new addition to the Bridgeport Municipal Code (BMC) will help city officials initiate some remedial action against the growing number of non-working vehicles parked on properties within the city limits.

The new ordinance limits junk vehicles to one per prop-

Alta Anglers gather for 60th year of family fun and fishing

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

PATEROS – A family tradition that began six decades ago with a fishing trip to Alta Lake will observe its 60th consecutive gathering at the popular park and fishery on the opening day of fishing season on Saturday, April 28.

An outing that began with Rod Anderson and his three sons from Kirkland, along with a friend and his son in 1959 has now expanded into the third generation of participants with between 150 and 200 attendees at the annual Alta retreat. Anderson discovered Alta Lake in 1957 while picking apples in the area as a young man. Anderson returned in 1959 with his sons, Chris, then 10 years old, Tom, eight, and Steve, six. Fishing buddy

OCEM Manager Goodall addresses Pateros City Council

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

PATEROS – Maurice Goodall, manager of Okanogan County Emergency Management (OCEM) was the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the city Council on Monday, April 16. Goodall explained the role of OCEM and how the organization is funded.

Goodall reviewed the county's current effort to update its Hazardous Condition Plan and how that will relate to individual cities.

"We want you to stand alone," said Goodall. "We want you to be able to have your ideas of what you see within your city that is an issue that needs to be listed in this plan; what kind of hazards do you have."

Goodall said the Hazard Mitigation Plan will be combined with the Wildfire Protection Plan rather than leave them as two separate plans.

Goodall said the county is responding to slides and mudflows in various locations including Highway 20 in the Seven Devils area and Salmon Creek caused by recent rainfall from one-half inch to 1.5 inches in a 24-hour period.

Mayor Carlene Anders asked Goodall for an update on the emergency phone system.

Goodall said the Okanogan County Alert System was already in place when he assumed his position with OCEM.

"We used it extensively and there's a lot we can expand on," said Goodall.

After working with the network Goodall discovered that many of the 5,000 people who signed up for the emergency notifications did not complete the verification process required to receive alerts.

"We're cleaning up the service and upgrading it," said Goodall "We're really going to be pushing out to the media to try to get people to opt into our system as well as clean up their accounts."

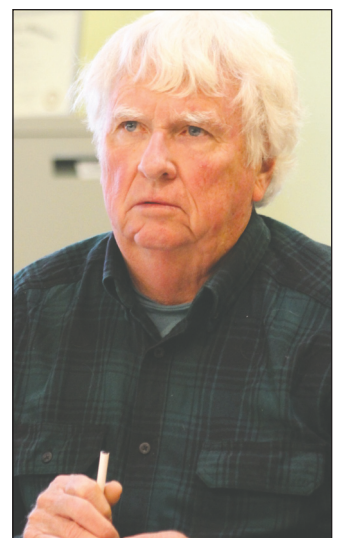

When completed Goodall said OCEM will be sending out twice yearly messages to confirm that people on the system are receiving notifications.

In other business council members voted to allow tent camping in Memorial Park and at the winter boat launch for the annual hydro races scheduled for August 18-19 this year.

Race spokesman Tom Hamilton was asked how many boats are expected for the races and advised that between 40 and 50 turn out for the event. Hamilton said that figure usually included three to four people per boat together with their vehicles and support gear.

Council member George Brady who serves on the Solid Waste and Recycling Committee and is a representative on the county Solid Waste Advisory Committee (SWAC) reported that the county is proposing a $10-per-ton rate increase for items coming into the landfill.

Council member George Brady

"This is the first increase in 23 years," Brady said.

Following the 2014 Carlton Complex wildfire the council approved an exemption to city code to allow property owners to live in temporary housing on their property for two years while homes were rebuilt.

"There have been quite a few calls," said Anders. "Three different property owners have asked permission to live on their property as they build new homes."

Council members approved a waiver to allow an additional year of temporary housing provided the occupants purchase a building permit and be hooked up to city utilities.

Council also authorized city engineer Varela and Associates to proceed with the bidding process to construct well house No. 3 at the Pearl Street-Warren Avenue site.

erty that cannot be seen from an adjacent property.

Council member Phil Lee, who serves on the council's junk vehicle committee estimates that the new guidelines will affect "30 or more sites" where more than one non-working vehicle is parked.

After postponing action at the March meeting, council members voted to approve the ordinance presented to them several months ago by Mayor Janet Conklin, who had helped draft the measure with assistance from the city attorney and code enforcement official.

