Chelan approves $100,000 for marine patrol vessel repair

By MIKE MALTAIS Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN - Being a tourist destination has its drawbacks, but it also has its advantages, such as when touristrelated expenses are paid for by touristrelated dollars. Such is the case with the Chelan County Sheriff's Office Marine Patrol Vessel, which recently needed costly motor replacements.

Sgt. Rob Huddleston reported the repairs to the city council meeting last Tuesday, August 27.

"When it rains, it pours," said Huddleston, "Since I was up here last, we had motors quit on Marine 1, and we just got those replaced. That was $50,000 out of the marine patrol budget to get that up and running."

Huddleston last addressed the council in March, when he recommended a major upgrade of Marine 2, which is two years younger than Marine 1.

"We did some research and believe we can fund this out of tourism dollars," City Administrator Wade Farris said.

"It will come from the 103 three percent fund (Lodging Tax Fund)," said Finance Director Jackie Tupling. "The report that Rob has given us is that the majority of his marine patrol is out-of-county or out-of-city people that he is ticketing or giving warnings to, so we can use 103 for that."

"Last winter, when we pulled the stats, it was about 84 percent work from out of the area, and that holds true every year," said Huddleston. "We have the highest concentration of vessel rentals in the entire state.'

MRSC and DOR guidelines support the city's findings.

The council approved $100,000 from the Lodging Tax Fund 103 for the marine vessel repairs.

Superintendent Wilson highlights Chelan Schools choice enrollment

By MIKE MALTAIS

Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN - School enrollment numbers in the face of declining trends statewide were a leading back-toschool topic of interest at the meeting of the Lake Chelan School District (LCSD) Board on August 26. And the near-100 students who choose to attend LCSD stand out.

Superintendent Brad Wilson addressed this year's project enrollment figures with the following estimates: Morgen Owings Elementary (MOE) - 471 Chelan Middle School (CMS) - 289 Chelan High School (CHS) - 459

Chelan School of Innovation (CSI) - 17 Chelan Digital Academy (CDA) - 25

"We will know after Sept. 4, what our official enrollment count is," said Wilson, "So many districts across the state are facing enrollment declines."

Choice in leads

An interesting statistic Wilson touched on is the "choice" student category

"Definitely way more new students moving into our district than are moving out," said Wilson. "We have 94 more choice students... that brings

Ward Media / Lake Chelan Mirror

EAST WENATCHEE - Health officials have issued an alert after confirming a rabid bat was discovered at a popular camping destination in Chelan County, potentially exposing visitors to the deadly virus.

The Chelan-Douglas Health District (CDHD) announced that a sick bat found on Saturday, August 24, at the Lake Shore RV Park in Chelan has tested positive for rabies. The test results were confirmed on August 27.

"If you, your children, or your pets had contact with a bat in this area, seek medical care and call your local public health district," the CDHD warned in a news release.

The infected bat was discovered by campers who alerted public health authorities. It remains unclear if the bat CHELAN - The Chelan Girls have been coming to Lake Chelan every summer for 40 years. Each year, the eight women take time to set aside their many obligations and prioritize their friendships.

Deanna Cratsenberg, Lori Hill, Kathleen Merriam, Kay Nelson, Kelly Rutledge, Lori Rutledge, Michelle Smith, and Cheri Oppliger made the choice to invest in their friendships early on.

It all began in 1984, their senior year in high school. Nelson's family owned a trailer on the lake, and for the first 15 years, that was the home base for their Chelan trips. A big part of what helped them establish the tradition was that they had a free place to go when they were younger and short on money.

There were times when it would have been easy to say no, especially when their children were young. And there were some who couldn't go every year. But it was the commitment they made and continue to make that has made their trips an enduring tradition.

"I think it was just important, and so we always made the effort," Nelson said. "And we still make that effort. And we love it. But it's also at some CHELAN - Despite heavy rain, the Summer of Love 2024 benefit fundraiser for the Chelan Valley Community Nurse program went ahead as planned on Saturday, August 24, with performers and attendees alike embracing the spirit of "The Show Must Go On!"

The event, held at the Alpenhorn Outback Café, featured performances by Brittany Jean, Waterdog, and The "B" Side, who played a variety of classic rock favorites to a crowd sporting Woodstock-themed costumes and umbrellas. Attendees participated in a silent auction, raffle, and even danced in the rain.

