remove ear wax by sticking cotton-tipped swabs or bobby pins into your ear canal forces it into a plug inside your ear, leading to pressure, pain and impaction.

The best way to remove ear wax is to soften the waxy plug so that it can come out on its own or be flushed out.

There are two main types of cerumen removal drops: oil-based and water-based. Oil-based "drops" include olive oil, coconut oil, and almond oil, while saline, hydrogen peroxide, glycerin, and docusate are water-based earwax softeners.

There isn't any one best ear drop for ear wax removal. A recent systematic review of products used to remove ear wax showed no clear differences between the oil-based and water-based products.

The 3 top earwax removal drops in the United States are 6.5% solutions of carbamide peroxide, available as Debrox®, Murine® and NeilMed ClearCanal®. According to a 2018 survey from US News and World Report and Pharmacy Times, 96% of American pharmacists surveyed recommend carbamide peroxide drops to soften ear wax, while the other 4% recommended glycerin drops.

Carbamide peroxide reacts with earwax to release oxygen, creating foam that liquefies the cerumen and helps it rinse away. I stopped using Debrox® because of the annoying crackling and popping sounds and unbearable tickling sensation inside my ear canal.

Docusate sodium (Waxsol®) ear drops are used to soften earwax in the UK. Docusate is a stool softener or lubricant laxative, pulling liquid into hard stool to make it softer and easier to eliminate. It's believed to do the same thing to impacted cerumen. In our clinic we use docusate liquid in the ear first for 1-3 days, then flush the ear canal with warm water.

I currently use docusate 250mg capsules, snipping a hole in the end and squeezing out the contents into my ear canal, repeating up to three times a day for one or two days. The softened earwax can be flushed out gently with warm water in a bulb syringe or by rinsing it out during a warm shower.

Placing the nose of the bulb syringe along the top of the ear canal rather than in the middle helps chunks of ear wax escape. Avoid "power washing", as you can damage your ear drum with too much pressure.

Dry your ears out afterward by tipping your head and blotting with a towel, using a hair dryer on a low setting, or using ear drops designed to dry up water in your ear, like Swim-Ear®, which contains isopropyl alcohol and anhydrous glycerin.

Here Are 5 Tips to Combat Earwax:

- 1. Don't push cotton-tipped swabs, bobby pins or rolled napkins into your ear.

They only force ear wax further inside your ear canal, leading to impaction and pressure, pain and muffled hearing.

2. Both oil-based and water-based drops can help soften cerumen.

It's often a trial and error process to find something that works for you.

3. Avoid using eardrops if you have ear pain, bleeding or any discharge from your ear.

Call your doctor instead. You could have an external ear infection, which requires a very different approach.

4. Don't use a Water Pik® or high-powered device to flush out your ears.

Too much pressure can damage your eardrum or force fluid past it, triggering an inner ear infection.

5. Use warm water when flushing.

Cold water is uncomfortable and can cause problems with your balance.

Are you born again?

Everyone has a birthday—that moment in time where they entered the world through birth.

But here is a question: Are you born again?

It seems like an odd question to ask but it is an important question to answer because how you answer it will determine where you spend eternity. After all the Bible says, "it is appointed man once to die and then comes judgment" (Heb. 9:17). What will happen after you die matters.

Jesus said "unless one is born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God...you must be born again" (John 3:3-7). In order for you to gain entrance into heaven, this new birth has to take place in your life.

A WALK WITH PASTOR JOHN SMITH

The Bible accurately diagnoses our condition. "None is righteous, no not one...all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God." (Rom. 3:10, 23). We are "dead in the trespasses of sins" (Eph. 2:1) and "hostile in mind, doing evil deeds" (Col. 1:21). Without the new birth, you are hopeless and because of our sin, we are guilty, unclean and separated from God.

That is bad news.

But the good news is this: That Jesus came so that we may "have life and have it abundantly" (John 10:10). Jesus Christ lived a perfect life—a life without sin—and he died a perfect death on the cross to pay the sinner's debt. His shed blood on the cross is enough to pay for every sin, cleanse every stain and remove the guilt that is justly deserved. After suffering and dying on the cross, taking your blame and taking upon himself the entirety of God's wrath for your sin, he rose on the third day and secured the promise of a new life to those who will turn away from their old one and trust Jesus.

"Being born again" means that you have a new life. A life that is changed radically by the love of God. A life that is no longer is under the condemnation of God but instead walking as one who is completely forgiven and free from the slavery to sin. 2 Corinthians 5:17 says, "If anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold the new has come!" Are you a new creature? Are you born again?