"I have been working on a solution to junk vehicles for three years," Conklin said.

While a couple council members remain unsatisfied with the ordinance as it stands, Conklin suggested that they city attorney might be invited to attend a workshop at a later date to fine-tune the details. In the meantime, the new ordinance is just the first step in a process that could prove to be arduous where enforcement is concerned.

Scrap metal prices are down sharply from a high of about $300 to $30 currently, according to sources in the industry. In addition to pickup costs and the title acquisition process, storage space is shrinking for dealers who must store vehicles while they await more favorable prices.

Dawn Davies of the Wenatchee Valley Humane Society (WVHS) was a guest speaker at the council meeting. Davies discussed options to help Bridgeport officials deal with unlicensed and unneutered dogs running loose within city limits, a growing problem for residents.

One proposal involved a $25 voucher that a dog owner could purchase at city hall and apply toward neutering costs at the Brewster Veterinary Clinic. The clinic would credit the voucher and bill WVHS for the difference.

Conklin said the council is looking at other options to raise the awareness level of nuisance dogs, including education projects in the local schools.

"One of the problems we have is that most people don't even read the information that is posted, sent or given to them," Conklin said.

The mayor added that while it is one thing to approve an ordinance to address junk vehicles or nuisance dogs, enforcement comes with costs that the city is hard-pressed to cover.

While the council continues to discuss options for better dog control, members did approve residents to have chickens within city limits but stressed that doing so is by permit only. The permit application allows for inspection for such requirements as adequate property size, approved containment facilities, and related items.

OCLTRG welcomes fifth AmeriCorps NCCC team of volunteers

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

PATEROS – For the fifth time since the record wildfires of 2014-15, a group of volunteers with the National Civilian Community Corps (NCCC) AmeriCorps is serving part of its 10-month tour working with the Okanogan County Long Term Recovery Group (OCLTRG).

Green 3, an 11-member team of AmeriCorps NCCC volunteers arrived last Tuesday, April 17, to begin three months of work on a variety of projects around the county to help rebuild homes and properties of victims of wildfire and flood damage.

“This town has some of the sweetest and most grateful people I have ever met,” said Green 3 Team Leader Maddy Walinchus of the Pateros residents she has encountered. “You can tell that the community has been through a lot, and despite their recent tragedies they are still a very happy and welcoming community.”

Green 3 spent its first three-month deployment in Houston a few months following the devastation of Hurricane Harvey. Its next stop was Great Falls, Mont., where team members worked with underprivileged residents there.

AmeriCorps NCCC is part of the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS) created in 1993 under the administration of President George H.W. Bush. CNCS merged the staff and mission of two previous agencies, ACTION and the Commission on National and Community Service. The new agency manages three primary programs, AmeriCorps, which combined Dick Dahl and son Rich, also eight, comprised the original six that began the continuing tradition. Of those original six, only Tom, now 67, and Rich Dahl, are still living.

“We grew up and moved away,” said Anderson. “But wherever we are, we fly in for Alta.”

“Members now come in from all over Washington but also from Phoenix, Dallas, San Diego, and even New Zealand to attend the event,” said Meryl Lipman, Communications Consultant with Washington State Parks. “

“My older brother passed in 2003,” said Anderson, “but five of his friends will be at this one.”

As a testament to the Alta Anglers’ dedication, the group returned to the lake in 2015, just months following the 2014 Carlton Complex wildfire that consumed homes, the golf resort, and facilities, including picnic tables.

“I had seen pictures of the devastation; homes burned along the course,” said Anderson. “Most of us camped in the loop where the hookup sites are near the entryway where the fire didn’t burn.”

The Pateros High School FFA chapter has devoted the years since the wildfire to rebuilding the picnic tables destroyed in the fire.

Sharon Soelter, Alta Lake’s ranger for the past 10 years said such loyal and long-term traditions tend to blossom in state parks.

“Most state parks pride themselves on their wholesome vibe,” said Soelter. “Kids can run around and be themselves, groups cook and picnic together and campgrounds are neighborly. It’s a great tradition to start, continue and hand down to the next generation.”

While there is something for everyone who attends, the main activities now include a golf tournament at nearby Alta Lake Golf Resort, complete with awards banquet, bonfires and barbecues, horseback riding out of Whistling Pines Resort at the south end of the lake, shopping at cities around the area, and reminiscing.

“We had a kid’s fishing derby that began in 1998 and ran for five or six years until the kids got older,” said Anderson. “We also print t-shirts with a different design every year.”

Anderson added that one member of the group designed a different bumper sticker for every outing over a 40-year period.

