BRIDGEPORT - The Bridgeport School District Board held its first meeting last Monday, Feb. 27, since passage of its facilities bond earlier this month and, among other business, appointed Bridgeport resident Maggie Ochoa to fill the seat vacated by the retirement of Rick Halterman.

Ochoa was interviewed in a board work session prior to the meeting and, following board approval, given the oath of office for the position of Director No. 2 by school superintendent, Scott Sattler.

Sattler told board members that passage of the bond measure represented "a positive sign of community support."

Douglas County voters gave the bond a 65.3 percent approval and Okanogan county voters 58.3 percent for an overall margin of 64.5 percent, Sattler said.

Passage of the bond will allow the district to add more classroom space to the high school and elementary school and renovate the middle school.

With the help of financial and legal counsel the bonds will be sold this summer and the district will begin its search for an architect and project manager, Sattler said.

Pateros council approves Ives Landing costs, revised building fees

BY MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

PATEROS - The City Council swore in a new council member, approved the plan and cost estimates for the expansion of Ives Landing Park, revised and adjusted the city's building fees, and approved the second State Direct Grant for the city water system, among other business at its regular monthly meeting last Tuesday, Feb. 21.

Pateros resident, Mike Harding, selected last Jan. 10 from among three prospective candidates to fill the council seat vacated by Ryan Greene, took his official oath of office from clerk-treasurer, Kerri Wilson.

City administrator, Jord Wilson reviewed cost estimates for additional RV and camping spaces in Ives Landing Park. Of the total project costs of $345,567.80, the Douglas County PUD will contribute $180,000. The total city contribution is calculated at $149,306.08.

"That leaves us an estimated budget shortfall of about $16,000," said Wilson. "This is a very, very tight budget."

Wilson said he built some flexibility into some line items that can be pulled

Pateros seeks volunteers for Museum Committee

BY MIKE MALTAIS STAFF WRITER

PATEROS - The spotlight is back on the Pateros Museum as Mayor Carlene Anders has issued an invitation for community volunteers to serve on a Museum Committee.

Anders said that with all the other city priorities that have required attention over the past few years "we lost the momentum on the museum and need to get it back."

The museum is housed in a portion of City Hall and includes an impressive array of several large murals donated to Pateros by the Douglas County PUD in 2013.

One of those depicts explorer David Thompson, the first white man to traverse and map the Columbia River from its headwaters to the ment to Serving Community Members recovering from the Wildfire Disasters of 2014 and 2015."

The frame also contains samples of burned items recovered from wildfire home sites.

CVH a 501(c)3, got its start in 2008 when organizers were looking for a way to better serve under-resourced Chelan Valley families. Following the 2014-15 wildfires CVH served as a hub for fire relief efforts.

"Sharon has been involved with us from almost the very beginning," Anders said of Lukas' involvement in OCLTRG. "She is one of our most senior members and last January became our treasurer."

Lukas and CVH participate in the weekly telephone conference meetings of the Unmet Needs Roundtable that continues to provide a funding source for fire survivors.

"It's the way our Disaster Case Managers (DCM) get their funding," Anders said. "Over a million dollars has been contributed so far."

Other groups that participate or have participated in the weekly teleconferences include Red Cross, United Methodist Church, Okanogan County Community Action Council, Catholic Charities, Room One, United Way, Community foundation of North Central Washington, and Carlton Complex Assistance Network, to name a partial list.

The funding partners have a sit-down meeting at 9:30 a.m. every third Friday of the month at the Pateros Fire Hall.

Pacific Ocean. Following some difficulties and delays, Thompson passed the site of present-day Pateros sometime around July 6, 1811. This information and more can be seen at the museum on a large panel describing Thompson's voyage.

A 2009 grant allowed the city to convert the old Pateros Fire Hall, then part of today's City Hall, into a modern museum facility.

