This year's Founders Days Festival was a huge success with many visitors in attendance from locals to out of town sightseers. The phenomenal two-day event ran from Friday, June 23 through Saturday, June 24 and brought various events downtown, an open house of the Cashmere Museum and Pioneer Village, the annual Ping-Pong Ball Drop and the Grand Parade. On Friday there was a free barbecue consisting of beans and hotdogs that was held downtown on Cottage Avenue. It drew a big crowd of not only onlookers but performers as well. Young children and teenagers alike all stood in front of the audiences as they sang songs and danced beautifully to awe the crowd.

Face painting was also provided to the kids in attendance by the ladies of the Cashmere Royalty. On Saturday, June 24 the Festival continued with an open house tour of the Cashmere Museum as well as another free barbecue that the museum hosted. Helicopter rides and Go-Cro games, which were both new additions to the Founders Days Festival this year, were both offered all throughout the afternoon on Saturday as well as Tasting Rooms at Cashmere's Mission District. After the annual Car Show was hosted, which local resident Jack Pusel took 1st place in with his jeep, the famous Doane's Valley Pharmacy Ping-Pong Ball Drop took place at the Riverside Park. A helicopter hovered over the children far below as its occupants emptied out bags filled with thousands of ping-pong balls down to them.

The Cashmere Cub Scouts Pack 1 held an end of the year potluck on Sunday, June 11 to celebrate their achievements throughout the year. The event featured an awards ceremony as well as a rocket launch, which the boys had prepared for in advance. J.D. Miller blasts off a rocket for the boys' entertainment.

To celebrate their hard work, the Cashmere Cub Scouts Pack 1 boys joined together on the afternoon of Sunday, June 11 for an end of the year pot luck and rewards ceremony. Before their awards ceremony, the Scouts built and decorated rockets together, which they set off during their potluck on Sunday. "They all did the same kits but all got to decide how they wanted to design and decorate their rockets," Cub Scout Pack 1 Den Leader Candi Bray said. According to Bray, the rocket building was quite challenging for the boys but in the end all of the rockets turned out very well. "The boys had a great time watching them shoot off," Bray said. "For most of the boys, this was their first experience with flying rockets." All of the boys' eyes were filled with anticipation and excitement as they awaited their chance to have their rockets launched during the awards ceremony. "It was a perfect day for shooting off rockets, no wind anywhere," Bray said. "Each boy hoped their rocket would go the highest." Bray stated that all of the rockets flew exceedingly well and they were also all recovered after their launches, which hasn't always happened before. J.D. Miller, a Cashmere local, brought in about two dozen rockets to present to the boys but only launched off one of them. According to Andy Robinson, a Cub Master, Miller has been building and launching rockets for many years. "He has a slew of rockets,"

Robinson said. "He also has a son who is now in Boy Scouts." Miller gives rocket presentations to lots of children and he provided launch pads for the Cub Scouts to use during their ceremony. The best part about the evening for Robinson was seeing the kids get delighted in watching the rockets and working with the volunteer parents and leaders. "That was probably the most fun for me," Robinson said. Major rocket failure was also witnessed by the Scouts when Miller's rocket failed to deploy its parachute when falling from the sky. "Instead of a nice, soft landing it torpedoed back down to the ground where, upon impact, it crumpled up like a smashed soda can," Bray said.

Middle school accepts 'Challenge'

By Mikaila Wilkerson
Staff Writer

Challenge Day, a California-based anti-bullying school program, will be coming to Cashmere Middle School Monday, October 23 through Tuesday, October 24. "It challenges kids to see the difference in each other and to respect that," Sara Graces, Cashmere Middle School Principal, said. The middle school received a $3,000 grant to go towards Challenge Day, which covers half of the costs for the 2-day program that will be provided for 7th and 8th graders. According to Graces, the school's ASB Funds will be covering the remaining costs.

Although the anti-bullying program is based in California, Cashmere's middle school got in contact with the program's Washington Representative, Margarita Gonzalez-Acevedo, a client relations manager, to get the upcoming program rolling. The greatest thing about the program, to Graces, is that the materials used for the Challenge Days are materials that could be continued to be taught throughout the school year. "It makes for better learning," Graces said. This is the first time Graces will be working with the anti-bullying project. "I'm so excited to be a part of it," Graces said.

