Chelan School District receives grant to boost college, career readiness

By QUINN PROPST
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN – The Lake Chelan School District is one of 13 rural school districts in Washington to receive funding through the Washington Student Achievement Council (WSAC) to enhance college and career readiness opportunities in the district.

WSAC received a seven-year, $35 million grant from the U.S. Department of Education to continue supporting students from low-income backgrounds through the Washington State GEAR UP Program.

GEAR UP stands for Gaining Early Awareness and Readiness for Undergraduate Programs. It is a federally funded program that partners with high-poverty school districts to increase the number of students who are prepared to attend and succeed in postsecondary education.

“It just really enhances the college and career readiness opportunities that we can do, and the support that we can offer, so more college trips to college campuses, more college and career exploration activities,” Lake Chelan School District Superintendent Bradley Wilson said.

“It’ll fund a site director, so we’ll have somebody on site that just works on that,” he said. “So it really will allow us to offer a more robust program for students, and there’s a lot of family outreach activities that will go along with it. So it should really help prepare kids for what comes after high school.”

The school currently has a person who works in this area but due to funding they only have the capacity to work with seniors and some juniors.

“Having that site coordinator, just coordinating activities for students, staff and families is a big resource,” Wilson said. “I mean, it’s a big endeavor to engage in that work, you know, starting with seventh graders all the way through the end of high school. So that’ll be a great resource for us.”

The grant funding will allow the site coordinator to work with students to encourage them to start thinking about their future steps earlier. They do not need to decide their futures by seventh grade but will have more chances to explore options, build awareness, and gradually narrow their focus from middle school to high school. This approach helps students and families make informed decisions about which classes to take and what experiences to pursue, Wilson said.

A four-year college or associate’s degree may not be for everyone but 70% of today’s jobs require some form of post-secondary training. To better serve the community Wilson hopes to encourage students to pursue further education and skill development after high school, he said.

“I guess that’s what we’re trying to emphasize when we say post secondary or post high school, that’s ev-

Public Infrastructure Fund grant match will restart East Chelan projects

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN – The city received a $300,000 grant from the county .09 Cascade Public Infrastructure Fund to help the city move forward with its East Chelan projects, which have been delayed due to water issues.

The Cascade Public Infrastructure Fund was approved by the Chelan County Board of Commissioners in 2021. It is a grant program for public facility projects serving economic development in the county. It is funded by existing revenues from the sales-and-use tax on public facilities in rural counties.

Mayor Erin McCardle made the grant announcement at the August 27 meeting of the city council.

McCardle said the .09 grant will match the city’s $300,000 for the Washington Street booster pump station.

“Just so everyone has a sense of what that means for Chelan, all projects in East Chelan are on pause right now,” said McCardle. “We are waiting for water and this booster pump upgrade will provide water.”

McCardle said the funds will also allow affordable housing opportunities to proceed.

“This would have been a requirement of Anderson Road at some point,” said McCardle. “Now that water item is checked off the list.”

“We have 20 acres in Willmorth that we are working with the county on to identify how many acres are buildable that would also need water and that can move forward,” McCardle said.

The booster pump upgrade will also enable commercial opportunities, apartment units, and the $11 million EMS building to stay on track.

“It will have quite a bit of positive impact in our community,” said McCardle. “A huge thanks to the county.”

The Chelan City Council meets at 6 p.m. on the second and fourth Tuesdays of the month in city hall, 135 E. Johnson Avenue.

Chelan Valley Hope, Food Bank expand to better serve community needs

Construction is on schedule to be finished by spring of 2025.

By QUINN PROPST
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN – Chelan Valley Hope, a nonprofit organization dedicated to assisting individuals and families in need, and its partner, the Lake Chelan Food Bank, are undergoing a significant remodel and expansion to better serve Chelan and the surrounding areas.

This transformation will give both organizations more space and resources, enabling them to provide enhanced support services to those who need them most.

“This is truly a win-win for both organizations and the entire community,” Chelan Valley Hope Executive Director Tamra Hively said.

The much needed changes come as the food bank is celebrating 42 years of feeding Chelan, Lake Chelan Food Bank Director Richard Springer said.

enabling them to ensure privacy for their clients. The Food Bank will take over the building the two organizations currently share, which will more than double their space.

The remodel plan for Chelan Valley Hope and the Lake Chelan Food Bank started over two years ago due to space constraints as demand for services and staff grew.

Neither organization could find a suitable building. But fortunately, the Food Bank received funding from the State Legislature and the City of Chelan, while Chelan Valley Hope secured funding from Chelan County, Hively said.

