Cashmere’s own hometown festival, Founders’ Days, was held for the 40th year during the June 23 weekend. Locals and tourists enjoyed the two-day event which featured a variety of activities. The event was filled with tons of food and celebration as adults and children alike found a multitude of fun.

Most of the action took place on Saturday, June 23, at Riverside Park. The venue featured street vendors, live musical performances, a car show, kids zone, helicopter rides and of course, the ping-pong ball drop. Children flocked to the bouncy house and obstacle course, lined up to receive a balloon animal from L-Bow the Clown and checked out books from the Community Bookmobile. Adults enjoyed watching local bands perform and checked out retro cars on display. The ping-pong ball drop began at 5 p.m. when hundreds of kids lined up to chase the balls falling from the sky. Three “special” balls, adorned with glitter, were mixed in with the regular ones dropped from the helicopter; children that found these received a brand-new bicycle. Cashmere Royalty, Queen Madison Scherman and Princess Lizzy Carney, rode in the helicopter and dropped the balls. The girls said being able to participate in the ping-pong ball drop was their favorite activity of the event.

Families could cool off from the heat, which reached almost 90 degrees that day, by visiting local restaurants or touring the Cashmere Museum and Pioneer Village. The entire museum was open to the public all day for free in order to help locals and tourists learn about Cashmere’s history.

CASHMERE: - After Republican Congressman Dave Reichert announced in 2017 he would not be seeking re-election this November, several Democrats filed for candidacy hoping to turn our district in a new direction. Three of these candidates met with constituents at Cashmere Riverside Center Thursday, June 14. The event, titled Candidate Round Robin, was an informal forum that hosted Eighth District candidates Dr.

Shannon Hader, Jason Rittereiser and Dr. Kim Schrier. North Central Washington (NCW) United, sponsored and organized the event.

NCW United was created in response to the 2016 presidential election. The organization’s mission seeks to “inform, understand, protect and persuade, through a supportive and action-oriented community.” The Candidate Round Robin was created with the idea to get local people informed and interested in making a change to our district which ultimately influences the federal government. The event was organized in a way that almost everyone had a chance to ask questions of each candidate.

Over 100 constituents from across Chelan County attended the Candidate Round Robin. The event began with a speech from Cascade High School’s 2017-2018 Junior Class President D’Andre Vasquez. Vasquez said he came to the event to represent his student body as well as be a voice for

Liberals screaming shut down ICE, while ignoring corruption at FBI

Last week I pointed out that this entire drama over separating children from their parents was just a political smokescreen to avoid the real scandal involving the top echelons of our government.

Watching the opening of the Congressional testimony of Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein only confirms to me the depth of the problem in Washington. From the very beginning of the hearing Congressional Democrats protested the hearings. Democrat Representative Jerrold Nadler saying, “when President Trump ... was ripping children out of the arms of their mothers ... where was the emergency hearing on that issue?”

The reality is Democrats are growing increasingly concerned that tolerance for abuse of American citizens under their watch is gaining strength and could ultimately spell disaster for their hoped for “Blue wave” in the midterms.

Let’s review. The Inspector General confirmed that Hillary Clinton exercised gross negligence in her handling of classified information during her term as Secretary of State.

Other American citizens have gone to jail for their careless handling of classified documents.

Justice is supposed to be blind and equally applied to all citizens. Politicians and government employees aren’t entitled to a “get out of jail free” card because they hold a high political office. American citizens are not their subjects. American citizens are their bosses and they owe their jobs and their allegiance to the American citizens.

Clinton supporters wanted her to be the first woman President. Much like they wanted Obama to be the first black President. Trouble is those are not the primary qualifications for holding the top job in the country.

Many of the supporters of Hillary and Obama were willing to look the other way when issues were raised about their qualifications. And let’s be honest, Republicans did not elect an opponent to run against President Obama that had commandingly better qualifications.