The project will start off with the kids coming together in a large assembly before they all split up into various groups to discuss anti-bullying efforts. Challenge Day teaches kids empathy, social and self awareness and feeling like you're part of something. "It takes a lot of volunteers," Graces said. The program mainly relies on parents and community volunteers and there is a need for 15 volunteers per day for the program. Four to five school staff members from each grade level are also needed. Kristy Daley, the Cashmere Middle School Assistant Principal, was involved with Challenge Day while she worked for the Cascade school district in Leavenworth. Bullying is an issue that deals with emotional damage and so there will be people coming to the middle school who are especially trained to deal with such an issue. This will also serve as a training session for younger kids to know how to overcome bullying. "I'm excited to have presenters come in and teach about being kind," Graces said. According to Graces, when the topic of empathy is brought up most kids do not know the meaning of the word. Graces hopes that that will change by the time the Challenge Day program ends in October and that there will be a common language between the 7th and 8th graders and the middle school staff when it comes to such words as empathy and social and self awareness. Jessica Guerin, a new counselor who will be working for the Cashmere Middle School starting this next school year, has also helped to coordinate the Challenge Day event. The middle school has also received another grant called the Safe Routes to School Grant, which will allow the middle school to receive 30 new bikes during the upcoming school year. This will help the staff at the school teach children to ride bikes safely and to help promote fitness for children. "We're rocking and rolling," Graces said.

Health care on life support

American's can sense a bad deal when they see it. Obamacare is a bad deal. American's have been calling for repeal for the last three elections. They have not been calling for a repeal and replace.

Politicians keep saying they can cut health care costs by eliminating the profit motive. Well, they've had eight years to prove their theory and look what has happened - insurance costs and deductibles have escalated beyond reason. It is not sustainable.

Here are some undeniable, uncomfortable economic truths that we continue to ignore on this issue:

First, removing consumers from all responsibility for verifying the accuracy of the cost of services is a formula for disaster. We all know we are more careful when it is our money. When the government or an insurance company is paying the bill we are simply not as vigilant.

Second, when the government mandates minimum coverage we are forced to pay for service we don't need or want.

Third, when insurance companies are negotiating with the government or large employer groups, individuals and small employers end up at a competitive disadvantage. They simply don't have the same buying power and often end up subsidizing the coverage of the larger buyers.

Finally, when the government is the payer they control costs by limiting reimbursements to providers. This is an economic fact of today's health care economy. It has two very nasty outcomes. The first is that health care providers inflate their bills because they know they are only going to get 40 - 50 cents on the dollar from Medicare or Medicaid. The second is that many doctors refuse to accept Medicare patients because they know they won't be reimbursed for the full cost of care.

The Colorado Springs Gazette had an opinion piece last week that addressed the problem of health care costs better than any I have read in a long time. It was titled, GOP proposes another stupid health care bill. Their point was it was just "...another stupid health care bill that does nothing to lower prices and ease access to medical care."

I have provided a link to it on my website.

The Gazette got it right. The problem is Washington is focused on insurance. Insurance is not health care. Insurance is simply a way to pay for health care. Do you really believe that the Federal Government can reduce the cost of health care by establishing what insurance policies have to cover, who has to be covered and how it will be paid?

None of the "Health Care" bills proposed so far does anything to address fraud or frivolous lawsuits. In fact, having insurance nearly guarantees more lawsuits by lawyers who have no medical background but can convince a jury that the doctors were negligent in your treatment. The unfortunate result is frivolous lawsuits drive up the cost of health care to all of us.

The Gazette points out that none of the bills proposed to date does anything to give Americans more doctors, nurses, nurse practitioners, physicians assistants, hospitals, clinics, low priced drugs or neighborhood wellness centers. In other words, none of these bills do anything to increase competition.

The United States has 2.56 doctors per 1000 population. Compare that to Austria 4.99, Norway 4.31, Sweden 4.12, Germany and Switzerland at 4.04.

With an aging baby boomer generation now increasing the demand for health care, none of the health care initiatives coming out of Washington does anything to increase the supply of medical providers.