Construction began this summer after finalizing plans and permits. The project is on schedule and expected to be fully completed by early 2025. However, changes are already underway. Chelan Valley Hope will move into the new addition in the coming months, allowing the renovations of the existing building to gain momentum, Hively said.

“An exciting part of the remodel is that we’ll be adding a shower and a washer and dryer for our unhoused clients,” Hively said. “When we talk to them about finding jobs and improving their lives, we need to make sure they have access to basic necessities.”

“How can we expect people to ‘pull themselves up by the bootstraps’ when they don’t even have a place to shower or wash their clothes? This addition is a significant step toward making a real difference in the lives of those we see every day,” she said.

Chelan area entries win at Cars at the Cove show

By MIKE MALTAIS
Ward Media Staff Reporter

CHELAN – Dozens of classic and custom cars and trucks – including eight with Chelan, Manson, and Entiat owners – turned out for an afternoon of music, food, fun, craftsmanship, and awards at the 2024 Cars at the Cove held at the Brewster Boys and Girls Club on Saturday, August 31. Jim Burns of the Lake Chelan Car Club, and Mark and Darcy Wenger of Manson, took home trophies.

Joining the Chelan (5), Manson (2), and Entiat (1) entries were vehicles from Omak (3), Okanogan (2), Tonasket (2), Coulee Dam (1), Quincy (1), Bridgeport (5), Waterville (2), Brewster (8), and a bunch from East Wenatchee (11), and Wenatchee (5).

Chelan PUD energizes North Shore substation, enhancing grid reliability

Ward Media / Lake Chelan Mirror

CHELAN – Chelan Public Utility District (PUD) has energized its new North Shore substation, which is now serving customers and will provide more flexibility and reliability for years to come in the growing communities of Chelan and Manson.

The North Shore substation site, about 5 acres along Henderson Road, was selected in 2017 with community input. Substation design began in 2020 and construction broke ground in 2023. The substation project budget was about $10.5 million.

“We want to be good neighbors,” said Chad Rissman, distribution asset manager. “We work with the surrounding community to develop basic design principals so that the substation reflects their input.”

The PUD planted native landscaping around the substation to help it blend in with the environment and worked with the neighboring properties to reduce light pollution.

The North Shore Substation is a milestone in the utility’s plan to add 15 more substations county-wide over the next decade.

Rissman explained the strategic importance of new substations: “Substations work together as a network. When you build a new substation, it helps rebalance the electrical load on nearby substations for optimum reliability.”

Substations reduce high-voltage electricity (transmission) to low-voltage electricity (distribution) for residential and commercial use. Chelan PUD has 33 distribution substations strategically located throughout its service territory. A substation typically serves about 1,500 residential homes.

Chelan PUD uses growth forecasting, planning standards, and long-range planning to predict how much and where electrical load growth will occur so the utility can build the necessary infrastructure, including substations.

Based on current forecasts, more substations are in the works to meet growing electrical demand around Manson, Wenatchee and Leavenworth.

Visit chelanpud.org/substations for more information.

Rediscovering our shared humanity through compassion

Compassion. It's a word we hear often, but when was the last time you truly felt it? Not just a fleeting moment of sympathy, but a profound understanding of another's pain that moved you to action. In a world reeling from division, where the homeless are invisible on our streets and neighbors struggle behind closed doors, compassion seems in short supply. Yet it may be our most powerful, untapped resource for change. What if, instead of looking away, we dared to look closer?

From the Publisher

TERRY WARD

Compassion - the ability to understand others' suffering and the desire to alleviate it - is not just a lofty ideal. It's a practical tool for creating a more just and equitable world. Research shows that compassionate individuals and communities experience better mental health, lower crime rates, and stronger social bonds.

Yet, in our fast-paced society, compassion can feel like a scarce resource. We often hurry past homeless individuals on street corners, averting our eyes from their plight. We become desensitized to news of poverty and hardship, treating these issues as abstract problems rather than human realities. The challenge before us is to resist this trend and actively cultivate compassion in our daily lives.

Consider the homeless person you pass on your way to work. Behind that weathered face is a story—perhaps of job loss, mental illness, or domestic violence. Each person experiencing homelessness is someone's child, sibling, or parent. By seeing their humanity, we take the first step towards compassionate action.

Compassion isn't about grand gestures or solving all the world's problems single-handedly. It starts with small acts: offering a kind word to someone on the street, volunteering at a local shelter, or supporting organizations that provide housing and job training. These actions, while seemingly small, can be life-changing for those in need and create ripples of positivity throughout our communities.

