Brewster Salmon Derby ticket deadline is July 28

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

BREWSTER - Fishermen have until Sunday, July 28, to purchase tickets for the Brewster King Salmon Derby...

A new development from last year is that the Brewster Derby is now a member of the Northwest Salmon Derby Series...

The lucky winner will receive a $65,000 KingFisher 2025 Falcon Series boat equipped with a 150-horsepower (hp) Honda...

motor and 9.9 hp trolling motor together with an EZ-Loader galvanized trailer. The fully rigged outfit comes with Scotty downriggers, Raymarine Electronics, custom WhoDat tower and dual electronic stereo.

Also from last year is a weight division, the Team Derby Total Average Weight category added to the prize brackets.

An advisory on the derby website says officials will email and post should any changes occur.

All Brewster Derby profits benefit local charities such as the Brewster Boys and Girls Club, Pateros-Brewster-Bridgeport Senior Center and the Coastal Conservation Association of Washington.

Gov. Jay Inslee tours Pateros water works, fire exhibit

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

PATEROS - Washington State Governor and 2020 Democratic Presidential candidate Jay Inslee paid a visit to Pateros last Friday, July 19, to tour the city's new water and reservoir system...

Pateros mayor Carlene Anders said the governor's visit was the result of an invitation extended by the city more than a year ago to inspect the new water works and participate in a ribbon cutting dedication at the same time.

Colville Tribes host Youth Food Sovereignty Summit

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

NESPELEM - Three agencies came together earlier this month for a food summit that taught youth representatives of several tribes the importance of food sovereignty and security on their reservations.

Earlier this month, 18 young people from ages 13-25 representing seven different tribes participated in the 2019 Northwest Intertribal Agriculture Council (IAC) Youth Food Sovereignty Summit on the Colville Reservation.

The Colville Confederated Tribe (CCT) partnered with IAC and Colville Reservation WSU Extension to host a three-day hands-on education about natural resources, agriculture, native culture and 4H Positive Youth Development.

The summit involved physical tours of facilities including

CCT forestry greenhouses to learn about the reforestation program; Grand Coulee Dam to learn about the Columbia Irrigation Project; Gebbers Farms to learn about the orchard industry and how science can play a large part in agriculture; Okanogan Interpretive Center to learn about native culture and how the river affected tribes; CCT Chief Joseph Hatchery to learn about salmon recovery projects and fish harvest; and Delap Orchards to learn about and sample different fruits grown in the Okanogan valley.

The young people also learned about creating honey products, basket making, and using drones in agriculture.

For more information on this and other Extension programs contact Linda McClean, Colville Reservation WSU Extension Director at 509-634-2305 or ljmclean@wsu.edu.

Parade draws a crowd

Apple Pie Jamboree meets expectations and then some

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

PATEROS - The 71st Apple Pie Jamboree, the city's largest annual celebration met all expectations and then some as crowds turned out for both the Friday evening parade, July 19, and the Saturday activities, food, and fun in the park and on the water.

Concerns about changing the parade venue from Saturday morning to Friday evening were put to rest when spectators showed up in large numbers making it difficult to find a parking spot within easy walking distance to the parade route.

The popular Wenatchee band Waterdog packed them in at the outdoor dining area behind Sweet River Bakery.

Saturday included all the regular events; the early morning Color Run, breakfast in the park, 3-on-3 basketball, the Ray Stanley Memorial Bass Tournament, Quilt Show and veterans quilt presentation, jet ski races, and fireworks.

A rainbow formed alongside the jet of water cooling the crowd from the fire department water tender. More APJ photos on B1 and B2.

Pateros receives fifth consecutive wastewater award

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

PATEROS - For the fifth consecutive year the city of Pateros has been awarded the Wastewater Treatment Plant Outstanding Performance award from State of Washington Department of Ecology (DOE).

The award recognizes full compliance with DOE's 2018 National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System permit that covers effluent limits, monitoring and reporting requirements, spill prevention planning, pre-treatment, and overall operational demands of the permit.

