Bridgeport 'plugs-in' with new vehicle charging station

By MIKE MALTAIS, STAFF WRITER

BRIDGEPORT – Electric cars will soon be a more frequent sight in Bridgeport thanks to a new car charging station that is nearing completion in Bouska Square in the city's downtown core.

The new station is a cooperative effort between the City of Bridgeport, the North Central Washington Economic Development District (NCWEDD) and its affiliate, Plug-in North Central Washington. Completion of the station will add Bridgeport to a network of outlets that will allow drivers access to power along State Route 17 and SR 174. Other stations are located in Pateros, Grand Coulee, Wilbur and Davenport.

Repairs, chip seal work begins on Brewster streets

Workers from Granite Construction remove sections of pavement on Jay Street and add base material prior to further resurfacing steps.

By MIKE MALTAIS, STAFF WRITER

BREWSTER – Work is underway to repair and chip seal several streets in downtown Brewster now that warming spring temperatures will allow the upgrades to proceed.

Brewster Public Works Director Lee Webster said Granite was awarded the bid from the Washington State Department of Transportation (WSDOT) to perform "chip seal work and do a bunch of repairs for all of Highway 173 also called Bridge Street once it reaches Brewster."

Webster saw the need to expand the repair efforts to more than just the Bridge Street corridor. Griggs, Hanson, Indian and Jay streets all needed work, Webster said. "I made some calls to WS-DOT last year," said Webster who wanted to secure its approval for additional work through the Transportation Improvement Board.

Webster said it only made sense to utilize the Granite equipment while it was in the city and forego the time and expense of having Granite or some other contractor return at a later date to do the other work.

"I got the O.K. to do that," Webster said.

An addendum was added to the master contract to piggyback Webster's request onto the existing agreement. Consequently, the city benefitted from the cost savings.

"We are paying very little for those repairs and getting the chip seal for zero dollars," Webster said.

Nominate your favorite Three Rivers Hospital nurse

DAISY Award nominees to be selected, honored monthly

SUBMITTED BY CHRIS MAJORS, THREE RIVERS HOSPITAL

BREWSTER - Starting this year, nurses at Three Rivers Hospital will be honored with The DAISY Award for Extraordinary Nurses. The award is part of the DAISY Foundation's program to recognize the hard work, dedication and quality care that nurses provide every day.

The hospital is now welcoming nominations for Registered Nurses (RNs) and Licensed Nurse Practitioners (LPNs). Nomination forms are available in English and Spanish throughout the facility, and online at www.threerivershospital.net. Anyone, from patients and visitors to coworkers and physicians, can submit nominations.

"We are proud to be among the healthcare organizations participating in the DAISY Award program," said Chief Nursing Officer Gretchen Aguilar. "Nurses are heroes every day. It's important that our nurses know their work is highly valued, and The DAISY Foundation provides a way for us to do that."

Each May during National

Nurses Week, a nurse will be selected by Three Rivers Hospital's employee recognition committee to receive The DAISY Award. At a presentation given in front of colleagues, physicians, patients, and visitors, the honoree will receive a certificate commending her or him for being an "Extraordinary Nurse." The certificate reads: "In deep appreciation of all you do, who you are, and the incredibly meaningful difference you make in the lives of so many people." The honoree will also be given a sculpture called A Healer's Touch, hand-carved by artists of the Shona Tribe in Africa.

DAISY Award nominees will be selected and honored monthly with a DAISY pin and certificate of appreciation from Aguilar, and their photo will be displayed in a new glass display case in the hospital lobby. From those nominees, the annual honoree will be chosen.

The not-for-profit DAISY Foundation is based in Glen Ellen, Calif., and was established by family members in memory of J. Patrick Barnes. Patrick died at the age of 33 in 1999 from complications of Idiopathic Thrombocytopenic Purpura (ITP), a little known but not uncommon auto-immune disease. The care Patrick and his family received from nurses while he was ill inspired this unique means of thanking nurses for making a profound difference in the lives of their patients and patient families.

