Banner Corporation to Acquire California-Focused AltaPacific Bancorp

News Release

Banner Corporation (NASDAQ: BANR), the holding company for Banner Bank and Islanders Bank, together with AltaPacific Bancorp (OTCBB: ABNK), the holding company for AltaPacific Bank, today announced they have entered into a definitive agreement for AltaPacific Bank to merge with, and into, Banner Bank to expand the Bank's presence in

The transaction will be accomplished through Banner Corporation's acquisition of AltaPacific

"AltaPacific Bank is a respected business-focused bank and we consider it a compliment they chose us as their merger partner," said Mark Grescovich, President and Chief Executive Officer, Banner Bank.

"This is an excellent addition to Banner because it provides scale to our California franchise with attractive core deposits, commercial banking relationships and a similar credit culture."

"Today's banking environment is challenging for small community banks, even strong ones like ours," said Charles O. Hall, Chief Executive Officer, AltaPacific Bank.

"Choosing to merge with Banner Bank is a great win-win for our customers and employees. Our customers will benefit from larger lending limits, more resources, and expanded product and service offerings, while our team remains part of an outstanding community bank."

This transaction is intended to increase Banner's presence and density in its existing California market. AltaPacific Bank has six locations: Santa Rosa in Northern California, and Ontario, Temecula, Glendora, Riverside and San Bernardino in Southern California. Currently, Banner Corporation has total assets of $11.8 billion and AltaPacific Bancorp has total assets of $436 million.

The combined company will have approximately $12.2 billion

The merger agreement specifies AltaPacific shareholders will receive 0.2712 shares of Banner common stock in exchange for each share of AltaPacific common

Here is what "Tony and Angela" had to say about their exciting adventures in higher education:

Most American taxpayers know that the US national debt has breached the $20 trillion mark and is rising rapidly.

In 1929 the national debt was $17 billion and accounted for only 16% of the Gross Domestic Product or GDP. This means that for every dollar that came into the US Treasury, only 16 cents was paid in debt obligations. It was 58 years later in 1982 when the debt crossed over $1 trillion and accounted for 34% of GDP.

According to usdebtclock.org, the debt is currently just over $22.5 trillion and accounts for 106% of GDP. This means that for every dollar that came into the US Treasury, approximately $1.06 is paid in debt obligations.

The debt is capitalized which means the interest is added to the debt itself so it will continue to increase rapidly, especially as interest rates rise.

The national debt and the interest associated with it are only two of the main expenses of the US budget.

Medicare, Medicaid and Social Security costs are high and expected to rise as well.

David Walker, former Comp-

He was able to show that, if these changes were not implemented the US would not be able to continue to pay its obligations.

Congressional Outreach Meetings

Newhouse News Release

In early June, a delegation of Commissioners from the Ports of Chelan County and Douglas County, along with Port staff, held congressional meetings in Washington DC.

The Port's top federal priority is improving commercial air service reliability at Pangborn Memorial Airport.

Weather conditions in the fall and winter (low visibility), combined with the airport's one mile visibility requirement to land, result in flight cancellations.

Port Commissioners asked the congressional delegation to work with the Federal Aviation Administration in funding an enhanced approach lighting system.

This improvement could reduce the airport's visibility requirement to one-half mile to land, which translates into a 60% improvement in commercial air service reliability. The Port would like to thank Senators Patty Murray, and Maria Cantwell; and Representatives Kim Schrier, Dan Newhouse, and Rick Larsen for very positive meetings.

Land Trust Buys Key White River Property

Newly protected acreage will increase salmon habitat, reconnect river oxbow

CDLT News Release

Chelan-Douglas Land Trust (CDLT) has purchased 40 acres on the lower $\,$ White River for conservation of salmon habitat and improved public access.

The White River runs glacial headwaters to Lake Wenatchee and provides some of the best spawning habitat for sockeye salmon - one of only two remaining stocks in the Columbia Basin.

Endangered spring Chinook, endangered steelhead, and threatened bull trout also use the White River for migration, spawning and rearing.

Chelan-Douglas Land Trust, Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife and the US Forest Service now own most of the floodplain and riverfront in the lower five miles of the White River.

This 40-acre parcel was one of the very few unprotected properties and its protection is key to the future reconnection of a river oxbow.

An oxbow is a former main channel that has become disconnected from the river - in this case, when a nearby bridge was built many years ago. With this acquisition, CDLT is one step closer to reconnecting the oxbow to provide sidechannel fish habitat that is in short supply on the lower White River. CDLT's White River Preserve now permanently protects 683 acres and over 8.6 miles of riverfront, safeguarding important fish habitat, cool clean water, and providing improved public access to the river.

The Land Trust is grateful to Robert Martinson, who sold the property to CDLT.

The primary source of funding for this purchase was provided by the Priest Rapids Coordinating Committee Habitat Subcommittee through Grant PUD's habitat funds.

Lower White River

Permanent stewardship of the property by the Land Trust is being made possible through the Tina Scull Opportunity Fund, founded by Tina and Eliot Scull as well as contributions from Terry and Suzanne Sorom, and Bill and Mary Griffin.

The Chelan-Douglas Land landtrust.org

Trust is a local non-profit working to conserve our land, our water, and our way of life.

The Land Trust has a 33-year record of working collaboratively with property owners and communities to identify and protect the region's most important natural landscapes

Jamie Thomas signs with Uproar Books

Wenatchee author secures publication deal for debut fantasy novel

Uproar Books News Release

Uproar Books has acquired worldwide publication rights to Asperfell by Jamie Thomas of Wenatchee, Wash.

An Adult Fantasy novel told in grand Victorian style, Asperfell is the story of a sharptongued, twenty-yearold aristocrat who is arrested and banished for magic she never knew she possessed.

Locked away in the prison castle of Asperfell, she must find a way to escape back home with the true heir to the throne in time to save her kingdom and her family.

the heart of Asperfell is a woman who fights injustice with courage, compassion, and intelligence," said Thomas.

"These are weapons all of us possess, and we should use them liberally because I, for one, do not know how to use a sword, nor do I wish to be arrested for carrying one in public."

A certified Language Arts teacher in the state of Washington, Thomas holds a Master's degree in English Education and did her graduate research in the area of gender equality in high school literary curriculum.

She is an avid lover of Victorian novels and poetry, Gothic Romanticism, and feminist literature, as well as epic female-led fantasy and historical fiction.

Thomas aims to smash the patriarchy one novel at a time, creating characters and worlds that inspire, empower, and

Previously, Thomas studied opera and received her formal training at the University of Montana and the San Francisco Conservatory of Music, and she still

MBA's Survey: Commercial, multifamily origination reaches record high in 2018

By Catherine Liu

The Mortgage Bankers Association recently released the results for its Commercial / Multifamily Annual Origination Volume Summation report for the 2018 fiscal year. The annual survey showcases aggregate data on the commercial and multifamily origination market based on data provided from participating mortgage bankers, portfolio, and other direct lenders. A detailed breakdown of lending activity by property type, investor group, and finance structure, for a total of 140 categories can be found in the report.

According to MBA's latest survey results, commercial and multifamily originators closed a record $574 billion in mortgage transactions in 2018, a nearly 8% increase from 2017's levels. By investor group, commercial bank and savings institutions served as the largest contributor with $174.0 billion (30% of total volume) while Government Sponsored Enterprises (GSEs - Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac) and life insurance companies/pension funds originated $142.3 billion (25%) and $83.4 billion (15%). respectively. CMBS, CDO, and ABS issuers - which ranked third - had a combined origination tally of $97.4 billion for a market share of 17% In terms of year-over-year performance, however, reported volumes of asset-backed conduit securities dipped by $11.5 billion in 2018, or roughly 11%, from the previous year.

These charts look at CRE loans that have been originated before they are securitized into a CMBS pool.

The survey showed that multifamily backed $266.4 billion in new originations, once again widening its dominance over all other property types. This represented an overwhelming 46% of annual lending volume. Office followed behind with $103.0 billion (18%). Retail, industrial, and lodging each comprised another 8%, which served as collateral for an additional $42.9 to $46.6 billion in new CRE loans.