A costume contest added to the festivities, with Dan and Katy Pulfer winning the "Most Authentic Hippie" category. Upon leaving, they quipped, "We didn't have to do much!" Vicki Carr took home the "Most Creative" award for her "Make Love Not War" sign, while Christy Watson was recognized for her oversized peace symbol earrings and beads.

Main Street Program, with the eventual goal of joining the National Main Street America Program.

This move will refocus the organization's largely volunteer efforts toward enhancing economic development in Manson.

The Washington State Main Street Program, established in 1984, has helped communities revitalize their downtown commercial districts.

The press release states, "Since 1984, the Washington State Main Street Program has been helping communities revitalize the economy, appearance, and image of their downtown commercial districts using the successful Main Street Four-Point Approach®."

The MCC's Community Development Committee has been working with Aimee Sheridan, Executive Director of the Historic Downtown Chelan Association (HDCA), Erin Mc-Cardle, Mayor of Chelan, and Tiffany Gering, Chelan County Commissioner. These partnerships provide insights and guidance for Manson's initiative.

The Board of Directors of the Manson Chamber of Commerce believes participation in this program will benefit Manson. According to the press release, the program will help " focus our efforts on development of a strong and vibrant Manson.'

The initiative is expected to help attract visitors, improve the quality of life for residents, and develop a plan for the community's long-term sustainability.

The Chamber invited local businesses and individuals to participate in developing this program.

The MCC promised to keep the community informed about the progress and status of its efforts through public announcements and community forums.

CHELAN - Lake Chelan Health Hospital welcomed its first set of twins for the year on August 26.

Eden Aguilar and Aldo Ayala became parents to twin daughters Hanna and Hailey Aguilar Ayala.

The twins' early arrival prompted a response from the hospital staff, with a team of six doctors and four OB nurses split into two groups to provide care for each newborn in case resuscitation was needed.

The hospital's new, spacious operating room accommodated the additional personnel and equipment needed for the delivery, ensuring patient safety. The medical team successfully delivered two healthy girls. Hanna, born with a full head of hair, weighed just over six pounds, while her sister Hailey weighed 5.1 pounds.

Eden Aguilar personalized her birthing experience by selecting a music playlist that reflected her culture and preferences, which helped create a comforting environment during the delivery. The couple's 3-year-old son is also excited to take on the role of a big brother.

Lake Chelan Health is committed to providing personalized care and collaboration, even in complex births.

Expectant parents interested in more information or a tour of the birthing rooms can contact OB Manager Juliana England at 509-682-3300.

MANSON - In a display of entrepreneurship and community spirit, six-year-old Kenna Hei has contributed to the Manson Grange Youth Fairs program through her resourceful cookieselling initiative.

Kenna, a first-year member of the Youth Fairs program, initially participated in a fundraising event at the Manson Farmers Market alongside her grandmother, Kim Ustanik. The event, involving four families, raised $213 for the program.

However, it was Kenna's quick thinking at the end of the event that showcased her budding business acumen. When faced with leftover cookies, Kenna proposed an idea to her grandmother, saying, "Mimi, we can sell the cookies at the Lodge!"

Taking her granddaughter's suggestion, Ustanik, who owns the Mountain View Lodge in Manson, brought the remaining cookies to her hotel.

Kenna then created a handmade sign reading, "For the Grange by Kenna Hei – 2 for $1," complete with her own artwork.

The young entrepreneur's efforts paid off, with lodge guests purchasing the cookies. Kenna's initiative resulted in an additional $50 for the Youth Fairs program, which she presented at the August 19 Manson Grange Youth Fairs meeting to enthusiastic applause.

Norm Manly, Program Manager for the Manson Grange Youth Fairs, expressed pride in Kenna's accomplishment, stating, "One of the joys of being the Manson Grange Youth Fairs Program Leader is watching our young members grow, build confidence, and develop a 'can do' attitude that will help them grow into productive citizens. Kenna is proof that we are doing just that!"

This early display of leadership and entrepreneurial spirit by Kenna Hei illustrates the positive impact of youth programs in fostering essential life skills and community engagement.

Norm Manly contributed to this report.

1. Chelan Douglas Regional Port Authority received $125,000 for a feasibility study to acquire and develop a property in Manson, potentially creating a joint facility with Link Transit and a small business incubator.

2. Chelan County was granted $75,000 for the Heartwood Biomass Market Assessment, which will evaluate the feasibility of establishing a biomass utilization campus.