Examine yourself: do you have a desire for things of God? Is Christ Jesus your treasure? Do you hunger and thirst to know him more? Are you assured that God is your Father?

The Bible says "But to all who did receive him [Jesus], who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God, who were born, not of blood nor of the will of the flesh nor of the will of man, but of God." (John 1:12-13). The one who is born again, not only has a new life but also a new family.

Jesus freely offers this new life to you today. The joy of the new birth can be yours!

Again, Jesus said "you must be born again" So, are you?

Put some spring in your life

By JOYCE WILLIAMS

In case you haven't noticed, the spring bulbs are poking up little green shoots, trees boast promising buds, and a few courageous bulbs and trees have even popped out blooms. I'm reminded of Psalm 1:3, which promises that the person who meditates (read and thinks about) on God's Word will be "like a tree planted by the rivers of water that brings forth its fruit in its season, whose leaf also shall not wither; and whatever he does shall prosper."

Are you feeling like a dried up stick? Take heart. There is a sure antidote: Start reading the Word and thinking about what you read. I challenge you to start with Psalm 1. Read through it several times. Make a list of what the blessed man does/does not do and what the end of those who disregard wise counsel will be. Then consider how your life measures up. The first few verses talk about who you listen to regarding how to live your life. If the true measure of a person is the fruit of their life (Matthew 7:20), then ask yourself if those you listen to exhibit the kind of character you want in your life; i.e. are those in my closest circle critical or disrespectful toward their children, spouses, teachers, public servants, pastors, authorities? Or are they patient, generous, peaceful, encouraging, and filled with hope?

JOYCE WILLIAMS Pastor of Congregational Care

Keep a journal or notebook as you read through each psalm and apply its wisdom to your life. I guarantee you, on God's Word, if you read and think about the verses you read each day and then apply their wisdom to the choices and decisions you make, you will poke up little green shoots, boast some promising buds, and even burst with blooms. Come on...it's time for spring in your life!

Bulldogs soccer finishes second in CTL

By AL STOVER

With a solid grip on second place in the Caribou Trail League standings, the Cashmere High boys soccer team will enter the postseason with a ton of momentum.

The Bulldogs (12-2 overall) rebounded from their April 18 overtime loss against Cascade and cruised to a 6-2 victory over Brewster two days later. They ended their regular season with a 6-0 shutout over Chelan on April 25.

The victory over the Goats brought the Bulldogs' conference record to 6-2, with their only losses against first-place Cascade in matches that went into overtime.

In the Brewster game, sophomore Ty Schoening got the offensive momentum going for his team with a goal in the ninth minute. Javier Reyna scored a brace to boost the Bulldog's score to three in the first half.

Sophomore captain Evan Bakken, and Caleb Bakken also put their best foot forward against the Bears. Evan scored on a penalty at the beginning of the second half while Caleb Bakken launched the ball into the net at the 69th minute.

Neo Valle scored the final point Cashmere after deflecting the ball off an unfortunate defender.

In the Chelan game, Evan Bakken scored a hat trick after a series of opportunities throughout the match. Reyna earned a brace after outpacing the Goats' defense.

Senior Jose Lima scored a goal in the 64th minute in his final regular season game in a Bulldogs jersey.

"The team came away with a collective result," Head Coach Juan Valle said. "I was very pleased with their control of the ball, and most importantly their mentality."

Although the second-place conference finish denies Cashmere a first-round bye in the CWB/CTL District tournament, they will host a playoff game on May 4 against the CWB No. 3 seed.

Brewster and Manson are tied for third in the CWB with identical 4-4 records. The Bulldogs have two wins over the Bears and one against the Trojans.

By AL STOVER

The Cashmere High baseball team faced another tough challenge at home on April 27 after going 0-2 in a Caribou Trail League doubleheader against Chelan.

The first-place Goats defeated the Bulldogs 14-0 in game one, and 16-5 in the nightcap. Both games ended early due to the 10-run mercy rule.

Cashmere struggled to find any offensive momentum in game one as Chelan took a 6-0 lead in the second inning and never looked back. Game starter Brayden Weatherman took the pitching loss after sharing the mound with Corey Phillips. Weatherman also collected the Bulldogs' only hit of the game.

In game two, the Goats took an early 5-0 lead in the first frame and added three more in the second. Cashmere's bats showed some life in the third inning with RBI doubles from Phillips and Corey Scott, and a two-run home run from Bryce Neu. The Bulldogs capped their scoring with one run in the fourth.