"When Patrick was critically ill, our family experienced first-hand the remarkable skill and care nurses provide patients every day and night," said Bonnie Barnes, president and co-founder of The DAISY Foundation. "Yet these unsung heroes are seldom recognized for the super-human work they do. The kind of work the nurses at Three Rivers Hospital are called on to do every day epitomizes the purpose of The DAISY Award."

Bridgeport is affiliated with the NCWEDD and at its regular meetings mayor Janet Conklin promoted Bridgeport as a site for a charging station.

"One of my issues has been that a lot of these organizations are only interested in towns on Highway 97," said Conklin. "We are not on 97, but we have people coming off our state highway and a charging station would help bring more economy into our town."

Another issue with the Bridgeport station was placement.

"They were wanting a wall to mount it on," said Conklin, but the city didn't have one that was conveniently located. Eventually an agreement was reached to mount the charger on a solitary post adjacent to Bouska Square.

Randy Brooks of Chelan, a member of the Plug-In NCW committee, said his group had good reason to want a charger in Bridgeport.

"It's really on the road from the west side Highway 20 to Grand Coulee Dam," said Brooks. "It offers drivers the opportunity to visit Chief Joseph and Grand Coulee dams."

So far, 18 charging stations have been installed in North Central Washington, said Brooks, and plans call for adding six more. Of those, 17 were installed in partnership with a host business or municipality.

"We provided the charger and they paid for installation," said Brooks. "Last year we received a USDA grant to pay for installation as well, as in the case with Bridgeport."

"We are using our funds to dig the ditch for the power line and bring power to the unit," said Conklin. "Earlier we got a grant to build a privacy fence and we'll spruce up the area a bit."

Brooks said Plug-In's goal is to electrify highways into and out of the area.

"Of the 16,000-plus electric vehicles in Washington, most are in Seattle," said Brooks. "and there are many in Spokane."

Brooks said the current network of charging stations allows owners of electric cars to go "anywhere in the state, really."

An online website, www.plugshare.com/ provides information on the charging stations throughout the state and offers a downloadable application for mobile devices.

Webster said the chip seal work will have to wait until May owing to temperature guidelines the contractor must follow.

During the actual chip seal application, there can be no vehicles parked on the street shoulders," said Webster. "The surface can be driven on within three to four hours after completion of the process, so it's not an all-day ban."

Webster said the city will distribute door hangers and notices to advise residents of the parking restrictions as that time becomes more definite.

Current work on repairs to portions of Jay Street revealed that the street base material has degraded to the point that TIB will not pay for chip seal on Jay, Webster said. A TIB representative will join Webster in an inspection of Jay and other city streets to determine those most in need of future repairs.

Waterville native serving aboard USS Sterett

By the Navy Office of Community Outreach

SAN DIEGO – A 2007 Waterville High School graduate and Waterville, Wash. native is serving in the U.S. Navy aboard the guided-missile destroyer, USS Sterett.

Petty Officer 1st Class Brandon Rock is an electronics technician aboard the Arleigh Burke class guided-missile destroyer operating out of San Diego.

An electronics technician in the Navy is responsible for maintaining and repairing electronics equipment such as radar, communication and navigation equipment.

“The best part of my job is being able to see the world,” said Rock.

Commissioned in August of 2008, Sterett measures approximately 500 feet and is powered by four gas turbines that allow the destroyer to achieve over 30 mph in open seas. Sterett is the fourth ship to be named after Lt. Andrew Sterett, a U.S. naval officer who fought in the Quasi and Barbary wars.

Destroyers are tactical multi-mission surface combatants capable of conducting anti-air warfare, anti-submarine warfare and anti-surface warfare, as well as humanitarian assistance.

Fast, maneuverable, and technically advanced, destroyers provide the required warfighting expertise and operational flexibility to execute any tasking overseas.

With a crew of more than 300 sailors, jobs are highly specialized and keep each part of the destroyer running smoothly, according to Navy officials. The jobs range from washing dishes and preparing meals to maintaining engines and handling weaponry.