3. The City of Chelan secured $300,000 to improve its water system capacity through upgrades to the Washington Street Booster Pump Station.

4. The City of Wenatchee was married on August 31, 1973. Joe fell asleep on August 1, 2024, in the arms of his loving wife of 53 years, Beth. Joe and Beth spent their adult lives serving the Creator, Jehovah God and his son, Jesus Christ. As a couple they had the privilege to attend and graduate from Gilead, a school for the training of missionaries. They were sent to Ecuador, where they fell in love with the people. Joe was always ready to share a thought from the Bible, which he did up until his death.

Joe truly enjoyed life. He loved swimming in our beautiful Lake Chelan, backpacking in the Cascade mountains, bird watching, going to the ocean, and sharing endless gourmet meals with his friends. While growing up, he had many fond memories of his life on a dairy farm. One memory was riding on the back of the draft horses as his father plowed the fields. But most of all, Joe will be remembered by others for his humble nature and his kind spirit. Joe had hundreds of friends. He worked for the Post Office in he would come home to a roaring fire and a bowl of warm soup. Towards the end of his life. Beth reminded him of the future when he would be resurrected to Joseph J. Imig life here on a paradise > earth, as Psalm 37:29 says, "The righteous will possess the earth, and they will live forever on it." At that time they will have babies and sing and dance with so much joy at being reunited.

> He shared his life with his brothers and sisters: Bill, Jeannie, Tom and Mary Kay, and other family members too numerous to count. He also had many honorary sons and daughters.

> You are all welcome to attend a memorial for Joe that will be held on September 14, 2024, at 2 p.m. at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses in Chelan, Washington, at 816 E. Wapato Avenue. For those that will be unable to attend in person, there will be Zoom available. Please email imig.photos@gmail.com to receive the information. We want everyone to be a part of this memorial for our beloved Joseph Imig.

Bobcat hunters face rule change

Ward Media Lake Chelan Mirror

OLYMPIA – Washington state has new requirements for small game hunters and trappers who harvest bobcats. The requirement that went into effect on September 1 requires hunters to submit the lower jaw of any bobcat harvested as part of the mandatory pelt sealing process.

The Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) finalized this rule update through its most recent season setting process.

Stephanie Landry, WDFW carnivore, furbearer, and small game section manager, said, WDFW will now collect the lower jaw from bobcats harvested in Washington so we can use the canine teeth to determine the age structure of harvested bobcats and track changes over time."

Landry explained that bobcat canine teeth cannot be removed as easily as the teeth of other species, which necessitates submitting the entire lower jaw.

The data collected during pelt sealing, including the age of harvested bobcats, will allow WDFW to better manage the state's bobcat populations. This process provides an opportunity for hunters and trappers to contribute to bobcat conservation efforts. Pelts must be sealed by April 20. WDFW advises hunters and trappers to refer to the latest season and regulation information in the Game Bird and Small Game Hunting Regulations or the Furbearer Trapping Regulations.

WDFW has prepared resources to help hunters and trappers comply with these new requirements, including instructions on lower jaw removal and how to request the return of bobcat jaws after canine extraction. These resources are available on WDFW's website.

For more information, hunters and trappers can contact WDFW at wildthing@dfw.wa.gov or 360-902-2515.

WDFW officers to start wearing body cameras

Ward Media Lake Chelan Mirror

OLYMPIA - The Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) will equip all 152 of its commissioned law enforcement officers with body-worn cameras starting this month.

The program will enhance accountability, transparency, and safety in natural resource law enforcement. It follows a comprehensive review and trial period that incorporated feedback from officers and stakeholders.

"This program advances our commitment to our core values and our mission to protect our natural resources and the public we serve," said WDFW Police Chief Steve Bear.

"Deploying body-worn cameras to our officers will help us build trust and relationships with all communities in Washington."

The initiative's goals include providing a clear record of interactions, improving communication with the public, deterring misconduct, and offering resources for training.

Funding for the program, totaling $915,000, was allocated by the Washington State Legislature in the 2023-2025 supplemental operating budget.

This allocation was part of a broader effort to support local law enforcement agencies across the state.

CONNECTING COMMUNITIES ACROSS NORTH CENTRAL WASHINGTON

Chelan-Douglas Regional Port Authority looks to provide ground transport solutions for Pangborn Airport travelers

By Will Nilles Ward Media Staff Reporter

WENATCHEE VALLEY – The Chelan-Douglas Regional Port Authority (CDRPA) is seeking to improve Pangborn Airport's limited ground transportation options, more efficiently connecting the vital airport's nearby communities to the rest of the world.