"Of approximately 300 wastewater treatment plants statewide, yours is one of 109 that achieved full compliance," wrote DOE Water Quality Program Manager Heather Bartlett. "Your excellent record is a credit to the dedicated operators who are responsible for running this award-winning plant."

Mike Lambert

Bartlett noted that it is not easy to operate a wastewater treatment plant 24 hours a day, 365 days a year without violations.

Pateros mayor Carlene Anders announced the award during the regular monthly meeting of the city council on July 15. Mike Lambert is the city's plant operator and maintenance technician.

Veterans Zwiegle, Kirk honored with custom-made quilts

STAFF WRITER

PATEROS – Members of the Columbia River Quilters honored two local veterans, Bill Zwiegle and Doug Kirk, by presenting each with a custom-made quilt during the 71st Apple Pie Jamboree last Saturday, July 20. During a noon ceremony on the stage at Sweet River Bakery, Quilters spokesperson Lisa Schluneger delivered prepared remarks about what it means to be a veteran before introducing each recipient with a history of his service.

“Today, we honor our veterans, we celebrate their achievements, what they stand for, and thank them for their sacrifices,” said Schluneger. “We stand in the midst of patriots and the family and friends of those who have nobly served, who have sacrificed as well.”

Bill Zwiegle

Zwiegle entered the Navy active reserves directly from school in 1953 during the Eisenhower administration. He completed boot camp at Camp Pendleton, San Diego, Calif. and went to sea as a seaman apprentice.

Zwiegle divided much of his time between studying and service labor. Dissatisfied with this arrangement and wanting to advance he enrolled in Naval Hospital Corps School and became a hospital corpsman.

Naval Hospital Corps School develops, teaches, and places hospital corpsmen into the fleet: aboard ships, aboard Naval Hospitals, in Department of Defense medical facilities, with United States Marine Corps units, or elsewhere.

As a hospital corpsman, Zwiegle assisted health care professionals in the prevention and treatment of disease and injury and with providing medical care to sailors including administering shots and stitching up wounds.

Zwiegle spent his onshore active duty at the Bremerton Naval Hospital and was honorably discharged in January 1961 after eight years of service. He spent 13 years in retail at Nordstrom’s before moving to Bridgeport to work in the fruit business. He retired in 2007 and currently serves as animal control officer for the City of Bridgeport.

Zwiegle’s son, Keith, the Pateros Fire Chief, accepted the quilt on behalf of his father.

Doug Kirk

Kirk entered “the greatest branch in the U.S. military, the Army” in his words, in 2006. Following completion of boot camp at Fort Benning, Georgia, he was stationed with the 25th Infantry Division Wolfhounds at Scofield Barracks, Hawaii.

The Wolfhounds established in 1901 have served in campaigns from the Philippine-American War in 1899 to Afghanistan and Iraq today.

Kirk trained in many classes to acquire communications and survival skills before deploying for 15 months to Sadr City, Baghdad, his main theater of operations. He was assigned as part of a spear team tasked to monitor and capture high priority combatants through top secret technology only recently released to U.S. law enforcement.

Kirk spent the majority of these missions between piloting the Stryker, an eight-wheeled armored fighting vehicle during day operations and as a door breach or first man on tactical missions flown in Blackhawk and Chinook helicopters. He received many awards and commendations for his service.

“They do not compare to the loss of brothers,” said Kirk. “I have valued all that I went through, although it weighs heavy day to day.”

Kirk worked on a cattle ranch while attending college for three years when he met his wife, Wendy. The couple moved home to Brewster where Kirk is the Water Department Manager for the City of Pateros. The Kirks are now hard at work building a home and sustainable farm.

PATEROS – The three-on-three basketball competition was fast, fair, and fun for the teams that turned out for the annual Apple Pie Jamboree tournament last Saturday, July 20. Though the number of teams fell short of last year's 45, the three dozen who registered gave the sideline spectators all the excitement they could handle.

Event coordinator Jared Henton and his team of volunteers and scorekeepers kept the action flowing from the 8 a.m. start time through the early afternoon on multiple courts that occupied the east end of Lakeshore Drive.

The 36 teams competed in seven brackets from 12 years old and under through adults.
