New WIAA guidelines affect local 1B-2Bsports

By Mike Maltais STAFF WRITER

RENTON - New classification guidelines approved ty the Washington Interscholastic Activities Association (WIAA) last month are being felt by 1B and 2B schools in the Quad Cities area as athletic directors at Brewster, Bridgeport, Pateros and Mansfield adjust to the rearrangement of sports programs based on school population numbers.

"Beginning with the 2020-24 classification cycle, schools will be assigned a classification based on pre-set enrollment thresholds as opposed to sorting schools into six evenly distributed classifications," a WIAA media release

Waterville athletic director (AD) Kieth Finkbeiner said the new numbers drop Waterville-Mansfield down

"We'll be in a league with Pateros, Entiat, Cascade Christian Academy, Easton, Wilson Creek, and Moses Lake Christian Academy," Finkbeiner said, adding that Soap Lake and Riverside Christian will also be 1B.

"Bridgeport has chosen to drop into the 1B league for most sports," said Finkbeiner, "but at season end will have the opportunity to enter 2B post-season if successful enough."

Fillies eliminate Hornets, bumped by Lady Bears

Ground Hornets 49-35

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

BREWSTER -- The Bridgeport Fillies basketball team eliminated Oroville, 49-35, in the first round of Central Washington 2B league post-season competition but were themselves bumped from competition by Brewster, 65-36 in a loserout game last Thursday, Feb. 13.

Bridgeport got off to a game-winning start in the first quarter with 23 points while holding Oroville to only 4. It was a lead that the Fillies rode through the remaining three quarters of the game as their opponents struggled to break double digits. Bridgeport entered the locker room with a 33-quarter and outscored Bridgeport 13-10 but never than point.

5 tips to help older adults be healthier in 2020

STATEPOINT - For many, the new year is about establishing goals for the year ahead. But where should you start? As we age, an increasing number of us link our emotional and physical well-being to our overall health. After all, you can't do the things you'd like if you aren't healthy.

With that in mind, Cigna and its Medicare Advantage (MA) fitness partner, the Silver&Fit Healthy Aging and Exercise Program, share these five tips to help older adults get fitter

4 easy tips to boost your energy

BPT - Even if you try to keep to a healthy diet and work out regularly, chances are there are times of day when your energy fades, or entire days when you just don't feel like you're on the right track. Between the constant demands on your time from work and family, it can be tough to stay energized all day long.

For expert advice on balanced nutrition to boost your energy levels, check out Kevin Curry's website, FitMenCook.com. Curry demonstrates that it's possible to create meals and snacks to help you achieve your health and wellness goals without breaking the bank or even being a trained chef. He recommends swapping out parts of dishes to boost their nutrition - like egg whites instead of whole eggs, or brown rice or quinoa in place of white rice. He strives to make veggies and proteins the star of the dish, while using ingredients that are both easy to find and simple to prepare. Here are some easy tips for ways to boost your energy and add more pep to your step, throughout your day.

1. Protein-up your breakfast

You probably know you shouldn't skip breakfast, and many of us have to eat it on the go, but there's more you can do - your energy level will thank you later if you add more protein to the first meal of the day. For quick and easy ways to amp up your protein, use Bob Evans Egg Whites, which are made from a single, clean ingredient: 100% liquid egg whites. They offer a high-quality, protein-filled breakfast solution with five grams of protein in every serving. Taking a few extra minutes in the • Physical symptoms morning to boost your pro- anything. In patients with advanced chronic liver distern, tremors or shaking ease, the liver is damaged so it cannot filter toxins out of the blood the way a healthy liver would. These toxins can then build up and travel through the body until they reach the brain. The buildup of these toxins in the brain can then lead to the symptoms of HE. Onset of HE can start slowly, and at first, people with the condition may not even be aware they have it. Family or friends may often be the first to notice someone with HE is acting differently. Tips for relieving joint pain

STATEPOINT - The health benefits of regular exercise are undeniable, and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services recommends 30 minutes of exercise at least five times per week. However, high-impact exercises like running and weight training can lead to joint pain, especially if you have a joint condition. The good news is that smart exercises with low impact can alleviate joint pain and deliver the same health benefits.

Here are a few tips to consider:

How to update home lighting to be easy on the eyes

STATEPOINT - If you ever experience eyestrain, tired itchy eyes, blurry vision or headaches, it may be time to give your home a lighting makeover. Problems caused by bad lighting can be intensified by using it for longer, something most households should keep in mind, as 74 percent of Americans in a recent survey, commissioned by lighting manufacturer, Signify, say they spend eight hours or more a day under artificial light.

