The annual Apple Days brought the Cashmere community to the Cashmere Museum grounds to celebrate the dough and entered the apple pie Pioneer Village on Saturday, Oct. 6 - 7. contest on Friday. Families milled around enjoying the recent dip in Children, adults and faux pioneers gathered to watch mock-shootouts, temperatures with the unfolding of submit a chance to win a uniquely the fall season, but the chill was met with a warm, neighborly sense of atmosphere.

Walking into the festival and the Cashmere locals were met with a bake sale and a chance to satisfy their sweet tooth. There were children with painted faces and adults adorned in both pioneer and Native American clothing. Of course to commemorate Apple Days, there was a pile of apples in the center of the event.

With no shortage of visitors, the 2018 Apple Days was a successful opportunity for the community to engage with their neighbors and celebrate tradition.

Blackmon touts experience in Chelan County District Court judge race

By Gary Bégin

NCW Media Managing Bégin recently interviewed Chelan County District Court Judge candidate Allen Blackmon about why he is running and what his goals and policies are. These are his answers:

NCW Media: Why do you want to become a judge?

Allen Blackmon: I have been proudly representing our community for 22 years as a deputy prosecutor. I grew up in Wenatchee, and I care very strongly about our community. It is important to me that our court have a judge who has the necessary experience and knowledge to be impartial and fair, and who has the qualifications to do the job properly. When I was told that Judge Harmon would be retiring, I thought hard about the decision to run for this position. I discussed with my family and friends about this important decision. I truly enjoy working as a prosecutor for our community. But I felt it was important for me to run for this position so our county would be well-represented by someone who has the necessary experience and qualifications do to this job properly for our community.

My campaign slogan of "Experience Matters!" was chosen because we believe that when a person seeks to become a judge, you need someone who has the experience and knowledge to lead that court. Judges make decisions that affect people's NCW: What do you feel you have accomplished so far as a lawyer that you want to hold up to voters as an example of your legal prowess?

Blackmon: I have over 22 years of experience in all of our local courts serving the public, including over 16 years in District Court. I am very proud to be a prosecutor for our county and represent our community in court. During that time, I have handled over 10,000 cases, well over 50 jury trials, and a multitude of other hearings.

It's the quality and depth of experience from having had to deal with just about every conceivable legal, procedural, and ethical issue that can arise in court at trial, in motion hearings, and on appeal, none of which can be learned from a book or in just a few short years.

NCW: Are there specific issues the county needs to address regarding the bench or the court system?

Blackmon: I want to make sure that the people have faith in our justice system. In order for a court to be effective, the public and the parties before the court must have confidence in the court. They must feel that the court is fair, impartial and just.

NCW: If elected, what do you feel is the biggest law enforcement issue that you see every day?

Blackmon: Mental health contacts and receiving proper training for these contacts and cases is the biggest law enforcement issue that I see on a daily basis. As the person's behavior is unpredictable and the officers are

As librarian Leah Martin pours in some vinegar, the explosion gets ready to rrrrrumble! much to the delight of the gathered grade school students from Vale Elementary School. Remember making paper maché volcanos back in grade school? Some of us did it for the annual science fair. Times haven't changed too much, especially at the Cashmere Public Library. Librarians "blew up" a paper maché volcano for a gang of kids last week from Vale Elementary School and the room went wild. Leah Martin, Co-Librarian was "Mad Scientist" for the day. She poured a little dish soap at the bottom of the volcano, then baking soda. After that, she poured vinegar (tinted with red food coloring) into the volcano. So, the result was "lava" exploding out of her homemade Volcano! It was a Blast!

Today, we have a country where every candidate is viciously attacked for the content of his character and questions about that character are often based on the nothing more than rumor or innuendo.

We have tried replacing the incumbents with someone new hoping the politicians would get the idea we, the electorate, aren't happy. Trouble is things aren't getting better. The politicians are fighting among themselves even more. Their character assassination tactics are escalating.

It has become so bad that elected representatives and their families are confronted by angry mobs when they go to the store or out to dinner. And the compliant media often play the mob as some kind of hero for their courage to speak out. But watch the media talking heads discuss this and the "panel" is not allowed to describe the bullies as a mob.

This is no longer just a contest of ideas between two different political parties. It is a struggle for power and at least one side has demonstrated they will stop at nothing to regain that power.

If we truly believe in the principles incorporated in our founding documents, equality, freedom of speech, the right to confront your accusers, and the importance of the rule of law then we, the electorate, must take charge.

We must reject the "leadership" of the Democrat party. It is clear from the hearings the have already declared war on Republicans. They will stoop at nothing to discredit and remove any Republican. They have resisted the President ever since he was elected and if they have more power in the legislature, their attacks will only get worse.

