Cashmere High School event celebrates moms, migrant families

By QUINN PROPST
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CASHMERE – The Cashmere High School Parent Advisory Committee will host a Mother's Day celebration for migrant families on Friday, May 10 from 6-7:30 p.m. at the High School.

The Parent Advisory Committee or PAC is made up of elected or selected migrant parents who work with the Migrant Education Program staff to ensure quality education for migrant children.

Cashmere High School Principal Craig MacKenzie works with the PAC and also serves as director for the district's migrant and bilingual programs.

The event will celebrate mothers, families and graduating migrant students. There will be dinner featuring pupusas, live music, presentation of poems written for moms and a graduation ceremony for migrant graduates, MacKenzie said.

"We figured that we would do a combination of family dinner and opportunity for the kids to read their poems to their moms," he said. "It's kind of a Mother's Day gift."

MacKenzie said that for many PAC events, they want to invite everyone to be a part of it so that migrants who are not established in the area can become a part of the community and so that community members can understand some of the issues that migrants face. However, this particular event is only for Cashmere migrant families.

"I think this event is really more about

Paradise fire offers a cautionary tale for Upper Valley

By TAYLOR CALDWELL
Ward Media Staff Reporter

LEAVENWORTH – The Chumstick Wildfire Stewardship Coalition's (CWSC) 2024 Spring Town Hall Meeting brought residents and wildfire management leaders together to better understand Leavenworth's wildfire disaster risk and response plan. Leavenworth is ranked number one in the state for wildfire risk by the Department of Natural Resources.

Keynote speaker Sean Norman, a seasoned veteran in wildfire management and response, gave a presentation on the 2018 Butte County Camp Fire, called "Paradise – Lessons Learned."

Norman gave a firsthand account of the initial emergency response, diving into the pre-existing evacuation strategies, containment challenges, and key takeaways from the deadliest and most destructive fire in California history.

"Three things drive wildland fires: fuels, topography, and weather. And in this case, all of those things kind of came into alignment," said Norman.

The area had been dealing with low fuel moisture levels for most of the year, paired with hot weather and strong winds forecasted for Nov. 8. With this in mind, CAL Fire staffed extra engines, hand crews, and striker team leaders with their dozers, prepositioning them along the I-5 corridor the day before.

Norman said he recalled watching the weather forecast, knowing he would be fighting fires the next day.

"The night before, on the seventh, my son asked if I would make his last soccer game...And I told him we will be fighting fire somewhere in

Por QUINN PROPST
Reportero de Ward Media

CASHMERE – El Comité de Padres Migrantes de Cashmere ha invitado a las familias migrantes de Cashmere a una celebración del día de las madres Viernes, el 10 de mayo de 6:00-7:30 de la noche en Cashmere High School.

El comité se compone de padres migrantes elegidos quienes trabajan con educadores de la programa migrante del distrito para asegurar una educación de calidad para los estudiantes migrantes.

El director de la preparatoria de Cashmere, Craig MacKenzie trabaja con el comité y sirve como director de programas migrantes y bilingües en el distrito.

El evento celebrará a las madres, a las familias migrantes, y a los estudiantes migrantes que se gradúan este año. Habrá una cena de Pupusas, música viva, presentación de poemas escritas para las mamás, y una ceremonia de graduación.

"Decidimos organizar un evento que combina una cena de familia, presentación de poemas escritas para las mamás, y una ceremonia de graduación," me explicó. "Es como un regalo del día de las madres."

MacKenzie explicó que por muchos de los eventos de PAC intentan invitar a toda la comunidad para que se establezcan relaciones entre todos los miembros de la comunidad, y para que la comunidad mejor entienda los desafíos de la vida migrante. Pero, este evento es para las familias migrantes en particular.

"Este evento se enfoca en las familias,

A community united: celebrating Cashmere's spirit

As I reflect on the stories featured in this week's Cashmere Valley Record, I'm struck by the vibrant tapestry of history, culture, and community that defines Cashmere.

The upcoming Historic Home Tour, hosted by the Cashmere Museum and Pioneer Village, is a perfect example of how we honor and preserve our rich heritage. By showcasing the architectural gems and storied homes that have stood the test of time, we not only celebrate the past but also draw inspiration for the future. These buildings are more than just bricks and mortar - they are the embodiment of the pioneering spirit and resilience that have shaped Cashmere's character.

