Main Street lights ignite Brewster Christmas spirit

By Mike Maltais STAFF WRITER

BREWSTER - The Christmas lights of Main Street will illuminate the city and spirit of the coming holiday on Saturday, Nov. 25.

The Brewster community and Chamber of Commerce invites all businesses to decorate their premises with red and white lights - "red for our Lady Bears" - in support of the occasion. The city will also celebrate "Shop Small Business Saturday" and businesses are encouraged to remain open a little later to accommodate more shoppers.

On Saturday, Dec. 16, the Brewster Boys and Girls Club, in conjunction with the Brewster Police Department, will host Christmas Shop. The public is invited to stop by for the festivities and sing Christmas carols while all wait for Santa to make his arrival at the Brewster Boys and Girls Club.

Beginning at 5 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 23, the traditional Las Posadas will make its way down Main Street. All are invited to walk and sing carols and enjoy food and hot chocolate at the final stop.

Bridgeport council awards Foster Creek sidewalk contract to POW

This section of Foster Creek Avenue stretching from the Bridgeport city sign to the Bridgeport Bridge will be the site of a new sidewalk construction project next spring.

By Mike Maltais STAFF WRITER

BRIDGEPORT - Work to complete the sidewalk along the far east end of Foster Creek Avenue can begin with the spring thaw after the city council awarded the project contract to POW Contracting at its regular monthly meeting last Wednesday, Nov. 16.

POW, of Pasco, was the lowest bidder for the sidewalk construction on the north side of Foster from the Bridgeport city sign to the State Route 17 Bridgeport Bridge, even though its low bid came in $70,000 above the project's cost estimate.

The project has not come without its delays, including a title company error that initially misidentified ownership of the property that cost the city money and a lost opportunity to complete the sidewalk last year, when it would have been cheaper.

A funding pool through the State Transportation Improvement Board (TIB) that would reimburse a significant portion of the construction costs is currently depleted, Public Works Superintendent Stuart Dezellem said. While Dezellem is confident the funding will be restored by the end of the year, the revenue gap left the city with three options.

Middle School achieves dramatic turnaround

Brewster schools receive School of Distinction honors

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

BREWSTER - Brewster High School and Brewster Middle School are among seven schools within the North Central Educational Service District (NCESD) area that have been awarded 2017 School of Distinction honors by the Center for Educational Effectiveness.

Brewster High School is a three-time repeat winner of the award over the past five years. It is the first such honor for the Middle School that beat its fiveyear goal to receive the accolade by a year and a half.

Each school is being recognized as one of the five percent highest improving schools in the State of Washington for increased English Language Arts (ELA)/Math achievement and Graduation Rate over the past five years.

Brewster High School principal Linda Dezellem said that an increased graduation rate was the principal achievement that won the award for her school this year. Regular attendance was a key part of the goal, so the school created incentives for students to show in the classroom.

Dezellem said that among the schools that received the School of Distinction award, Brewster High School and Middle School have the highest poverty rates, with both institutions above 90 percent.

Averaged over five years, Brewster's graduation rate has remained among the top five percent.

"It was at 93.3 percent last year," said Dezellem said. "When we started this road of improvement we were at 60 percent or so."

The award is especially meaningful for Brewster Middle School Principal, Greg Austin.

"For us to receive this is huge, considering where we started three and a half years ago," said Austin. "We are what is referred to as a priority school, a SIG school.'

SIG is an acronym for School Improvement Grant, a designation given to those schools that qualify for special sub grants because they identified as lowachievement schools.

"We were one of lowest performing schools in the State of Washington, the bottom five percent. That's where we started," said Austin. "Three and a half years later we in the top five percent for student growth.'

Austin admitted that while the school still has a way to go, "it shows you the direction we're going in."

The plan was to make the turnaround in five years and toward that effort, Austin left the classroom and took on the principal's role. Now that the goal has been reached earlier than expected the next challenge is to get off the SIG list altogether, Austin said.

Austin said it was a total

Navy aviator artist makes a...ah...point, of sorts

By MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

OKANOGAN COUNTY -The sky above the Okanogan Military Operating Area (MOA) was a cloudless blue canvas last Thursday, Nov. 16. And wherever one finds a blank backdrop, be it sidewalk, building wall, rail car or patch of sky, an inspired artist is often not far away.