If you are a lifelong Democrat you must recognize this is not your Democrats of old. Voting for them out of loyalty is not in your long-term best interest. That is not to say there aren't some good Democrats in Congress but they are clearly cowed by a party leadership that believes they own the votes of anyone with a D after their name.

The best way for us, the electorate, to send a message is to reject the Democrats and their leadership by giving President Trump an even larger majority in Congress.

If you are a Republican or an Independent, vote for the Republican next month. If you are a Democrat and disgusted by the tactics of the Democrats vote Republican or stay home. It's the best way to begin to change the direction of political debate in this country.

National Novel Writing Month

NaNoWriMo.org, together with Write On The River, presents National Novel Writing Month. One part writing boot camp, one part rollicking party, this event challenges participants to write 50,000 words, the length of a short novel, during the month of November. It is the largest writing event in the world. This year the organization expects over 400,000 people worldwide to participate.

There is a launch party planned for November 1 at Wenatchee Public Library. Time TBA. There will also be several write-ins throughout the month at various locations throughout the Wenatchee Valley. Cashmere Community Concerts Presents The Kathy Kallick Band

By CINDY JACKSON

Get your bluegrass on and prepare yourself for some "Hot Bluegrass & Cool Originals" when Cashmere Community Concerts, once again proudly welcomes The Kathy Kallick Band (KKB) to our stage, Saturday, October 20th, at 7pm. Kathy Kallick's exceptional career includes winning a Grammy and two IBMA Awards, receiving a Lifetime Membership the California Bluegrass Association, cofounding the internationallyacclaimed Good Ol' Persons, and collaborating with the country's top acoustic musicians - including her mighty band: Annie Staninec, Greg Booth, Tom Bekeny and Cary Black.

Kathy Kallick, guitar/vocals. Kathy, in addition to her numerous awards, has released 20 albums during her illustrious career. She has worked and collaborated with many of the top musicians of our time, including Laurie Lewis, John Reischman, Tim O'Brien, Peter Rowan, Frank Wakefield, Jerry Douglas and Stuart Duncan, to name only a few.

Annie Staninec, fiddle/vocals. Annie received the 2015 IBMA Instrumentalist Momentum Award, the 2008-2010 Fiddle Player of the Year awards from the Northern California Bluegrass Society, and the 2006 Dudley Hill Award for Outstanding Young Musicians at Djangofest Northwest. In 2015 with her fluency in crossing genres, she became a touring member with the Rod Steward Band. Annie's fiery soloing, sensitive backup and sweet singing are well placed Greg Booth, Dobro/banjo/ vocals. Greg has been described as "innovative and expressive".

Greg won the RockyGrass dobro competition in 2006 and has a YouTube Channel that surpassed 2 million views in 2015. A regular instructor at Rob Icke's ResoSummit, Greg has also taught at many music camps, including the California Bluegrass Association Music Camp, Nimblefingers, Puget Sound Guitar Workshop, ResoMania and several music camps in Alaska.

Tom Bekeny, mandolin/ vocals. Tom has been playing and singing with the KKB since 1996 and is regarded as "among the most adventurous" in mandolin soloing along with solid backup. He played with Laurie Lewis & Grant Street, has appeared with Peter Rowan, David Grisman, and Jerry Garcia, and has been the fiddler in High Country, one of the west coast's premier traditional bluegrass bands, since 1988.

Cary Black, bass/vocals. Cary's inventive and melodic bass lines never get in the way of his perfect timekeeping. The musicians and bands he has played with throughout his career is a literal who's who. Only to name a few, they include, The Kingston Trio, Keith Little, Rose Maddox, Marley's Ghost, John Miller, Scott Nygaard, Mollie O'Brien, Mark O'Connor, John Reischman, Del Rey, Linda Waterfall, and Glen Yarbrough. He played with Laurie Lewis & Grant Street for three years, playing and singing bass on the 1994 IBMA song of the year, "Who Will Watch the Home Place."

This music event is brought to you by the good folks of the Cashmere Community non-profit Concerts, a organization whose mission is to provide live, affordable, high quality entertainment to the Wenatchee Valley. A cover charge of $3.00 per person at the door will help to cover expenses. Refreshments are provided.

The musicians will be paid by a onetime Hat Pass; a suggested donation of $8 to $11 per person will be greatly appreciated. Enjoy great bluegrass music in an alcohol free environment with concert seating. Located at the Riverside Center; 201 Riverside Drive Cashmere, WA. Doors open at 6:30 pm.

Listen, Speak and See a People Divided on the other side? Again,

We live in a very divided nation and that divide grows larger every day.