Looking at the securitization segment in particular, Trepp data indicates that approximately $84.6 billion in private-label CMBS and CLOs were originated in 2018, which is a decline of 11% from the previous year. From last year's total, $76.1 billion was sourced from private-label CMBS while another $8.5 billion came from CLO transactions. Lodging represented the largest portion of CMBS/CLO originations at $20.2 billion (24%), boosted by significant consolidation within the hospitality industry and the property group's shorter-term amortization structures. Office originations for the two ABS categories amounted to $18.1 billion (21%) while retail came in at $15.0 billion (18%). Underwritten debt secured by multifamily (11%), industrial (4%), and all other property types (23%) tallied at $31.5 billion. From a GSE lending perspective, agency firms funneled $82.6 billion into CMBS in 2018. While this figure is $11.7 billion shy of 2017's record GSE origination levels, it is still up from the $24-$67 billion range posted between 2010 and 2016.

Financially Educated Children Become Financially Successful Adults

(NAPSI) - People who learned about money as children were three times as likely to have a personal annual income of $75K or higher than those who didn't, according to a survey by Quicken, maker of the best-selling personal finance software in the U.S.

But there's a problem: One-third of adults surveyed said no one taught them about money when they were children.

Among that group, only 13 percent report a high level of confidence in their finances.

How Does Your Own Upbringing Influence What You Teach Your Kids?

People who learned about money as children were 20 percent more likely to prioritize teaching their own kids about money.

Those who said no one taught them about money as a child were twice as likely to delay talking to their own children about money until age 18 or older.

Teaching Tools

The top tools - allowance, savings accounts, piggy banks - may not have changed much, but the lessons have evolved.

Today, parents are teaching their children about charitable giving 60 percent more than their own parents did, using credit cards as teaching tools almost 50 percent more, and teaching their kids about investing 85 percent more than the people who taught them about money.

State economic growth scores high nationally

Opportunity Washington News Release

The strength of the Washington economy is reflected in the latest monthly report from the Economic and Revenue Forecast Council.

The ERFC breaks down the three major components of personal income, finding Washington led the nation in earnings growth: In June... the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) released state personal income estimates for the first quarter of 2019.

According to these estimates, Washington personal income rose to $471.5 billion (SAAR) in the first quarter from $466.6 billion in the fourth quarter of 2018.

The reported 4.3% growth rate (SAAR) in Washington personal income was the 15th largest among the states and District of Columbia and exceeded the 3.4% growth rate for the U.S. as a whole.

Washington earnings growth was actually first in the nation at 5.2% (SAAR) compared to the 2.8% national average, but property income (dividends, interest, and rent) growth ranked 42nd at -4.8% compared to -4.3% for the nation.

Washington transfer receipts growth was about average at 15.4% compared to 15.5% with a rank of 27th among the states and District of Columbia.

The ERFC chart below illustrates the breakdown.

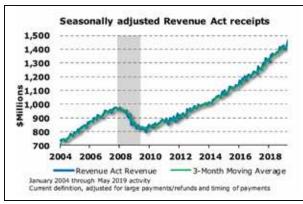

In the first month since the June forecast, revenues are coming in above expectations, with an asterisk.

Major General Fund-State (GF-S) revenue collections for the June 11 - July 10, 2019 collection period came in $132.5 million (8.0%) above the June forecast, but $84.7 million of that amount represented a transfer of funds out of the GF-S that did not occur as expected in June but will occur in July. Adjusted for the delayed transfer, collections are $47.8 million (2.9%) higher than forecasted.

Again, we'll show the ERFC chart depicting the remarkable upward trend in collections.

So far, so good... though we continue to worry about the sustainability the budget's built on expectations of uninterrupted prosper-

Mission Ridge improves chair lift experience

Mission Ridge News Release

Earlier this spring, Mission Ridge Ski & Board Resort announced the purchase and planned installation of a replacement chairlift for its current Chair number 2 nicknamed The Liberator, pending United States Forest Service and Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife approvals. The replacement chairlift includes upgraded chairs that have more comfortable seats and plexiglass "bubble" covers to enhance the ride experience. Planning Team members from the resort have been working with both the USFS and WDFW to submit the required studies, plans, and documentation necessary for the replacement of the chairlift since the fall of 2018. A project of this scale requires review and approval for both the project itself in concept and the technical components of the structure and the plan. The project plans will be reviewed by engineers at the Forest Service and Washington State Parks with further review by the USFS and WDFW expected to be completed by midsummer 2019. Project approval will follow shortly thereafter. The initial timeline for installation prior to the start of the 2019-2020 winter season was a realistic, but also optimistic, goal. Due to the expected final approval by late summer 2019, Mission Ridge has decided to continue with preliminary preparations for removal and replacement of Chair 2, with the actual deconstruction of the current lift and installation of the new lift being carried out starting in the spring of 2020. Initial work to be started this fall will include concrete work for the bases of the new lift towers and potential installation of some structural components. "We are putting together a very robust and long-term beneficial plan for Mission Ridge," said GM Josh Jorgensen. "This project will improve the experience for guests while remaining financially viable for the resort," he continued. "Our goal for this summer is to get some of the footing and foundation work done for the new towers and potentially some of the structural components. Then, with all approvals in place and a good head start, we will install the new lift in the summer of 2020." Mission Ridge is extremely grateful for the support of Season Passholders, guests, and our local communities for their support, enthusiasm, and patience through this process.

About Mission Ridge

Mission Ridge is located in North Central Washington, 12 miles south of Wenatchee. The ski area has the second highest base area in the state at 4,570 feet, and more than 36 runs spread over 2,000 acres and 2,250 feet of vertical. "Pigs in Paradise" Campaign Emphasizes the Importance of Saving and Giving Back completes an entry form will be entered to win a separate bonus prize of $400, half of which is earmarked for donation to a nonprofit of the winner's choice. Winners will be announced on September 3, 2019.

According to a recent CNBC poll, Americans' top personal finance concern is being able to save enough for retirement. Backing this up, data from Northwestern Mutual's 2019 Planning & Progress Study reveals that nearly a third (30 percent) of U.S. adults aged 18 and over are within three paychecks of needing to either borrow money or skip paying one or more bills.

The study also shows that more than a fifth (22 percent) of Americans have less than $5,000 saved for retirement, and nearly half of working adults (46 percent) expect to work past the traditional retirement age of 65.

"These piggy banks serve as a reminder of the importance of saving and planning for your financial future," said Andy Pohlman, Chief Retail Banking Officer at Peoples Bank. "The Pigs in Paradise' campaign is a fun way for us to help people think about their financial goals, while also creating opportunities to give back to the communities where we live and work." More information about "Pigs in Paradise" and full contest rules can be found at peoplesbank-wa.com/pigs.

VETERAN-OWNED & OPERATED BUSINESS

Alatheia Press Release

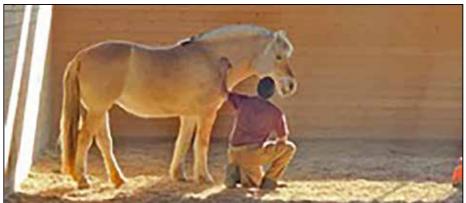

Alatheia Therapeutic Riding Center is pleased to announce that last winter, their recent 6-week pilot program serving combat veterans, "Warriors & Horses", was a huge success.

Funded by the NCW Vets Serving Vets, this program focuses on treating combatrelated symptoms, including Post Traumatic Stress Disorder.

Veterans completed standardized assessments before and after the pilot program to measure outcomes.

These included the PTSD Symptom Scale and the Generalized Anxiety Disorder 7-Item Scale and both showed significant improvement in just six weeks as measured by these assessments.

According to the After Action Report submitted by the therapeutic team, one participant showed four times the benefit as compared to his six weeks of traditional office therapy! This rate of improvement has become a hallmark for equine assisted therapy programs serving veterans, and has resulted in the U.S. House of Representatives including it as a category for funding under the Veterans Affairs Adaptive Sports Grant

Assessments and government support aside, it's the feedback from participants that captures the importance of Warriors & Horses most effectively:

"Thank you for hosting the veteran's program at Alatheia. Because of my time there I have found a place of peace and understanding, even if it is for a few hours a week and have made breakthroughs in my peace of mind...

