Bodies found in pickup near Chiwaukum Creek Rock Quarry

By IAN DUNN
Editor

The Chelan County Sheriff's Office is investigating the discovery of two bodies in a truck off U.S. Highway 2 between Leavenworth and Lake Wenatchee. The bodies were found in a pickup adjacent to a campsite near mile post 90 off U.S. Highway 2, according to a CCSO news release.

On May 23, just after noon time, a caller reported seeing a full sized pickup truck in a heavily brushed area near the Chiwaukum Rock Quarry. The person reporting the truck did not approach the vehicle to determine if anyone was inside.

A deputy arrived, and with the assistance of the person that reported the truck, approached the vehicle. The deputy noticed immediately that someone had apparently attempted to conceal the truck using a blanket, duct tape and natural vegetation.

When they were able to see inside the truck, it was discovered there were two deceased persons in the driver's seat and passenger seat. At that point, assistance came from the Chelan County Sheriff's Detective Unit as well as the Chelan County Coroner's Office.

The scene was processed. The vehicle and deceased were secured. The news release states they are not actively pursuing any suspects, nor do they believe there is a risk to public safety, related to this incident.

The Coroner and CCSO is working to identify the bodies and notify next of kin. On May 24, autopsies were performed on both bodies. The autopsy did not reveal any trauma or fatal injuries.

The Deputy Coroner said further tests and analysis need to be completed to determine a cause of death. That could take up to 10 weeks. Positive identification of the deceased could take two weeks or more.

Mother of the Year celebrated at CHS

By MIKAILA WILKERSON
Staff Writer

High school students took to the stage in the Cashmere High School community center on Monday, May 8 to celebrate their mothers in the school's Mother's Tea Night.

This special event was a pre-Mother's Day annual celebration in which students could share how much they've learned from their mothers and how their lives have been shaped by them.

Before taking the stage, students took part in enjoying tea and delicious treats with their mothers at beautifully decorated tables.

At the center of those tables were small bowls containing goldfish that one lucky person from each table got to take home with them.

The snacks provided that evening included fruit, chips and dip, deserts and ceviche.

After indulging in the sweets and food, the students gathered onstage to begin their speeches.

"The very best thing that I ever learned from my mother is how to be selfless and how to laugh when I really, really want to cry," Bethany Wagner said about her mom, Lynette Wagner, as she stood on stage at the mic.

Rebekah Acton came up next to speak about her mother, Natalie Acton.

"The best thing I've learned from my mom is how to look for the good in every situation and person no matter what," Acton said.

Other speeches included how kids felt that their mothers taught them how to love others, how to be respectful and to never give up.

The Mother of the Year award was also given out that evening after the students all spoke.

Essays written by seniors pertaining to their mothers were read out loud and one was selected as the top best essay.

The mother of the student whose essay was the best would receive the Mother of the Year award.

"Seniors are encouraged to write an essay or a letter to, or about, their mom and what makes them Mother of the Year," Speaker Rebecca Swanson said.

"Forty of the seniors opted to do it this year, which, in my ten years of doing this, is a new record."

Swanson had the honor of reading the top three essays that were picked and announced the recipient of Mother of the Year award after.

"Even though I think you're all deserving, the tradition stands that the top three are read," Swanson said to all the students' mothers in the audience.

Armando Estrada, Rebekah Acton and Jacob Dotson were the top three students chosen to have their essays read aloud.

At the end of it all, Senior Jacob Dotson's essay was selected.

Dotson's mother, Farrah Dotson, who is a Vale Teacher, was named Mother of the Year.

"Thank you for entrusting Cashmere High School with your students day in and day out," Swanson said to all of the parents in attendance. "They really are a joy and a pleasure to work with and spend time with."

New local response plans help Washington communities prepare for train, pipeline oil spills

SUBMITTED BY SANDY HOWARD

New oil spill response plans from the Washington Department of Ecology will address the increasing chance of oil spills along train routes in central and eastern Washington.

Six out of 11 new draft plans released for the public to review will cover areas on the east side of the mountains along oil train routes. Five plans in western Washington will address potential spills from pipelines and railroads.

The new "geographic response" take the guesswork out of the response during the first 12 hours of the spill. They signal where to place oil containment equipment and which agencies and governments to notify. They identify specific actions that can be taken locally to protect bird and fish habitat, wetlands, water intakes, fishing areas, fish hatcheries, boating areas and public parks and beaches, and cultural resources like petroglyphs, ancient tools and fish weirs.