This particular painter was behind the controls of a two-person EA-18G Growler jet, part of Electronic Attack Squadron 130 out of Naval Air Station Whidbey Island at Oak Harbor.

The objet d'art of questionable taste, which will remain unnamed here, drew mixed responses from ground observers, ranging from the humorous to the displeased. And it wasn't long before phones were ringing and the internet streaming with opinions and images from those who witnessed the creation.

One Facebook poster termed the aerial display "the most monumental thingto happen in Omak."

While some may take issue with that assessment, the reaction of Navy brass was more subdued, and promised hell to pay for the aerial prankster.

"We will hold those responsible accountable for their actions," an official Navy statement read. "The Navy holds its aircrew to the highest standards and we find this absolutely unacceptable, of zero training value."

While the Navy conducts an investigation into the incident, the aircrew responsible has reportedly been grounded. Further disciplinary action is unknown at this writing. However, if the punishment rendered is in proportion to the art piece, the guilty parties may possibly be cleaning latrines.

Council member Sergio Orozco agreed with Conklin that "everybody does a great job" but lamented that 'we're not willing to pay them at least what they're asking."

Even though the Budget Committee came in with a 1.5 percent raise, Lee said he agreed that the city's staff was worth the extra money and had no issue with the higher amount.

Schuh said that since the 50-cent raise was already factored into the current budget, he also concurred with the staff request.

Council voted to table Resolution 17-11 and bring it back at next month's meeting with the 50-cent acrossthe-board raise in place of the original 1.5 percent

The first option was to abandon the project, which would require the city to repay an estimated $70,000 in federal funds used to pay for the project design work. Dezellem spoke for the entire council when he suggested council members would not want to see such a large block of public money go to waste.

The second option was to award the contract to POW and authorize an interfund loan between city departments, in this case water/ sewer and street, to bridge the funding gap until TIB dollars became once again available.

The third option was to accept POW's offer of a 45day freeze on the contract price and terms while the city worked with the TIB and revisited the contract at its next regular meeting.

Dezellem said he and city clerk/treasurer Judy Brown worked through the third option and found no advantage to postponing the contract award since the city had the ability to exercise the necessary funding arrangements.

By awarding the contract now we lock in the contractor and the price and ensure that we are his first spring obligation," Dezellem said.

Mayor Janet Conklin encouraged council members to award the contract

Council first approved a Washington State Department of Transportation Federal Air Supplement required to authorize an increase in the project cost. It then voted to award the contract to POW, so work can commence with the first spring thaw.

The total cost of the project comes to $98,624 of which TIB funds would cover $47,000.

Lynch mobs are swarming

Judge Ray Moore is guilty. He's never had a trial. Hasn't had a chance to make his case to a jury of his peers, but he's guilty. He's been accused by a number of women of the crime of being a sexual predator. He's a man so he's guilty.

Women would never bring such a charge if it just weren't true. It doesn't matter that the alleged charges happened years ago. They have all just been too intimidated to bring charges before. There is no statute of limitations on sexual misconduct.

Personally, I don't know if Judge Moore is guilty of the charges brought against him or if he is the victim of political sabotage. The timing and some of the people involved make me suspect the latter. But in any case there are a number of troubling issues here.

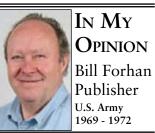

First, one of our core principles is we believe everybody is innocent until proven guilty. That means each of us deserves a trial where we have the right to question our accusers. Judge Moore hasn't had that opportunity.

In fact, powerful and influential people have concluded he is guilty so it's time to find a rope. Let's not waste time with a costly and time consuming trial.

Judge Moore has challenged some of the "evidence" brought forth against him and his attorney has called for an independent third party to examine that evidence. No, not going to happen, declares attorney Gloria Allred. Allred wants a Senate investigation in the next two weeks to examine the charges.

Let's see, the election is just twenty days away. How convenient is that? On what planet is it likely that a Sen-hold hearings and issue a conclusion before the election? Allred is famous for her media tricks generally used to extort some settlement out of the accused.

The second problem here is many elected politicians have said Moore is not qualified to serve. I am not aware of anything in the Constitution that allows the Senate to refuse to seat a duly elected representative. The fact that our currently elected representatives believe they can refuse to accept our choice of representatives should be troubling to all Americans.