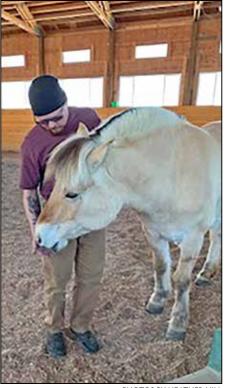

There are no words that can do justice to what this program has meant to me and how much it helped. The value of your contributions to Alatheia is immeasurable. Keep on keepin' on. You are going to save lives with a program like this."

This is powerful sentiment in light of government claims that 22 veterans commit suicide every day in the U.S.

Due to initial success and the desire to meet the urgent need of veterans, the Alatheia Board has committed to continuing Warriors & Horses through the end of 2019.

Additionally, with the future expansion of Alatheia and its relocation to a new site, the board has identified three areas for supporting veterans in their long term plan: volunteerism, therapeutic and adaptive riding, and mental health therapy.

Alatheia's Executive Director and Founder, Nancy Grette says "We are so grateful to our local community for supporting the important programs that make a difference in the lives of veterans and people with special needs.

This new program shows such promise for improving the lives of our service men and women!"

Since the non-profit started in 2011, Alatheia has grown from 12 riders per week to more than 90, and from 3 horses to the current 10. More than 140 volunteers provide assistance to the riders in their weekly lessons.

Four Resources for Vetrepreneurs

U.S. veterans are highly entrepreneurial.

Even though veterans make up less than 8% of the population, nearly one in 10 small businesses nationwide are veteran-owned. Collectively, these 2.5 million small businesses employ almost 6 million Americans and generate more than $1 trillion in annual receipts. You've served our country, now let the SBA serve you. The following are four specialized SBA-funded resources for veteran entrepreneurs:

SBA Veterans Advantage Loan Program

Eligible veteran-owned businesses can qualify to have their SBA Guaranteed Loan fees discounted or waived. Read more about the Veterans Advantage Program.

Veterans Business Outreach Center (VBOC)

Veterans and military spouses can get free, expert and confidential business coaching through their local VBOC.

Veteran training programs on and off base

Boots to Business is an entrepreneurial program offered on military installations around the world and a training track of the Department of Defense (DOD) Transition Assistance Program (TAP). Boots to Business Reboot >> extends the entrepreneurship training offered in TAP to veterans of all eras in their communities.

Veteran contracting programs

Businesses that are 51% or more owned by veterans can qualify for multiple federal certification programs, including the Service Disabled Veteran Owned Small Business (SDVOSB) certification which helps veterans access federal contracting dollars.

Chelan PUD 'Hydro Project' lauded

Chelan PUD news release

Once again the Lake Chelan Hydro Project has earned recognition for sustainable operations from the Low Impact Hydropower Institute.

The designation takes into account all of the environmental work done at the 59-megawatt project at the base of Lake Chelan.

That includes restoring year-round flow in the Chelan River after 80 years and creating an award-winning habitat that attracts healthy numbers of salmon and steelhead, and offers paddling and fishing for people.

"All of our environmental work at the Chelan project contributed to our successful application," Suzanne Grassell, government affairs program manager, told Chelan PUD commissioners Monday.

The Lake Chelan project first earned Low Impact Certification in 2007. Grassell said the recertification, good through September 2022, was "a much more rigorous application process." The institute upgraded its criteria in 2014.

There was more good news. The state now recognizes efficiency gains from turbine upgrades as renewable energy under state I-937 requirements.

A key factor in earning Impact Certification was the increasing numbers of steelhead and spring Chinook returning to spawn and rear in the habitat near where the Chelan River joins the Columbia.

So was restoring yearround water flow in the Chelan River as part of the project's a new federal license in 2006, she said.

The National Hydropower Association honored the habitat with an Outstanding Stewards of American Waters award in 2010.

"This certification from a respected third party highlights how we can generate carbon-free power and protect fish at the same time," Grassell said.

Commissioners were delighted with the news. "The Chelan River Project is a real showcase," added Commission President Garry Arseneault.

In other business, commissioners:

Approved purchase of 2.12 acres of property next to the site of the PUD's new Service and Operations Center in Olds Station. The Nevio and Elizabeth Tontini Living Trust agreed to sell the land for $854,211. Shared Services Director Dan Frazier said potential uses for the property include access to the Wenatchee River and Apple Capital Loop Trail.

- Were updated on two meetings this week with Lake Wenatchee/Plain area community members about potential improvements for the area's power system. PUD staff will host open houses at Beaver Valley Lodge in Plain from 3:30-5:30 p.m. on Wednesday; and 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday at the PUD Leavenworth office.
- Were updated on Hydropower Appreciation Day at the Seattle Sounders on July 21. Chelan PUD is joining its Foundation for Water and Energy Education partners to host the event. Hydro producers from across the Northwest have a chance to talk with soccer fans about the many benefits of our carbon-free power source. Last year's inaugural event at the Mariners earned Outstanding Stewards of American Waters honors from the National Hydropower Association.

- Set a hearing for 1 p.m., Aug. 5, during the board meeting to consider designating a parcel of mostly steep hillside along Highway 97 in Douglas County surplus to PUD needs. Douglas Fire District 4 is interested in buying the parcel to build a new fire station on the small portion of buildable area in the parcel. Commissioners also will consider the purchase and sale agreement on Aug. 5, pending the hearing outcome.
- Set a special meeting for 9 a.m. on Sept. 30 at Confluence Technology Center for a board workshop.

Upcoming events:

Chelan PUD spotlights best value for most people, longest time

Chelan PUD news release

What will it take for Chelan County PUD to make sure it provides the best value for the most people for the longest time?

Chelan County PUD commissioners Monday considered the question and got a sneak preview at the issues coming up in business plans for 2020-2024.

Board members affirmed updates to the PUD's mission and vision. The new Mission Statement puts "enhance the quality of life in Chelan County" front

The vision is now a "Vision/Challenge" Statement: "In a rapidly changing utility environment, we will provide: The best value for the most people for the longest

General Manager Steve Wright said external strategic planning provides feedback from customer-owners on "big picture topics." Now, senior managers to address all the work across the PUD.

Tracy Yount, External Affairs director, reported strategic planning survey answers came in from nearly 2,700 customer-owners. Those responding sent back 3,600-plus individual comments. PUD staffers are reading and summarizing Early trends show customer preference for more frequent, smaller electric rate increases (if needed) to balance the risk of unpredictable wholesale market returns; support for early environmental and recreation investments at Rock Island Dam before relicensing to secure a longer license; and for water, wastewater and fiber services to be more self-sustainable. said Neil Neroutsos, Communications manager. The survey also found support for a modest level of investment in economic development.

Looking ahead, Wright offered are using the community response and a view of "best value" that includes mission and vision/challenge statements maintaining high marks for customer satisfaction, finances, the fiber network and compliance. Given the current strong financial position, he said staff is assessing what it would take to move the PUD's hydro capability, retail service reliability and safety into top-tier rankings, plus higher ranking for PUD technology use

Five-year business plans, due in October, will include the assessment.

"This is as interesting as any presentation we've received from you," said Commissioner Randy Smith. "We're at one of those moments in time that don't come along often."

Commissioner Dennis Bolz agreed. "We're at a legacy moment, where we have the financial and human resources to move this utility forward."

Hydroelectric dams produce

2,000 times as much energy

Western Materials, Inc.- 19 years

By Todd Myers Washington Policy Center In 2017, hydroelectric generation employed 2,460 people in Washington state. Solar electricity, by way of comparison, employed more than double that amount, 5,627 people. Hydro, however, generated 71 percent of Washington's electricity. Solar produced less than one-tenth of one percent.

That information comes and Employment Report. When combined with energy production data for Washington state, it shows how productive hydroelectric generation is and how inefficient wind and solar are.

When it comes to job creation, the inefficiency of renewables is sometimes sold as a feature, not a bug. For every megawatt, solar "creates" more jobs than natural gas or hydro, greens proclaim. Of course, you could do the same with hydro power by simply requiring dams to hire 2,000 times as many people for the from the Department of same work. Then it would Energy's 2017 U.S. Energy "create" as may jobs as solar per megawatt hour. That approach, however, would be obviously ridiculous. And yet, it is the very thing greens celebrate with solar - its radical inefficiency.

Wind energy isn't as bad. It generates 2,240 MWh per worker. Hydro is only 15 times as productive per worker as wind power.

Coal and natural gas are even more productive per worker than hydro, generating 29% more energy per worker and 26% more energy per worker respectively.