The Republican candidates may have had more experience in the operation of our government, but they demonstrated little or no leadership. They were either unwilling or unable to confront Obama on his proposals to insure all Americans for $2,500 less than they were paying for insurance through the private market.

It is troubling that members of the FBI were providing cover for Hillary during the campaign. It is true that they have the right to vote for whomever they choose to support personally, but when their efforts cross over the line of failing to prosecute someone who has committed a crime because “she might be our new boss.” They have tipped the scales of justice.

Add to that the fact that they were so personally repulsed by the Republican choice that they were willing to take steps to defeat him by attacking his character with untrue stories of his depravity.

Failing at that they engaged in unreasonable and illegal search activities in a effort to find out if he was guilty of a crime, any crime, so they could push for his impeachment.

Now Democrats are clinging to the story of ripping children from their mother’s arms in an effort to build resistance to President Trump. They are calling for the elimination of ICE – Immigration and Customs Enforcement Agency. In other words, they want to remove any effort to enforce our borders.

During his testimony before Congress Rosenstein said he was not personally responsible for the actions of the individual agents under him. If that is the case, it is clear he did not exercise any supervision of his staff. Proving once again that in government service no one is accountable for the work they do.

We are witnessing the worst scandal of our history. When will the insanity of the far left end?

I have said for decades that term limits are within the power of the electorate. In other words, if they are in - vote them out. In most cases we won’t be any worse off.

Bill Forhan can be reached at 509-548-5286 or publisher@leavenworthecho.com.

The trade war is here

After months of tough talk, the trade war is on. We’ve officially imposed tariffs, and the world has retaliated. We are feeling the impacts right here in the Wenatchee Valley as our apples were hit with tariffs by both Mexico and India. Similar stories are playing out all over America. This looks like the start of something the financial world has feared since Trump won the Presidency. So why isn’t the stock market freaking out?

The most obvious reason for the calm stock market is the strong economy. It’s hard for the markets to tank when the economic numbers are so solid. However, I also think the markets are understanding Trump a little better. With Trump, everything is a sales pitch or a negotiation.

He’s gone from saying China was “raping our country,” to recently tweeting that there were “too many jobs lost in China.” Just a few weeks ago, his Treasury Secretary announced that “the trade war is on hold.” But now we’ve enacted $50 billion in tariffs on China.

So, Trump’s words don’t reflect what is true, or even what he really believes. When he tweeted that “trade wars are good and easy to win,” he was just bluffing that he’s silly enough to think that. I’m not a fan of that strategy; I’d prefer that my adversaries see me as serious and knowledgeable. But he is clearly trying to negotiate. I think the markets are taking solace in that realization.

There will be riots in the streets

A 2-part diatribe

Because of many recent Trump Administration policies, I predict there will be riots in the streets of America. Family separation of immigrants is just part of the issue.

Here is the shame of it all: No one cares on the right wing because the riots will only take place in urban areas and as all good right wingers know, urban areas are filled with extreme, liberal Democrats, so who cares.

All the major cities will have riots, but not so in the quiet little country towns like Wenatchee where conservatism reigns supreme. Any sentient being who lives anywhere in America will form an opinion and downplay Trump’s tyrannical policies if they are right-sided GOP and the reverse is also true - urban liberals will overlay these same policies.

Folks in Detroit, Miami, Seattle, Los Angeles, Portland, Boston, Houston, etc., will riot, especially if they are Black and Latino, while the rural Whites will remain silent with a tacit understanding that their man Trump is, indeed, doing their bidding vis-a-vis immigration and SCOTUS appointees.

What’s not to love - if you are right you are winning. If you are left, you are being crushed by all three branches of government. That should all change with the mid-term elections, but only if the Democrats motivate their base and vote enough

Republicans out of office. If they don’t vote then they have no excuse to continue whining. Violence, that is rioting, may backfire and cause even more of the right wing and even GOP moderates (like myself) to come out of their complacent closets to stop the so-called predicted “Blue Wave” from ever reaching fruition. I fail in my predictive efforts if I don’t state the obvious. The extreme right may also riot in favor of Trump policies or at least against the left rioters. That means Skinheads, Nazis, White Supremacists, so-called Tea Party, etc., will also be out in those same urban streets bashing the leftists with sticks and stones and perhaps even guns.