Access to good affordable health care is a basic human need. It is time that we recognized focusing on a big government mandated solution is not what made America great. And copying the failed solutions of the European socialists will not work.

It is time Congress repealed Obamacare and began focusing on real solutions like health savings accounts, tort reform, increasing the supply of medical providers, building incentives for private insurance companies to diversify their product offerings, and innovative private industry solutions that create low cost service options.

Anything else just moves us further down the road to an unsustainable government program that limits our freedom.

The real ‘Magnificent Seven’*

They were from 19 to 37-years-old. Here are their names, ages and hometowns:

- Dakota Kyle Rigbsby, 19, Palmyra, Virginia
- Shingo Alexander Douglass, 25, San Diego, California
- Ngoc T Truong Huynh, 25, Oakville, Connecticut
- Noe Hernandez, 26, Weslaco, Texas
- Victor Ganzon Sibayan, 23, Chula Vista, California
- Xavier Alec Martin, 24, Halethorpe, Maryland
- Gary Leo Rehm Jr., 37, Elyria, Ohio

Our children and grandchildren ought to be told of their sacrifice. They were the seven sailors that were killed by a Japanese cargo ship last month while sleeping on their ship, a destroyer that tirelessly patrols the oceans of the world keeping our commercial shipping lanes free and open to the world's commerce.

Yet commerce and corporations are bad things in the eyes of these watching our backs, your "Little Johnnies" and "Jones" would not have the frivolous luxury of demanding another app for their over-priced smart phones.

Memories of the Alps and Tumwater Canyon

I think my memory goes back further than most people's. At seventy-five I have talked to a lot of people through life and when the subject comes up most of them can go back to the first day of school and no one I know goes much further. I have distinct memories of a much earlier time than that. I was born in the old Leavenworth Hospital in April 1942. We lived at the Alps in Tumwater Canyon where mom ran the lunch counter, sold groceries, rented 6 cabins, rowboats, and sold gasoline from a 300-gallon tank. I still have mom's account

book and she rented one cabin to a couple from Minnesota. It also shows that she was paying 10 to 12 cents for a quart of milk and eggs by the dozen. Her most noted renter, a well-noted nature photographer from out of state rented a cabin and a boat for the next day. His stated goal was to hike up the bottom of Dreary Falls and photograph it from the bottom up. She said he had breakfast and left for the hike. After a couple hours, he returned and tied the boat up. She told me that while checking out he said that he had never seen that many Rattlesnakes in his life. Another story was of our German Shepard, Fritz keeping my brother away from the woodshed. When dad went out to see why he found a Timber Rattler right where my brother would have reached.

My dad at the time was logging for Peshastin Lumber and Box in the Little Wenatchee and White River. He used to tell of the crew cutting a White Pine that was around 12 feet at the stump. The crew worked very hard to get the butt loaded and hauled to the mill pond at Peshastin. That was when they discovered that the head saw would not take a log that big. He used to chuckle that they ended up drilling it and blowing it up with dynamite.

He said it eventually settled to the bottom of the pond and is still there today. Fast forward to April 1942 and we were living with my uncle Frazier, a bachelor at the time in the huge house on the orchard in Fairview Canyon at Monitor. I clearly remember back to the Christmas party there and all the Wood family coming for Christmas Eve. Uncle Bob had seven kids and Grandpa had 8 along with husbands, wives, kids, and cousins. Everyone had drawn names and brought a present for that person. The piano never stopped or the other instruments that the Wood family played. Everyone was required to perform a song, play an instrument, act out a skit or entertain for a short time. One of my favorite presents that winter was a mamma duck and three little ones that when I pulled it along momma quacked and all their wings went around.