Of course, there is more to energy choice than jobs. The fuel for hydro, wind, and une retail sales rose a surprising 0.4% and are probably running at their best sustained pace in five years! June manufacturing activity rose a solid 0.4%, June job growth was excellent, and the trade wars are calming down. All this suggests an interest rate cut isn't necessary. Nail Gun Safet

Puncture wounds to the hands or fingers are the most common nail gun-related injuries in the construction industry.

However, when a nail unintentionally discharges or ricochets off something, the entire body can be at risk.

In some instances, people have suffered paralysis, blindness, or Injuries from nail guns send approximately 25,000 construction workers to the emergency room each year.

This injury risk can be cut in half by switching to a safer trigger mode on the gun itself, greatly reducing the chances of an unintended nail discharge.

Changing the trigger mode combined with some basic safety steps to avoid puncturing your hands and causing ricochets can reduce the risk even more.

What your employees need to know about nail gun triggers

Almost all nail guns are equipped with different trigger settings.

The most popular is the contact tip (or bump fire) method. It's also the most dangerous.

With bump firing, the user continuously holds down the trigger, and once the tip presses against an object, a nail is released.

It is common for workers to continue holding the trigger down when working, even when walking between work areas.

Should the user bump into another coworker, or trip and fall, a nail could fire unexpectedly and injure the user or someone else nearby.

If a user is working in a tight space, the nail gun can strike the worker or a nearby wall during recoil, unexpectedly releasing a nail that could strike and injure the worker.

Alternatively, the full sequential and the single shot trigger modes are safest, because they allow the gun to only discharge one nail at a time

The user must reset the trigger before firing the next nail, so even if the user is still holding the trigger and bumps a wall or coworker, additional nails don't fire.

Older nail gun models may not have this setting. While replacing these older models at your job site isn't required, it does provide greater safety.

What your employees need to do

Before connecting a nail gun to its power source, the user should set the nail gun to full sequential or single shot mode.

With some models, the user can do this by flipping a switch, dial,

In other cases, one trigger might have to be removed and replaced by another. This change alone can help dramatically reduce the injury risk at your worksite.

At your safety meeting

Demonstrate how to enable and use the full sequential or single shot trigger and discuss why that's safer than bump firing.

To cut the risk even further, cover these additional safety tips with your team:

Avoid firing into knots, nails, straps, or other defects in the work material. This can cause a nail to ricochet and strike those working nearby. Discharge the tool away from the body and away from coworkers.

Use proper personal protective equipment (PPE) such as eye protection, steel-toed safety shoes or boots, and a hard hat.

Keep your hands at least 12 inches away from the nailing point at all times.

Disconnect the nail gun's power source when clearing jams, performing other maintenance, passing it to a coworker, moving up or down a ladder, and leaving the gun unattended.

When first fired, nails move at a speed of 150 feet per second. So, there isn't much time to react when something goes wrong.

Using a safer trigger mechanism and following additional precautionary steps may require more time but will also dramatically reduce the risk of injury.

Hydroelectric dams produce 2,000 times as much energy per job as solar in Washington solar is essentially free. That is not true with coal and natural gas.

There are also other environmental impacts to be considered, ranging from air pollution to habitat and wildlife impacts.

Those are all fine considerations. Some on the environmental left, however, try to pretend that requiring more workers to create small amounts of energy is a good thing, when it demonstrates how inefficient renewables actually are.

As I've noted in the past, we could create more jobs in agriculture by banning tractors and replacing them with pickers.

Nobody pretends that would make the world more prosperous. Apply that same logic to electricity, however, and some greens get confused.

SBDC Advising Returns to Wenatchee Valley

Ron Nielsen has been named the Washington Small Business Development Center (SBDC) Certified Business Advisor for the SBDC office

Ron Nielsen

Nielsen has been an SBDC Advisor for 19 years. His first stint as an SBDC Advisor started in 1989 in Okanogan County when he was concurrently the Director of the Okanogan County Council for Economic Development (OCCED) there.

He replaces Cashmere Mayor Jim Fletcher, who was an SBDC Business Advisor for 16 years and retired in

"It is nice to come back to Eastern Washington," Nielsen said. "I am delighted to be in Wenatchee serving the Chelan and Douglas county business community.'

Nielsen's office is at 238 Olds Station Road, co-located with offices for the Port of Chelan County.

The Port of Chelan County and the Port of Douglas County are key funding partners for SBDC advising in the Wenatchee Valley. Ron can be reached at (360)790-0480 or ron.nielsen@wsbdc.org.

Dr. Gene Sharratt receives the 2019 WASA Golden Gavel Award

Dr. Gene Sharratt is the recipient of the 2019 WASA Golden Gavel Award. Dr. Sharratt received the award at the summer conference of the Association of the Washington School Principals and the Washington Association of School Administrators, held in Spokane June 30-July 2, 2019.

Dr. Gene Sharratt

Dr. Sharratt was praised for his contributions to public education during his distinguished 47-year career. Gene has served as teacher, principal, superintendent, Associate Professor led the Partnership for School Improvement, Washington Student Achievement Council and AESD/OSPI Network. Beyond his professional leadership, Gene has been a positive, inspirational role model for many who serve public education today.

Gene's legacy and impact on public education will carry on through the educational organizations he served – more importantly, through all the lives he touched through his mentorship.

"Dr. Sharratt is very deserving of the prestigious WASA Golden Gavel Award – the highest honor for this organization," said ESD 112 Superintendent Tim Merlino, who submitted the nomination. "He's had a tremendous impact on so many facets of education in our state and has inspired generations of students and educators," he added.

Moses Lake's Rep. Tom Dent elected to board of State Agriculture and Rural Leaders

Washington State House GOP news release

Rep. Tom Dent has been elected to the board of directors of the State Agriculture and Rural Leaders (SARL) organization.

The organization focuses on cooperation, leadership and educational opportunities for state and provincial legislators who are passionate about agriculture and rural communities.

"With the importance of agriculture to the 13th District, I am excited to be on the board of directors of an organization that works with other legislators across the country and Canada on ag-related issues," said Dent, R-Moses Lake.

"It is a great opportunity to meet Rep. Tom Dent and network with folks across North America to compare ideas and talk about solutions."

SUBMITTED PHOTO

Dent has been a part of SARL for four years. He recently attended the 2019 conference in Calgary, Alberta.

"Every year gives me a fresh outlook and new ideas on the agriculture industry. SARL is focused on the future of agriculture and how we can best solve the rural, urban divide," said Dent.

"We want to continue to educate folks about the importance of agriculture so the industry can provide abundant and healthy food well into

Topics at the 2019 conference included crop protection, wildfire suppression, food safety and labeling, growing agriculture through trade and technology, workforce and job training and water quality and water rights.

The State Agriculture and Rural Leaders group was formed as a nonprofit in 2006 at the 5th Annual Legislative Agriculture Chairs Summit in Tempe, Arizona.

Honors for Chelan 'Homewatch' company

CHELAN -NCWhomewatch.com has earned accreditation from the National Home Watch Association.

Chris Baker

The NHWA was formed in 2009 in order to establish and maintain the highest industry standards for Home Watch and absentee homeowner services throughout the United States and Canada (www. nationalhomewatchassociation.org).

Home Watch is a visual inspection of a home or property, looking for obvious issues, which means that it is a service that "keeps an eye on things" at your vacation or primary home while you are not in residence.

Born and raised in Wenatchee, Owner Chris Baker spent summers in Chelan.

In 2017, his family moved there. Previously, Chris had a house painting company for 15 years and did construction. He wanted to stay in the home management business, so he decided to open NCWhomewatch.com.

An Eagle Scout, Chris graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree from Washington State University and a Master's degree from Central Washington University. An eight-year public school teacher, Chris still substitutes in the Chelan schools.

A Rotary member for 12 years, Chris spends his spare time coaching, sponsoring, and fundraising for Chefan soccer, t-ball and wrestling. As a community volunteer, his family is excited to work to give back to North Central NCWhomewatch.com serves North Central Washington: Chelan, Manson, Wenatchee, and Pateros. You can reach Chris at (509) 662-5717 or chris@ncwhomewatch.com. Learn more at his website, www.ncwhomewatch.com.