Founders’ Days

“By having a community-oriented event, we not only celebrate our present by having people come together, talk and enjoy themselves but it also allows people to engage with the past in a way that hopefully helps them understand pioneers aren’t that much different than we are today,” Museum Director Lexie Palmer-Gapper said.

To end the celebration, the Crunch Pak Grand Parade was held at 7 p.m. on Saturday. Floats featuring town royalty from across the state paraded down the streets as the queens and princesses danced to music.

Volunteers from Crunch Pak handed out packets of apples and performers from Agave Azul Mexican Restaurant twirled in traditional Mexican dresses. Folks on horseback trotted down the streets while volunteers tossed out candy to eager child on-lookers.

This year’s Founders’ Days Festival seemed to bring excitement to both those who come every year and to those who newly experienced the celebration. Planning for next year’s event will begin in a few short months. The Cashmere Chamber of Commerce is always finding ways to out do themselves so the 2019 event is sure to be a another special memory for the whole town.

Repentance is necessary

There is a word that is not often heard in many churches today. In fact, some churches avoid it all together. “Repent”

Ask yourself when is the last time you listened to a sermon, studied or even heard mentioned of the doctrine of repentance? If the state of contemporary church culture rings true, it has probably been some time since you heard the call to “repent and believe the gospel” (Mark. 1:15).

Over a hundred years ago William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army warned that this day would come when he said,

“The chief danger that confronts the coming century will be religion without the Holy Ghost, Christianity without Christ, forgiveness without repentance, salvation without regeneration, politics without God, heaven without hell.”

What exactly is repentance? The English word “repent” in our Bibles is translated from the Greek word metanoeo which means to turn or change our minds. This changed mind leads to a change in direction. In essence to perform a complete 180 in your life. In the Christian sense, repentance means turning your back on your old life which was in love with your sin and turn to the Christ who can save you from your sins. This radical turn of the whole person toward a God-oriented life is a vital element in saving faith and necessary to communicate when sharing the gospel. Repentance is legitimately feeling sorry for sinning against a Holy God. This contrition or “godly sorrow” (2 Cor. 7:10) manifests when we realize how much we have offended God by our sin, the price it took to forgive us and the heartfelt conviction to “cease to do evil” (Isa. 1:16). There is an apparent brokenness when we recognize what our life is like outside of Christ that is brought about by the conviction of the Holy Spirit. If there is no conviction, a sense of brokenness or even a remorse for sinning against God then that is not repentance but “worldly sorrow” which leads to death (2 Cor. 7:10).

Why don’t we talk about this more often? I believe it is because 1) we are ignorant of the doctrine itself and 2) we don’t like to make people feel uncomfortable. To call someone to repent is to expose that the lifestyle they are living in is not what God wants and needs to change. Some might consider that activity as judgmental or unloving but all one has to do is look at the ministry of Jesus and see how often he called people to repent. It was because Jesus loved people that he urged them to turn away from their sins and it is not loving to not call people to repent, it is the opposite of love and disobedient to Jesus.

Repentance was a central part of Jesus’ message. “Repent” was his first public command recorded in the gospel of Mark (Mk. 1:15). It was a point of discussion around the dinner table (Luke 5:35). And finally, it was his very last commission given to his disciples where he said, “repentance and forgiveness of sins will be proclaimed in all nations...” (Lk. 24:47). It is necessary for a sinner to turn from their ways because salvation is much more than just believing intellectually that God saves but living a life toward Him.

The result of undervaluing repentance and not making it a crucial element in our gospel presentations has been disastrous for the church. Scores of people believe themselves to be comfortable in their faith while at the same time content clinging to the world because no one had bothered to tell them “friendship with the world is enmity with God” (Jas. 4:4) and that they should repent.

