By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

BRIDGEPORT – While the coronavirus pandemic put a damper on many aspects of everyday life, it could not tarnish some of the outstanding work delivered by members of the Bridgeport School District staff. Two of those, Denise Crocker, and Craig Burke, have been recognized as Employees of the Year.

The COVID-19 emergency closure included this year's Okanogan County Excellence banquet, but Bridgeport School Superintendent Scott Sattler reached out to local media to recognize the accomplishments of both staffers.

Crocker, a paraprofessional at Bridgeport Middle School is this year's Classified Employee of the Year.

"Denise does it all at the middle school and clearly loves the job," said Sattler. "She works closely with our Special Education Department to provide instructional support for small groups, one-on-one instruction, helps modify materials, collects student data, and monitors hallways and the cafeteria."

Sattler describes Crocker as kind, patient, a great listener, and the friendly face students see when first

Bridgeport approves six-year TIP, reviews zoning amendments

Downtown Revitalization discussed

BRIDGEPORT – City council members aired two public hearings during its regular monthly meeting held by virtual conference on Wednesday, June 17, the first on the city's six-year State Transportation Improvement Plan (STIP) and the second concerning zoning amendments to Chapter 17 of the Bridgeport Municipal Code.

Among Chapter 17 BMC amendments presented by city planner Kurt Danison was RV parking in front yards, with front yard described as that area between the front of the structure and the property line. The amendment added "front yard" to "public street, alley, right-of-way" as to parking duration. The amendment stipulated that RVs whether licensed or unlicensed may not park in a front yard for more than 60 hours. Other RV parking modifications were added for single family residence zoning. The pur-

Another amendment addressed off-street parking for single family and multi-family dwellings.

Pateros wins AWC Municipal Excellence Award

One of five honored

By MIKE MALTAIS

PATEROS – The new downtown pump station and well house not only serves as both a functional facility and a multi-use community asset, it is an award winner as well. The Association of Washington Cities (AWC) selected Pateros as one of five winners of its Municipal Excellence Awards in recognition of putting creative ideas to use in a community.

"When the city of Pateros discovered that the most feasible location for a pump station needed for wildfire defense was the same site already slated for a public green space linking a waterfront park with the business district, the project was designed to successfully meet both needs," said an AWC media release. "Now a raised walkway, green space, and community pavilion share space with a reliable water source backed by an emergency generator."

The site also features landscaping that facilitates improved stormwater collection and sanitary control to reduce water supply contaminants.

Construction on the pump station began in May 2019 as a piece of the city's $7.2 million Infrastructure Project that originated in 2014 and is scheduled for completion this year. City Administrator Jord Wilson said the $1,491,730.86 construction cost of the pump station came from multiple funding sources including:

- $921,884.32 Economic Opportunity Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) from the Washington Department of Commerce.
- $371,790.68 Rural Development Loan.
- $106,700 Washington State Direct Appropriations grant.

Pateros council addresses meter software, property development

By MIKE MALTAIS

PATEROS – City council members met by virtual conference on Monday, June 15, and approved two resolutions, one regarding water meter software and the other a property development extension agreement.

The city approved a software license agreement with Vision Municipal Solutions, LLC, of Spokane for software needed to navigate the new automated meter reading system that will be installed during the water improvement project.

The city also approved an amendment to the development extension agreement with Rock Garden Holdings, Inc., owner of city lots 56 through 63, block 7, Pateros replat No. 3, specific to the time limitations in the contract.

In other city business, city administrator Jord Wilson reported that the furniture for the Pateros Mall – 120 chairs and 30 tables - purchased with funds from a CARES Act grant, has been ordered.

The Pateros Brewster Long Term Recovery Organization (PBLTRO) has received a $5,000 Pandemic Assistance Program grant that will be used to purchase gift cards from local businesses and given to community members in need because of the COVID-19 crisis.

A street chip seal project through the state Transportation Improvement Board (TIB) is still in line for funding, said Wilson who recently participated online in the agency's annual training.

"Several programs including the Small City Sidewalk Program have been cut for 2021," said Wilson. "We are still authorized to move fornise is the one who steps in to help and support, without hesitation," said Sattler. "Denise is there when you need her; a great colleague and puts students first in all she does."

Burke, the Certified Employee of the Year, is a P.E. teacher at Bridgeport Elementary School.