Pear Bureau Northwest Launches Shoppable Recipe Technology on Website

PORTLAND – As part of several innovative tactics being implemented for the 2019-20 Northwest pear season, Pear Bureau Northwest has officially launched technology on its consumer website to make its pear recipes shoppable to consumers. The tool allows visitors to the USAPears. org website to purchase ingredients from the online retailer of their choice directly from the recipe page, making for a seamless and efficient pear-purchasing experience.

To implement this unique technology, Pear Bureau

Northwest has teamed up with Whisk, a platform that enables frictionless food experiences by connecting the world's recipes, products and shopping choices using artificial intelligence and deep learning. The company was recently acquired by Samsung NEXT. Tracking over 500,000,000 user interactions per month, Whisk's clients and partners include Amazon, Walmart, Instacart, Food Network, Allrecipes, General Mills, Nestle, McCormick and Unilever among others.

"Consumers are increasingly looking for

2nd Quarter 2019

convenient ways to do their shopping online and from a mobile device. Adding Whisk's technology to the USA Pears website allows us to provide consumers with the easiest possible way to purchase pears whenever they are browsing pear recipes. We have over 400 pear recipes on our website, and we are excited to offer a tool to make every single one of them available for purchase," said Kathy Stephenson, Marketing Director of Pear

Bureau Northwest. As the September kick-off for Northwest pear season approaches, the organization will be promoting the shoppable technology through social media and newsletters in order to drive consumer awareness. Through a continued investment in organic (unpaid) social media posting and targeted digital ads across multiple platforms, the organization will drive traffic to its website and encourage the use of the purchasing and shopping list options now available in all recipes. With consumers looking for quick and accessible grocery shopping options across the digital landscape, the partnership with Whisk marks a bold new direction for Pear Bureau Northwest as the organization continues to find creative ways to drive pear consumption.

About Pear Bureau Northwest

Was established in 1931 as a nonprofit marketing organization to promote the fresh pears grown in Oregon and Washington. Today, the United States is the third largest pear-producing country in the world, and Oregon and Washington comprise the nation's largest pear growing region with 900 growers producing 88% of all fresh pears grown in the United States. Pears grown in these two Pacific Northwest states are distributed under the "USA Pears" brand. Pears are an excellent source of fiber (24% DV) and a good source of vitamin C (10% DV) for only 100 calories per medium sized pear. Sweet and juicy with no fat, no sodium, and no cholesterol, pears are a perfect choice for a snack as well as of any meal of the day.

We have watched corporations and famous Americans have ups and downs throughout the years.

GUEST OPINION Glenn Mollette

We've all watched as Tiger Woods, Robert Kraft, and most recently, billionaire Jeffrey Epstein have had low moments.

Sadly we heard last weekend about coal billionaire Chris Cline's tragic and fatal helicopter crash.

Time and again we learn none of us are too famous, too successful or too rich to encounter a human downward life turn and tragedy.

The Nike athletic shoe and apparel corporation is the world leader in athletic and apparel sales. They made about $34 billion in 2017. They have a global presence of athletic sales in over 160 countries. Their products are sold through 22,000 retail accounts worldwide.

They are the largest supplier of athletic footwear in the world.

Almost all of Nike shoes are made outside the U.S. in Asia and Latin America. Nike does not make the shoes themselves but they contract production out to other companies. There are various reports about who Nike employs and how much their workers make. One report claims Nike has 100,000 people making their shoes in Indonesia and that these workers make about $3.50 per day or about $3,500 a year. Thus Nike is very profitable and has massive dollars for marketing.

For example, Nike entered into a $50 million endorsement deal with tennis star Serena Williams in 2003. When golfing star Tiger Woods turned pro in 1996 Nike lavished him with a $40 million five-year golfing endorsement. They would later go on to pay Woods $30 million a year in endorsements. From 2002 to 2012 Nike paid Michael Jordan

Bill Bryant hopes to fight 'Seattle-style' grass-roots style

FORGE news release

In 2016, as the Republican nominee for governor, I saw firsthand how well organized the Democrats are in local level politics. The Democratic Party doesn't just focus on legislative and state offices, they're appointing and electing candidates to commissions, school boards, and city councils.

To put it plainly – the Democrats have a machine. That machine gives them a bench of candidates who later can run for higher office. It gives them voter identification data that is gathered during local door-to-door campaigns. It gives them an army of locally elected officials that organize their area for statewide candidates.

These local officials aren't just part of an election machine, they also spread Seattle style socialist policies into communities all across our state.

This is why I started FORGE Washington. Forge Washington is building the grassroots machine we need if we're going to push back on Seattle style policies and if we are going to elect common sense candidates statewide.

Think about this:

"There are 1,670 special election districts in Washington state. These are offices of government independent of counties, states, and townships like port commissions, fire districts and, by some definitions, school boards. It's elections for positions like these Bryant hopes to sway," said Jason Rantz, KTTH AM 770 radio host.

Remember, county councils and city councils are making decisions on whether we'll have publicly funded heroin injection sites and tent cities in our neighborhoods. School boards are deciding whether we're going to innovate education so kids can learn. And all of these officials—city councils, county councils, port commissions, and school boards set property tax rates and many of these local officials back the State Democrats' call for an Income Tax.

Forge Washington is taking them on. This year we're focusing on local races in Pierce, King, Snohomish, and Spokane counties, but we need your financial help to get good local candidates elected all across our state.

Old Wisdom Applied to Current Spending Proposals

This will sound like the start of a bad joke, but please bear with me: What do Everett Dirksen, Otto von Bismarck, H.L. Mencken, and "the Preacher" in the book of Ecclesiastes have in common?

GUEST OPINION Mark Hendrickson

Well, if you've been gone to college and studied multiculturalism or been taught that western civilization is nothing special, you might answer with condemnatory annoyance, "They're all dead white males." That's true, but I had in mind something even less

Reading a report about various Democratic spending proposals caused me to think of famous, oft-quoted pithy statements attributed to the four afore-mentioned persons. (Note the word "attributed."

consequential.

The provenance of some of these statements is uncertain and the exact wording may be different, but even if they are folklore, I am using them as they have come down to us because of the astute insights they provide.)

Here are the four quotes and why how they pertain to Democratic spending proposals:

"A billion here, a billion there, pretty soon you're talking about real money." –

Indeed, today's grandiose spending proposals show that it's time to tweak Dirksen's quip to, "A trillion here, a trillion there..."

Democrats have proposed $40 billion "to connect all of America to affordable high speed Internet" (you mean AT&T, Verizon, Comcast, et al., need subsidies?); $25 billion for mass-transit grants (those famous infrastructure projects that always run way over budget and end up serving far fewer people than would make the projects economical); $3 billion for "charging and refueling" stations for electric cars (when federal money wasn't needed to build gas stations); etc., etc., as various members of Congress seek to add another trillion dollars to the federal budget.

Most recently, every presidential candidate in the recent Democratic debate affirmed that illegal immigrants would be covered by their proposed health care plan.

Apparently, it doesn't concern them that Uncle Sam already is more than $22 trillion in debt. (Why not spend a few million more for a global advertising campaign promising free medical care to any non-American who evades detection by our border patrol agencies?)

"Laws are like sausages – it's better not to see them being made." – Bismarck

Indeed, some of the proposals are very sketchy – almost as if they had been tossed into the mix as an afterthought designed to placate a particular special interest group – "Hey, we'd better add a billion for 'Indian irrigation projects."

And one can almost visualize the exertions and contortions of the lawmakers as they strive to carve up the spending and channel it in hopefully acceptable proportions to partisan constituencies – e.g.,14% to workers with disabilities, x-percent to businesses owned (not operated?) by a female, etc. Bismarck would have nodded knowingly.

"Every election is a sort of advance auction stolen goods." – Mencken

Ask yourself why members of Congress fall all over themselves in the frenzied effort to spend even more money that we don't have.

It's simple: They do it to get re-elected. Voters want – no, demand – Congress to subsidize their lifestyles in a variety of ways, whether as individuals or as businesses.

While it is easy for us to point a finger at the politicians as the source of the problem, they are not. The real culprit is found by looking at "We the people."

In this article, I have mocked specific Democratic proposals, but let us not forget that when Republicans controlled the White House and both houses of Congress under both George W. Bush (2001-2007) and

Old Wisdom Applied to Current Spending Proposals

Donald Trump (2017-19) budget deficits rose.