The World Health Organization predicts that 50 percent of people will be short sighted by 2050. Unfortunately, there's a disconnect between people's concerns about eye health and the steps they are taking to support eye comfort at home. While 80 percent of U.S. consumers in the same Signify survey say they believe good lighting is beneficial for eye health, a 2017 Signify study found only 21 percent take that into account when purchasing light bulbs, and only 29 percent consider

For many consumers, the disconnect may stem from overwhelming choice when it comes to home lighting and from not having enough information to make an informed decision. Luckily, manufacturers are taking steps to improve lighting quality and help guide consumers in their search for comfortable light that's easy on the eyes. For example, Signify has defined specific screens (computers, smart lighting quality parameters, which take into account factors such as flicker, strobe, glare and dimming effects that can affect one's eye comfort. Consumers can look for an EyeComfort label on product packaging to identify the Philips LED light bulbs that meet the standards for quality lighting that's easy on the eyes.

To further protect your eyes and avoid discomfort, try the following:

· If outdoors, wear sunglasses with 100 percent UV protection to help protect your eyes from the sun. It's helpful to keep a pair in your bag or car, so they are always nearby. Also consider spending a bit more time in natural light and less in artificial light.

 Exercise and strengthen your eyes by incorporating simple, yet effective eye yoga exercises into your daily routine for a few minutes daily.

· Schedule regular checkups with an eye specialist, who will be able to detect the first signs of any eve condition or disease.

While certain eye conditions are beyond one's control, why not do what's in your power to protect your family from eyestrain and related discomfort? The simple DIY project of upgrading your home lighting can mean happier, healthier eyes and better

Linda tries hard to keep herself safe when taking her medicine, and in this situation, she did a lot of things exactly right. She checked her pills before leaving the pharmacy with her new prescription. When she discovered a discrepancy, she pointed it out to the pharmacist and asked for clarification. When she was challenged, she stood her ground, insisting that her doctor would have told her if there had been a change in the tablet size.

That pharmacist was NOT in the right. That prescription SHOULD have never been filled in the first place without clarifying the directions because the dose specified in the prescription included 2.5mg (0.5 tablet), which would only make sense if the prescription was for 5mg, not 10mg tablets. still don't know how it hap- to you or to a loved one. pened, as I didn't change Whether you use a local pharmacy like Linda, or a mail-order pharmacy, be aware that mistakes can happen. Don't let your or a loved one pay the price!

> Here are 4 Ways to Help Keep Yourself Safe from Getting the Wrong Pills:

1. Check out every new prescription.

If you use a local pharmacy, always open up your new bottles of pills BEFORE you leave the pharmacy. Once you leave, they can't take the pills back, and you will have more problems fixing any discrepancies. If you use mail order, always compare the pills in your new bottle with what you are supposed to be taking before putting them away.

2. SPEAK UP! Don't assume that your prescriptions are always right. As Linda found out, doctor's offices can generate prescriptions that don't make sense, and pharmacists can make mistakes. Speak up, so a mistake can be identified before it harms you or a loved one.

3. Don't Give Up. If something doesn't seem right, don't back off until you are satisfied with the answer. If Linda had stuck to her guns, she could have avoided getting the very dangerous blood thinner level she developed, by either insisting the pharmacy manger call the doctor's office or by calling the doctor's office herself to clarify When Linda picked up her medicine's dose and

4. Identify any "mystery"

You don't have to contact the pharmacy to identify what's in a particular prescription bottle or pill you find on the floor. Entering any pill's description including color, shape, and imprinted markings into a Google search will give you photos of the exact pill, helping you identify it. Dr. Louise Achey, Doctor of Pharmacy is a 40-year veteran of pharmacology and author of Why Dogs Can't Eat Chocolate: How Medicines Work and How YOU Can Take Them Safely. Check out her NEW website The Medication Insider.com for daily tips on how to take your medicine safely.

STATEPOINT - Indiges- keeping odd hours. When tion is on the rise worldwide on the go, (or all the time) and is especially prevalent stick mostly with tried-and-American College of Gastroenterology, 60 million Americans suffer from heartburn at least once a month. While it's a common issue for older people due to aging, it's now a growing problem for younger adults as well, who report increasing bouts of indigestion, upset stomach, and anxious stomach, which may be linked to stress and hectic lifestyles

'When the acid in your stomach rises into your esophagus, that's when you know you have heartburn," says Dr. Ken Redcross, a board-certified physician in internal medicine and author of "Bond: The 4 Cornerstones of a Lasting and Caring Relationship with Your Doctor." He explains that heartburn is more than just a minor discomfort, and it can impact daily life. "Heartburn can cause chest pain, difficulty swallowing, and even interfere with sleep. While there are many ever the cause, it's uncomfortable and important to manage."

Suffering from indigestion and heartburn? Dr. Redcross recommends a few simple measures that may help you find relief.

• When embarking on a new diet to improve health and wellness, the last thing you may expect to suffer from are digestive issues. But a sudden change to one's diet is frequently the source of heartburn. Keto diets in particular can trigger heartburn as the diet requires upping the intake of fat, which takes longer to leave the stomach. If you are starting a new diet, it can be helpful to change your diet more gradually.