Even though repentance isn’t what gets you saved (because salvation is by grace alone through faith alone), however a person repents or has a changed mind about their sin because they are saved.

The command of Christ to make a heartfelt and sincere turn from their sin to him may seem extreme to us who are accustomed to politically correct and unoffensive language. Yet, the call to repent is necessary for all of us to hear so that “our sins may be blotted out, that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord” (Acts. 3:19-20).

NCW Media Inc.’s Obituary and Memorial Policy

An obituary is a way for family members to commemorate a loved one’s life and to notify the larger community of the deceased.

Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data. Memorials are another way of letting the community know about the life and memories of the person who has died. A memorial is different from an obituary. An obituary is usually current while a memorial can be written later.

For publication in the Cashmere Valley Record or The Leavenworth Echo, an obituary or memorial needs to be typed and emailed to editor@leavenworthecho.com no later than 4 p.m. Friday for the next week’s issue. Funeral homes and chapels can submit obituaries by noon on Monday, except holidays.

Obituaries are priced per word while the charge for memorial ads are by the column-inch. Cost of the obituary/memorial is due at the time of placement.

The Cascade High School 2017-2018 Junior Class President, D'Andre Vasquez, spoke on behalf of his student body about the relationship between young adults and politics at the NCW United event on Thursday, June 14.

young people. He encouraged the audience to make decisions that would in turn benefit future generations of voters. "It is up to you to decide how you will provide our future innovators and workers with awareness, advocacy and education," Vasquez said. After Vasquez's speech, the audience gathered into three groups and had 20 minutes to talk with each candidate who rotated throughout the groups. The candidates discussed pressing issues with constituents such as climate change, health care, opioids, immigration, gun control, affordable housing, the "Me Too" movement and regulating the Trump Administration. Each candidate seemed to be motivated by the 2016 presidential election and its aftermath, much like NCW United. Hader, Rittreiser and Schrier all expressed a disdain for our country's — and state's — political climate and hoped to make changes if elected. "As a human being I'm so saddened by what's happening in our country," Schrier said, "We really deserve better, we deserve representatives who will stand up for what's best for the people of the district." As a millennial, Rittreiser expressed the importance of young people voting and being elected into office. Because they are the future of our country, he seemed to believe the younger generation should be highly involved in political decision making. "Its time for the next generation of leaders to step up and take on our greatest challenges," Rittreiser said,

"If our generation got to pick the make up of congress it'd look a lot different than where we're currently at." All of the candidates, as well as constituents, also seemed to enjoy the style of the event. It allowed them to get down to the issues, meet district voters and discuss topics in a more informal way than traditional forums. "I don't think 30 second sound bites serve as well in determining the future of our country. This was a good way to rapidly get a little bit more depth in with the voters and to mix it up a little bit," Hader said. The primary election for congressional district eight will be held Tuesday, August 7, with the general election on Tuesday, November 6. Judge from Cashmere runs for re-election, helps create drug court