The city held the museum's official ribbon-cutting during a 2011 re-enactment of Thompson's Columbia Brigade, according to the museum's website, www.pateros.com.

Anders said the committee will help the city determine "how to best proceed" with additions and upgrades to the space.

The next meeting of the Museum Committee is at 2:30 p.m., Thursday, March 2 at City Hall.

The design phase will take about a year to complete so Sattler estimates that groundbreaking can begin in the spring of 2018.

In the category of Special Recognition, teacher Jenny Sanon was honored at Certificated Employee of the Year and paraprofessional Luana Gavin as Classified Employee of the Year.

The board also recognized the week of March 13-17 as Classified Public School Employee Week and March 13-19 as School Retirees Appreciation Week.

Sattler presented Middle School Dean of Students, Hanna Coffman with the Gold Star Award for the state's College Bound Scholarship (CBS) program from the Office of Governor Jay Inslee.

The CBS was established by the state Legislature in 2007 to provide college financial aid to low-income students. Students must sign up for the program during their seventh or eighth grade year and agree to abide by pledge requirements to remain eligible for CBS. The Scholarship Pledge includes:

- High school graduation from a cumulative 2.0 GPA or higher.

- No felony convictions. Students must also be U.S. citizens, eligible non-citizens of have DACA (Deferred Action for Childhood Arrival) status, be income eligible, and be accepted by an eligible college that they will attend within one year of high school graduation.

The CBS covers tuition (at comparable public colleges), some fees, and a small book allowance, according to the website, www.wsac.wa.gov/college-bound

In a letter accompanying the Gold Star Award, Gov.

Inslee wrote: "Your district's success places you as one of the top-performing districts in the state," and added that Bridgeport's CBS sign-up rate exceeded the state average and "set an example for others to model."

The board also accepted the resignations of high school cheer coach, Lisa Pierce, fourth grade teacher and high school JV girls basketball coach, Kayla Craig, and middle school special ed. teacher, Jennifer Dodge.

The board approved new hires Caitlin Huber as high school softball assistant coach, Dario Martinez as high school baseball assistant coach, Samantha Torres as high school cheer coach, and Jesse Macy as high school baseball head coach.

Macy said he held his first varsity practice in the school gym earlier than morning and had nine players turn out.

out if actual construction bids come in higher than expected.

Council also approved an adjustment in the city's building fees to align with those charged by Okanogan County. Following a meeting between city clerk-treasurer, Kerri Wilson and Pateros building inspector, Darren Moore with Okanogan county's building inspector it was recommended that for the sake of clarity and conciseness, the Pateros fee schedule should mirror that of the county.

Council voted to enter an agreement with the Washington State Department of Commerce for grants funds for the city's water system upgrade following receipt of a second State Direct Grant of $1,067,000. The city received an earlier State Direct Grant in the amount of $1,838,000.

The water system project calls for drilling two or three new city wells and adding 200,000 gallons of reservoir storage capacity.

In her report to council, Mayor, Carlene Anders said rebuilding is continuing in Phase 2 of the Okanogan County Long Term Recovery Group's (OCLTRG) multi-phase plan but mud and road weight restrictions have called a temporary halt to current efforts.

Anders said OCLTRG currently has 124 active cases open with 20 of those in the Carlton Complex area.

"We've had a lot of secondary homeowners contact us," said Anders. "We have not yet gone to secondary homes."

One Deseret volunteer has been tentatively approved for one year to begin next August, said Anders, and application has been tendered for AmeriCorps volunteers.

Anders put issued a request for volunteers to serve on committees for both the Pateros Museum and city beautification projects. The next meeting of the Museum Committee is at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, March 2. Interested volunteers for the Beautification Committee can contact city hall.

COMMUNITY VOICES

Who Can We Trust?

Dear Editor,

We seem to have a trust issue of epic proportions these days. Who should we believe? What is real, what is fake, and what is actually somewhere in between? It takes a fair amount of effort to evaluate the things we hear every day, and not everyone wants to put in the required work to truly understand. In the absence of doing the work, should we simply believe our politicians, others in our communities, or even ourselves? In all cases, probably not.