“Being a part of this command is new and exciting,” said Rock.

Challenging living conditions build strong fellowship among the crew, Navy officials explained. The crew is highly motivated, and quickly adapt to changing conditions. It is a busy life of specialized work, watches, and drills.

“Being in the Navy gives me a sense of pride,” said Rock. “I am proud to be one of the fortunate ones to get away from home to do something important.”

Bears lead CW2B baseball with six league wins

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

BREWSTER – With an undefeated league record of 6-0 through Saturday, April 1, the Bears varsity boys lead the North Central Washington 2B following the opening third of baseball season.

Brewster blanked Waterville-Mansfield 7-0, and 13-0 in a doubleheader against the Shockers at Waterville, Saturday, April 1.

“We allowed one hit on the day and played a little better,” said Bears’ coach Todd Phillips. “Couple guys hit the ball better. Pitching and defense got it done.”

The Bears handed the Mustangs a 24-0 loss, March 28, and lost a non-league contest to Cashmere, 6-2, last Thursday, March 30.

The Bears have yet to meet the best rivals in the league this season in Soap Lake, Liberty Bell and Lake Roosevelt but will be meeting all three in the next six games.

The Eagles are riding a five-0 league streak of their own and will play the Bears in a doubleheader starting at 3 p.m. Friday, April 7.

Brewster will host 4-0 Liberty Bell at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 11, and face the Raiders in a doubleheader on Friday, April 14.

Brewster extends soccer win streak to 3-0

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

BREWSTER – The game was all but over in the first half of play as the Brewster Bears varsity soccer team preserved its unbeaten win streak at 3-0 with a 9-3 victory over visiting Tonasket last Thursday, March 30.

The Bears were up, 7-2, at the half and never let the Tigers back into the game through the second period.

The win leaves Brewster on top of the North Central Washington 2B League at 3-0, two games ahead of Liberty Bell, Manson and Bridgeport, all at 1-1.

Against a tougher non-league 1A Cascade, the Bears suffered a 4-1 loss at Leavenworth on Saturday, April 1. In earlier games against non-league Caribou Trail League schools the Bears handed 4-0 defeats to both Okanogan and Cashmere.

The Bears were scheduled to host another 1A club, Chelan, on Tuesday, April 4, and will entertain Liberty Bell at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 11.

With a deep bench of two dozen players and many of them seniors and juniors, coach Jenner Sanon can substitute generously to keep his opponents running.

PATEROS – The Nannies varsity softball team increased in Central Washington 2B league record to four wins against two losses with a doubleheader victory over visiting Oroville last Saturday, April 1, but it wasn't easy.

The hard-hitting Hornets stayed within striking distance through both games, Pateros coach John Slater's starting lineup included pitcher Aubrey Miller, catcher Anna Schluneger, first base Taylor Harrild, second base Ashlyn Gonzalez, third base Aubrey Baird, shortstop Jahaira Hernandez, and outfielders Samantha White, Kiera Austin and Alondra Hernandez.

The Nannies' only league losses have come at the bats of Liberty Bell in a March 25 doubleheader.

The Nannies are currently in fourth place in the NCW2B, behind 4-0 Liberty Bell and ahead of the 2-6 Hornets.

Mustangs fall to tough Trojan team, 5-2

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

BRIDGEPORT – The Mustangs' varsity soccer team remain in a three-way for second place in the North Central Washington 2B League following a 5-2 loss to visiting Manson last Thursday, March 30.

Manson jumped out to an early lead on a hat-trick from senior Trojan Jose Juarez in the first 35 minutes of play.

Bridgeport got some good shots on goal but could never get back into the game despite an impressive 35-yard volley from Osvaldo Orozco that gave the Mustangs their final goal.

The win puts Manson even with the Mustangs and Liberty

Bell at 1-1 in league play with 3-0 Brewster at the top and Oroville and Tonasket trailing at 1-2 and 0-2 respectively.

Bridgeport came close against Okanogan on Saturday, April 1, with a 4-3 loss to the 1A Bulldogs.

