Three Rivers Hospital revisits building design and cost options

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

BREWSTER – The Three Rivers Hospital Board of Commissioners continue its campaign to determine best approach to gain public support for replacing its aging facility.

Last March the board authorized a new scope of work proposed by Theorem Architecture. A 2022 study determined that renovating the existing structure is not workable due to cost and the limitations of the existing building. Manufacturers no longer make parts for some equipment.

The present electrical system cannot keep pace with the latest healthcare technology.

CEO Scott Graham delivered his capital improvements report to the board at the May 29 regular meeting.

“We continue to work with Dave Franklund of Theorem Architecture,” said Graham. “We reviewed his thoughts about this building site as the primary focus for us in terms of building a new facility.”

Franklund is working with the TRH team on a new rough draft design that differs from that proposed to voters last year.

Graham said the new building phases include:

Phase I The Energy Plant.

Phase II The Medical Tower

Phase III The renovated part of the old building

Board Chair Leslie McNamara noted that in the original drawing the energy plant was in the old building.

“Is it cheaper to have it a separate building?” asked McNamara.

Graham explained it as a bridge of sorts between tearing down the old and building the new.

“The thinking is it gives you access to the newer hookups, the new sewer, the newer water, and it preps you to be able to bring that into the other,” said Graham. “Because you be without services otherwise.”

Ultimately it would get us a new inpatient, a new OR, a new emergency room, and that would be huge for the hospital,” Graham said.

At the same time, Franklund is encouraging the board to continue to look offsite, Graham added. That could allow construction of a less expensive single-story structure, but cost estimates and a completed design are still under development.

“We’re still in the exploration stage,” Graham said.

Meanwhile, the board continues to welcome community feedback.

“Residents can contact their elected commissioners or our administration with their questions and input,” said Business Development Coordinator Jennifer Best. A

Chamber cleanup crew tidies up town for Bridgeport Daze

MIKE MALTAIS/WARD MEDIA

About 40 volunteers gathered at city hall.

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

BRIDGEPORT—The city streets are cleaner today thanks to the efforts of a dedicated and ambitious crew of residents who volunteered their time to make them so.

About 40 adults, school students, and family members gathered at city hall last Wednesday evening, June 5, to pick up trash between the city sign on the east end of town to Fireman Park on the west end.

Everyone gathered in front of city hall at 6:30 p.m., divided into teams, and set out.

“We had six groups,” said Sanchez. “Some started east, and some west and we met in the middle.”

“We do this every year, and it usually goes unnoticed,” said Chamber of Commerce President Jose Sanchez. “This year we promoted it and got high schoolers involved.”

The promotion drew more volunteers than usual, and with those numbers, the campaign was completed before 8 p.m. A pickup hauled 10 full bags to the dumpster.

Afterward, the volunteers were treated to tacos and soft drinks.

“We thought maybe we should have something to thank everyone for their help,” Sanchez said.

Bridgeport Plaza donated the meat for the tacos. Antojitos La Playa provided the drinks.

Revitalization Committee nears consensus on downtown Bridgeport street design

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

BRIDGEPORT – The future design of the city’s downtown Main Street takes on more definition with every meeting of the Bridgeport Revitalization Committee.

At the monthly meeting last Thursday, June 6, Superintendent of Public Works Stuart Dezellem shared design options from the city engineers along with examples from surrounding cities.

“Gray & Osborne did this design,” explained Dezellem of one concept. “They show angle parking on one side, parallel on the other.”

Dezellem displayed some modifications he made on overhead photos of Bridgeport’s Main Street which is also state route 173.

One version showed 16-foot sidewalks, twice the width of the current city sidewalks but Dezellem advised that 16 feet is both cost prohibitive and wider than the downtown needs.

Another concept showed 12-foot sidewalks, four-feet wider than currently but closer to the happy medium for every interest. The design also features crosswalks and bump-outs on the street corners.

“You still have room for a nine-foot parking lane, a 12-foot travel lane with a couple of feet left over,” Dezellem said. “That would also leave room for plowing snow.”

Committee Chair Leslie Robb participated in a recent survey of downtown businesses and reminded the committee that wider sidewalks topped the wish list for business owners.

Angle parking on designated blocks of Main Street was another feature discussed. Dezellem said angle parking would slow traffic speed.

“The road perception is that its narrowed,” said Dezellem. “It doesn’t narrow because it’s still 12 feet, but the perception is that it narrows because the vehicles are there.”

Dezellem reminded the committee that because the main street is a state highway the Department of Transportation preferences for parking configurations need to be taken into consideration.

“The DOT likes continuity,” Dezellem said.