Moreover, true compassion extends beyond immediate aid.

It involves advocating for systemic changes that address the root causes of homelessness and poverty. This might mean supporting affordable housing initiatives, mental health services, or programs that provide job skills and opportunities. By combining individual kindness with broader advocacy, we can work towards lasting solutions.

Some may argue that focusing on compassion is naive in a world with complex social issues. But compassion isn't about ignoring problems - it's about approaching them with a more constructive, human-centered mindset. It's about recognizing that those in need are not a separate category of people, but our neighbors, our fellow citizens, our extended human family.

As we navigate the challenges of the 21st century - from economic inequality to global conflicts - compassion will be more crucial than ever. It's the foundation upon which we can build a more just, peaceful, and sustainable world.

I invite you to join in this effort to cultivate compassion, especially for those most in need:

1. Educate yourself about homelessness and poverty in your area. Understanding the scope and causes of these issues is the first step toward meaningful action.

2. Volunteer your time. Local shelters, food banks, and outreach programs always need help. Your presence can make a real difference.

3. Support organizations working to address homelessness and poverty. Whether through donations or advocacy, your support can amplify their impact.

4. Challenge stereotypes and stigma. Speak up against dehumanizing language or policies that marginalize those experiencing homelessness or poverty.

5. Practice everyday compassion. A simple acknowledgment, a kind word, or a small act of generosity can mean the world to someone struggling.

6. Advocate for policies that address the root causes of homelessness and poverty. Support initiatives for affordable housing, mental health services, and economic opportunity.

Remember that compassion also extends to ourselves. Be kind to yourself, acknowledge your own struggles, and recognize that personal growth is a journey. By nurturing self-compassion, we become better equipped to extend compassion to others, including those whose struggles may seem far removed from our own experiences.

In choosing compassion, we choose to see the humanity in everyone, regardless of their circumstances. We choose to believe in the potential for positive change. We choose to be part of the solution rather than part of the problem.

As Desmond Tutu wisely said, "My humanity is bound up in yours, for we can only be human together." Let's embrace this interconnectedness. Let's choose understanding. Let's choose compassion. Together, we can create a world where no one is left behind, where dignity and opportunity are available to all.

The power to make this change lies within each of us.

Letter to the Editor

The Bigger Picture

On September 3 at City Hall, there was a Chamber funding workshop concerning $700,000 dollars the Lake Chelan Chamber of Commerce receives from the City's Bed Tax. Mike Steele, Chamber Director, mentioned business members of the Chamber favor 12 months of year round tourism, and the Bed Tax is needed to make that happen.

Two council members raised 2 points of concern - The balance between quality of life for year round residents verses the full on year round commercialization of Chelan, as well as traffic flow/improvements.

I have said this before and I will say it again, "if one moves to Chelan from the I-5 corridor, Chelan could triple in year round capacity and their quality of life would still be better than that which they left, yet for the people who have lived here 20 years or longer, it would be devastating".

That should give us pause on the move to 12 months of tourism. While the Chamber and council are zeroed in on one subject, increased year round revenue, there are many facets to a bigger picture on how our actions, policies and greed affect our community. Every single decision we make has a ripple effect. Traffic seems to be the biggest of those ripples.

It will be up to you, the year round residents, to see the bigger picture and cast your votes accordingly.

Every conversation at City Council should start with this - "Are the decisions we are about to make going to improve the quality of life for year round residents or deteriorate their quality of life?"

"Has greed superseded stewardship?"

We need more than two council members to ask these questions.

Chelan falls to Chewelah in season opener

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

CHEWELAH – The Chelan Mountain Goats stumbled in their season opener, falling to the Chewelah Cougars 23-7 in a non-league football matchup Friday night at Snyder Field.

Despite high hopes for the new season, Chelan struggled to find their footing against a determined Chewelah squad.

The Mountain Goats' offense sputtered throughout the game, managing to put only seven points on the board.

Chewelah's defense proved to be the difference-maker, consistently stifling Chelan's attempts to gain momentum.

The Cougars' offense capitalized on their opportunities, building a lead that the Mountain Goats couldn't overcome.

The loss puts Chelan at 0-1 for the season, while Chewelah starts strong at 1-0.

Looking ahead, Chelan faces another challenge as they prepare to host the Brewster Bears (0-1).

The Bears are also coming off a loss, having fallen to Reardan 39-14 in their season opener.