The drive to improve the airport's ground transportation options follows the formation of a temporary Air Service Task Force, an entity designed to investigate Pangborn's needs and establish strategic priorities to meet them.

CDRPA Director of Airports Trent Moyers described the important questions that the Air Service Task Force is formed to address.

"What's the level of service that we want to provide here," he asked, "and how do we go about doing that? What are the challenges that we need to face and overcome? Some of them are financial challenges, some of them are operational challenges, but that's really the goal, to look at the level of service we want to be able to provide."

With Air Service Task Force strategic priorities 1 and 2 focusing on the need to recruit flight carriers with more frequent and more affordable flights, strategic priority 3 centers around a major missing piece within the local region as a whole, ground transportation to and from the airport.

WILL NILLES/WARD MEDIA The CDRPA Board discusses Pangborn Airport's ground transportation needs, considering a variety of different options.

This issue is especially prominent for travelers arriving at Pangborn Airport late at night and early in the morning, times when on-site car rental businesses are closed.

In the hopes of confronting this issue and providing travelers with a more convenient means of connecting to NCW communities, CDRPA members plan to meet directly with the airport's on-site Enterprise and Hertz rental agencies and discuss late-night/ early morning service options.

"We'll be meeting with the two different car rental companies that are out here," Director Moyers mentioned.

"Enterprise and Hertz, in the following week to chat about their operations and see how we can all provide a service that their customers are expecting as well."

The Air Service Task Force isn't solely focused on car rentals. As CDRPA CEO Jim Kuntz explains, the drive to improve Pangborn's ground transit services is multilayered and aims to help both long-distance travelers and those staying in the local area.

"We have a two pronged approach," CEO Kuntz revealed, "one [component] is trying to get the car rental agency counters to be open at midnight, so that people [arriving on a late flight] that want to rent a car have that option. Today that option doesn't exist. The second component is flyers that might be coming into the valley who don't want to rent a car, but they're trying to get to a hotel, and how do they do that?"

In looking for ways to tackle these issues, the CDRPA board considered various options including the use of Uber or other gig services.

However, commissioners raised concerns about the major lack of drivers for these services in the local area, especially during the late and early hours of the day.

"And so the question is," Kuntz proposed, "can we work with a taxi group or some type of transportation where we would know there would be some options available for the travelers coming into the valley?"

Overall, the CDRPA aims to boost Pangborn's local convenience and dependability, cementing the airport as a vital resource for the local region, an airport locals want to fly out of.

"What we want to do is encourage people to fly out of Wenatchee," Kunts shared. "And people fly airports that are convenient and cost effective, so we need to position Pangborn as being cost effective and convenient."

Pursuing this massive undertaking, the CDRPA's major goal is to use Pangborn Airport to connect its local NCW communities to the world.

As Director Moyers shares, "The key word is 'connected.' So, connectivity is what's important, if the flights don't line up from here to Seattle to get you connected to the rest of the world, that can be a problem."

RiverCom 911 buys land for new $1.4M emergency center in East Wenatchee

Ward Media Lake Chelan Mirror

EAST WENATCHEE – RiverCom 911, the emergency communications center serving Chelan and Douglas counties, has purchased 12.7 acres of land for $1,422,400 to construct a new facility, the agency announced Thursday.

The property, located at the intersection of 5th Street NE and N Lyle Avenue in East Wenatchee, will house a new 911 Emergency Communications Center. This acquisition comes as RiverCom's current 8,300-square-foot space in the Wenatchee Police Department has become inadequate for the region's growing needs.

A 2019 study determined that RiverCom requires approximately 14,000 square feet to maintain efficient operations. The agency's lease with the City of Wenatchee is set to expire in 2029, further necessitating the move.

Doug Jones, RiverCom Executive Director, said, "We are pleased to take this first step toward a new RiverCom facility for our region.

The RiverCom board is committed to creating a state-ofthe-art facility that will serve as a hub for emergency communications and coordination for decades to come in service to our valued communities."

The new location was selected for its accessibility, growth potential, and optimal conditions for radio communications

Colville Tribes receive $200,000 grant to study former casino site

Ward Media Lake Chelan Mirror

OKANOGAN - The Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation will receive $200,000 in grant funding to assess the potential redevelopment of the Old Okanogan Casino-Bingo Hall.