COMMUNITY VOICES

Our Nation's motto, 'E pluribus unum" out of the many, one, has practically been replaced with against them".

We see it everywhere and it grieves me to hear the divisive rhetoric coming from both sides. Please don't misunderstand I am not calling for some idyllic unity at the expense of truth. Truth is important enough to divide over. As Martin Luther, the German Reformer, said, "Peace if possible. Truth at all costs."

How we talk to one another is just as important as the content of our message. Especially as Christians, whose entire worldview is centered on words and communication (God speaking to us in the Bible and us speaking to the world about God), we have to be increasingly diligent in the way we speak.

The Bible says in 1 Peter 3:15, "...always be prepared to make a defense to anyone who asks you for a reason for the hope that is in you; yet do it with gentleness and respect." For many, we are quick to give an answer. We eagerly rise to defend when we feel our position, our candidate or listened to ourselves? Could it be said that there is an over abundance of gentleness in our speech we are not minimizing disagreements between politics and worldviews yet we can disagree without being disagreeable. We must remember that ideas, contrasting worldviews and AWALK differences within the WITH political spectrum are PASTOR supported and believed JOHN by people.

There is a person SMITH behind the article written or the Facebook post. There is a person behind the voice who is saying something completely in opposition to what you hold to you.

And according to the Bible, that person is created in the image of God, possessing intrinsic worth imbued by their Creator.

This Imago Dei is in everyone regardless if they are Liberal or Conservative.

James, the brother of Jesus, says to our shame, that out of the same mouth we bless the Lord and curse people "who are made in the likeness of God" (Jas. 3:9) and this "ought not to be so" (Jas. 3:10).

But it is, especially lately, with all the insanity that is swirling around us.

How do we guard ourselves from falling to the temptation to speak unkindly or be disrespectful to the people we disagree with?

For one, "be quick to hear and slow to speak" (Jas. 1:19). Resist the urge to talk over some one. It is true, there are many who want to be heard and talkers are in abundance but there are few listeners in the world today. Be a person who listens.

Secondly, be a person who speaks, clearly and with a measure of winsomeness. Now is not a time for disengagement from the culture because people disagree with our message. The world needs the Christian voice speaking life with words seasoned with grace when everybody around is speaking death (Prov. 10:11, 18:21, Co. 4:6).

Lastly, see people. I mean, really see people. See them as image bearers of God, who have been given the capacity to think and to feel. Observe their sincerity in whatever position they hold to and respect their experience while at the same time, seeking a way to loving minister to that individual right where they are at.

Listen, speak, and see. Three simple steps for us to remember as we exist in such a polarized nation.

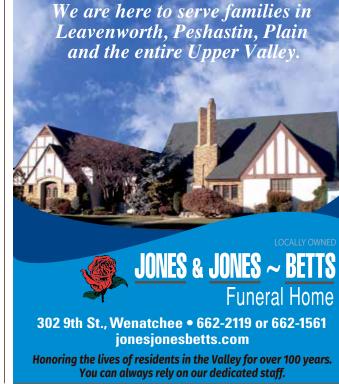

How we communicate matters and let us not cut throat of our influence by one surly, abrasive or unloving word to another.

Cashmere Kiwanis honors two women for 'outstanding service'

Submitted by past president KAREN BRAY

Charlotte Harlow and Janice Irle were recognized Monday, Oct. 9 at the Kiwanis Club-Wacoka meeting in Cashmere for outstanding service to the community.

Charlotte Harlow earned a medal from SIGN (surgical, implant, generation, network) for organizing a fundraiser to open a pediatric wing for bone repair in one of 21 participating countries. 40,000 patients have had bones set and healed through the SIGN program and 11 percent were under the age

Janice Irle was honored for being a Lt. Governor during the first 100 years of the Pacific Northwest participation in Kiwanis. She coordinated efforts of 8 area clubs to serve children, seniors and specific programs in need.

Kiwanis Club Wacoka meets the second and fourth Monday of the month at the Cashmere American Legion Hall and all are welcome to attend 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. The annual Halloween Party at the Cashmere Fire Hall is sponsored and served by Wacoka. It will be held Oct. 31 from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

The Cashmere Fire Department is into the spirit of Halloween as evidenced by the "Spy versus Spy" figures posed in front of the building. The pointed-headed characters first appeared in Mad magazine back in 1961 and is still a popular cartoon. Although wordless, the strip always features a Black spy against a White spy in humorous espionage shenanigans against each other. Note the red fire hat perched on the head of the White spy.

Cashmere City Council: Property taxes may rise

The following information was extrapolated from the official city minutes for Sept. 24 as found on the city website:

• Mayor Fletcher announced that the August Financial Report is on the website.