The plans are part of a larger effort that guides a coordinated response to oil spills in Washington, Oregon and Idaho, according to Dale Jensen, who manages Ecology's Spills Program.

Lame-stream media still focused on fake news

With over 30 years in the news business it is clear to me that most journalists today do not understand their role in the traditional American system. I am not sure exactly where they went astray but they have clearly lost their way.

BILL FORHAN
PUBLISHER

It is not the responsibility of the media to make or break a President or a particular political party. It is their job to accurately report on the issues of the day.

Accurate means complete. The problem often isn't that the stories are factually inaccurate. The problem is that they are often incomplete or ripe with personal opinion and as a result convey a message that is inaccurate or leaves the listener or reader with a false impression.

For example, this last week the President was on a tour around the world to convey his message that things have changed in Washington D.C.

The President was often direct in his remarks to allies and foreign leaders but the majority of the media found it important to describe his remarks as rude or out of place. But the most ridiculous reporting came when they couldn't resist the opportunity to suggest there was growing discord between the President and First Lady because it appeared she "slapped his hand away" as they approached the plane.

Are you kidding me? Really? There were important foreign relations issues being confronted by the President and yet the media found a possible marital spat more important than reporting on the President's message to foreign leaders.

NPR lead off their report this way, "President Trump has had, according to the White House, a successful maiden trip outside the U.S. But the bad news is he has to come home. Back in Washington, the ongoing Russia investigations await him along with another appeals court setback for his travel ban." A fine piece of objective journalism there.

CNN couldn't resist describing President's trip to Saudi Arabia this way, "Any concern about an uneasy touch-down abroad disappeared quickly. Welcomed with horse parades, draped with a gold medal and lured into a male-only sword dance, Trump had finally found a country to treat him like a king, if only for a weekend."

It would seem that none of the national media can report on the new President without finding some way to belittle his activities or more importantly try to understand and clarify his position.

President Trump told the Muslim world that they needed to rid their countries of radical Islamic terrorists. He told our NATO allies that they needed to start paying their bill for their own defense. It is no longer going to be acceptable for them to leave it up to the American taxpayer. And he told the leftist European leaders that he was not going to sign the Paris Climate accords. These are substantial changes in American foreign policy that need some honest and direct reporting.

Unfortunately, reporting on these issues would illustrate how horribly ignorant the media is on substantive issues. They have sold out objective reporting on issues like climate change, capitalism and civil rights in favor of multiculturalism, open borders and pseudoscience.

To address the issues raised by President Trump these reporters would actually have to do some serious research on how far behind our "allies" are in their debt to the American taxpayer. And, they might actually have to look into why the President is questioning the climate change hoax - oh, excuse me the consensus position that we are killing the planet. A position that the media has been promoting for decades so now they would have to admit that maybe they have been wrong?

One thing did seem to be consistent across all of their reporting. They were upset that Trump did not hold a press conference during his trip. But why would he?

Anything he says gets twisted into some negative review of his administration.

And the news of the Russian controversy goes on, and on. No evidence has been found. Those closest to the issue have declared there is no evidence but the sensational press just cannot let it go. They ignore real news to interview every discredited and dismissed has been bureaucrat trying to find a sound bite to keep the non-story alive.

It's time to turn off your TV news.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Laughable conclusions

I had to laugh at Buford Howell's (Capt. USN, retired) letter to the editor in the Wenatchee World on 17 May. Taking his "facts" from the Washington Post, the good Captain rails against our President's "leaking" of secrets to the Russians, telling us that it "could" rise to the level of treason! And while he's certainly entitled to his opinion, it's sad that someone who rose to the rank of Captain so willingly would jump at something printed in the Washington Post as gospel; not withstanding the statements by our National Security Adviser, H. R. McMaster, that the Post story is (surprise surprise!!!) rubbish. The Post has never published anything positive about this president. No - the paper is unabashedly anti-Trump, and will print anything that could possibly portray him in a bad light. However, I rather think that the National Security Adviser has a better handle on what was said, and how, than some hit piece printed by the Post. He certainly knows more about it than Mr. Howell.