Our current Administration has proven beyond a shadow of a doubt that we should not trust what they say: They didn't discuss sanctions - but they did. Those people perpetrated the Bowling Green Massacre - but it doesn't exist. My election victory was the biggest since Ronald Reagan - but it wasn't. There are 96 million unemployed Americans looking for jobs - not even close. There are hundreds of fact-checked examples.

Even in discussions with community members, "alternative facts" get confidently repeated as truths. People have incomplete information, they aren't able to draw logical conclusions from the available facts, or they simply latch onto anything that supports their point of view without regard to the source. Ridiculous and fallacious memes abound online. Everything must be taken with a grain of salt and skepticism.

But the worst part is, we can't even trust ourselves! It's natural to believe that our thinking is reasonable, level-headed, and impeccably logical. But research proves that this is simply not always the case. David Dunning and Justin Kruger from Cornell University studied people's belief in their own social and intellectual competency. In their research paper, they even provided an amusing anecdote about how a person's absolute belief in their own mental competency can lead them far astray.

They recite a true story about a man who brazenly robbed a couple of banks in broad daylight without even bothering to conceal his face. Not surprisingly, he was quickly caught. After his capture, the man incredulously asked how the police were able to identify him. After all, before entering the banks he had cleverly rubbed lemon juice on his face (known to serve as invisible ink), which obviously would have rendered his face invisible to the security cameras. He was absolutely convinced that this thought process was rational and infallible.

In their studies, Dunning and Kruger discovered that people with low levels of competency in a given area (logic, grammar, etc.) tended to grossly overestimate their abilities in that area relative to their peers. Even those who were the least capable in a particular area believed that their competency must be greater than the majority of their peers; in other words, they believed that they were a lot smarter than they really were. So in the absence of direct, empirical data, it is unlikely that an individual will know if they fall in the lowest quartile of competency or the highest quartile.

Everyday others will attempt to convince us that their information is trustworthy, while other sources of information cannot be trusted. Some cover the shortcomings of their arguments with lemon juice hoping that we won't notice. On top of that, we can't even trust our assessments of our own competency. Something for all of us to keep in mind both for ourselves and when listening to others. Apparently, the relevant adage for today's environment is "Don't trust, and diligently verify." Sad.

Help build a stronger community

Local business owners typically have invested their life savings in their local business. As a result they have a special interest in the long-term health and vitality of the community that supports them. These owners typically give more of their financial resources and time to support local non-profits and organizations. Look around at your community service organizations and you will see many local business owners serving on their boards and supporting local causes and activities.

It is true that some chain stores give back to the communities they operate in and not all local business owners are exemplary citizens. However, locally owned businesses clearly have a far greater impact on our local communities than chain organizations.

Numerous studies have been done over the years comparing the impact on the local economy from locally owned businesses compared to chain stores. The conclusions are always the same. Locally owned businesses return one to two thirds more of their revenue to the community through their local spending than chain stores. They also employ more local people than chain stores.

IN MY OPINION
Bill Forhan
Publisher

It makes sense because chain stores improve their profitability by centralizing key business functions. Functions like marketing, purchasing, and financial management are done in the corporate headquarters. While that may give them the opportunity to reduce prices to consumers, it is not always true. More importantly, buyers in far away headquarters are not aware of local product preferences so items that sell well in Pawtucket may not sell at all in North Central Washington.

Local business owners often have a personal touch with their customers that chain store managers do not possess. I'll take the liberty of giving you an example here. Dan's Market in Leavenworth has Butte pasties. In my hometown of Butte Montana pasties were a staple. Miners carried them in their lunch buckets. Eric Worthen, the current owner, must have a number of old Butte people who have asked him for those pasties because you can buy them in his store you won't find them in Safeway.

