WDFW fields complaints, concerns about declining steelhead fishery

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

PATEROS – About two dozen residents and sportsmen gathered at Howard’s on the River Central Building in Pateros last Tuesday, Sept. 19, to participate in a discussion of local wildlife issues – particularly steelhead - with Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) representatives

WDFW Northcentral Regional Director Jim Brown opened the meeting followed by a 15-minute presentation by WDFW biologist Scott Fitkin concerning current deer and game bird populations and habitat conditions.

WDFW Northcentral Regional Director Jim Brown introduced speakers and fielded questions from the audience.

Jackson and recited the developments that affect the local steelhead fishery.

“The upper Columbia summer steelhead were listed as threatened under the Endangered Species Act (ESA) back in 1999,” said Jackson, “and a key component of the listing is that both the wild and the hatchery steelhead are listed, they’re not separate.”

Jackson added that the upper Columbia hatchery programs play a role in aiding steelhead recovery efforts.

Jackson explained the ESA permit that governs management of steelhead propagation in the upper Columbia requires that certain conditions be met before a season can be opened on the Methow River.

First legislator to visit council

Steele addresses Bridgeport Council on capital budget, Hirst

By MIKE MALTAIS

BRIDGEPORT – 12th District State Representative Mike Steele made history of sorts in Bridgeport last week when he became the first state representative to pay a visit to the city council.

By way of introduction Steele told council members that he is visiting council meetings to address legislative priorities and acquire an understanding of local issues where the state might be of some assistance. Steele extended an invitation for council members to visit his district office in Chelan

“I serve on the Capital Budget Committee,” said Steele, “and I can tell you that the budget has been negotiated and agreed upon and yes, we passed it off the House floor but have not seen any progress in the Senate.”

Turning to the Hirst decision that restricts drilling for domestic water wells, Steele said a solution is urgently needed.

“This is not an issue of partisan politics, it’s not Republican versus Democrat, urban versus rural,” said Steele. “It’s understanding how water rights work in a rural environment specific to places that are (water) well-dependent and can’t tap this water any other way.”

Steele said there is more education needed on the subject and in that effort, he has offered tours of the 12th District to his colleagues

Council member Matt Schuh

Council approves purchase

Brewster streets will soon to be much cleaner and more often

By MIKE MALTAIS

BREWSTER – The city streets will soon be looking much tidier thanks to the city council’s decision to approve the purchase of a new street sweeper during its regular monthly meeting last Thursday, Sept 21.

After five years of planning, evaluating and discussing, council found just the replacement machine that fits its criteria of cost, reliability and efficiency. That choice warranted its own city Resolution, No. 2017-12 Declaring Special Market Conditions for Purchase of a Demonstration Model Street Sweeper.

“I spent a whole lot of time looking for a decent street sweeper,” said Director of Public Works Lee Webster. “Pretty much everything out there has a fair amount of hours on it and a fair amount of use.”

Note to felons ...

Keep pants up to avoid unwanted attention

By MIKE MALTAIS, STAFF WRITER

BRIDGEPORT – When one is living afoul of the law with an arrest warrant outstanding, it is advisable to avoid bringing unnecessary attention to oneself.

Among the law enforcement encounters documented by the Douglas County Sheriff’s Office for the month of August was one that really sort of...well...stood out.

On August 6, a Douglas County Sheriff’s deputy on routine patrol noticed an individual that, under more normal circumstances, he might have otherwise overlooked. The man that caught the deputy’s attention was urinating near a parked car. What’s more, the man also had his pants down around his ankles. On closer inspection, the deputy recognized the partially naked man as one with outstanding warrants for his arrest.

The suspect also spotted the deputy and attempted to flee but was at an obvious disadvantage. As the deputy pursued the suspect on foot, a second man tried to grab the deputy’s arm and interfere with the pursuit. The deputy caught his suspect and was attempting to restrain him when members of the suspect’s family, including the second man who tried to intervene, converged on the deputy.

The man who tried to interfere with the deputy was also arrested and booked for obstructing an officer and resisting arrest. The original suspect was booked for multiple felony and misdemeanor charges and resisting arrest.

BRIDGEPORT – The two dozen-plus eye-catching tree carvings that have lined Foster Creek Avenue leading into the business district since 2013 have caught the eye of a Canadian community that knows a thing or two about such art pieces.