The grant is part of a $2 million initiative by the Washington State Department of Commerce to expand the state's portfolio of project-ready industrial sites and attract manufacturing activity to rural areas.

The funds will support a comprehensive evaluation of the former casino property, including a rail improvement study, electrical feasibility study, traffic analysis, water supply assessment, wastewater infrastructure assessment, and market study.

This project is one of eight selected across Washington to receive grants ranging from $200,000 to $350,000. The initiative aligns with the state's goal to add 300,000 new manufactur-Manufacturing (BEST) Act.

Crosswalk safety

MOE Principal Erin Morin thanked the city for adding more crosswalks near the schools.

"Thank you to the City of Chelan for hearing our concerns for the safety of our kids," said Morin. "We will now have two crosswalks."

At a June council meeting, Public Works Director Jake Youngren detailed the new safety additions during a review of the city's six-year Statewide Transportation Improvement Plan (STIP).

"Currently, we have a crosswalk that is heavily used by students of Chelan Middle and High School and in close proximity to a corner that does not

Guest speaker

Athletic Director Evan Reister announced a Sept. 11 speaking engagement featuring newly retired AD Dave Tikker, a Washington State and WIAA Hall of Fame AD, who will focus his talk on the value of education-based athletics. That will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the high school PAC.

In other business the board approved a WIAA agreement that will allow Entiat girls' soccer players to join the Chelan team. At this writing that is just one player.

"That is the plan," confirmed Reister. "We are hoping more than one shows up but talking to their AD we should have 1-5 athletes."

point, you know, you're choosing whether to do it or not to do it. And we just chose to keep doing it because it was so important to all of us.'

The women do not bring children or husbands on the trips.

'That's only us girls, and we call ourselves the Chelan girls," Cratsenberg said. "So over here, everybody and all spouses and all people know that we're the Chelan Girls because we don't go anywhere else. We've never gone anywhere else. We've always gone there."

The women, who are now 58 and 59 years old, all went to high school together in Federal Way. Five live on the western side of the state, one in Spokane, one in Arizona and one in Hawaii.

"I would say, well, we all love each other," Kelly said. "But we started in Chelan. Well, we went to high school together, but we became really close friends in Chelan. And then we just never didn't go. It was just strange. Every year became a tradition."

"Life has seen us through everything from marriage, children, jobs, illness, and grandchildren," Cratsenberg said. "During the last 40 years, our friendship has grown and stayed strong, with the one consistent always being our trip to and love of Lake Chelan."

Through the years they have forged and maintained bonds, helped heal heartaches and stocked up too many memories to count. But everyone has some standout memories.

"Shirts seemed to be the theme of our trips," Cratsenberg said. "One year we painted shirts, One gal brought everyone shirts from Boston one year, another year one of us coordinated purchasing shirts that were imprinted with 'Chelan Girls est 1984', and yet another time someone bought everyone hand embroidered sweatshirts that said Footloose and Forever Young. Footloose was a popular movie at the time."

Several of the friends mentioned the Sea Dos incident as one of their favorite funny moments.

"The year we rented Sea Dos with the promise to one of the gals that didn't want to get on, that it was almost impossible to tip it over," Cratsenberg said. "Of course, it tipped over right as we were getting on it."

And everyone still laughs about the night they went skinny dipping.

'The year we came back from town late at night and decided to go skinny dipping," Cratsenberg said. "Somehow, there was a camera involved. There were ries) that pop out, I mean, you know, like the skinny dipping night, but of course, you know, a bunch of girls we're gonna do that at some point," Nelson said.

One year someone put the wrong liquid detergent in the dishwasher, Kelly said.

"The bubbles were everywhere," Cratsenberg said. "There was uncontrollable laughter during and after the cleanup process.'

One summer, one of the women was on an air mattress that floated away from shore. It was too windy for her to get back, so she floated away, and the friends had to drive down to Lakeside Park and pick her up, Nelson said.

Another standout memory for many was in the infamous pictionary game.

"I can't even remember the word that set the world on fire. but it was the closest we came to a real argument over the last 40 years," Cratsenburg said.

After Nelson's family sold the lake property, the group had a series of rentals. Organizing dates that worked for everyone and finding a rental could be challenging, but they made it work.

"It is hilarious to think about now, but at the time, it was a little crazy," Cratsenberg said. "One house had bugs. Not just a few, swarms of them. They were everywhere, from in our toothbrushes to our bedding.'