Equally inspiring is the

TERRY WARD

Ward Media CEO/Publisher

Cashmere High School Parent Advisory Committee's Mother's Day celebration for migrant families. This event is a powerful reminder that our community's strength lies in its diversity and inclusivity. By bringing together families from all walks of life to celebrate motherhood, academic achievement, and shared aspirations, we reaffirm our commitment to building a society that uplifts and empowers everyone.

Of course, like any community, we also face challenges. The recent storage unit burglary and hardware store theft serve as sobering reminders that we must remain vigilant and work together to keep our town safe. But even in the face of such incidents, I am heartened by the swift and effective response of our Chelan County Sheriff's Office. Their dedication to protecting and serving our community is a testament to the strong bonds of trust and cooperation that unite us.

As we approach Memorial Day, the Cashmere American Legion Auxiliary's poppy distribution and cemetery placement remind us of the profound sacrifices made by our veterans. By honoring their service and remembering their courage, we not only pay tribute to the past but also renew our commitment to building a future worthy of their legacy.

These stories, taken together, paint a picture of a community that is deeply rooted in its history, united in its diversity, and resilient in the face of adversity. They remind us that Cashmere's greatest strength lies not in any one individual or institution, but in the collective spirit of its people.

So let us draw inspiration from the examples set by our fellow citizens. Let us celebrate our shared heritage, embrace our differences, and work together to build a brighter future for all. For it is in this spirit of unity, compassion, and resolve that the true essence of Cashmere shines through.

Washington PDC seeks public comment on "Deepfake" political ads

NCW News
Ward Media

OLYMPIA - The Washington State Public Disclosure Commission (PDC) is seeking public comment on proposed rules regarding the use of synthetic media, also known as "deepfakes," in political advertising.

Senate Bill 5152, passed in the 2023 legislative session, created a private cause of action that allows candidates to sue sponsors of electioneering communications that feature synthetic media of the candidate. Sponsors can avoid liability by including a disclaimer in the ad stating that it contains artificially manipulated content.

The Legislature directed the PDC to adopt rules to further the purpose of SB 5152. The proposed rules would amend sections of Washington Administrative Code to require:

Committees and sponsors of political ads using synthetic media to report the name of the vendor that provided the synthetic media technology, the commercial advertiser used, and a description of the ad's target audience. This information would be included in the sponsor's expenditure reports filed with the PDC.

Commercial advertisers selling synthetic media services for political ads to maintain books of account containing the above information, available for public inspection.

The draft rules are available for review on the PDC website. The Commission will hold a public hearing on the proposed rules at their May 23, 2024 meeting. If adopted at that meeting, the rules would take effect in time for the 2024 election cycle.

Public comments on the draft rules are due by May 20 and can be emailed to pdc@pdc.wa.gov. Those wishing to provide comment at the May 23 hearing should sign up in advance by contacting the PDC.

The PDC is located at 711 Capitol Way S. #206, PO Box 40908, Olympia, WA 98504-0908. For more information visit www.pdc.wa.gov or call (360) 753-1111.

Trio of short-term projects coming to North Central Washington roads this spring and summer

Repairs will help extend the life of roadways in Oroville, Royal and Vantage

NCW News
Ward Media

WENATCHEE - With the arrival of warmer temperatures comes a sight that's as familiar to spring travelers in north central Washington as the winding roads and rapidly changing weather: Crews repairing pavement following the harsh freeze and thaw cycles of winter.

Starting in mid-May, contractor crews working for the Washington State Department of Transportation will begin repairing pavement on US 97 and State Route 26 between Tonasket and Oroville, Royal City and Vantage. Work will pause in June and restart in July and August.

"We're going to chip seal several areas which involves placing a mixture of asphalt and water followed by crushed gravel that is then compacted," said Washington State Department of Transportation Assistant Project Engineer Justin Hammond. Other areas with smaller breaks in the pavement will be repaired by adding adhesive filler to them in a process known as crack sealing. Chip sealing and crack sealing are cost-effective methods to repair pavement, extend its life and provide a smoother driving surface for travelers.

