Cashmere seeks civic-minded residents for planning commission role

By KIRK BECKENDORF
Special to Ward Media

CASHMERE - During the Cashmere City Council's Jan. 8 meeting, Mayor Jim Fletcher announced that the city is seeking local residents who would like to serve on the Cashmere Planning Commission.

He clarified that to be eligible, an individual must live within the city or the UGA boundary. The Cashmere Planning Commission is an advisory committee that provides recommendations to the City Council to help determine the growth and development of the city. Individuals interested in guiding and planning the future of Cashmere should contact the Mayor at City Hall.

In response to petitions from Al Kennedy and Blaine and Jaqueline Smith for the city to vacate a portion of Spring St., Fletcher explained that the Kennedy's property surrounds three sides of the street, which dead ends into their property. With little discussion the Council unanimously approved a Public Hearing to obtain comments regarding the requests.

The majority of the evening's meeting was an update by Fletcher of city activities and plans. He explained that he wanted to start discussions related to potential utility rate increases and to provide new council member, Jeff Johnson, some background into the current state of city business.

The topics discussed included the following.

- Fletcher told Council that a possible increase in water utility rates may be needed, but there should not be a need for an increase in wastewater rates. He explained that he is waiting on final year-end budget numbers to determine what will be required. According to Fletcher, the primary reason for a potential increase is to allow the city to build the Capital Funds budget for future capital projects. Rhetorically, he asked, how long should the city delay projects in order to build funds to do the projects? He added that the discussions would occur across several meetings, to allow for public input and increase awareness.

- New playground equipment for Riverside Park will be arriving sometime in April. The plan is for it to be installed near the current swing set that is on the west end of the park.
- The pool is continuing to leak from a seam, so the city is planning to have a pool company evaluate the problem and provide recommendations for a solution.

CASHMERE - The CHS Drama Department will present the musical with performances at 7 p.m. on Jan. 25, 26 and 27 and Feb. 2 and 3 at the Cashmere Middle School Auditorium.

"Mamma Mia" uses the songs of ABBA to tell the story of a young woman's search for her birth father on a Greek Island paradise. Unbeknownst to her mother, Donna, Sophie reads her mother's diary and invites three potential suitors to her wedding. On the eve of her wedding the men arrive on the island.

"Mamma Mia is just like pure fun and tropical craziness, lots of dancing and it's the story of Sophie getting ready for her wedding and trying to figure out who her dad is and all the guests that come in, the people that live on the island and all the craziness that ensues with that," director Susan Gubsch said.

Students get to have input on the drama departments' play selection and "Mamma Mia" is along the lines of what they were hoping for, Gubsch said.

"We really wanted to work on our dance skills this year," she said. "And so there's lots of dance and we're very thrilled that Becca Allen is our choreographer this year. She has the next generation dance studio here in Cashmere. And she was our choreographer 10 years ago."

"But then as she was busy with her studio and her own kids, she had to back out of that," she said. "So she's back this year, and we're very pleased to have her back and the kids are really enjoying working with her."

A lot of work goes into a production and students have been working hard rehearsing and on set production.

There are 31 cast members, 10 crew members and 12 in the orchestra.

"What I have loved is the work ethic of this group," she said. "They have been working so hard but having so much fun I like to sit back at rehearsal and just listen to them laugh and giggle and just have so much fun with this show. So it's just like the perfect show for January with the winter doldrums. You just get to come for bright costumes and lots of fun accents and I think it's the perfect show for us this year."

Tickets are $15 for adults and $8 for students and senior citizens. Tickets are on sale at the Cashmere High School office during school hours by check or cash only. Tickets will also be available at the door, with the box office opening at 6:15 p.m. on performance nights.

One-of-a-kind thrill

Luge like nowhere else on Bear Mountain

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

LOUP LOUP SUMMIT - Winter outdoor sports lovers searching for that one-of-a-kind thrill ride will find just what they are seeking in their own backyard on Bear Mountain at the Loup Loup Ski Bowl.