The Mustangs will travel to Oroville on Tuesday, April 11, for a league match against the Hornets.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Health care question

The Swamp is a cute name for, I'm not sure what, but I like the visual it generates about Washington D.C. However, let's get to the point, first, Obamacare is nothing more than RomneyCare gone Federal. Second, at a minimum, the GOP has had from 2010-2017, adequate time to draft a healthcare bill that would deflate and repeal and replace the current ACA, one would think.

The House of Representatives failed in that effort.

The current failure does not suggest that no work has been done by some segment of the GOP to offer a package.

What's missing in all the noise is the fundamental difference between the GOP's sides.

That important difference can be simply explained, were one to examine the details and exempt the political party nonsense that covers things.

If I may, here is the major difference: 1. Romney Care is a state program. 2. Obama Care is a Federal Government program, a law that requires all 50 states to comply.

The GOP is currently (and perhaps for the past 10 to 12 yrs) in the mess of trying to decide who leads the party: a. the State's Rights purists, or 2. the Federalists who would not have joined the fight in 1864 against Slavery Ownership Rights by individual states.

Like it or not, this is the fundamental question about healthcare; is healthcare a Federal Govt. supported/provided benefit of citizenry, or is it a service provided or not by each State's opinion in the legislative offices?

As I read your tripe (and yes, that is a throw-away fish), I see you too fail to come to grips with this point. So, let me ask you directly: Bill do you favor a federal or a state level of law in the matter of health care for all Americans? Both sides are legitimate Constitutionally, and both sides have value as well as flaws... there is no perfect solution for issues of such magnitude.

I mean no insult or injury when I ask the question; neither do I intend to open up a different debate. All I'm looking for here is an honest answer. Do you support: A. State's rights for providing healthcare support/insurance, or B. Federal gov't. rights to provide healthcare to the citizens of the nation?

Before you ask: I favor, strongly, a single payer, federal system that trumps (no pun intended) all private insurance claims, just to keep you on target to answering my question.

In the federal sense, it is this question nationally that must be answered and it too should be decided whether the nation needs a Romney solution, aka State decided, or an Obama solution, a national solution from the federal government.

If you're interested, I too favor the replacement of Obamacare; I want a single-payer, Federal insurance program for all citizens in all 50 states. I'm confident that were President Lincoln alive in today's health insurance market he too, as an ardent member of the old GOP would take my side in this debate.

Where do you stand? And by the way, if your view is the other side of the debate... that's terrific. Now we have a substantive debate issue, without name-calling and ranting. What's required is for the house and the senate to also come to grips with the basic question and hammer out a solution that makes the majority happy. Isn't that what our government is all about? The majority decides? And, the majority should be the voters, not the insurance companies, the pharma giants, etc. It should be the registered citizen voters, not the dollars of others.

Alex Saliby
Leavenworth

Publisher's response: Short answer - I want a free market solution with minimal involvement from the government. Competition and ingenuity will produce better results than a one size fits all government mandate whether that is mandated by the states or the federal is irrelevant.

Difficult issues require serious debate

A few individuals wrote to me this week threatening to cancel their subscriptions because we had an advertisement in the newspaper opposing Planned Parenthood. One writer said she did not want this kind of "political propaganda" in her local newspaper.

There are a couple of serious issues here.

First, advertisements are what pay for the newspaper. Subscription revenue would never be enough to pay for the cost of publishing a newspaper. So, the economic reality is without advertising

IN MY
Bill Forhan
Publisher

revenue the price of the newspaper would be prohibitively high.

Second, paid subscribers are what drive advertising rates. The more paid subscribers the more advertisers are willing to pay for their advertising. In other words, the more that advertisers are willing to pay for an ad the lower the subscription rate.

It's a symbiotic relationship that is somewhat akin to dancing with a cobra.

Third, newspapers are not vouching for an advertiser when they run an ad. It is up to the consumer to decide if the advertiser's message is true or "propaganda."