The other house had a small casita up a long flight of stairs with a bedroom and a bathroom.

"Well, the plumbing started backing up on the first day there, and by the second day, the two bathrooms in the main house did not work," Cratsenberg said. "After many lengthy phone calls, there was still no sight of a repair company over the entire time we were there. The walk up to the only bathroom for eight women was comical."

There have been many times through the years when the women have needed to lean on

"We have been there for each other over the years," Cratsenberg said. "All of us have had a year or two where things have not been going good and we know that we have seven "sisters" that are there for us."

"I look at our group of eight that we have supported one another through thick and thin, through marriage and childbirth, divorces, supporting each other you know, in college," Smith said. "I just think we're unique in that way."

When it comes to friendship, the Chelan Girls have a lot of wisdom to offer.

"Make it a priority," Merriam said. "So many priorities and people come and go through our lives. Maintaining true friendships does take some commitment, but it is well worth it. The beauty of long-standing friendships like this is the history we have together, the trust we share, and the love we have for each other."

This year's trip was their 40th year.

"It was amazing. Seven of us made it; one couldn't last minute, but for good reason, her brother was in the dying phase of life," Merriam said. "We spoke to her throughout the weekend. I remember one year I couldn't make it, and we Facetimed. We find a way to make sure all eight of us are there somehow."

"Don't ever talk behind each other's back," Lori Hill said. "Our group of eight doesn't ever talk among themselves about each other. We share in each other's joys and sorrows with no jealousy or pettiness. We are closer than sisters."

"Though we come from various parts of the United States, with different religious and political backgrounds, we can pick up right where we left off," Hill said. "We all deeply care about each other and are never competitive. There is so much laughter on these weekends."

"Women, oh my gosh, we need each other," Kelly said. "I mean, I tell them everything. I think they do the same, and they're my buddies.

"They're like, I mean, they're all like sisters, we can be just brutally honest," Nelson said. "I mean, we'd never be mean, but we just were like, we don't, we don't hold back. We don't feel like we have to be polite."

"There's a bond there that it's interesting because I'm 58 years old, and I've had friends come into my life, and they've become really good friends, but you know they've moved across country," Nelson said. "And there were friendships that I would never have thought would have dwindled, and yet they did. But this group of friends, you know, even Event organizers acknowledged that while the rain presented challenges, feedback from attendees was overwhelmingly positive. One organizer noted, "The rain was indeed a welcome blessing for the environment, and in spite of presenting a challenge for event organizers and volunteers, feedback from people who attended have reported 'had a blast' and 'loved the music,' which proves that the spirit of those who danced in the rain 55 years ago at Yasgurs Farm, abides.'

was present at the RV park before August 24.

This incident marks the second confirmed case of rabies in a bat in Chelan County this year. Health officials stress the urgency of immediate medical attention following potential exposure.

"Rabies is a fatal disease in both animals and humans," the health district stated. "Infection and death is preventable if appropriate medical care is received immediately after a rabies exposure."

The CDHD has reiterated guidelines for public safety, emphasizing the importance of observing wildlife from a distance and never handling bats with bare hands.

"Do not touch or handle a wild animal, especially bats," the health district advised. "Teach your children never to touch or handle bats, even dead ones.'

Health officials urge anyone who may have had physical contact with a bat at the Lake Shore RV Park to contact their local public health district and seek immediate medical attention.

As the situation develops, the Chelan-Douglas Health District continues to monitor rabies activity in the region and promote public safety measures to minimize the risk of human exposure to the virus.

When a high school in Pennsylvania put up posters telling students how much fat was in different foods, the students changed what they ate for lunch.

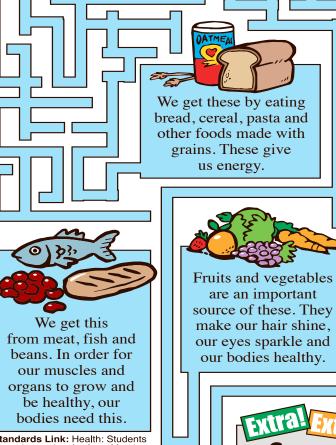

Look at the graph that shows what kinds of food they chose before and after the posters were put up. Then answer these questions:

How many fewer cheeseburgers were chosen after the posting of the nutrition posters?

How many more plain burgers were chosen than cheeseburgers after the posting of the nutrition posters?