As Chelan regroups from this defeat, the team's focus will be on improving their offensive output and tightening up their defense.

The Mountain Goats will need to show significant improvement if they hope to secure their first win of the season against Brewster.

Turnovers costly as Manson falls to Cle Elum-Roslyn 21-17

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

CLE ELUM – The Cle Elum-Roslyn Warriors overcame a 10-point deficit to defeat the Manson Trojans 21-17 in a non-league high school football matchup Friday night.

The Trojans, who had bested the Warriors for the past three years, appeared poised to continue their winning streak early in the game. Manson built a 17-7 lead, but momentum shifted dramatically when Cle Elum-Roslyn returned an interception for a touchdown.

Turnovers proved costly for Manson. A fumble in the red zone squelched another scoring opportunity, while a subsequent 30-plus yard reception by Cle Elum-Roslyn set up the game-winning drive.

Manson quarterback Vince Strecker showed flashes of brilliance, including a 40-yard touchdown run where he eluded multiple defenders. Strecker finished 10-of-21 passing for 100 yards with one touchdown and two interceptions, while adding 75 yards rushing on 17 carries.

Defensively, Manson's Chris Vazquez was a standout with two interceptions and four tackles. He also contributed a 35-yard field goal on special teams.

The Trojans' ground game saw contributions from Jaxon Teague (11 carries, 52 yards) and Cooper Pinski (9 carries, 35 yards). Quinn Williams led Manson receivers with five catches for 36 yards and a touchdown.

Manson (0-1) will look to rebound in their home opener against Lind-Ritzville on September 13. Kickoff is scheduled for 7:00 PM.

Young Chelan squad falls to Tenino in season opener, 3-1

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

TENINO – The Chelan High School girls' soccer team opened their season with a 3-1 loss to Tenino High School in a non-league match on Saturday.

The Goats, fielding a young squad after graduating eight seniors last year, held their own in a closely contested first half. Tenino broke the deadlock midway through the first period, capitalizing on a counterattack following a controversial non-call on a potential handball in the Chelan penalty area.

Chelan's defense, led by junior goalkeeper Avari Barker, kept the score at 1-0 going into halftime. Barker made several crucial saves throughout the match, as her newly formed backline of freshmen Reeghan Lake and Denali Corrigan, along with juniors Lelani Avail and Reagan Puryear, worked to establish cohesion.

Tenino, bolstered by the return of two key players who sat out the first half due to disciplinary reasons, extended their lead with two goals in the second half.

The Goats managed to break through in the closing minutes when sophomore Madeline Cowan found the back of the net, scoring Chelan's first goal of the season.

Despite the loss, Chelan's coaching staff saw promise in the team's performance, particularly noting the contributions of four freshmen starters.

Chelan will look to build on this experience as they prepare for their first home conference match against the Omak Pioneers on Thursday, September 12.

From the crack of the bat to the sprint across the finish line,

is proud to cheer for our student athletes!

As each turned a discerning eye toward the variety of vehicles that lined the parking lot, it was hard to miss the eventual winner, a bright yellow 1948 International KB-6 tow truck called the Beeline.

Owners Ron and Caprice Pratt of Okanogan created the showstopper in less than a year from a chassis here, a frame there, tow boom apparatus from a third, and oversized tires from a fourth.

Throw them all together in a

Wenatchee Valley Museum to host annual 'Night at the Museum' fundraiser

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

WENATCHEE – The Wenatchee Valley Museum and Cultural Center will host its annual fundraiser, “Night at the Museum,” on Saturday, September 21, from 6-9 p.m.

The event will feature local cuisine, award-winning wines, craft beers, ciders, and distilled spirits.

Live music performances by Cajun Moon, Deep Green Sea, Elaine Eagle, and Corban Welter & Erin McNamee are scheduled for the evening.

According to the press release, “Funds from this event support the Museum’s mission-serving programs, including featured exhibits, MakerSpace, robotics clubs, field trips, student scholarships, community cultural events, film and speaker series, and collection restorations.”

The fundraiser will include a silent auction with items donated by local businesses and organizations, including the Wenatchee Applesox, Slidewaters, and Numerica Performing Arts Center.

A photo booth provided by Glamsnaps Photobooth will be available for attendees.

Tickets are priced at $60 for museum members and $75 for non-members.

The event is restricted to individuals aged 21 and over.

The Wenatchee Valley Museum and Cultural Center is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that operates with support from the cities of Wenatchee and East Wenatchee.