During this $7.9 million project, travelers on these stretches of highway will encounter flagger-controlled work zones during daylight hours with delays of about 20 minutes. Work at each location is expected to last just a few days.

 - mileposts 0 to 18.
- SR 26 near Royal City

Icicle Fund brings together NCW nonprofits to inspire collaboration and impact

COURTESY OF ANGEL FRIAS-SOLORIO, JILLIAN RODRIGUEZ AND EZA GOMEZ

Attendees at the Icicle Fund's community celebration event engaged in small group discussions to share ideas, explore potential collaborations, and discuss common challenges facing their organizations. These breakout sessions provided an opportunity for nonprofit leaders and stakeholders from across North Central Washington to connect, learn from one another, and potentially lay the groundwork for future partnerships that can enhance their collective impact in the areas of arts, environment, and history.

By TERRY WARD
Publisher

WENATCHEE - The Icicle Fund hosted a community celebration at Wenatchee Valley College on April 25 to amplify the work of nonprofits advancing the arts, environment, and history in North Central Washington. Established in 1998 by Harriet Bullitt, the Icicle Fund has invested over $45 million in more than 100 regional nonprofits.

"We are here to celebrate our good work, elevating arts, history and environment throughout Washington," said Icicle Fund Board President Mitsu Iwasaki in welcoming nearly 100 attendees. "Many of you are actually involved in different types of collaboration. Many of us want to do more."

The event showcased examples of nonprofit collaboration across NCW. Sarah Jo Lightner, Executive Director of Methow Arts Alliance, discussed ongoing conversations to explore synergies among arts organizations in the Methow Valley. Marlene Farrell, Executive Director of Sustainable NCW, shared how partnerships enable their work, from an online waste disposal guide to a successful electronics recycling drive. Matt Cade, Georgia Bakke-Tull, and Bernadine Phillips of the Upper Valley Historical Society described their multiyear effort with the Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation to create an exhibit honoring the Wenatchi people.

"The most thrilling part to us is the connection that the exhibit shines a spotlight on information, history information that previously, for the most part, was unknown to residents in the area and all the visitors to our area," said Cade.

Following the presentations, attendees broke into small groups to connect and brainstorm around shared dreams, projects, and challenges. The Icicle Fund plans to develop the community celebration concept further with input from participants.

"Today is some shared learning for all of us and for inspiration," said Christine Morgan, Icicle Fund Executive Director. "Collaboration happens in the arts, it happens in the area of history, it happens in conservation and environment. It happens all over North Central Washington."

Through its annual grant program, the Icicle Fund awarded unrestricted funding to 25 NCW nonprofits this year. It also partners with the Community Foundation of NCW on capacity building efforts like the Nonprofit Practices Institute and Strategic Consulting Grants. All net profits from the Icicle Fund's Sleeping Lady Mountain Resort support the organization's regional giving.

"Icicle Fund continues to explore ways to serve NCW and connect people to place through engagement with the arts, history, and environment of the region," said Morgan.

EAST WENATCHEE — Thriving Together NCW, a regional nonprofit dedicated to advancing health and well-being, announces the launch of a survey designed to gather information from residents in Chelan, Douglas, Grant, and Okanogan Counties related to their overall wellness. The goal of the survey is to better understand the factors keeping individuals from reaching their full health potential to best support organizations and individuals alike in addressing these challenges.

Results from the survey will help Thriving Together NCW understand the barriers and challenges unique to the region directly from the residents who live here. It will also provide insight as to who in the region is suffering, struggling, and thriving the most. The survey takes about 5 minutes to complete and provides an opportunity for residents to directly engage in building a more inclusive and resilient region. All responses are anonymous and will be treated with the utmost confidentiality to ensure the honesty and openness of participants.

“We believe that we learn best by engaging the community in identifying what makes them thrive. By understanding what community members are struggling the most, we can come together to engage those communities and create solutions that work,” said Thriving Together NCW’s Executive Director, John Schapman. “The North Central Washington Wellbeing Survey is a vital tool that will help us pinpoint areas and populations we should be engaging with the most and work with those communities to tailor our efforts towards creating lasting positive change.”