Starter Nathan Sohn took the loss on the mound while Carter Alberts three four innings in relief.

The losses drop Cashmere's CTL record to 1-6 and 3-14 overall.

Head Coach Jeff Carlson said the young, inexperienced Bulldogs were outmatched against a state contender Chelan team.

"We knew this was going to be tough," Carlson said. "Chelan is a talented and tough team. That said, our guys didn't show quit and battled back after game one and were more competitive in game two."

The Bulldogs prepare for their final week of the regular season. After hosting second-place Okanogan on April 30 in their final home game, they travel to Cascade on May 2 to play the fourth-place Kodiaks.

Carlson said the team is looking forward to focusing on the remaining two regular season games and the upcoming district tournament.

Two new Cashmere High School track records were set during the April 23 NCW meet on the Bulldogs' home turf.

Ellie Alberts won the long jump with a record-setting leap of 16-7. Alberts' mark beat the old record of 16-6.75 set by Jessica Bauer in 2014.

Alberts' teammate Grace Erdmann won and set a new triple jump record of 35-7, breaking the previous mark of 35-6.75, which former Bulldog Laura Jordan set in 2001.

The record-breaking performances from Alberts and Erdmann were just two factors that propelled the Bulldog girls to a first-place finish in team scores with 115. The Bulldog boys also won their division with 70 points.

Cashmere dominated the racing events with Ali Ball winning the 100 meters in 13.23 seconds.

The Cashmere girls took four of the top five spots in the women's 200 meters. Ball won the event with a PR of 26.44 seconds, which puts her at No. 2 in the 1A state rankings. Second-place Carley Diaz recorded a PR of 27.10.

Lady Bulldogs break 17-game CTL skid

By AL STOVER

To quote "Major League II" character Lou Brown, the Lady Bulldogs softball team is on what he called "a winning streak."

The Cashmere High School softball team boosted their winning streak to four games this past week, beginning with a 2-0 sweep over Omak in a Caribou Trail League doubleheader on April 23.

Cashmere's 16-7 win in the first contest not only broke a seven-game skid, but also snapped a 17 conference game losing streak. Cashmere followed the victory with a 22-2 win in the nightcap. Both games ended early due to the 10-run mercy rule.

After Omak took a three run lead in the top of the first, the Lady Kodiaks answered with six runs, including RBIs from Hannah Tyler and Bianca Sevrin, followed by another run in the third. In the fourth inning, Tyler crushed the ball for a three-run home run. The Lady Bulldogs added three runs in both the fifth and sixth innings.

Cashmere opened game two with six runs in the first inning and never looked back, scoring 12 runs in the second inning and four in the third.

Head Coach Steve Mongeon said the team had a good plate approach and did not swing at a lot of bad pitches.

"Defensively we were pretty clean," he added. "Both sides were pretty solid which made for a good day."

Peyton Brown earned both wins on the mound. Mongeon said rebounded from a tough week against Zillah and Cascade.

"She's getting back to her old self," Mongeon said. "She pitches every inning for us and it's a struggle, but she plays tough."

Cashmere added two more CTL wins on April 27 after sweeping Chelan in a conference doubleheader. The Lady Bulldogs earned a 16-12 win in game one and a 9-8 victory in the nightcap.

"Coming off Tuesday, it was nice to get another two wins," Mongeon said.

The Lady Bulldogs' bats came alive with five runs in the first inning and never looked back. Cashmere's best inning came in the fourth with nine runs.

In game two, Chelan put up more of a fight after scoring five runs in the seventh inning to tie the game at 8-8. Molly High's base hit brought home Stormi O'Keefe to seal the win for Cashmere.

Mongeon said he felt the Lady Bulldogs continue to improve at hitting and base running and showed their progress in both games.

"We made some errors, we're still fighting it out," he added.

Brown earned the pitching win in both games. Mongeon said he was proud of Brown for throwing two complete games and battling through both contests. He also commended the team's defense, including Ella Burts who has been playing well on offense and defense.

The wins bump Cashmere (4-5 CTL, 7-10 overall) to third place in the conference standings. The Lady Bulldogs continued the final round of conference play on April 30 when they traveled to Okanogan to play the northern Bulldogs (8-2, 12-4).

Cashmere will face Omak in their final home game of the regular season on May 2. The Bulldogs wrap up regular season play against Cascade the next day.

Mongeon said he knows Okanogan and Cascade will be tough while he feels Omak is a game the Lady Bulldogs can win.

"I'd like to go the distance with those two teams," Mongeon added.