Fox News hypocrisy

Talk about the "Elephant in the room"! Unless you watch Fox news, just Fox news, and nothing but Fox news, you have no doubt heard about Bill O'Reilly's sexual harassment lawsuit. Fox news stands mute on the subject, and especially their boy Bill. CNN, MSNBC, Local news and RT consider it to be newsworthy.

It even made it on Saturday Nite Live! I watch Mr. O'Reilly all the time. He and Fox news did not hesitate to call out Bill Cosby. Talk about hypocrisy!

How many times have I heard Mr. Bill call out the other news venues when they totally ignore or marginalize what he and Fox considers to be "breaking news".

Mr. Bill always makes sure his audience knows he gives a lot to charity. My first treatment center pointed that out to be some kind of personality defect. Virtue being it's own reward so to speak.

So one can only surmise that he and Fox gave his accusers millions of dollars because he felt sorry for them. The truly sad part is that his popularity and ratings will no doubt continue on. His "sheeple" will call anything they see, hear or read "Fake News". They may even think the Fox show "outnumbered" and refers to the one man, four women concept. Anyone who pays attention can plainly see it's about four "Righties, (or Five)" and sometimes one "Leftie" Fair and Balanced? You tell me.

With Dennis Miller, Waters World and Gunfield and McGurik, I don't know why Big Bad Bill isn't on the comedy channel. It makes you wonder who is the "straight man" on the fours or why you can get dizzy watching the "No Spin Zone".

Health Insurance Should Not be Market Based

Our Congressman, Dan Newhouse, has repeatedly advocated for "market-based health insurance," promising that for-profit health insurance companies will deliver on the goals of less expensive, higher quality, and more available healthcare in the U.S. He is not alone in pushing this mantra. No evidence is provided to support their infatuation with market-based health insurance. On the contrary, there is a great deal of evidence to suggest that market-based health insurance provides very expensive, lower quality healthcare.

The majority of health insurance issued in the U.S.

since World War II has been issued by market-based health insurance companies. It has performed poorly, based on comparisons with other industrialized countries, which generally do not rely on an unregulated market. Americans pay much more for health care (including premiums, out of pocket expenses, deductibles, employer contributions and taxes), twice as much as other industrialized countries, and get much less. Compared with 34 other industrialized countries, the U.S. ranks 26th in life expectancy, and 31st in infant mortality. Only Chile, Mexico, Turkey and the U.S. don't have universal healthcare. Illness and medical bills are the leading cause of individual bankruptcy in the U.S.

We should look at our own experience with non-market based health insurance (i.e. Medicare) and how other countries provide better and less expensive insurance for all citizens. I don't know about you, but I would prefer to get my health insurance from a system whose primary goal is not to make a profit, but to provide a service.

Publisher's an idiot

What an ignorant "publisher" you have. I love how he blames calls impeachment discussions for "making a mockery of our election process" as if Trump didn't already do that with his campaign tactics, personal/work BS, and Twitter activity or that the calls for impeachment are because he won in general and not for the anti-American and unconstitutional bullshit his team did to win and continue to do or attempt daily. I get it that everyone is entitled to an opinion but come on, this is the type of clueless and reality ignoring buffoon you honestly have pumping out your editorials? I can't even say shame on him but rather, shame on you all for standing behind such a lacking in class character.

"Geographic response plans build on our focus to prevent oil spills to water and land and are part of our up-front planning that helps us deliver a rapid, aggressive and well-coordinated response to oil and hazardous substance spills wherever they occur," he said.

For decades, Ecology has prepared similar response plans for Puget Sound and other marine waters to ensure the state is ready for an accident involving tanker ships and refineries. The work has expanded due to the increasing amount of oil entering our state by railroads and pipelines.

The 11 new plans and their coverage areas, Lower Yakima River, Palouse, Puyallup-White Rivers, Stillaguamish Sumas, Upper Columbia River, Upper Green River, Upper Yakima River, Warden, Deschutes and Wenatchee River, 332 square miles in Chelan County. You can find the Wenatchee River plan online at ftp://ecy.wa.gov/spills/GRPs/Draft%20Documents/WENA-GRP_DRAFT.pdf. Ecology plans to publish the 11 plans at the end of June along with plans for three additional new areas that were completed earlier this year, bringing the total number of geographic response plans in Washington to 41. The expansion of the plans in the state is a result of the 2015 Oil Transportation Safety Act, and highlights the state's efforts to protect people and the environment from new oil spill risks.