By KYRA PLANETZ

Following Chelan County Superior Court Judge Alicia Nakata's retirement in 2017, Judge Kristin Ferrera of Cashmere was sworn into office in January of 2018. Since then, Ferrera has gained much experience in criminal law cases to add to her extensive resume. Running against Charles Steinberg, Ferrera will vie for Chelan County Superior Court Judge position three in the upcoming primary election this November. Before becoming a judge, Ferrera worked in law for nearly a decade; most recently she practiced civil litigation at Jeffers, Danielson, Sonn & Aylward Law Firm in Wenatchee. She has experience with employment, family, construction and agricultural law as well as civil rights defense. Ferrera is the only candidate in our county running for a Superior Court Judgeship with judicial experience and she hopes this will benefit her re-election. "I'm a neutral person who walks into a situation and tries to look at it from all sides and hear everyone before making a decision," Ferrera said, "people want to know that they've been heard and I really do think that they feel that when they walk out of my courtroom." Ferrera has been busy this year not only presiding over cases but was also instrumental in creating a drug court in Chelan county. At their meeting last month, on May 14, Ferrera told Cashmere City Council the majority of criminal cases she sees involve some type of drug use, mainly methamphetamines and opioids. The drug court begins tomorrow, June 7, and follows the national model which is practiced around the state and across the country. "We are hoping that this drug court is going to combat some of the problems that we're seeing with addiction in our community," Ferrera said. Participants of this program will spend a minimum of one to two years completing courses in order to graduate from drug court and avoid a conviction on their record as well as jail-time. Those eligible are people with a drug addiction who commit minor crimes, such as petty theft, not violent offenders. Participants that qualify will not only undergo drug treatment but must complete steps for getting proper housing, employment and their GED. The drug court is by no means an "easy way out," Ferrera said, those who don't meet requirements during the long process face sanctions, the most severe results in removal from the program. But the Chelan County Superior Court, including Ferrera, believe the drug court will eliminate repeat offenders. "We're helping them achieve life skills in addition to staying clean," Ferrera said, "It's for people who really struggle with wanting to get clean, but if they don't have those skills to actually be successful in life then there's a chance they might come back [to court]." With the experience she will gain presiding over the drug court, Ferrera hopes to be re-elected this year in order to maintain consistency for participants in the program. She believes it is important for Cashmere citizens to vote in the upcoming election as many folks will eventually end up in the Superior Court whether for a civil case, such as divorce and custody hearings, or a crime. Ferrera maintains people want a fair and honest judge when attending their court date and seems to truly appreciate the community in which she lives. "I love it here. Having lived in other places and traveled around, there is really no better place than Cashmere, in my mind," Ferrera said. For more information about the election visit co.chelan.wa.us/elections.

Opioid prevention campaign kicks off in Washington

Initiative shines light on the risks of prescription opioid addiction and overdose

OLYMPIA --The Washington State Department of Health will launch a statewide campaign this summer to warn about the dangers of opioid prescriptions. doh.wa.gov/YouandYourFamily/InjuryandViolencePrevention/OpioidOverdosePrevention. Since 2000, over 10,000 people in Washington have died from an opioid overdose and there have been more than 17,697 opioid overdose hospitalizations. This crisis is tragically affecting our family members, friends and communities. We need to do everything we can to make sure people understand that prescription opioids can quickly lead to dependence, addiction, and deadly overdose, says Dr. Kathy Lofy, state health officer. Through compelling personal accounts, the campaign helps make everyone aware of the risks and dangers of prescription opioids and delivers a thought-provoking message: It only takes a little to lose a lot. With funding from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the campaign will focus on the hardest hit and most rural counties. Sign up for the DOH blog,Public Health Connection medium.com/wadepthealth. After hours and on weekends, call 360-236-4440.

Conservation Groups Move One Step Closer to Saving Nason Ridge for Fish, Wildlife and People

Fundraising campaign now underway to ensure permanent protection of Nason Ridge Trail and the fish and wildlife of Lake Wenatchee, the Wenatchee River and Nason Creek.

Western Rivers Conservancy news release
LAKE WENATCHEE — In a crucial next-step in the effort to conserve a forested mountainside above Lake Wenatchee and Nason Creek, Western Rivers Conservancy successfully purchased the popular Nason Ridge property from the Weyerhaeuser Company.

The highly visible property was slated for timber harvest and includes much of the 22-mile Nason Ridge Trail, as well as cross-country ski trails and over two miles of Nason Creek, a critical salmon spawning stream and a key source of cold water for the Wenatchee River.

"Conserving Nason Ridge will be a tremendous win for the Wenatchee River's fish, for wildlife and for everyone who lives, visits and recreates in these mountains," said Western Rivers Conservancy's president, Sue Doroff. "It's a special spot, and we're glad we could step in and negotiate a deal with Weyerhaeuser that will allow for permanent protection of this important property."