Survey results will be utilized to identify strengths and areas of opportunity across the region, providing valuable insights for community leaders, policymakers, and healthcare providers to better understand the communities they serve and ultimately support guiding resources to areas where they are most needed. Thriving Together NCW encourages all residents of Chelan, Douglas, Grant, and Okanogan Counties to participate in the survey, as their input is integral to shaping the future of North Central Washington’s health and well-being.

To access the North Central Washington Wellbeing Survey, please visit thrivingtogether.org/data-reports. Responses will be collected now through July 31st, 2024.

LEAVENWORTH – Icicle Creek Center for the Arts (ICCA) will be wrapping up its 2023-2024 Visiting Artist series with a night celebrating Mexican music and arts on May 12.

“The evening is just going to be a party. It’s all starting outside with Mariachi Noroeste and tacos. Then we move inside where the stage and dance floor will be going for the rest of the night. Bring the family and be prepared to dance,” said ICCA Executive Phil Lacey, in an email to Ward Media.

The night will have a blend of performances, starting with Mariachi Noroeste, a group of college students from Wenatchee who perform traditional mariachi music. The second performance will feature Seattle-based folklórico dancers, Bailadores de Bronce, who have been promoting “the beauty and richness of Mexican traditions through music and dance in the Pacific Northwest” for over fifty years.

“Icicle Creek is working to become more of a cultural home and resource for the Latino / Hispanic community here in north central Washington, so we hope this event will be exciting for everyone who lives in the area,” said Lacey.

The headlining act, Las Cafeteras, combines both traditional and contemporary music in a blend of Afro-Mexican rhythms, electronic beats, and rhymes. The band plays traditional instruments such as the 8-string Jarana, 4-string Requinto, Quijada, or donkey jawbone, and Tarima, a wooden platform.

“These musicians bring so much energy and excitement, with every performance being a celebration. I couldn’t think of a better way to end the season, end the school year, and get students excited about the summer,” said Lacey.

Leavenworth will be one of over thirty stops on the East

Los Angeles band’s three-month tour promoting their newest album, “A Night in Nepantla,” a Nahuatl word meaning “in-between” or “in the middle.”

“As a band, we deeply resonate with the land of ‘Nepantla’ and feel that we live in the middle of multiple worlds, sounds and identities, and this album brings people together to sonically join us in our joy, grief, struggle, and liberation in Nepantla,” said frontman and singer Hector Flores in a press release.

Mariachi Noroeste will start at 5 p.m., followed by Bailadores de Bronce at 6 p.m., and Las Cafeteras at 7 p.m. on May 12. Tickets available at icicle.org.

“The event will have something for everyone, and an exciting opportunity to see local favorites alongside major artists from across the U.S.,” said Lacey.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Dalan Smart Senior
Cashmere Boys Soccer

Smart led the Bulldogs to a pair of impressive victories over Chelan and Quincy this week. A returning 1st Team All-CTL goalkeeper, Smart has earned 5 shutouts this season for the CHS soccer team. On Tuesday, he helped Cashmere lock up a District Tournament berth when he did not allow a goal in the overtime penalty kick shootout. On Thursday, he made several outstanding saves in the Bulldog's 2-0 shutout victory over Quincy. Coach Flores: Dalan had an outstanding week for our boys soccer program. He was a big presence in goal on Tuesday at Chelan to help our team clinch the #3 seed out of the CTL. He then helped us maintain a clean sheet on Thursday against a very good Quincy offense. His growth as a leader, and his competitive nature has been fun to watch this season."

Taylor Kunz Freshman
Cashmere Girls Track & Field

Taylor had an outstanding meet on Friday at the Connell Invitational. She helped the CHS girls win the team title by winning a pair of individual events (100M hurdles & long jump), and being apart of two first place relay teams. She also set a personal record in the long jump with a leap of 16 feet, 5 inches. Coach Kenoyer: "Taylor had an impressive track meet at the Connell Invitational on Friday April 26th, She won the 100 hurdles, long jump (setting a personal record) and was the anchor leg on two of our three winning relays. Earlier in the week she competed in two events at a meet in Tonasket and won both of them. She is set to have an outstanding rest of the season!"