When I was born the Japanese had bombed Pearl Harbor in December and America was gearing up for an outright invasion on our west coast. April 1944 I had just turned 3 and I was pulling my "quackers" around the huge living room. As usual, mom was busy in the kitchen with the radio on KPQ. As she worked she was always singing a 30's song and listening to the radio. I remember her yelling that day and running to the back door yelling to dad, uncle Frazier "tade" and the crew working in the orchard that Germany was surrendering. That as I recall was an end to the work for the rest of that day. Everyone was celebrating out under the huge Willow tree on the front lawn. Less than 3 months later she did the same thing only this time she was crying. She yelled up to the orchard "the Japanese have surrendered". I don't think I remember that much emotion over any event until John Kennedy was shot. "I and two of my best friends went to the Cashmere Methodist Church that evening and prayed for the Kennedy's and our country". In 1947 my aunt and uncle and another close family couple bought Cougar Inn. Mom and Dad were invited along to meet Gertrude "Gravel Gerty", I think she was called. She had a fire in the big fireplace and stuffed leather couch and chairs. She asked me to sit on her lap, and every time she laughed I could hear her gravelly voice. Bless her heart for she was a good person and really liked me. From that time we were at Cougar Inn a lot. That winter the snow was up to the roof and we could go upstairs to the rooms, open the window and slide down the metal roof and onto the snow. I have enclosed a picture of my aunt's friends taken at the Alps winter 1941-42.

Frazier Strutzel was born in Leavenworth in 1942 and graduated Cashmere High School in 1960/61. He served in the Marines from '61-'63 and spent 26 years with the Cashmere Volunteer Fire Department and eight years on the Monitor Community Council where he grew up. El Deafo visits the Cashmere Library

Staff Writer

A popular children's book published in 2015 was brought to life in the Cashmere Public Library on Thursday, June 29. El Deafo, which tells the story of a young girl named Cece who loses her hearing at a young age, is a memoir of its author, Cece Bell. Bell grew up with a hearing impairment and struggled with insecurities and doubts but she never stopped looking for someone to have a true friendship with and overcome her challenges. Throughout the story, Bell comes to accept herself just the way she is and, because her hearing aid allows her to hear things from afar, she gives herself the superhero nickname of El Deafo. The performance of the story was brought to the Cashmere library by Book-It Repertory Theatre, a Seattle theatre company which is celebrating its 27th birthday this year.

Book-It transforms books into plays for audiences of all ages. What makes Book-It most special is that the actors speak both the narration and the dialogue so all the words that are written on the book's pages are acted onstage. All throughout the performance, sign language was performed by the actors as well as speaking. The play was directed by Ryan Schlecht and adapted by Kelly Kitchens. The character of El Deafo/Cece Ball was portrayed by actress Cheyenna Clearbrook, who has a hearing impairment herself. Rachel Guyer-Mafune played the character of Martha, who became Cece's best friend over time. Mike Miller, who was Cece's first crush, was portrayed by Andrew Wilkes. Mary Hould played the parts of Cece's other friends who were formed over time, though none stayed in Cece's

Cece soon meets Martha who becomes her best friend by the end of the story. Cheyenna Clearbrook, as Cece, stands to the left. Rachel Guyer-Mafune, as Martha, stands to the right.

El Deafo, a popular children's book, was brought to the Cashmere Public Library as a play performance on Thursday, June 29. Cheyenna Clearbrook, to the right, plays the part of Cece Bell, the main character in the story who struggles with a hearing impairment. To the left is Mary Hould, playing the part of one of the other classmates that Cece tries to befriend.

Cashmere Museum launches project to preserve newspaper archives

SUBMITTED BY PAM WONN

The Cashmere Museum is pleased to announce an important project aimed at digitizing the entirety of the community newspaper, the Cashmere Valley Record, which began publishing in 1907.

While delving into old copies of the Cashmere Valley Record for a History of Cashmere Display for the Cashmere Museum, researchers discovered that the only locally available (there are some copies available through the state library on microfiche) newspaper archives consist of a paper copy of each published edition stored in the newspaper offices. These newspaper archives, which document the day-to-day lives and history of Cashmere and the surrounding communities, would be lost forever in the tragic event of a fire or other major disaster.

Cashmere Museum's volunteer organization, the Friends of Old Mission, with the support of Bill Forhan, publisher of the Cashmere Valley Record, decided to see what could be done to preserve the newspaper archives in digital format, and make the results accessible free to the public on the internet for future reference.

Dick Brender, one of the Museum researchers, says digitizing the newspaper is a complicated process beginning with transporting all the paper copies to a specialized scanning service. The scanned images are then processed by optical characterreader (OCR) software to make the text searchable according to keywords.

The digital newspaper archive will then be hosted on an Internet server through the Washington State Library.