Sponsors for the event include Entertainment Sponsor Marsh McLennan Agency and Sustaining Sponsors Goodfellow Bros, Premier One Properties, Larson Gross CPAs & Consultants, Crunch Pak, Town Toyota, and Cordell, Neher & Company, PLLC.

For more information or to purchase tickets, interested parties can visit the museum’s website or contact the front desk at (509) 888-6240.

Wenatchee River Salmon Festival returns on Sept. 21

A colorfully dressed Native American dancer performs at a previous Wenatchee River Salmon Festival, captivating young attendees. The upcoming festival on Sept. 21 will feature 43 Native American educators and exhibitors, offering visitors an immersive cultural experience as part of the event’s educational programming.

WENATCHEE – The Wenatchee River Salmon Festival will take place on Sept. 21 at Rocky Reach Park and Discovery Center, offering educational activities and cultural experiences centered around salmon conservation and the region’s ecosystem.

The annual event, themed “Salmon Symphony,” will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Visitors can participate in activities such as learning about canoe carving, dissecting fish, and exploring the life cycle of migrating salmon.

A Native American village will showcase the cultural heritage of the region.

The festival will feature 43 Native American educators and exhibitors representing 11 tribes and bands from the plateau region, Pacific Northwest, and beyond.

Prior to the public event,

Volunteers set up a traditional Native American tipi at Rocky Reach Park, part of the Wenatchee River Salmon Festival’s Native American village. The upcoming festival on Sept. 21 will feature cultural exhibits and activities, immersing visitors in the rich heritage of the region’s indigenous peoples.

approximately 2,000 third and fourth-grade students from the area will attend educational sessions on Sept. 19 and 20.

The festival has received awards, including “Best Children’s Program” from the International Festivals and Events Association.

The Wenatchee River Salmon Festival is hosted by Chelan PUD, Friends of Northwest Hatcheries, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Forest Service, Bureau of Reclamation, and Bonneville Power Administration. Community sponsors include Confluence Health, Cascade AutoCenter, Wenatchee Sportsmen’s Association, Chelan Douglas Retirees Association, Crunch Pak, Stemilt and Microsoft.

Admission to the festival is free. More information can be found at salmonfest.org.

Families engage in hands-on learning at a previous Salmon Festival, exploring microscopic aquatic life. The upcoming event on Sept. 21 at Rocky Reach Park and Discovery Center will offer similar interactive educational experiences, allowing visitors to “dissect a fish” and learn about salmon life cycles through engaging activities.

A fisheries expert guides students through a hands-on salmon dissection at a previous Wenatchee River Salmon Festival. This year’s event on Sept. 21 will again offer interactive educational experiences, allowing visitors to explore salmon biology and ecology through activities like fish dissection at Rocky Reach Park and Discovery Center.

Chelan and Douglas counties launch homeless survey, seek public input

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

WENATCHEE – The Chelan-Douglas Homeless Housing Task Force has launched an online survey to gather public opinion on homelessness in Chelan and Douglas counties.

The survey, available until October 4, will inform the task force’s upcoming five-year strategic plan for reducing homelessness in the region.

Accessible through the Chelan County website (www.co.chelan.wa.us), the survey takes approximately 3 to 5 minutes to complete and is available in both English and Spanish.

While anonymous, it collects basic demographic information such as age and community of residence.

The survey poses several key questions, including:

- “How concerned are you about homelessness in your area?”
- “What do you believe are the three top causes of homelessness in our area?”
- “Where do you get your information about homelessness in our area from?”
- These questions gauge public perception and understanding of homelessness issues in the two counties.

The task force will use the survey responses to develop its updated strategic plan, scheduled for release in spring 2025.

This initiative aligns community perspectives with policy decisions regarding homelessness in Chelan and Douglas counties.

Residents can participate in the survey before the October 4 deadline to ensure their views are considered in the planning process.

WENATCHEE – Local small business organization Building NCW (BNCW) welcomes community members to its 30th annual Home Tour event, a September weekend of inspiration, industry, and regional connections.

BNCW operates as a member-driven organization of small businesses centered around building, development, and small business advocacy. Working to unite local businesses, BNCW takes any chance it can get to showcase its members' high quality work. Now, with 30 years of successful showings, the organization looks forward to one of their largest Home Tour events to date, featuring live music, a dozen tours, and a preceding event displaying the delicious talent of local chefs.

BNCW's annual Home Tour showcases 12 locally built homes from Cashmere to Malaga. The event spotlights the work of local builders while connecting them directly to community members. It runs from Friday, September 20, to Sunday, September 22, allowing participants to view each home at their own pace and in any order throughout the weekend.

