Long Term Recovery Group recaps three years of fire recovery work

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

PATEROS - Three years of rebuilding, fundraising and recovery efforts following the state's two worst wildfire disasters formed the centerpiece of a presentation by the Okanogan County Long Term Recovery Group (OCLTRG) at the Church of Christ in Pateros last Friday, Jan. 19.

Pateros Mayor and OCLTRG Executive Director Carlene Anders served as Master of Ceremonies for the comprehensive 90-minute review of what the team volunteers, businesses and donors have accomplished since the 2014 Carlton Complex and the 2015 Okanogan Complex wildfires burned more than half a million acres and hundreds of homes.

Included in the discussion were reports from disaster case manager (DCM) and Volunteer Coordinator (VC) Lead Renae Haug, VC Aimee Bannwarth, DCM Lead Jessica Rounds, and Reconstruction Project Manager Barry Hansen.

A finalized printed report summarizing all the facts and figures in Friday's presentation is expected to be available by the end of February.

The Church of Christ at 124 N. Dawson St. served as a fitting venue for the OCLTRG event for a couple of reasons: It survived the Carlton Complex inferno that consumed nearly three dozen Pateros residences and another 40 at Alta Lake, and it housed hundreds of volunteers who later arrived to assist in recovery efforts.

Love Washington Disaster Resiliency Event planned for summer 2019

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

PATEROS - Love Washington, a Disaster Resiliency Event is on the planning board for the summer of 2019 to raise preparedness funds for future Long Term Recovery and Disaster Case Management needs.

Okanogan County Long Term Recovery Group Executive Director, Carlene Anders said that Michelle Pennoni, an AmeriCorps volunteer and lead of the third AmeriCorps/National Civilian Conservation Corps team to serve a tour at Pateros from March 28-May 15 last year, will head up the project. Pennoni recently relocated to Pateros from her home in Pennsylvania to assume the reins of the ambitious event.

Pateros Council elects Holly Bange as newest member

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

PATEROS - City council members interviewed and elected the newest addition to the five-member body at their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 16.

Holly Bange, a former Bellevue, Wash, resident who moved with her husband to Pateros recently, was elected on a unanimous vote after answering questions posed to her by each council member. Bange was the only qualified candidate of the two who applied to fill the position of Adam Fritz, whose term expired on Dec. 31, 2017. The other failed to meet the council's two-year residency requirement.

Bange graduated the University of Washington with a BA in economics. Her past business experience included work for a small Seattle-area manufac-year, explained the process of preparing volunteers from many states and Canada for the jobs and conditions they will face. Every detail from needed tools and weather variations to experienced team leads and proximity to housing was considered.

"Once the 2015 fire happened, it made logistics a little more difficult because we had housing all the way up in Omak, down to Pateros and in Chelan," Haug said.

Bannwarth added that volunteers coming from outside the area needed to be aware of the weather they could face, from rain, mud, and snow to temperature extremes. They had to be ready for temperatures from below freezing to near triple-digits, Bannwarth said.

Whatever the coordinators did appeared to agree with both volunteers and teams because many returned multiple times for another tour.

In 2017 alone, 305 volunteers from 28 different teams put in more than 33,000 hours. From the beginning of 2015 through the end of last year nearly 1,800 volunteers, many from 97 different teams, clocked more than 123,000 hours.

Another group, North Creek Presbyterian Church built house walls on the west side of the state, hauled them to the home site and, with the help of Christian Public Service personnel, set the walls on the foundation in record time.

Haug showed an example of one project where the walls arrived at the home site at 3:54 p.m. and were in place and erected by 4:39 p.m. the same afternoon.

"These guys have it down," Haug said.

Restoration Hope brought more than 102 volunteers along with dump trucks, excavator, dozer and crane truck on five different occasions to log an excess of 7,600 hours of site work.

"United Methodist Volunteer in Mission has returned with multiple teams since 2014," Bannwarth said.

There were many, many others. Figures are still being collected from 2014 to determine the total number of volunteers.

Rounds delivered an overview of how disaster cases were opened, evaluated and managed based on need and resource availability.