Local businesses also buy much of what they sell from local producers. Chains may buy from local producers but often demand special pricing that can substantially impact the profitability of those local producers. Here's another example. Wal Mart in Chelan occasionally runs flyers in the local newspapers of the communities where they operate. They only want to pay about half of the newspaper's rate for running that insert. That is not fair to the local businesses that pay the local newspapers regular rates. In our case we refuse to give them special pricing so we only get occasional inserts for special promotions from Wal Mart.

In most of the North Central Washington communities we serve there is not a heavy presence of chain stores businesses that compete directly with our locally owned ones. However, that does not mean our local communities are not impacted by chains. Most of us get in the car and drive to Wenatchee to buy at Home Depot, Costco, Lowes, Olive Garden and other chains. To make matters worse many of our local residents are increasingly shopping online, buying much of their products through Amazon or other online retailers. The result is what's commonly called "leakage." Retail sales that would otherwise remain in the local community creating jobs and local prosperity go not just to Wenatchee, but to Kirkland, Arkansas and Hong Kong.

It is true that most of our local communities cannot provide all of the goods and services we require or provide the broad selection. What is true is that we all need to make a conscious effort to spend more of our money in our local community with locally owned businesses. Many shop local campaigns have been launched across the country and they often point out how committing to spend just 10 percent more of your purchases with a local, independently owned, business can make a huge change in the local economy.

Last year NCW Media developed a shop local directory. It is available through all of our web sites and is growing every week. While the directory covers businesses across the three counties we serve, through the magic of electronic technology it sorts them by the ones that are closest to you. In other words, if you search from Leavenworth the businesses closest to Leavenworth will be sorted at the top.

This week we are also launching our new web sites. The new sites will make the information available on whatever platform you happen to be using including your smart phone. The shop local directories will be available there as well.

So check us out, but more importantly let's all make a resolution to spend more of our money in our local community this year.

Bears lose Regional showdown to NWC, advance to State

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

WENATCHEE – The 2B basketball playoff nemesis of the Brewster Bears – Northwest Christian, Colbert – that in 2016 stopped the Bears’ state championship run at third place in Spokane, struck again in the Regional finals at Wenatchee last Friday, Feb. 24.

The Crusaders, behind the one-two scoring punch of Ryan Ricks and Asher Cox, led at all stops in all four quarters of play, though Brewster outscored their opponent in both the third and fourth quarter. Ricks, a senior guard, and Cox, a six-foot, seven-inch senior forward, together accounted for all but 17 of NWC’s 61 game points,

Bears’ guards Edgar Najera and Joe Taylor got Brewster off to an early first quarter lead and the Bears didn’t commit their first foul until past the mid-point in the quarter. Brewster drew only four fouls in the first half.

Northwest caught Brewster down the stretch but only led by four points, 16-12, at the end of the first quarter.

Ricks’ 11 points in the second quarter helped the Crusaders extend their lead to nine, 33-24, at halftime.

It was all three-pointers from Najera in the third quarter as Brewster outscored Northwest, 16-12, in the third but still came up short, 45-40, at the end of the third.

Brewster again outscored Northwest, 17-16, in the fourth quarter and caught the Crusaders near the four-minute mark and from that point every shot, turnover, rebound, steal and free-throw was a game-changer.

Felix Nava, stripped the ball for an easy lay-up and Isaac Baker sank one-and-one from the foul stripe to being the Bears within one point, 49-48. Nava stole the ball again, was fouled on an attempted lay-up and put the Bears ahead, 50-49, from the foul line with just under four minutes remaining in the game.

Joe Taylor connected for a pair of three-pointers as part of his eight points in the fourth quarter and put Brewster ahead twice down the stretch. Taylor second trey with 1:20 remaining in the game put the Bears up, 57-56 for the final time.

The Crusaders closed the gap and pulled ahead on free throws to win by four.