Ecology is accepting comments on the plans until 5 p.m., June 15. Find out more online at ecy.wa.gov/programs/spills/about_us/PublicComment.html.

Forgotten Treasures

Every couple of weeks I take time to visit our community's local retirement home and convalescent center and every time I leave I come away with more of an appreciation of the older generation. Men and women, many of whom are in the late 80s and 90s so eager to share their experiences and the lessons they have learned, and yet so very few that would take time to listen. It is unfortunate that the older generation has become all but forgotten, and the treasure of their wisdom is slipping right through our fingertips.

A WALK WITH PASTOR JOHN SMITH

Time was simpler back in their day. People were not rushing around to get somewhere or incessantly glued to screens. People communicated by letter and if it was available by a phone line, they were not as we are today, continually plugged in to several forms of communication, which I think makes us take relating to someone for granted, or near impossible.

Life wasn't easy back then. You had to work for your food, you had to go without and make sacrifices. Family was important, church was too. Lessons were taught at times, behind the tool shed and that's when you knew the consequences of boredom.

Perhaps I am just feeling nostalgic and could be accused of romanticizing life back then. However, listening to the stories of what the elder generation shares with me, I see that as a young millennial, I have so much to learn.

That is precisely why the Bible calls the younger generation to respect and to revere the elderly. Leviticus 19:32 says "You shall rise up before the gray headed and honor the aged..." Those who have walked this life before us, those of whom we would consider the elderly deserve our respect and our listening ears.

Scores of the elderly live a life that is forgotten by the majority. But why? Is it because we feel that if someone is older that they cannot keep up with the fast paced world of today? Or is it that their somewhat colloquial and anachronistic ways just don't seem to fit with our more progressive, more refined and more modern sensibilities?

To be frank, the issue is not with them, it's with us, and the problem is pride. We believe that we know more than the older generation. We believe that the older generation is irrelevant, because we have Google and the speed of our society is too fast for us to slow down to wait for the older generation to catch up. So we leave them behind, and in the process leave the wealth of knowledge and experience that is in such short supply today.

Ageism takes on many shapes and forms but it is always rooted in pride. Like the stereotypical scenario of a teenager who thinks they know more than their parents, we too have the same attitude when it comes to the elderly. However wisdom and understanding come from a life long lived, (Job. 12:12) and as I said before, this treasure trove is sorely being neglected and we are suffering because of it.

Think about it for moment. How many of us have really sat down and sought wisdom from the older generation? How many have taken the time to glean from the experiences that our elders have endured? Yes, there are differences between generational experiences, but the there is nothing new under the sun, (Ecc. 1:9) and much of the older generation has been there and done that when it comes to life.

Because of the wealth of knowledge and experience that the older generation possesses, I have been so blessed to pastor a church with a large percentage of them of being much older than I am. Hearing their stories and experiences, learning from their wisdom, has been so beneficial to me that I can hardly express it into words. So the next time when you are in need of wisdom, don't forsake the elderly among us. Talk with them, learn from them, because they are so eager to share the wisdom they have been entrusted with.

Bulldogs baseball places 4th in Final Four

The Cashmere baseball boys clung to their 4th place trophy as their game against the Freeman Scotties in the 3rd/4th place game in the 1A Final Four came to an end on Saturday, May 27.

Before facing off against the Scotties, Cashmere lost to the King's Way Christian Knights at Yakima County Stadium on Friday, May 26 during the 1A State Semifinals.

Cashmere vs. King's Way:

Within the semifinal, Cashmere struck first in the bottom of the 2nd inning.

Hudson White, a Junior Shortstop, got a RBI double into left field to help Garrett Tarver (1-3, R) give the Bulldogs an early 1-0 lead.

White was 3 for 3 and had 3 doubles (2 RBI, R) while single handedly keeping Cashmere in the game.

After five innings the Bulldogs led the game 2-1.

"I'm really proud of the way our guys competed all weekend long," Coach Jeff Carlson said. "We played some very quality opponents."

Jay Lightfoot added in a suicide squeeze bunt to the score White in at the bottom of the 5th inning.

The Knights took the lead 4-2 at the bottom half of the 6th inning when the Bulldogs started experiencing some difficulties.