The digitized and searchable papers would then be available to anyone wanting to look for people, places, or anything that appeared in the Cashmere paper over all those years.

Digitizing the Cashmere Valley Record archives is an expensive undertaking, with an estimated cost of $25,000. The Cashmere Museum Board has authorized its Friends of Old Mission volunteer group to do the fund raising and get the digital archives online.

To reach the goal of $25,000, The Cashmere Museum's Friends of Old Mission is asking for donations to this project. Contributions of any amount may be made to:

Celebration of Life

A Celebration of Life gathering for Sophrona Irene Pusel will be held on Sunday, July 9 at 10:45 a.m. at the Monitor United Methodist Church following the 9:30 a.m. church service. Sophrona's family will be assisting with the church service. A lunch will be served during the celebration in the Fellowship Room. Please come and share stories of Sophrona Pusel. Her family will be honored to see you.

A Matter of Perspective

Perspective is frequently used in art to demonstrate depth and dimension. The greatest masterpieces, when observed, use this to great effect. They seem to draw you in beyond the canvas and you are completely immersed in the painting. However, think about how silly it would be the next time you go to an art museum and you placed your nose inches away from the various displays. Imagine touring the whole gallery with only looking at the pieces of art from a two and half inch perspective. Sure you could probably recount all the detail of a sculpture's big toe or possibly the brooch that was on a ladies portrait, but you didn't see the bigger picture.

We live life like that. We focus on the minutia. We make mountains out of molehills. We major on the minors. All the while we miss the greater story and the greater tapestry that God is weaving for his glory. Not only do we miss the glory that God is doing in the work of redemption, but because of our self-imposed limited perspective, we fail to see the reason why God is working in the first place.

Forgive me if I sound like an alarmist but I cannot say "peace, peace" when there is no peace (Jer. 6:14). This is reality;

A WALK WITH PASTOR JOHN SMITH

Over 151,000 people die every day, many of whom will face an eternity away from the goodness of God. Our country has never been more divided, and currently we celebrate everything that God detests, all under the guise of "choice" and "sexual freedom." Families are breaking up on an unprecedented level. Churches are settling for entertainment rather than preaching the gospel, leaving many ignorant or apathetic to the reality of Hell, Heaven, sin or even the Cross of Christ. What's next? Cat's marrying dogs? Considering the absolute insanity we are living in, it wouldn't surprise me.

Again I hate to be the bearer of bad news, but someone has to blow the trumpet.

Christian, when is the last time you thought about this? When is the last time it settled in your brain that you and I are so close to the edge of eternity, and that along with us, there are many in the same boat that will dump off at any moment, ready or not? If you hadn't thought about it recently, then perhaps it's time you broaden your perspective.

Death will do that. As I said before the word "perspective" has been rattling in my head as of late, and after performing a graveside service, I took a walk around the cemetery. Looking at each headstone and contemplating their life, it convicted me of how much of my life is focused on me and my "navel gazing."

God in this moment wants to open and broaden our perspective as to how he sees it. Of course our finite brains cannot comprehend the vastness or the depth of the mind of God, but we can in part see how He sees, and think as he thinks. After all the Bible says, that Christians have the mind of Christ (1 Cor. 2:16).

We spend too much time looking at ourselves, worrying about ourselves, and getting ourselves offended. The Bible calls us to think on the things that are above (Col. 3:2) which means we ought to adopt a heavenly perspective, a God-sized viewpoint on our world today.

I would challenge you to see how God sees things, and from that vantage point, observe the happenings here with eternity's values in view.

NCW Media Inc.'s Obituary and Memorial Policy

An obituary is a way for family members to commemorate a loved one's life and to notify the larger community of the deceased.

Obituaries are also used for historical and ancestral data. Memorials are another way of letting the community know about the life and memories of the person who has died. A memorial is different from an obituary. An obituary is usually current while a memorial can be written later.

For publication in the Cashmere Valley Record or The Leavenworth Echo, an obituary or memorial needs to be typed and emailed to editor@leavenworthecho.com no later than 4 p.m. Friday for the next week's issue. Funeral homes and chapels can submit obituaries by noon on Monday, except holidays.

Obituaries are priced per word while the charge for memorial ads are by the column-inch. Cost of the obituary/memorial is due at the time of placement.