BNCW CEO Danielle Martin described the event and explained why she loves its welcoming, self-paced approach.

"The tour itself starts Friday and goes through Sunday. And it's self-guided, so you can start whenever you want, wherever you want, which is, I think as a mom, is awesome, because I can take my kids to a couple of them, and go by myself to other ones."

Notably, the Home Tour's houses each feature builder representatives who are familiar with their property and its many details, ready to share their project's many secrets with curious attendees.

"And each of the homes is open all weekend long," Martin mentioned, "and each builder will be there to answer any questions you might have as you get to walk around the house and see what they've created, get an idea of the market, and ask any questions you might have about flooring, paint, roof, color, siding, anything like that."

Starting off the weekend of home exploration, BNCW also looks forward to holding Chefs on Tour, described by CEO Martin as "an event within an event."

"[Chefs on Tour] kicks off the [Home Tour], trademarked about 12 years ago" she explained. "And basically, you get a taste of what a chef, or caterer, or a new restaurant, or something like that can do."

Building NCW (BNCW) welcomes community members to take an inside look at the unique work local builders are doing in various NCW communities.

Those who purchase tickets for Chefs on Tour not only get to fully experience the weekend's Home Tour event, but they also get to see early tours of four homes, each one featuring a local chef cooking up tasty samplings of food and drinks.

Chefs on Tour begins at 4 p.m. on September 19 and is followed by an after-party at Union Hill Cider from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

With an entire evening of food, drinks, and live music followed by a weekend of residential exploration and community connection, Building NCW's 30th September Home Tour event is ramping up to provide participants with something for everyone to enjoy, hitting the nail right on the head.

Cascadia Conservation District sets hybrid board meeting

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

WENATCHEE – The Cascadia Conservation District has announced its upcoming Regular Board meeting, scheduled for Friday, September 20, at 1:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held in a hybrid format, allowing for both in-person and remote attendance.

The in-person portion of the meeting will take place at the district's office, located at 1350 McKittrick St., Suite B, in Wenatchee.

However, due to space constraints, those wishing to attend in person are required to contact the office in advance.

For those unable to attend in person, the district is offering call-in and Zoom options to ensure broader accessibility.

The Cascadia Conservation District has stated that additional information and instructions for participation will be made available on their official website, cascadiacd.org.

Alternatively, interested parties can contact the District office directly at 509-436-1601 for more details.

Chelan County opens applications for 2025 Tourism Grants

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

WENATCHEE – Chelan County officials have opened applications for 2025 lodging tax funds to support tourism-related marketing efforts and events in the area.

The county has set a deadline of 5 p.m. on Oct. 15 for interested parties to submit their applications. Potential grantees must apply online at www.co.chelan.wa.us.

For the calendar year 2025, Chelan County plans to allocate approximately $240,000 in marketing and events grants. The county requires that successful grant applications increase tourism and convention activity in Chelan County, boost overnight stays, and/or increase retail sales primarily in unincorporated Chelan County.

This initiative follows last year's allocation, where the county awarded just under $320,000 to 23 tourist-related groups.

The Chelan County Lodging Tax Committee will review applications during its October meeting.

The committee will then make a final recommendation to the Board of County Commissioners for approval.

Leavenworth Oktoberfest unveils 2024 beer lineup and new payment system

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

LEAVENWORTH – The Leavenworth Oktoberfest, recently recognized as one of the nation's top outdoor festivals, is set to return with an enhanced beer selection and a new cashless payment system aimed at reducing wait times.

The festival, scheduled for Oct. 4-5, 11-12, and 18-19, will feature a diverse array of German imports and local brews. The lineup includes five German and five local beers, along with non-alcoholic options, wines, hard kombucha, and cider.

Highlighting the German offerings are Paulaner Oktoberfest Marzen and Weihenstephaner Hefe Weissbier, the latter rated as the world's top Hefeweizen. Local breweries are also well-represented, with the collaborative Leavenworth Festbier taking center stage.

Troy Campbell, Executive Director of the Leavenworth Chamber of Commerce, praised the local breweries' efforts: "Our local breweries have done another masterful job of capturing Oktoberfest in a keg with their collaboration Festbier, not to mention the other seasonal brews they'll have on tap throughout the month."

In a bid to improve efficiency, the festival is introducing a new smartcard wristband payment system.