"Craig is a hard-working teacher that loves what he does," said Sattler. "He teaches his students the value of physical fitness and emphasizes that every student is unique with their own strengths."

Sattler said Burke is always challenging his students to do their best at every turn as he teaches a variety of sports and games over the course of a year.

"Craig is a great team-player, always willing to help staff and students in the building however he can," said Sattler. "When he isn't teaching his class, you can find him helping by covering classes, providing recess supervision, monitoring students during end-of-the-day pickup and other activities."

Sattler said that during the construction process, Burke was without a classroom but seamlessly adapted to the changes without complaint and still provided his students with an outstanding P.E. experience.

"He is a positive role model for students and help bring joy to their day," Sattler said of Burke.

Wilson said the final water project bid process was held up by the Washington State Department of Transportation due to franchise issues related to construction documents.

"The bid has been put out to the public and we anticipate a June 30 bid opening unless bidders express they need more time."

Wilson also had good news for city water users with a report that manganese levels in the waters continues to decline.

• STEM 201: These are 1-hour 50-minute sessions. These sessions will be a deeper dive than STEM 101. Almost 2 hours of workshop time - great for beginning steps to learn a new task, theory, or begin to create class lessons and content.

Interested presenters that prefer longer sessions are welcome to propose topics and ideas.

The 2020 virtual STEM Summit will still feature over 60 breakout sessions offered morning and afternoon. New additions this year include a track focused on Early Learning and a Teacher Academy hosted by the Chelan County PUD. A total of 39 Clock hours will be offered to purchase.

"This event is offered to provide teachers and educational staff members from throughout North Central Washington with innovative STEM educational tools and resources, curriculum updates, and information on a variety of STEM-related topics. Due to COVID-19, the STEM Summit will maximize technology and host this event virtually for the first time. The NCESD works hard to remain on the cutting edge of education and we're eager to hear from content experts who would like to be part of this event for educators," explained Pete Phillips, Executive Director of Technology Services at the NCESD.

Interested presenters are encouraged to apply at <http://www.ncesd.org/service/stem/stemsummit/>

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

COVID-19: Please continue being vigilant

We have moved out of the most restrictive phase of the governor's "Safe Start" plan, but we've also seen an uptick in confirmed COVID-19 cases in Okanogan County. Other states, such as Florida, are seeing a significant surge of cases after reopening their economies. Despite other important issues currently dominating the national news cycle, COVID-19 is still very much a concern.

How can we keep a similar surge from happening in North Central Washington?

1. Wear masks. There's a lot of misinformation online and in the news about the effectiveness of any masks, but particularly cloth face coverings. The purpose of wearing a mask is to keep your germs from spreading as far into the air. Face coverings are more effective than only using your hand or elbow when coughing or sneezing. Masks provide you some protection against incoming bacteria, but their main purpose in this case is to protect others by containing your germs. This includes the most vulnerable members of our population, such as those living in nursing homes and long-term care facilities.

There has been some debate about the risk from asymptomatic or pre-symptomatic carriers. The general scientific consensus at this time is that the virus is most contagious about two days before symptoms appear. If you are not aware of being infected with COVID-19 and venture out into public without a mask, the risk of spreading the virus to others increases significantly.

2. Continue social distancing. Much like wearing a mask, social distancing limits the number of people you're exposed to and minimizes your risk of becoming infected or spreading the infection. This protects you, your families, and your community. Phase 2 of the governor's order permits gatherings of fewer than five people. High-risk community members should continue to isolate at home rather than attend in-person gatherings.

3. Continue recommended hygiene. This includes washing your hands often with warm water and soap for at least 20 seconds, using hand sanitizer with at least 60% alcohol, and routinely disinfecting surfaces in your homes, cars, and workplaces.

All these measures should be taken even if you don't have symptoms. We are all anxious to resume our normal, everyday lives, and it can be difficult to know which information to believe. However, one thing is always true: It never hurts to take precautions to protect our families and communities.

The state Department of Health allowed Okanogan County to move into Phase 2 because our health officials made plans on how to keep safe social distancing, visitor restrictions and masking measures in place. To maintain this progress, it's crucial that we all continue to observe these guidelines.