The desire to conserve Nason Ridge, which spans 3,714 acres, is deeply rooted in the local community. Wenatchee-based Chelan-Douglas Land Trust has been trying to protect the property for years and is now working in partnership with WRC to raise $1 million to fund the permanent protection of the property. This crucial phase of the project is now underway.

"We aren't finished yet," said Curt Soper, executive director of Chelan-Douglas Land Trust. "We have to raise $1 million in private gifts to fund permanent conservation of Nason Ridge. So we need everyone's support."

WRC will own the land until it identifies a long-term steward that shares WRC's conservation vision for the parcel. During its ownership, WRC will allow public access just as Weyerhaeuser has done for years.

"Weyerhaeuser has been a member of the Wenatchee community for decades and we're pleased we could work out a solution with Western Rivers Conservancy that will meet the needs of all involved," said Scott Dahlquist, Weyerhaeuser's senior director of real estate.

ABOUT THE PROJECT PARTNERS

Western Rivers Conservancy acquires prime river lands along the West's best rivers and streams to conserve habitat, protect key sources of cold water and provide public access for all to enjoy. It is the West's only organization dedicated exclusively to saving rivers through land acquisition—an approach that is effective, tangible and permanent. Its motto is "Sometimes to save a river, you have to buy it." In Washington, WRC has conserved dozens of miles of river land along the Hoh, Skagit, Columbia, Big Sheep Creek and Icicle Creek. It created Robe Canyon Historic Park on the South Fork Stillaguamish and recently protected a critical hillside above Nason Creek, upstream of the Nason Ridge property. WRC has protected hundreds of miles of frontage on other great rivers around the West, including the John Day, North Umpqua Klamath, Gunnison, Salmon, Yampa, Snake and Madison. To learn more, please visit westernrivers.org.

Chelan-Douglas Land Trust works with local organizations, businesses, and individuals to protect what we all hold dear: beautiful natural areas, a strong economy, clean air and water, abundant wildlife, and the freedom to enjoy it all. The Chelan-Douglas Land Trust started in 1985 as a volunteer organization made up of Wenatchee Valley residents with a vision of a healthy and prosperous future for Chelan and Douglas Counties. Since then it has grown to over 2,500 members committed to preserving the region's natural areas. Learn more at cdlandtrust.org.

Last month, Clarence, one of my patients asked me, “What do you think about the medicine Metanx®?”“I’m not familiar with it. Is it a supplement?”

“No, you need a prescription for it. It helps nerve pain in diabetes. Metanx®, contains only one ingredient: L-methylfolate, a close cousin to folic acid. Although folic acid is considered a B vitamin, L-methylfolate is not classified as either a vitamin or food supplement. Instead, it’s considered a medical food. Medical foods are products designed to address a disease that creates a nutritional deficiency that cannot be fixed by eating a normal diet. When something more is needed to address a nutritional disease than eating a normal diet, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) created a special category for them: a medical food.

Medical foods started as special formulas designed for infants with certain metabolic genetic diseases. Some babies needed special nutrients added to their formula, while other babies couldn’t safely consume certain dietary substances, so their formula was designed without the troublesome nutrient. For example, if you are born with phenylketonuria, you cannot safely process phenylalanine. To help you avoid accidentally ingesting it, any foods containing phenylalanine are required to have a warning added to the list of ingredients to alert those with phenylketonuria to avoid consuming it. To be classified as a medical food by the FDA, a product must meet several criteria. First, its nutrients must be in a specific formulation instead of their natural state. Next, it must be designed to be taken either as a pill or liquid by mouth or in a tube feeding as treatment for a medical condition that has distinct dietary needs. Finally, although it is intended to be used by patients getting ongoing treatment supervised by a medical provider, it doesn’t require a prescription. Medical foods were originally specialized infant formulas for certain genetic diseases or for infants needing a ketogenic diet to prevent seizures, but in recent years other products have crept in under this category, attracted by the lack of regulation required by the FDA.