In his brief address, Reconstruction Project Manager Hansen recapped the work done on 13 homes in 2017 and how electrician-plumber Terry Parsons was an indispensable "go-to guy" throughout the builds.

Anders wrapped up the presentation with a review of upcoming projects this year along with the completion of an additional four homes.

"Right now, we are moving into the last part of Phase Three on our rebuild," said Anders. "We've got four homes that will start foundations in April and hope to have those finished by fall."

Anders said all home rebuilds, 35 to 37 of them, should be completed by the end of this year. The average cost of each home rose steadily over the past three years, Haug said.

Phase 1, Carlton Complex averaged $62,000 per home.

Phase 2A, also Carlton Complex, increased to $67,000 per home.

Phase 2B, Okanogan Complex, averaged $80,000 per home.

Along with the Phase 3 rebuild, Anders said many other projects are planned in the months ahead.

Rising from the Ashes: A five-day reunion from July 18-22, to bring together survivors, volunteers, and donors.

Capture the Story: A compilation of survivor, volunteer and donor accounts, is another project that OCLTRG hopes to have completed and published in 2019.

Play It Forward: A mentor program that takes all the lessons learned from our local disaster and uses it to help other victims in other parts of the country. As part of a national Disaster Leadership Team, Anders has been to Texas twice to help victims of Hurricane Harvey deal with their issues.

Surveys: Erosion, Flooding and Access Surveys are part of an effort to better understand and deal with conditions left in the wake of the damage.

"The water is moving differently than it has even in Okanogan County," said Anders of the ground and water studies.

READY (www.ready.gov): A FEMA program that encourages advance plans for disasters and explains what to do in the event of fires, floods, earthquakes and tornadoes.

Map Your Neighborhood: Develop a quick and safe disaster action plan with neighbors for emergency preparedness.

Community Organizations Active in Disaster (COAD): Anders said OCLTRG is working with Maurice Goodall of Okanogan County Emergency Management to develop an Okanogan County COAD program.

When the Okanogan Complex fire of 2015 erupted on the heels of the 2014 Carlton Complex fire, OCLTRG expanded its scope to take in five counties: Okanogan, Douglas, Chelan, Stevens and Ferry.

"There was one point in the middle of that 2015 fire when I wondered: 'How are we going to do this?'" said Anders. "It happened because of you all sitting here," Anders said to the volunteers and donors.

And the work goes on. Anders had to close the presentation by 11 a.m. so the Unmet Needs Roundtable (UNR) that has met every month since November 2014, could convene. From the time it was formed after the Carlton Complex fire, the UNR has funded more than $1.5 million toward the recovery effort. Nearly $800,000 of that went to 88 cases and 177 beneficiaries in four counties from the 2015 Okanogan Complex fire. Another $800,000-plus funded 93 cases and 182 beneficiaries from the Carlton Complex fire.

A few days prior to Friday's program, Anders was asked what most impressed her about all the work and progress that characterized the past three years.

"I guess I'm most affected by the holistic way it all came together," said Anders. "We didn't turn down any offer or anybody; we found a place to make everything work."

Among the questions put to Bange was one from councilman George Brady inquiring if Bange's current schedule allows the flexibility to attend both regular council meetings, but also additional meetings that council members are asked to attend.

Bange assured Brady that she had ample time to meet the council's meeting requirements.

In her written state of interest on her council application Bange said: "I love Pateros and want to be a part of what makes this amazing place so special. I want to help and participate."

Hirst fix and capital budget win legislative approval

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

BREWSTER – Property owners and municipalities in Okanogan and Douglas counties are among many others breathing a sigh of relief after the state Legislature approved the $4.17 billion capital budget (Senate Bill 6090) Jan. 22, on the heels of a “fix” for the Hirst water bill (SB 6091) passed on Jan. 18.

The budget passage came at a good time for the City of Brewster that had more than $750,000 held up in manganese abatement funding.

When the budget was initially delayed it affected $2.2 million of a $2.7 million Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Economic Opportunity Grant earmarked for funding of city water projects for the City of Pateros. The city was later notified that a reevaluation of the grant funds resulted in approval for the city to move forward with the projects.