- Cy Sousley reported the Fire Department had been awarded a grant of $106,000 from FEMA. The City will need to contribute a cost match of around $5,300 Grant money will go towards the purchase of SCBA packs and additional HUD mask. "Call Outs" for the department are up and expected to be over 550 by year
- Councilor Erickson announced that the Cashmere Canyon Project had submitted a grant proposal to the Washington State Recreation Conservation Funding Board and it looked promising for them.
- · Mayor Fletcher reported that he had received a request for new street lights on Mission Creek at Meadowsweet and Creekside Streets, and a cross walk installed at Evergreen.
- · The Corp of Engineers had inspected the levy.
- City Hall had calls regarding noise coming from Louws Truss.
- Councilor Pratt commented on the overflowing garbage cans on main street being an eyesore and that garbage is getting blown onto the street.
- Council members had various comments regarding the previous meeting with Waste Management. Mayor shared that he was meeting with Tami Yeager and would bring back information to the council.
 - Set Public Hearing for

October 22 on revenue sources and possible increase in Property tax

- · Set Public Hearing for November 12 on Preliminary Budget for 2019
- · Set Public Hearing for November 26 on the Final 2019 Budget
- Adopting a revised Employee Handbook
- Amending and adding provisions to the City Park regulations relating to the use of inflatable play equipment as presented and directed staff to impose an application fee for Special Use Permits for Bouncy Houses.

· Discussion on Goals and Objectives for 2019

The council also discussed the following:

- Updating Comprehensive Use, Vehicle
- and Capital Investment Plans • Voting District issues
- · Programs for managers on Continuing Education, Team Building and Communications · An analysis of City
- sidewalks · Signage on sidewalks for
- bicycles and skateboards • Updating the City's
- website
- · Complete cleaning of the lagoons Discussion on Public
- Engagement Ideas Cashmere's Future

The following were ideas put forth for consideration:

- · Continue with the Community Forums held in January
- City resident's expectations of the Downtown and growth ideas.
- · Suggested that the bridge on Chapel/Paton be investigated as a possibility of re-opening

• The approach of the traffic circle from the Aplets bridge be discussed for accessibility and speed issues.

Progress Reports:

reported The Mayor that Waste Management had reduced their price for dumping of Bio-Solids to $26.75/ton, which would be approximately $112,000 to complete the cleanup of the lagoons.

- Request For Proposal (RFP) went out to the City's Small Works Roster September 24 for new air conditioner for City
- · Representatives for the Safe Routes to School grant came and walked the routes submitted for updated and new crossings near our schools with the Mayor.

Council to take a look at the city property that is adjacent to Riverside Meadow for future discussions.

The Cashmere City Council meets every second and fourth Monday at 6 p.m. The next meeting is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 22.

TERI MILLER RECIPE

Yes it is definitely Fall, beautiful leaves, Fall Festivals, Oktoberfest and everything pumpkin. Who would have thought that the lonely pumpkin that many of us grew up with would become the "rockstar" of Fall. I remember all the solo pumpkins that sat on doorsteps as I was growing up and the anticipation of watching the "Great Pumpkin' with Charlie Brown. Every pumpkin had the same carved grin on its face. Fast forward to now, where the carved pumpkin has its own distinctive face, and no longer sits alone on a doorstep by itself. Our fruit stand sells tons of pumpkins and most people go home with several to decorate. It is just not kids as many adults are just as passionate about fall pumpkins and selecting the right ones to greet their guests.

Today pumpkins are not just for carving, but for painting, Mod Podging and some folks actually eat them. White or ghost pumpkins are very popular for decorating with Sharpie pens or displaying at coastal homes with blue and green pumpkins and squashes. A sip and paint night for your friends is a fun way to spend a fall afternoon or evening. In large cities that have arboretums many have large fabulous displays of pumpkins that are well worth visiting. Our town has many beautiful displays of Fall decorations using pumpkins, that can be enjoyed by all. Here is my suggestion for the week, take a shower with that nice pumpkin soap you have, wrap yourself up in cozy Fall clothes, head downtown for a Pumpkin Spice Latte, a pumpkin scone or cookie and take a leisurely stroll downtown and enjoy our beautiful Fall. My recipe this week makes a wonderful Pumpkin Spice Latte that will make your home smell heavenly and warm your heart.

CROCKPOT PUMPKIN SPICED LATTE

- 6 cups whole milk 6 cups strongly brewed coffee
- 1/2 cup pumpkin puree 1/4 vanilla 1/2 cup sugar 2 teaspoons cinnamon • 3 cinnamon sticks

In your crockpot, combine the milk and coffee. Whip together the pumpkin, vanilla, sugar and cinnamon. Pour mixture into the crockpot.