The underlying question here is why would any woman lie about something so serious? There are a number of reasons but the single biggest reason is most likely abortion. There has been a growing awareness that the pro-life movement is gaining strength and many pro-choice advocates have expressed concern that Republicans could move to limit or even outlaw abortion.

Currently, Republicans hold a razor thin majority in the Senate. There are 51 Republicans, 46 Democrats and 2 Independent Senators. Both of the Independents caucus with the Democrats, which means they vote along the Democrat party line. Judge Moore would increase the Republican majority while defeating him would severely limit the Senates ability to pass any legislation without Democrats crossing the aisle.

More to the point here is the fact that the Senate must confirm all appointments to the Supreme Court. Democrats are concerned that Republicans will be able to fill the court with conservative justices who may be more likely to reconsider issues like Roe v. Wade.

Judge Roy Moore is not only a staunch conservative, ate committee could meet he is an outspoken judge on issues like religious freedom. He has been thrown off of the Alabama Supreme Court twice first because of he refused to remove a statue of the Ten Commandments and secondly because he refused to accept the courts ruling on gay marriage. In a debate with fellow Republican Luther Strange, Moore said, "Our foundation has been shaken. Crime, corruption, immorality, abortion, sodomy, sexual perversion sweep our land. When we become one nation under God again, when liberty and justice for all reigns across our land, we will be truly good again."

Judge Roy Moore is a serious threat to the liberal Democrat agenda.

I do not know if Moore is guilty of the charges lodged against him. But if I were a betting man I would bet the charges are more political than factual. In any case, he deserves the right to confront his accusers and to examine any evidence being brought against him in a timely man-

If the people of Alabama decide to elect him then he must be seated with all of the other duly elected representatives.

If he is elected and it is later discovered he is guilty of inappropriate sexual misconduct then he can be removed with all of the other Senators that have engaged in inappropriate conduct. That list is apparently long and has cost taxpayers a significant amount of money. Fairness would dictate that the names of every Senator that the Senate paid out taxpayer funds to settle charges of misconduct be released immediately. Then those people should be expelled.

It is time to drain the swamp and end the politics of personal destruction.

Selling 'value added' rice to the Chinese ... and other fables

The future for America is bright. It is the shining star of American ingenuity - long established ever since the Boston Tea Party. For those of us who are history challenged I'll fill you in. Back then, an intrepid group of entrepreneurs had rowboats at the ready once the tea hit the water.

They let it steep for a while and then, using huge clay pots with ropes in the handles, scooped up about 1,000 gallons of their new product - New World Order Tea - Limited Sea Salt Edition.

It was the precursor to the modern Tea Party movement, but instead of griping about status quo politics it was originally meant as way to make a buck out of a bad situation.

Enter the Chinese. I propose we park a fleet of massive transport ships just off the coast of the world's most populous country and place huge boilers on each. The ships are given sovereign status as American protectorates - maybe tie 100 of them together with super-long ropes.

Here's the skinny. Call the ships in the aggregate United Ships Sticky Rice or USSR that's to confuse everyone into thinking it is the second coming of Lenin-Stalin, but the capitalist version, perhaps led by Gates-Buffett.

Anywho, the USSR "imports" raw rice a few miles offshore and then "exports" the gooey stuff right back onto the mainland. The only improvement is to boil it and package it in microwave safe bags complete with chopsticks.

Then label it "Made in the USSR exclusively for the People's Republic of China." As a "value added" product, the capitalist pigs can demand $20 for a 16-ounce bag of rice worth about .25.

Here's another giant idea fit for only the most clever of the marketing minds grazing the American cash landscape: Nuclear-themed products aimed at eager buyers in Iran and North

How can any Ayatoldya resist a cupie doll dressed like Khomeini with a bandoleer around his shoulders filled with little A-bombs? In his turban we place a little pin shaped like the Koran.

The Korean version can have little short fat dolls with bad haircuts, both arms raised clutching missiles.

Don't forget a complete line of stickers, cause kids love stickers. On the shiny fluorescent design will be the midget walking on an American Flag while dribbling a Dennis Rodman-autographed basketball. For the Iranians we can have two fanged blooddripping Ayatoldyas burning an Israeli flag.