Bear Mountain Luge Sledding opened for the season last Saturday, Jan. 13, with its brand of excitement not found anywhere else. Luge - a French word meaning "sledge" - employs small single or double occupancy sleds that riders sit on, control with their hands, and use their feet for breaking.

"The Loup is one of the first and only resorts in the Western US to offer luge sledding," A Loup media release said.

Combine that with a ride in the back of an open-air snowcat to ascend 1,200 feet to reach the starting point of the five-kilometer course and you have a pair of experiences unique to the Bear Mountain variety.

Loup Loup Ski Education Foundation (LLSEF) board secretary

Steve Nelson and wife, Julie, came up with the novel and inspired idea for the luge program, now in its eighth year.

"It's kind of a total experience," said Nelson. "An initial education, a little clinic to tell everybody how to do it, then everybody loads in snowcats - how many people have ridden snowcats? .01 percent of the population - and then the guided trip down by our luge guides."

With twists, turns, and plenty of speed, the course is a thrilling adventure for all ages.

"Speed is whatever the sledder wants because you control it yourself," said Julie who manages the program. "It's really for those who are more adventurous to go faster."

For those adventurous types, whose daring exceeds their skill there is a border fence just like the kind used on ski racecourses to catch errant riders.

Not surprisingly many of the sledders are return clients and multi-generational family groups that have

Highest level of protections for three Washington rivers goes into effect

By TAYLOR CALDWELL
Ward Media Staff Reporter

OLYMPIA - Protections for the Napeequa River in Chelan County are set to go into effect Jan. 18, after being designated as an Outstanding Resource Water (ORW). The Napeequa River flows from the Glacier Peak Wilderness into the White River, which ultimately feeds into Lake Wenatchee.

Segments of the Napeequa, Green and Cascade rivers were the first rivers ever designated as Tier III (A) Outstanding Resource Waters in Washington State, granting the highest level of protection assigned to a water body under the state's antidegradation rule. Soap Lake was designated at a Tier III (B) ORW.

The Clean Water Act of 1972 allows for states to provide extra protections to high quality and unique waters through ORW classification. To meet the criteria, bodies of water must meet high quality water standards, have ecological importance, and/or provide unique attributes or recreational value. Under the antidegradation rule, water bodies with Tier III (A) ORW classification are protected from any and all future degradation, while Tier III (B) classification allows minor degradation under certain circumstances.

In 2021, the Department of Ecology took nominations from the public, tribes, and interests groups. The three rivers and Soap Lake were nominated for having met all or some of the criteria.

The Napeequa River received nominations from Pew Charitable Trusts, American Rivers, Cascade Forest Conservancy, Wild Salmon Center, American Whitewater, Washington Wild, and Trout Unlimited, according to Ecology. Due to its remote location, the river was chosen for its high water quality, ecological significance, and recreational value, meeting all the criteria.

"Its cold, pristine waters provide critical habitat for species, such as endangered Spring chinook and threatened bull trout. Both the White River and Lake Wenatchee rely on critical inputs from the Napeequa as a major tributary to provide high-quality water and habitat for downstream salmon and trout," said Pacific Northwest Stewardship Director Tom O'Keefe in an American Whitewater press release.

The Napeequa River Valley has high-recreational value for hikers exploring the remote wilderness, and kayakers and rafters benefitting from its water contributions to the Wenatchee River downstream.

Mountaineers.org calls the Napeequa River Valley "one of the most awesome, revered and wildest valleys in the state."

On Dec. 18, 2023 the rivers were officially designated through the adopted changes to the Water Quality Standards for Surface Waters of the State of Washington. The changes go into effect 31 days after its adoption date.

Championing local milestones and the importance of shopping local

In this week's edition of the Cashmere Valley Record, nestled on page A4, lies a unique celebration of local business resilience and longevity - our 'Honor Roll of Business.' This feature is not just a list but a visual narrative showcasing businesses in descending order based on their years of service. It is an homage to their persistence and a symbol of their integral role in our community.