Stir everything together and toss in 3-4 cinnamon sticks. Cover the crockpot, and cook on the high for 2 hours. If you are not having a large group, you can easily halve the recipe. This recipe does NOT reheat well.

5 Tips to Bring Your Home's Wi-Fi 'Dead Zones' to life

(StatePoint) Whether it's to stream a movie from the bedroom or lock the front door using smart home technology, you've likely come to expect Wi-Fi to reach every corner of your house. The reality is that there are certain locations in many homes where Internetconnected devices and smartphones are unable to receive a steady Wi-Fi signal (or any signal at all) from the router. These sad places are called "dead zones."

"Dead zones typically include bathrooms, second and third story bedrooms, attics, basements, garages and back patios -- and they can drive everyone in the house absolutely crazy," says Jeff Parker, the "Wi-Fi Guru," and editor of the Milo Wi-Fi Blog, a source for practical advice, new products, and leading-edge technology dedicated to enhancing the Wi-Fi experience,

So, given today's basement-toattic demand for Wi-Fi access, what is the most economical and effective strategy for winning the battle against dead zones in your home? Parker offers five no-cost/low-cost suggestions:

1. Keep your router away from metal

Objects such as mirrors, televisions, appliances or anything large made primarily of metal (i.e. decorative furniture, filing cabinets, even fish tanks!) have the potential to im-

2. Switch to a less crowded frequency buildings, too many broadcasting networks can interfere with each other and impact Wi-Fi quality. Because routers broadcast across two wireless frequency bands, 2.4 and 5 GHz, when one is too crowded it acts like a highway packed with ally switch frequencies within your mobile device settings to use the less crowded channel.

3. Reboot regularly.

Routers asked to complete many tiple IP addresses to different devices and handling large downloads, can end up slowing down because of the heavy workload. You can think of rebooting your router as basically refreshing it and clearing any memory or stalled tasks.

4. Get the latest hardware.

If you're still using that dinosaur router from the early 2000s, it's probably time for an upgrade. Outfitting your home with a smarter and more advanced router could be the solution to your Wi-Fi woes, especially if your existing router is a very old model with limited capabilities. Internet service providers often provide router upgrades by request for no charge.

5. Consider a distributed mesh Wi-Fi system.

For Wi-Fi that reaches farther, consider a mesh Wi-Fi system, which consists of a main router connected to a modem and a series of satellite Wi-Fi distribution modules placed throughout the house. Those from Milo provide a strong uninterrupted signal to every Wi-Fi device in the home, from attic to basement. To learn more, visit milowifi.com or call 1-877-426-6456.

Don't just live with the dead zones in your home. By taking a few simple steps, you can enjoy a more satisfyrouter apart.

(StatePoint)- Did you know 66 percent of Americans have difficulty finding things in household storage? And more than half are frustrated by the task.

Instead of stressing, consider using smart, tech-based storage solutions, like the Duck Pack & Track app-based labeling system to keep things organized. It uses a smartphone app and labels with unique QR codes to help you keep track of your boxes' contents. Additional information is available at Duck-PackAndTrack.com.

Other things you can do to improve your storage skills? Turn stacks of paperwork into digital files by scanning them or snapping photos. Take advantage of vertical space by installing shelving and hooks. Also, some pieces of furniture, like ottomans, can pull double-duty as extra places to store books, photo albums, blankets, pillows and more.

Don't let your next move or seasonal cleaning be overly stressful. Smart solutions can keep you organized from start to finish.

Nine things all drivers need to know about their tires

(StatePoint) — Today's cars are packed with impressive features. Stability control. Ride assist. Ever-more-powerful engines. But no matter what technology makes its way into your car -- it's your tires that connect it to the road, making their construction and maintenance critical for safe, effective driving.

So, what do you need to know? The experts at Cooper Tires are offering these helpful insights.

1. Valve stems are crucial. Those little caps on the valve help to keep out moisture and dirt, as well as provide an additional seal to the valve core, holding air in the tires and helping maintain tire pressure.

2. Check the manual. Proper tire pressure is important for safety, performance and fuel economy, and can extend the life of your tires by reducing the chance of uneven wear. But don't check the tire sidewall for this information. That's where the maximum pressure allowed for the tire is listed. The proper inflation pressure can be found by checking the vehicle's owner's manual or the placard found on the driver's side doorjamb, glove box or fuel door.

3. Beware of underinflation. Even when tires look properly inflated, they may be under-inflated by as much as 50 percent. Underinflation can lead to tire failure, and tires that are under-inflated by 8 pounds per square inch (PSI) or more can increase your fuel consumption by 4 percent,

4. Weather matters. Outside temperature can affect tire pressure more than you might expect. On average, experts say that tire pressure decreases by about 1 PSI for every 10degree Fahrenheit drop in temperature. The changing seasons are a good reminder to check pressure.