Global entrepreneurs open homemade pretzel shop in Leavenworth

By TAYLOR CALDWELL
Ward Media Staff Reporter

LEAVENWORTH – When Beth and Kevin Spiegel opened Bites – Leavenworth, a new, fresh-made pretzel shop on Commercial Street, they did so with a March Madness-style dip tournament.

People could come in and get a free pretzel sample, so long as they tried and voted on wild dip flavors, such as corned-beef dip, white chocolate raspberry dip, or the tournament champion, dill pickle dip.

"It was just a really fun way for us to get our product out there, get people in the door, and really understand what people were looking for," said Beth.

While the shop may have a wide variety of dips, the actual menu is quite simple. Variety is offered through the shape of the pretzel: twist, knot, or bites. On occasion, the shop will offer pretzel-based specialty items such as bread pudding, bagel or stuffed hot dog.

Bites menu is intentionally simple in order to perfect the product. Yet, the wild swings in the dip department are a way for the Spiegels to offer a glimpse into their adventurous personalities.

Fifteen years ago, the Spiegels and their one-year-old son moved from Chicago to Belize, nearly sight unseen. The exception was Beth, who had a week of experience visiting the country.

The couple decided to buy a friend's pizzeria in Belmopan, the country's capital, despite only having backgrounds in marketing development and online advertising. Yet, the swing paid off, and the pizzeria became a success.

"It gave us access and experience to people we would never, ever interact with, because it's such a small community and we were a successful business there," said Beth.

Over the years, the Spiegels made unlikely friends with foreign diplomats and high-ranking businessmen who frequented the joint.

"[We'd think,] did we just hang out with this guy? Did I just insult someone that was hand appointed by the Queen of England? Every night we'd go home like, did that really just happen? It was just a lot of fun and change," said Beth.

The pizza place offered a crash-course in business with the added challenge of operating in a developing country. The Spiegels learned how to repurpose ingredients in order to maximize an order, and maintain enough inventory in case of a supply chain issue.

"If a hurricane comes, no cheese, because the boat has to turn around...I had to maintain two months' supply, because it would be that long before we got cheese again," said Kevin.

While Spiegel's may not have to worry about hurricanes affecting the supply chain anymore, they still maintain two customer service principles they learned in Belize: only put items on the menu if they are always available, and always be open during listed operating hours.

The pizzeria gave the Spiegels the entrepreneurial bug, prompting Beth to start an IT outsourcing company, and Kevin to start a specialty meats business. However, the couple considered moving back to the states as their son neared the third grade, wanting to provide him with an American education.

Seven years later, the couple sold all three businesses to Belizeans and started looking at places to live in the U.S.

"We knew when we were moving back, we had to go someplace that was completely different. We couldn't go someplace that we had already been, because we knew we would regret or miss Belize," said Beth.

Bites pretzels are made fresh daily.

In 2016, the Spiegels moved to Leavenworth, once again, sight unseen, based on the suggestion of Beth's Lake Stevens-based brother and a quick Google search.

"We thought, why not? That place looks different enough for us that it might just work out," said Beth. "I remember when we got out of the car...I was just like, what did we just do? Where did we just move?"

It didn't take long for the Spiegels to call Leavenworth home, nor did it take long before they felt the entrepreneurial itch. The couple kept a whiteboard of business ideas over the years, hopeful that a hard to find downtown retail space would finally become available. The time gave the couple the chance to realize that Kevin's pretzel recipe, which he had been perfecting for the family's lunches over the years, could be a viable Leavenworth business.

"Were kind of tossing around like hey, could a pretzel business alone work here, especially if they're handmade, fresh every day, different styles, different shapes, dips, et cetera.? Because no one was doing that," said Beth.

The space became available in December, and Bites had its soft opening by March. In addition to its bites, the shop has a coffee bar, cold drinks and slushies available.

Cashmere Legion Auxiliary honors veterans with poppies on Memorial Day

Cashmere Valley Record
Ward Media

CASHMERE—The Cashmere American Legion Auxiliary volunteers will distribute handcrafted red poppies on Friday, May 10, in honor of America's veterans. The volunteers will be stationed outside Doanes Valley Pharmacy and inside Martins Market Place from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The annual event coincides with Memorial Day and pays tribute to veterans who have served their country for decades. Memorial Day, originally known as Decoration Day, is a day when Americans remember and honor their ancestral family members who have served in the military.