But there's more to this feature than just acknowledgement. It underscores a crucial message: the importance of shopping local. Each business listed represents a decision by someone in our community to choose local over distant alternatives. This choice strengthens our local economy, fosters job creation, and nurtures the community's unique character.

Shopping local isn't just a catchphrase; it's a commitment to sustaining the vibrancy and health of our economy. When we choose local businesses, we're not just buying a product or a service; we're investing in our community's future. Local businesses are more likely to recycle a much larger share of their revenue back into the local economy, enhancing the whole community's economic base.

From the Publisher

The endurance of these businesses, highlighted in the Honor Roll of Business, also reflects their ability to build and maintain trust within our community. These are the enterprises that have weathered economic storms and adapted to changing consumer needs while remaining steadfast in their commitment to our region.

These local businesses contribute much to the community. They sponsor local sports teams, support school events, and participate in charity drives. Their presence goes beyond the storefront; they are part of our community's fabric and are vital in shaping our local culture and identity.

As you peruse the listings on page A4, remember that each name is a call to action. It's a reminder to support those who have invested in our community, provide local jobs, and contribute to North Central Washington's unique charm. Your choice to shop local is a powerful tool in building a strong and sustainable community.

Ward Media is proud to highlight these local pillars. We believe that recognizing their milestones is as important as understanding the impact of our shopping choices. Together, we can ensure the prosperity and vibrancy of our local business community for years to come.

Are you getting too much magnesium?

84-year-old Martha was halfway down her driveway to get her mail when she tripped and fell onto the asphalt. Luckily, her neighbor across the street witnessed her fall, rushed to help, and called 911 when she couldn't get up.

Her head, heart, lungs, and kidneys checked out fine, but the magnesium in Martha's blood was too high, which can cause muscle weakness. When asked if she was taking any magnesium supplements, Martha said no. "I only take a thyroid pill for my thyroid and a pain pill at night for my arthritis."

I asked her, "Do you take any laxatives?"

"Why, yes, nearly every night. My pain pill helps my arthritis, but it binds me up, so I take a laxative for that."

"Which one?"

"It's in a blue bottle. Phillips®, I think."

"Do you take anything for stomach acid, burning, or indigestion?"

"Sometimes. I like the mint flavored Mylanta® chews."

"How about other supplements? Do you take anything for sleep?"

"Sure. There's a powder called CALM that helps me sleep. I mix some in my chamomile tea at bedtime."

Although she wasn't taking a magnesium supplement, Martha was getting magnesium through taking Phillips® Milk of Magnesia as a laxative, Mylanta chews as an antacid and CALM powder for sleep.

Magnesium is a mineral that's essential for the function and maintenance of nerves and muscles and for making new bone cells. Too little magnesium interferes with correcting calcium or potassium deficiency. It can lead to osteoporosis and high blood pressure, while too much magnesium causes diarrhea, muscle weakness, and sedation.

Magnesium hydroxide is a milky liquid and a significant ingredient in the antacids Maalox® and Mylanta®. It's also the main component of Phillips Milk of Magnesia®. Magnesium is also available as magnesium citrate, a clear, effervescent solution of magnesium with sodium bicarbonate and citric acid added to make it bubbly.

Magnesium citrate and magnesium hydroxide are marketed laxatives. Magnesium relieves constipation by helping pull water out of your body into your intestine and colon as it travels through. The extra water helps to soften your stool and relieve constipation in as little as 30 minutes to 3 hours.

Although these magnesium-based laxatives work inside your intestines, some of the magnesium can also get into your bloodstream. Up to 20% of the magnesium in each dose of milk of magnesia or citrate of magnesia can be absorbed, increasing your magnesium blood level, like what happened to Martha.

Martha also was getting magnesium in her CALM for Sleep powder.

Epsom Salts are another form of magnesium. When mineral waters in Epsom, England, underwent evaporation, they produced a nearly pure form of magnesium sulfate. Today, Epsom Salts are made by evaporating water from the sea. After extracting the more desirable sodium chloride (table salt) from seawater, the brine that is left is nearly pure magnesium sulfate.