Tyler Chipman (5.1 IP, ER, 4R, 8K, 3H, 4BB) walked the Knights' lead-off batter and got another walk afterwards.

A dropped fly ball in the outfield also added to the trouble that the Bulldogs were up against.

After 103 pitches, Chipman was off of the mound and Junior Garrett Tarver (0.2 IP, 2H, 0R) took over for him.

Chipman, who's got the most career pitching wins in Cashmere's school history, broke the 1999 season record for most strikeouts in a season.

White added in his 3rd double of the day to score Kross Knoll to get Cashmere a run going into the 7th inning.

Senior Tanner Van Lith (1IP, 0H, K, 0R, BB) pitched a scoreless 7th inning to try and help the team out.

But King's Way brought Damon Casetta-Stubbs, a Seattle University commit, in to end the game in the 7th inning.

Both King's Way and Cashmere had five hits with Cashmere committing three defensive errors that led to unearned runs.

In the end, King's Way walked away with the final score of 4-3.

Cashmere vs. the Freeman Scotties:

In what was being called the 1A Public School State Championship Game, the Cashmere Bulldogs found themselves facing off against the Freeman Scotties on Saturday, May 27.

According to Carlson, the loss to King's Way the day earlier had been a very emotional loss for the boys.

"Our team showed a lot of character, getting back in the game after falling behind early," Coach Carlson said.

Senior Tanner Van Lith (3.1 IP, ER, 7H, 5R, 4K, 2BB) pitched for 3+ innings and allowed only one run.

After a couple of crucial errors led to a three run 3rd inning for the Scotties, the Bulldogs trailed 5-0 after the top of the 4th inning.

Cashmere came back by scoring two runs in the 4th inning and scoring a run in the 5th inning on a RBI single by Van Lith (1 for 3, RBD).

Junior Garrett Tarver (3.2 IP, 0H, 0R, 4K, BB) was excellent relief for Van Lith.

Tarver tossed 3.2 innings of no-hit baseball, struck out four Scotties and allowed just one walk.

Tyler Chipman was 1 for 2 with a double and a run scored.

With a team high .422 batting average, Chipman (CTL Player of the Year) finished his junior season.

Senior Nick Morrison had a base hit and stole a base in his final game.

With the final score of 5-3 the Bulldogs fell to the Scotties and placed 4th in the 1A level at State.

"I'm just real happy with the competitive spirit that they had today," Coach Carlson said. "(They're) playing for the seniors on this team who are playing their last game in a Bulldog uniform and I'm proud of the fight that we showed."

Ending the season with a 22-4 record, Cashmere is graduating four seniors this year: Jay Lightfoot, Tanner Van Lith, Nick Morrison and Spencer Brown.

"We had a great season," Coach Carlson said. "I'm just real proud of our seniors- the leaders of this team, and also excited for the younger guys that we have in our program that have a goal of getting back here next year."

Carlson reflected with happiness and pride on the season and how far the team has come.

"There were a lot of good things today," Carlson said. "These guys will think about the errors and the bad things that occurred, but there were a lot of bright spots today, too... There are a lot of teams that wish they were here playing in the Final Four and that's something we can hang our hat on."

CHS tennis athletes pass racquet to middle school kids

Cashmere Middle School kids participated in the first 3-day middle school tennis camp that was hosted by the high school varsity team Monday, May 22 through Wednesday, May 24.

By MIKAILA WILKERSON

Staff Writer

Enthusiastic cheers rang through the air as middle school children joined high school students on the tennis court for the first middle school tennis camp hosted by the high school tennis team.

Around 26 kids showed up for the 3-day tennis camp, which was coached by varsity team players.

The camp was held Monday, May 22 through Wednesday, May 24 during after-school hours and was meant to give the younger kids the basic knowledge of tennis.

"It's just a way to build the program by getting youth players into tennis right before summer," Cashmere High School Tennis Coach Trevor Kert said.

Kert got the idea of providing such a camp for younger kids when a Cascade Kodiaks tennis coach held a similar one in the past.

According to Kert the attendance of the middle school students was very steady, with the same 26 kids coming each day the camp took place.

"It was very consistent," Kert said. "Great attendance."

Because the varsity players were the camp's coaches, Kert felt that all of the varsity players involved also gained great experience from this.

"The varsity kids learn (more) because they actually have to teach it," Kert said. "I think it's good for them to have to demonstrate."