"There is no new thing under the sun." – The Preacher (Eccl. 1:9 KJV)

The story of popular government is the same in every age: politicians seek to gain popularity and advance their careers by bribing the people with the people's money.

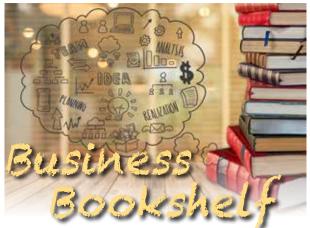

The impulse for those in power to try to be all things to all people and to use force in the attempt to make their plans come to fruition has been tried (and found wanting) many, many times over the centuries.

The only cure for this tired old syndrome of government spending more and more of other people's money is to live by the moral code that America's founding generation adopted.

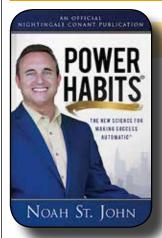

I refer, of course, to a society in which each person's innate right to be safe in the enjoyment of his own life and property is accepted, and in which the proper role of government is to uphold those rights impartially rather than to violate the rights of some in order to indulge the wants of others.

Mark Hendrickson recently retired from his position as adjunct professor of economics and entrepreneurship at Grove City College, where he taught since 2004. He is also a Fellow for Economic and Social Policy with the Institute for Faith & Freedom, for which he writes regular commentaries. He is a contributing editor of The St. Croix Review and selfeducatedamerican.com, sits on the Council of Scholars of the Commonwealth Foundation, writes the "No Panaceas" column in the Op/Ed section of Forbes.com, and is a contributor at TheBlaze.com. After completing his B.A. in Spanish from Albion College, he at various times studied at the University of Michigan School of Law, Oxford University (Shakespeare and world literature), and Harvard (moral education) before earning his masters and doctorate degrees under the tutelage of the late economist and Grove City College icon, Dr. Hans F. Sennholz. His published books include: America's March Toward Communism (1987) – a study of the extent to which Karl Marx's ten point-platform for socializing an economy has been implemented in the United States; The Morality of Capitalism (editor, 1992); Famous But Nameless: Inspiration and Lessons from the Bible's Anonymous Characters (2011); and God and Man on Wall Street: The Conscience of Capitalism (with Craig Columbus, 2012). His most recent book is Problems with Piketty: The Flaws and Fallacies in 'Capital in the Twenty-First Century.' Hendrickson's commentaries have been published in The Freeman, Reason, New Guard, Human Events, The Washington Times, The Washington Examiner, The Christian Science Monitor, AmericanThinker.com, and USAToday.com, among others.

Power HabitsThe New Science for Making Success Automatic

Many of us are driving down the road of life with one foot on the brake – we know the how-to's of success but are still stuck.

The result of more than three decades of study and experience, Noah St. John's Power Habits overhauls traditional personal development programs that focus on trying to change human behavior.

Instead, St. John's system targets your unconscious thoughts, beliefs, and desires in order to eliminate self-defeating habits and put you on autopilot toward success.

"Noah's system represents one of the most significant breakthroughs

Judgment Description

By Noah St. John

in the study of success in decades." – Jack Canfield, author of Chicken Soup for the Soul

THE STORY BEHIND THE STORY

Using his Power Habits System, Noah St. John was not only able to transform his life from one of deadend jobs and endless debt to worldwide prominence, impressive business accomplishments, and prosperity; he's also become one of the world's most sought-after keynote speakers and business coaches.

The results speak for themselves: Since 1997, Noah's clients have added more than a billion dollars in sales.

Nike, Too Big To Fail?

$44 million a year to represent their brand. They still pay him. Forbes estimated Nike paid Jordan $100 million in 2015 as Jordan's brand still made $3 billion for Nike in US sneaker sales. Lebron James is reported to receive as much as $1 billion from Nike in endorsement money by the time he is 64 years

Colon Kaepernick was already on Nike's payroll before he became controversially famous for not standing for the National anthem. Nike wasn't using him and reportedly didn't know what to do with him until he became famous over his social issue stance. Kaepernick is currently not playing professional football. No one has signed him after he became a free agent but he is making millions a year by being the face of Nike's revived "Just Do It" campaign.

Recently Kaepernick ignited controversy by reportedly telling Nike to pull its Air Max 1 Quick Strike Fourth of July sneakers. Nike said he told the company he believes the colonial flag used on the shoes is offensive, because it was flown when slavery was legal. While there has been much consternation toward Nike's decision, Nike's stock has risen $3 billion within the last week. If you can find a pair of the Betsy Ross shoes they are going for about $2,500.

The question is this, Can Nike do no wrong? Are they too big to fail? Nike is utilizing controversy well to breathe new air into its products. With major national sports figures wearing and promoting the Nike brand and cheap Asian labor Nike has locked into a formula that appears unstoppable.

Nike will continue on their path of global success if the American people buy their products. It's a free country. If Americans decide to stop buying Nike products it would be financially troubling. Either way, Nike's continued success or failure will be decided by how Americans utilize Nike's slogan, "Just Do It," and how Americans decide to "Just Do It."

State adds 6,000 jobs in June, unemployment rate holds steady

OLYMPIA – Washington's economy gained 6,000 jobs in June and the state's seasonally adjusted monthly unemployment rate for June was unchanged at 4.6 percent according to the Employment Security Department.

"Employment continues to expand at a healthy pace" said Paul Turek, economist for the department." The rise in payroll jobs over the past few months has generated more opportunities for new entrants to the labor force."

The Employment Security Department released the preliminary job estimates from the federal Bureau of Labor Statistics as part of its Monthly Employment Report.

The department also announced that May's previously reported unemployment rate of 4.7 percent was slightly lower at 4.6 percent. May's preliminary estimated gain of 9,600 jobs was revised to a gain of 7,600 jobs.

The national unemployment rate rose slightly to 3.7 percent in June 2019. In June 2018, the national unemployment rate was 4.0 percent.

Employment Security paid unemployment insurance benefits to 48,364 people in June.

Labor force adds more people

The state's labor force in June was 3,879,200 – an increase of 3,300 people from the previous month. In the Seattle/Bellevue/Everett region, the labor force increased by 500 over the same period.

From June 2018 through June 2019, the state's labor force grew by 96,000 and the Seattle/Bellevue/ Everett region increased by 34,100.

The labor force is the total number of people, both employed and unemployed, over the age of 16.

Eight industry sectors expanded, one was unchanged and four contracted Private sector employment increased by 5,400 while the public sector gained 600 jobs in June. This month's report shows the largest private job growth occurred in education & health services up 2,500 jobs, information up 1,600 jobs and manufacturing up 1,300 jobs. Also posting gains were professional & business services, government and retail trade all up 600 jobs, other services was up 400 jobs and transportation, warehousing & utilities up 200 jobs. The mining and logging sector remained unchanged. Construction lost 800 jobs, wholesale trade lost 600 jobs, leisure & hospitality lost 300 jobs and financial activities lost 100 jobs.

Year-over-year growth in payroll employment occurring in the private sector

Washington added an estimated 82,700 new jobs from June 2018 through June 2019, not seasonally adjusted. The private sector grew by 2.9 percent, up an estimated 82,600 jobs, while public sector employment was little changed with a net gain of 100 jobs.

From June 2018 through June 2019, eleven out of the thirteen major industries added jobs while one sector contracted and one sector remained unchanged.

The three industry sectors with the largest employment gains yearover-year, not seasonally adjusted, were:

- Education & health services with 20,800 new jobs
- oos ■ Professional & business services with 16,200 new jobs

Leisure & hospitality with 12,100 new jobs

Note: The Bureau of Labor Statistics recently updated its "alternative measures of labor underutilization," or U-6 rate, for states to include the first quarter of 2019. The U-6 rate considers not only the unemployed population in the official U-3 unemployment rate, but also "the underemployed and those not looking but wanting a job." The U-6 unemployment rate for the second quarter of 2018 through the first quarter of 2019 for Washington state was 8.1 percent. This was lower compared to the 9.0 percent U-6 unemployment rate one year prior. The U.S. U-6 unemployment rate was 7.6 percent over the same time period.

Grant County Labor Area Summary - May 2019

Overview

This report provides an update on the Grant County incorporating not seasonally adjusted, nonfarm employment and civilian labor force data. Analysis focuses on yearover-year (between May 2018 and May 2019) and average annual (between 2017 and 2018) changes in the labor market.