“The Park Service told me they would like to have copies of those,” Anderson said.

The awards banquet, celebrating its 30th year this weekend, started out at the Whistling Pines Resort and then moved to the American Legion Columbia Post 97 Hall in 2003 at the suggestion of Legion member Roger Curry, a former Kirkland resident and Alta Anglers participant who had an orchard in Brewster.

This year, the group has opted to hold the event on site at the lake’s day use area.

For Anderson, one poignant memory resonates. “There was a year I brought my dad, the original Alta Anglers, back to the lake after he’s had a stroke,” said Anderson, of his late father. “It was bittersweet.”

However, commenting on what his father, Rod, who passed in 1997, would think of how the Alta Anglers have persevered and expanded since. Anderson said, “He would be tickled pink.”

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

My view of hypocrisy and mendacious irony

1. The Russia collusion delusion illusion targeting president Trump with ZERO evidence after 20 months by democrat prosecutors and ignoring the many obvious felonies committed by the Obama and Clinton administrations.

2. Hypocrisy is democrat politicians and Hollywood types calling for gun control while being surrounded by gun toting security details.

3. When I grew up there were guns every where and nobody got shot. It's not about gun control, it is about people who are not taught the value of life and respect for laws. Control the crook & nut, not the gun.

4. Stop blaming white people for your own bad choices.

5. If gun control worked, Chicago would be murder free. Chicago has the strictest gun control laws and the highest gun murder rates in the country.

6. When JFK was murdered nobody blamed the rifle.

7. The 2nd amendment wasn't intended to guarantee your safety or provide hunting opportunities, it was intended to guarantee your ability to fight back against attackers and a future tyrannical government.

8. The 2nd amendment makes more women equal than liberals and the entire feminist movement ever did.

9. Illegal aliens say they are Americans, just not legally, and bank robbers get money, just not legally.

10. You don't need a smoke detector, that's what the fire department is for. If you think that sounds stupid, now you know how I feel when you say I don't need a gun and plenty of ammunition to defend myself.

11. Eleven teenagers die every day in car accidents caused by texting while driving, maybe it's time to raise the age to 21 to own a smartphone or ban smartphones and cars. About 40,000 people die in car accidents every year, why do liberals not call for "car control" ?

12. 90% of college students approved when asked if they want socialism, but opposed the idea when asked if they want their money redistributed to other people who didn't earn it. DUH !

13. I have no problem with vigorous background checks on gun purchases, while we are at it lets do the same for immigration and voter ID.

14. Many liberals keep talking about another civil war against conservative values when one side has millions of guns and trillions of bullets and the will to defend themselves and the other side doesn't know which bathroom to use or what gender they are. This would be a quick fight.

15. Legal gun owners have about 300 million guns and about a trillion rounds of ammunition. Seriously guys, if we were the problem you would know it.

16. The NRA murders ZERO people, receives ZERO government $$, Planned Parenthood kills 300,000 babies every year and gets $500,000,00 of our tax dollars annually for this mass murder of human babies.

17. Liberals demand gun control after every shooting, but they never demand border control after every rape and murder by illegal immigrants - WHY ?

18. Why do the liberals in government want to ban semi automatic rifles ? Because they know that you won't willingly get into the boxcars enroute to the concentration camps.

19. Liberals - aka socialists, progressives and communists believe owning a gun is a sign of mental illness, but believe men dressing as women and using women's bathrooms is normal behavior.....DUH !

Liberalism, socialism, progressivism is all communism and it has never worked wherever and whenever it has been tried. It has failed spectacularly and always led to poverty, mass murder and tyranny. Just look at what has happened recently in Venezuela. Why can the leftist useful idiots not learn this repeated lesson of history ? I think it is because they analyze the world around them emotionally instead of rationally and see the world as they wish it to be, instead of how it really is. Border walls DO work, that's why liberals don't want them built.

The illegal immigration problem has not been fixed because ;

1. The democrat party wants them as registered voters.

2. Many republican business owners want them as cheap labor.

3. Many religious churches (Catholic and Lutheran etc.) want them as new members.

Thank You, Mrs. Bush

By TOM ROSSHIRT

My brother Matt died of AIDS 26 years ago today, passing away in his bed in my parents' home in Houston.

It was a benighted time for people with AIDS. There were no antiretrovirals then. There was nothing much you could do for an AIDS patient but hold his hand. And many people still thought you could get AIDS by touching. My parents knew of individuals who'd been fired from their jobs for volunteering for AIDS organizations. That's how crazy the fear was.