The younger kids were taught top spin and correct form among various other techniques through the older players.

"They got a basic introduction into forehands, backhands, serves and volleys," Kert said.

The kids also got to participate in various exercises and games that allowed them to practice their hand-eye coordination.

"Maybe we'll get some of them to go out and hit this summer," Kert said.

On Wednesday, May 24 the middle school players got to play in a few doubles matches against other kids for even more experience.

"With the varsity kids it was fun to see them have fun with the younger kids and use what they've been learning to teach others," Kert said.

Opening the Blewett Pass route to Wenatchee

With the coming of the automobile into wide use, an entire change of attitude was visible. From the federal level to the state and finally the county, it no longer seemed the local taxpayers were to pay for the highways across their county's lands, but that in a durable form, to give permanency and with bridges spanning streams roads were to become a treasure.

By 1910, Washington state informed county commissioners that any mileage later was to be combined into the state system must be 60 feet wide. By legislative act, the route down Peshastin Creek to Wenatchee had become part of State Road 7. Any grade more than 5 percent must be cut down. This state road was to connect Seattle to a spot on the Idaho line. There were, until 1906, no funds for maintenance put out by the state, now it was to take over, the expense from the county. Eventually, town streets that were a part of the state route were allowed $500 per mile for paving.

Added to this the money, the federal department channelled into the Blewett road, a vexing problem was about to be removed. A local good roads unit was pushing to put a full-time workman on to remove rocks and trees from the road, fill chuck holes, etc. So successful did this prove that two were engaged. The purchase of a truck for road needs was considered.

Although cutting down the mountain road from Ingalls Creek to the old mining camp at Blewett was outside the federal funds, a camp of workmen whittling away a water grade route was set up once the snow had closed the pass and blasting could be done.

Most of the $8,000 of federal funds was spent in new roads so that the old route was still open for tourists during the work cutting down the steep summit.

These freighting vehicles still travelled Blewett Pass but the numbers were being diminished by auto tracks by 1916. The first commercial use for the new conveyances was reported when lumber to make fruit boxes was sent over the route from a Kittitas saw mill.

While this improvement went on, an announcement that seemed a threat to all the good work was carried in big city news sheet. The Colville Indian reservation was to be opened for white ownership. To settle who was to own its parcels, a drawing was to be made in key cities. Wenatchee was one of these. For safety, this one lane trace had to be safeguarded. Commissioners agreed to halt traffic over the Ingalls Creek Blewett mining camp stretch with northbound cars using it exclusively for one hour, then halted and the south bound traffic allowed its turn. Between July 5 and 31, 4,720 land hungry individuals registered at Wenatchee with well over half coming from distant points to do so.

Keeping track of traffic on the roadway for the six months when it was open, 5,886 automobiles led the list, which then drops to only 42 trucks in this period, 153 motorcycles, 181 wagons, plus 80 buggies and 17 bicycles. Yet this was not the entire picture. Four and six horse teams, cattle, horsemen, pack horses and loose futher North cattle were listed as well. If this was a prophecy of the route's future, it certainly came true after the year of 1916.

In years to come, when Blewett was made part of the state Sunset Highway route, the widening and oiling and later placing a permanent coat on it, improved it.

During the first year of federal assistance plus matching funds for Chelan and Kittitas Counties, four miles of new road were completed and four more begun. The deep snow winter of 1916 was hard on the work and broke down bridges in places. Our entry into World War I kept reports on work out of the papers. By 1919, construction was continuing.

During this 1914-1919 period, a second Cascade highway was also boosted. This was called a scenic route. If completed, it was to go by way of North Road to Chumstick Valley then to Lake Wenatchee to Winton and as some suggested, travel the abandoned railroad switchbacks to the coast side. This meant a much shorter, more convenient trip to Seattle for local folks and tourists from the Puget Sound area visiting us. Snoqualmie had been closed much of the year. Avalanche prone, muddy, etc. It was in top condition only late in the summer until winter set in. Locals were urged to join in and support a new highway further North paralleling the railroad. The big bond issue comes next.

Weeds Cafe, which was one of the participating restaurants in the recent FCCLA Taste of Cashmere fundraiser, has been selected for the Best of Taste of Cashmere 2017 Award.

This award is for the cafe's tomato basil soup and grilled cheese sandwiches.