5. "All season" tires have limits. "All season" tires are meant for year-round moderate weather. Install winter tires for dealing with severe winter weather conditions.

6. Tread check is easy. Tire tread should be more than 2/32 of an inch deep. Check for this by inserting a penny into the tread with Lincoln's head facing down, If the top of Lincoln's head is covered by tread, there's at least a minimum acceptable amount of tread. If the top of his head is visible at any point around the tire, it's time to replace the tire.

7. Off-road adventures require off-road tires. Road tires may be able to handle the occasional jaunt down a gravel driveway or dirt road, but when you're heading offroad you'll need something more rugged, such as the Cooper Discoverer STT Pro, which has been designed for off-road use.

8. Tires should be checked regularly. Every month and before long road trips, perform this DIY routine: check tire pressure, check tread depth, check the overall condition of the tires for cuts, cracks, splits, punctures, irregular wear and bulges.

9. Know the limits of your tires. If you're the type of driver more likely to use the gas pedal than the brake, choose tires designed for high-performance, such as the Cooper Zeon RS3-G1, which features great grip and handling.

More tips and information can be found at coopertire. com. As cars go high-tech, don't forget that selecting the right tires and keeping them in good shape are two of the most important things you can do to stay safe on the road.

Pressure cookers also preserve more minerals and vitamins than traditional methods of boiling or steaming, making for healthier

How a pressure cooker can save you time and energy in the kitchen (StatePoint) Pressurecooking may sound intimidating, but it's important to keep in mind that it's actually a simple process that can save you time, energy and money.

Not only does a pressure cooker use up to 70 percent less energy than a stove, it combines high pressure and high heat to dramatically reduce cooking times, saving you as much as two-thirds the time it takes to cook with a conventional stove.

Another benefit? More vitamins and minerals are retained by pressure cooking vegetables as opposed to boiling and steaming.

Using a pressure cooker is different than cooking on a stovetop or in the oven, so the first few times, follow a recipe to get the feel for liquid ratios and cooking times. Recipes for all occasions, as well as tips and pressure-cooking advice can be found on Crock-Pot.com.

Don't let inexperience prevent you from trying a pressure cooker. Once you have a few strategies down, it can become a useful tool to prepare convenient, quick meals for your family.

"If an emergency has your family on the move, being able to hydrate safely from any fresh water source fountains, streams, rivers and ponds is key," points out Hill.

When building your emergency supply kit, be sure to include a portable filter to help eliminate harmful contaminants from your drinking source.

LifeStraw makes it easy to hydrate safely at home and outdoors. LifeStraw Go is a refillable bottle that incorporates a two-stage filter removing bacteria, chemicals, microplastics and bad taste from drinking water. Another good option for personal use is LifeStraw Flex, a multi-use filter that removes heavy metals including lead as well as bacteria and parasites. Finally, those traveling in groups may find it more efficient to use a filter specifically designed for a crowd, such as the brand's Mission model, a high-volume gravity-powered purifier that also filters viruses, available in a 12-liter compact roll bag.

Weatherization Myths – Debunked!

(StatePoint) Weatherizing your home for each season can make it more comfortable - but how to do it can be confusing. Here are four common weatherizing myths - busted! to help get your home ready for cooler weather to come.

Myth 1: It doesn't matter where your thermostat is placed.

Truth: Location, location, location! You may be spending more on heating and cooling than you need to be if your thermostat is in the wrong place.

Placed in direct sunlight, you run the risk of getting false readings, as it can "think" the room is warmer than it actually feels, causing your air conditioner to turn on when it isn't needed.

Similarly, a thermostat placed near the kitchen often reads that the home is far warmer than it truly is due to the stove and oven.

The best location is on an interior wall, centrally located and near areas where you spend the most time, ensuring these rooms are the most comfortable.

Myth 2: Closed curtains and blinds in cold weather prevent heat

Truth: According to the Department of Energy, shades and drapes can reduce heat loss from a warm room by up to 10 percent. However, opening curtains and blinds during the day when direct sunlight hits can also allow for a warming effect. In winter, draperies should be closed at dusk but opened at dawn.

In addition, heat escape through

(StatePoint)

It's also a myth that window insulation products such as Duck brand Roll-On Window Kits are hard to install.

windows can be prevented with window insulation products such as Duck brand Roll-On Window Kits, which create a barrier between outdoor air and a home's interior, helping block drafts and air leaks.