The Hirst decision handed down in October 2016 put new demands on ensuring adequate instream water flows and interfered with permission to drill permit-exempt water wells often critical for rural residential development.

Twelfth District State Senator Brad Hawkins said the new law relies on 62 Water Resource Inventory Areas or WRIAs throughout the state to determine water well regulation. Seven of those WRIAs are in the 12th District.

According to a media release from Hawkins’ office:

In a WRIA without an instream flow rule, which is not listed in the bill, a water well report is sufficient evidence of adequate water supply. This applies to WRIA 44 (Moses Coulee), WRIA 47 (Chelan Watershed) and WRIA 50 (Foster Creek Watershed).

In a WRIA with an instream flow rule that explicitly regulates exempt wells, the terms of the rule must be followed in determining whether an applicant can show evidence of adequate water supply. This applies to WRIA 45 (Wenatchee River Basin), WRIA 46 (Entiat River Basin), and WRIA 48 (Methow Watershed).

In a WRIA with an instream flow rule that does not explicitly regulate exempt wells and where a watershed plan was completed, wells are authorized if the applicant pays a $500 fee. Water use for domestic purposes is set at a maximum annual average of 3,000 gallons per day. This applies to WRIA 49 (Okanogan River Basin), of which a portion is located in District 12.

Rep. Joel Kretz, R-Wauconda, who was part of the Hirst negotiating team, said that while he was not “thrilled with every aspect of this legislation” a landowner “can go down and get a permit tomorrow and start building.”

Kretz has offered his own solution to the domestic water issue with his proposal, the One Washington Water Act that would apply statewide. Under Kretz’s proposal, 350 gallons of water daily would be the limit for a new single-family home. That usage would drop to 150 daily gallons for multi-family dwellings. Additional water would be cost $1 a gallon. An environmental impact statement relative to impacts on instream flows, Pacific salmon and tribal treaty rights would also be required prior to issuance of a building permit.

NCW students encouraged to apply for 2018 Washington State opportunity Scholarships

In 2017, 51 students from four local school districts received up to $22,500 in scholarship funds each

DR. SUE KANE, APPLE STEM NETWORK CO-DIRECTOR

WENATCHEE -- Applications are now being accepted for the 2018 Washington State Opportunity Scholarship (WSOS). Students must have earned a high school diploma or GED from a Washington State high school or institution by June 2018, and must be pursuing an eligible, high-demand major in science, technology, engineering, math, or health care at an eligible Washington state college or university starting in fall of 2018.

WSOS awards students up to $22,500 over their college careers with additional skill-building and professional development support - all part of an unprecedented commitment by state government and private-sector employers to increase the number of home-grown graduates prepared for the jobs key to our economy.

Last year, Apple STEM Network partnered with WSOS to promote the program and increase the number of local applicants. As a result, 51 of the total 1,850 scholarships granted were to students from the Cashmere, East Wenatchee, Quincy, and Wenatchee areas. These local students were eligible to receive up to a collective total of $1,135,000 in scholarships throughout their time in college.

WSOS was created in 2011 to address both rising tuition costs and a lack of local STEM talent prepared for industry demands. Per the legislation that governs the program, the State matches private dollars raised by WSOS, including founding partners Microsoft and Boeing.

More than 8,600 students have received support from WSOS and more than 2,200 have graduated since the program began. More than 68% of students awarded are first-generation students, 65% are students of color, and 56% are women.

For more information visit waopportunitiescholarship.org

Through shared vision and enthusiasm, the Apple STEM Network will clear a pathway and secure resources for students to build STEM fluency, thereby opening the door to new opportunities and careers in our valley and stimulating the economic development of the greater Wenatchee area.

The Washington State Opportunity Scholarship was created by the Washington State Legislature in 2011 to help local students from low- and middle-income families earn high-demand degrees and launch their careers in Washington.

Government shutdown wasted time

As your representative in Congress, I take the responsibility to provide for the federal government's operations very seriously. Continuing Resolutions, or extensions of funding from previous fiscal years, are a terrible budgeting option for our country. This fiscal year, the House of Representatives passed all twelve of our bills necessary for the appropriations process, but the Senate has still not even passed a single one. This leaves Congress only capable of funding the government in short spans, resulting in an unstable environment for our military and the vital programs that the American people rely on. Despite the stakes, blocking funding for the federal government was the option that Senate Democrats chose by rejecting the Continuing Resolution on Jan. 19, 2018, which resulted in shutting down the federal government.