Prescription and non-prescription (over-the-counter) medicines must show the FDA that they are both safe and effective before they get permission to market a new product. Food supplements have to put disclaimers on their labels including, “This statement has not been evaluated by the Food and Drug Administration,” and “This product is not intended to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent disease.” Food supplement manufacturers are allowed to use statements describing how the product supports certain organs or body functions. Medical foods are very different. They seem more “official” or “trustworthy” because they are often sold only by prescription and they can be marketed as a treatment for a specific disease state. The truth is they are less trustworthy than medications or food supplements because they don’t have to be registered with the FDA.

Some examples of medical food products include Metanx® and Cerefolin NAC which contain L-methylfolate, which is similar to folic acid. Metanx® is a one-ingredient product targeting diabetics with neuropathy and Cerefolin NAC® is marketed for memory loss and combines vitamin B12 and N-acetylcysteine with L-methylfolate.

Limbrel® contains flavonoids with antioxidant properties and is marketed people with osteoarthritis to improve joint movement and mobility; however, there is no clear evidence that osteoarthritis is associated with any specific nutritional deficiency. Axona® is marketed as memory booster for Alzheimer’s dementia. It contains ketone bodies which the manufacturer claims may function as an “alternative energy source” instead of glucose to improve brain functioning and memory. There isn’t any clear evidence to support this, but because it is marketed as a medical food, they don’t have to provide any proof to anyone that it works.

Here Are 5 Key Facts About Medical Foods:

- 1. Medical foods are products designed to address diseases that create a nutritional deficiency that cannot be fixed by eating a normal diet.
- 2. There is very little evidence that single-agent vitamin/nutritional supplements can improve dementia and diabetic neuropathy as well as eating whole foods like spinach, broccoli and other fruits and vegetables.
- 3. Medical foods are allowed to be marketed for a particular disease, yet they don’t have to show any proof that they’re safe or effective.
- 4. Medical foods do NOT require a prescription, but are supposed to be used only under the supervision of a physician.
- 5. Medical foods can be expensive. Many medical food products cost $60 or more per month, with the manufacturer advising you try them for 4-6 months before expecting any noticeable benefit.

Dr. Said vies for U.S. Senate despite Cantwell incumbency

By GARY BÉGIN

The Wenatchee Business Journal interviewed Dr. Mohammad Said recently about his uphill task to win the Democratic primary for United States Senate against longtime incumbent Maria Cantwell.

The following are his answers to a variety of questions:

CVR: Tell the readers about yourself as much as you care to:

Said: Elected Experience: Precinct Committee for Grant County. State Delegate-Democratic Convention several times. National Platform Committee 1988. Former Vice Chair-Democratic Central Committee - Grant County. State Committeeman Grant County 2018.

Other Professional Experience: Expert in healthcare, holding one of the highest medical degrees in the US. Expert of US-Arab/Muslim relations. Facebook Dr. Mohammad Said & drsaid. netdrsaid.net.

Education: M.D. with honors, PhD with honors, MPH, Specialist in Internal Medicine, Family Practice, Geriatric, Preventive & Alternative Medicine, Former Asst. Clinical Professor at VA in Fargo, North Dakota.

Community Service: Volunteer for 14 years at Washington State correction facilities and other local, county, and state.

CVR: If elected, how will you be different than Maria Cantwell?

Said: I will be different in several areas:

- Foreign policy, particularly to Israel as our unconditional support for Israel caused the birth of Osama Bin Laden and terrorist attack of 911. Our invasion of Iraq engineered by the Pro-Israeli Zionist Jews so called Neo Conservatives, caused the birth of ISIL. We have spent trillions of dollars in those wars for nothing. We need to finance our Infrastructure.
- We have to reign in the military and not treat them as a sacred cow, we need to save that money.
- I call to change the Second Amendment of the Constitution to make it a privilege and not a right to bear arms.
- I am in favor of cutting foreign aid, particularly to countries who do not need it such as Israel. Former President Obama, before leaving office, gave Israel $38 billion from our tax payers in the next 10 years.