Summer starts off swimmingly

COURTESY PHOTO.

There were around 100 swimmers who participated in the events at the Cashmere Swim Team Meet on Thursday, June 22, including about 65 swimmers from Cashmere’s team. After the meet ended, both Emily Cornelio and Jackson Kovacevich were named Cashmere’s Swimmers of the Week.

By MIKAILA WILKERSON
Staff Writer

The Cashmere Swim Team hosted their first home meet on Thursday, June 22 and went up against Wenatchee’s WRAC (Wenatchee Racquet & Athletic Club) swim team. Cheryl Adams, the Cashmere Swim Team Board President, has served on the Board for the last four years. “They needed board members so I thought I’d give it a try,” Adams said.

The head coaches for Cashmere’s team are siblings Adrian Marquis and Tommy Marquis.

Assistant coaches include Kim Krumvieda-Buchan, Aster Dotson and Tyson Seidensticker, who all enjoyed seeing the kids participate in the meet.

According to Adams, there was a lot of excitement from the kids for their first home meet.

“It was a great start to the season for sure,” Adams said.

Overall there were around 100 kids who participated in the meet, with 65 kids being from Cashmere’s team.

Events within the meet included boys’ and girls’ Medley Relays, Individual Medley, Backstroke, Breaststroke, Freestyle, Butterfly and Freestyle Relay.

A Cashmere team consisting of Alia Kovacevich, Audrey Adams, Mary Van Winkle and Saige Okeefe placed first in the girls’ 9-10 100Y Medley Relay competition with a time of 1:26.66.

Jackson Kovacevich from Cashmere’s team placed 1st in the boys’ 8 & Under 25Y Backstroke event with a time of 27.37 and Cashmere’s Josiah Aguigui placed 1st in the boys’ 15-18 50Y Backstroke.

There were smiles on each of the kids’ faces all throughout the meet as they even talked with the kids that they had competed against.

Seeing all of the kids happy made Adams incredibly happy herself.

The swim team hosts kids from six years of age to 17-18 and the younger kids watched in awe while the older teens swam.

“I think it’s cool that the little kids were watching the bigger kids,” Adams said.

In the same way, Adams shared how sweet it was that the teens watched the younger kids compete and reminisced about when they, themselves, were younger and trying to get the hang of swimming.

For Adams, the highlight of the day was being part of the selection for the Swimmers of the Week kids after the meet ended.

Jackson Kovacevich and Emily Cornelio were named last week’s Swimmers of the Week, and Adams had the liberty of bringing Kovacevich forward to hear of this accomplishment. “His first response was, ‘Am I in trouble?’,” Adams began.

After reassuring him that the swim team coaches had good news to share, Adams took Kovacevich to the coaches where they congratulated Kovacevich and told him that he had been named one of the Swimmers of the Week.

“The kid could barely contain himself,” Adams stated. “Seeing him overwhelmed with excitement, joy and pride (was great).”

Both kids stood as still as they could, excitement clear on their faces, as their photos were taken.

“That was probably my favorite part of the night,” Adams said. “It was adorable.”

These meets, to Adams, are big community events that would not be possible if it weren’t for the help of volunteers, parents and community members.

“If it wasn’t for all these people, we wouldn’t be able to do this,” Adams said.

There will be another home meet at the public pool on Thursday, July 6 starting at 6:00 p.m.

SWIMMERS of the Week

Elle Jacobson, age 6

Elle Jacobson, is a longtime swimmer with a great attitude. Elle is always one of the first people in the water and one of the last to get out. It can be seen that she really wants to be there and swimming. This can-do and wanting attitude is why Elle is a Swimmer of the week.

Matthew Belcher, age 9

Mathew Belcher, joined the team last year and has shown incredible amounts of improvement. Mathew is always willing to try his best and he never backs down from a challenge. It is for these reasons and more that Mathew is this week’s Swimmer of the Week.