Brewster drew 10 fouls in the second half while Northwest was charged with eight in each of the first and second halves.

The Bears were scheduled to play a loser-out game against Liberty (Spangle) at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday, March 1, in the first round of State playoffs at Spokane Arena. If Brewster gets by the Lancers it will face Napavine at 12:15 p.m., Thursday, March 2.

White Swan ends Lady Bears’ season at Regionals

By MIKE MALTAIS
STAFF WRITER

WENATCHEE – When they most needed a solid four-quarter performance game, the Lady Bears could not get their shots to drop in the second quarter as Brewster fell to the White Swan Cougars, 53-41, in Regional playoff action in the Panthers gym last Friday, Feb. 24.

Brewster got off to a good start over White Swan in the first quarter as Maret Miller and Sammi Emigh each knocked down four points to give the Lady Bears a one-point, 10-9 lead. Then Miller, Brewster’s leading scorer, got into early foul trouble and had to sit out part of the game.

A Cougar 18-point run in the second quarter gave White Swan a commanding 28-11 lead that they took into the locker room at halftime.

Emigh’s six third-quarter points, along with even scoring spread among four other Lady Bears, whittled four points off White Swan’s margin but the Cougars matched Brewster point-for-point in the final quarter to preserve a 12-point victory.

Another difference was at the free-throw line where White Swan shot 19-26 for a 73-percent average. The Lady Bears connected on 11 of 23 for 47 percent.

The loss ended the Lady Bear’s post-season as Brewster finished with a 15-1 in league, 17-5 overall record as Central Washington 2B League champions and placed second in District 5/6 play.

The other good news is that the team that made it to the Regional round of play will not lose a single player to graduation this year. Added to that, the Lady Bears landed five players on the CW2B All-League teams including Miller, who was voted the league’s Most Valuable Player.

Below: Edgar Najera hits two of his 19 points in the first quarter against Northwest’s Ryan Harman (15) and Rolf Veenstra (5).

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE OF DETERMINATION OF ENVIRONMENTAL NON-SIGNIFICANCE

The Public Utility District No.1 of Douglas County has entered a determination of environmental non-significance, (DNS), for the proposed action under the State Environmental Policy Act, (RCW 43.21C), as amended. The lead agency for this proposal has determined that the subject action does not have a probable significant adverse impact on the environment. An environmental impact statement (EIS) is not required under 43.21C.030(2)c. This decision was made after review of a completed environmental checklist and other information on file with the lead agency.

This DNS is issued under WAC 197-11-340(2); the lead agency shall not act on this proposal for 15 days from the date below. Written comments must be submitted by March 24th, 2017. Written comments should be submitted to John M. Brown, SEPA Official, Public Utility District No.1 of Douglas County, 1151 Valley Mall Parkway, East Wenatchee, WA 98802. Copies of the DNS, and Environmental Checklist can be obtained from the Public Utility District No.1 of Douglas County, 1151 Valley Mall Parkway, East Wenatchee, WA 98802 and on Douglas PUD's website; www.douglas-pud.org.

The issuance of the determination of environmental nonsignificance, for which notice is hereby given, is for the following action:

PUD #1 of Douglas County proposes to develop a boat-in campground for paddlers that includes four campsites, a trail system, and a non-motorized boat landing. The site is currently undeveloped. Most of the trail system and the campsites would be within the 200 ft shoreline zone, but the restroom and maintenance road would be outside of the shoreline zone. An existing access road from Hwy 97 would be maintained. The location of the proposal is east of the City of Brewster. The project will occur on Okanogan County Parcel Number 3025170036 and the Okanogan River, in Section 17, Township 30 Range 25; EWM. 48.101534° N Lat. / -119.711887° W Long. Driving north on SR 97, continue through Brewster. Approximately 3.5 miles past Old Bridge Road in downtown Brewster, turn right onto a dirt road just prior to crossing the bridge over the Okanogan River. The site is at the bottom of the dirt road.