The poppy tradition originated from the poem "In Flanders Fields," written by Lt. Col. John McCrae during World War I. The poem refers to the poppies that grew out of newly dug soldiers' graves in Europe. In 1921, the American Legion Auxiliary adopted the poppy as its memorial flower and started the Poppy Program in 1924. Today, Auxiliary members distribute millions of poppies in exchange for contributions to assist military veterans and their families. The poppies are distributed by donation only and never sold.

The Cashmere American Legion Auxiliary encourages everyone to remember the significance of the poppy and the meaning of Memorial Day. They urge the community to take the time to reflect and honor those who have given their lives in service to the country.

In addition to the poppy distribution, the Auxiliary will be placing over 1,000 small flags on the graves of veterans and auxiliary members at the Cashmere Cemetery on Saturday, May 26, starting at 9:00 am. Volunteers are welcome to assist with this effort.

The Cashmere American Legion Post #64 is also planning its annual "Cavalcade of Flags" ceremony on Monday, May 27, at 11:00 am, with nearly 500 large flags on display. Commander Ken Komro is seeking volunteers to help with the event and can be reached at 509-782-4972 for more information.

focusing on those families, bringing those families together, and providing a forum for the students to celebrate their moms in a structured way," he said. "What we did is we created a template for a Mother's Day poem for each of the grade levels, for high school kids, for middle school kids, and for elementary school kids. And the teachers in the schools are working with those students to develop those poems so that they can express their feelings for their moms."

The evening will also include a graduation ceremony for migrant students who have earned their diplomas this year.

"I think we have twelve migrant students who are earning their diplomas this year," he said. "And so we want to recognize and celebrate them as a part of our ceremony as well."

The event will also highlight some community resources available to families, in particular Cashmere Library, which has collaborated with our PAC in multiple events in the past year.

"Just try to let families know what are some things that are happening in terms of supports this summer in particular, and we're always trying to provide access to ideas about post-secondary opportunities when kids graduate as well," he said.

"So we have invited some of our community partners as participants, but the real focus is going to be on families on taking time to celebrate not only moms but also the good work that our students have been doing this year," he said. "And then really just kind of close out our year with a positive, talking about some things that are going to be happening this summer and also elevating how important it's going to be for us to continue to get together frequently as a migrant community to support each other as we go into the next school year."

Paradise fire

the state by tomorrow," said Norman.

Prior to the Camp Fire, Paradise had been identified as the number one fire prone community in the U.S., said Norman, which led the area to have a comprehensive evacuation plan. The evacuation zones and process were posted online, mailed to residents, and exercised over the years.

Yet, the plan could not keep up with the speed of the fire, which had surrounded the town, burned down the volunteer station, and cut off two out of the three evacuation routes within hours. Norman painted horrific scenes of babies being manually ventilated as they were evacuated out of a burning birthing hospital, and stranded residents moving from one building to the next as each one caught on fire. People became trapped in their vehicles, as the fire melted the locked doors shut during gridlock traffic.

According to CAL Fire, the fire covered over 153,000 acres, destroying more than 18,000 structures. It caused at least 85 civilian fatalities, and injured 12 civilians and five firefighters. Most of the damage occurred in the first four hours.

Once a cool and tree-shaded community of approximately 26,000 people, Paradise today is a dry, barren, wind-affected landscape, with only a third of its population remaining.

Norman closed out his presentation with recommendations for Leavenworth, such as planning over having a plan, creating a defensible home and resilient community, appointing a "contrarian" to find holes in emergency response plans and procedures, and following the PACE communication model.

The keynote was followed by a panel of key actors in Leavenworth's wildfire mitigation. The panel included Rich Magnusson of Chelan County Sheriff's Department Emergency Management specialist, Jeff Dimke of Washington Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Fire District #3 Captain Mike Smith, Forest Service Leavenworth District Manager Erica Taecker, and Jake Hardt of Firewise of Washington DNR.

Panelists discussed the mitigation efforts throughout the area, such as the USFS Upper Wenatchee Pilot Project's fuel reduction, forest resilience, and aquatic restoration work. Taecker also mentioned the Chumstick to Lower Peshastin project, which will focus on fire risk reduction and fuel breaks in order to protect the area from the spread of a catastrophic fire.