As Matt was dying, we were befriended by a man named Lou Tesconi, a volunteer from the local AIDS organization. Lou came by to visit with Matt and to offer whatever service and kindness he could to my mom and dad.

Shortly after Matt died,

Lou began studies to become a Catholic priest. Within the year, he was diagnosed with AIDS and kicked out of the seminary. Lou was a lawyer by training and temperament. He appealed the judgment to a Catholic bishop, who then asked Lou to found and head a ministry for people with AIDS. It was called Damien Ministries and was established in a poor part of Washington, D.C.

In early 1989, when the country was still very ignorant and fearful of AIDS, Lou got a call from the White House. First lady Barbara Bush was planning to visit Grandma's House, a home for infants with AIDS. It was one of the very first outings in her tenure as first lady, and Lou was asked to join a team of people to brief her privately before the event.

During the briefing, Lou told me later, he said: "Mrs. Bush, it is a fantastic thing that you are holding these babies with AIDS. But the country sees them as innocent and the rest of us with AIDS as guilty. The whole suffering AIDS community needs a collective embrace from you today."

Lou thought he was speaking metaphorically. Apparently, Mrs. Bush doesn't do metaphor. She stood up, walked over to Lou and gave him a big hug.

After the briefing, Mrs. Bush took a tour of the facility as she talked to the press. She hugged, kissed and played with three little girls and then nailed the message: "You can hug and pick up babies and people who have ... HIV. ... There is a need for compassion."

At the news conference afterward, Lou stood by his point on Mrs. Bush's visit:

"I'm afraid that it may send a message that babies are innocent and can be helped," he said, "but that the rest of us aren't." He added: "I told her it would certainly help to get a collective hug from the first lady."

Then, again, this time in front of the cameras, Mrs. Bush wrapped Lou up in a big embrace.

Mrs. Bush wrote of this visit in her memoirs. She noted that "even then, people still thought that touching a person with the virus was dangerous." But she didn't give herself any credit for dealing a blow against stigma by embracing a gay man with AIDS in 1989.

Lou had a buzz from that hug that never went away.

In the fall of 1991, near Thanksgiving, I got a call from a friend that Lou had gone into the hospital again.

He didn't have to tell me that it was for the last time. I called the White House and asked whether I could speak to the first lady's office. I was a nobody press secretary on the Hill. I didn't expect anyone in the White House to talk to me. Suddenly, I was speaking with the first lady's press secretary, Anna Perez, who had accompanied Mrs. Bush to Grandma's House that day. I began to recount the events of two years before, and she saved me the time: "I remember Mr. Tesconi," she said. I explained Lou's condition and said, "It would be so comforting for him to receive a letter from Mrs. Bush."

A few days later, I went to see Lou in the hospital. As soon as he saw me, he reached beside his bed with a slow and shaky hand and pulled out a letter: "Look what I got," he said.

The letter was unflinching and full of love. She didn't duck the issue that Lou was dying. She used it as a pivot to say, "Well-done." At the bottom, in her own hand, she wrote to Lou that his life mattered, that he had made an impact.

That was a long time ago. But some things you don't forget -- and shouldn't. In a time of ignorance, her wise touch eased the sting of exclusion for my friend and many others.

Thank you, Mrs. Bush.

Holocaust remembrance fading

Holocaust survivor and Nobel Laureate, the late Elie Wiesel, once said of that horrific state-sponsored genocide that, "to forget the victims means to kill them a second time. So I couldn't prevent the first death. I surely must be capable of saving them from a second death." The world-renowned author sought to prevent victims from being forgotten through writing many books on the persecution through his experience and by helping establish the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington, D.C.

Wiesel's words underscore the gravity of the duty we all have as humankind to never forget the horrors of the Holocaust. We take for granted that for most people, the names "Auschwitz" or "Treblinka" evoke those terrible memorials and attest to the brutal methods used by the Nazis to attempt to exterminate the Jewish people during World War II. In Auschwitz alone, Nazis ended the lives of more than one million people, contributing to the astounding 6 million Jewish men, women, and children who were murdered. It is difficult to comprehend the scale of such loss, as well as the capability of humankind to inflict such suffering.

With Wiesel's words in mind, we should all be troubled by the results of a study released on April 12th, Holocaust Remembrance Day, which found that an alarming two-thirds of Americans between the ages of 18 and 34 years old cannot even explain the significance of Auschwitz. The fading understanding of the significance of the Holocaust in the younger generation is a warning sign for the world's future. Listening to the stories of Holocaust survivors creates awareness and solidifies the commitment to stop this terror from ever happening again.