For the slightly more affluent Koreans, a complete Abomb radio-controlled drone kit they can fly around their own neighborhood to terrify the dog owner who won't keep Fido (that's Kimchi with meat in Korean) off their grass.

In Iran, the well-to-do can buy pinball machines with each pin shaped in the style of a Great-Satan-American everyone loves to hate - like this one guy with orange hair or perhaps hated capitalists like the aforementioned Bill Gates and Warren

If I were an investor looking to add entertainment stocks to my portfolio, well by golly, I'd be pining for Hasbro or Mattell right about now.

Anybody up for a game of Monopoly? It would feature camels, Toyota pickup trucks (complete with mounted machine guns) and RPG's (Rocket propelled grenades) as the moving pieces.

The main guy holding the money would be a cross dressing Ayatoldya midget who claps with one hand while the other clutches a dirty bomb.

Sounds like fun for the whole family.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thank you veterans

I was born in Wenatchee in 1951 and was raised by the finest folks this world had to offer. These men were dear friends of my father, Cleo. Nelson Quast, Morris Taylor, Buzz Buts.....(my spelling might not be correct.) As Memorial Day passes, I must say, these men put the fire in my life. Although I was not allowed in the room when these hero's told their stories. I managed to sneak a listen or two. From Bataan to the German lines I heard every word. One cannot imagine how this could effect a six year old, but it did not put hate in my heart. .. Only a severe love of my country, my home. The United States of America. I served 7 years in the 1st/142/Air Mobile Field Artillery with these brave men by my side. I say God bless them and their families, and I thank you all. You are all true heros.

Brewster girls take third in CW2B state soccer

STAFF WRITER

SUMNER - The Brewster girls' varsity soccer team recovered from a heartbreaking 2-1 overtime shootout loss to St. George's on Friday, Nov. 17, to defeat Adna, 2-0, and win third place in the 2017 WIAA 2B State Soccer Championships, Saturday, Nov. 18.

The Lady Bears finished the season with a 20-1 win/ loss record that included the Central Washington 2B League title and the Bi-District 5/6 trophy.

Brewster lost to St. George's, a team the Lady Bears defeated in the regular season, the same way they beat Liberty Bell for the CW2B League championship, in a five-ball overtime shootout.

Against the Mountain Lions, Brewster connected on three of four kicks while Liberty Bell missed the mark on three of four to take the loss. Against the Dragons, Brewster came up one short, 5-4. The Lady Bears took a 1-0 lead into halftime only to have St. George's tie the game midway through the second half. The teams remained locked through the overtime period leading to the shootout.

Brewster will lose seven players to graduation next year including CW2B Player of the Year, midfielder Marlisa Garcia. Other graduating seniors are midfielders Rosa Tinoco and Claire Burgett, forwards Yalina Vargas, Yvette Sanchez and Rosa Velasco and defender Naydelin Arevalo.

Poole makes CW 1B All-League Volleyball Team

By MIKE MALTAIS

PATEROS - Senior outside hitter Sarah Poole was one of six players selected to the 2017 Central Washington 1B All-League Volleyball Team by team coaches and school athletic directors.

Pateros girls' varsity volleyball coach Gene Dowers had high praise for Poole's versality and ability.

"We needed Sarah to make some big transitions this year and she took it on beautifully," said Dowers. "From playing half-rotation right front to playing full-rotation left front and left back was a big move."

Poole finished the season third in kills, second in digs, "and, no question, the best server in the state," said Dowers. "She served 398 times, put 90% in, and scored 104 aces.

Dowers said that while Poole has a good, solid serve, "what was most important was what she did with it. She is a superb tactician and serving strategist."

Poole was the Nannies Most Valuable Player based on points scored and her teammates voted her Most Valuable Teammate as well as Most Inspirational Player.

"She is humble, selfless, a joy to coach, and loves the game," said Dowers. "She's 'the little engine that could' who just kept working and getting better until she was the best.'

The CW 1B League and District 6 champion Entiat Tigers made up half the All-League roster with three players including Most Valuable Player, Ivette Mora.

Riverside Christian and Wilson Creek rounded out the All-League team with a player each. Wilson Creek coach Jesse True was named Coach of the Year, an honor that was conferred on Pateros coach Gene Dowers in 2016.

Riverside Christian shared the Sportsmanship award with Easton.