U.S. Cong.
Dan

I, along with the majority of my colleagues in the House of Representatives, voted before the deadline to pass legislation that would continue government funding until Feb. 16, 2018. The legislation also provided long-term funding for the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP), which insures over 60,000 low-income children in Washington state, for six years – the longest in the program's history. There was nothing objectionable in this bill that the Democrats opposed, yet they blocked it anyway.

Even a brief government shutdown has real implications for the people of our country and for Central Washington. Without federal appropriations, the brave men and women of our military don't receive a paycheck. This is absolutely unacceptable, which is why I cosponsored legislation introduced by Rep. Martha McSally (R-AZ) to ensure that our service members continue to be paid as they keep working to protect our country and prohibit members of Congress from receiving a paycheck. The federal government also operates critical priorities here at home, including cleanup at the Hanford Site and the Pacific Northwest National Laboratory, which together employ more than 13,000 workers. These employees rely on stable, reliable funding, which Senate Democrats chose to block.

I am frustrated at the uncertainty and waste of time caused by the temporary shutdown—especially when it comes to negotiating a solution for DACA beneficiaries. During the 2013 shutdown, Senator Schumer (D-NY) even remarked, "We could say, 'We're shutting down the government. We're not going to raise the debt ceiling until you pass immigration reform.' It would be governmental chaos."

As a strong supporter of immigration reform, I was very disappointed that the Democrats in the Senate chose governmental chaos. I am concerned that their decision short-circuited immigration negotiations and did not get us any closer to a shared goal of finding a bipartisan solution for DACA beneficiaries and a secure border. The fruitless attempt to shut down the government failed to make progress on a negotiated solution for DACA.

Democrats finally agreed to join Republicans to restore a fully-functioning federal government—but only for three weeks instead of four. Now that the unnecessary shutdown is behind us and CHIP has been renewed for six years, Congress must return to negotiating and building support for a legislative solution requested by the President to provide certainty for DACA beneficiaries and ensuring our borders are secure.

The legislature is back in session

Hang on to your freedom

Democrats have taken control of the legislature in Washington state and they plan to pass a number of bills that have been held up for years by those troublesome Republicans. Here is a list of some of their agenda:

Carbon tax – Liberals have been calling for a carbon tax for years as a program needed to fight the problem of Global Warming – strike that, Global Climate Change. Politicians love it because it gives them a new hidden tax that they can claim is needed to save us from the evils of human progress. Two problems with this tax; first, it is built on a hoax and second like any tax it will start small and go up whenever the lawmakers need more money to fund their next boondoggle scheme. The legislature is rushing to approve

IN MY
Bill Forhan
Publisher

Governor Inslee's plan before the environmental activists can get a ballot measure on the table for voters to approve. After all the big government crowd doesn't really want interference from those pesky citizens – who incidentally rejected the measure by 20 points the last time it was on the ballot. To gain acceptance for their measure the Democrats have exempted Agriculture, and certain large energy dependent industries from the tax (for now), which means it will hit small local businesses who don't have lobbyists to protect them.

Abortion – With shouts of "Abortion is Health Care" activists are in Olympia supporting taxpayer funded abortions for the fifth year in a row. Democrats are more than happy to oblige them. The bill would require health insurance companies to provide abortion coverage in all health insurance plans that include maternity, which means you get to pay for it even if you have a religious objection to abortion or birth control.

Suicide prevention – A bill has been introduced that allows individuals to "opt out" of their gun rights on an individual level. Sounds innocuous but think about it and ask yourself if you want to be on a government list of people who have considered suicide?

Capital Punishment – There are no crimes that are heinous enough to demand the death penalty. Drive your car into a crowd of people? Serial killer? Terrorist? We need more of these people loose in society?