To all of us, that fading memory is a clear sign that it is vital to educate our younger generations of the actions of the Nazi regime. As the years pass, fewer and fewer survivors are with us to tell their stories, and as long as people forget the past, the threat of genocide remains.

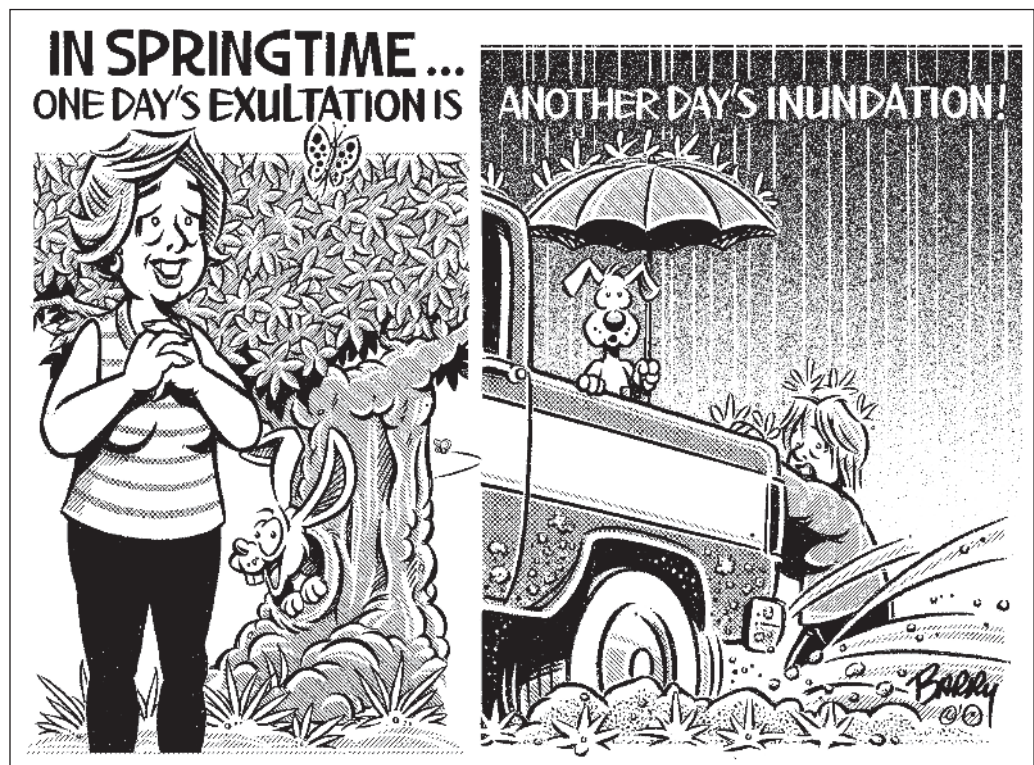

Without intervention, the Nazis may have succeeded in their goal of wiping out an entire people. We cannot let this happen again, and I am proud to cosponsor the Elie Wiesel Genocide and Atrocities Prevention Act to strengthen the United States' ability to prevent and respond to genocide, war crimes, and other crimes against humanity. The legislation states that it is U.S. policy to regard the prevention of atrocity crimes as a core national security interest and a core moral responsibility.

On April 18, Israel began celebrating Yom Ha'atzmaut, or Israeli Independence Day, to mark the 70th anniversary of the founding of the modern state of Israel, a constant U.S. ally. Israel is a nation that offers a home and safe haven for Jews around the world.

Wiesel said, "Because I remember, I despair. Because I remember, I have the duty to reject despair." As we honor and remember the victims of the Holocaust, let this be a reminder that we reject despair by taking our responsibility to educate younger generations. May we never forget the horror of the Holocaust and the suffering of the Jewish people. We remember so that it may never happen again.

Bears all but clinch fourth Central Washington B league title

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

BREWSTER – The undefeated Brewster High School varsity baseball team has all but wrapped another Central Washington 2B league championship with a 6-0 over the Mountain Lions at home on Tuesday, April 17.

The Mountain Lions came within one run of ending Brewster's 12-0-win streak a week earlier on the Bears' home diamond.

"(We) put ourselves in a good position to lock down our fourth league title," said head coach Todd Phillips.