Finally, it is important to recognize that our founding fathers recognized the importance a free and unfettered press. It is a core American principle that our democracy cannot be sustained without an open and sometimes difficult exchange of conflicting ideas.

Even as the publisher of a small local newspaper, I take the challenge of being a forum for public discourse seriously. Many of my local critics have challenged me over the years because of my clearly conservative views.

That said, I have never denied those with a more liberal or progressive point of view their opportunity to express their contrary viewpoint. In the early days, I often took the opportunity to respond to letters submitted by readers thinking that might add to the debate. I soon found out, however, that most letter writers did not want a debate. They simply want to register their opinion on an issue.

The bottom line here is that the "anti-Planned Parenthood" group was willing to pay for the opportunity to express their opinion. The "pro-Planned Parenthood" folks have the same opportunity.

This newspaper does not endorse either view. What we do believe is issues of a public nature require a forum for open expression. Historically this forum has been our free press. You might not always like what you read in the pages of your local newspaper but real democracy requires all citizens to keep informed of the issues confronting us.

Our country is clearly at a crossroads. Making the choice of which way our country should go requires open and honest discussion of the differences that keep us apart. Choosing to ignore those we disagree with because their opinion offends us is not going to insure we ultimately choose the right road.

U.S. Running out of places to borrow

By ANTONY DAVIES AND JAMES R. HARRIGAN

As the federal debt has gone from astounding to unbelievable to incomprehensible, a new problem has emerged: The US government is actually running out of places to borrow.

The $20 trillion debt is already twice the annual revenues collected by all the world's governments combined. Including unfunded liabilities, though, which include promised Social Security, Medicare, and government pension payments that Washington will not have the money to pay, the federal government actually owes somewhere between $100 trillion and $200 trillion. The numbers are so ridiculously large that even the uncertainty in the figures exceeds the annual economic output of the entire planet.

Since 2000, the federal debt has grown at an average annual rate of 8.2 percent, doubling from $10 trillion to $20 trillion in the past eight years alone. Who loaned the government this money? Four groups: foreigners, Americans, the Federal Reserve, and government trust funds. But over the past decade, three of these groups have cut back significantly on their lending.

Foreign investors have slowed the growth in their lending from over 20 percent per year in the early 2000's to less than 3 percent per year today. Excluding the Great Recession years, American investors have been cutting back on how much they lend the federal government by an average of 2 percent each year. Social Security, though, presents an even bigger problem. The federal government borrowed all the Social Security surpluses of the past 80 years. But starting this year, and continuing either forever or until Congress overhauls the program (which may be the same thing), Social Security will only generate deficits. Not only is the government no longer able to borrow from Social Security, it will have to start paying back what it owes - assuming the government plans on making good on its obligations.

With federal borrowing growing at more than 6 percent per year, with foreign and American investors becoming more reluctant to lend, and with the Social Security trust fund drying up, the Fed is the only game left in town. Since 2001, the Fed has increased its lending to the federal government by over 11 percent each year, on average. Expect that trend to continue.

For decades, often in word but always in deed, politicians have told voters that government debt didn't matter. We, and many economists, disagree. Yet even if the politicians were right, the absence of available creditors would be an insurmountable problem - were it not for the Federal Reserve. But when the Federal Reserve acts as the lender of last resort, unpleasant realities follow. Because, as everyone should be keenly aware, the Fed simply prints the money it loans.

A Fed loan devalues every dollar already in circulation, from those in people's savings accounts to those in their pockets. The result is inflation, which is, in essence, a tax on frugal savers to fund a spendthrift government.

Since the end of World War II, inflation in the US has averaged less than 4 percent per year. When the Fed starts printing money in earnest because the government can't obtain loans elsewhere, inflation will rise dramatically. How far is difficult to say, but we have some recent examples of countries that tried to finance runaway government spending by printing money. From 1975 to 1990, the Greek people suffered 15 percent annual inflation as their government printed money to finance stimulus spending. Following the breakup of the Soviet Union in the 1990s, Russia printed money to keep its government running. The result was five years over which inflation averaged 750 percent. Today, Venezuela's government prints money to pay its bills, causing 200 percent inflation which the International Monetary Fund expects to skyrocket to 1,600 percent this year.