Representatives from the community of Chetwynd in northeast British Columbia, Canada, visited Bridgeport recently on the suggestion of a tourist who passed through the town, saw its extensive display of quality carvings and notified acquaintances in Chetwynd who he knew would appreciate the art.

Bridgeport Public Works Superintendent Stuart Dezellem happened to be at city hall when the visitors walked in. They had lots of questions about Bridgeport’s carvings and shared with Dezellem some details about their own carvings. Chetwynd boasts a collection of more than 150 carvings scattered around the community.

“They are noted for one of the premier chainsaw carving events in North America,” said Dezellem. “Their contest is so prestigious that you have to get invited by them to compete in their chainsaw event.”

Chetwynd has been the site of the Chetwynd International Chainsaw Carving Championship since 2005 and now invites seven of the world’s best chainsaw carvers to compete in their annual event. One of those is Jacob Lucas of Bonney Lake, Wash., who turned Bridgeport’s sycamores into works of art.

The competition runs for four days and concludes with and hour-and-a-half quickcarve event where the resulting pieces are auctioned off to the public, Dezellem said.

Bridgeport’s two dozen-plus carved sycamore tree trunks, that border both sides of Foster Avenue leading into the business district, attracted visitors from Chetwynd, B.C., Canada, a chainsaw carving mecca that attracts world-class carvers to its annual wood carving competition.

“We’ve always wondered what Bridgeport could do besides Bridgeport Daze,” said Dezellem. “I think you need to consider the city sponsoring a chainsaw event at Fireman Park in the summertime, like September, when the temperature goes down.”

Dezellem added that a chainsaw carving event in Bridgeport would be not only unique but also provide a way for the city to promote the carvings it already has in place.

“This is the greatest way in the world to start promoting our highway coming in here to the community,” Dezellem said.

Dezellem said Chetwynd now has major sponsors that help host their annual carving and a committee specifically appointed to handle the whole affair.

Council member Matt Schuh suggested that Bridgeport might consider a sister city relationship with its neighbor to the north since both communities are of similar size and share similar interests.

Salmon Fest returns for 27th annual festival this weekend

SUBMITTED BY CORKY BROADDUS

The Wenatchee River Salmon Festival is proud to present, the 27 annual award winning “School Days,” Sept. 28 and 29 at the Leavenworth National Fish Hatchery. More than 3,000 students, representing 34 schools and 90 classrooms from throughout North Central Washington, will be attending. A long list of partners and sponsors step up each year to deliver high quality natural resource education, promote healthy outdoor recreation, and share the cultural significance of salmon to the people of the Pacific Northwest. These field trip days of hands-on experiences for students provides a unique learning opportunity valued by North Central Washington schools.

This year has been one of transition for the Salmon Fest planning team as Betsy McIndoe steps down from her director role she has served in for 16 years. She now will hand the baton off to Hailey Croci, a local Cashmere Educator and active community member. Festival founders and coordinators, Corky Broaddus and Sheila Bergren are assisting Betsy and have been working year-round to make this year’s School Days a most special event connecting people with nature. To make the transition easier and keep costs low, the Salmon Fest will not be hosting events on Saturday this year, but instead will offer an afternoon Open House on Thursday, Sept. 28, from 3 to 6 p.m. for the general public. There will be guided Nature Tours, nature exhibits, Native American Village, fish printing, live birds of prey raptors and hands-on activities for all ages! The Salmon Fest Saturday will return in September 2018 where all festival activities will be presented in full force.

The non-profit Friends of Northwest Hatcheries hosts Salmon Fest with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, U.S. Forest Service, Chelan PUD and many “SPAWNors” that provide the funding and volunteers to make this event happen. High School students also join in the fun and are able to meet their high school community service requirements by becoming the festivals key volunteers.

Salmon Fest 2017 promises to be a true community event as well as a celebration of our precious natural resources. Come share in the salmon experience for a free family fun time for all ages.

The Salmon Fest is grateful to this wonderful NCW regional community for the many years of support and attendance that have put it on the map. Salmon Fest has been acknowledged by the International Festivals and Events as the Best Children’s Program in the country.

to water rights and water issues.”

In the absence of a solution to the Hirst issue Steele believes a shift in property values even in places like Bridgeport will take place where “the value of property with water rights will skyrocket while we’ll see major devaluations in properties without water rights.”

Council member Matt Schuh said that one of the biggest issues for Bridgeport involved the school district which is the city’s largest employer. Schuh stressed the importance of more housing within the city to allow teachers employed by the school district to also live in the district.