Chelan Community Center enters partnership with Boys & Girls Clubs of Snohomish County

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN – The city took a giant step forward on behalf of its youth last week with the announcement that a Boys and Girls Club will take up residence at the Lake Chelan Community Center. City Administrator Wade Farris introduced Community Center Executive Director Maribel Cruz who broke the news at the regular monthly meeting of the Chelan City Council Workshop on June 4.

“We are very excited to announce that we have secured a partnership with the Boys & Girls Clubs (BGC),” said Cruz. “Last month we signed a 15-year lease with the BGC.”

The Community Center has prepared a spot for its new partner.

OBITUARY

Joan "Lynn" Trovillo

Lynn Trovillo, a longtime resident of Brewster, passed away peacefully in Spokane on May 25, 2024. Born in Twin Falls, Idaho, on February 24, 1947, Lynn was the first-born to Dewitt (Buzz) Trovillo and Zetta (Olaveson). Buzz, her father, was a mechanic and worked the construction of dams in the Pacific Northwest. Lynn attended school in Kittitas WA and completed her education in Laramie WY. When Lynn returned to Brewster, she married and raised two children. Known for her outgoing nature and warm personality, Lynn was a cherished member of the community. She held various jobs that allowed her to interact with people, a role she thrived in due to her social butterfly persona. It was common to find Lynn enjoying coffee and conversation with friends at any time of the day. In 2005, Lynn moved to Spokane to be closer to her family and young grandchildren. She is survived by her son, Ted Christensen, Kirkland; her daughter, Michelle Christensen Adams (John) of Spokane; her grandson Ashton Adams of Spokane, WA; her granddaughter Aurora Adams of Spokane; and her great-grandson Atticus Adams of Spokane. Lynn also leaves behind 3 sisters, Cheri Trovillo (John Saunders) of Silverdale, Teresa Cook (Duane) of Post Falls Id., and Tanya Heller of Brewster. Three brothers, Wayne McGee of Kennewick, Mike McGee (Kathleen) of Brewster, and Tony Trovillo (Louann) of Pasco. She was preceded in death by her friend and step mother, Betty Trovillo in 2008, father Buzz Trovillo in 1991, and mother Zetta Olaveson in 1971. She will be remembered fondly by numerous friends and extended family members throughout Washington state. The family invites you to a Graveside services on June 15, 2024, at 12:00 PM at Locust Grove Cemetery in Brewster, WA. Friends and family are invited to gather afterwards at the American Legion Post 97 to celebrate Lynn's vibrant life.

Steven Wayne "Steve" Lautensleger

Steven Wayne "Steve" Lautensleger was born on September 25, 1950, and passed away peacefully at his home on June 1, 2024. He was born to Marie (Huckins) Lautensleger and Donald Lautensleger. He married Carol Kohl on February 17, 1973. Steve was born in Brewster, WA, and lived with his family in Pateros, WA, until his family relocated to Brewster, WA. He graduated from Brewster High School in 1969, then went to Wenatchee Valley College, where he earned his x-ray technician degree and where he met his wife, Carol.

After graduation, Steve and Carol moved to Seattle, WA, where he worked at Northgate Hospital and Virginia Mason. In 1979, they moved back to Brewster to help run the family orchards. This ended up being one of his passions in life. He ran 70 acres of orchard and took great pride in the quality of fruit he produced. He was active in his community and served on several boards involved in the fruit and warehouse industry.

Steve was preceded in death by his parents, Marie Lautensleger and Don Lautensleger; and his grandmother, Harriet Huckins. Steve is survived by his wife, Carol, his daughter, Angie (Jason) Satterfield, son, Russ Lautensleger, his two grandsons Oliver and Lucas Satterfield along with many other family and friends.

The family would like to thank hospice, palliative care, and Confluence Health Infusion Center for providing wonderful care to Steve during his end stages of cancer.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the American Cancer Society because cancer sucks.

A Celebration of Life will be held at Jones & Jones-Betts at 2:00pm on Friday, June 14, 2024, with a reception at the Cashmere Legion Hall Post 64, 401 Sunset Hwy, Cashmere, WA, to follow. Please express your thoughts and memories on the online guestbook at jonesjonesbetts.com. Arrangements by Jones & Jones - Betts Funeral Home

Georgia Barrutia

Georgia Barrutia 92 passed away May 24th, 2024. She was born in Gooding, Idaho and was the firstborn of eight children.

Georgia's early life was shaped by the hard financial times of the Great Depression. Her family struggled to make their living by sheep herding and farming. She grew up doing regular farm chores and helping care for her younger siblings. Her father was an immigrant, and her mother was born to an immigrant family (all from Basque-Country Spain).

She graduated from High School having just turned 17. Then immediately began working for Sears and Robuck Co. in the children's dept. She met Ralph Barrutia in June 1950; he got his draft notice in August, so they married in early September. He reported to the U.S. Army Basic Training in October. Ralph served out his two-year military duty in the Korean War, returning to civilian life in August of 1952.