Unemployment rates, not seasonally adjusted Grant County, January 2017 through May 2019

Unemployment rates

Preliminary Civilian Labor Force (CLF) data show that Washington's not seasonally adjusted percent. Between the Mays of 2018 and 2019 the rate stabilized at 4.2 percent.

> In Grant County, CLF data show that the average annual unemployment rate dipped from 6.3 percent in 2017 to 6.2 percent in 2018.

> average annual unemployment rate fell two-tenths of a point between 2017 and 2018, from 4.7 percent to 4.5

This 6.2-percent reading is the lowest average annual unemployment rate in the County since electronic records were implemented by our agency in 1990.

However, the not seasonally adjusted May 2019 unemployment rate (6.2 percent) was four-tenths point above the 5.8-percent reading in May 2018, and the rate has been rising for the past nine months (September 2018 through May 2019).

The Grant County unemployment rate increased four-tenths of a percentage point between the Mays of 2018 and 2019.

Total nonfarm employment

Between 2017 and 2018, Washington's labor market provided 83,600 new nonfarm jobs, an annual average increase of 2.5 percent.

In May 2019, business and government organizations across Washington supplied 3,495,800 nonfarm jobs (not seasonally adjusted), compared to 3,413,500 jobs in May 2018, a 2.4 percent year over year employment increase.

The state's economy has posted year over year nonfarm employment increases for the past 104 consecutive months (October 2010 through May 2019).

Between 2017 and 2018 Grant County's economy provided 1,370 new nonfarm jobs, an average annual increase of 4.7 percent, considerably more robust than the 2.5 percent statewide growth rate.

Between the Mays of 2018 and 2019 local nonfarm employment netted 910 new jobs, a 2.9-percent increase (from 30,920 jobs to 31,830 jobs, respectively).

Year over year, total nonfarm employment in Grant County has been growing for the past 17 (January months through May 2019).

Nonfarm industry employment Grant County, January 2016 through May 2019 Source: Employment Security Department/Labor Market and Economic Analysis (LMEA); U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Current Employment Statistics (CES)

Nonfarm employers in Grant County provided 31,830 nonfarm jobs in May 2019, a 2.9-percent upturn since May 2018.

Employment and unemployment

Estimates indicate that Washington's Civilian Labor Force (CLF) grew by 74,195 residents (a 2.0 percent upturn) from 2017 to 2018. The state's labor force has expanded, year over year, for the past 64 months (February 2014 through May 2019). In May 2019 Washington's CLF tallied 3,876,783 residents versus 3,770,988 in May 2018 equating to 105,795 more Washingtonians in the CLF (up 2.8 percent).

Grant County's CLF expanded by 1,329 residents (a 2.9 percent increase) from 2017 to 2018. Between the Mays of 2018 and 2019 the local labor force grew by 1,491 residents, a 3.3 percent upturn. Less encouraging is the fact that the number of unemployed increased at a 10.1-percent pace with 268 more Grant County resite the Mays of 2018 and 2019: dents out of work in May 2019 than in May 2018 (see Figure 3). Hence, this May's unemployment rate of 6.2 percent edged upwards four-tenths of a percentage point from the 5.8 percent reading in May 2018.

Nonfarm industry employment

Estimates indicate that Grant County's nonfarm employers provided 910 more jobs in May 2019 than in May 2018, a 2.9-percent upturn, while Washington's nonfarm market grew by 2.4 percent during this period. The following paragraphs highlight changes in three local industries between ♦ Year over year, employment in Grant County's professional and business services industry has been rising for the past 17 months (January 2018 through May 2019). This category consists of a diverse set of niche industries, ranging from computer systems design and accounting/tax preparation services to landscaping and janitorial services, legal services and temporary employment services. Within professional and business services, temporary employment services is likely accounting for much of this employment upturn - an encouraging economic indicator. This industry provided 400 more jobs in May 2019 than in May 2018, jumping from 2,440 to 2,840 jobs, a brisk 16.4-percent upturn. Statewide, this industry has expanded for 109 months (from May 2010 through May 2019).

◆ Leisure and hospitality employment in Grant County has been rising for the past 13 months (May 2018 through May 2019). Between the Mays of 2018 and 2019 this industry moved forward from 2,690 to 3,220 jobs respectively, a strong 19.7-percent upturn. Statewide, leisure and hospitality has been adding workers for the past 104 months (from October 2010 through May 2019).

Agricultural employment

The Bureau of Labor Statistics' Quarterly Census of Employment and Wage (QCEW) program, conducted by the Washington State Employment Security Department provides agricultural and nonagricultural employment and wages for firms, organizations and individuals whose employees are covered by the Washington State Employment Security Act. Frequently termed "covered" or "QCEW" data, this information provides a reliable data set for comparing employment and wage trends in major industries at the county level. In June 2019, preliminary annual average QCEW data for calendar year 2018 became available. An analysis of employment changes from 2008 through 2018 shows that in Grant County:

◆ Total covered employment rose from 35,038 in 2008 to 40,364 in 2018, a 5,326-job and 15.2 percent upturn. The number of agricultural jobs (a subset of total covered employment) increased from 8,434 in 2008 to 10,027 in 2018, a 1,593-job and 18.9 percent uptrend. In 2008 Grant County's agricultural industry accounted for 24.1 percent of total covered employment. In 2018 agricultural employment accounted for 24.8 percent of total covered employment countywide. The share of agricultural employment (versus total covered employment) rose a marginal seven-tenths of a percentage point (from 24.1 to 24.8 percent) in Grant County during this ten-year period.

 Total covered wages rose from $1.120 billion (in 2008) to $1.703 billion (in 2018) a $582.9 million and 52.1 percent upturn. The agricultural payroll (a subset of total covered wages) advanced from $181.5 million in 2008 to $295.5 million in 2018, a $114.00 million and 62.8 percent uptrend. In 2008 Grant County's agricultural industry accounted for 16.2 percent of total covered wages while in 2018 agricultural wages accounted for 17.4 percent of total covered wages. Hence, the share of agricultural wages (versus total covered wages) earned in Grant County increased a modest 1.2 percentage points (from 16.2 to 17.4 percent) during this tenyear period.

Wenatchee MSA (Chelan and Douglas Counties) Labor Area Summary - May 2019

Overview

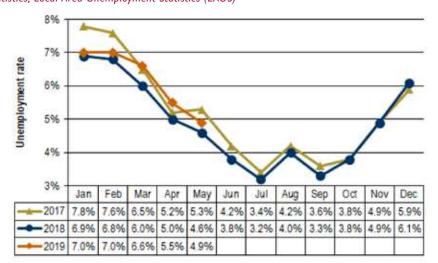

This report provides an update on the Wenatchee MSA economy incorporating not seasonally adjusted, nonfarm employment and civilian labor force data. Analysis focuses on yearover-year (between May 2018 and May 2019) and average annual (between 2017 and 2018) changes in the labor market.

Unemployment rates Preliminary Civilian

Unemployment rates, not seasonally adjusted Wenatchee MSA, January 2017 through May 2019

Source: Employment Security Department/WITS; U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Local Area Unemployment Statistics (LAUS)

The Wenatchee MSA's unemployment rate rose three-tenths of a percentage point between the Mays of 2018 and 2019.

Labor Force (CLF) data show that Washington's not seasonally adjusted average annual unemployment rate fell two-tenths of a point between 2017 and 2018, from 4.7 percent to 4.5 percent.

Between the Mays of 2018 and 2019 the rate stabilized at 4.2 percent.

In the Wenatchee MSA, estimates show the average annual unemployment rate fell from 5.1 to 4.8 percent between 2017 and 2018.

This 4.8 percent reading for 2018 was a historically low reading.

However, rates have crept upwards during each of the past six months (December 2018 through May 2019).

The rate rose threetenths point between the Mays of 2018 and 2019, from 4.6 to 4.9 percent.

>> January through May 2018. Also, the number of active listings has slipped, from 145 in May 2018 to 135 in May of this year (down 6.9 percent). Conversely, the median sales price of homes/condos sold in the Wenatchee Market continued to climb, from $315,000 from January through May 2018 to $338,500 during the first five months of 2019, a 7.5 percent upturn. With the exception of a weatherrelated downturn in February 2019, employment in Washington's construction industry has also been expanding. Year over year, the number of construction jobs statewide has risen in 86 of the 87 months from March 2012 through May 2019.