For nearly a century, politicians have treated deficit spending as a magic wand.

In a recession? We need jobs, so government must spend more money! In an expansion? There's more tax revenue, so government can spend more money! Always and everywhere, politicians argued only about how much to increase spending, never whether to increase spending. A century of this has left us with a debt so large that it dwarfs the annual economic output of the planet. And now we are coming to the point at which there will be no one left from whom to borrow. When creditors finally disappear completely, all that will remain is a reckoning.

Build upon uniform, workable privacy framework to protect consumer data

Americans rightfully expect for their private internet data to be protected from fraud or theft under a clear, transparent framework for all business conducted on the Internet. Rules that protect personal data online should be uniform, and I support a strong framework across federal agencies to enforce standards that protect personal data from inappropriate and deceptive business practices.

For years, the Federal Trade Commission has been the U.S. Cong.

Dan

agency charged with enforcing consumer data security and preventing deceptive business practices or misuse of consumer data online. In fact, the FTC has taken many enforcement actions that stress that companies must respect their customers' individual privacy. One example is the FTC enforcement of a case against a social media company to resolve charges that the company deceived consumers by telling them they could keep their information private, and then repeatedly allowing that information to be shared and made public. The FTC acted rightly in this case on behalf of protecting consumers.

At the very end of the Obama administration, a separate agency, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), finalized a new broadband privacy rule that applied solely to Internet Service Providers (ISPs). The implementation of the rule was paused, however, before it ever went into effect.

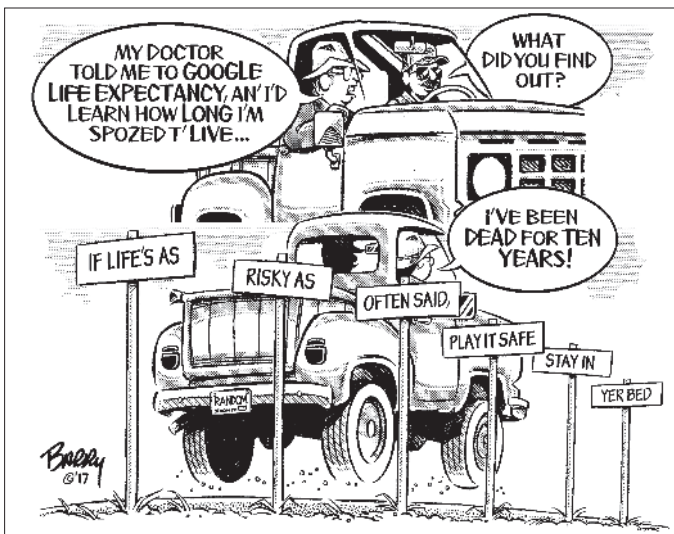

Upon learning of the proposed rule, the FTC, which has been protecting and enforcing online privacy for years through a comprehensive framework, criticized the FCC broadband rule because it would create an inconsistent set of standards. The broadband rule would mean that consumer data would be treated differently in regards to ISPs versus internet content providers such as social media sites and web browsers. By characterizing the effect of the rule as "not optimal," the FTC found the uneven outcome this rule would create for consumer data as problematic. It should be very clear to consumers which entities have access to use of data for commercial, social, or innovative purposes and consumers should have a consistent standard on how to control their privacy across platforms. The FCC rule, had it gone into effect, would have muddied those waters.

The reversal of the FCC's new broadband rule, which I supported, returns ISPs to the same rules that have applied to internet content providers for years. ISPs continue to be subject to enforcement of federal privacy protections. To further ensure privacy protections, last month, top officials at the FTC and FCC committed to harmonizing privacy rules so that data protections are consistent from one agency to another. I support improving that agency-to-agency effort to make consumer protection rules apply across the board to internet service providers as well as other internet content providers so consumer have confidence that their data is protected.