Ralph and Georgia had three sons in the next 3-1/2 years. They moved 7-times during the next 10-years for Ralph to gain experience and promotions at 4-hydroelectric power plants. They settled in Brewster for the next 50 years where they bought raw acreage and planted an apple orchard.

They designed and built a home on the Brewster Flats, moving into it while it was only a shell. Over the next 7 years, they worked nights and weekends to complete its construction. This experience taught their three boys many construction and farming skills.

Georgia enjoyed working as a bilingual Teacher's Aide with 1st grade Hispanic children. She helped them learn English and translate their lessons. She was later employed to clean the local dentist office and sanitize instruments. She and Ralph also helped many Migrant workers on their farm with their legal documents, daily needs and to guide them through the U.S. Citizenship process.

Georgia's love-language was cooking and canning fruits for others. She and Ralph enjoyed traveling and snow-birding. They traveled together to Canada, Basque-Country Spain, Venezuela, and Mexico. They also visited numerous National Parks.

Georgia was preceded in death by her parents, four siblings and Ralph (married 69 years). She is survived by her sons Arsen (Holly), Gene (Doreen), Rich (Bobbi), 8-grandchildren, 19-great grandchildren, her siblings Fred, Helen & Dianna (Ken) and 16-nephews & nieces and their families.

Georgia's viewing and visitation will be held before the funeral mass from 9:00 AM to 9:45 AM at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Brewster. Her funeral will immediately follow the viewing on Tuesday, June 18th at 10:00AM at the Brewster Sacred Heart Catholic Church, 214 Fifth St. S., Brewster, WA. Interment will be at 11AM at Locust Grove Cemetery. A lunch reception will be held at the Brewster Legion.

Please leave any thoughts and memories for the family at www.barneschapel.com. Services are entrusted to Barnes Chapel of Brewster.

Tiera Miller: small school valedictorian has big college plans

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

MANSFIELD – Tiera Miller, Mansfield Class of 2024 valedictorian, always had in the back of her mind that she might end up as one of the top scholars in her class.

“I knew my class was small (nine students) so I knew it was something I could go for,” said Miller. “I have always been in the top of my classes.”

Raised on a dryland wheat farm, Miller attended Mansfield schools for 14 years including preschool. She has an older brother who graduated a year ahead of her and is now studying at Walla Walla

College to be a diesel mechanic. A younger sister will enter sixth grade next year. Asked if she needs academic prodding from older sister, Miller said aside from needing a “little push” from time to time, “she does pretty good.”

Miller said she many factors kept her focused on academics. “Everyone has contributed to that in one way,” said Miller. “I don’t like disappointing people, so I think everything has influenced me to keep my grades up.”

Math is a favorite school subject along with another that helped outside school.

“Obviously, shop classes and Ag are always fun when you’re living on a farm.”

Miller also belonged to 4-H as a youngster and FFA in high school. She showed livestock at fairs from poultry to pigs, steers, and once even a horse.

Miller said all her teachers were favorites.

“I liked them all for different reasons,” said Miller. “It’s kind of hard going to a small school because you really get to know everyone really well.”

Miller was a multisport athlete all through high school. “Volleyball in the fall, basketball in the winter, and softball in the spring,” Miller said.

Mansfield athletes compete with neighboring Waterville as the Waterville-Mansfield Shockers. Sports contributed to what Miller said is her most memorable school achievement.

“We just had our sports awards,” said Miller. “Both last year and this year I was named Shocker Female Athlete of the Year.”

Sports also played a major role in Miller’s choice of a college major.

“I will be attending WSU this fall and hope to get into the athletic training program,” said Miller. “I’ll be applying for that program at the end of my sophomore year.”

Her interest in athletic training came from helping a teammate.

“I had a friend on one of my basketball teams who struggled a lot with knee problems,” said Miller, “I always liked helping her with it. One day I realized that was something I could do as a career.”

Miller said she will follow where her career leads to experience other parts of the world but would one day like to return to the closeness she feels in Mansfield.

“I don’t think I would work in Mansfield because the school is so small,” said Miller. “Maybe travel from living in Mansfield.”

Janessa Scroggie: Pateros valedictorian contest was close

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

PATEROS – One could say the contest for Class of 2024 valedictorian was a close between eventual co-winners Liliana Gonzales and Janessa Scroggie.

“We tied into the hundredth place for grade point average,” Scroggie said.

Scroggie entered the Pateros school system from the Brewster Log Church Christian School in the fifth grade. She has two younger sisters who also attend Pateros, one a fourth grader and the other an eighth grader. Scroggie is there for advice especially when it comes to the biggest challenge she confronted with her academics:

procrastination.

“I have an issue with procrastination,” said Scroggie. “I’m still working on that, trying to get things done ahead of time and trying to plan out my schedule accordingly.”