We, the undersigned healthcare organizations, appreciate the effort our community members have made to protect themselves and each other from a highly contagious and unpredictable virus. We're in this together, and together we can maintain our community's health while strengthening our economy.

allowed two off-street parking spaces in the front yard; all other parking needs to be in the rear or side yard. The intent behind the amendment is to give the city authority to prohibit front yards from becoming parking lots.

New amendments were also proposed to the BMC regulating outdoor mobile vendors.

Rachel Granrath, senior planner for SCJ Alliance Consulting Services in Spokane, updated council members on the public survey results with respect to the Bridgeport Community Revitalization Plan along the State Route 173 corridor running through the downtown business district.

SCJ received 196 responses to the 14-question survey, 77 percent of those from Bridgeport residents, Granrath said. Among the details revealed was that 439 citizens live in but work outside the study area; 103 live outside but work inside the study area; and seven both live and work in the study area.

Granrath said that as SCJ proceeds with the study it will continue with committee meetings, interview and survey business owners, compile inventory additions and compile a Tree Sculpture Brochure. Conditions permitting, a downtown street fair is planned for Saturday, August 29.

Bridgeport park hosts Sue and Randy Stanley reported that the Marina park opened for self-contained units on May 6, and remaining facilities like Conklin Landing opened on Memorial Day. Sue Stanley said that revenues to date, including July reservations, total $31,230 for the Marina, and $18,685 for Conklin Landing. Under Action Items the city approved the six-year STIP and approved a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) with the Wenatchee Kennel Club to perform pit bull testing and certifications. Mayor Janet Conklin said she has been negotiating with WKC for a pit bull procedure.

"They are showing up again," said Conklin last Thursday, June 18, of the pit bull population. "We will have to get serious."

Council members appointed Ryan Allstot, a teacher with the Bridgeport School District, to serve on the Planning Commission together with Danison, Dan Peterson, and Leslie Robb.

Grant Program for backup electrical generation.

As is often the case the pump station was not built where originally planned.

"It was planned to go on Industrial Way, however the driller hit bad water at that site," said Wilson. "We had several backup locations identified but the Department of Health (DOH) would not approve them."

Wilson said a municipal well site must be a minimum of 100 feet radius and 200 feet from the water to control contamination issues.

"Pateros is pretty limited on potential municipal well sites that meets DOH sanitary requirements," Wilson said.

The downtown pump station is the second of two and under normal operation pumps about 1,000 gallons per minute (gpm) with the well capable of providing close to 2,500 gpm. Under extreme demand the two stations can produce more than 2,000 gpm.

"The Pateros business community had numerous planning sessions with a WSU planning team following the 2014 Carlton Complex fires," said Wilson. "These meetings were well attended and developed a downtown plan to add green space and increase connectivity between Memorial Park and the mall business district." In 2017 the city decided to locate a pump station in that planned space.

"The city used this planning effort as a guide to meet the needs of the downtown business community while providing a reliable source of water for the city," said Wilson. "Although the city did not feel a pump station in the center of downtown was desirable, the end result produces a multifunctional space and greatly enhances downtown Pateros."

Pateros was among 25 applicants for the AWC award. The annual competition is open to any Washington city or town. Other 2020 winners included:

- Lacey Veterans Services Hub.
Anacortes Fiber Installation into Active Water Lines.
The Hangar at Town Square in Kenmore.
Pasco African American Historic Properties.
Founded in 1933, AWC is a private, nonprofit, non-partisan corporation that represents Washington cities and towns.

"This year's projects demonstrate some of the ways that Washington's city leaders are applying innovative solutions to their diverse needs," said Peter B. King, AWC CEO. "I hope these will be a source of ideas and inspiration throughout the state."

ity communities, and crime prevention activities with children, students, and families, the media release said.

"They also discussed the recent increase in crime, such as domestic violence, burglary, and driving under the influence, resulting from the stay-at-home order," the release said.

In an email to The Quad last Friday, June 19, Hawley wrote that he welcomed the invitation to contribute to the CWLEWG and found the first meeting to be "very informative."

"I greatly appreciate being provided the opportunity to weigh in on the proposed changes and assist in providing Congressman Newhouse with feedback about how changes could impact our ability to provide for public safety," wrote Hawley. "This working group will provide an opportunity for law enforcement at the local level to provide a perspective to Congressman Newhouse through direct conversation."