Soaking in a concentrated salty solution of Epsom salts dissolved in hot water can help decrease swelling and relieve aches and pains. Magnesium chloride is also available as a spray to rub in to relieve muscle cramps. Your body can absorb magnesium chloride through your skin if you soak in it or spray it on.

I find that soaking in Epsom Salts is helpful when dealing with a deep splinter. Instead of digging around after it, soaking the area first shrinks and softens the skin around the splinter, making it much easier to see and remove.

Here are 5 Tips on Take Magnesium Safely:

1. Watch out for multiple sources.

In addition to taking a magnesium supplement, your body can absorb magnesium from other sources. Some antacids, liquid laxatives, supplements for sleep, and Epsom Salts all contain magnesium.

2. Know the signs of getting too much magnesium.

If you notice diarrhea, cramping, weakness, or low blood pressure, you may get too much magnesium, like Martha.

3. If you have kidney problems, avoid getting extra magnesium.

Avoid taking magnesium-containing antacids, laxatives, supplements, or using magnesium soaks or sprays if you have kidney problems or are under the care of a kidney doctor.

4. Change up your laxatives. If you need a laxative regularly, avoid magnesium. Instead, use powdered Miralax® (polyethylene glycol 3350), which is more effective than milk of magnesia and magnesium citrate without the risk of getting extra magnesium.

5. Don't mix magnesium with antibiotics.

Avoid taking magnesium between 1 hour before and at least 2 hours after certain antibiotics. Magnesium and other minerals like iron and calcium will attach directly to certain antibiotics, preventing you from absorbing the entire dose.

Candle Hazards: A burning Issue in Washington State

Ward Media / Cashmere Valley Record

OLYMPIA – The allure of flickering candlelight, often associated with tranquility and spiritual reverence, comes with a stark warning from the Washington State Fire Marshal's Office (SFMO). While candles add ambiance and are integral to religious services, they pose significant fire risks. Emphasizing the hazards, the SFMO has released crucial safety guidelines to prevent fire incidents.

In the U.S., candles are a leading cause of residential fires, with an average of 20 candle-related fires reported daily. Washington State's alarming statistics show over 2,000 fire incidents in 2022, attributable to open flames, resulting in property damages exceeding $21 million. These figures highlight the critical need for candle safety awareness.

The SFMO's safety recommendations include:

- Extinguishing candles when leaving a room or before sleeping.
- Ensuring candles are in sturdy holders and not passed between people if handheld.

- Avoiding placement of lit candles near windows with blinds or curtains.
- Keeping a minimum one-foot distance from flammable items.
- Prohibiting candle usage in homes with medical oxygen.
- Supervising children near burning candles and storing matches/lighters safely.
- Monitoring candles continuously in religious settings, preferably within glass containers and on water-filled basins or metal trays.

- Avoiding burning candles completely down to prevent holder/container damage.
- Considering the safer alternative of battery-powered flameless candles.

For further information on candle safety, the public is encouraged to visit the State Fire Marshal's Office website at www.wsp.wa.gov/state-fire-marshals-office or contact them at (360) 596-3929. As the SFMO stresses, vigilance and adherence to these guidelines are key to preventing candle-related hazards in homes and places of worship.

Nelson said the two types of people he hears from the most are the repeat customers and those who have been trying for years to get a reservation. "This is primarily a European type of sport," said Nelson. "We're very unique and nobody else has really caught on." The 2-1/2-hour experience costs $50 per person and includes sled, helmet, luge, sledding instruction, open air snowcat ride up Bear Mountain, and guided sledding down five-plus kilometers of groomed luge sledding. "All of our sleds come from Europe," said Nelson. "The manufacturer we hooked up with in Austria, they are craftsmen. They build every one of these by hand out of ash wood, all steam-bent frames. They're extraordinarily beautiful pieces of work."

Martin Luther King, Jr. DAY OF SERVICE

"Everybody can be great because everybody can serve."
- MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.

Service was at the heart of Martin Luther King's philosophy. He urged Americans to take action to improve the lives of others.