Scroggie credits her parents as being one of her biggest inspirations.

“My dad, especially,” said Scroggie. “He has always seen how well I can do academically and held me to a standard that he knows I can reach and always pushed me to do the best that I can.”

For teachers, Scroggie singled out Spanish teacher Jennifer Carlson.

“She has always been very supportive and pushing me to do my best in school or out of school,” said Scroggie. “She helped me for tennis as well when I played sports.”

Scroggie played soccer all four years, tennis for three years.

“During the winter is ski and snowboard,” Scroggie said.

Band is another favorite activity and Scroggie played the flute throughout middle school and the first two years of high school.

“I’m pretty proficient,” said Scroggie. “There are still things to work on but I’m pretty decent for as long as I played.”

“My first year of doing Running Start at Wenatchee Valley College,” said Scroggie. “I managed to get a 4.0 the entire year, I was trying to manage work and sports at the same time, I was difficult, but it went really well.”

The work that Scroggie mentions is at Gamble Sands Golf Course where she manages guest services outside. She receives her AA from WVC this month.

Scroggie plans to travel out of state and attend Arizona State University this fall.

“I really love the campus and they had my major – forensic science,” said Scroggie. “I may minor in criminal justice just to have that background.”

Her grandmother helped inspire her career choice.

“Whenever I used to visit my grandmother, we would always watch crime shows,” said Scroggie. “I always loved that, and I love science so I thought it would be a great combination of my two interests.”

Scroggie won the Western Undergraduate Exchange Scholarship and another $7,000 in scholarships to help cover costs.

Her advice to younger students includes understanding the subject matter.

“Always ask questions,” said Scroggie. “Even if it’s a simple question it’s really important to fully understand what you are doing to succeed.”

Scroggie said she would love to return to Washington but remains flexible.

“I’ve been here my whole life,” said Scroggie, “but I’m up for wherever my career takes me.”

Graduation 2024

Pateros salutatorian Janette Hernandez will pursue nursing career

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

PATEROS – Janette Hernandez graduated June 1 and will enter the University of Washington this fall as a nursing major. That’s the short version of what lies ahead for the Pateros Class of 2024 salutatorian. How she made it to the academic pinnacle among her peers is a longer story.

Hernandez is the second youngest of seven siblings and a 12-year Pateros student. All her siblings graduated Pateros and younger brother, Martin, is a sophomore.

“My parents were a big part of my success because they always told me to work hard and give it my all,” said Hernandez. “I’ve always been interested in learning and think it’s a privilege and not just something you are forced to do.”

With older brothers and sisters Hernandez said she had no shortage of examples to watch and emulate.

“I’ve seen my siblings go through school and have their careers,” said Hernandez. “They offer me a lot of advice, which I appreciate.”

Hernandez plans to attend the University of Washington to study nursing. Among her scholarships is the Husky Promise that covers full-time tuition. And standard fees.

“My sister has been a nurse for a while,” said Hernandez. “She just received her BSN (Bachelor of Science in Nursing) from Wenatchee Valley College. I wanted to choose a career I would enjoy, not something that I would not dread going to.”

Hernandez said she is also considering additional medical pursuits, perhaps even becoming a surgeon.

Hernandez credits her science teacher, Melanie Williams, with inspiring her career choice.

“I took a human interest class from her last year and she let me grow a passion for it,” Hernandez said. “It really inspired me. I love the way she teaches.”

Along with her academic achievement Hernandez said her best accomplishment involved the other activities she added to her senior year.

“I did four sports this year, basketball, soccer, tennis, and track, I’m still in Running Start and I still managed to be in class,” said Hernandez, “I was part of ASB and Yearbook, I was very involved this year. It really helped me learn how to balance my schedule and felt very rewarding.”

Hernandez also earned her AA degree from Wenatchee Valley College. In her spare time, she helped with youth soccer.

“I refeed games when I could on the weekends and helped them practice,” said Hernandez. “My little brother participated. It was very nice to go out and help because I love the sport.”

Hernandez said she would advise younger students to avoid putting off the work by rewarding yourself after it is done.

“I think procrastination really kills our focus. Prioritize your work, then reward yourself.”

Hernandez said she hopes to return to Pateros and give back.

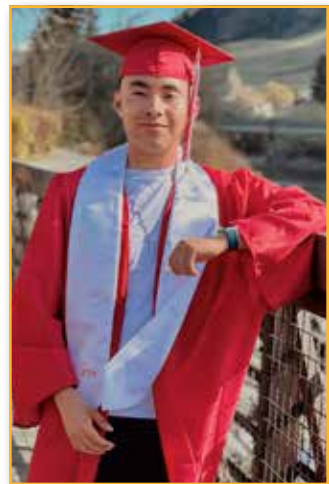

“I love the community and the families here,” Hernandez said.