And, it's also a myth that these are hard to install: A pre-taped edge makes for easy roll-on application, requiring no measuring, while fitting snuggly to indoor window frames to provide an airtight, crystal-clear seal.

Myth 3: It's expensive to draftproof your home.

Truth: Homeowners can actually save hundreds of dollars annually on heating and cooling costs with proper weatherization early in the season.

How do you do it?

There are many inexpensive, doit-yourself weatherization products that are easy on the wallet and easy to install, requiring minimal - if any - tools.

Windows and doors are the two largest draft sources in any home and should be top priorities for homeowners. Duck brand MAX Strength Silicone Weatherstrip Seals are quick to install and seal various size gaps around windows and doors that may be allowing air to escape.

Myth 4: It's cheaper to keep your home at a constant temperature.

Truth: A common misconception is that it's better to keep your home at a constant temperature, even when you're not home. However, if the system runs less during the day, it uses less energy.

According to Energy.gov, you can save as much as 10 percent a year on heating and cooling by turning your thermostat back 7-10 degrees from its normal setting for eight hours a day.

Still need more help? For additional tips and information, text "Weather" to 84444 to access Duck brand's Project Selector, an online resource for project guides, instructional videos and more, or visit DuckBrand.com.

Don't let common myths scare you. Weatherizing can be an affordable, easy do-it-yourself project especially if you plan ahead.

Attract beautiful songbirds to your backyard

(StatePoint) Did you know that you can create a safe haven for wild song birds in your own backyard? By taking a few simple actions, you can provide birds with vital resources they need to thrive, as well as guard them from common flying hazards.

Protect Them

Before inviting birds to your yard and garden with food and habitat, first take measures to protect them.

Unfortunately, millions of birds die annually by striking glass, making the windows and glass doors of your home a potential safety hazard.

Help reduce the risk of bird strikes by applying special decals that reflect ultraviolet sunlight from your home's windows, particularly those highly reflective of open sky. Virtually invisible to humans, they keep birds safe without affecting your glass, but glow like a stoplight for birds. For fuller protection, supplement the decals with WindowAlert UV Liquid, making marblesized dots to create a "visual barrier" across glass surfaces. To learn more, visit WindowAlert.com.

You can limit other hazards to birds by ensuring cats, dogs and other predatory (but otherwise adorable) pets are monitored while outside to prevent attacks. Dogs can be trained not to attack birds. If this proves to be an issue, consider consulting a professional dog trainer on how to break this bad habit.

Feed Them

Birds in transit expend a lot of energy, but you can ease their hunt for food. Avoid the temptation to feed birds yesterday's bread. Stale breads that have developed mold could be potentially harmful to birds.

(509) 548-3489

Leavenworth, WA

Instead, populate your garden with native flowering species and supply a bird feeder stocked with a variety of seeds. Strategic placement of a bird feeder is key in preventing bird strikes.

Place your feeder either closer than three feet or farther than 30 feet from windows, Clean your feeder periodically to ensure its contents are fresh and free of potentially toxic mold.

Want to beautify your backyard naturally? By taking a few simple measures, you will give birds an incentive to visit!

Fabulous Fall Flavors

Why Autumn is ideal for gardening, plus timely tips for success

(BPT) — For any gardener, fall is bittersweet. The exuberance of summer's bounty has started to fade, while cooler nights and less daylight signal the approach of cold, dark winter.

However, there's still plenty of time to savor some of the garden's best flavors before you close your door on the season. In fact, now is the perfect time to plant what are collectively known as "cool weather" crops – tasty favorites that thrive in autumn's chill.

Bonnie Plants grows a wide variety of cool-weather veggies and herbs, perfect for fall planting. Availability of Bonnie's fall varieties is limited to specific regions, so check your local garden retailers to find plants near Select some hardy favorites to get weeks of crisp cabbage slaws, healthy kale bowls, crunchy cauliflower and broccoli or even hearty greens like collards or Swiss chard, perfect to pop in a longsimmering winter braise.

Other fall favorites include Brussels sprouts — delicious roasted with slivers of garlic, olive oil and a touch of balsamic vinegar — or any of the versatile salad greens like lettuce and spinach or flavorful herbs like cilantro that tend to suffer and bolt prematurely in sweltering summer sun.

Here are six timely tips from Bonnie Plants to help you make your fall garden as enjoyable as your summer harvest:

1. Go big at home

Plant pre-started vegetable or herb transplants rather than seeds to squeeze every last moment out of fall's compressed growing season. These plants love warm soil coupled with cool air and will start to grow quickly. Using transplants instead of seed also means vou'll be gathering tasty produce weeks earlier than you would with seed-sown varieties.