Equal Pay – There are of course businesses that pay less to a woman than they do to a man for the same work. They are Neanderthals that give business a bad name and politicians an opportunity to impose more regulations on private industry. The net result is the regulations increase the cost of doing business even for those who are more enlightened. Like most liberal programs this is short on facts about just how wide-spread is the problem. The loud voices of a few activists drive the agenda. Wouldn't you like to know if this is truly a big problem before we empower a bunch of lawyers to extort more money from small businesses?

Water Rights – The legislature has solved the problem of water rights. It is passed and signed into law. But does it really solve the problem? The 24-page bill looks to be another full employment for lawyers measure and reinforces the power of the department of ecology to make law regarding water rights. Here is an exact quote from the bill:

"No agency may establish minimum flows and levels or similar water flow or level restrictions for any stream or lake of the state other than the department of ecology whose authority to establish is exclusive..."

It looks like legislators were more anxious to get the Capital Budget approved than to address the issues raised by the Hirst Decision. Time will tell if the problem is really solved or if rural communities will be hogtied by legal costs of just trying to drill a well.

Gun Control – Nothing drives liberal politicians in controlling the public like gun control and this year the legislature is in full disarmament mode. There is little any of these laws will do to improve public safety. It may be hard to accept but it is a fact that gun laws do not remove guns from the hands of criminals. Gun laws only restrict the rights of law-abiding citizens. Look at communities like Chicago where gun laws are some of the most restrictive in the country and gun violence is the highest.

When the legislature meets we all need to be attentive to the attempts by our lawmakers to empty our wallets and restrict our freedom.

Vazquez comes through in final seconds

Mustangs win down-to-the-wire home stand against Hornets

BY MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

BRIDGEPORT – Playing the best Central Washington 2B League game of the week and perhaps their best of the season to date, the Mustangs varsity basketball team surprised the second place Oroville Hornets with a one-point, 54-53 win on Bridgeport's home court last Thursday, Jan. 18.

The Mustangs, with seven points apiece from Ricardo Vazquez and Ronaldo Ubaldo, took a six-point, 19-13 lead into the second quarter. Anthony Jamison and Spencer Martin came alive for the Hornets in the second quarter and scored seven and six points respectively to lead an 18-point surge that gave Oroville a two-point 31-29 advantage going into halftime.

A tight third quarter saw the team tied several times and knotted 44-all at the start of the fourth. Vazquez again had the hot hand for Bridgeport with a pair of three-pointers and a quarter total of eight to keep the Mustangs in the game.

Three-pointers by Ubaldo and Gilberto Padilla and four points apiece by Martin and Easton Anderson found the Hornets ahead by one point as the clock ticked down to 11 seconds. That's when Vazquez scored his only basket and the final two points of the period giving Bridgeport the lead, 54-53 with seven seconds remaining.

The Fillies lost a close game to Oroville, 32-29

The Mustangs lost a non-league road game at Cascade, 73-53 on Saturday, Jan. 20, while the Fillies fell 47-35.

Bridgeport was scheduled to take on the 6-6 Shockers in league action at Waterville, Tuesday, Jan. 23. Then it will be home where the Mustangs and Fillies will host Lake Roosevelt on Saturday, Jan. 27, before traveling to Brewster next Tuesday, Jan. 30.

Bears stay on top with wins over Liberty Bell, Oroville and Soap Lake

BY MIKE MALTAIS

BREWSTER – The visiting Liberty Bell Mountain Lions did little to threaten the Brewster Bears Central Washington 2B league-leading ranking as the boys' varsity rolled over their league rivals, 80-50, and the girls won, 69-37.

Brewster sandwiched the wins between victories on the road over Oroville, 72-42, boys and 58-22 girls on Tuesday, Jan. 16, and wins over the Eagles at Soap Lake last Saturday, Jan. 20, 61-32, boys, and 64-33 girls.

The Bears remain at 11-0 in league and the Lady Bears, 11-1, as the teams look ahead to the final four games before post-season play.

Brewster was scheduled to host Manson on Tuesday, Jan. 23, before taking to the road to face Tonasket, Friday, Jan. 26, and Lake Roosevelt, Monday, Jan. 29. Brewster's final regular season game will be against visiting Bridgeport on Tuesday, Jan. 30.