In 1994, Congress passed the King Holiday and Service Act to support efforts to make the King holiday a day of service. Since then, millions of Americans have honored the memory of Dr. King by making Martin Luther King Day as a "day on" instead of a "day off."

People across the nation spend Martin Luther King Day volunteering to make their communities better places. Some will plant community gardens, clean up parks or beaches, and others will read to children or the elderly.

Take a look at this list of MLK, Jr. Day Service ideas. Then look at each picture. Number the project you think each kid chose in the circles.

1. Clearing an elderly neighbor's sidewalk.
2. Collecting canned goods for a food bank.
3. Help coach a younger child's team.
4. Help a neighbor with some yardwork.
5. Play a game at the senior center.

Washington Outdoors Report

It's once again show season

By JOHN KRUSE
Special to Ward Media

Opportunities become limited for many hunters, anglers and outdoors enthusiasts during the winter months which is why promoters host sportsmen's shows as well as other consumer shows this time of year. Here's a line-up of what's happening in Washington and beyond for 2024:

TACOMA RV SHOW – Jan. 14-18, The Tacoma Dome, Tacoma

Fifteen area dealers will have a large selection of RVs for sale at the Tacoma Dome this year. Trey Carskadon with O'Laughlin Trade Shows says there are large inventories of motorhomes, trailers, toy haulers and more and attendees should expect to see show specials with prices significantly below MSRP. Better still, the Boeing Employee Credit Union will be on hand with special financing rates available if you decide to purchase an RV at the show. www.tacomarvshow.com

TRI-CITIES SPORTSMAN SHOW – Jan. 26-28, HAPO Center, Pasco

The 30th annual Tri-Cities Sportsman Show, put on every year by Merle and Bev Shuyler, promises to be a good one, attracting attendees from both Eastern Washington and North Central Oregon. Attractions this year include a border collie performing team and the return of the Sportsman Show Marketplace, where individuals rent a table inside the show and sell new or slightly used fishing, hunting and outdoors gear to attendees.

Children will enjoy the air rifle range, balloon archery shoot, face painting and catching trout at the luncheon lake. Kid's day is Sunday with a dollar off of admission and free fishing. Adults can wander the HAPO Center, visiting over 125 booths, or take in the Northwest Big Game Antler Display, the Fly-

Tying Theater, axe throwing demonstrations and hourly seminars by experts sharing tips for regional fishing and hunting success. Consider dropping by the Northwest Outdoor Writers Association booth as well. I'll be there from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday. www.shuylerproductions.com

WASHINGTON SPORTSMEN'S SHOW – Jan. 31 - Feb. 4, Washington State Fair Event Center, Puyallup

Washington's largest show starts the last day of January with hundreds of retailers, manufacturers, guides, outfitters, boat dealers, RV dealers and more all in one place for the outdoors consumer. Well known hunting personality Randy Newberg is back this year hosting daily seminar sessions as will survival expert Brett Stoffel, who hails from the Wenatchee Valley. Other seminar speakers include me. I'll be in the Blue Fishing Theater Saturday at 11 AM sharing my top Northwest fishing destinations for 2024. I will also have a booth at the show promoting our radio shows that air on stations in this region.

Additional reasons to attend this show include the "Fistful of Cheaters" promotion put on by area Toyota dealers where you definitely win free cheaters for steelhead fishing and with any luck, additional prizes. Addicted Fishing will be premiering a new movie on Saturday night, the Wall of Kings trophy taxidermy will be available for viewing and youth will enjoy the free kid's trout fishing pond. PACIFIC NORTHWEST SPORTSMEN'S SHOW – Feb. 14-18, Expo Center, Portland

The second biggest sportsmen's show in the nation doesn't take place in Washington but it's close, located at the Portland Expo Center on Marine Drive just south of Vancouver off of Interstate 5.