“Very few of our teachers

live here in town so when we have our bond measure come up it’s hard to get it passed when the teachers who are going to benefit from it are not voting on it,” Schuh said.

Steele said that scenario is seen more and more throughout the state and that, owing to his background in economic development, adequate housing and jobs in small communities are major priorities of his.

Public Works Superintendent Stuart Dezellem said that another issue affecting rural communities is the absence of money in the Public Works Trust Fund.

“Our community was able to get one of the last loans out of that to upgrade our wastewater treatment plant,” said Dezellem.

“Bridgeport is unique,” added Mayor Janet Conklin. “We have no motels, we have no packing sheds, so we’re desperate for that kind of money.”

Conklin said Bridgeport does not have the ability to bring that volume of money back into the city coffers.

Steele said during the time he served as a Chelan city council member, he also utilized those Public Works Trust Funds.

“We have funded all of the upcoming projects that have been upgraded,” Steele said of the $97 million dollars that is back in the Public Works Trust Fund in the pending capital budget.

Steele added that it is becoming more and more common for legislatures to sweep funds from the Public Works Trust Fund so he is committed to maintaining its availability to small communities.

The key statement Steele left with council members regarding the capital budget and the Hirst decision was: “We will not pass a capital budget until we have a solution to Hirst.”

The city’s existing sweeper required eight hours of repair for every two hours of use and was overdue for replacement, Webster said.

“We’ve had the one we’ve had for 20 years,” said Webster. “We bought it well-used and it’s a money-pit at this point.”

City clerk Misty Ruiz said that the last time Brewster cleaned its streets two years ago the city borrowed Bridgeport’s sweeper.

“We paid $3,500 for it,” said Ruiz and with accessory costs it ended up costing Brewster $5,000 for a one-time use.

The city also tried a private street maintenance company but those results were unsatisfactory. “Their machines just threw dirt everywhere and made things even worse,” Ruiz said.

The new machine is a demo model Global M3 manufactured by Global Environmental Products in San Bernardino, Calif. The three-wheel sweeper has a 12.5-foot turning radius, 125-inch sweeping path, high-dump 5.6 cubic foot hopper, low center of gravity to eliminate rollover and exceptional visibility, according to its specifications sheet.

The new addition to the city fleet will cost $189,987 paid for from street and general fund dollars.

FISH

- A minimum forecasted abundance of 9,550 fish total including wild and hatchery fish, 1,300 of which must be wild or native fish
- Upper Columbia tributaries must also meet independent minimum escape-ment targets.

Jackson said that 2017 steelhead forecasts above Bonneville Dam are at a 50-year low. Of those, the predicted steelhead coming over Priest Rapids Dam – the Upper Columbia fish – is about 3,400 fish, 615 of those wild. While the run is not yet completed, Jackson estimated another 1,000 to 1,200 fish would fall far short of the number needed to meet minimum requirements.

“What that means is for the second year in a row, we’re not going to have an Upper Columbia steelhead fishery,” Jackson said.

What Jackson referred to as a “double tap” on the steelhead numbers came from a combination of the 2015 heat and drought conditions and a poor ocean environment for fish survival.

Jackson’s summary set the stage for an active audience participation with questions relating to management practices, hatchery plants and fishing regulations.

A Chelan county resident asked why the Wenatchee River has not been managed to create as good a steelhead fishery as that found in the Methow River. The reply was that the Wenatchee’s shorter length, lack of tributaries and habitat compared with the Methow were big factors accounting for the difference in the two waterways.

Al Senyohl, president of the Steelhead Trout Club of Washington and part-time resident along the Methow WDFW Region 2 Director Chad Jackson delivered a presentation on the summer steelhead fishery.

River lamented the decline in steelhead numbers over the past decade and the economic loss to the area with the decrease in guides and sport fishermen from around the Northwest that used to fish the Methow.

“I’m a catch-and-release fly fisherman and I’ve seen a remarkable steelhead recovery of nine or 10 years ago with four fish limits decline to 6,700 fish this year,” said Senyohl. “That’s not what I call a successful program.”

Larry Riggins, president of the Methow Valley Fly

Fishers, has owned a piece of prime fishing real estate between Methow and Carlton, since 2005,

“It seems to me that if you put a million fish from our hatcheries and 250,000 from Wenatchee into the river and only get 6,000 back, something’s wrong,” Riggins said.