The resounding message from the panel was for each community member to play an active role in their own safety, such as creating a family PACE plan and packing a "go" bag, utilizing community prescribed burn resources, and making their home a defensible space.

Audience members expressed large concern over the county's evacuation plans, of which Magnusson and Smith addressed. Smith discussed the efforts to educate tourists, identify temporary refuge areas, and the Chumstick Corridor Evacuation Route Enhancement project. Magnusson discussed the county's updated evacuation alert system, which can notify any phone within a geofenced area.

"I just want to hammer home preparing yourself and your family for what you're going to do if you get evacuated. This stuff doesn't always happen at noon on a Wednesday afternoon. It's a lot of times in the middle of the night, you're sleeping and we're pounding on your door to get you to evacuate. So don't make that be the first time you and your family have talked about it," said Magnusson.

For further information about wildfire preparedness, resources can be found at wildfireready.dnr.wa.gov. Information on local resources and efforts can also be found at chumstickcoalition.org, fd3.org, as well as through USFS and Chelan County.

Chelan County Deputies arrest suspect in storage unit burglary and hardware store theft

Cashmere Valley Record
Ward Media

CASHMERE - Chelan County Sheriff Mike Morrison reported that deputies arrested Marcos Depaz, a 37-year-old male from Cashmere, in connection with a storage unit burglary and a theft from a hardware store.

On April 12, at approximately 2:06 pm, deputies responded to a burglary report at Cashmere Mill District Storage in Cashmere. The victim reported that a suspect had broken into their storage unit and stolen a drywall sander and associated equipment. Surveillance footage showed the suspect cutting the lock on the unit the day before and returning early the next morning to steal the equipment.

On May 1, at about 8:46 am, Marson and Marson Lumber in Leavenworth reported the theft of a nail gun from their retail hardware store. Deputies searched the area and located Depaz, who had the stolen nail gun in his possession. One of the investigating deputies recognized that Depaz was wearing the same clothes and shoes as the suspect in the storage unit burglary.

After obtaining a search warrant for a residence associated with Depaz in the 5700 block of Goodwin Rd in Cashmere, deputies, with the assistance of the CCSO Investigations Unit, recovered the stolen drywall sander and associated equipment from the residence.

Marcos Depaz was booked into the Chelan County Regional Justice Center on multiple charges, including Burglary 2nd Degree, Theft 2nd Degree, Malicious Mischief 3rd Degree for the storage unit theft, Theft 3rd Degree, Malicious Mischief 3rd Degree, and Controlled Substance Knowingly Possess for the Marson and Marson theft.

The stolen property will be returned to its rightful owners.

Home Tour

schedule between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., tour organizer Nancy Fike said.

"I've been to a lot of historic home tours and they're either just the houses or they're just a garden tour," Fike said. "But this year we have both, so the homes have gardens, and it's self-guided."

Fike hopes that attendees will enjoy the homes and Cashmere as well, she said.

"Have lunch, you know, take a break during the tour and have lunch in Cashmere and tour the museum," Fike said. "I just want it to be a day for people to enjoy Cashmere."

"Most of the homes are from the late 1800s to about 1910,"

Fike said. "So they're really historic."

Three of the homes on the tour were originally in the Paton family, one of the early families in Cashmere. Two of those homes are still in the Paton family.

Fike's home is also on the tour. The house was built in 1910 as a farmhouse on an apple orchard.

The church included in the tour is the St. James's Episcopal Church, which has been described as an "architectural gem" and was built in 1905 by L.W. Sherman.

The tour will feature the village General Store in Pioneer Village. It was built in the late 1800s near Dryden, and it was Archie Smith's cabin. Smith was an early settler in the area, Clennon said.

"His great-great-granddaughter will be there to share the history of the house," Clennon said.

Clennon said the tour is an important fundraiser for the museum.

"Well, as a local nonprofit, we really rely on membership and donations and events like this to sustain the operating of the museum," Clennon said.

"It's also just fun to highlight some of our local history here as well," Clennon said. "We're expecting it to be a pretty fun day and casual atmosphere and hope that people can come enjoy a little look at history in a different way."