Ernest Palmer, Director of Events & Entertainment, explained the rationale behind this change: "We're constantly looking for ways to incorporate guest feedback and improve the visitor experience, and wait times have historically been a pain point that we believe will be greatly reduced with the new wristband payment system."

The wristband system is part of a broader effort to enhance sustainability.

Palmer added, "Oktoberfest has been working toward being a zero-waste event since 2022, and this offering brings us one step closer to meeting the goals of our Destination Smart sustainable tourism management framework."

This year's festival will also feature expanded attractions, including a larger "Kinderplatz" area with a Ferris wheel and root beer garden. Adults can enjoy a new area in the beer garden for leisure games.

Attendees are encouraged to purchase tickets, wristbands, and merchandise in advance through the official Leavenworth Oktoberfest website at www.leavenworth.org/oktoberfest. The organizers invite visitors to don their best Trachten (traditional Bavarian garments) for the celebration.

Chelan School District

Everything from certification programs to the military, not just universities and community colleges," Wilson said.

"So I think this will really help, you know, inform that and help students to be ready for what's next," he said.

"Whether that's technical training, two year school, four year school, private school, that variety of opportunities to find something that'll prepare them for the future that they hope for."

"We are incredibly grateful to receive this funding," said Isaac Kwakye, Deputy Executive Director of WSAC.

"GEAR UP has a proven record of providing services and support to students and families from low-income backgrounds, allowing them to achieve their educational aspirations."

WSAC will administer the grant in partnership with 13 rural school districts, the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, Treehouse, Washington State Employees Credit Union, Focus Training, SEEDS and colleges and universities. The school districts include Aberdeen, Brewster, Elma, Entiat, Lake Chelan, Manson, Mossyrock, North Beach, Oakville, Okanogan, Pateros, Rochester and White Pass.

Approximately 6,800 students each year are supported, beginning in 7th grade and continuing through their first year of postsecondary college or training. Eligible students will receive up to $800 in scholarships.

This is Washington's fifth consecutive state GEAR UP grant. The University of Washington has also received a $21,246,400 grant for its own GEAR UP program.

Washington State GEAR UP provides tutoring, mentoring, academic advising, financial aid counseling, FAFSA completion support, access to dual enrollment courses, and career and college exploration activities to help more students enroll and succeed in college.

For more information on the GEAR UP program, visit gearup.wa.gov.

cornerstone of support for residents in rural communities like Bridgeport, Entiat, Mansfield, Manson, Orondo, Pateros, and more, offering services that address issues such as rent assistance, homelessness, overdue utility bills, access to food and hygiene items, and more.

"The tenet of our service is to help people move forward in their lives," Hively said. "To support this, we provide case management services that help clients develop personalized plans for achieving long-term stability and independence. Our case managers work with clients to identify the steps and resources needed to put these plans into action."

The Food Bank will have a new covered drive-thru, expanded storage and a more flexible format for food distribution.

Currently, the food bank is operating on a drive-thru format, which was implemented during COVID. However, with the remodel, Springer wants people to have the option to come in and shop like in a grocery store.

The covered drive-thru will help protect the food bank workers from harsh weather conditions and safeguard the boxes of food as well.

Construction is underway to build a bigger home for Chelan Valley Hope.

The additional space will allow the food bank to set up shelves similar to a grocery store. Springer hopes to have an international section to cater to different cultural needs and better serve the community.

Storage has been a significant challenge for the food bank. Springer often has to turn food donations away due to a lack of space, especially for refrigerated and frozen foods. Currently, they only have two freezers because a third one broke down and was too expensive to repair.

"Mainly, I need more storage," Springer said. "I have to turn stuff away. And this gives me the ability to store more products and store more diverse products."

The remodel marks a pivotal moment for Chelan Valley Hope and the Lake Chelan Food Bank, ensuring that both organizations can continue to meet the growing needs of their community for years to come.

Stayman Fire alters hunting plans in Chelan Wildlife Area

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

CHELAN – The recent Stayman Fire has significantly impacted the Chelan Butte Wildlife Area, burning approximately 3,118 acres and prompting extensive restoration efforts, according to Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife officials.

The fire, which began on August 20, primarily affected critical habitats within the wildlife area, including bunchgrass, sagebrush, bitterbrush, and riparian zones with native shrubs and trees.

Wildlife area staff are now focusing on weed control and replanting native vegetation to prevent invasive species from taking hold.

“Restoration efforts are expected to last several years,” the department stated in a release.

The fire’s impact extends to upcoming hunting seasons, with officials announcing the suspension of pheasant releases in the Chelan Butte Wildlife Area for 2024.