“We have seven dams and hundreds of miles that our fish have to cross to get to the ocean and back,” said Riggins “and we’re at the end of the chain.”

Riggins said a proposed change of management of upper Columbia hatcheries from WDFW to the Douglas County PUD is another concern that leaves everything “up in the air right now.”

“The Douglas County PUD owns the hatcheries and they own the fish,” said Riggins “but has contracted with WDFW for quite a period to run them.”

Chief Joseph Hatchery Manager Pat Phillips, who attended the meeting and knows a thing or two about steelhead propagation efforts, later summed up the mood of the fishermen who attended the meeting.

“We all want steelhead fishing the way it used to be,” said Phillips “but the agency has its hands tied in lots of ways because of the ESA requirements.”

Managers must work within the PUD mitigation program as part of the process within existing guidelines, Phillips said.

“Ocean and drought conditions being what they are, all you can do is rear good fish, release them, and hope for the best,” Phillips said.

On another topic, Jackson said one of the more consistent complaints WDFW has received from citizen surveys is the complicated fishing regs pamphlet.

“Our fishing pamphlet is terrible,” said Jackson. “The agency has been undergoing a rules simplification and re-formatting the pamphlet.”

Jackson said the new product will be reviewed in a series of regional public meetings and an online link at wdfw.wa.gov/ to get further feedback.

Lady Bears hammer three volleyball opponents

By MIKE MALTAIS

BREWSTER – The Lady Bears varsity volleyball team is riding a three-game win streak following victories over Waterville, Oroville and Liberty Bell during a six-day span last week.

Brewster defeated Liberty Bell convincingly in three matches, 25-3, 25-5, and 25-8, on the road last Saturday, Sept. 23.

“Our girls did a good job from the service line,” said coach Marcy Boesel. “Tough serves allowed us to get their team out of system which enabled us to run our offense successfully.”

Abby Urias was a perfect 22 for 22 from the service line with eight aces. Marta Martinez hit 12 for 12.

Stats

Brooklynne Boesel: 9/10 serving, 3 aces, 7 kills, 11 assists, 6 digs.

Oroville stung

Two days earlier Brewster hosted Oroville and handed the Hornets identical defeats of 25-14, 25-14, and 25-14 in three consecutive matches.

“Oroville did a nice job digging up our attacks and serving tough,” said Boesel. “We need to clean up our serve/ receive and transition.”

Several Lady Bears were once again perfect from the service line including Maret Miller, 21-21, Urias, 9-9, Martinez, 7-7, and Sammi Emigh, 4-4.

“I was pleased with how our girls battled and I felt they did a good job of focusing on getting better each set,” Boesel said.

Stats

Brooklynne Boesel: 12/14 serving, 5 aces, 8 kills, 9 digs,

Abby Urias: 9/9 serving, 2 aces, 3 digs.

Karina Martinez: 1/1 serving, Elizabeth Stam: 0/1 serving, 1 kill, 1 dig.

Anah Wulf: 6/8 serving, 3 aces, 2 kills.

Waterville shocked

Waterville could not get into double digits during any of their matches when they hosted Brewster on Tuesday, Sept. 19. The Lady Bears held the Shockers in single-digit territory, 25-5, 25-5, and 25-7.

“Our girls did a good job getting themselves mentally where they needed to be to compete,” said Boesel. “I was pleased with our focus and our execution and proud of our total team effort.”

Miller was zoned in at the service line with 27-27 and nine aces. Karste Wright hit 16-17 with 6 aces while Martinez and Brooklynne Boesel were 10-10 and 7-7 respectively.

Bears lose early lead to Lake Roosevelt, 24-19

By MIKE MALTAIS

BREWSTER – The Bears varsity football team lost an early lead and the momentum 24-19 to the visiting Lake Roosevelt Raiders last Friday, Sept. 22.

Brewster got off to the right start with a 6-2 first quarter lead but the Raiders recovered to put eight points on the board with a two-point conversion early in the second quarter to go up 10-6 over Brewster.

Quarterback Joe Taylor finds the route a little congested among a horde of Raiders.

It's the second loss for the Bears who opened the season with a 14-6 win over Liberty Bell but lost on the road to Oroville, 40-18. Brewster is now 1-2 in league and standing sixth in the Central Washington 2B behind Bridgeport that claimed its first win in almost three years.

"I thought that Connor Wiggs played good defensively and Kade Kelpman had some great catches for us," said Johanson.

Quarterback Joe Taylor completed six of 12 passes for 139 yards and a touchdown.