Following two scoreless innings, Turk Riggan worked the bottom of the third into a full 3-2 count before hitting a double down third base line. Riggan then scored on an error off the bat of Corey Jarrell. Jarrell then scored when Jeff Sonneman was hit by a pitch forcing Jarrell home from third with the bases loaded.

While Jarrell scored one of Brewster first two runs, the game saw his 14-game hitting streak that carried over from last season, broken.

After leaving the bases loaded in the fourth inning, the Bears scored twice more in the fifth.

Jeff Sonneman reached base on an error and advanced to second on a Kade Kelpman sacrifice bunt. Then Isaac Baker singled and stole second and both runners scored on an error off the bat of Cade Gebbers.

While up 4-0 over the potentially dangerous Mountain Lions, Brewster added two insurance runs in the sixth inning.

"Joe Taylor reached (base) on an error and took second on a throwing error," said Phillips.

Taylor then scored on a single by Quincy Vassar.

"AJ Woodward came in to run for Quincy and did a great job of going from first to third on Sonneman's single and scored on Kelpman's ground out," said Phillips. "AJ is doing a great job for us as mostly a pinch runner and courtesy runner. He's going to be a great player, but he is kind of having to pay his dues as an eighth grader."

Phillips added that were he playing for any other team in the CW2B Woodward would be a starter "and most likely one of their best players."

Summing up the game, Phillips said the Bears need to improve their hitting with runners on base.

"We left nine on base and seven in scoring position," said Phillips.

The coach praised the pitching of Joe Taylor for "a great job of pitching to contact and trusting his defense to make plays. He was perfect after five and lost the no-no with one out to go."

"The fact that he was able to go out and deal against the second-place team in our league in a must situation solidifies the fact that he the best player in the league if not the state at out level," Phillips said of Taylor's abilities.

"We probably have the four best players in the league if not more," said Phillips. "We have guys on the bench that would be the best players on most of the teams in the league."

Mustangs edge Manson, 2-1, to remain second in CW2B

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

BRIDGEPORT – The Mustangs varsity soccer team persevered through a tough physical game against visiting Manson to edge the Trojans 2-1 last Saturday, April 21, and remain in second place in Central Washington 2B league soccer standings.

It's the third time the two teams have met this season and the first time that the Mustangs emerged on the winning side. In their first meeting at Manson, March 24, the Trojans man-handled Bridgeport, 5-1, on their home pitch. Whatever magic the home field advantage held, it worked again on the teams' second meeting in Manson that the Trojans took, 2-1.

The win puts Bridgeport solidly in second place in the CW2B with a 6-2 league record, 10-3 overall, behind the first-place and undefeated Brewster Bears.

The Trojans with an even 4-4 record, stand in third place, one game ahead of 3-4 Tonasket, in fourth place and Liberty Bell, fifth with a 3-5 record.

The Mustangs have three remaining games in the regular season beginning with the Hornets at Oroville on Thursday, April 26. Bridgeport will host

Pateros comes up short against Crusaders, Trojans

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

PATEROS – The Billygoats' varsity baseball team lost both ends of a doubleheader, 10-1, and 7-5, Monday, April 23, at Riverside Christian, a team Pateros will likely meet again in the playoffs, said head coach Bob VanLith.

Following a long bus ride to Yakima, the Billygoats surrendered the first game 10-0 in five innings against the Crusaders before finding their hitting range late in the second game.

In game two, the Crusaders took an early three-run lead in the first inning and added another run in the second while holding Pateros scoreless through the first three innings.

Riverside was quiet in the third inning before coming alive again in the fourth with three runs.

The Billygoats put their first run across the plate in the fourth inning and then went scoreless through the next two innings.

While the Crusaders could not muster a run in the final three innings, Pateros rallied for four runs in the seventh in a surge that ran out of innings before running out of momentum.

Hitting for Pateros was Logan Robinson, 2-3, Jeremy Piechalski, 2-3, Doug Viebrock, 2-4, Max Ewing,

2-4, and Dan Rossman, 2-4. Lucas Miller went 1-2 in the first game.

In an earlier game on Thursday, April 19, the Manson Trojans improved their Central Washington 2B league fourth-place win-loss record to 7-5 with a 14-4 win over Pateros on the Billygoats' home diamond.

"We took a 4-0 lead in the first inning," said VanLith, "but then we started erroring."

The Trojans caught their second wind in the fifth inning with a five-run surge that the Billygoats could not equal.

Pateros plays the junior varsity team at Ephrata on Thursday, April 26, before hosting Waterville-Mansfield for a doubleheader on Saturday, April 28, starting at 11 a.m.