Estimates

indicate that, over the year, the number of jobs in the Wenatchee MSA's retail trade sector has either stagnated or decreased in each of the past nine months (September 2018 through May 2019). The number of retail trade jobs upturn. in this two-county area declined 3.2 percent, a 200-job downturn, from 6,300 in May 2018 to 6,100 in May 2019. Statewide, retail trade employment has increased for 104 months (October 2010 through May 2019). It should be noted however that the retail trade job growth across Washington has not been evenly distributed amongst the various retail trade subsectors (i.e., motor vehicle and parts dealers, food and beverage stores, general merchandise stores, other retail trade, etc.). Rather, growth has been concentrated in the "other retail trade"

category (which includes online shopping). For example, between the Mays of 2018 and 2019, Washington's retail trade sector netted 6,100 new jobs (up

1.6 percent) with 7,500 new jobs tallied in "other retail trade" (up 6.4 percent) but with 2,500 fewer jobs (down

3.6 percent) being provided

at Washington's general merchandise stores. • Year over year, the Wenatchee MSA's leisure and hospitality industry (primarily hotels and eating and drinking places) increased the number of part- and full-time jobs by 4.4 percent from May 2018 (6,800 jobs) to May 2019 (7,100 jobs). Year over year, local leisure and hospitality employment in the Wenatchee MSA has either stabilized or increased in each of the past 20 months (October 2017 through May 2019). Statewide, the number of jobs in this industry has been expanding, year over year, for 104 consecutive months (October 2010 through May 2019).

employment The Bureau of Labor Statistics' Quarterly Census of Employment and Wage (QCEW) program, conducted by the Washington State Employment Security Department provides agricultural and nonagricultural employment and wages for firms, organizations and individuals whose employees are covered by the Washington State Employment Security Act. data for calendar year 2018

The number of agricultural jobs (a subset of total covered employment) increased from 8,445 in 2008 to 10,662 in 2018, a 2,217-job and 26.3-percent uptrend. In 2008 Chelan County's agricultural industry accounted for 21.5 percent of total covered employment.

In 2018 agricultural employment accounted for 23.6 percent of total covered employment countywide. Hence, the agricultural share of total covered employment increased two and one-tenths percentage points (from 21.5 to 23.6 percent) in Chelan County during this ten-year period.

 Total covered wages (not adjusted for inflation) rose from $1.236 billion (in 2008) to $1.830 billion (in 2018) a $594.3 million and 48.1 percent upturn.

The agricultural payroll (a subset of total covered wages) advanced $166.6 million in 2008 to $293.4 million in 2018, a $126.9 million and 76.2 percent uptrend.

In 2008 Chelan County's agricultural industry accounted for 13.5 percent of total covered wages and by 2018 agricultural wages tallied 16.0 percent of total covered payroll; meaning that the agricultural share of wages increased two and five-tenths percentage points (from 13.5 to 16.0 percent) during this tenyear period.

Hence, one could generalize that in the most recent ten-year period, the footprint made by the agricultural industry on total covered employment and payroll in Chelan County has become relatively larger.

Total nonfarm employment

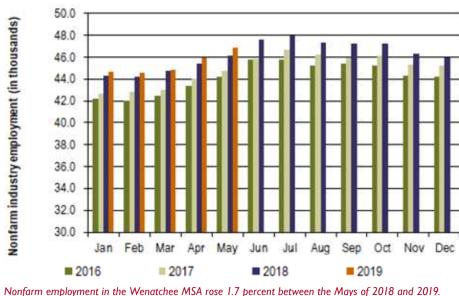

Between 2017 and 2018, Washington's labor market provided 83,600 nonfarm jobs, an annual average increase of 2.5 percent. In May 2019, business and government organizations across Washington supplied 3,495,800 nonfarm jobs (not seasonally adjusted), compared to 3,413,500 jobs in May 2018, a 2.4 percent year over year employment increase.

The state's economy has posted year over year nonfarm employment increases for the past 104 consecutive months (October 2010 through May 2019).

The Wenatchee MSA's nonfarm labor market provided 1,300 new jobs between 2017 and 2018, an increase of 2.9 percent, more robust than Washington's 2.5-percent job growth rate during 2018.

Total nonfarm employment in this two-county MSA has increased or stabilized, year over year, in each of the past 85 months (May 2012 through May 2019). Between the Mays of 2018 and 2019 the number of nonfarm jobs in the Wenatchee MSA (Chelan and Douglas counties) rose by 800, a 1.7 percent upturn.

Employment and unemployment

Estimates indicate that Washington's Civilian Labor Force (CLF) grew by 74,195 residents (a 2.0 percent upturn) from 2017 to 2018. The state's labor force has expanded, year over year, for the past 64 months (February 2014 through May 2019). In May 2019 Washington's CLF tallied 3,876,783 residents versus 3,770,988 in May 2018 equating to 105,795 more Washingtonians in the CLF (up 2.8 percent).

The Wenatchee MSA's CLF grew from 65,287 residents in 2017 to 67,182 in 2018, a 2.9 percent upturn. over year, the Wenatchee MSA's labor force has been expanding for the past 23 months (July 2017 through May 2019). Between the Mays of 2018 and 2019 the CLF increased 2.9 percent (meaning there were 1.855 more residents in the labor force in May 2019 than in May 2018), as shown in Figure 3. Although this labor force expansion pace was respectable, the number of unemployed increased at a more rapid 9.8 percent pace. Hence, the unemployment rate rose from 4.6 percent in May 2018 to 4.9 percent in May of this year.

Nonfarm industry employment

Between the Mays of 2017 and 2018 total nonfarm employment in Chelan and Douglas counties (the Wenatchee MSA) rose 1.7 percent, from 46,100 to Washington's nonfarm market expanded by 2.4 Wenatchee Market (i.e., in percent during this timeframe. Highlights of yearover-year changes follow:

 In the mining, logging and construction category (see Figure 3) most jobs are in "construction."

Year over year, employment in the Wenatchee MSA's construction industry grew by 100 jobs, or 3.3 percent. It has stabilized or risen for 37 months (May 2016 through May 2019).

However, there were 13.4 percent fewer home or condo sales (i.e., closed sales) Year-to-Date (YTD) in the first five months of 2019 versus January through May 2018 in the Wenatchee, Malaga, East Wenatchee, Orondo and Rock Island, WA) according to the May 2019 Real Estate Snapshot newsletter published by Pacific Appraisal Associates. Specifically, the number of single family homes or condominiums sold in the Wenatchee Market during first five months of 2019 was 350, a decline from the 404 closed sales from

Stemilt news release

Even a busy cherry season hasn't kept Stemilt from slowing down its local community support.

"The month of July started off with fun community events for Stemilt in the Wenatchee Valley," explains Brianna Shales, Stemilt's communications manager.

"With the holiday last week, we joined the Wenatchee Valley Chamber of Commerce during their Wenatchee Valley 4th of July Celebrations. Then, later in the week, we presented our large donation to the Washington Apple Education Foundation for their scholarship funds."

Stemilt sponsored and donated cherries to the Cherry Spitting Contest at the Wenatchee Valley 4th of July Celebrations, where contestants of all ages tried to spit the cherry pit as far as they could.

The winner of the contest spit his pit an upwards of

"It was really great to see such an enthusiastic crowd participating," states Shales.

"The holidays really bring this community together and being able to support something that involves our delicious dark-sweet cherries is something we are more than happy to do."

Stemilt also donated a check for $100,000 to the Washington Apple Education Foundation (WAEF) on Friday. WAEF is a local organization that works to impact lives through access to educational opportunities.

The non-profit awarded more than $1 million in scholarships to 310 students last year.

Stemilt has been partnering with WAEF for nearly 25 years and raises funds through Stemilt's TKM Golf Tournament and the company's Community Investment Committee.

Stemilt has multiple scholarships that children of its employees can apply for, plus one other that is open for all children whose parents work in the ag industry. Stemilt's scholarships are used at accredited universities.

"WAEF offers many kids an opportunity to pursue higher education and work towards achieving their career goals," says Shales.

"It is a cause we strongly believe in and it is a great avenue to give back to these future local leaders."

All ages participated in the Cherry Pit Spitting Contest.