The Cashmere Swim Team, which practices at the Cashmere Municipal Pool, is part of the Wenatchee Valley Summer Swim League, which also includes teams from Ephrata, Quincy, Leavenworth, Waterville and the Wenatchee Racquet & Athletic Club. The season runs six weeks, from the first practice on June 19 to championships set for July 29. Meets are generally held at 6 p.m. Thursdays. The Cashmere team has five coaches this season — Head Coaches Adrian Marquis and Tommy Marquis, and three assistant coaches Tyson Seidensticker, Aster Dotson, and Kim Krumvieda-Buchan. For information on the team, go to http://wvssl.org/index.php?p=1\_22

PUBLIC NOTICES

Superior Court Of Washington For Chelan County

In the Matter of the Trust of
Richard M. Rogers,
Deceased.
No. 17-4-00171-8
Amended Nonprobate Notice To Creditors
RCW 11.42.030

The notice agent named below has elected to give notice to creditors of the above-named decedent. As of the date of the filing of a copy of this notice with the court, the notice agent has no knowledge of any other person acting as notice agent or of the appointment of a personal representative of the decedent's estate in the State of Washington. According to the records of the court as are available on the date of the filing of this notice with the court, a cause number regarding the decedent has not been issued to any other notice agent and a personal representative of the decedent's estate has not been appointed.

Any person having a claim against the decedent must, before the time the claim would be barred by any otherwise applicable statute of limitations, present the claim in the manner as provided in RCW 11.42.070 by serving on or mailing to the notice agent or the notice agent's attorney at the address stated below a copy of the claim and filing the original of the claim with the court in which the notice agent's declaration and oath were filed. The claim must be presented within the later of: (1) Thirty days after the notice agent served or mailed the notice to the creditor as provided under RCW 11.42.020(2)(c); or (2) four months after the date of first publication of the notice. If the claim is not presented within this time frame, the claim is forever barred, except as otherwise provided in RCW 11.42.050 and 11.42.060. This bar is effective as to claims against both the decedent's probate and nonprobate assets.

Date Of First Publication:
June 28, 2017

The notice agent declares under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of Washington on 20 day of June 2017, at Bainbridge Island, Washington, that the foregoing is true and correct.

“The boys loved it.”

The large portion of the evening was also spent giving out special awards to the Scouts.

“Everyone got a badge to put on their uniform,” Melody Wheelless, one of the Scouts’ mothers, said.

Two of Candi Bray’s sons received the world conservation badges.

In order to earn the world conservation badge, a scout must have been involved in an extensive conservation project.

According to Wheelless, six boys earned a scouting shooting badge, which is achieved after participating in a shooting event that has three different activities.

The first level to be

One of my neighbors swears that Bag Balm® helps cure foot fungus. Is that true?

No, not really. Applying Bag Balm® to your athlete’s foot may help it from spreading but frankly, it’s more likely to make it WORSE. Most organisms will grow better when they are placed in their favorite conditions. Although many plants grow much better in sunlight some actually prefer shady conditions. Some plants like grasses and corn love to be watered, while others like iris, cacti and some house plants have roots that can rot all too easily if they get too much water.

Fungus and yeast organisms have their own favorite growing conditions: warm, dark and moist places. This is why you’ll find fungus and yeast more often between your toes or in your groin area instead of on the tops of your feet or on your elbows. Your baby or grandbaby can also get a diaper rash from yeast if they don’t have their diaper changed frequently.

Bag Balm® has 3 main ingredients: petroleum jelly, which we know as Vaseline®, lanolin which is also called wool fat, and 8-hydroxyquinoline, an anti-infective. Bag Balm® was originally marketed to dairy farmers to smear on the udders of their cows in order to prevent skin irritation and speed the healing of minor cuts and scrapes. Although licensed for Veterinary Use Only, most farmers also used it on themselves and their family members for their own cuts and chapped skin, with good results, and today many homes wouldn’t be without Bag Balm® in its iconic bright green square can.

8-hydroxyquinoline is considered an excellent topical anti-infective and is also available for cuts and scrapes as the active ingredient in liquid bandages such as New Skin®. The 19th edition of the United States Dispensatory published in 1907 describes it as a very powerful antiseptic. 8-hydroxyquinoline can stop the growth of bacteria and fungi by combining with certain trace minerals found on the surface of bacteria and fungi. This poisons them and prevents these microorganisms from reproducing and causing an infection.