Other hunting activities, including deer hunting, will also be affected to varying degrees.

However, bighorn sheep hunting remains largely unaffected.

“Bighorn are likely to congregate in areas adjacent to the burn area, particularly between the burn and Knapp Coulee to the east and to Day-break Canyon in the west,”

the department noted.

While county roads within the Wildlife Area remain open, officials warn that fire damage has made them difficult to navigate.

The blaze also resulted in the loss of one historic structure, the Colville/Tin Barn, and exposed several other historic foundations.

The public has been reminded not to disturb or remove any cultural artifacts.

As restoration efforts begin, the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife reaffirms its commitment to “preserve, protect, and perpetuate fish, wildlife and ecosystems while providing sustainable fish and wildlife recreational and commercial opportunities.”

Inaugural Manson Paddle event set to make waves on Lake Chelan

By QUINN PROPST
Ward Media Staff Reporter

MANSON – Grab your paddles for the first-ever Manson Paddle on Saturday, September 14.

“It’s open to anybody with a paddle,” event organizer Richard Springer said. “It could be a canoe, a rowboat, a kayak, a paddle board, if somebody wants to paddle an air mattress or a floaty, we don’t care, just go out and have a good time.”

Springer, of Manson, was inspired to start the community paddle by the Lake Chelan Swim event. The event is a fundraiser to pay for free swim lessons in the valley. The swim goes from Willow Point Park down to Manson.

Springer is the director of the Lake Chelan Food Bank and has been a safety support person at the swim event for many years in his kayak or his boat.

After years of kayaking on Lake Chelan, the idea of organizing a communal paddle came to life. Springer coordinated a kayaking day with fellow kayakers from his church. And then the group decided to open it up to the public.

They chose a date after Labor Day to avoid the heavy tourist traffic on the lake.

The paddle will start at 8 a.m. at the Manson Bay Park boat launch. Participants will paddle to Willow Point Park and back for a total of three miles. More adventurous kayakers may continue on to the state park if they wish, Springer said.

“So we’re just going to have a fun time on the water,” he said. “And we decided to call it the Manson Paddle.”

If the event is successful, Springer would like to turn it into a fundraiser for the Lake Chelan Food Bank next year.

Braver Angels to address political divide at Ruby Theatre event

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

CHELAN – In an effort to address growing political polarization, the “Ruby U” speaker series is set to host representatives from Braver Angels, a national organization dedicated to depolarizing America. The event, titled “Navigating Difficult Conversations,” will take place on Thursday, September 26, from 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. at the Ruby Theatre in Chelan.

The presentation aims to provide attendees with skills to examine their own polarization and develop strategies for engaging in challenging conversations with those holding differing viewpoints.

“Do you have people in your life you can’t talk to any more? Are you worried about the civic health of our country?” the event organizers ask, highlighting the timeliness of the topic.

The one-hour session is designed to serve as both an introduction to Braver Angels and a condensed version of their longer workshops. Participants will have the opportunity to practice essential skills in difficult conversations by forming “agree statements” in response to two prompts.

Ruby U, initiated in 2024, is a speaker series that offers periodic public presentations, panels, and discussions on topics of community interest in the Chelan Valley. The series aims to “inform, educate and challenge the understanding of ourselves, our community, and our valley now and into the future,” according to organizers.

The event will be held at the Ruby Theatre, located at 135 E Woodin Ave, Chelan. Admission is free, and doors will open at 6:30 p.m.

For more information about upcoming Ruby U events, interested parties can visit the Ruby Theatre website at www.ruby-theatre.com or call 509-687-3210.

Historic Chelan church featured in Manson Library art exhibit

Ward Media
Lake Chelan Mirror

MANSON – The Manson Community Library is hosting a new art exhibit featuring St. Andrew’s Episcopal Church, the first building constructed on Woodin Avenue in Chelan.

The display on the library’s art wall includes photographs, drawings, and paintings of the historic church. Built in 1897, St. Andrew’s Episcopal Church was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1992. Karl Gunnar Malmgren from the architectural firm Cutter & Malmgren of Spokane designed the church. The church was constructed using logs floated down from the upper part of Lake Chelan. Shortly after its completion, a cabin was built next door, where Kelly’s Hardware now stands, to house the minister and his family.

Visitors interested in learning more can read “If These Logs Could Talk,” an award-winning book by Elizabeth Watson Perry. The book is available for purchase at the Lake Chelan Historical Society Museum and can also be borrowed from NCW Libraries. The Manson Community Library is open Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.