His reasoning if he didn’t limit the amount, Congress would have given them more. Nobody in Congress dare to question Israel and its treatment to the Palestinians, the native people. When it comes to Iran we are super power, and when it comes to Israel we are a Banana Republic.

CVR: You are running against other Dems so I take it you are of a different “wing” of the Party?

Said: I am like most Americans in the middle progressive on some issues, and conservative on others. As I am pro-life, pro-family, and pro-traditional marriage between a man and woman.

CVR: What is the biggest issue Washington needs help with in D.C.

Said: I wanted Washington State to be a hub for business from overseas, particularly from the oil rich countries of the Middle East. I want to make Seattle competitor with other international cities such as London, Paris, etc. I want to revive the international airport at Grant County that flights directly from Seattle to Dubai makes a stop in its way back and forth. We have a tremendous agricultural in Eastern Washington which is a bread basket.

CVR: Are you prepared to impeach Trump or will you allow the status quo to remain?

Said: I will allow the status quo to remain, and let Trump be defeated by the voter’s next election.

CVR: What about the American Embassy in Jerusalem?

Said: It is the most ridiculous thing that happened in my lifetime. In June 6, 1967, 51 years ago, my beloved city Jerusalem fell under the Israeli control, the same day I graduated as a Doctor from University of Granada in Spain. Transferring the American Embassy is fomenting a religious war between 1.7 billion Muslims and the 12 million Jews, unfortunately the tremendous influence, particularly In the United States, keep them holding on the Palestinian land as Israel has become an apartheid State.

CVR: How best do we deal with N. Korea?

Said: If North Korea comes down it is because of the economy, as we see the tremendous difference between North Korea and South Korea, I am in favor of sanctions until North Korea gives up its nuclear arms. Unfortunately we have one country in the Middle East which has nuclear weapons at the Dimona nuclear facility in the Nagev Desert, but nobody talks about it, it is Israel.

CVR: Are tariffs going to hurt or help our economy

Said: Some might hurt and others might help. I am in favor of free trade provided it’s a fair one.

CVR: Are there specific national, state &/or regional issues you want to change, fix or remain the same

Said: I feel Canada Is our greatest ally, I do not have any specific changes at this time.

CVR: How do you feel about DACA.

Said: I am in favor of Amnesty for immediate family of those who were born in the U.S. To institute a guest worker program where Latinos come and work the land, leaving their families’ behind, giving them enough time to go back and visit

CVR: Can you get along with Republicans in D.C. in order to make real changes

Said: Yes, after all we are all Americans and our country is on top priority regardless of parties.

CVR: Do you have any public elected office experience or is this your first go at political office.

Said: I have been Present Committee Officer for 71 in Grant County for over 30 years, I was elected as a committeeman representing Grant County in the Democratic Central Committee for the las two years.

CVR: If you are new to politics, what caused you to throw your hat into the ring?

Said: I am not new in politics, I ran for public office before as a way to express my views regardless of ethics, religion, background in accordance with the first amendment of the Constitution

CVR: Feel free to make additional comments.

Said: What motivated me to file for U.S. Senate on May 15, was exactly 70 years ago I was expelled with my family from the Port city of Haifa Palestine, which Is now part of Israel along with 700,000 Palestinians who remained refugees, to make room for people who claimed to have that promised land by God over 4,000 years ago. For the Palestinians it was called Al-Nakba or the catastrophe, most of those who occupied the land was with the help of Great Britain, and if we accept their reasoning as the famous English historian Arnold Toynbee, who said that we have to divided the whole world again, as nobody can claim he had this land or that even centuries ago. It has been always politics and not Prophecy or anything of that nature. The Palestinians still in Palestine, where their numbers are equal to the Jews and there is nowhere to go. The Israeli Jews can come to U.S. as they have dual citizenship. They have tremendous power in this county, through news media, the financial institutions, Hollywood and entertainment Industry, the banks, Congress and White House.

For them the U.S is truly the Promised Land.