Although 8-hydroxyquinoline can keep fungus from growing, putting it on your feet won’t guarantee you’ll eliminate athlete’s foot. That’s because Bag Balm® is an ointment. Ointments restore moisture to your skin by trapping moisture underneath it. Your body continuously gives off moisture through your breath, your sweat and through the pores of your skin. Creams help trap that moisture next to your skin before it evaporates, but ointments do that even better. The best way to soothe dry skin is to get it wet, pat it only partly dry and then put some ointment on it. This traps the moisture in the skin.

Bag Balm® only comes as an ointment. Using ointment on your feet can be helpful if your skin is chapped, dry or cracked but unfortunately it also helps fungus grow faster and better. If you put ointment on your feet and then put on your socks and shoes, you’re actually helping your foot fungus grow because you’ve given it a warm, dark and moist place. Instead of reaching for a can of Bag Balm® to treat foot fungus I recommend keeping your feet as dry as possible, changing your socks frequently, using an anti-fungal powder cream until the fungus gets under control, and then using a spray powder every day after that to prevent it from coming back.

Q: Can I use Bag Balm® for my baby’s diaper rash? I don’t recommend it. Babies have much thinner skin than children or adults, and the genital area has the thinnest skin of all. The thinner the skin, the more easily you can absorb compounds into your body that are applied to your skin. Broken or blistered skin is even more likely to absorb stuff that was intended only for use on the outside, not the inside.

Years ago an antiseptic cleanser called PhisoHex® was used to wash newborn infants. It contained hexachlorophene, an antiseptic skin cleanser that killed bacteria on the skin. Even though it was only used on unbroken skin, some

A brand new flagpole was established and dedicated in front of Cashmere’s American Legion Post 64 on Wednesday, June 14 in celebration of Flag Day with the help of local boy scouts.

The flagpole being taken down was installed on Tuesday, October 11 of last year. It was a replacement of the older pole that had been up since Memorial Day of 1987.

“It’d been 30 years since the other one was put up,” Linda Ingraham of Cashmere American Legion Post 64 said. “The flagpole was in such disarray.”

Flags A’Flying, a Tacoma based company, brought in the flagpole that was put up last year.

“We had to pay them to come up, stand the pole up and take the old pole down,” Cashmere American Legion Post 64 member Wiley Collins said.

According to Collins, it cost the American Legion $10,000 to have the previous flagpole put in.

Flags A’Flying also put in the new pole that went up on Wednesday.

“It’s a great company,” Ingraham said of Flags A’Flying. “In fact Dan from Ward’s Funeral (in Leavenworth) told us about them because that’s where Leavenworth has gotten their flags from.”

Money for the new flagpole came from memorial donations as well as contributions from Post 64.

According to Ingraham, Don Alderman was a man who played a large role in the establishment of the pole that was taken down on Wednesday, and who recently passed away.

A new plaque in the front of Post 64 was dedicated to the memory of Alderman along with deceased members of Cashmere’s American Legion.

Aubrey Abbots, who was raised in Cashmere, stood at the front of Post 64 and sang the national anthem. Local Reverend Bob Kohl stood at the front to speak during the ceremony.

Taps was played as soon as the flag was fully raised on the new pole.

Food and drinks were provided as the flagpole dedication ceremony came to a close.

Collins, Ingraham and everyone involved in the Cashmere American Legion Post 64 express their gratitude and appreciation for everyone who has supported, or contributed to, Post 64.

Donators include: R.L. Stewart Excavating LLC, Atchison Construction, Rob Todd Construction, Star Rentals, Columbia Crane, Tom Collins, Tom Hendrickson, Pipkin Construction, Yard Works, and Premium Rock.

families that have signed up their sons for Cub Scouts. Because they will all be going into the first grade this next school year, all of the boys will be starting off as Tigers who will go on to become Cub Scouts.

“The fun and lessons learned through Scouting are things that will stay with all of us for many years to come,” Bray said. “Scouting opens many doors and allows for many opportunities to try new things.”

of the babies absorbed enough of the hexachlorophene through their skin to trigger seizures. When treating a diaper rash, wash the area gently and let it dry completely before using any cream, ointment or other protectant. Using an ointment on the diaper area is helpful if the diaper rash is not yeast. Because babies have such thin, sensitive skin it’s best to completely avoid using anything with an anti-infective ingredient in the diaper area.