Rebecca Swanson, the FCCLA advisor, expressed her gratitude towards Weeds Cafe owner, Weedman, and other restaurant participants for all of the donated food that helped make this fundraiser a great success.

The Taste of Cashmere fundraiser was put on in order to raise money for FCCLA's upcoming Nationals Convention, which will be taking place in July in Nashville, Tennessee.

"It was a beautiful evening, perfect weather and a great community event," Swanson said.

Each restaurant that was a part of Taste of Cashmere provided tastings of their food to the fundraiser's attendees who went into the individual locations.

According to Swanson, there were 99 tickets sold through both the Chamber of Commerce and the high school.

"Super great idea," one attendee stated on a comment card. "(It's) fun to visit with people downtown and support FCCLA and local businesses."

The event's attendees all exchanged their ticket for a lanyard with a map and ticket for each stop on the walk from the Chamber office Friday afternoon Swanson said.

There were two FCCLA members, who all had their food worker permits, stationed at each participating restaurant to serve food and clean up.

"Thanks to all of the businesses," Another anonymous commenter said. "The students were professional and provided great service. Awesome event."

Other participating restaurants, and their tastings, included Flying Pig Pizza (slice of pizza), Hometown Market (Chester's chicken and jo joss), Brian's Pizza (slice of pizza), Agave Azul (crispy beef or chicken taco w/ rice/beans), Sure to Rise Bakery (cookie) and Club Crow (tri-tip w/au jus and chili).

Great event- will do it again next year, was a common comment heard about town.

Murder trial

County Sheriff cold case investigators.

Per statute, "a trial by jury requires a date for a pre-trial conference. The purpose of said conference is for presentation of motions, completion of plea bargaining, and to set a trial date and readiness hearing. Discovery shall be provided to the party requesting same at least two (2) working days prior to said conference. Unless the pre-trial conference is continued to another date or the case is resolved at the hearing, the Clerk will set a jury trial and readiness hearing. If the right to jury trial is waived, however, the Clerk shall set a bench trial date and no readiness hearing is required."

Chelan County Sheriff's Office Detective Josh Mathena started working on the 1982 Stephen E. Smith disappearance case on Jan. 5 this year. After reviewing the case file, interviewing new and old witnesses, by March 5, Mathena had elicited a confession from Smith's ex-wife, Dawn Soles of Leavenworth, that Smith was indeed killed by her then husband Bernard Swaim.

On July 18, 1982, Stephen's sister, Gail Lee, reported to the Chelan County Sheriff's Office that she had not seen or heard from Stephen for several days. He had been living on N. Douglas St. in Cashmere.

Lee reported Smith had been having family problems with his ex-wife, Soles, who had later married Bernard Swaim. According to the affidavit, the dispute involved their 2-year old daughter, Crystal. At the time, Stephen Smith had full custody of Crystal, while Dawn could only visit one weekend a month, under supervision.

Lee also reported that Smith's car had been located off Dead Man's Hill Road in Cashmere. Deputies checked out the vehicle but found nothing suspicious. On Feb. 2, this year Methena and Sergeant Jeff Middleton contacted Swaim at his residence in Sultan. Swaim said he knew why they wanted to talk to him, because of some "crazy" Facebook posts regarding his possible involvement in the Stephen Smith missing person case.

Swaim told deputies he did not know Smith well and had only been in his house one time. He did remember a time in 1982 when he and Dawn arrived in Cashmere to pick up Crystal, when they stayed at the Dryden Cottage Motel. Mathena found it interesting his memory was so clear on this day 34 years ago.

Swaim continued to maintain his innocence. On Feb. 16 Mathena, Middleton and Sergeant Bruce Long interview Dawn Soles in Leavenworth. When asked about July, 1982, Soles admitted to being in Cashmere with Swaim.

She gave specific details on the last time she saw Smith. Soles claimed they were staying in the Cashmere Village Inn. Soles said she picked up Crystal and spent time with her. When she tried to drop Crystal off, Smith was not home, Soles said, but Weldon was. Not wanting to leave Crystal with Weldon, Soles said she left for Seattle.

Swaim and Soles have been incarcerated since February awaiting trial.

Keep reading the Cashmere Valley Record for follow up articles on this major news event. At this time the trial is set to begin Tuesday, June 20.