Now is the perfect time to plant what are collectively known as "cool weather" crops — tasty favorites that thrive in autumn's chill.

2. Stretch the season

While you can certainly plant cool-season veggies and herbs in pots or in the ground, a simple, commonly available garden product, a "cold-frame", can help you extend your fall season by providing some added protection. A cold frame is a four-sided, clear box — open to the soil at the bottom with a hinged lid. Because the ground inside stays warmer than the ambient air temperature, a cold frame protects plants long after unsheltered veggies start to fail. (On warm, sunny days, be sure to crack the lid open to prevent too much heat from building up inside.)

3. Prepare you plot or pot

If planting in-ground, be sure to clear the area of previous planted crops and weeds, as they may decay and harbor bacteria. Always bag, tie and discard debris. Turn up the soil's top layer and add some bagged compost, and mulch. If planting in a pot, be sure to sanitize pots and use fresh, new potting soil, specifically formulated for containers.

4. Proactively patrol for pests

While pest numbers naturally decline in the cooler days of fall, they don't disappear entirely. Common pests of coolseason plants include tiny, sap-sucking aphids, caterpillars (particularly from cabbage white butterflies) and harlequin bugs. Inspect your plants for tiny clusters of aphids or tell-tale holes in the leaves. Handpick caterpillars or harlequin bugs from plants and dispose of them or use a strong blast of water from a hose to dislodge aphids.

5. Embrace cooler, carefree comforts

With the warm days and cool nights of fall, less moisture evaporates from your garden or pots, so you'll need to water less often. (Only water when the soil 2" deep is dry.) In addition, many cool weather crops handily survive light frosts, growing well until a very hard freeze ends their productivity. Better yet, chilly weather improves the flavor of many late-season varieties, including members of the cabbage family, kale, Brussels sprouts and chard, by turning their starches into natural sugars, making them a sweet and healthy

6. Take time to relax

Just like plants, gardeners enjoy a break from the stifling heat of summer. With the leisure of cool days, fewer chores and less weeding as the garden begins to wind down, you'll be able to enjoy the garden more while you wait to harvest your fall favorites to boost your recipes and brighten your table.

If you don't want to give up on your garden's bounty, pick up a selection of coolseason favorites from Bonnie Plants now — and keep your garden growing!

Winterize the Yard

In fact, the key to a healthy year-round yard is in how you care for it during the fall and winter months. Ignoring your lawn when the temperatures change can mean even more work for you when the springtime rolls around again.

So get ahead of the game now to help yourself in the long run.

Mow and rake

Even when the cool air enters your neck of the woods, it's still necessary to continue mowing your yard. If your grass is still growing, you should still Raking and lawn sweeping your yard after you mow is necessary to prevent sun deprivation from impacting your yard.

By neglecting the areas of your lawn with built-up grass on top, you're ensuring you'll end up with unattractive brown spots peppered throughout.

Keep the clippings in check by raking and removing your grass after every mow. This not only helps your lawn look great but prevents overworking your mower.

Create a compost pile

The fall season is an excellent time to start your own compost pile and can help you put your yard waste to good

Start a pile of green leaves, clippings and non-meat kitchen scraps close to your garden. Add a second layer of brown material such as garden soil, leaves and coffee grounds before adding another layer of greens. Finally, add some garden soil to the top and turn it throughout the season. You'll end up with a rich, black pile of fertilizer for next year's garden.

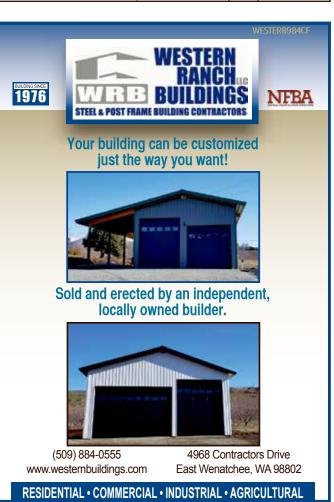

Tend your garden

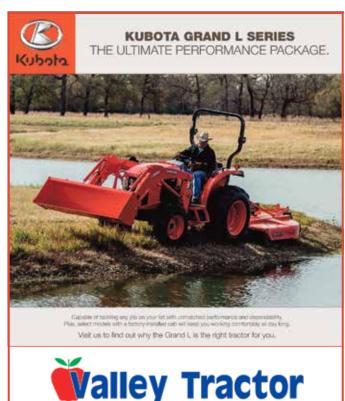

You may think your gardening is done once you pull the last carrot or onion form the ground, but your garden needs regular maintenance just like the rest of your yard.

Remove any damaged annuals and clear out debris from flower beds. This freshens up the appearance of your garden and helps prevent mildew and mold from taking over.