Following the CWLRWG inaugural meeting Rep. Newhouse said:

"Restoring peace and delivering justice for all are ideals inherent in our nation's founding that I fully support, and it starts by engaging with our local communities."

Rep. Newhouse said he formed the group in response to recent national events.

"I am hopeful this Working Group will open a line of thoughtful, respectful dialogue as Congress considers legislation that will affect the way our officers work to enforce the rule of law," said Newhouse. "I am grateful for the work of our police officers and sheriffs as they respond to the increase in crimes we have seen as a result of our response to COVID-19, and I applaud their defense of Central Washington's First Amendment rights as witnessed at peaceful protests throughout our communities."

Over the last few years the state legislature modified regulations relating to police use of force including Initiative 940, passed in 2018, that lowered the barriers for prosecuting officers who use deadly force and mandate additional de-escalation, mental health and first aid training. In 2019 the state House of Representatives passed HB 1064 to further clarify and strengthen I-940.

What antihistamine is best for me

Q: Every summer, my nose runs, and my eyes itch from my allergies. Claritin® has worked for me in the past, but this year is different. I tried Allegra®, but it's not helping, either. What other antihistamine could I try?

Antihistamines work by keeping histamine locked away inside your body. Histamine is a compound that triggers inflammation. Histamine is stored in specialized cells in your body called mast cells. When you encounter something you're allergic to, these storage cells open up, releasing the stored histamine into your bloodstream. The freed histamine triggers the symptoms we associate with an allergic reaction: stuffy or runny nose, itchy eyes, and sinus pressure.

Antihistamines work by keeping histamine tucked away safely inside your mast cells. This is why antihistamines work best if you take them at least 1 hour BEFORE being exposed to whatever sets off your allergies.

Which antihistamine should you choose? That depends on which one works best for you and how much drowsiness it can cause. There are 2 main categories of antihistamine medicines to choose from: sedating ones and non-sedating ones. The sedating antihistamines are older drugs that often cause drowsiness. They also can help dry up a runny nose and watery eyes. Newer antihistamines cause less drowsiness but are less helpful at drying up a runny nose.

Some antihistamines relieve allergy symptoms better with some people than with others. Many people have to try more than one before they find the one that works best for their allergy symptoms while causing the least drowsiness.

How important to you is avoiding drowsiness? Older antihistamines cause at least some drowsiness in most people. If this is a concern for you, start with the newer antihistamines because they cost little to no drowsiness.

One of the best antihistamines is loratadine, also known as Claritin® or Alavert®. It's taken only once a day and rarely causes drowsiness. If loratadine doesn't relieve your symptoms, you could try the non-sedating antihistamine Allegra® or fexofenadine, available in either twice a day or once a day versions.

If those don't work for you, try cetirizine (Zyrtec®) or Xyzal®. Cetirizine is transformed in your body to levocetirizine, which is Xyzal®, making them basically the same medicine. They are taken once daily, and they can cause drowsiness but only in about 10% of people.

If Claritin®, Allegra®, Zyrtec® or Xyzal® aren't giving you enough relief, try one of the older sedating antihistamines. The most powerful is Benadryl®, also known as diphenhydramine. It helps with more severe allergic symptoms but will cause drowsiness in most people. You can buy double-strength diphenhydramine as a sleeping pill without a prescription as Tylenol PM® or Sominex II. Benadryl® should be taken 3 to 4 times a day for best results. Some people take it just at night and use a less sedating antihistamine for allergy relief during the day.

There are several older antihistamines still available, including chlorpheniramine, brompheniramine, and triprolidine. Triprolidine causes less drowsiness than the other older antihistamines and seems to have more drying action as well. Surgeons used to take it to keep from having their nose drip while performing procedures. It's only available as Actifed®, which contains both triprolidine and the original version of Sudafed®. I prefer using it over the others because it relieves my runny nose, watery eyes, and my stuffy nose at the same time.

5 Tips on Choosing an Antihistamine:

- 1. Don't Wait. Antihistamines work best if they are taken BEFORE you come in contact with what you are allergic to. Don't wait until your nose stuffs up, and your eyes start itching. 2. Choose not to snooze. Select non-sedating antihistamines like loratadine (Claritin®) or fexofenadine (Allegra®), or minimally sedating ones like cetirizine (Zyrtec®) or Xyzal®, especially if you have to drive or use machinery. 3. Don't give up. If your first antihistamine choice doesn't help you, try another one. It's not unusual to get very little relief from one antihistamine, then good results with a different one.