Billygoats second in CW1B, Nannies drop to third

BY MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

PATEROS – The Billygoats varsity basketball team kept its hold on second place in the Central Washington 1B League with a win over league rival Riverside Christian following an earlier loss to non-league Soap Lake last week.

On the road last Friday, Jan. 19, the varsity boys defeated the Crusaders, 48-33, to improve their league record to 4-1, two games behind leader Moses Lake Christian.

"After a brutal first quarter we were only down two points and were able to make some extra passes and knock down some shots," said coach Marcus Stennes. "We continued forcing turnovers and getting some transition baskets."

Led by Ethan Freels with 15 points, three Billygoats scored in double figures including Andrew Gonzalez with 14, and Ethan Wall with 10.

"This was a good league win for us," Stennes said.

The Nannies lost to the Lady Crusaders, 44-31, to drop to third in the CW1B with a 3-2 league record, one game behind second place RC.

seven points, 47-40, and the Nannies by 15, 48-33.

"The game came down to Soap Lake hitting a couple shots in the fourth quarter to beat us," said Stennes. "We did a good job rebounding but we aren't going to win games shooting 15-55 and turning the ball over 20 times."

The Billygoats had single-digit scoring spread among seven players while Logan Robinson led the team in rebounds with 13.

OBITUARIES

Albert "Bruno" Moser

On Jan 20, 2018, Albert "Bruno" Moser, age 91, died at home and entered the Kingdom of Heaven on the wings of angels. His family encircled him as his soul departed. One of nine children, Pop's was born "a wandering star" on May 30, 1927, at the family homestead near Medina, N. Dakota, to Charles P. and Lydia Hoffmann Moser.

Bruno left school after the 8th grade to work on the farm. In 1945, he joined the Army and served as an M.P. during WW II, then after being honorably discharged, he used the GI Bill to attend barber school in Jamestown, N.D. He moved in Bismarck, N.D. where he met his first wife, Elsie Helen Walker. Pop's left barbering to work varies other jobs including dressing mannequins and working in the oil fields until he was hired by the Bureau of Reclamation. Our family moved frequently, living in many states until 1967, when Pop's was hired by Bonneville Power which brought us to Wenatchee, Washington. He obtained his GED from Wenatchee Valley College.

In 1976 he and his first wife divorced and in 1978, Pop's married Myrna (Law) Walker. As an inspector on transmission power line towers, they moved throughout the Pacific Northwest until Pop's retired in 1983, at which time, he and Myrna built a log home on the Bridgeport/Brewster Bar.

Bruno had a passion for wood-working and he donated countless hours doing building repair and maintenance on the Community Log Church in Brewster and the Pateros Community Church. Pop's liked everyone he met and selflessly assist anyone who needed someone handy with a hammer and saw. He enjoyed gardening, volunteering at Harmony House where he served coffee, performing as a clown in town parades, and he was well known for his heartfelt hugs. In celebration of his birthday, Bruno initiated Moser's May Madness, which he hosted for many years. Good laughs and abundant memories were enjoyed with his kids and grandkids while fishing, hunting and hiking. In his later years he enjoyed watching westerns and pro football.

Pop was preceded in death by his parents, four brothers: Ted, Edwin, Ernest, Ray and one sister, Alvina Munkers. He is survived by brothers Oscar and Leon, and sister Leah Grentz. Bruno leaves behind his devoted and loving wife, Myrna, and their children: Joel (Tere) Moser in Saugus, Calif., Karen (Ken) Bailey, Mona (Ernie) Vipond, Cheryl (Edward) Faust, all in East Wenatchee, Kolo (Stacy) Moser in Oroville, Russ (Becky) Walker in Shelton, Keith (Elise) Walker in Okanogan, and Pastor Steve (Shari) Walker in Trappe, PA. They have 20 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held at Barnes Chapel in Brewster, Wash. on Feb. 10 at 11 a.m.

In lieu of flowers, charitable gifts may be given to The Gideon's or The Salvation Army. To our beloved Husband and Dad: go rest high on that mountain, for your work on earth is done, go to Heaven a dancing, greet the Father and the Son.

Please leave any thoughts and memories for the family at www.barneschapel.com. Barnes Chapel of Brewster is entrusted with the services.