"When we didn't shoot ourselves in the foot we were able to sustain drives but that didn't happen near enough."

The Bears will travel to soap Lake to meet the Eagles on Friday, Sept. 29.

Receiving
Kade Kelpman: 2 catches, 45 yards.
Ernie Nanamkin: 2 catches, 74 yds.
Gio Nila: 2 catches, 20 yds.

Rushing
Ernie Nanamkin: 15 carries, 44 yds.
Joe Taylor: 19 carries, 71 yds.
Gio Nila: 1 carry 30 yds.
Ricardo Gallaga: 1 carry, 10 yds.

Defense
Jeff Sonneman: 1 Int, 5 tackles. 1 FR
Connor Wiggs 13 tackles
Joe Taylor 7 tackles, 1 sack, 1 FR

Bridgeport claims first football win since 2014

BRIDGEPORT – The Mustangs varsity football players were kicking up their heels, Sept. 15, after defeating Waterville, 30-6, to collect their first win in nearly three years.

It has been a long comeback for the Bridgeport football program since it collected its last win in October 2014. The school sat out the 2015 season and reformed the team last year. The 2016 schedule didn't cut the Mustangs any slack as they went winless last season.

Former Bridgeport alumnus and football player Pat McFadden took over the reins as head coach this year.

The Mustangs forfeited their first game against non-league Chewelah and sustained a tough loss to last year's Central Washington 2B League champion Tonasket Tigers before finding some traction against the Shockers. Last Friday they lost a league game against undefeated Manson, 0-42.

With Liberty Bell, Brewster, Oroville, Lake Roosevelt and

Soap Lake waiting down the road the Mustangs have no push-overs in the games ahead.

Nannies drop close game to improved Wilson Creek

By MIKE MALTAIS

PATEROS – The Wilson Creek Devils have working hard to bring their varsity volleyball program back into top form and they showed their improvement with a win over the Nannies, 27-25, 25-19, 22-25, and 25-13 last Thursday, Sept. 21.

"What goes around comes around and Wilson Creek came around with a drastically improved team," said Pateros coach Gene Dowers.

"The last two matches have really shown how much we have a target on our backs and how much we have to be ready to take on very motivated challengers."

Dowers said Sarah Poole had another great match at the serving line.

"Anna Williams has become our kills leader and Taylor Harrild's hitting game is coming around and making her a threat in the middle," said Dowers.

"Ashlyn Gonzalez tallied another pile of digs and passes."

"Williams, Harrild and Jessi Hixon put together our first strong blocking performance" said Dowers.

"We need to work hard on our attacking at the net and on reading defenses."

Dowers said there is definitely a way to beat Wilson Creek and the Nannies will be better prepared the next time the two teams meet.

Stats:
Sarah Poole: 4 kills, 21/22 serves w/8 aces, 1 assist, 19 passes, 16 digs.
Samantha White: 2 kills, 16/17 serves w/1 ace, 3 assists, 6 passes, 12 digs
Andrea Baird: 2 kills, 6/8 serves, 5 assists, 8 digs
Ashlyn Gonzalez: 15/18 serves w/2 aces, 2 assists, 25 passes, 31 digs
Taylor Harrild: 7 kills, 3/6 serves, 8 digs, 1 solo block

Billygoats beat up Curlew Cougars 56-12

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

PATEROS – The Billygoats varsity football team started strong and ended like they started during a 56-12 win over the visiting Curlew Cougars at home last Friday, Sept. 22.

“We were able to get the offense going in the first half,” said coach Marcus Stennes of his fired-up team.

On the very first drive, quarterback Ivan Cenicerros connected with Andrew Gonzalez on a 50-yard touchdown pass play that set the tone for much of the remaining game.

“Ivan had a great game both running and passing,” said Stennes. “He stepped in with (Jeremy) Piechalski being out this week.”

Stennes said senior lineman Doug Viebrock did a great job of opening running lanes.

“Defensively we were led by Erich Foster with eight tackles, four of those being sacks,” Stennes said.

Pateros will take its 2-1 record on the road Friday for a game against Almira-Coulee-Hartline.

Andrew Gonzalez escapes the clutches of a Curlew pursuer as he crosses the goal line for a Billygoats' score, one of many Pateros would rack up against the visiting Cougars last Friday.

Sophomore linebacker Erich Foster (52) sacks the Curlew quarterback in the Cougars' end zone for a two-point safety.