4. Consider a combo. For additional relief, add a nasal spray or decongestant to your antihistamine. Flonase® nasal spray or my own favorite, triprolidine/pseudoephedrine (Actifed®) tablets are excellent choices for runny and stuffy nose symptoms.

5. Avoid Sudafed PE® and generic phenylephrine.

If you have high blood pressure, avoid taking decongestants. If you need relief from nasal congestion, I strongly recommend the original versions of Sudafed® over the ones currently available in the cough and cold medicine section. Bring photo identification to purchase it from the pharmacy.

THE WASHINGTON OUTDOORS REPORT

Too Many Hikers

By JOHN KRUSE, THE WASHINGTON OUTDOOR REPORT

Robin DeMario with the Okanogan-Wenatchee National Forest sounded the alarm recently about crowded conditions on 8-Mile Road south of Leavenworth. This road leads to two popular trailheads for 8-Mile Lake and to Stuart and Colehuck Lakes. The latter trailhead is a favored pathway into the Enchantments. Earlier this month video was released showing vehicles parked on both sides of the road for much of its length because the trailhead parking lots were full. It got to the point emergency vehicles could not get through to the trailheads.

Parking is not allowed along the roadway and the Forest Service is issuing tickets to the owners of vehicles that do so. Visitors are also reminded not to park in designated spots for overnight camping permit holders. Officials with the U.S. Forest Service say visitor use in this area has increased dramatically over the last decade and both the trailheads and adjacent parking areas are "well beyond their capacity" putting a strain on the limited parking and toilet facilities available.

Camping Equipment For Rent

Washington State Parks is partnering with Arrive Outdoors to provide rental equipment for your next camping trip. For a low daily rate, you can rent everything you need for a weekend getaway (tent, sleeping bag, sleeping pad, stove, cooler, camp chairs) for one, two or four people. There are plenty of related accessories available for rent too. Sarah Yearout with Washington State Parks says this program is perfect for those who live in cramped spaces and don't have the room to store camping gear. It's also a great way to introduce individuals to camping for the first time for a low price. http://arriveoutdoors.com

Fishing Reports

Fish Lake - Chelan County - Nadine West at the Cove Resort says the fishing has been very good when the wind isn't blowing too hard. Anglers have been catching a lot of perch right off the dock over the last couple of weeks. However, the perch are starting to move into deeper water so fishing from a boat might be a better way to target them in the weeks ahead. Trout fishing has also been good. West says the average trout are fat and measure 12 to 14-inches long. In addition to this, large triploid trout were planted in Fish Lake and a five-plus pounder was recently caught by a lucky angler.

Little Pend Oreille Lakes - Stevens County - The staff at the Beaver Lodge Resort say crappie are being caught in good numbers out of Gillette Lake. The hot bait has been marshmallows and worms. A few folks are also catching trout there too.

Downs Lake - Lincoln County - I paddled around this lily pad rich lake in a kayak last week. The scenery was beautiful and the weather was nice but the fishing was slow with only one pan-sized rainbow trout to show for my efforts. That doesn't mean the fish aren't here though. Downs Lake typically fishes well in the summer for trout, perch and largemouth bass and is worth a visit. Lake access (for a small fee) is available through Downs Lake Resort.

Potholes Reservoir - Grant County - Pete Fisher at MarDon Resort reports walleye fishing is good. They are shallow and in the weeds in 2 to 15 feet of water so you'll want to fish tight along the weed lines to get strikes. The bass bite is also good with 2 to 4-pound fish being taken in the usual hot spots. Crappie and bluegill are being caught off the MarDon Resort dock and also back in the sand dunes area of the reservoir. As for the rainbow trout, anglers have been reeling those in near the State Park and some of them are pretty big (2 to 5 pounds)

Limit Out Marine Shoot Out (bass tournament)

Finally, if you are a competitive bass angler the Limit Out Marine Shoot Out (bass tournament) is taking place on Potholes Reservoir and MarDon Resort on July 11 and 12. Details are available at http://bigbasstrail.com