In addition to featuring the main attractions and speakers mentioned for the Washington Sportsmen's Show, Steve Rinella of MeatEater fame will be a speaker on the 15th from 2 to 4 PM. Leupold will have their popular movie night on Saturday, Born and Raised will be premiering a new film featuring an Alaska backcountry hunt and you'll also find a big kayak sale which includes a 30-foot indoor demo tank where you can see how the kayak you are interested in feels on the water. Last but not least, Candy Yow will be hosting a "Ladies Day Out" from 2 to 4 PM on Friday. www.thesportshows.com

SEATTLE RV SHOW – Feb. 15-18, Lumen Field Event Center

If you can't make the Pacific Northwest Sportsmen's Show consider a trip to Lumen Field in Seattle for the Seattle RV Show. Twenty local dealers will have 400 different RVs for sale from 50 different manufacturers. www.seattlervshow.com

CENTRAL WASHINGTON SPORTSMAN SHOW – Feb. 23-25, Yakima Sun Dome

Purchased from Merle and Bev Shuyler in 2022, Josh and Jennifer McClanathan are putting their own mark on this long-running sportsmen's show. Some of the changes include new exhibitors, a 30-foot-long water demo tank that holds some 5,000 gallons of water, and a BowSim 4D archery simulator. Fly anglers can learn to cast at the casting pool and learn to tie flies at the Fly-Tying Theater. There are also plenty of activities for the kids ranging from an air rifle range to luncheon lake where young anglers can pay $5 to reel in trout. Sunday is Kids Day with free fishing and rumor has it Smokey the Bear will put in an appearance or two during the weekend. www.jlmproductionsllc.com

BIGHORN OUTDOOR ADVENTURE SHOW – March 14-17, Spokane Fair and Expo Center

Boasting some 300 exhibitors there is plenty of room to roam and visit all of them inside Washington's second biggest show, put on every year by the Inland Northwest Wildlife Council. This organization not only does on the ground work such as building ADA accessible hunting blinds, but also lobbies on behalf of hunters and anglers at the state level. This show, now in its 62nd year, is an important fundraising event for the organization. www.inwc.org

Commission

Director of Operations, Steve Croci, added that the city has patched the seam in the past, but a professional solution is needed. In response to a question from council member Chris Carlson Fletcher replied that the pool's gutters are also still part of the leakage problem, but if the seam can be repaired, it may take some of the pressure off of the gutters.

- The Regional Sports/Pool Complex study identified Riverside Park as a potential ball field. Fletcher told the Council that the park is the site of a former landfill, as a result, it does not stay level and smooth as is needed for a ball field.
- Starting in the summer, the city will be renegotiating union contracts.

- Succession planning is needed considering future retirement of key city staff.
- Cashmere's Planning Commission will have approximately $250,000 in grants, to create a Climate Plan and to update the city's Comprehensive Plan. New state legislation mandates that climate impacts are incorporated into the plan. Croci added that additional legislation will require significant changes to city codes regulating accessory dwelling units. Fletcher reiterated that there are three open positions on the Planning Commission and that citizens interested in serving on the Commission should contact him at City Hall.
- Librarian Barbara Walter will be at the next council meeting to provide an overview of the library's plans, dreams, visions and policies. The library is scheduled to move into the Riverside Center in July, and out of the current building by the end of 2024.

- The building that is housing the library is owned by the city. The city will need to investigate options for the building once it is vacant. One option Fletcher described is to relocate City offices to the current library building and sell the City Hall building.
- Croci explained that Cashmere is working with Leavenworth to hire a single contractor to do street repairs with the goal of creating a larger project and receiving a lower rate.
- Representing small towns, Fletcher said he sits on a number of local committees and boards including; Link Transit, the Housing Authority, the Public Facilities District, Town Toyota Center Board and the Regional Aquatic Center planning group.

- The city has a number of contracts with the county which include the jail, the sheriff, RiverCom, Emergency Services and the prosecutor.

In additional progress reports, Croci told the Council that he is working with the county to clean out the gravel around the boat launch to make it more usable at lower flows.

Council member John Perry asked about the status of repairing and replacing the fire hydrants. Croci replied that most have been replaced, but some are old and are not made anymore and parts are not available. Others still need testing, but there is concern that if they break during testing, replacement parts will not be available.
